23 In that day, saith the LORD of hosts, will I take thee, O Zerubbabel, my servant, the son of Shealtiel, saith the LORD, [d]and will make thee as a signet: for [e]I have chosen thee, saith the LORD of hosts.

ZECHARIAH, like Haggai, was a prophet to the remnant which returned after the 70 years. There is much of symbol in Zechariah, but these difficult passages are readily interpreted in the light of the whole body of related prophecy. The great Messianic passages are, upon comparison with the other prophecies of the kingdom, perfectly clear. Both advents of Christ are in Zechariah's prophecy (Zech. ix. 9 with Mt. xxi. 1-11 and Zech. xiv. 3, 4). More than Haggai or Malachi, Zechariah gives the mind of God about the Gentile world-powers surrounding the restored remnant. He has given them their authority (Dan. ii. 37-40), and will hold them to account; the test, as always, being their treatment of Israel. See Gen. xv. 18, note 3, clause 6; Zech. ii. 8.

Zechariah, therefore, falls into three broad divisions: I. Symbolic visions in the light of the Messianic hope, i. 1-vi. 15. II. The mission from Babylon, vii., viii. III. Messiah in rejection and afterwards in power, ix.-xiv.

CHAPTER 1.

Part I. Symbolic visions in the light of the Messianic hope (Zech. i. 1-6. 15): the people warned.

IN the [a]eighth month, in the second year of [b]Darius, came the word of the LORD unto [c]Zechariah, the son of Berechiah, the son of [d]Iddo the prophet, saying,

2 The LORD hath been sore displeased with your fathers.

3 Therefore say thou unto them, Thus saith the LORD of hosts; Turn ye unto me, saith the LORD of hosts, and I will turn unto you, saith the LORD of hosts.

4 Be ye not as your fathers, unto whom the [e]former prophets have cried, saying, Thus saith the LORD of hosts; Turn ye now from your evil ways, and from your evil doings: but they did not hear, nor hearken unto me, saith the LORD.

5 Your fathers, where are they? and the prophets, do they live for ever?

6 But my words and my statutes, which I commanded my servants the prophets, did they not take hold of your fathers? and they returned and said, Like as the LORD of hosts thought to do unto us, according to our ways, and according to our doings, so hath he dealt with us.

The ten visions: (1) the rider on the red horse.

7 Upon the four and twentieth day of the eleventh month, which is the month [f]Sebat, in the second year of Darius, came the word of the LORD unto Zechariah, the son of Berechiah, the son of Iddo the prophet, saying,

8 I [1]saw by night, and behold a man riding upon a [g]red horse, and he stood among the myrtle trees that were in the bottom; and behind him were there red horses, speckled, and white.

[f] i.e. February.

[g] Cf. Rev. 6. 4. The whole Gentile period is characterized by the red horse, i.e. "sword." Dan. 9. 26; Mt. 24. 6, 7.

[1] The "man" (v. 8) is the "my lord," "the angel that talked with me" (v. 9), and "the angel of the LORD" (vs. 10, 11). The "man" "stood among the myrtle trees" (v. 8). The prophet addresses him as "my lord" (cf. Gen. xix. 2), but when the "man" answers he perceives that he has addressed an angel—"the angel that talked with me" (v. 9). In verse 10 the being of the vision is again "the man that stood among the myrtle trees." In verse 11 he is called "the angel of the LORD," and to him the (riders on the) "red horses, speckled and white" say: "We have walked to and fro," etc. Then (v. 12) "the angel of the LORD" (i.e. the "man," "my lord," "the angel that talked with me") intercedes for the land against a world at ease. The date of the intercession was at the end of the 70 years' captivity of Judah.

Taken as a whole (vs. 8-17), Zechariah's first vision reveals Judah in dispersion; Jerusalem under adverse possession; and the Gentile nations at rest about it. This condition still continues, and Jehovah's answer to the intercession of the angel sweeps on to the end-time of Gentile domination, when "the LORD shall yet comfort Zion," etc. (vs. 16, 17; Isa. xl. 1-5). See "Kingdom (O.T.)" (Isa. ii. 1-3; Zech. xii. 8, note).

The first vision explained.

9 Then said I, O my lord, what are these? And the [a]angel that talked with me said unto me, I will shew thee what these be.

10 And the man that stood among the myrtle trees answered and said, These are they whom the LORD hath sent to walk to and fro through the earth.

11 And they answered the [a]angel of the LORD that stood among the myrtle trees, and said, We have walked to and fro through the earth, and, behold, all the earth sitteth still, and is at rest.

Jehovah displeased with the nations.

12 Then the [a]angel of the LORD answered and said, O LORD of hosts, how long wilt thou not have mercy on Jerusalem and on the cities of Judah, against which thou hast had indignation these threescore and ten years?

13 And the LORD answered the [a]angel that talked with me with good words and comfortable words.

14 So the [a]angel that communed with me said unto me, Cry thou, saying, Thus saith the LORD of hosts; I am jealous for Jerusalem and for Zion with a great jealousy.

15 And I am very sore displeased with the [b]heathen that are at ease: for I was but a little displeased, and they helped forward the affliction.

16 Therefore thus saith the LORD; I am returned to Jerusalem with mercies: my house shall be built in it, saith the LORD of hosts, and a line shall be stretched forth upon Jerusalem.

17 Cry yet, saying, Thus saith the LORD of hosts; My cities through prosperity shall yet be spread abroad; and the LORD shall yet comfort Zion, and shall yet choose Jerusalem.

The ten visions: (2) the four horns.

18 [1]Then lifted I up mine eyes, and saw, and behold four horns.

19 And I said unto the [a]angel that talked with me, What be these? And he answered me, These are the horns which have scattered Judah, Israel, and Jerusalem.

The ten visions: (3) the four carpenters.

20 [2]And the LORD shewed me four [c]carpenters.

21 Then said I, What come these to do? And he spake, saying, These are the horns which have scattered Judah, so that no man did lift up his head: but these are come to fray them, to cast out the horns of the Gentiles, which lifted up their horn over the land of Judah to scatter it.

CHAPTER 2.

The ten visions: (4) the man with the measuring line.

I lifted up mine eyes [3]again, and looked, and behold a man with a measuring line in his hand.

2 Then said I, Whither goest thou? And he said unto me, To measure Jerusalem, to see what is the breadth thereof, and what is the length thereof.

3 And, behold, the [a]angel that talked with me went forth, and another angel went out to meet him,

[1] A "horn" is the symbol of a Gentile king (Dan. vii. 24; Rev. xvii. 12), and the vision is of the four world-empires (Dan. ii. 36-44; vii. 3-7) which have "scattered Judah, Israel, and Jerusalem" (v. 19).

[2] The word charash, trans. "carpenter," is lit. carver, engraver. Verse 21 makes it plain that, whatever the four carvers may be, they are used to "fray," or carve away (Heb. charad) in the sense of diminishing, enfeebling, the great Gentile world-powers. They may stand for Jehovah's "four sore judgments," the sword, famine, evil beasts, and pestilence (Ezk. xiv. 21), the four horses of Rev. vi.

[3] As in Zech. i. 8-11, the "man" of verse 1 is "the angel that talked with me" of verse 3. The measuring-line (or reed) is used by Ezekiel (Ezk. xl. 3, 5) as a symbol of preparation for rebuilding the city and temple in the kingdom-age. Here also it has that meaning, as the context (vs. 4-13) shows. The subject of the vision is the restoration of nation and city. In no sense has this prophecy been fulfilled. The order is: (1) The Lord in glory in Jerusalem, v. 5 (cf. Mt. xxiv. 29, 30); (2) the restoration of Israel, v. 6; (3) the judgment of Jehovah upon the nations, v. 8, "after the glory" (Mt. xxv. 31, 32); (4) the full blessing of the earth in the kingdom, vs. 10-13. See "Kingdom (O.T.)" (Isa. ii. 1-3; Zech. xii. 8, note. "Israel," Gen. xii. 3; Rom. xi. 26).

Jerusalem in the kingdom-age.

4 And said unto him, Run, speak to this young man, saying, Jerusalem shall be inhabited as towns without walls for the multitude of men and cattle therein:

5 For I, saith the LORD, will be unto her a wall of fire round about, and will be the glory in the midst of her.

6 Ho, ho, come forth, and flee from the land of the north, saith the LORD: for I have spread you abroad as the four winds of the heaven, saith the LORD.

7 Deliver thyself, O Zion, that dwellest with the daughter of Babylon.

8 For thus saith the LORD of hosts; After the glory hath he sent me unto the nations which spoiled you: for he that toucheth you toucheth the apple of his eye.

9 For, behold, I will shake mine hand upon them, and they shall be a spoil to their servants: and ye shall know that the LORD of hosts hath sent me.

10 Sing and rejoice, O daughter of Zion: for, lo, I come, and I will dwell in the midst of thee, saith the LORD.

11 And many nations shall be joined to the LORD in that day, and shall be my people: and I will dwell in the midst of thee, and thou shalt know that the LORD of hosts hath sent me unto thee.

12 And the LORD shall inherit Judah his portion in the holy land, and shall choose [a] Jerusalem again.

13 Be silent, O all flesh, before the LORD: for he is raised up out of his holy habitation.

CHAPTER 3.

The ten visions: (5) Joshua the high priest.

AND he shewed me [1] Joshua the high priest standing before the [b] angel of the LORD, and [c] Satan standing at his right hand to [d] resist him.

2 And the LORD said unto Satan, The LORD rebuke thee, O Satan; even the LORD that hath chosen Jerusalem rebuke thee: is not this a brand plucked out of the fire?

3 Now Joshua was [c] clothed with filthy garments, and stood before the [b] angel.

4 And he answered and spake unto those that stood before him, saying, Take away the filthy garments from him. And unto him he said, Behold, I have caused thine iniquity to pass from thee, and I will [f] clothe thee with change of raiment.

5 And I said, Let them set a fair mitre upon his head. So they set a fair mitre upon his head, and clothed him with garments. And the [b] angel of the LORD stood by.

6 And the [b] angel of the LORD protested unto Joshua, saying,

7 Thus saith the LORD of hosts; If thou wilt walk in my ways, and if thou wilt keep my charge, then thou shalt also judge my house, and shalt also keep my courts, and I will give thee places to walk among these that stand by.

The ten visions: (6) Jehovah's Servant the BRANCH.

8 [g] Hear now, O Joshua the high priest, thou, and thy fellows that sit before thee: for they are men wondered at: for, behold, I will bring forth my servant the [g] BRANCH.

9 For behold the [h] stone that I have laid before Joshua; upon one stone shall be [i] seven eyes: behold, I will engrave the graving thereof, saith the LORD of hosts, and I will remove the iniquity of that land in one day.

10 In [2] that day, saith the LORD of hosts, shall ye call every man his neighbour under the [j] vine and under the fig tree.

[1] The fifth vision discloses: (1) The change from self-righteousness to the righteousness of God (Rom. iii. 22, note), of which Paul's experience, Phil. iii. 1-9 is the illustration, as it is also the foreshadowing of the conversion of Israel. (2) In type, the preparation of Israel for receiving Jehovah's "BRANCH" (Isa. iv. 2, note). The refusal of the Jews to abandon self-righteousness for the righteousness of God blinded them to the presence of the BRANCH in their midst at His first advent (Rom. x. 1-4; xi. 7, 8). Cf. Zech. vi. 12-15, which speaks of the manifestation of the BRANCH in glory (v. 13) as the Priest-King, when Israel will receive Him. See Heb. vii. 3, note.

[2] Verse 10 marks the time of fulfilment as in the future kingdom. It speaks of a security which Israel has never known since the captivity, nor will know till the kingdom comes. (Cf. Isa. xi. 1-9.)

CHAPTER 4.

The ten visions: (7) the golden candlestick, and the two olive trees.

AND the [a]angel [b]that talked with me came again, and waked me, as a man that is wakened out of his sleep,

2 And said unto me, What seest thou? [1]And I said, I have looked, and behold a candlestick all of gold, with a bowl upon the top of it, and his seven lamps thereon, and [c]seven pipes to the seven lamps, which are upon the top thereof:

3 And [d]two olive trees by it, one upon the right side of the bowl, and the other upon the left side thereof.

4 So I answered and spake to the angel that talked with me, saying, What are these, my lord?

5 Then the angel that talked with me answered and said unto me, Knowest thou not what these be? And I said, No, my lord.

6 Then he answered and spake unto me, saying, This is the word of the LORD unto Zerubbabel, saying, Not by might, nor by power, but by my [e]spirit, saith the LORD of hosts.

7 Who art thou, O great mountain? before Zerubbabel thou shalt become a plain: and he shall bring forth the [f]headstone thereof with shoutings, crying, Grace, grace unto it.

Zerubbabel to finish the restoration temple.

8 Moreover the word of the LORD came unto me, saying,

9 The hands of Zerubbabel have laid the foundation of this house; his hands shall also finish it; and thou shalt know that the LORD of hosts hath sent me unto you.

10 For who hath despised the day of small things? for they shall rejoice, and shall see the plummet in the hand of Zerubbabel with those seven; they are the [g]eyes of the LORD, which run to and fro through the whole earth.

The olive trees explained.
(Cf. Rev. xi. 3, 4.)

11 Then answered I, and said unto him, What are these two olive trees upon the right side of the candlestick and upon the left side thereof?

12 And I answered again, and said unto him, What be these two olive branches which through the [h]two golden pipes empty the golden oil out of themselves?

13 And he answered me and said, Knowest thou not what these be? And I said, No, my lord.

14 Then said he, These are the two anointed ones, that stand by the Lord of the whole earth.

CHAPTER 5.

The ten visions: (8) the flying roll.

THEN I turned, and lifted up mine eyes, and looked, and behold a [2]flying roll.

2 And he said unto me, What seest thou? And I answered, I see a flying roll; the length thereof is twenty [i]cubits, and the breadth thereof ten cubits.

3 Then said he unto me, This is the curse that goeth forth over the face of the whole [j]earth: for every one that stealeth shall be cut off as on this side according to it; and every one that sweareth shall be cut off as on that side according to it.

[i] One cubit = about 18 in.
[j] Lit. land, i.e. Palestine.

[1] The vision of the candlestick and olive trees (lit. trees of oil) is, as we know, from Rev. xi. 3-12, a prophecy to be fulfilled in the last days of the present age. That which marks the ministry of the "two witnesses" (Rev. xi. 3, 4) is power. (Cf. Zech. iv. 6.) In measure this power would rest upon Zerubbabel, who, having begun the restoration temple of Zechariah's time, would finish it (v. 9) laying the "headstone" amid the shoutings of the people. The whole scene forms a precursive fulfilment of the ministry of the two witnesses of Rev. xi. and of the coming of the true "headstone," Prince Messiah, of whom prince Zerubbabel is a type. Oil is a uniform symbol of the Spirit (Acts ii. 4, note). Joshua and Zerubbabel were doubtless the two olive trees for that day, as the two witnesses of Rev. xi. may, in turn, but point to Christ as Priest-King in the kingdom-age (Zech. vi. 12, 13).

[2] A "roll," in Scripture symbolism, means the written word whether of God or man (Ezra vi. 2; Jer. xxxvi. 2, 4, 6, etc.; Ezk. iii. 1-3, etc.). Zechariah's eighth vision is of the rebuke of sin by the word of God. The two sins mentioned really transgress both tables of the law. To steal is to set aside our neighbor's right; to swear is to set aside God's claim to reverence. As always the law can only curse (v. 3; Gal. iii. 10-14).

4 I will bring it forth, saith the LORD of hosts, and it shall enter into the house of the thief, and into the house of him that sweareth falsely by my name: and it shall remain in the midst of his house, and shall consume it with the timber thereof and the stones thereof.

The ten visions: (9) the ephah.

5 Then the angel that talked with me went forth, and said unto me, Lift up now thine eyes, and see what is this that goeth forth.

6 And I said, [1]What is it? And he said, This is an [a]ephah that goeth forth. He said moreover, This is their resemblance through all the [b]earth.

7 And, behold, there was lifted up a talent of lead: and this is a woman that sitteth in the midst of the ephah.

8 And he said, This is wickedness. And he cast it into the midst of the ephah; and he cast the weight of lead upon the mouth thereof.

9 Then lifted I up mine eyes, and looked, and, behold, there came out two women, and the wind was in their wings; for they had wings like the wings of a stork: and they lifted up the ephah between the earth and the heaven.

10 Then said I to the [c]angel that talked with me, Whither do these bear the ephah?

11 And he said unto me, To build it an house in the land of [d]Shinar: and it shall be established, and set there upon her own base.

[a] One ephah = 1 bu. 3 pts.; also vs. 7-10.

CHAPTER 6.

The ten visions: (10) the four chariots.

AND I turned, and lifted up mine eyes, and looked, and, behold, there came [2]four chariots out from between two mountains; and the mountains were mountains of brass.

2 In the first chariot were red horses; and in the second chariot black horses;

3 And in the third chariot white horses; and in the fourth chariot grisled and bay horses.

4 Then I answered and said unto the [c]angel that talked with me, What are these, my lord?

5 And the [c]angel answered and said unto me, These are the four spirits of the heavens, which go forth from standing before the Lord of all the earth.

6 The black horses which are therein go forth into the north country; and the white go forth

[1] In the vision of the ephah local and prophetic elements are to be distinguished. The elements are: an ephah or measure; a woman in the ephah; a sealing weight upon the mouth of the ephah confining the woman, and the stork-winged women whose only function is to bear the ephah and woman away into Babylonia (Shinar). The thing thus symbolized was "through all the land" (v. 6).

Symbolically, a "measure" (or "cup") stands for something which has come to the full, so that God must judge it (2 Sam. viii. 2; Jer. li. 13; Hab. iii. 6, 7; Mt. vii. 2; xxiii. 32). A woman, in the bad ethical sense, is always a symbol of that which, religiously, is out of its place. The "woman" in Mt. xiii. 33 is dealing with doctrine, a sphere forbidden to her (1 Tim. ii. 12). In Thyatira a woman is suffered to teach (Rev. ii. 20). The Babylon phase of the apostate church is symbolized by an unchaste woman, sodden with the greed and luxury of commercialism (Rev. xvii. 1-6; xviii. 3, 11-20).

The local application of Zechariah's ninth vision is, therefore, evident. The Jews then in the land had been in captivity in Babylon. Outwardly they had put away idolatry, but they had learned in Babylon that insatiate greed of gain (Neh. v. 1-9; Mal. iii. 8), that intense commercial spirit which had been foreign to Israel as a pastoral people, but which was thenceforward to characterize them through the ages. These things were out of place in God's people and land. Symbolically He judged them as belonging to Babylon and sent them there to build a temple—they could have no part in His. The "woman" was to be "set there upon her own base" (v. 11). It was Jehovah's moral judgment upon Babylonism in His own land and people.

Prophetically, the application to the Babylon of the Revelation is obvious. The professing Gentile church at that time condoning every iniquity of the rich, doctrinally a mere "confusion," as the name indicates, and corrupted to the core by commercialism, wealth, and luxury, falls under the judgment of God (Rev. xviii.).

[2] The interpretation of the tenth vision must be governed by the authoritative declaration of verse 5. That which is symbolized by the four chariots with their horses after them; and the grisled go forth toward the south country.

7 And the bay went forth, and sought to go that they might walk to and fro through the earth: and he said, Get you hence, walk to and fro through the earth. So they walked to and fro through the earth.

8 Then cried he upon me, and spake unto me, saying, Behold, these that go toward the north country have quieted my spirit in the north country.

The symbolic crowning of Joshua.

9 And the word of the LORD came unto me, [a]saying,

10 Take of them of the captivity, even of Heldai, of Tobijah, and of Jedaiah, which are come from Babylon, and come thou the same day, and go into the house of Josiah the son of Zephaniah;

11 Then take silver and gold, and make [1]crowns, and set them upon the head of Joshua the son of Josedech, the high priest;

12 And speak unto him, saying, Thus speaketh the LORD of hosts, saying, Behold the man whose name is The [b]BRANCH, and he shall grow up out of his place, and he shall build the temple of the LORD:

13 Even he shall build the temple of the LORD; and he shall bear the glory, and shall sit and rule upon his [c]throne; and he shall be a priest upon his [d]throne: and the counsel of peace shall be between them both.

14 And the crowns shall be to Helem, and to Tobijah, and to Jedaiah, and to Hen the son of Zephaniah, for a memorial in the temple of the LORD.

15 And they that are far off shall come and build in the temple of the LORD, and ye shall know that the LORD of hosts hath sent me unto you. And this shall come to pass, if ye will diligently obey the voice of the LORD your God.

CHAPTER 7.

Part II. (Zech. 7. 1-8. 23.) The mission from Babylon: the question of the fasts.

AND it came to pass in the fourth year of king Darius, that the word of the LORD came unto Zechariah in the fourth day of the ninth month, even in [e]Chisleu;

2 When [2]they had sent unto the house of God Sherezer and Regemmelech, and their men, to pray before the LORD, is not the four world-empires of Daniel, but "the four spirits of heaven which go forth from standing before the Lord of all the earth" (v. 5). These "spirits" are angels (Lk. i. 19; Heb. i. 14), and are most naturally interpreted of the four angels of Rev. vii. 1-3; ix. 14, 15. These have also a ministry earthward, and of like nature with the "spirits" of Zech. vi. 1-8, viz. judgment. The symbol (chariots and horses) is in perfect harmony with this. Always in Scripture symbolism they stand for the power of God earthward in judgment (Jer. xlvi. 9, 10; Joel ii. 3-11; Nah. iii. 1-7). The vision, then, speaks of the Lord's judgments upon the Gentile nations north and south in the day of the Lord (Isa. ii. 10-22; Rev. xix. 11-21).

3 And to speak unto the priests which were in the house of the LORD of hosts, and to the prophets, saying, Should I weep in the [f]fifth month, separating myself, as I have done these so many years?

[1] Following the earth-judgments symbolized in the horsed chariots (Zech. vi. 1-8) comes the manifestation of Christ in His kingdom glory (vs. 9-15). This is the invariable prophetic order: first the judgments of the day of the Lord (Isa. ii. 10-22; Rev. xix. 11-21), then the kingdom (cf. Psa. ii. 5 with Psa. ii. 6; Isa. iii. 24-26 with iv. 2-6; x. 33, 34 with xi. 1-10; Rev. xix. 19-21 with xx. 4-6). This is set forth symbolically by the crowning of Joshua, which was not a vision, but actually done (cf. Isa. viii. 3, 4; Ezk. xxxvii. 16-22). The fulfilment in the BRANCH will infinitely transcend the symbol. He "shall bear the glory" (v. 13; Mt. xvi. 27; xxiv. 30; xxv. 31) as the Priest-King on His own throne (vs. 12, 13; Heb. vii. 1-3). Christ is now a Priest, but still in the holiest within the veil (Lev. xvi. 15; Heb. ix. 11-14, 24), and seated on the Father's throne (Rev. iii. 21). He has not yet come out to take His own throne (Heb. ix. 28). The crowns made for the symbolical crowning of Joshua were to be laid up in the temple as a memorial to keep alive this larger hope of Israel.

[2] "They," i.e. of the captivity in Babylon. The mission of these Jews of the captivity concerned a fast day instituted by the Jews in commemoration of the destruction of Jerusalem, wholly of their own will, and without warrant from the word of God. In the beginning there was doubtless sincere contrition in the observance of the day; now it had become a mere ceremonial. The Jews of the

The answer of Jehovah: (1) their fast was a mere form; they should have heeded the prophets.

4 Then came the word of the LORD of hosts unto me, saying,
5 Speak unto all the people of the land, and to the priests, saying, When ye fasted and mourned in the fifth and seventh month, even those seventy years, did ye at all fast unto me, even to me?
6 And when ye did eat, and when ye did drink, did not ye [a]eat for yourselves, and drink for yourselves?
7 Should ye not hear the [b]words which the LORD hath cried by the former prophets, when Jerusalem was inhabited and in prosperity, and the cities thereof round about her, when men inhabited the south and the plain?

(2) Why their prayers were not answered.

8 And the word of the LORD came unto Zechariah, saying,
9 Thus speaketh the LORD of hosts, saying, Execute true judgment, and shew mercy and compassions every man to his brother:
10 And oppress not the widow, nor the fatherless, the stranger, nor the poor; and let none of you imagine evil against his brother in your heart.
11 But they refused to hearken, and pulled away the shoulder, and stopped their ears, that they should not hear.
12 Yea, they made their hearts as an adamant stone, lest they should hear the law, and the words which the LORD of hosts hath sent in his spirit by the former prophets: therefore came a great wrath from the LORD of hosts.
13 Therefore it is come to pass, that as he cried, and they would not hear; so they cried, and I would not hear, saith the LORD of hosts:
14 But I scattered them with a whirlwind among all the nations whom they knew not. Thus the land was desolate after them, that no man passed through nor returned: for they laid the pleasant land desolate.

(3) Jehovah's unchanged purpose to bless Israel in the kingdom.

AGAIN the word of the LORD of hosts came to me, saying,
2 Thus saith the LORD of hosts; I was jealous for Zion with great jealousy, and I was jealous for her with great fury.
3 Thus saith the LORD; I am returned unto Zion, and will dwell in the midst of Jerusalem: and Jerusalem shall be called a city of truth; and the mountain of the LORD of hosts the [c]holy mountain.
4 Thus saith the LORD of hosts; There shall yet old men and old women dwell in the streets of Jerusalem, and every man with his staff in his hand for very age.
5 And the streets of the city shall dispersion would be rid of it, but seek authority from the priests. The whole matter, like much in modern pseudo-Christianity, was extra-Biblical, formal, and futile. Jehovah takes the occasion to send a divine message to the dispersion. That message is in five parts: (1) Their fast was a mere religious form; they should rather have given heed to the "former prophets" (vs. 4–7; cf. Isa. i. 12; Mt. xv. 1–10); (2) they are told why their 70 years' prayer has not been answered (vs. 8–14; cf. Psa. lxvi. 18; Isa. i. 14–17); (3) the unchanged purpose of Jehovah, and the blessing of Israel in the kingdom (Zech. viii. 1–8; cf. a like order in Isa. i. 24–31 with ii. 1–4); (4) the messengers of the captivity are exhorted to hear the prophets of "these days," i.e. Haggai, Zechariah, and Malachi, and to do justly; then all their fasts and feasts will become gladness and joy (vs. 9–19); (5) they are assured that Jerusalem is yet to be the religious centre of the earth (vs. 20–23; cf. Isa. ii. 1–3; Zech. xiv. 16–21).

[1]Holiness, Sanctification, Summary: In the O.T. the words consecration, dedication, sanctification, and holiness are various renderings of one Hebrew word, are used of persons and of things, and have an identical meaning, i.e. set apart for God. Only when used of God himself (e.g. Lev. xi. 45), or of the holy angels (e.g. Dan. iv. 13), is any inward moral quality necessarily implied. Doubtless a priest or other person set apart to the service of God, whose whole will and desire went with his setting apart, experienced progressively an inner detachment from evil; but that aspect is distinctively of the N.T. not of the O.T. See Mt. iv. 5.

6 Thus saith the LORD of hosts; If it be marvellous in the eyes of the [a]remnant of this people in [1]these days, should it also be marvellous in mine eyes? saith the LORD of hosts.

7 Thus saith the LORD of hosts; Behold, I will save my people from the east country, and from the west country;

8 And I will bring them, and they shall dwell in the midst of Jerusalem: [b]and they shall be my people, and I will be their God, in truth and in righteousness.

(4) The people to heed the restoration prophets, i.e. Haggai and Zechariah.

9 Thus saith the LORD of hosts; Let your hands be strong, ye that hear in these days these words by the mouth of [c]the prophets, which were in the day that the foundation of the house of the LORD of hosts was laid, that the temple might be built.

10 For before these days there was no hire for man, nor any hire for beast; neither was there any peace to him that went out or came in because of the affliction: for I set all men every one against his neighbour.

11 But now I will not be unto the [d]residue of this people as in the former days, saith the LORD of hosts.

12 For the seed shall be prosperous; the vine shall give her fruit, and the ground shall give her increase, and the heavens shall give their dew; and I will cause the remnant of this people to possess all these things.

13 And it shall come to pass, that as ye were a curse among the [e]heathen, O house of Judah, and house of Israel; so will I save you, and [f]ye shall be a blessing: fear not, but let your hands be strong.

14 For thus saith the LORD of hosts; As I thought to punish you, when your fathers provoked me to wrath, saith the LORD of hosts, and I [2]repented not:

15 So again have I thought in these days to do well unto Jerusalem and to the house of Judah: fear ye not.

16 These are the things that ye shall do; [g]Speak ye every man the truth to his neighbour; execute the judgment of truth and peace in your gates:

17 And let none of you imagine evil in your hearts against his neighbour; and love no false oath: for all these are things that I hate, saith the LORD.

18 And the word of the LORD of hosts came unto me, saying,

19 Thus saith the LORD of hosts; The fast of the [h]fourth month, and the fast of the [i]fifth, and the fast of the [j]seventh, and the fast of the [k]tenth, shall be to the house of Judah joy and gladness, and cheerful feasts; therefore love the truth and peace.

(5) Jerusalem yet to be the religious centre of the earth.

20 Thus saith the LORD of hosts; It shall yet come to pass, that there shall come people, and the inhabitants of many cities:

21 And the inhabitants of one city shall go to another, saying, Let us go speedily to pray before the LORD, and to seek the LORD of hosts: I will go also.

22 Yea, many people and strong nations shall come to seek the LORD of hosts in Jerusalem, and to pray before the LORD.

23 Thus saith the LORD of hosts; In [3]those days it shall come to pass, that ten men shall take hold out of all languages of the nations, even shall take hold of the skirt of him that is a Jew, saying, We will

[2] Repentance (O.T.), Summary: In the O.T., repentance is the English word used to translate the Heb. nacham, to be "eased" or "comforted." It is used of both God and man. Notwithstanding the literal meaning of nacham, it is evident, from a study of all the passages, that the sacred writers use it in the sense of metanoia in the N.T.—a change of mind. See Mt. iii. 2; Acts xvii. 30, note. As in the N.T., such change of mind is often accompanied by contrition and self-judgment. When applied to God the word is used phenomenally according to O.T. custom. God seems to change His mind. The phenomena are such as, in the case of a man, would indicate a change of mind.

Part III. (Zech. 9. 1-14. 21.) Burden upon cities surrounding Palestine. (See v. 8, note.)

THE [a]burden of the word of the LORD in the land of Hadrach, and Damascus shall be the rest thereof: when the eyes of man, as of all the tribes of Israel, shall be toward the LORD.

2 And Hamath also shall border thereby; Tyrus, and Zidon, though it be very wise.

3 And Tyrus did build herself a strong hold, and heaped up silver as the dust, and fine gold as the mire of the streets.

4 Behold, [b]the Lord will cast her out, and he will smite her power in the sea; and she shall be devoured with fire.

5 Ashkelon shall see it, and fear; Gaza also shall see it, and be very sorrowful, and Ekron; for her expectation shall be ashamed; and the king shall perish from Gaza, and Ashkelon shall not be inhabited.

6 And a bastard shall dwell [c]in Ashdod, and I will cut off the pride of the Philistines.

7 And I will take away his blood out of his mouth, and his abominations from between his teeth: but he that remaineth, even he, shall be for our God, and he shall be as a governor in Judah, and Ekron as a Jebusite.

8 And I will encamp about mine house because of the army, [1]because of him that passeth by, and because of him that returneth: and no oppressor shall pass through them any more: for now have I seen with mine eyes.

ship. Verse 23 explains: the Jew (see "Remnant," Isa. i. 9; Rom. xi. 5) will then be the missionary, and to the very "nations" now called "Christian"!

[1] There seems to be a reference here to the advance and return of Alexander (v. 13) after the battle of Issus, who subdued the cities mentioned in verses 1-6, and afterward returned to Greece without harming Jerusalem. But the greater meaning converges on the yet future last days (Acts ii. 17, note), as the last clause of verse 8 shows, for many oppressors have passed through Jerusalem since the days of Alexander.

[2] The events following this manifestation of Christ as King are recorded in the Gospels. The real faith of the multitude who cried, "Hosanna" is given in Mt. xxi. 11; and so little was Jesus deceived by His apparent reception as King, that He wept over Jerusalem and announced its impending destruction (fulfilled A.D. 70; Lk. xix. 38-44). The same multitude soon cried, "Crucify Him."

[3] Having introduced the King in verse 9, verse 10 and the verses which follow look forward to the end-time and kingdom. Except in verse 9, this present age is not seen in Zechariah.

16 And the LORD their God shall save them in that day as the flock of his people: for they shall be as the stones of a crown, lifted up as an ensign upon his land.

17 For how great is his goodness, and how great is his beauty! corn shall make the young men cheerful, and new wine the maids.

CHAPTER 10.

The future strengthening of Judah and Ephraim.

ASK ye of the LORD rain in the time of the [1]latter rain; so the LORD shall make bright clouds, and give them showers of rain, to every one grass in the field.

2 For the idols have spoken vanity, and the diviners have seen a lie, and have told false dreams; they comfort in vain: therefore they went their way as a flock, they were troubled, because there was no shepherd.

3 Mine anger was kindled against the shepherds, and I punished the goats: for the LORD of hosts hath visited his flock the house of Judah, and hath made them as his goodly horse in the [a]battle.

4 Out of him [2]came forth the corner, out of him the nail, out of him the battle bow, out of him every oppressor together.

5 And they shall be as mighty men, which tread down their enemies in the mire of the streets in the battle: and they shall fight, because the LORD is with them, and the riders on horses shall be confounded.

6 And I will strengthen the house of Judah, and I will save the house of Joseph, and I will bring them again to place them; for I have mercy upon them: and [b]they shall be as though I had not cast them off: for I am the LORD their God, and will hear them.

The dispersion and regathering of Israel in one view.

9 And I will sow them among the people: and they shall remember me in far countries; and they shall live with their children, and turn again.

10 I will bring them again also out of the land of Egypt, and gather them out of Assyria; and I will bring them into the land of Gilead and Lebanon; and place shall not be found for them.

11 And he shall pass through the sea with affliction, and shall smite the waves in the sea, and all the deeps of the river shall dry up: and the pride of Assyria shall be brought down, and the sceptre of Egypt shall depart away.

12 And I will strengthen them in the LORD; and they shall walk up and down in his name, saith the LORD.

CHAPTER 11.

The first advent and rejection of Messiah, and the result: the wrath.

OPEN thy doors, O Lebanon, that the fire may devour thy cedars.

2 Howl, fir tree; for the cedar is fallen; because the mighty are spoiled: howl, O ye oaks of Bashan; for the forest of the vintage is come down.

3 There is a voice of the howling of the shepherds; for their glory is spoiled: a voice of the roaring of

[1] Cf. Hos. vi. 3; Joel ii. 23-32; Zech. xii. 10. There is both a physical and spiritual meaning: Rain as of old will be restored to Palestine, but, also, there will be a mighty effusion of the Spirit upon restored Israel.

[2] The tense is future: "From him [Judah] shall be the cornerstone (Ex. xvii. 6; 1 Pet. ii. 8, note), from him the nail (Isa. xxii. 23, 24), from him the battle-bow," etc. The whole scene is of the events which group about the deliverance of the Jews in Palestine in the time of the northern invasion under the "Beast" (Dan. vii. 8; Rev. xix. 20, and "Armageddon," Rev. xvi. 14; xix. 17). The final deliverance is wholly effected by the return of the Lord (Rev. xix. 11-21), but previously He strengthens the hard-pressed Israelites (Mic. iv. 13; Zech. ix. 13-15; x. 5-7; xii. 2-6; xiv. 14). That there may have been a precursive fulfilment in the Maccabean victories can neither be affirmed nor denied from Scripture.

young lions; for the pride of Jordan is spoiled.

4 Thus saith the LORD my God; Feed the flock of the slaughter;

5 Whose possessors slay them, and hold themselves not guilty: and they that sell them say, Blessed be the LORD; for I am rich: and their own shepherds pity them not.

6 For I will no more pity the inhabitants of the land, saith the LORD: but, lo, I will deliver the men every one into his neighbour's hand, and into the hand of his king: and they shall smite the land, and out of their hand I will not deliver them.

The cause of the wrath, the rejection of Messiah.

7 And I will feed the flock of slaughter, even you, O [a]poor of the flock. And I took unto me [1]two [b]staves; [2]the one I called Beauty, and the other I called Bands; and I fed the flock.

8 Three shepherds also I cut off in one month; and my soul lothed them, and their soul also abhorred me.

9 Then said I, I will not feed you: that that dieth, let it die; and that that is to be cut off, let it be cut off; and let the rest eat every one the flesh of another.

10 And I took my staff, even Beauty, and cut it asunder, that I might break my covenant which I had made with all the people.

11 And it was broken in that day: and so the [3]poor of the flock that waited upon me knew that it was the word of the LORD.

12 And I said unto them, If ye think good, give me my price; and if not, forbear. [c]So they weighed for my price thirty pieces of silver.

13 And the LORD said unto me, Cast it unto the potter: a goodly price that I was prised at of them. And I took the [d]thirty pieces of silver, and cast them to the potter in the house of the LORD.

14 Then I cut asunder mine other staff, even Bands, that I might break the brotherhood between Judah and Israel.

The Beast and his judgment.

15 [4]And the LORD said unto me, [e]Take unto thee yet the instruments of a foolish shepherd.

16 For, lo, I will raise up a shepherd in the land, which shall not visit those that be [f]cut off, neither shall seek the young one, nor heal that that is broken, nor feed that that standeth still: but he shall eat the flesh of the fat, and tear their claws in pieces.

[g] Jer. 23. 1; Ezk. 34. 2; John 10. 12, 13.

[1] The scene belongs to the first advent. Beauty and Bands—literally "graciousness and union"; the first signifying God's attitude toward His people Israel, in sending His Son (Mt. xxi. 37); the second, His purpose to reunite Judah and Ephraim (Ezk. xxxvii. 15–22). Christ, at His first advent, came with grace (John i. 17) to offer union (Mt. iv. 17), and was sold for thirty pieces of silver (Zech. xi. 12, 13). "Beauty" (i.e. graciousness) was "cut in sunder" (vs. 10, 11), signifying that Judah was abandoned to the destruction foretold in verses 1–6, and fulfilled A.D. 70. After the betrayal of the Lord for thirty pieces of silver (vs. 12, 13) "Bands" (i.e. union) was broken (v. 14), signifying the abandonment, for the time, of the purpose to reunite Judah and Israel. The order of Zech. xi. is, (1) the wrath against the land (vs. 1–6), fulfilled in the destruction of Jerusalem after the rejection of Christ (Lk. xix. 41–44); (2) the cause of that wrath in the sale and rejection of Christ (vs. 7–14); (3) the rise of the "idol shepherd," the Beast (Dan. vii. 8; Rev. xix. 20), and his destruction (vs. 15–17).

[2] The O.T. Parables: Summary. A parable is a similitude used to teach or enforce a truth. The O.T. parables fall into three classes: (1) The story-parable, of which Jud. ix. 7–15 is an instance; (2) parabolic discourses; e.g. Isa. v. 1–7; (3) parabolic actions; e.g. Ezk. xxxvii. 16–22.

[3] The "poor of the flock": i.e. the "remnant according to the election of grace" (Rom. xi. 5); those Jews who did not wait for the manifestation of Christ in glory, but believed on Him at His first coming, and since. Of them it is said that they "waited upon Me," and "knew." Neither the Gentiles nor the Gentile church, corporately, are in view: only the believers out of Israel during this age. The church, corporately, is not in O.T. prophecy (Eph. iii. 8–10).

[4] The reference to the Beast is obvious; no other personage of prophecy in any sense meets the description. He who came in His Father's name was rejected: the alternative is one who comes in his own name (John v. 43; Rev. xiii. 4–8).

CHAPTER 12.

The siege of Jerusalem by the Beast and his armies. (Cf. Rev. 19. 19-21.)

THE [1]burden of the word of the LORD for Israel, saith the LORD, which stretcheth forth the heavens, and layeth the foundation of the earth, and formeth the spirit of man within him.

2 [a]Behold, I will make Jerusalem a cup of trembling unto all the people round about, when they shall be in the [b]siege both against Judah and against Jerusalem.

3 And in that day will I make Jerusalem a burdensome stone for all people: all that burden themselves with it shall be cut in pieces, though all the people of the earth be gathered together against it.

The siege: Judah strengthened; the Lord's deliverance.

4 In that day, saith the LORD, I will smite every horse with astonishment, and his rider with madness: and I will open mine eyes upon the house of Judah, and will smite every horse of the people with blindness.

5 And the governors of Judah shall say in their heart, The inhabitants of Jerusalem shall be my strength in the LORD of hosts their God.

6 [c]In that day will I make the governors of Judah like an hearth of fire among the wood, and like a torch of fire in a sheaf; and they shall devour all the people round about, on the right hand and on the left: and Jerusalem shall be inhabited [d]again in her own place, even in Jerusalem.

7 The LORD also shall save the tents of Judah first, that the glory of the house of David and the glory of the inhabitants of Jerusalem do not magnify themselves against Judah.

8 In that day shall the LORD defend the inhabitants of Jerusalem; and he that is feeble among them at that day shall be as David; and the house of [2]David shall be as God, as the [e]angel of the LORD before them.

9 And it shall come to pass in that day, that I will seek to destroy

The order is: (1) The siege of Jerusalem preceding the battle of Armageddon (vs. 1-3); (2) the battle itself (vs. 4-9); (3) the "latter rain" in the pouring out of the Spirit and the personal revelation of Christ to the family of David and the remnant in Jerusalem, not merely as the glorious Deliverer, but as the One whom Israel pierced and has long rejected (v. 10); (4) the godly sorrow which follows that revelation (vs. 11-14); (5) the cleansing fountain (Zech. xiii. 1) then to be effectually "opened" to Israel.

[2] Kingdom in O.T., Summary:

I. Dominion over the earth before the call of Abraham.

(1) Dominion over creation was given to the first man and woman (Gen. 1. 26, 28). Through the fall this dominion was lost, Satan becoming "prince of this world" (Mt. iv. 8-10; John xiv. 30).

(2) After the flood, the principle of human government was established under the covenant with Noah (Gen. ix. 1, note). Biblically this is still the charter of all Gentile government.

II. The Theocracy in Israel. The call of Abraham involved, with much else, the creation of a distinctive people through whom great purposes of God toward the race might be worked out (see "Israel" Gen. xii. 1-3; Rom. xi. 26, summary). Among these purposes is the establishment of a universal kingdom. The order of the development of the Divine rule in Israel is:

(1) The mediatorship of Moses (Ex. iii. 1-10; xix. 9; xxiv. 12).

(2) The leadership of Joshua (Josh. i. 1-5).

(3) The institution of Judges (Jud. ii. 16-18).

(4) The popular rejection of the Theocracy, and choice of a king — Saul (1 Sam. viii. 1-7; ix. 12-17).

III. The Davidic kingdom.

(1) The divine choice of David (1 Sam. xvi. 1-13).

all the nations that come against Jerusalem.

The Spirit poured out: the pierced One revealed to the delivered remnant.

10 And I will pour upon the house of David, and upon the inhabitants of Jerusalem, the [a]spirit of grace and of supplications: and they shall look upon me [b]whom they have [c]pierced, and they shall mourn for him, as one mourneth for his only son, and shall be in bitterness for him, as one that is in bitterness for his firstborn.

The repentance of the remnant.

11 In that day shall there be a great mourning in Jerusalem, as the mourning of Hadadrimmon in the valley of Megiddon.

12 And the land shall mourn, every family apart; the family of the house of David apart, and their wives apart; the family of the house of Nathan apart, and their wives apart;

13 The family of the house of Levi apart, and their wives apart; the family of Shimei apart, and their wives apart;

14 All the families that remain, every family apart, and their wives apart.

CHAPTER 13.

The repentant remnant pointed to the cross.

IN that [d]day there shall be a fountain opened to the house of David and to the inhabitants of Jerusalem for sin and for uncleanness.

Idols and false prophets cease (Isa. 2. 18; 10. 11).

2 And it shall come to pass in that day, saith the LORD of hosts, that I will cut off the names of the idols out of the land, and they shall no more be remembered: and also I will cause the prophets and the unclean spirit to pass out of the land.

3 And it shall come to pass, that when any shall yet prophesy, then

(3) The exposition of the Davidic Covenant by the prophets (Isa. i. 25, 26 to Zech. xii. 6-8. See marg. Isa. i. 26, "Kingdom" and refs.). The kingdom as described by the prophets is:

(a) Davidic, to be established under an heir of David, who is to be born of a virgin, therefore truly man, but also "Immanuel," "the mighty God, the everlasting Father, the Prince of Peace" (Isa. vii. 13, 14; ix. 6, 7; xi. 1; Jer. xxiii. 5; Ezk. xxxiv. 23; xxxvii. 24; Hos. iii. 4, 5).

(b) A kingdom heavenly in origin, principle, and authority (Dan. ii. 34, 35, 44, 45), but set up on the earth, with Jerusalem as the capital (Isa. ii. 2-4; iv. 3, 5; xxiv. 23; xxxiii. 20; lxii. 1-7; Jer. xxiii. 5; xxxi. 38-40; Joel iii. 1, 16, 17).

(c) The kingdom is to be established first over regathered, restored, and converted Israel, and is then to become universal (Psa. ii. 8; xxiv.; xxii.; Isa. i. 2, 3; xi. 1, 10-13; Jer. xxiii. 5-8; xxx. 7-11; Ezk. xx. 33-40; xxxvii. 21-25; Zech. ix. 10; xiv. 16-19; Psa. ii. 6-8; Isa. lx. 12).

(d) The moral characteristics of the kingdom are to be righteousness and peace. The meek, not the proud, will inherit the earth; longevity will be greatly increased; the knowledge of the Lord will be universal; beast ferocity will be removed; absolute equity will be enforced; and outbreaking sin visited with instant judgment; while the enormous majority of earth's inhabitants will be saved (Isa. xi. 4, 6-9; lxv. 20; Psa. ii. 9; Isa. xxvi. 9; Zech. xiv. 16-21). The N.T. (Rev. xx. 1-5) adds a detail of immense significance—the removal of Satan from the scene. It is impossible to conceive to what heights of spiritual, intellectual, and physical perfection humanity will attain in this, its coming age of righteousness and peace (Isa. xi. 4-9; Psa. lxxii. 1-10).

(e) The kingdom is to be established by power, not persuasion, and is to follow divine judgment upon the Gentile world-powers (Psa. ii. 4-9; Isa. ix. 7; Dan. ii. 35, 44, 45; ix. 34, 35; Zech. xiv. 1-19). See Zech. vi. 11, note 3.

(f) The restoration of Israel and the establishment of the kingdom are connected with an advent of the Lord, yet future (Deut. xxx. 3-5; Psa. ii. 1-9; Zech. xiv. 4).

(g) The chastisement reserved for disobedience in the house of David (2 Sam. vii. 14; Psa. lxxxix. 30-33) fell in the captivities and world-wide dispersion, since which time, though a remnant returned under prince Zerubbabel, Jerusalem has been under the overlordship of Gentiles. But the Davidic Covenant has not been abrogated (Psa. lxxxix. 33-37), but is yet to be fulfilled (Acts xv. 14-17).

his father and his mother that begat him shall say unto him, Thou shalt not live; for thou speakest lies in the name of the LORD: and his father and his mother that begat him shall thrust him through when he prophesieth.

4 And it shall come to pass in that day, that the prophets shall be ashamed every one of his vision, when he hath prophesied; neither shall they wear a rough garment to deceive:

5 But he shall say, I am no prophet, I am an husbandman; for man taught me to keep cattle from my youth.

CHAPTER 14.

Summary of events at the return of the Lord in glory: (1) Armageddon.

BEHOLD, the [f]day of the LORD cometh, and thy spoil shall be divided in the midst of thee.

2 For I will gather all nations against Jerusalem to battle; and the city shall be taken, and the houses rifled, and the women ravished; and half of the city shall go forth into captivity, and the residue of the people shall not be cut off from the city.

3 Then shall the LORD go forth, and [g]fight against those nations, as when he fought in the day of battle.

(2) The visible return in glory: physical changes in Palestine (vs. 4, 10).

4 And his [h]feet [i]shall stand in that day upon the mount of Olives, which is before Jerusalem on the east, [2]and the mount of Olives shall cleave in the midst thereof toward the east and toward the west, and there shall be a very great valley; and half of the mountain shall remove toward the north, and half of it toward the south.

5 And ye shall flee to the valley of the mountains; for the valley of the mountains shall reach unto Azal: yea, ye shall flee, like as ye fled from before the [j]earthquake in the days of Uzziah king of Judah: and the LORD my God shall come, and all the saints with thee.

6 And it shall come to pass in that day, that the light shall not be clear, nor dark:

7 But it shall be one day which shall be known to the LORD, not day, nor night: but it shall come

[1] Zech. xiii. now returns to the subject of Zech. xii. 10. Verses 8, 9 refer to the sufferings of the remnant (Isa. i. 9; Rom. xi. 5) preceding the great battle. Zech. xiv. is a recapitulation of the whole matter. The order is: (1) The gathering of the nations, v. 2 (see "Armageddon," Rev. xvi. 14; xix. 11, note); (2) the deliverance, v. 3; (3) the return of Christ to the Mount of Olives, and the physical change of the scene, vs. 4–8; (4) the setting up of the kingdom, and full earthly blessing, vs. 9–21.

[2] Verse 5 implies that the cleavage of the Mount of Olives is due to an earthquake, and this is confirmed by Isa. xxix. 6; Rev. xvi. 19. In both passages the context, as in Zech. xiv. (see vs. 1–3) associates the earthquake with the Gentile invasion under the Beast (Dan. vii. 8; Rev. xix. 20). Surely, in a land seamed by seismic disturbances it should not be difficult to believe that another earthquake might cleave the little hill called the Mount of Olives. Not one of the associated events of Zech. xiv. occurred at the first coming of Christ, closely associated though He then was with the Mount of Olives.

to pass, that at evening time it shall be light.

(3) The river of the sanctuary. (Cf. Ezk. 47. 1-12; Rev. 22. 1, 2.)

8 And it shall be in that day, that living waters shall go out from Jerusalem; half of them toward the former sea, and half of them toward the hinder sea: in summer and in winter shall it be.

(4) The kingdom set up on the earth.

9 And the LORD shall be king over all the [1]earth: in that day shall there be one LORD, and his name one.

10 All the land shall be turned as a plain from Geba to Rimmon south of Jerusalem: and it shall be lifted up, and inhabited in her place, from Benjamin's gate unto the place of the first gate, unto the corner gate, and from the tower of Hananeel unto the king's winepresses.

11 And men shall dwell in it, and there shall be no more utter destruction; but Jerusalem shall be safely inhabited.

12 And this shall be the plague wherewith the LORD will smite all the people that have fought against Jerusalem; Their flesh shall consume away while they stand upon their feet, and their eyes shall consume away in their holes, and their tongue shall consume away in their mouth.

13 And it shall come to pass in that day, that a great tumult from the LORD shall be among them; and they shall lay hold every one on the hand of his neighbour, and his hand shall rise up against the hand of his neighbour.

14 And Judah also shall fight at Jerusalem; and the wealth of all the [a]heathen round about shall be gathered together, gold, and silver, and apparel, in great abundance.

15 And so shall be the plague of the horse, of the mule, of the camel, and of the ass, and of all the beasts that shall be in these tents, as this plague.

(5) The worship and spirituality of the kingdom.

16 And it shall come to pass, that every one that is left of all the nations which came against Jerusalem shall even go up from year to year to worship the [b]King, the LORD of hosts, and to keep the feast of tabernacles.

17 And it shall be, that whoso will not come up of all the families of the earth unto Jerusalem to worship the King, the LORD of hosts, even upon them shall be no rain.

18 And if the family of Egypt go not up, and come not, that have no rain; there shall be the plague, wherewith the LORD will smite the heathen that come not up to keep the feast of tabernacles.

19 This shall be the punishment of Egypt, and the punishment of all nations that come not up to keep the feast of tabernacles.

20 In that day shall there be upon the [c]bells of the horses, [d]HOLINESS UNTO THE LORD; and the pots in the LORD'S house shall be like the bowls before the altar.

21 Yea, every pot in Jerusalem and in Judah shall be holiness unto the LORD of hosts: and all they that sacrifice shall come and take of them, and seethe therein: and in that day there shall be no more the [e]Canaanite in [f]the house of the LORD of hosts.

MALACHI, "my messenger," the last of the prophets to the restored remnant after the 70 years' captivity, probably prophesied in the time of confusion during Nehemiah's absence (Neh. xiii. 6). The burden of his message is, the love of Jehovah, the sins of the priests and of the people, and the day of the Lord. Malachi, like Zechariah, sees both advents, and predicts two forerunners (Mal. iii. 1 and iv. 5, 6). As a whole, Malachi gives the moral judgment of God on the remnant restored by His grace under Ezra and Nehemiah. He had established His house among them, but their worship was formal and insincere.

The book is in four natural divisions: I. The love of God for Israel, i. 1–5. II. The sins of the priests rebuked, i. 6.–ii. 9. III. The sins of the people rebuked, ii. 10–iii. 18. IV. The day of the Lord, iv. 1–6.

CHAPTER 1.

Part I. The love of God for Israel (vs. 1–5).

THE burden of the word of the LORD to Israel by Malachi.

2 I have [a]loved you, saith the LORD. Yet ye say, Wherein hast thou loved us? Was not Esau Jacob's brother? saith the LORD: yet I loved [b]Jacob,

3 And I hated Esau, and laid his mountains and his heritage waste for the dragons of the wilderness.

4 Whereas [c]Edom saith, We are impoverished, but we will return and build the desolate places; thus saith the LORD of hosts, They shall build, but I will throw down; and they shall call them, The border of wickedness, and, The people against whom the LORD hath indignation for ever.

5 And your eyes shall see, and ye shall say, [d]The LORD will be magnified from the border of Israel.

Part II. The sins of the restoration priests (Mal. i. 6–2. 9).

6 A son [e]honoureth his father, and a servant his master: [1]if then I be a [f]father, where is mine honour? and if I be a master, where is my fear? saith the LORD of hosts unto you, O priests, that despise my name. And ye say, Wherein have we despised thy name?

7 Ye offer polluted bread upon mine altar; and ye say, Wherein have we polluted thee? In that ye say, The table of the LORD is contemptible.

8 And if ye offer the blind for sacrifice, is it not evil? and if ye offer the lame and sick, is it not evil? offer it now unto thy governor; will he be pleased with thee, or accept thy person? saith the LORD of hosts.

9 And now, I pray you, beseech God that he will be gracious unto us: this hath been by your means: will he regard your persons? saith the LORD of hosts.

10 [g]Who is there even among you that would shut the doors for nought? neither do ye kindle fire on mine altar for nought. I have no pleasure in you, saith the LORD of hosts, neither will I accept an offering at your hand.

11 [h]For from the rising of the sun even unto the going down of the same my name shall be great among the Gentiles; and in every place incense shall be offered unto my name, and a pure offering: for my name shall be great among the [i]heathen, saith the LORD of hosts.

12 But ye have profaned it, in that ye say, The table of the LORD is polluted; and the fruit thereof, even his meat, is contemptible.

13 Ye said also, Behold, what a weariness is it! and ye have snuffed at it, saith the LORD of hosts; and ye brought that which was torn, and the lame, and the sick; thus ye brought an offering: should I accept this of your hand? saith the LORD.

[h] i.e. So it should have been had Israel been true. Isa. 45. 5, 6. So it shall be despite Israel's failure.

[1] Cf. Isa. lxiii. 16, note. The relationship here is national, not personal (Jer. iii. 18, 19); here, apparently, the Jews were calling Jehovah "Father," but yielding Him no filial obedience. See John viii. 37–39; Rom. ix. 1–8.

14 But cursed be the deceiver, which hath in his flock a male, and voweth, and sacrificeth unto the Lord a [a]corrupt thing: for I am a great King, saith the LORD of hosts, and my name is dreadful among the heathen.

(The message to the priests, continued.)

AND now, O ye priests, this commandment is for you.

2 If ye will not hear, and if ye will not lay it to heart, to give glory unto my name, saith the LORD of hosts, I will even send a curse upon you, and I will [b]curse your blessings: yea, I have cursed them already, because ye do not lay it to heart.

3 Behold, I will corrupt your seed, and spread dung upon your faces, even the dung of your solemn feasts; and one shall take you away with it.

4 And ye shall know that I have sent this commandment unto you, that my covenant might be with Levi, saith the LORD of hosts.

5 My [c]covenant was with him of life and peace; and I gave them to him for the fear wherewith he feared me, and was afraid before my name.

6 The law of truth was in his mouth, and iniquity was not found in his lips: he walked with me in peace and equity, and did turn many away from iniquity.

7 For the priest's lips should keep knowledge, and they should seek the law at his mouth: for he is the messenger of the LORD of hosts.

8 But ye are departed out of the way; ye have caused many to stumble at the law; ye have corrupted the covenant of Levi, saith the LORD of hosts.

9 Therefore have I also made you contemptible and base before all the people, according as ye have not kept my ways, but have been partial in the law.

Part III. (Mal. 2. 10–3. 18.) The sins of the people: (1) sins against brotherhood.

10 [d]Have we not all one father? hath not one God created us? why do we deal treacherously every man against his brother, by profaning the covenant of our fathers?

(2) Sins against God in the family.

11 Judah hath dealt treacherously, and an abomination is committed in Israel and in Jerusalem; for Judah hath profaned the holiness of the LORD which he loved, and hath married the daughter of a strange god.

12 The LORD will cut off the man that doeth this, the master and the scholar, out of the tabernacles of Jacob, and him that offereth an offering unto the LORD of hosts.

13 And this have ye done again, covering the altar of the LORD with tears, with weeping, and with crying out, insomuch that he regardeth not the offering any more, or receiveth it with good will at your hand.

14 Yet ye say, Wherefore? Because the LORD hath been witness between thee and the wife of thy youth, against whom thou hast dealt treacherously: yet is she thy companion, and the wife of thy covenant.

15 And did not he make one? Yet had he the [e]residue of the [1]spirit. And wherefore one? That he might seek a godly seed. Therefore take heed to your spirit, and let none deal treacherously against the wife of his youth.

[f] Holy Spirit. (Gen. 1. 2.)

[1] Summary of the O.T. doctrine of the Holy Spirit: (1) The personality and Deity of the Holy Spirit appear from the attributes ascribed to Him, and from His works. (2) He is revealed as sharing the work of creation and therefore omnipotent (Gen. i. 2; Job xxvi. 13; xxxiii. 4; Psa. civ. 30); as omnipresent (Psa. cxxxix. 7); as striving with men (Gen. vi. 3); as enlightening (Job xxxii. 8); enduing with constructive skill (Ex. xxviii. 3; xxxi. 3); giving physical strength (Jud. xiv. 6, 19); executive ability and wisdom (Jud. iii. 10; vi. 34; xi. 29; xiii. 25); enabling men to receive and utter divine revelations (Num. xi. 25; 2 Sam. xxiii. 2); and, generally, as empowering the servants of God (Psa. li. 12; Joel ii. 28; Mic. iii. 8; Zech. iv. 6). (3) He is called holy (Psa. li. 11); good (Psa. cxliii. 10); the Spirit of judgment and burning (Isa. iv. 4); of Jehovah, of wisdom, understanding, counsel, might, good, knowledge, the fear of the Lord (Isa. xi. 2), and of grace and supplications (Zech. xii. 10). (4) In the O.T. the Spirit acts in free sovereignty, coming upon men and even upon a dumb beast as He will, nor are conditions set forth (as in the N.T.) by saith that he hateth putting away: for one covereth violence with his garment, saith the LORD of hosts: therefore take heed to your spirit, that ye deal not treacherously.

(3) The sin of insincere religious profession.

17 Ye have wearied the LORD with your words. Yet ye say, Wherein have we wearied him? When ye say, Every one that doeth evil is good in the sight of the LORD, and he delighteth in them; or, Where is the God of judgment?

CHAPTER 3.

Parenthesis: The mission of John the Baptist and coming of the Lord foretold (vs. 1-6).

BEHOLD, I will send [a]my messenger, and [b]he shall prepare the way before me: and the [1]Lord, whom ye seek, shall suddenly come to his temple, even the messenger of the covenant, whom ye delight in: behold, he shall come, saith the LORD of hosts.

2 But who may abide [c]the day of his coming? and [d]who shall stand when he appeareth? for [e]he is like a refiner's fire, and like fullers' soap:

3 And [f]he shall sit as a refiner and purifier of silver: and he shall purify the sons of Levi, and purge them as gold and silver, that they may [g]offer unto the LORD an offering in righteousness.

4 Then shall the offering of Judah and Jerusalem be pleasant unto the LORD, as in the days of old, and as in former years.

5 And I will come near to you to judgment; and I will be a swift witness against the sorcerers, and against the adulterers, [h]and against false swearers, and against those that oppress the hireling in his wages, the widow, and the fatherless, and that turn aside the stranger from his right, and fear not me, saith the LORD of hosts.

6 For I am the LORD, [i]I change not; therefore ye sons of Jacob are not consumed.

Part III. resumed: The people have robbed God.

7 Even from the days of your fathers ye are gone away from mine ordinances, and have not kept them. [j]Return unto me, and I will return unto you, saith the LORD of hosts. But ye said, Wherein shall we return?

8 Will a man rob God? Yet ye have robbed me. But ye say, Wherein have we robbed thee? [k]In tithes and offerings.

9 Ye are cursed with a curse: for ye have robbed me, even this whole nation.

10 [l]Bring ye all the tithes into the storehouse, that there may be meat in mine house, and prove me now herewith, saith the LORD of hosts, if I will not open you the windows of heaven, and pour you out a blessing, that there shall not be room enough to receive it.

11 And I will rebuke the devourer for your sakes, and he shall not destroy the fruits of your ground; neither shall your vine cast her fruit before the time in the field, saith the LORD of hosts.

12 And all nations shall call you blessed: for ye shall be a delightsome land, saith the LORD of hosts.

13 Your words have been stout against me, saith the LORD. Yet complying with which any one may receive the Spirit. The indwelling of every believer by the abiding Spirit is a N.T. blessing consequent upon the death and resurrection of Christ (John vii. 39; xvi. 7; Acts ii. 33; Gal. iv. 1-6). (5) The O.T. contains predictions of a future pouring out of the Spirit upon Israel (Ezk. xxxvii. 14; xxxix. 29), and upon "all flesh" (Joel ii. 28, 29). The expectation of Israel, therefore, was twofold—of the coming of Messiah-Immanuel, and of such an effusion of the Spirit as the prophets described. See Mt. i. 18, refs.

[1] The f.c. of verse 1 is quoted of John the Baptist (Mt. xi. 10; Mk. i. 2; Lk. vii. 27), but the second clause, "the Lord whom ye seek," etc., is nowhere quoted in the N.T. The reason is obvious: in everything save the fact of Christ's first advent, the latter clause awaits fulfilment (Hab. ii. 20). Verses 2-5 speak of judgment, not of grace. Malachi, in common with other O.T. prophets, saw both advents of Messiah blended in one horizon, but did not see the separating interval described in Mt. xiii. consequent upon the rejection of the King (Mt. xiii. 16, 17). Still less was the Church-age in his vision (Eph. iii. 3-6; Col. i. 25-27). "My messenger" (v. 1) is John the Baptist; the "messenger of the covenant" is Christ in both of His advents, but with especial reference to the events which are to follow His return.

ye say, What have we spoken so much against thee?

14 Ye have said, It is vain to serve God: and what profit is it that we have kept his ordinance, and that we have walked mournfully before the LORD of hosts?

[1] Summary of the O.T. revelation of Deity: God is revealed in the O.T. (1) through His names, as follows:

CLASS.	ENGLISH FORM.	HEBREW EQUIVALENT.
Primary	God	El, Elah, or Elohim (Gen. i. 1, note)
	LORD	Jehovah (Gen. ii. 4, note)
	Lord	Adon or Adonai (Gen. xv. 2, note)
Compound (with El = God)	Almighty God	El Shaddai (Gen. xvii. 1, note)
	Most High, or most high God	El Elyon (Gen. xiv. 18, note)
	everlasting God	El Olam (Gen. xxi. 33, note)
Compound (with Jehovah = LORD)	LORD God	Jehovah Elohim (Gen. ii. 7, note)
	Lord GOD	Adonai Jehovah (Gen. xv. 2, note)
	LORD of hosts	Jehovah Sabaoth (1 Sam. i. 3, note)

The Trinity is suggested by the three times repeated groups of threes. This is not an arbitrary arrangement, but inheres in the O.T. itself.

This revelation of God by His names is invariably made in connection with some particular need of His people, and there can be no need of man to which these names do not answer as showing that man's true resource is in God. Even human failure and sin but evoke new and fuller revelations of the divine fulness.

(2) The O.T. Scriptures reveal the existence of a Supreme Being, the Creator of the universe and of man, the Source of all life and of all intelligence, who is to be worshipped and served by men and angels. This Supreme Being is One but, in some sense not fully revealed in the O.T., is a unity in plurality. This is shown by the plural name, Elohim, by the use of the plural pronoun in the interrelation of Deity as evidenced in Gen. i. 26; iii. 22; Psa. cx. 1; and Isa. vi. 8. That this plurality is really a Trinity is intimated in the three primary names of Deity, and in the threefold ascription of the Seraphim in Isa. vi. 3. That the interrelation of Deity is that of Father and Son is directly asserted in Psa. ii. 7 (with Heb. i. 5); and the Spirit is distinctly recognized in His personality, and to Him are ascribed all the divine attributes (e.g. Gen. i. 2; Num. xi. 25; xxiv. 2; Jud. iii. 10; vi. 34; xi. 29; xiii. 25; xiv. 6, 19; xv. 14; 2 Sam. xxiii. 2; Job xxvi. 13; xxxiii. 4; Psa. cvi. 33; cxxxix. 7; Isa. xl. 7; lix. 19; lxiii. 10. See Mal. ii. 15, note). (3) The future incarnation is intimated in the theophanies, or appearances of God in human form (e.g. Gen. xviii. 1, 13, 17-22; xxxii. 24-30), and distinctly predicted in the promises connected with redemption (e.g. Gen. iii. 15) and with the Davidic Covenant (e.g. Isa. vii. 13, 14; ix. 6, 7; Jer. xxiii. 5, 6). The revelation of Deity ness arise with healing in his wings; and ye shall go forth, and grow up as calves of the stall.

3 And ye shall tread down the wicked; for they shall be ashes under the soles of your feet in the day that I shall do this, saith the LORD of hosts.

4 Remember ye the law of Moses my servant, which I commanded unto him in Horeb for all Israel, with the statutes and judgments.

Elijah to come again before the day of the Lord. (Cf. Rev. 11. 3-6.)

[a] Lk. 1. 17.

5 Behold, I will send you Elijah the prophet before the coming of the great and dreadful day of the LORD:

6 And he [a]shall turn the heart of the fathers to the children, and the heart of the children to their fathers, lest I come and smite the earth with a curse.

in the N.T. so illuminates that of the O.T. that the latter is seen to be, from Genesis to Malachi, the foreshadowing of the coming incarnation of God in Jesus the Christ. In promise, covenant, type, and prophecy, the O.T. points forward to Him. (4) The revelation of God to man is one of authority and of redemption. He requires righteousness from man, but saves the unrighteous through sacrifice; and in His redemptive dealings with man all the divine persons and attributes are brought into manifestation. The O.T. reveals the justice of God equally with His mercy, but never in opposition to His mercy. The flood, e.g., was an unspeakable mercy to unborn generations. From Genesis to Malachi He is revealed as the seeking God who has no pleasure in the death of the wicked, and who heaps up before the sinner every possible motive to persuade to faith and obedience. (5) In the experience of the O.T. men of faith their God inspires reverence but never slavish fear; and they exhaust the resources of language to express their love and adoration in view of His lovingkindness and tender mercy. This adoring love of His saints is the triumphant answer to those who pretend to find the O.T. revelation of God cruel and repellent. It is in harmony, not contrast, with the N.T. revelation of God in Christ. (6) Those passages which attribute to God bodily parts and human emotions (e.g. Ex. xxxiii. 11, 20; Deut. xxix. 20; 2 Chr. xvi. 9; Gen. vi. 6, 7; Jer. xv. 6) are metaphorical and mean that in the infinite being of God exists that which answers to these things—eyes, a hand, feet, etc.; and the jealousy and anger attributed to Him are the emotions of perfect Love in view of the havoc of sin. (7) In the O.T. revelation there is a true sense in which, wholly apart from sin or infirmity, God is like His creature man (Gen. i. 27), and the supreme and perfect revelation of God, toward which the O.T. points, is a revelation in and through a perfect Man.

FROM MALACHI TO MATTHEW

THE close of the Old Testament canon left Israel in two great divisions. The mass of the nation were dispersed throughout the Persian Empire, more as colonists than captives. A remnant, chiefly of the tribe of Judah, with Zerubbabel, a prince of the Davidic family, and the survivors of the priests and Levites, had returned to the land under the permissive decrees of Cyrus and his successors (Dan. v. 31, note; ix. 25, note), and had established again the temple worship. Upon this remnant the interest of the student of Scripture centres; and this interest concerns both their political and religious history.

I. Politically, the fortunes of the Palestinian Jews followed, with one exception—the Maccabean revolt, the history of the Gentile world-empires foretold by Daniel (Dan. ii., vii.).

(1) The Persian rule continued about one hundred years after the close of the O.T. canon, and seems to have been mild and tolerant, allowing to the high priest, along with his religious functions, a measure of civil power, but under the overlordship of the governors of Syria. The sources of the history of the Jewish remnant during the Persian period were purely legendary when Josephus wrote. During this period the rival worship of Samaria (John iv. 19, 20) was established.

Palestine suffered much from the constant wars between Persia and Egypt, lying as it did "between the anvil and the hammer."

(2) In 333 B.C. Syria fell under the power of the third of the world-empires, the Græco-Macedonian of Alexander. That conqueror, as Josephus relates, was induced to treat the Jews with much favour; but, upon the breaking up of his empire, Judæa again fell between the hammer and the anvil of Syria and Egypt, falling first under the power of Syria, but later under Egypt as ruled by the Ptolemaic kings. During this period (B.C. 320–198) great numbers of Jews were established in Egypt, and the Septuagint translation of the O.T. was made (B.C. 285).

(3) In B.C. 198 Judæa was conquered by Antiochus the Great, and annexed to Syria. At this time the division of the land into the five provinces familiar to readers of the Gospels, Galilee, Samaria, Judæa (often collectively called Judæa), Trachonitis and Peræa, was made. The Jews at first were permitted to live under their own laws under the high priest and a council. About B.C. 180 the land became the dowry of Cleopatra, a Syrian princess married to Ptolemy Philometor, king of Egypt, but on the death of Cleopatra was reclaimed by Antiochus Epiphanes (the "little horn" of Dan. viii. 9, note), after a bloody battle. In 170 B.C., Antiochus, after repeated interferences with the temple and priesthood, plundered Jerusalem, profaned the temple, and enslaved great numbers of the inhabitants. December 25, B.C. 168, Antiochus offered a sow upon the great altar, and erected an altar to Jupiter. This is the "desolation" of Dan. viii. 13, type of the final "abomination of desolation" of Mt. xxiv. 15. The temple worship was forbidden, and the people compelled to eat swine's flesh.

(4) The excesses of Antiochus provoked the revolt of the Maccabees, one of the most heroic pages of history. Mattathias, the first of the Maccabees, a priest of great sanctity and energy of character, began the revolt. He did little more than to gather a band of godly and determined Jews pledged to free the nation and restore the ancient worship, and was succeeded by his son Judas, known in history as Maccabæus, from the Hebrew word for hammer. He was assisted by four brothers of whom Simon is best known.

In B.C. 165 Judas regained possession of Jerusalem, purified and rededicated the temple, an event celebrated in the Jewish Feast of the Dedication. The struggle with Antiochus and his successor continued. Judas was slain in battle, his brother Jonathan succeeding. In him the civil and priestly authority were united (B.C. 143). Under Jonathan, his brother Simon, and his nephew John Hyrcanus, the Hasmonean line of priest-rulers was established, under sufferance of other powers. They possessed none of the Maccabean virtues.

(5) A civil war followed, which was terminated by the Roman conquest of Judæa and Jerusalem by Pompey (B.C. 63), who left Hyrcanus, the last of the Hasmoneans, a nominal sovereignty, Antipater, an Idumean, wielding the actual power. B.C. 47 Antipater was made procurator of Judæa by Julius Cæsar, and appointed his son, Herod, governor of Galilee. After the murder of Cæsar disorder ensued in Judæa, and Herod fled to Rome. There he was appointed (B.C. 40) king of the Jews, and returning, he conciliated the people by his marriage (B.C. 38) with Mariamne, the beautiful grand-daughter of Hyrcanus, and appointed her brother, the Maccabean Aristobulus III., high priest. Herod was king when Jesus Christ was born.

II. The religious history of the Jews during the long period from Malachi (B.C. 450) to Christ followed, as to outer ceremonial, the high-priestly office, and the temple worship, the course of the troublous political history, and is of scant interest.

Of greater moment are the efforts and means by which the real faith of Israel was kept alive and nurtured.

(1) The tendency to idolatry seems to have been destroyed by the Jews' experience and observation of it during the captivity. Deprived of temple and priest, and of the possibility of continuing a ceremonial worship, the Jewish people were thrown back upon that which was fundamental in their faith, the revelation of God as One, the Creator, to be conceived of as having made man in His own image, and therefore as having such analogies to the nature and life of man as to be comprehensible by man, while remaining the Eternal Spirit, God. This conception of God, enforced by the mighty ministries of the pre-exilic and exilic prophets, finally prevailed over all idolatrous conceptions, and this ministry was continued amongst the returned remnant by Haggai, Zechariah, and Malachi. The high ethics of the older prophets, their stern rebuke of mere formalism, and their glowing prophecies of the ultimate restoration of Israel in national and religious supremacy under Messiah, were all repeated by the three prophets of the restoration.

The problem was to keep alive this exalted ideal in the midst of outward persecutions and sordid and disgraceful divisions within.

(2) The organic means to this end was the synagogue, an institution which formed no part of the biblical order of the national life. Its origin is obscure. Probably, during the captivity, the Jews, deprived of the temple and its rites, met on the Sabbath day for prayer. This would give opportunity for the reading of the Scriptures. Such meetings would require some order of procedure, and some authority for the restraint of disorder. The synagogue doubtless grew out of the necessities of the situation in which the Jews were placed, but it served the purpose of maintaining familiarity with the inspired writings, and upon these the spiritual life of the true Israel (see Rom. ix. 6, note) was nourished.

(3) But during this period, also, was created that mass of tradition, comment and interpretation, known as Mishna, Gemara (forming the Talmud), Halachoth, Midrashim and Kabbala, so superposed upon the Law that obedience was transferred from the Law itself to the traditional interpretation.

(4) During this period also arose the two great sects known to the Gospel narratives as Pharisees and Sadducees. (See Mt. iii. 11, notes 1, 2.) The Herodians were a party rather than a sect.

Amongst such a people, governed, under the suzerainty of Rome, by an Idumean usurper, rent by bitter and unspiritual religious controversies, and maintaining an elaborate religious ritual, appeared Jesus, the Son and Christ of God.

THE FOUR GOSPELS

THE four Gospels record the eternal being, human ancestry, birth, death, resurrection, and ascension of Jesus the Christ, Son of God, and Son of Man. They record also a selection from the incidents of His life, and from His words and works. Taken together, they set forth, not a biography but a Personality.

These two facts, that we have in the four Gospels a complete Personality, but not a complete biography, indicate the spirit and intent in which we should approach them. What is important is that through these narratives we should come to see and know Him whom they reveal. It is of relatively small importance that we should be able to piece together out of these confessedly incomplete records (John xxi. 25) a connected story of His life. For some adequate reason—perhaps lest we should be too much occupied with "Christ after the flesh"—it did not please God to cause to be written a biography of His Son. The twenty-nine formative years are passed over in a silence which is broken but once, and that in but twelve brief verses of Luke's Gospel. It may be well to respect the divine reticencies.

But the four Gospels, though designedly incomplete as a story, are divinely perfect as a revelation. We may not through them know everything that He did, but we may know the Doer. In four great characters, each of which completes the other three, we have Jesus Christ Himself. The Evangelists never describe Christ —they set Him forth. They tell us almost nothing of what they thought about Him, they let Him speak and act for Himself.

This is the essential respect in which these narratives differ from mere biography or portraiture. "The words that I speak unto you, they are spirit, and they are life." The student in whom dwells an ungrieved Spirit finds here the living Christ.

The distinctive part which each Evangelist bears in this presentation of the living Christ is briefly noted in separate Introductions, but it may be profitable to add certain general suggestions.

I. The Old Testament is a divinely provided Introduction to the New; and whoever comes to the study of the four Gospels with a mind saturated with the Old Testament foreview of the Christ, His person, work, and kingdom, will find them open books.

For the Gospels are woven of Old Testament quotation, allusion, and type. The very first verse of the New Testament drives the thoughtful reader back to the Old; and the risen Christ sent His disciples to the ancient oracles for an explanation of His sufferings and glory (Lk. xxiv. 27, 44, 45). One of His last ministries was the opening of their understandings to understand the Old Testament.

Therefore, in approaching the study of the Gospels the mind should be freed, so far as possible, from mere theological concepts and presuppositions. Especially is it necessary to exclude the notion—a legacy in Protestant thought from post-apostolic and Roman Catholic theology—that the church is the true Israel, and that the Old Testament foreview of the kingdom is fulfilled in the church.

Do not, therefore, assume interpretations to be true because familiar. Do not assume that "the throne of David" (Lk. i. 32) is synonymous with "My Father's throne" (Rev. iii. 21), or that "the house of Jacob" (Lk. i. 33) is the Church composed both of Jew and Gentile.

II. The mission of Jesus was, primarily, to the Jews (Mt. x. 5, 6; xv. 23-25; John i. 11). He was "made under the law" (Gal. iv. 4), and was "a minister of the circumcision for the truth of God, to confirm the promises made unto the fathers" (Rom. xv. 8), and to fulfil the law that grace might flow out.

Expect, therefore, a strong legal and Jewish colouring up to the cross (e.g. Mt. v. 17-19; vi. 12; cf. Eph. iv. 32; Mt. x. 5, 6; xv. 22-28; Mk. i. 44; Mt. xxiii. 2, etc.). The Sermon on the Mount is law, not grace, for it demands as the condition of blessing (Mt. v. 3-9) that perfect character which grace, through divine power, creates (Gal. v. 22, 23).

III. The doctrines of grace are to be sought in the Epistles, not in the Gospels; but those doctrines rest back upon the death and resurrection of Christ, and upon the great germ-truths to which He gave utterance, and of which the Epistles are the unfolding. Furthermore, the only perfect example of perfect grace is the Christ of the Gospels.

IV. The Gospels do not unfold the doctrine of the Church. The word occurs in Matthew only. After His rejection as King and Saviour by the Jews, our Lord, announcing a mystery until that moment "hid in God" (Eph. iii. 3-10), said, "I will build my church" (Mt. xvi. 16, 18). It was, therefore, yet future; but His personal ministry had gathered out the believers who were, on the day of Pentecost, by the baptism with the Spirit, made the first members of "the church which is his body" (1 Cor. xii. 12, 13; Eph. i. 23).

The Gospels present a group of Jewish disciples, associated on earth with a Messiah in humiliation; the Epistles a Church which is the body of Christ in glory, associated with Him in the heavenlies, co-heirs with Him of the Father, co-rulers with Him over the coming kingdom, and, as to the earth, pilgrims and strangers (1 Cor. xii. 12, 13; Eph. i. 3-14, 20-23; ii. 4-6; 1 Pet. ii. 11).

V. The Gospels present Christ in His three offices of Prophet, Priest, and King.

As Prophet His ministry does not differ in kind from that of the Old Testament prophets. It is the dignity of His Person which makes Him the unique Prophet. Of old, God spoke through the prophets; now He speaks in the Son (Heb. i. 1, 2). The old prophet was a voice from God; the Son is God Himself (Deut. xviii. 18, 19).

The prophet in any dispensation is God's messenger to His people, first to establish truth, and, secondly, when they are in declension and apostasy to call them back to truth. His message, therefore, is, usually, one of rebuke and appeal. Only when these fall on deaf ears does he become a foreteller of things to come. In this, too, Christ is at one with the other prophets. His predictive ministry follows His rejection as King.

The sphere and character of Christ's Kingly office are defined in the Davidic Covenant (2 Sam. vii. 8-16, and refs.), as interpreted by the prophets, and confirmed by the New Testament. The latter in no way abrogates or modifies either the Davidic Covenant or its prophetic interpretation. It adds details which were not in the prophet's vision. The Sermon on the Mount is an elaboration of the idea of "righteousness" as the predominant characteristic of the Messianic kingdom (Isa. xi. 2-5; Jer. xxiii. 5, 6; xxxiii. 14-16). The Old Testament prophet was perplexed by seeing in one horizon, so to speak, the suffering and the glory of Messiah (1 Pet. i. 10, 11). The New Testament shows that these are separated by the present church-age, and points forward to the Lord's return as the time when the Davidic Covenant of blessing through power will be fulfilled (Lk. i. 30-33; Acts ii. 29-36; xv. 14-17); just as the Abrahamic Covenant of blessing through suffering was fulfilled at His first coming (Acts iii. 25; Gal. iii. 6-14).

Christ is never called King of the Church. "The King" is indeed one of the divine titles, and the Church in her worship joins Israel in exalting "the king, eternal, immortal, invisible" (Psa. x. 16; 1 Tim. i. 17). But the Church is to reign with Him. The Holy Spirit is now calling out, not the subjects, but the co-heirs and co-rulers of the kingdom (2 Tim. ii. 11, 12; Rev. i. 6; iii. 21; v. 10; Rom. viii. 15-18; 1 Cor. vi. 2, 3).

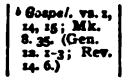
Christ's Priestly office is the complement of His prophetic office. The prophet is God's representative with the people; the priest is the people's representative with God. Because they are sinful he must be a sacrificer; because they are needy he must be a compassionate intercessor (Heb. v. 1, 2; viii. 1-3). So Christ, on the cross, entered upon His high-priestly work, offering Himself without spot unto God (Heb. ix. 14), as now He compassionates His people in an ever-living intercession (Heb. vii. 25). Of that intercession John xvii. is the pattern.

VI. Distinguish, in the Gospels, interpretation from moral application. Much in the Gospels which belongs in strictness of interpretation to the Jew or the kingdom, is yet such a revelation of the mind of God, and so based on eternal principles, as to have a moral application to the people of God whatever their position dispensationally. It is always true that the "pure in heart" are happy because they "see God," and that "woe" is the portion of religious formalists whether under law or grace.

VII. Especial emphasis rests upon that to which all four Gospels bear a united testimony. That united testimony is sevenfold:

1. In all alike is revealed the one unique Personality. The one Jesus is King in Matthew, Servant in Mark, Man in Luke, and God in John. But not only so: for Matthew's King is also Servant, Man, and God; and Mark's Servant is also King, and Man, and God; Luke's Man is also King, and Servant, and God; and John's eternal Son is also King, and Servant, and Man.

The pen is a different pen; the incidents in which He is seen are sometimes different incidents; the distinctive character in which He is presented is a different character; but He is always the same Christ. That fact alone would mark these books as inspired.



2. All the Evangelists record the ministry of John the Baptist.
3. All record the feeding of the five thousand.
4. All record Christ's offer of Himself as King, according to Micah.
5. All record the betrayal by Judas; the denial by Peter; the trial, crucifixion, resurrection, and ascension of Christ. And this record is so made as to testify that the death of Christ was the supreme business which brought Him into the world; that all which precedes that death is but preparation for it; and that from it flow all the blessings which God ever has or ever will bestow upon man.
6. All record the resurrection ministry of Christ; a ministry which reveals Him as unchanged by the tremendous event of His passion, but a ministry keyed to a new note of universality, and of power.
7. All point forward to His second coming.

HOW TO USE THE SUBJECT REFERENCES

THE subject references lead the reader from the first clear mention of a great truth to the last. The first and last references (in parenthesis) are repeated each time, so that wherever a reader comes upon a subject he may recur to the first reference and follow the subject, or turn at once to the Summary at the last reference.

ILLUSTRATION

Here Gospel is the subject; vs. 1, 14, 15 show where it is at that particular place; Mk. viii. 35 is the next reference in the chain, and the references in parenthesis are the first and last.

WRITER. The writer of the first Gospel, as all agree, was Matthew, called also Levi, a Jew of Galilee who had taken service as a tax-gatherer under the Roman oppressor. He was, therefore, one of the hated and ill-reputed publicans.

The date of Matthew has been much discussed, but no convincing reason has been given for discrediting the traditional date of A.D. 37.

Theme. The scope and purpose of the book are indicated in the first verse. Matthew is the "book of the generation of Jesus Christ, the Son of David, the Son of Abraham" (Mt. i. 1). This connects Him at once with two of the most important of the Old Testament covenants: the Davidic Covenant of kingship, and the Abrahamic Covenant of promise (2 Sam. vii. 8-16; Gen. xv. 18).

Of Jesus Christ in that twofold character, then, Matthew writes. Following the order indicated in the first verse, he writes first of the King, the Son of David; then of the Son of Abraham, obedient unto death, according to the Isaac type (Gen. xxii. 1-18; Heb. xi. 17-19).

But the prominent character of Christ in Matthew is that of the covenanted King, David's "righteous Branch" (Jer. xxiii. 5; xxxiii. 15). Matthew records His genealogy; His birth in Bethlehem the city of David, according to Micah (v. 2); the ministry of His forerunner according to Malachi (iii. 1); the ministry of the King Himself; His rejection by Israel; and His predictions of His second coming in power and great glory.

Only then (Mt. xxvi.-xxviii.) does Matthew turn to the earlier covenant, and record the sacrificial death of the Son of Abraham.

This determines the purpose and structure of Matthew. It is peculiarly the Gospel for Israel; and, as flowing from the death of Christ, a Gospel for the whole world.

Matthew falls into three principal divisions:

I. The manifestation to Israel and rejection of Jesus Christ the Son of David, born King of the Jews, i. 1-xxv. 46. The subdivisions of this part are: (1) The official genealogy and birth of the King, i. 1-25; (2) the infancy and obscurity of the King, ii. 1-23; (3) the kingdom "at hand," iii. 1-xii. 50 (the order of events of this subdivision is indicated in the text); (4) the mysteries of the kingdom, xiii. 1-52; (5) the ministry of the rejected King, xiii. 53-xxiii. 39; (6) the promise of the King to return in power and glory, xxiv. 1-xxv. 46.

II. The sacrifice and resurrection of Jesus Christ, the Son of Abraham, xxvi. 1-xxviii. 8.

III. The risen Lord in ministry to His own, xxviii. 9-20.

CHAPTER 2.

Visit of the Magi.

NOW when Jesus was [k]born in Bethlehem of Judæa in the days of [4]Herod the king, behold, there

[1] Six Marys are to be distinguished in the N.T.: (1) Mary the mother of Jesus; always clearly identified by the context. (2) Mary Magdalene, a woman of Magdala, "out of whom went seven demons" (Lk. viii. 2). She is never mentioned apart from the identifying word "Magdalene." (3) The mother of James (called "the less," Mk. xv. 40), and Joses, the apostles. A comparison of John xix. 25, Mt. xxvii. 56, and Mk. xv. 40 establishes the inference that this Mary, the mother of James the less, and of Joses, was the wife of Alphæus (called also Cleophas, John xix. 25), and a sister of Mary the mother of Jesus. Except in Mt. xxvii. 61, and xxviii. 1, where she is called "the other Mary" (i.e. "other" than her sister, Mary the Virgin); and John xix. 25, where she is called "of Cleophas," she is mentioned only in connection with one or both of her sons. (4) Mary of Bethany, sister of Martha and Lazarus, mentioned by name only in Lk. x. 39, 42; John xi. 1, 2, 19, 20, 28, 31, 32, 45; xii. 3, but referred to in Mt. xxvi. 7; Mk. xiv. 3-9. (5) The mother of John Mark, and sister of Barnabas (Acts xii. 12). (6) A helper of Paul in Rome (Rom. xvi. 6).

[2] The changed expression here is important. It is no longer, "who begat," but, "Mary, of whom was born Jesus." Jesus was not "begotten" of natural generation.

[3] Christ (Christos = anointed), the Greek form of the Hebrew "Messiah" (Dan. ix. 25, 26), is the official name of our Lord, as Jesus is His human name (Lk. i. 31; ii. 21). The name, or title, "Christ," connects Him with the entire O.T. foreview (Zech. xii. 8, note) of a coming Prophet (Deut. xviii. 15-19), Priest (Psa. cx. 4), and King (2 Sam. vii. 7-10). As these were typically anointed with oil (1 Ki. xix. 16; Ex. xxix. 7; 1 Sam. xvi. 13), so Jesus was anointed with the Holy Spirit (Mt. iii. 16; Mk. i. 10, 11; Lk. iii. 21, 22; John i. 32, 33), thus becoming officially "the Christ."

[4] Called Herod the Great, son of Antipater, an Idumean (see Gen. xxxvi. 1, note), and Cypros, an Arabian woman. Antipater was appointed Procurator of Judæa by Julius Cæsar, B.C. 47. At the age of fifteen Herod was appointed to the government of Galilee. B.C. 40 the Roman senate made him king of Judæa. An able, strong, and cruel man, he increased greatly the splendour of Jerusalem, erecting the temple which was the centre of Jewish worship in the time of our Lord.

came wise men from the east to Jerusalem,

2 Saying, Where is he that is born [1][a]King of the Jews? for we have seen his star in the east, and are come to worship him.

3 When Herod the king had heard these things, he was troubled, and all Jerusalem with him.

4 And when he had gathered all the chief priests and [2]scribes of the people together, he demanded of them where [b]Christ should be born.

5 And they said unto him, In Bethlehem of Judæa: [c]for thus it is written by the prophet,

6 And thou Bethlehem, in the land of Juda, art not the least among the princes of Juda: for out of thee shall come a Governor, that shall [d]rule my people Israel.

7 Then Herod, when he had privily called the wise men, enquired of them diligently what time the [e]star appeared.

8 And he sent them to Bethlehem, and said, Go and search diligently for the young child; and when ye have found him, bring me word again, that I may come and worship him also.

9 When they had heard the king, they departed; and, lo, the star, which they saw in the east, went before them, till it came and stood over where the young child was.

10 When they saw the star, they rejoiced with exceeding great joy.

11 And when they were come into the house, they saw the young child with Mary his mother, and fell down, and worshipped him: and when they had opened their treasures, they presented unto him gifts; gold, and frankincense, and myrrh.

12 And being warned of God in a dream that they should not return to Herod, they departed into their own country another way.

13 And when they were departed, behold, [f]the angel of the Lord appeareth to Joseph in a dream, saying, Arise, and take the young child and his mother, and flee into Egypt, and be thou there until I bring thee word: for Herod will seek the young child to destroy him.

14 When he arose, he took the young child and his mother by night, and departed into Egypt:

15 And was there until the death of Herod: that it might be fulfilled which was spoken [g]of the Lord by the prophet, saying, [2]Out of [h]Egypt have I called my son.

Herod's slaughter of the innocents.

16 Then Herod, when he saw that he was mocked of the wise men, was exceeding wroth, and sent forth, and slew all the children that were in Bethlehem, and in all the coasts thereof, from two years old and under, according to the time which he had diligently enquired of the wise men.

17 Then was fulfilled that which

[1] "The King" is one of the divine titles (Psa. x. 16), and so used in the worship of the Church (1 Tim. i. 17), but Christ is never called "King of the Church." He is "King of the Jews" (Mt. ii. 2) and Lord and "Head of the Church" (Eph. i. 22, 23). See "Church" (Mt. xvi. 18; Heb. xii. 23).

[2] Gr. grammateis, "writer." Heb. sopherim, "to write," "set in order," "count." The scribes were so called because it was their office to make copies of the Scriptures; to classify and teach the precepts of the oral law (see "Pharisees," Mt. iii. 7, note), and to keep careful count of every letter in the O.T. writings. Such an office was necessary in a religion of law and precept, and was an O.T. function (2 Sam. viii. 17; xx. 25; 1 Ki. iv. 3; Jer. viii. 8; xxxvi. 10, 12, 26). To this legitimate work the scribes added a record of rabbinical decisions on questions of ritual (Halachoth); the new code resulting from those decisions (Mishna); the Hebrew sacred legends (Gemara, forming with the Mishna the Talmud); commentaries on the O.T. (Midrashim); reasonings upon these (Hagada); and, finally, mystical interpretations which found in Scripture meanings other than the grammatical, lexical, and obvious ones (the Kabbala); not unlike the allegorical method of Origen, or the modern Protestant "spiritualizing" interpretation. In our Lord's time, to receive this mass of writing superposed upon the Scriptures was to be orthodox; to return to the Scriptures themselves was heterodoxy—our Lord's most serious offence.

[2] The words quoted are in Hos. xi. 1, and the passage illustrates the truth that prophetic utterances often have a latent and deeper meaning than at first appears. Israel, nationally, was a "son" (Ex. iv. 22), but Christ was the greater "Son." See Rom. ix. 4, 5; Isa. xli. 8, with Isa. xlii. 1-4; lii. 13, 14, where the servant-nation and the Servant-Son are both in view.

CHAPTER 3.

Ministry of John the Baptist (Mk. 1. 3–8; Lk. 3. 2–17; John 1. 6–8, 19–28).

IN those days came John the Baptist, preaching in the wilderness of Judæa,

2 And [d]saying, [e]Repent ye: for [f]the [1]kingdom of heaven is [g]at hand.

3 For this is he that was spoken of by the prophet Esaias, saying, The voice of one crying in the wilderness, Prepare ye the way of the [h]Lord, make his paths straight.

4 And the same John had his raiment of camel's hair, and a leathern girdle about his loins; and his meat was locusts and wild honey.

5 Then went out to him Jerusalem, and all Judæa, and all the region round about Jordan,

6 And were baptized of him in Jordan, confessing their [i]sins.

7 But when he saw many of the [2]Pharisees and [3]Sadducees come to

[1] (1) The phrase, kingdom of heaven (lit. of the heavens), is peculiar to Matthew and signifies the Messianic earth rule of Jesus Christ, the Son of David. It is called the kingdom of the heavens because it is the rule of the heavens over the earth (Mt. vi. 10). The phrase is derived from Daniel, where it is defined (Dan. ii. 34–36, 44; vii. 23–27) as the kingdom which "the God of heaven" will set up after the destruction by "the stone cut out without hands" of the Gentile world-system. It is the kingdom covenanted to David's seed (2 Sam. vii. 7–10, refs.); described in the prophets (Zech. xii. 8, note); and confirmed to Jesus the Christ, the Son of Mary, through the angel Gabriel (Lk. i. 32, 33).

(2) The kingdom of heaven has three aspects in Matthew: (a) "at hand" from the beginning of the ministry of John the Baptist (Mt. iii. 2) to the virtual rejection of the King, and the announcement of the new brotherhood (Mt. xii. 46–50); (b) in seven "mysteries of the kingdom of heaven," to be fulfilled during the present age (Mt. xiii. 1–52), to which are to be added the parables of the kingdom of heaven which were spoken after those of Mt. xiii., and which have to do with the sphere of Christian profession during this age; (c) the prophetic aspect—the kingdom to be set up after the return of the King in glory (Mt. xxiv. 29–xxv. 46; Lk. xix. 12–19; Acts xv. 14–17). See "Kingdom (N.T.)" (Lk. i. 33; 1 Cor. xv. 28). Cf. "Kingdom of God," Mt. vi. 33, note.

[2] So called from a Heb. word meaning "separate." After the ministry of the post-exilic prophets ceased, godly men called "Chasidim" (saints) arose who sought to keep alive reverence for the law amongst the descendants of the Jews who returned from the Babylonian captivity. This movement degenerated into the Pharisaism of our Lord's day—a letter-strictness which overlaid the law with traditional interpretations held to have been communicated by Jehovah to Moses as oral explanations of equal authority with the law itself (cf. Mt. xv. 2, 3; Mk. vii. 8–13; Gal. 1. 14).

The Pharisees were strictly a sect. A member was "chaber" (i.e. "knit together," Jud. xx. 11), and took an obligation to remain true to the principles of Pharisaism. They were correct, moral, zealous, and self-denying, but self-righteous (Lk. xviii. 9), and destitute of the sense of sin and need (Lk. vii. 39). They were the foremost persecutors of Jesus Christ and the objects of His unsparing denunciation (e.g. Mt. xxiii. 13–29; Lk. xi. 42, 43).

[3] Not strictly a sect, but rather those amongst the Jews who denied the existence his baptism, he said unto them, O [a]generation of vipers, who hath warned you to flee from the wrath to come?

8 Bring forth therefore fruits meet for [b]repentance:

9 And think not to say within yourselves, We have Abraham to our father: for I say unto you, that God is able of these stones to raise up children unto Abraham.

10 And now also the axe is laid unto the root of the trees: therefore every tree which bringeth not forth good fruit is hewn down, and cast into the fire.

11 I indeed baptize you with water unto repentance: but he that cometh after me is mightier than I, whose shoes I am not worthy to bear: he shall baptize you with the [c]Holy Ghost, and with fire:

12 Whose fan is in his hand, and he will throughly purge his floor, and gather his wheat into the garner; but he will burn up the chaff with unquenchable fire.

Baptism of Jesus (Mk. 1. 9-11; Lk. 3. 21, 22; cf. John 1. 31-34).

13 Then cometh Jesus from Galilee to Jordan unto John, to be baptized of him.

14 But John [d]forbad him, saying, I have need to be baptized of thee, and comest thou to me?

15 And Jesus answering said unto him, [1]Suffer it to be so now: for thus it becometh us to fulfil all [e]righteousness. Then he suffered him.

16 And [2]Jesus, when he was baptized, went up straightway out of the water: and, lo, the heavens were opened unto him, and he saw the Spirit of God descending like a dove, and lighting upon him:

17 And lo a voice from heaven, saying, [f]This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased.

CHAPTER 4.

The temptation of Jesus (Mk. 1. 12, 13; Lk. 4. 1-13; cf. Gen. 3. 6).

[3]THEN was Jesus led up of the [g]spirit into the wilderness to be [h]tempted of the [i]devil.

2 And when he had fasted forty days and forty nights, he was afterward an hungred.

3 And when the tempter came to him, he said, If thou be the Son of God, command that these stones be made bread.

4 But he answered and said, It is written, [j]Man shall not live by bread alone, but by [k]every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of [l]God.

of angels or other spirits, and all miracle, especially the resurrection. They were the religious rationalists of the time (Mk. xii. 18-23; Acts v. 15-17; xxiii. 8), and strongly entrenched in the Sanhedrin and priesthood (Acts iv. 1; v. 17). They are identified with no affirmative doctrine, but were mere deniers of the supernatural.

[1]Why one who needed no repentance should insist upon receiving a rite which signified confession (v. 6) and repentance (v. 11) is nowhere directly explained. It may be suggested: (1) That Jesus was now to receive His anointing with the Holy Spirit (v. 16) unto His threefold office of Prophet, Priest, and King. In the Levitical order (Ex. xxix. 4-7) the high priest was first washed, then anointed. While Christ's priestly work did not begin till He "offered Himself without spot to God" (Heb. ix. 14), and His full manifestation as the King-Priest after the order of Melchisedek awaits the kingdom (Gen. xiv. 18, note), yet He was then anointed, once for all. (2) But John's baptism was the voice of God to Israel, and the believing remnant responded (v. 5). It was an act of righteousness on the part of Him who had become, as to the flesh, an Israelite, to take His place with this believing remnant.

[2]For the first time the Trinity, foreshadowed in many ways in the O.T., is fully manifested. The Spirit descends upon the Son, and at the same moment the Father's voice is heard from heaven.

[3]The temptation of Christ, the "last Adam" (1 Cor. xv. 45), is best understood when contrasted with that of "the first man Adam." Adam was tempted in his place of lord of creation, a lordship with but one reservation, the knowledge of good and evil (Gen. i. 26; ii. 16, 17). Through the woman he was tempted to add that also to his dominion. Falling, he lost all. But Christ had taken the place of a lowly Servant, acting only from and in obedience to the Father (Phil. ii. 5-8; John v. 19; vi. 57; viii. 28, 54. Cf. Isa. xli. 8, note), that He might redeem a fallen race and a creation under the curse (Gen. iii. 17-19; Rom. viii. 19-23). Satan's one object in the threefold temptation was to induce Christ to act from Himself, in inde-

7 Jesus said unto him, It is written again, Thou shalt not tempt the [d]Lord thy God.

8 Again, the devil taketh him up into an exceeding high mountain, and sheweth him all the kingdoms of the [2]world, and the glory of them;

9 And saith unto him, All these things will I give thee, if thou wilt fall down and worship me.

pendency of His Father. The first two temptations were a challenge to Christ from the god of this world to prove Himself indeed the Son of God (vs. 3, 6). The third was the offer of the usurping prince of this world to divest himself of that which rightfully belonged to Christ as Son of man and Son of David, on the condition that He accept the scepter on Satan's world-principles (cf. John xviii. 36; Rev. xiii. 8, note). Christ defeated Satan by a means open to His humblest follower, the intelligent use of the word of God (vs. 4, 7). In his second temptation Satan also used Scripture, but a promise available only to one in the path of obedience. The scene gives emphasis to the vital importance of "rightly dividing the word of truth" (2 Tim ii. 15).

[1]In the N.T. one Greek word, hagios, in its various forms, is rendered, "holy," "holiness," "sanctify," "sanctified," "sanctification." Like the Heb. qodesh, it signifies "set apart for God." The important references follow Mt. iv. 5, marg.

[2]The Greek word kosmos means "order," "arrangement," and so, with the Greeks, "beauty"; for order and arrangement in the sense of system are at the bottom of the Greek conception of beauty.

When used in the N.T. of humanity, the "world" of men, it is organized humanity—humanity in families, tribes, nations—which is meant. The word for chaotic, unorganized humanity—the mere mass of men—is thalassa, the "sea" of men (e.g. Rev. xiii. 1). For "world" (kosmos) in the bad ethical sense, see John vii. 7, refs.

[3]"At hand" is never a positive affirmation that the person or thing said to be "at hand" will immediately appear, but only that no known or predicted event must intervene. When Christ appeared to the Jewish people, the next thing, in the order of revelation as it then stood, should have been the setting up of the Davidic kingdom. In the knowledge of God, not yet disclosed, lay the rejection of the kingdom (and King), the long period of the mystery-form of the kingdom, the world-wide preaching of the cross, and the out-calling of the Church. But this was as yet locked up in the secret counsels of God (Mt. xiii. 11, 17; Eph. iii. 3-10).

saw other two brethren, [1]James the son of Zebedee, and John his brother, in a [a]ship with Zebedee their father, mending their nets; and he called them.

22 And they immediately left the ship and their father, and followed him.

23 And Jesus went about all Galilee, teaching in their synagogues, and preaching the [b]gospel of the [c]kingdom, and healing all manner of sickness and all manner of disease among the people.

24 And his fame went throughout all Syria: and they [d]brought unto him all sick people that were taken with divers diseases and torments, and those which were [e]possessed with devils, and those which were lunatick, and those that had the palsy; and he healed them.

25 And there followed him great [f]multitudes of people from Galilee, and from Decapolis, and from Jerusalem, and from Judæa, and from beyond Jordan.

AND seeing the multitudes, he [g]went up into a mountain: and when he was set, his disciples came unto him:

2 [2]And he opened his mouth, and taught them, [h]saying,

3 [i]Blessed are the poor in spirit: for their's is the kingdom of heaven.

4 Blessed are they that mourn: for they shall be comforted.

5 Blessed are the meek: for they shall inherit the earth.

6 Blessed are they which do [j]hunger and thirst after righteousness: for they shall be filled.

7 Blessed are the merciful: for they shall obtain mercy.

8 Blessed are the pure in heart: for they shall see God.

9 Blessed are the peacemakers: for they shall be called the children of God.

10 Blessed are they which are persecuted for righteousness' sake: for their's is the [k]kingdom of heaven.

11 Blessed are ye, when men shall revile you, and persecute you, and shall say all manner of evil against you falsely, for my sake.

12 Rejoice, and be exceeding glad: for great is your [l]reward in heaven: for so persecuted they the prophets which were before you.

[1] Two persons are called by this name in the N.T.: (1) James the son of Zebedee, an apostle (Mt. x. 2), and the brother of the Apostle John, apart from whom he is never mentioned, and with whom, together with Peter, he was admitted to the especial intimacy of our Lord (Mt. xvii. 1; Mk. v. 37; ix. 2; xiv. 33). He was martyred by Herod (Acts xii. 2). (2) A son of Alphæus (or Cleopas) and of Mary the sister of Mary the mother of Jesus (see Mt. i. 16, note), and brother of Joses (Mk. xv. 40). He was, therefore, a cousin of the Lord Jesus. He is called James "the less" (Mk. xv. 40; lit. little, i.e. of shorter stature than James the son of Zebedee). He was an apostle (Mt. x. 3). It has been conjectured that "Lebbæus, whose surname was Thaddæus" (Mt. x. 3) was identical with the Judas of Lk. vi. 16, who is there called "of [i.e. 'son' or 'brother' as it has been variously translated] James." A Juda is mentioned with a James and Joses and Simon in Mk. vi. 3 as "brother" of our Lord (see Mt. xiii. 55, marg.). The Gospels mention no other James who could be called the brother of the Lord Jesus, but James the less was certainly the son of Alphæus, and Mary the sister of our Lord's mother. The conclusion seems, therefore, most probable that Mt. x. 3; xiii. 55; Mk. iii. 18; vi. 3; Lk. vi. 15; Acts i. 13; xii. 17; xv. 13; xxi. 18; Gal. i. 19; ii. 9, 12; and Jas. i. 1 refer to James the less, son of Alphæus and Mary, and cousin, or, according to Jewish usage, "brother" of the Lord Jesus. He was the author of the Epistle of James.

[2] Having announced the kingdom of heaven as "at hand," the King, in Mt. v.–vii., declares the principles of the kingdom. The Sermon on the Mount has a twofold application: (1) Literally to the kingdom. In this sense it gives the divine constitution for the righteous government of the earth.

candlestick; and it giveth light unto all that are in the house.

16 Let your light so shine before men, that they may see your good works, and glorify your Father which is in heaven.

Relation of Christ to the law.

17 Think not that I am come to destroy the law, or the prophets: I am not come to destroy, but to fulfil.

18 For verily I say unto you, Till heaven and earth pass, [a]one jot or one tittle shall in no wise pass from [b]the law, till all be fulfilled.

19 Whosoever therefore shall break one of these least commandments, and shall teach men so, he shall be called the least in the kingdom of heaven: but whosoever shall do and teach them, the same shall be called great in the kingdom of heaven.

20 For I say unto you, That except your righteousness shall [c]exceed the [d]righteousness of the scribes and Pharisees, ye shall in no case enter into the kingdom of heaven.

21 Ye have heard that it was said by them of old time, [e]Thou shalt not kill; and whosoever shall kill shall be in danger of the judgment:

22 But I say unto you, That whosoever is angry with his brother without a cause shall be in danger of the judgment: and whosoever shall say to his brother, Raca, shall be in danger of the council: but whosoever shall say, Thou fool, shall be in danger of [2]hell fire.

23 Therefore if thou bring thy gift to the altar, and there rememberest that thy brother hath ought against thee;

24 Leave there thy gift before the altar, and go thy way; first be rec-

[d] Righteousness. vs. 6, 10, 20; Rom. 10. 10, note.

[e] Ex. 20. 13.

Whenever the kingdom of heaven is established on earth it will be according to that constitution, which may be regarded as an explanation of the word "righteousness" as used by the prophets in describing the kingdom (e.g. Isa. xi. 4, 5; xxxii. 1; Dan. ix. 24). In this sense the Sermon on the Mount is pure law, and transfers the offence from the overt act to the motive (Mt. v. 21, 22, 27, 28). Here lies the deeper reason why the Jews rejected the kingdom. They had reduced "righteousness" to mere ceremonialism, and the Old Testament idea of the kingdom to a mere affair of outward splendour and power. They were never rebuked for expecting a visible and powerful kingdom, but the words of the prophets should have prepared them to expect also that only the poor in spirit and the meek could share in it (e.g. Isa. xi. 4). The seventy-second Psalm, which was universally received by them as a description of the kingdom, was full of this. For these reasons the Sermon on the Mount in its primary application gives neither the privilege nor the duty of the Church. These are found in the Epistles. Under the law of the kingdom, for example, no one may hope for forgiveness who has not first forgiven (Mt. vi. 12, 14, 15). Under grace the Christian is exhorted to forgive because he is already forgiven (Eph. iv. 30–32).

(2) But there is a beautiful moral application to the Christian. It always remains true that the poor in spirit, rather than the proud, are blessed, and those who mourn because of their sins, and who are meek in the consciousness of them, will hunger and thirst after righteousness, and hungering will be filled. The merciful are "blessed," the pure in heart do "see God." These principles fundamentally reappear in the teaching of the Epistles.

[1] Christ's relation to the law of Moses may be thus summarized: (1) He was made under the law (Gal. iv. 4); (2) He lived in perfect obedience to the law (John viii. 46; Mt. xvii. 5; 1 Pet. ii. 21–23); (3) He was a minister of the law to the Jews, clearing it from rabbinical sophistries, enforcing it in all its pitiless severity upon those who professed to obey it (e.g. Lk. x. 25–37), but confirming the promises made to the fathers under the Mosaic Covenant (Rom. xv. 8); (4) He fulfilled the types of the law by His holy life and sacrificial death (Heb. ix. 11–26); (5) He bore, vicariously, the curse of the law that the Abrahamic Covenant might avail all who believe (Gal. iii. 13, 14); (6) He brought out by His redemption all who believe from the place of servants under the law into the place of sons (Gal. iv. 1–7); (7) He mediated by His blood the New Covenant of assurance and grace in which all believers stand (Rom. v. 2; Heb. viii. 6–13), so establishing the "law of Christ" (Gal. vi. 2; refs.) with its precepts of higher exaltation made possible by the indwelling Spirit.

[2] Gr. Geenna = Gehenna, the place in the valley of Hinnom where, anciently, human sacrifices were offered (2 Chr. xxxiii. 6; Jer. vii. 31). The word occurs, Mt. v. 22, 29, 30; x. 28; xviii. 9; xxiii. 15, 33; Mk. ix. 43, 45, 47; Lk. xii. 5; Jas. iii. 6.

onciled to thy brother, and then come and offer thy gift.

25 Agree with thine [a]adversary quickly, whiles thou art in the way with him; lest at any time the adversary deliver thee to the judge, and the judge deliver thee to the officer, and thou be cast into prison.

26 Verily I say unto thee, Thou shalt by no means come out thence, till thou hast [b]paid the uttermost [c]farthing.

27 Ye have heard that it was said by them of old time, [d]Thou shalt not commit adultery:

28 But I say unto you, That whosoever [e]looketh on a woman to lust after her hath committed adultery with her already in his heart.

29 And if thy right eye [f]offend thee, pluck it out, and cast it from thee: for it is profitable for thee that one of thy members should perish, and not that thy whole body should be cast into hell.

30 And if thy right hand [f]offend thee, cut it off, and cast it from thee: for it is profitable for thee that one of thy members should perish, and not that thy whole body should be cast into hell.

Jesus and divorce. (Cf. Mt. 19. 3-11; Mk. 10. 2-12; 1 Cor. 7. 10-15.)

31 It hath been said, Whosoever shall put away his wife, let him give her a [g]writing of divorcement:

32 But I say unto you, That whosoever shall put away his wife, saving for the cause of fornication, [h]causeth her to commit adultery: and whosoever shall marry her that is divorced committeth adultery.

33 Again, ye have heard that it hath been said by them of old time, [i]Thou shalt not forswear thyself, but shalt perform unto the [j]Lord thine oaths:

34 But I say unto you, [k]Swear not at all; neither by heaven; for it is God's throne:

35 Nor by the earth; for it is his footstool: neither by Jerusalem; for it is the city [l]of the [m]great King.

36 Neither shalt thou swear by thy head, because thou canst not make one hair white or black.

37 But let your communication be, Yea, yea; Nay, nay: for whatsoever is more than these cometh of [n]evil.

38 Ye have heard that it hath been said, An [o]eye for an eye, and a tooth for a tooth:

39 But I say unto you, That ye resist not evil: but whosoever shall smite thee on thy right cheek, turn to him the other also.

40 And if any man will sue thee at the law, and take away thy coat, let him have thy cloke also.

41 And whosoever shall compel thee to go a mile, go with him twain.

42 [p]Give to him that asketh thee, and from him that would borrow of thee turn not thou away.

43 Ye have heard that it hath been said, [q]Thou shalt love thy neighbour, and hate thine enemy.

44 But I say unto you, Love your enemies, [r]bless them that curse you, do good to them that hate you, and pray for them which despitefully use you, and persecute you;

45 That ye may be the children of your Father which is in heaven: for he [s]maketh his sun to rise on the evil and on the good, and sendeth rain on the just and on the unjust.

46 For if ye love them which love you, what reward have ye? do not even the [t]publicans the same?

47 And if ye salute your brethren only, what do ye more than others? do not even the publicans so?

48 Be ye therefore [1]perfect, even as your Father which is in heaven is perfect.

[v] Rewards. vs. 1-4; Mt. 10. 41, 42. (Dan. 12. 3; 1 Cor. 3. 14.)

In every instance except the last the word comes from the lips of Jesus Christ in most solemn warning of the consequences of sin. He describes it as the place where "their" worm never dies and of fire never to be quenched. The expression is identical in meaning with "lake of fire" (Rev. xix. 20; xx. 10, 14, 15). See "Death, the second" (John viii. 24; Rev. xxi. 8); also Lk. xvi. 23, note.

[1] The word implies full development, growth into maturity of godliness, not sinless perfection. See Eph. iv. 12, 13. In this passage the Father's kindness, not His sinlessness, is the point in question. Cf. Lk. vi. 35, 36.

2 Therefore when thou doest thine alms, do not sound a trumpet before thee, as the hypocrites do in the synagogues and in the streets, that they may have glory of men. Verily I say unto you, They have their [a]reward.

3 But when thou doest alms, let not thy [b]left hand know what thy right hand doeth:

4 That thine alms may be in secret: and thy [c]Father which seeth in secret himself shall reward thee openly.

5 And when thou prayest, thou shalt not be as the hypocrites are: for they love to pray standing in the synagogues and in the corners of the streets, that they may be seen of men. Verily I say unto you, They have their [a]reward.

6 But thou, when thou [c]prayest, enter into thy closet, and when thou hast shut thy door, pray to thy Father which is in secret; and thy Father which seeth in secret shall reward thee openly.

7 But when ye pray, use not [f]vain repetitions, as the [g]heathen do: for they think that they shall be heard for their much speaking.

The new revelation concerning prayer. (See Lk. II. 1–13, note.)

8 Be not ye therefore like unto them: for your Father [h]knoweth what things ye have need of, before ye ask him.

9 After this [i]manner therefore [j]pray ye: [k]Our Father which art in heaven, Hallowed be thy [l]name.

10 Thy [m]kingdom [n]come. Thy will be done in earth, as it is in heaven.

11 Give us this day our daily bread.

12 And [o]forgive us our [p]debts, as [1]we forgive our debtors.

13 And lead us not into [q]temptation, but deliver us from evil: For thine is the kingdom, and the power, and the glory, for ever. Amen.

14 For if ye forgive men their trespasses, your heavenly Father will also forgive you:

15 But if ye forgive not men their trespasses, neither [r]will your Father forgive your trespasses.

Externalism again rebuked.

16 Moreover when ye [s]fast, be not, as the hypocrites, of a sad countenance: for they disfigure their faces, that they may appear unto men to fast. Verily I say unto you, They have their [a]reward.

17 But thou, when thou fastest, [t]anoint thine head, and wash thy face;

18 That thou appear not unto men to fast, but unto thy Father which is in secret: and thy Father, which seeth in secret, shall reward thee openly.

The kingdom law of riches.

19 Lay not up for yourselves [u]treasures upon earth, where moth and rust doth corrupt, and where thieves break through and steal:

20 But lay up for yourselves treasures in heaven, where neither moth nor rust doth corrupt, and where thieves do not break through nor steal:

21 For where your treasure is, there will your heart be also.

22 The [v]light of the body is the eye: if therefore thine eye be single, thy whole body shall be full of light.

23 But if thine eye be evil, thy whole body shall be full of darkness. If therefore the light that is in thee be darkness, how great is that darkness!

24 No man can serve [w]two masters: for either he will hate the one, and love the other; or else he will hold to the one, and despise the other. Ye cannot serve God and mammon.

The cure of anxiety: trust in the Father's care.

25 Therefore I say unto you, [x]Take no thought for your life, what ye shall eat, or what ye shall drink; nor yet for your body, what ye shall put on. Is not the life more than meat, and the body than raiment?

26 Behold the fowls of the air: for they sow not, neither do they reap, nor gather into barns; yet your heavenly Father feedeth them. Are ye not much better than they?

[1] The kingdom of God is to be distinguished from the kingdom of heaven (Mt. iii. 2, note) in five respects: (1) The kingdom of God is universal, including all moral intelligences willingly subject to the will of God, whether angels, the Church, or saints of past or future dispensations (Lk. xiii. 28, 29; Heb. xii. 22, 23); while the kingdom of heaven is Messianic, mediatorial, and Davidic, and has for its object the establishment of the kingdom of God in the earth (Mt. iii. 2, note; 1 Cor. xv. 24, 25). (2) The kingdom of God is entered only by the new birth (John iii. 3, 5-7); the kingdom of heaven, during this age, is the sphere of a profession which may be real or false (Mt. xiii. 3, note; xxv. 1, 11, 12). (3) Since the kingdom of heaven is the earthly sphere of the universal kingdom of God, the two have almost all things in common. For this reason many parables and other teachings are spoken of the kingdom of heaven in Matthew, and of the kingdom of God in Mark and Luke. It is the omissions which are significant. The parables of the wheat and tares, and of the net (Mt. xiii. 24-30, 36-43, 47-50) are not spoken of the kingdom of God. In that kingdom there are neither tares nor bad fish. But the parable of the leaven (Mt. xiii. 33) is spoken of the kingdom of God also, for, alas, even the true doctrines of the kingdom are leavened with the errors of which the Pharisees, Sadducees, and the Herodians were the representatives. (See Mt. xiii. 33, note.) (4) The kingdom of God "comes not with outward show" (Lk. xvii. 20), but is chiefly that which is inward and spiritual (Rom. xiv. 17); while the kingdom of heaven is organic, and is to be manifested in glory on the earth. (See "Kingdom (O.T.)," Zech. xii. 8, note; (N.T.), Lk. i. 31-33; 1 Cor. xv. 24, note; Mt. xvii. 2, note.) (5) The kingdom of heaven merges into the kingdom of God when Christ, having "put all enemies under His feet," "shall have delivered up the kingdom to God, even the Father" (1 Cor. xv. 24-28). Cf. Mt. iii. 2, note.

Summary of O.T. righteousness.

12 Therefore all things [a]whatsoever ye would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them: for this is the law and the prophets.

The two ways. (Cf. Psa. 1.)

13 Enter ye in at the [b]strait gate: for wide is the gate, and broad is the way, that leadeth to destruction, and many there be which go in thereat:

14 Because strait is the gate, and narrow is the way, which leadeth unto [c]life, and few there be that find it.

Warning against false teachers: the test.

15 Beware of [d]false prophets, which come to you in sheep's clothing, but inwardly they are ravening wolves.

16 Ye shall know them by their fruits. Do men gather grapes of thorns, or figs of thistles?

17 Even so every good tree bringeth forth good fruit; but a corrupt tree bringeth forth evil fruit.

18 A good tree cannot bring forth evil fruit, neither can a corrupt tree bring forth good fruit.

19 Every tree that bringeth not forth good fruit is [e]hewn down, and cast into the fire.

20 Wherefore by their fruits ye shall know them.

The danger of profession without faith.

21 Not every one that [f]saith unto me, Lord, Lord, shall enter into the [g]kingdom of heaven; but he that doeth the will of my Father which is in heaven.

22 Many will say to me in that day, Lord, Lord, have we not prophesied in thy name? and in thy name have cast out [1][h]devils? and in thy name done many wonderful works?

23 And then will I profess unto them, I never knew you: [i]depart from me, ye that [j]work [k]iniquity.

The two foundations. (Cf. Lk. 6. 47-49.)

24 Therefore whosoever heareth these sayings of mine, and doeth them, I will [l]liken him unto a wise man, which built his house upon a [m]rock:

25 And the rain descended, and the floods came, and the winds blew, and beat upon that house; and it fell not: for it was founded upon a rock.

26 And every one that heareth these sayings of mine, and doeth them not, shall be likened unto a foolish man, which built his house upon the sand:

27 And the rain descended, and the floods came, and the winds blew,

[1] Devils, lit. demons. To the reality and personality of demons the N.T. Scriptures bear abundant testimony. As to their origin nothing is clearly revealed, but they are not to be confounded with the angels mentioned in 2 Pet. ii. 4; Jude 6. Summary: Demons are spirits (Mt. xii. 43, 45); are Satan's emissaries (Mt. xii. 26, 27; xxv. 41); and so numerous as to make Satan's power practically ubiquitous (Mk. v. 9). They are capable of entering and controlling both men and beasts (Mk. v. 8, 11-13), and earnestly seek embodiment, without which, apparently, they are powerless for evil (Mt. xii. 43, 44; Mk. v. 10-12). Demon influence and demon possession are discriminated in the N.T. Instances of the latter are Mt. iv. 24; viii. 16, 28, 33; ix. 32; xii. 22; Mk. i. 32; v. 15, 16, 18; Lk. viii. 36; Acts viii. 7; xvi. 16. They are unclean, sullen, violent, and malicious (Mt. viii. 28; ix. 33; x. 1; xii. 43; Mk. i. 23; v. 3-5; ix. 17, 20; Lk. vi. 18; ix. 39). They know Jesus Christ as Most High God, and recognize His supreme authority (Mt. viii. 31, 32; Mk. i. 24; Acts xix. 15; Jas. ii. 19). They know their eternal fate to be one of torment (Mt. viii. 29; Lk. viii. 31). They inflict physical maladies (Mt. xii. 22; xvii. 15-18; Lk. xiii. 16), but mental disease is to be distinguished from the disorder of mind due to demoniacal control. Demon influence may manifest itself in religious asceticism and formalism (1 Tim. iv. 1-3), degenerating into uncleanness (2 Pet. ii. 10-12). The sign of demon influence in religion is departing from the faith, i.e. the body of revealed truth in the Scriptures (1 Tim. iv. 1). The demons maintain especially a conflict with believers who would be spiritual (Eph. vi. 12; 1 Tim. iv. 1-3). All unbelievers are open to demon possession (Eph. ii. 2). The believer's resources are, prayer and bodily control (Mt. xvii. 21), "the whole armour of God" (Eph. vi. 13-18). Exorcism in the name of Jesus Christ (Acts xvi. 18) was practised for demon possession. One of the awful features of the apocalyptic judgments in which this age will end is an irruption of demons out of the abyss (Rev. ix. 1-11).

and beat upon that house; and it fell: and great was the fall of it.

28 And it came to pass, when Jesus had ended these sayings, the people were [a]astonished at his [b]doctrine:

29 For he taught them as one having authority, and not as the scribes.

CHAPTER 8.

Jesus heals a leper (Mk. 1. 40; Lk. 5. 12-14).

WHEN he was come down from the mountain, great multitudes followed him.

2 And, [1]behold, there came a [c]leper and worshipped him, [d]saying, [2]Lord, if thou wilt, thou canst make me clean.

3 And Jesus put forth his hand, and touched him, saying, I will; be thou clean. And immediately his [c]leprosy was cleansed.

4 And Jesus saith unto] him, See thou tell no man; but go thy way, shew thyself to the priest, and offer the [f]gift that Moses commanded, for a testimony unto them.

Jesus heals the centurion's servant (Lk. 7. 1-10).

5 And when Jesus was entered into Capernaum, there came unto him a [g]centurion, beseeching him,

6 And saying, Lord, my servant lieth at home sick of the palsy, grievously tormented.

7 And Jesus saith unto him, I will come and heal him.

8 The centurion answered and said, Lord, I am not worthy that thou shouldest come under my roof: but speak the word only, and my servant shall be healed.

9 For I am a man under [h]authority, having soldiers under me: and I say to this man, Go, and he goeth; and to another, Come, and he cometh; and to my servant, Do this, and he doeth it.

10 When Jesus heard it, he marvelled, and said to them that followed, Verily I say unto you, I have not found so great [i]faith, no, not in Israel.

11 And I say unto you, That many shall come from the east and west, and shall sit down with Abraham, and Isaac, and Jacob, in the kingdom of [j]heaven.

12 But the children of the kingdom shall be cast out into outer darkness: there shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth.

13 And Jesus said unto the centurion, Go thy way; and [k]as thou hast believed, so be it done unto thee. And his servant was healed in the selfsame hour.

Jesus heals Peter's wife's mother (Mk. 1. 29-34; Lk. 4. 38-41).

14 And when Jesus was come into Peter's house, he saw his wife's mother laid, and sick of a fever.

15 And he [l]touched her hand, and the fever left her: and she arose, and [m]ministered unto [n]them.

16 When the even was come, they brought unto him many that were [o]possessed with devils: and he cast out the spirits with [p]his word, and healed all that were sick:

17 That it might be [q]fulfilled which was spoken by Esaias the prophet, [r]saying, Himself [s]took our infirmities, and bare our sicknesses.

18 Now when Jesus saw great multitudes about him, he gave commandment to depart unto the other side.

[2] Gr. kurios. The first occurrence of the word as applied to Jesus with His evident sanction. In itself the word means "master," and is so used of mere human relationships in, e.g., Mt. vi. 24; xv. 27; Mk. xiii. 35; Eph. vi. 9. Both uses, divine and human, are brought together in Col. iv. 1. It is the Gr. equivalent of the Heb. Adonai (see Gen. xv. 2, note), and is so used by Jesus Christ in Mt. xxii. 43-45. In the N.T. the distinctive uses of kurios (Lord) are: (1) As the N.T. translation of the Heb. Jehovah (LORD), e.g. Mt. i. 20, 22; ii. 15; iii. 3; iv. 7, 10; xi. 25; xxi. 9; Mk. xii. 29, 30; Lk. i. 68; ii. 9. (2) Jesus Himself so uses kurios, e.g. Mt. iv. 7, 10; xi. 25; Mk. xii. 11, etc. (3) But the great use of kurios is as the divine title of Jesus, the Christ. In this sense it occurs in the N.T. 663 times. That the intent is to identify Jesus Christ with the O.T. Deity is evident from Mt. iii. 3; xii. 8; xxi. 9 (Psa. cxviii. 26); xxii. 9-10; Lk. i. 43; John viii. 58; xiv. 8-10; xx. 28; Acts ix. 5; xiii. 33 (Psa. ii.). See John xx. 28, note.

Jesus stills the waves (Mk. 4. 36-41; Lk. 8. 22-25).

23 And when he was entered into a ship, his disciples followed him.

24 And, behold, there arose a great tempest in the sea, insomuch that the ship was covered with the waves: but he was asleep.

25 And his disciples came to him, and awoke him, [d]saying, Lord, save us: we perish.

26 And he saith unto them, Why are ye fearful, O ye of [e]little faith? Then he arose, and rebuked the winds and the sea; and there was a great calm.

27 But the men marvelled, saying, What manner of man is this, that even the winds and the sea obey him!

Jesus casts out demons at Gadara (Mk. 5. 1-21; Lk. 8. 26-40).

28 And when he was come to the other side into the country of the [f]Gergesenes, there met him two [g]possessed with [h]devils, coming out of the tombs, exceeding fierce, so that no man might pass by that way.

29 And, behold, they cried out, saying, [i]What have we to do with thee, Jesus, thou Son of God? art thou come hither to [j]torment us before the time?

30 And there was a good way off from them an herd of many swine feeding.

31 So the [k]devils besought him, saying, If thou cast us out, suffer us to go away into the [l]herd of swine.

32 And he said unto them, Go. And when they were come out, they went into the herd of swine: and, behold, the whole herd of swine ran violently down a steep place into the sea, and perished in the waters.

33 And they that kept them fled, and went their ways into the city, and told every thing, and what was befallen to the [g]possessed of the devils.

34 And, behold, the whole city came out to meet Jesus: and when they saw him, they besought him that he would [m]depart out of their coasts.

CHAPTER 9.

Jesus returns to Capernaum: heals the palsied man (Mk. 2. 3-12; Lk. 5. 18-26).

AND he entered into a ship, and passed over, and came into his [n]own city.

2 And, behold, they [o]brought to him a man sick of the palsy, lying on a bed: and Jesus seeing their [p]faith said unto the sick of the palsy; Son, be of good cheer; thy sins be [q]forgiven thee.

3 And, behold, certain of the scribes said within themselves, This man blasphemeth.

4 And Jesus knowing their thoughts said, Wherefore think ye evil in your hearts?

[1] Cf. Ezk. ii. 1, note. Our Lord thus designates Himself about eighty times. It is His racial name as the representative Man, in the sense of 1 Cor. xv. 45-47; as Son of David is distinctively His Jewish name, and Son of God His divine name. Our Lord constantly uses this term as implying that His mission (e.g. Mt. xi. 19; Lk. xix. 10), His death and resurrection (e.g. Mt. xii. 40; xx. 18; xxvi. 2), and His second coming (e.g. Mt. xxiv. 37-44; Lk. xii. 40), transcended in scope and result all merely Jewish limitations. When Nathaniel confesses Him as "King of Israel," our Lord's answer is, "Thou shalt see greater things . . . the angels of God ascending and descending upon the Son of man." When His messengers are cast out by the Jews, His thought leaps forward to the time when the Son of man shall come, not then to Israel only but to the race (Mt. x. 5, 6 with v. 23). It is in this name, also, that universal judgment is committed to Him (John v. 22-27). It is also a name indicating that in Him is fulfilled the O.T. foreview of blessing through a coming man (Gen. i. 26, note; iii. 15; xii. 3; Psa. viii. 4; lxxx. 17; Isa. vii. 14; ix. 6, 7; xxxii. 2; Zech. xiii. 7).

11 And when the [f]Pharisees saw it, they said unto his disciples, [g]Why eateth your Master with publicans and [a]sinners?
12 But when Jesus heard that, he said unto them, They that be [h]whole need not a physician, but they that are sick.
13 But go ye and learn what that meaneth, [i]I will have mercy, and not sacrifice: for I am not come to call the [j]righteous, but sinners to [k]repentance.
14 Then came to him the disciples of John, saying, Why do we and the Pharisees fast oft, but thy disciples fast not?

16 No man putteth a piece of new [m]cloth unto an old garment, for that which is put in to fill it up taketh from the garment, and the rent is made worse.
17 Neither do men put new wine into old [n]bottles: else the bottles break, and the wine runneth out, and the bottles perish: but they put new wine into new bottles, and both are preserved.

Jesus heals the woman with an issue of blood, and raises the daughter of a ruler (Jairus) (Mk. 5. 22-43; Lk. 8. 41-56).

18 While he spake these things unto them, behold, there came a [o]certain ruler, and worshipped him, [p]saying, My daughter is even now dead: but come and lay thy hand upon her, and she shall live.
19 And Jesus arose, and followed him, and so did his disciples.
20 And, behold, a woman, which was diseased with an issue of blood twelve years, came behind him, and [q]touched the hem of his garment:
21 For she said within herself, If I may but touch his garment, I shall be whole.
22 But Jesus turned him about, and when he saw her, he said, Daughter, be of good comfort; thy [r]faith hath made thee whole. And the woman was made whole from that hour.
23 And when Jesus came into the ruler's house, and saw the minstrels and the people making a noise,
24 He said unto them, Give place: for the maid is not dead, but [s]sleepeth. And they laughed him to scorn.
25 But when the people were put forth, he went in, and [t]took her by the hand, and the maid [u]arose.
26 And the fame hereof went abroad into all that land.

Two blind men healed: a demon cast out.

27 And when Jesus departed thence, two blind men followed him, crying, and [v]saying, [w]Thou son of David, have mercy on us.
28 And when he was come into the house, the blind men came to him: and Jesus saith unto them, Believe ye that I am able to do this? They said unto him, Yea, Lord.
29 Then touched he their eyes, saying, According to your [x]faith be it unto you.
30 And their eyes were opened; and Jesus straitly charged them, saying, See that no man know it.
31 But they, when they were departed, spread abroad his fame in all that country.
32 As they went out, behold, they brought to him a dumb man [y]possessed with a [z]devil.
33 And when the [z]devil was cast out, the dumb spake: and the multitudes marvelled, saying, It was never so seen in Israel.

34 But the Pharisees said, He casteth out [a]devils through the prince of the devils.

Jesus preaches and heals in Galilee (Mk. 6. 5, 6).

35 And Jesus went about all the cities and villages, teaching in their synagogues, and preaching the [b]gospel of the kingdom, and healing every sickness and every disease among the people.

36 But when he saw the multitudes, he was moved with compassion on them, because they fainted, and were scattered abroad, as sheep having no shepherd.

37 Then saith he unto his disciples, The harvest truly is plenteous, but the labourers are few;

38 Pray ye therefore the Lord of the harvest, that he will send forth labourers into his harvest.

CHAPTER 10.

The twelve instructed and sent forth (Mk. 6. 7-13; Lk. 9. 1-6).

AND when he had called unto him his [c]twelve disciples, he gave them [d]power against unclean spirits, to cast them out, and to heal all manner of sickness and all manner of disease.

2 Now the [e]names of the twelve [1]apostles are these; The first, Simon, who is called Peter, and Andrew his brother; [f]James the son of Zebedee, and John his brother;

3 Philip, and Bartholomew; Thomas, and Matthew the publican; James the son of Alphæus, and Lebbæus, whose surname was Thaddæus;

4 Simon the Canaanite, and Judas Iscariot, who also betrayed him.

5 These twelve Jesus sent forth, and commanded them, saying, Go not into the way of the [g]Gentiles, and into any city of the Samaritans enter ye not:

6 But go rather to the [h]lost sheep of the house of Israel.

7 And as ye go, preach, saying, The [i]kingdom of heaven is at hand.

8 [j]Heal the sick, cleanse the lepers, [k]raise the dead, cast out [a]devils: freely ye have received, freely give.

9 [2]Provide neither gold, nor silver, nor brass in your purses,

10 Nor scrip for your journey, neither two coats, neither shoes, nor yet staves: for the [l]workman is worthy of his meat.

[1] The word apostle, = "one sent forth," is used of our Lord (Heb. iii. 1). Elsewhere it is used of the twelve who were called to that office by our Lord during His earth ministry; of Paul, called to the apostleship by the risen and ascended Lord, and of Barnabas (Acts xiv. 14), specially designated by the Holy Spirit (Acts xiii. 2). Of Matthias, chosen by lot by the eleven to take the place of Judas Iscariot (Acts i. 16-26), it is said: "And he was numbered with the eleven" (Acts i. 26). See Acts i. 26.

The "signs of an apostle" were: (1) They were chosen directly by the Lord Himself, or, as in the case of Barnabas, by the Holy Spirit (Mt. x. 1, 2; Mk. iii. 13, 14; Lk. vi. 13; Acts ix. 6, 15; xiii. 2; xxii. 10, 14, 15; Rom. i. 1). (2) They were endued with sign gifts, miraculous powers which were the divine credentials of their office (Mt. x. 1; Acts v. 15, 16; xvi. 16-18; xxviii. 8, 9). (3) Their relation to the kingdom was that of heralds, announcing, to Israel only (Mt. x. 5, 6), the kingdom as at hand (Mt. iv. 17, note), and manifesting kingdom powers (Mt. x. 7, 8). (4) To one of them, Peter, the keys of the kingdom of heaven, viewed as the sphere of Christian profession, as in Mt. xiii., were given (Mt. xvi. 19). (5) Their future relation to the kingdom will be that of judges over the twelve tribes (Mt. xix. 28). (6) Consequent upon the rejection of the kingdom, and the revelation of the mystery hid in God (Mt. xvi. 18; Eph. iii. 1-12), the Church, the apostolic office was invested with a new enduement, the baptism with the Holy Spirit (Acts ii. 1-4); a new power, that of imparting the Spirit to Jewish-Christian believers; a new relation, that of foundation stones of the new temple (Eph. ii. 20-22); and a new function, that of preaching the glad tidings of salvation through a crucified and risen Lord to Jew and Gentile alike. (7) The indispensable qualification of an apostle was that he should have been an eye-witness of the resurrection (Acts i. 22; 1 Cor. ix. 1).

[2] Cf. Mk. vi. 8, 9; Lk. ix. 3. The central thought here, urgency, must be kept in mind. The emphasis is upon "provide." Time is not to be taken to search for additional staves or shoes. The disciples were to go in their ordinary sandals, with such staff as they might have, or with none. Cf. Paul, Rom. i. 15.

11 And into whatsoever city or town ye shall enter, enquire who in it is worthy; and there abide till ye go thence.

12 And when ye come into an house, salute it.

13 And if the house be worthy, let your peace come upon it: but if it be not worthy, let your peace return to you.

14 And whosoever shall not receive you, [a]nor hear your words, when ye depart out of that house or city, [b]shake off the dust of your feet.

15 Verily I say unto you, It shall be more [c]tolerable for the land of Sodom and Gomorrha [d]in the day of judgment, than for that city.

16 Behold, I [1]send you forth as [e]sheep in the midst of wolves: be ye therefore wise as [f]serpents, and harmless as [g]doves.

17 But [h]beware of men: for they will deliver you up to the councils, and they will scourge you in their synagogues;

18 And ye shall be brought before governors and kings for my sake, for a testimony against them and the Gentiles.

19 But when they deliver you up, [i]take no thought how or what ye shall speak: [j]for it shall be given you in that same hour what ye shall speak.

20 For it is not ye that speak, but the [k]Spirit of your Father which speaketh in you.

21 And the brother shall deliver up the brother to death, and the father the child: and the children shall rise up against their parents, and cause them to be put to death.

22 And ye shall be hated of all men for my name's sake: but he that [l]endureth to the end shall be saved.

[1] The scope of verses 16–23 reaches beyond the personal ministry of the twelve, covering in a general sense the sphere of service during the present age. Verse 23 has in view the preaching of the remnant (Isa. i. 9; Rom. xi. 5, note) in the tribulation (Psa. ii. 5; Rev. vii. 14, note), and immediately preceding the return of Christ in glory (Deut. xxx. 3; Acts i. 9–11, note). The remnant then will not have gone over the cities of Israel till the Lord comes.

[2] Cf. John xiv. 27. Peace is spoken of in Scripture in three ways: (1) "Peace with God" (Rom. v. 1); this is the work of Christ into which the individual enters by faith (Eph. ii. 14–17; Rom. v. 1). (2) "The peace of God" (Phil. iv. 7); inward peace, the state of soul of that believer who, having entered into peace with God through faith in Christ, has also committed to God through prayer and supplication with thanksgiving all his anxieties (Lk. vii. 50; Phil. iv. 6). (3) Peace "on earth" (Lk. ii. 14; Psa. lxxii. 7; lxxxv. 10; Isa. ix. 6, 7; xi. 1–12); the universal prevalency of peace in the earth under the kingdom. Mt. x. 34 was Christ's warning that the truth which He was proclaiming would not bring in the kingdom-age of peace, but conflict rather.

36 And a man's foes shall be they of his own household.

37 He that loveth father or mother more than me is not worthy of me: and he that loveth son or daughter more than me is not [a]worthy of me.

38 And he that taketh not his cross, and followeth after me, is not worthy of me.

39 He that findeth his life shall lose it: and he that loseth his life for my sake shall find it.

40 [b]He that receiveth you receiveth me, and he that receiveth me receiveth him that sent me.

41 He that receiveth a prophet in the name of a prophet shall receive a prophet's [c]reward; and he that receiveth a [d]righteous man in the name of a righteous man shall receive a righteous man's reward.

42 And whosoever shall give to drink unto one of these little ones a [e]cup of cold water only in the name of a disciple, verily I say unto you, he shall in no wise lose his reward.

CHAPTER 11.

AND it came to pass, when Jesus had made an end of commanding his twelve disciples, he departed thence to teach and to preach in their cities.

John the Baptist sends disciples to question Jesus (Lk. 7. 18–35).

2 Now when [f]John had heard in the prison the works of Christ, he sent two of his disciples,

3 And said unto him, Art thou he that should come, or do we look for another?

4 Jesus answered and said unto them, Go and shew John again those things which ye do hear and see:

5 The [g]blind [h]receive their sight, and the lame walk, the lepers are cleansed, and the deaf hear, the dead are raised up, and the poor have the [i]gospel preached to them.

6 And [j]blessed is he, whosoever shall not [k]be offended in me.

7 And as they departed, Jesus began to say unto the multitudes concerning John, [l]What went ye out into the wilderness to see? A reed shaken with the wind?

8 But what went ye out for to see? A man clothed in soft raiment? behold, they that wear soft clothing are in kings' houses.

9 But what went ye out for to see? A prophet? yea, I say unto you, and more than a prophet.

10 For this is he, of whom it is written, [m]Behold, I send my messenger before thy face, which shall prepare thy way before thee.

11 Verily I say unto you, Among them that are born of women there hath not risen a greater than John the Baptist: notwithstanding he that is [n]least in the [o]kingdom of heaven is [1]greater than he.

12 And from the days of John the Baptist until now the kingdom of heaven [p]suffereth [2]violence, and the violent take it by force.

13 [q]For all the prophets and the law prophesied until John.

14 And if ye will receive it, [r]this is [s]Elias, which was for to come.

16 But whereunto shall I liken this generation? It is like unto children sitting in the markets, and calling unto their fellows, 18 For John came neither eating nor drinking, and they say, He hath a [t]devil.

[1] Positionally greater, not morally. John Baptist was as great, morally, as any man "born of woman," but as to the kingdom he but announced it at hand. The kingdom did not then come, but was rejected, and John was martyred, and the King presently crucified. The least in the kingdom when it is set up in glory (see "Kingdom (N.T)," Lk. i. 31–33; 1 Cor. xv. 24) will be in the fullness of power and glory. It is not heaven which is in question, but Messiah's kingdom. (See Mt. iii. 2, note; vi. 33, note.)

[2] It has been much disputed whether the "violence" here is external, as against the kingdom in the persons of John the Baptist and Jesus; or that, considering the opposition of the scribes and Pharisees, only the violently resolute would press into it. Both things are true. The King and His herald suffered violence, and this is the primary and greater meaning, but also, some were resolutely becoming disciples. (Cf. Lk. xvi. 16.)

a man gluttonous, and a winebibber, a friend of publicans and [a]sinners. But wisdom is justified of her children.

Jesus, rejected, predicts judgment.

20 [1]Then began he to upbraid the cities wherein most of his mighty works were done, because they [b]repented not:

21 Woe unto thee, Chorazin! woe unto thee, Bethsaida! for if the mighty works, which were done in you, had been done in Tyre and Sidon, they would have repented long ago in sackcloth and ashes.

22 But I say unto you, It shall be more tolerable for Tyre and Sidon at the [c]day of judgment, than for you.

23 And thou, Capernaum, which art exalted unto heaven, shalt be brought down to [d]hell: for if the mighty works, which have been done in thee, had been done in Sodom, it would have remained until this day.

24 But I say unto you, That it shall be more tolerable for the land of Sodom in the day of judgment, than for thee.

25 At that time Jesus answered and [e]said, I thank thee, O Father, Lord of heaven and earth, because thou hast [f]hid these things from the wise and prudent, and hast revealed them unto babes.

26 Even so, Father: for so it seemed good in thy sight.

27 All things are delivered unto me of my Father: and no man knoweth the Son, but the Father; neither knoweth any man the Father, save the Son, and he to whomsoever the Son will reveal him.

The new message of Jesus: not the kingdom, but personal discipleship.

28 [2][g]Come unto [h]me, all ye that labour and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest.

29 Take my yoke upon you, and learn of me; for [i]I am meek and lowly in heart: and ye shall find rest unto your souls.

[j] Sabbath. (Gen. 2. 3.)

CHAPTER 12.

Jesus declares himself Lord of the sabbath (Mk. 2. 23-28; Lk. 6. 1-5).

AT that time Jesus went on the [3][j]sabbath day through the corn; and his disciples were an hungred, and began to pluck the ears of corn, and to eat.

[1] The kingdom of heaven announced as "at hand" by John the Baptist, by the King Himself, and by the twelve, and attested by mighty works, has been morally rejected. The places chosen for the testing of the nation, Chorazin, Bethsaida, etc., having rejected both John and Jesus, the rejected King now speaks of judgment. The final official rejection is later (Mt. xxvii. 21-37).

[2] The new message of Jesus. The rejected King now turns from the rejecting nation and offers, not the kingdom, but rest and service to such in the nation as are conscious of need. It is a pivotal point in the ministry of Jesus.

[3] (1) The sabbath ("cessation") appears in Scripture as the day of God's rest in the finished work of creation (Gen. ii. 2, 3). For 2500 years of human life absolutely no mention is made of it. At Sinai the sabbath was revealed (Neh. ix. 13, 14); made a part of the law (Ex. xx. 8-11); and invested with the character of a "sign" between Jehovah and Israel, a perpetual reminder to Israel of their separation to God (Ex. xxxi. 13-17). It was observed by complete rest (Ex. xxxv. 2, 3), and by Jehovah's express order a man was put to death for gathering sticks on the sabbath day (Num. xv. 32-36). Apart from maintaining the continued burnt-offering (Num. xxviii. 9), and its connection with the annual feasts (Ex. xii. 16; Lev. xxiii. 3, 8; Num. xxviii. 25), the seventh-day sabbath was never made a day of sacrifice, worship, or any manner of religious service. It was simply and only a day of complete rest for man and beast, a humane provision for man's needs. In Christ's words, "The sabbath was made for man, and not man for the sabbath" (Mk. ii. 27). (2) Our Lord found the observance of the day encrusted with rabbinical evasions (Mt. xii. 2) and restrictions, wholly unknown to the law, so that He was Himself held to be a sabbath-breaker by the religious authorities of the time. The sabbath will be again observed during the kingdom-age (Isa. lxvi. 23). (3) The Christian first day perpetuates in the dispensation of grace the principle that one seventh of the time is especially sacred, but in all other respects is in contrast with the sabbath. One is the seventh day, the other the first. The sabbath commemorates God's creation rest, the first day Christ's resurrection. On the

2 But when the Pharisees saw it, they said unto him, Behold, thy disciples do that which is not lawful to do upon the sabbath day.

3 But he said unto them, Have ye not [a]read [1]what [b]David did, when he was an hungred, and they that were with him;

4 How he entered into the house of God, and did eat the [c]shewbread, which was not lawful for him to eat, neither for them which were with him, but only for the priests?

5 Or have ye not read in the law, how that on the sabbath days the [d]priests in the temple profane the sabbath, and are blameless?

6 But I say unto you, That in this place is one [e]greater than the temple.

7 But if ye had known what this meaneth, I will have [f]mercy, and not sacrifice, ye would not have condemned the guiltless.

8 For the [g]Son of man is Lord even of the sabbath day.

The healing of the withered hand on the sabbath (Mk. 3. 1-6; Lk. 6. 6-11).

9 And when he was departed thence, he went into their synagogue:

10 And, behold, there was a man which had his hand withered. And they asked him, saying, Is it lawful to heal on the sabbath days? that they might accuse him.

11 And he said unto them, What man shall there be among you, that shall have one sheep, and if it fall into a pit on the sabbath day, will he not lay hold on it, and lift it out?

12 How much then is a man better than a sheep? Wherefore it is lawful to do well on the sabbath days.

13 Then saith he to the man, Stretch forth thine hand. And he stretched it forth; and [h]it was restored whole, like as the other.

14 Then the Pharisees went out, and held a council against him, how they might [i]destroy him.

Jesus and the multitudes (at the sea of Tiberias) (Mk. 3. 7-12).

15 But when Jesus knew it, he withdrew himself from thence: and great multitudes followed him, and he healed them all;

16 And charged them that they should not make him known:

17 That it might be fulfilled which was spoken by Esaias the prophet, saying,

18 Behold my [j]servant, whom I have chosen; my beloved, in whom my soul is well pleased: I will put my [k]spirit upon him, and he shall shew judgment to the [2]Gentiles.

19 He shall not strive, nor cry; neither shall any man hear his voice in the streets.

20 A bruised reed shall he not break, and smoking flax shall he not quench, till he send forth judgment unto victory.

21 And in his name shall the Gentiles [m]trust.

A demoniac healed: the Pharisees blaspheme (Mk. 3. 22-30; Lk. 11. 14-23).

22 Then was brought unto him one [n]possessed with a devil, blind, and dumb: and he healed him, insomuch that the blind and dumb both spake and saw.

23 And all the people were amazed, and said, Is not this the [o]son of David?

24 But when the Pharisees heard it, they said, This fellow doth not cast out [p]devils, but by [q]Beelzebub the prince of the devils.

25 And Jesus knew their thoughts, and said unto them, Every kingdom seventh day God rested, on the first day Christ was ceaselessly active. The sabbath commemorates a finished creation, the first day a finished redemption. The sabbath was a day of legal obligation, the first day one of voluntary worship and service. The sabbath is mentioned in the Acts only in connection with the Jews, and in the rest of the N.T. but twice (Col. ii. 16; Heb. iv. 4). In these passages the seventh-day sabbath is explained to be to the Christian not a day to be observed, but a type of the present rest into which he enters when "he also ceases from his own works" and trusts Christ.

[1] Jesus' action (Mt. xii. 1-7) is highly significant. "What David did" refers to the time of his rejection and persecution by Saul (1 Sam. xxi. 6). Jesus here is not so much the rejected Saviour as the rejected King; hence the reference to David.

[2] This too is most significant. The rejected King of Israel will turn to the Gentiles (cf. Mt. x. 5, 6). In fulfilment this awaited the official rejection, crucifixion, and resurrection of Christ, and the final rejection of the risen Christ (Lk. xxiv. 46, 47; Acts ix. 15; xiii. 46; xxviii. 25-28; Rom. xi. 11).

divided against itself is brought to desolation; and every city or house divided against itself shall not stand:

26 And if [a]Satan cast out Satan, he is divided against himself; how shall then his kingdom stand?

27 And if I by Beelzebub cast out devils, by whom do your [b]children cast them out? therefore they shall be your judges.

28 But if I cast out devils by the Spirit of God, then the kingdom of God is come unto you.

29 Or else how can one enter into a strong man's house, and spoil his goods, except he first bind the strong man? and then he will spoil his house.

The unpardonable sin: ascribing to Satan the works of the Spirit (Mk. 3. 29, 30).

31 Wherefore I say unto you, All manner of [c]sin and blasphemy shall be [d]forgiven unto men: but the [e]blasphemy against the Holy Ghost shall not be forgiven unto men.

32 And whosoever speaketh a word against the Son of man, it shall be [d]forgiven him: but whosoever speaketh against the Holy Ghost, it shall not be forgiven him, neither in this [f]world, neither in the world to come.

Destiny in words.

34 O [i]generation of vipers, how can ye, being evil, speak good things? for out of the abundance of the heart the mouth speaketh.

35 A good man out of the good treasure of the heart bringeth forth good things: and an evil man out of the evil treasure bringeth forth evil things.

36 But I say unto you, That every idle word that men shall speak, they shall give account thereof in the [j]day of judgment.

37 For by thy words thou shalt be justified, and by thy words thou shalt be condemned.

The sign of the prophet Jonas: Jesus foretells his death and resurrection (Lk. 11. 29, 30).

38 Then certain of the scribes and of the Pharisees answered, saying, Master, we would see a [k]sign from thee.

39 But he answered and said unto them, An evil and adulterous [l]generation seeketh after a sign; and there shall no sign be given to it, but the sign of the prophet Jonas:

40 For as [m]Jonas was three days and three nights in the whale's belly; so shall the Son of man be three days and three nights in the heart of the earth.

41 [1]The men of [n]Nineveh shall rise in judgment with this generation, and shall condemn it: because they [o]repented at the preaching of Jonas; and, behold, a greater than Jonas is here.

42 [p]The queen of the south shall rise up in the judgment with this generation, and shall condemn it: for she came from the uttermost parts of the earth to hear the wisdom of Solomon; and, behold, a greater than Solomon is here.

Israel, in the midst of the Pharisaic revival of outward religious strictness, was like a man out of whom a demon had "gone," i.e. of his own volition. He would come back and find an empty house, etc. The personal application is to a mere self-cleansed moralist.

CHAPTER 13.

The mysteries of the kingdom of heaven: (1) the sower (Mk. 4. 1-25; Lk. 8. 4-18).

THE same day went Jesus out of the house, and sat by the sea side.

2 And great multitudes were gathered together unto him, so that he went into a ship, and sat; and the whole multitude stood on the shore.

3 And he [1]spake many things unto them in [c]parables, saying, Behold, a [2]sower went forth to sow;

4 And when he sowed, some seeds fell by the way side, and the fowls came and devoured them up:

5 Some fell upon stony places, where they had not much earth: and forthwith they sprung up, because they had no deepness of earth:

6 And when the sun was up, they were scorched; and because they had no root, they withered away.

7 And some fell among thorns; and the thorns sprung up, and choked them:

8 But other fell into good ground, and brought forth fruit, some an hundredfold, some sixtyfold, some thirtyfold.

9 Who hath ears to hear, let him hear.

10 And the disciples came, and said unto him, Why speakest thou unto them in parables?

11 He answered and said unto them, Because it is given unto you to know the [3d]mysteries of the [e]kingdom of heaven, but to them it is not given.

12 For whosoever hath, to him shall be given, and he shall have more abundance: but whosoever hath not, from him shall be taken away even that he hath.

13 Therefore speak I to them in parables: [f]because they seeing see not; and hearing they hear not, neither do they understand.

intimates the formation of the new family of faith which, overstepping mere racial claims, receives "whosoever" will be His disciple (vs. 49, 50. Cf. John vi. 28, 29).

[1] The seven parables of Mt. xiii., called by our Lord "mysteries of the kingdom of heaven" (v. 11), taken together, describe the result of the presence of the Gospel in the world during the present age, that is, the time of seed-sowing which began with our Lord's personal ministry, and ends with the "harvest" (vs. 40-43). Briefly, that result is the mingled tares and wheat, good fish and bad, in the sphere of Christian profession. It is Christendom.

[2] The figure marks a new beginning. To labour in God's vineyard (Israel, Isa. v. 1-7) is one thing, to go forth sowing the seed of the word in a field which is the world, quite another (cf. Mt. x. 5). One-fourth of the seed takes permanent root, but the result is "wheat" (v. 25; 1 Pet. i. 23), or "children of the kingdom" (v. 38). This parable (vs. 3-9, 18-23) is treated throughout as foundational to the mysteries of the kingdom of heaven. It is interpreted by our Lord Himself.

[3] A "mystery" in Scripture is a previously hidden truth, now divinely revealed, but in which a supernatural element still remains despite the revelation. The greater mysteries are: (1) The mysteries of the kingdom of heaven (Mt. xiii. 3-50); (2) the mystery of Israel's blindness during this age (Rom. xi. 25, with context); (3) the mystery of the translation of living saints at the end of this age (1 Cor. xv. 51, 52; 1 Thes. iv. 14-17); (4) the mystery of the N.T. church as one body composed of Jew and Gentile (Eph. iii. 1-11; Rom. xvi. 25; Eph. vi. 19; Col. iv. 3); (5) the mystery of the church as the bride of Christ (Eph. v. 28-32); (6) the mystery of the inliving Christ (Gal. ii. 20; Col. i. 26, 27); (7) the "mystery of God even Christ," i.e. Christ as the incarnate fullness of the Godhead embodied, in whom all the divine wisdom for man subsists (Col. ii. 2, 9; 1 Cor. ii. 7); (8) the mystery of the processes by which godlikeness is restored to man (1 Tim. iii. 16); (9) the mystery of iniquity (2 Thes. ii. 7; Mt. xiii. 33); (10) the mystery of the seven stars (Rev. i. 20); (11) the mystery of Babylon (Rev. xvii. 5, 7).

14 And in them is fulfilled the [a]prophecy of Esaias, which saith, By hearing ye shall hear, and shall not understand; and seeing ye shall see, and shall not perceive:

15 For this people's heart is waxed gross, and their ears are dull of hearing, and their eyes they have closed; lest at any time they should see with their eyes and hear with their ears, and should understand with their heart, and should be [b]converted, and I should heal them.

16 But [c]blessed are your eyes, for they see: and your ears, for they hear.

17 For verily I say unto you, That many [1]prophets and [d]righteous men have desired to see those things which ye see, and have not seen them; and to hear those things which ye hear, and have not heard them.

18 Hear ye therefore the parable of the sower.

19 When any one heareth the word of the [e]kingdom, and understandeth it not, then cometh the wicked one, and catcheth away that which was sown in his heart. This is he which received seed by the way side.

20 But he that received the seed into stony places, the same is he that heareth the word, and [f]anon with joy receiveth it;

21 Yet hath he not root in himself, but dureth for a while: for when [g]tribulation or persecution ariseth because of the word, by and by he is offended.

22 He also that received seed among the thorns is he that heareth the word; and the care of this [h]world, and the deceitfulness of riches, choke the word, and he becometh unfruitful.

23 But [i]he that received seed into the good ground is he that heareth the word, and understandeth it; which also beareth fruit, and bringeth forth, some an hundredfold, some sixty, some thirty.

Second mystery, the tares among the wheat (vs. 24-30, 36-43).

24 [2]Another parable put he forth unto them, saying, [e]The kingdom of heaven is likened unto a man which sowed [k]good seed in his field:

25 But while men slept, his enemy came and sowed [l]tares among the wheat, and went his way.

26 But when the blade was sprung up, and brought forth fruit, then appeared the tares also.

27 So the servants of the householder came and said unto him, Sir, didst not thou sow good seed in thy field? from whence then hath it tares?

28 He said unto them, An enemy hath done this. The servants said

[j] Phil. 1. 21; Col. 1. 6.

[k] 1 Pet. 1. 23; 1 John 3. 9.

[1] The O.T. prophets saw in one blended vision the rejection and crucifixion of the King (see "Christ, sufferings," Gen. iv. 4; Heb. x. 18, note), and also His glory as David's Son (Zech. xii. 8, note), but "what manner of time the Spirit of Christ which was in them did signify when it testified beforehand the sufferings of Christ and the glory that should follow," was not revealed to them—only that the vision was not for themselves (1 Pet. i. 10-12). That revelation Christ makes in these parables. A period of time is to intervene between His sufferings and His glory. That interval is occupied with the "mysteries of the kingdom of heaven" here described.

[2] This parable (vs. 24-30) is also interpreted by our Lord (vs. 36-43). Here the "good seed" is not the "word," as in the first parable (vs. 19, 23), but rather that which the word has produced (1 Pet. i. 23), viz.: the children of the kingdom. These are, providentially (v. 37), "sown," i.e. scattered, here and there in the "field" of the "world" (v. 38). The "world" here is both geographical and ethnic—the earth-world, and also the world of men. The wheat of God at once becomes the scene of Satan's activity. Where children of the kingdom are gathered, there, "among the wheat" (vs. 25, 38, 39), Satan "sows" "children of the wicked one," who profess to be children of the kingdom, and in outward ways are so like the true children that only the angels may, in the end, be trusted to separate them (vs. 28-30, 40-43). So great is Satan's power of deception that the tares often really suppose themselves to be children of the kingdom (Mt. vii. 21-23). Many other parables and exhortations have this mingled condition in view (e.g. Mt. xxii. 11-14; xxv. 1-13, 14-30; Lk. xviii. 10-14; Heb. vi. 4-9). Indeed, it characterizes Matthew from Chapter xiii. to the end. The parable of the wheat and tares is not a description of the world, but of that which professes to be the kingdom. Mere unbelievers are never called children of the devil, but only religious unbelievers (cf. v. 38; John viii. 38-44; Mt. xxiii. 15).

unto him, Wilt thou then that we go and gather them up?

29 But he said, Nay; lest while ye gather up the tares, ye root up also the wheat with them.

30 Let [a]both grow together until the harvest: and in the time of harvest I will say to the reapers, [1]Gather ye together first the tares, and bind them in bundles to burn them: but gather the wheat into my barn.

Third mystery, the grain of mustard seed (Mk. 4. 30–32).

31 [2]Another parable put he forth unto them, saying, The [b]kingdom of heaven is like to a grain of [c]mustard seed, which a man took, and sowed in his field:

32 Which indeed is the least of all seeds: but when it is grown, it is the greatest among herbs, and becometh a [d]tree, so that the birds of the air come and lodge in the branches thereof.

Fourth mystery, the leaven (Lk. 13. 20, 21).

33 [3]Another parable spake he unto them; The kingdom of heaven is like unto [e]leaven, which a woman took, and [f]hid in [g]three measures of meal, till the [h]whole was leavened.

34 All these things spake Jesus unto the multitude in parables; and without a parable spake he not unto them:

35 That it might be [i]fulfilled which was spoken by the prophet, saying, I will open my mouth in

[i] Psa. 78. 2.

[1] The gathering of the tares into bundles for burning does not imply immediate judgment. At the end of this age (v. 40) the tares are set apart for burning, but first the wheat is gathered into the barn (John xiv. 3; 1 Thes. iv. 14–17).

[2] The parable of the Mustard Seed prefigures the rapid but unsubstantial growth of the mystery form of the kingdom from an insignificant beginning (Acts i. 15; ii. 41; 1 Cor. i. 26) to a great place in the earth. The figure of the fowls finding shelter in the branches is drawn from Dan. iv. 20–22. How insecure was such a refuge the context in Daniel shows.

[3] That interpretation of the parable of the Leaven (v. 33) which makes (with variation as to details) the leaven to be the Gospel, introduced into the world ("three measures of meal") by the church, and working subtly until the world is converted ("till the whole was leavened") is open to fatal objection: (1) It does violence to the unvarying symbolical meaning of leaven, and especially to the meaning fixed by our Lord Himself (Mt. xvi. 6–12; Mk. viii. 15. See "Leaven," Gen. xix. 3; Mt. xiii. 33, note). (2) The implication of a converted world in this age ("till the whole was leavened"), is explicitly contradicted by our Lord's interpretation of the parables of the Wheat and Tares, and of the Net. Our Lord presents a picture of a partly converted kingdom in an unconverted world; of good fish and bad in the very kingdom-net itself. (3) The method of the extension of the kingdom is given in the first parable. It is by sowing seed, not by mingling leaven. The symbols have, in Scripture, a meaning fixed by inspired usage. Leaven is the principle of corruption working subtly; is invariably used in a bad sense (see "Leaven," Gen. xix. 3, refs.), and is defined by our Lord as evil doctrine (Mt. xvi. 11, 12; Mk. viii. 15). Meal, on the contrary, was used in one of the sweet-savour offerings (Lev. ii. 1–3), and was food for the priests (Lev. vi. 15–17). A woman, in the bad ethical sense, always symbolizes something out of place, religiously (see Zech. v. 6, note). In Thyatira it was a woman teaching (cf. Rev. ii. 20 with Rev. xvii. 1–6). Interpreting the parable by these familiar symbols, it constitutes a warning that the true doctrine, given for the nourishment of the children of the kingdom (Mt. iv. 4; 1 Tim. iv. 6; 1 Pet. ii. 2), would be mingled with corrupt and corrupting false doctrine, and that officially, by the apostate church itself (1 Tim. iv. 1–3; 2 Tim. ii. 17, 18; iv. 3, 4; 2 Pet. ii. 1–3).

[4] Summary: (1) Leaven, as a symbolic or typical substance, is always mentioned in the O.T. in an evil sense (Gen. xix. 3, refs). (2) The use of the word in the N.T. explains its symbolic meaning. It is "malice and wickedness," as contrasted with "sincerity and truth" (1 Cor. v. 6–8). It is evil doctrine (Mt. xvi. 12) in its threefold form of Pharisaism, Sadduceeism, and Herodianism (Mt. xvi. 6; Mk. viii. 15). The leaven of the Pharisees was externalism in religion (Mt. xxiii. 14. 16, 23–28); of the Sadducees, scepticism as to the supernatural and as to the Scriptures (Mt. xxii. 23, 29); of the Herodians, worldliness—a Herod party amongst the Jews (Mt. xxii. 16–21; Mk. iii. 6). (3) The use of the word in Mt. xiii. 33 is congruous with its universal meaning.

parables; I will utter things which have been kept secret from the foundation of the [a]world.

The second mystery explained.

36 Then Jesus sent the multitude away, and went into the house: and his disciples came unto him, saying, [b]Declare unto us the parable of the tares of the field.

37 He answered and said unto them, He that soweth the good seed is the Son of man;

38 The field is the [c]world; the good seed are the children of the [d]kingdom; but the tares are the children of the wicked one;

39 The enemy that sowed them is the [e]devil; the harvest is the [f]end of the world; and the reapers are the [g]angels.

40 As therefore the tares are gathered and burned in the fire; so shall it be in the [f]end of this world.

41 The [h]Son of man shall send forth his [g]angels, and they shall [i]gather out of his [d]kingdom all things that offend, and [f]them which do [k]iniquity;

42 And shall cast them into a furnace of fire: there shall be wailing and [l]gnashing of teeth.

43 [1]Then shall the [m]righteous shine forth as the sun in the kingdom of their Father. [n]Who hath ears to hear, let him hear.

Fifth mystery, the hid treasure.

44 Again, the [d]kingdom of heaven is like unto [o]treasure [2]hid in a field; the which when a man hath found, he hideth, and for joy thereof goeth and [p]selleth all that he hath, and buyeth that field.

Sixth mystery, the pearl.

45 Again, the [d]kingdom of heaven is like unto a merchant man, seeking goodly [3]pearls:

46 Who, when he had found [q]one pearl of great price, went and sold all that he had, and bought it.

Seventh mystery, the drag-net.

47 Again, [4]the kingdom of [d]heaven is like unto a net, that was cast into the sea, and gathered of every kind:

48 Which, when it was full, they

[1] The kingdom does not become the kingdom of the "Father" until Christ, having "put all enemies under His feet," including the last enemy, death, has "delivered up the kingdom to God, even the Father" (1 Cor. xv. 24-28; Rev. xx. 2). There is triumph over death at the first resurrection (1 Cor. xv. 54, 55), but death, "the last enemy," is not destroyed till the end of the millennium (Rev. xx. 14).

[2] The interpretation of the parable of the treasure, which makes the buyer of the field to be a sinner who is seeking Christ, has no warrant in the parable itself. The field is defined (v. 38) to be the world. The seeking sinner does not buy, but forsakes, the world to win Christ. Furthermore, the sinner has nothing to sell, nor is Christ for sale, nor is He hidden in a field, nor, having found Christ, does the sinner hide Him again (cf. Mk. vii. 24; Acts iv. 20). At every point the interpretation breaks down.

Our Lord is the buyer at the awful cost of His blood (1 Pet. i. 18), and Israel, especially Ephraim (Jer. xxxi. 5-12, 18-20), the lost tribes hidden in "the field," the world (v. 38), is the treasure (Ex. xix. 5; Psa. cxxxv. 4). Again, as in the separation of tares and wheat, the angels are used (Mt. xxiv. 31; Jer. xvi. 16). The divine Merchantman buys the field (world) for the sake of the treasure (v. 44; Rom. xi. 28), beloved for the fathers' sakes, and yet to be restored and saved. The note of joy (v. 44) is also that of the prophets in view of Israel's restoration (Deut. xxx. 9; Isa. xlix. 13; lii. 1-3; lxii. 4-7; lxv. 18, 19). (See "Israel," Gen. xi. 10; Rom. xi. 26.)

[3] The true Church, "one body" formed by the Holy Spirit (1 Cor. xii. 12, 13). As Israel is the hid treasure, so the Church is the pearl of great cost. Covering the same period of time as the mysteries of the kingdom, is the mystery of the Church (Rom. xvi. 25, 26; Eph. iii. 3-10; v, 32). Of the true Church a pearl is a perfect symbol: (1) A pearl is one, a perfect symbol of unity (1 Cor. x. 17; xii. 12, 13; Eph. iv. 4-6). (2) A pearl is formed by accretion, and that not mechanically, but vitally, through a living one, as Christ adds to the Church (Acts ii. 41, 47; v. 14; xi. 24; Eph. ii. 21; Col. ii. 19). (3) Christ, having given Himself for the pearl, is now preparing it for presentation to Himself (Eph. v. 25-27). The kingdom is not the Church, but the true children of the kingdom during the fulfilment of these mysteries, baptized by one Spirit into one body (1 Cor. xii. 12, 13), compose the true Church, the pearl.

drew to shore, and sat down, and [a]gathered the good into vessels, but cast the bad away.

49 So shall it be at the [b]end of the world: the angels shall come forth, and sever the wicked from among the just,

50 And shall cast them into the [c]furnace of fire: there shall be wailing and gnashing of [d]teeth.

51 Jesus saith unto them, Have ye understood all these things? They say unto him, Yea, Lord.

52 Then said he unto them, Therefore every scribe which is instructed unto the kingdom of heaven is like unto a man that is an householder, which bringeth forth out of his treasure things new and old.

Jesus returns to Nazareth: again rejected (Mk. 6. 1-6; cf. Lk. 4. 16-32).

53 And it came to pass, that when Jesus had finished these parables, he departed thence.

54 And when he was come into his own country, he taught them in their synagogue, insomuch that they were [e]astonished, and said, Whence hath this man this wisdom, and these mighty works?

55 Is not this the [f]carpenter's son? is not his mother called Mary? and his brethren, [g]James, and Joses, and Simon, and Judas?

56 And his sisters, are they not all with us? Whence then hath this man all these things?

57 And they were offended in him. But Jesus said unto them, A prophet is not without honour, save in his own country, and in his own house.

CHAPTER 14.

Herod's troubled conscience. Murder of John the Baptist (Mk. 6. 14-29; Lk. 9. 7-9).

AT that time [i]Herod the tetrarch heard of the fame of Jesus,

2 And said unto his servants, This is John the Baptist; he is risen from the dead; and therefore mighty works do shew forth themselves in him.

3 For [j]Herod had laid hold on John, and bound him, and put him in prison for [k]Herodias' sake, his brother Philip's wife.

4 For John said unto him, It is not lawful for thee to have her.

5 And when he would have put him to death, he feared the multitude, because they counted him as a prophet.

6 But when Herod's birthday was kept, the daughter of Herodias danced before them, and pleased Herod.

7 Whereupon he promised with an oath to give her whatsoever she would ask.

8 And she, being before instructed of her mother, said, Give me here John Baptist's head in a charger.

9 And the king was [l]sorry: nevertheless for the oath's sake, and them which sat with him at meat, he commanded it to be given her.

10 And he sent, and beheaded John in the prison.

11 And his head was brought in a charger, and given to the damsel: and she brought it to her mother.

12 And his disciples came, and wheat and tares of the mysteries of the kingdom as the sphere of profession, but with this difference: there Satan was the active agent; here the admixture is more the result of the tendency of a movement to gather to itself that which is not really of it. The kingdom of heaven is like a net which, cast into the sea of humanity, gathers of every kind, good and bad. And these remain together in the net (v. 49), and not merely in the sea, until the end of the age. It is not even a converted net, much less a converted sea. Infinite violence has been done to sound exegesis by the notion that the world is to be converted in this age. Against that notion stands our Lord's own interpretation of the parables of the Sower, the Wheat and Tares, and the Net.

Such, then, is the mystery form of the kingdom (see Mt. iii. 2, note; vi. 33, note). It is the sphere of Christian profession during this age. It is a mingled body of true and false, wheat and tares, good and bad. It is defiled by formalism, doubt, and worldliness. But within it Christ sees the true children of the true kingdom who, at the end, are to "shine forth as the sun." In the great field, the world, He sees the redeemed of all ages, but especially His hidden Israel, yet to be restored and blessed. Also, in this form of the kingdom, so unlike that which is to be, He sees the Church, His body and bride, and for joy He sells all that He has (2 Cor. viii. 9) and buys the field, the treasure, and the pearl.

took up the body, and buried it, and went and [a]told Jesus.

13 When Jesus heard of it, he [b]departed thence by [c]ship into a desert place apart: and when the people had heard thereof, they followed him on foot out of the cities.

14 And Jesus went forth, and saw a great multitude, and was moved with [d]compassion toward them, and he healed their sick.

The five thousand fed (Mk. 6. 30-44; Lk. 9. 10-17; John 6. 1-14).

15 And when it was evening, his disciples came to him, saying, This is a desert place, and the time is now past; send the multitude away, that they may go into the villages, and buy themselves victuals.

16 But Jesus said unto them, They need not depart; [e]give ye them to eat.

17 And they say unto him, We have here but five loaves, and two fishes.

18 He said, [f]Bring them hither to me.

19 And he commanded the multitude to sit down on the grass, and took the [g]five loaves, and the two fishes, and looking up to heaven, he [h]blessed, and brake, and gave the loaves to his disciples, and the disciples to the multitude.

20 [i]And they did all eat, and were filled: and they took up of the fragments that [j]remained twelve baskets full.

21 And they that had eaten were about five thousand men, beside women and children.

Jesus walks on the water: Peter's little faith (Mk. 6. 45-56; John 6. 15-21).

22 And straightway Jesus constrained his disciples to get into a ship, and to go before him unto the other side, while he sent the multitudes away.

23 And when he had sent the multitudes away, he went up into a [k]mountain apart to pray: and when the evening was come, he was there alone.

24 But the ship was now in the [l]midst of the sea, [m]tossed with [n]waves: for the wind was contrary.

25 And in the fourth watch of the night Jesus went unto them, walking on the sea.

26 And when the disciples saw him walking on the sea, they were [m]troubled, saying, It is a spirit; and they cried out for fear.

27 But straightway Jesus spake unto them, saying, [o]Be of good cheer; it is I; be not afraid.

28 And Peter answered him and said, Lord, if it be thou, [p]bid me come unto thee on the water.

29 And he said, Come. And when Peter was come down out of the ship, he walked on the water, to go to Jesus.

30 But when he saw the [q]wind boisterous, he was afraid; and beginning to sink, [r]he cried, saying, Lord, save me.

31 And immediately Jesus stretched forth his hand, and caught him, and said unto him, O thou of [s]little faith, wherefore didst thou doubt?

32 And when they were come into the ship, the wind ceased.

33 Then they that were in the ship came and worshipped him, saying, Of a truth thou art the [t]Son of God.

34 And when they were gone over, they came into the land of Gennesaret.

35 And when the men of that place had knowledge of him, they sent out into all that country round about, and brought unto him all that were diseased;

36 And besought him that they might only [u]touch the hem of his garment: and as many as touched were made perfectly whole.

CHAPTER 15.

Jesus rebukes scribes and Pharisees (Mk. 7. 1-23).

THEN came to Jesus scribes and Pharisees, which were of Jerusalem, saying,

2 Why do thy disciples transgress the [v]tradition of the elders? for they wash not their hands when they eat bread.

3 But he answered and said unto them, Why do ye also transgress the [w]commandment of God by your tradition?

4 For God commanded, saying, [x]Honour thy father and mother: and, [y]He that curseth father or mother, let him [z]die the death.

5 But ye say, Whosoever shall say to his father or his mother, It is a [a]gift, by whatsoever thou mightest be profited by me; have ye made the commandment of God of none effect by your tradition.

7 Ye hypocrites, well did [a]Esaias prophesy of you, saying,

8 This people draweth nigh unto me with their [b]mouth, and honoureth me with their lips; but their heart is far from me.

9 But in vain they do worship me, teaching for doctrines the commandments of men.

10 And he called the multitude, and said unto them, Hear, and understand:

11 [c]Not that which goeth into the mouth defileth a man; but that which [d]cometh out of the mouth, this defileth a man.

12 Then came his disciples, and said unto him, Knowest thou that the Pharisees were offended, after they heard this saying?

13 But he answered and said, Every plant, which my heavenly Father hath not planted, shall be [e]rooted up.

14 Let them alone: they be blind leaders of the blind. And if the blind lead the blind, both shall fall into the ditch.

15 Then answered Peter and said unto him, Declare unto us this parable.

16 And Jesus said, Are ye also [f]yet without understanding?

17 Do not ye yet understand, that whatsoever entereth in at the mouth goeth into the belly, and is cast out into the draught?

18 But those things which proceed out of the mouth come forth from the [g]heart; and they defile the man.

19 For out of the heart proceed [h]evil thoughts, murders, adulteries, fornications, thefts, false witness, blasphemies:

20 These are the things which defile a man: but to eat with unwashen hands defileth not a man.

The Syrophenician woman's daughter healed (Mk. 7. 24-30).

21 Then Jesus went thence, and [i]departed into the coasts of Tyre and Sidon.

22 And, behold, a woman of Canaan came out of the same coasts, and [k]cried unto him, saying, Have mercy on me, O Lord, thou [l]son of David; my daughter is grievously vexed with a devil.

23 But he answered her not a word. And his disciples came and besought him, saying, Send her away; for she crieth after us.

24 But he answered and said, I am not sent but unto the [k]lost sheep of the house of Israel.

25 Then came she and worshipped him, saying, Lord, [k]help me.

26 But he answered and said, It is not meet to take the children's bread, and cast it to [m]dogs.

27 And she said, Truth, Lord: yet the [n]dogs eat of the crumbs which fall from their masters' table.

28 [o]Then Jesus answered and said unto her, O woman, [p]great is thy faith: be it unto thee even [q]as thou wilt. And her daughter was made [r]whole from that very hour.

The multitudes healed. (Cf. Mk. 7. 31-37.)

29 And Jesus departed from thence, and came nigh unto the sea of Galilee; and went up into a mountain, and sat down there.

30 And great multitudes came unto him, having with them those that were lame, blind, dumb, maimed, and many others, and [s]cast them down at Jesus' feet; and he healed them:

31 Insomuch that the multitude wondered, when they saw the dumb to speak, the maimed to be whole, the lame to walk, and the blind to see: and they [t]glorified the God of Israel.

The four thousand fed (Mk. 8. 1-9).

32 Then Jesus called his disciples unto him, and said, I have [u]compassion on the multitude, because they continue with me now three days, and have nothing to eat: and I will not send them away fasting, lest they faint in the way.

33 And his disciples say unto him, Whence should we have so much bread in the wilderness, as to fill so great a multitude?

CHAPTER 16.

Jesus rebukes the blind Pharisees (Mk. 8. 10-12).

THE Pharisees also with the Sadducees came, and [d]tempting desired him that he would shew them [e]a sign from heaven.

2 He answered and said unto them, When it is [f]evening, ye say, It will be fair weather: for the sky is red.

3 And in the morning, It will be foul weather to day: for the sky is red and lowring. O ye hypocrites, ye can discern the face of the sky; but can ye not discern the signs of the times?

4 A [g]wicked and adulterous generation seeketh after a sign; and there shall no sign be given unto it, but the sign of the prophet Jonas. And he left them, and departed.

5 And when his disciples were come to the other side, they had forgotten to take bread.

Jesus interprets the symbol of leaven (Mk. 8. 13-21).

6 Then Jesus said unto them, Take heed and beware of the [h]leaven of the Pharisees and of the Sadducees.

7 And they reasoned among themselves, saying, It is because we have taken no bread.

8 Which when Jesus perceived, he said unto them, O ye of little faith, why reason ye among yourselves, because ye have brought no bread?

9 Do ye not [i]yet understand, neither remember the five loaves of the five thousand, and how many baskets ye took up?

10 Neither the seven loaves of the four thousand, and how many [j]baskets ye took up?

11 How is it that ye do not understand that I spake it not to you concerning bread, that ye should beware of the [h]leaven of the Pharisees and of the Sadducees?

12 Then understood they how that he bade them not beware of the leaven of bread, but of the doctrine of the Pharisees and of the Sadducees.

13 When Jesus came into the coasts of [l]Caesarea Philippi, he asked his disciples, saying, Whom do men say that I the [m]Son of man am?

[1] There is in the Greek a play upon the words, "thou art Peter [petros—literally, 'a little rock'], and upon this rock [Petra] I will build my church." He does not promise to build His church upon Peter, but upon Himself, as Peter himself is careful to tell us (1 Pet. ii. 4-9).

[2] Gr. ecclesia (ek = "out of," kaleo = "to call"), an assembly of called-out ones. The word is used of any assembly; the word itself implies no more, as, e.g., the town-meeting at Ephesus (Acts xix. 39), and Israel, called out of Egypt and assembled in the wilderness (Acts vii. 38). Israel was a true "church," but not in any sense the N.T. church—the only point of similarity being that both were "called out" and by the same God. All else is contrast. See Acts vii. 38, note; Heb. xii. 23, note.

19 And I will give unto thee the [1]keys of the [a]kingdom of heaven: and whatsoever thou shalt bind on earth shall be bound in heaven: and whatsoever thou shalt loose on earth shall be loosed in heaven.

20 Then [2b]charged he his disciples that they should tell no man that he was [c]Jesus the Christ.

Christ foretells his death and resurrection (Mk. 8. 31–38; Lk. 9. 22–27).

21 From that time forth began Jesus to shew unto his disciples, how that he must go unto Jerusalem, and [d]suffer many things of the elders and chief priests and scribes, and be killed, and be raised again the third day.

22 Then Peter took him, and began to [e]rebuke him, saying, Be it far from thee, Lord: this shall not be unto thee.

23 But he turned, and said unto Peter, Get thee behind me, [f]Satan: thou art an [g]offence unto me: for thou savourest not the things that be of God, but those that be of men.

24 Then said Jesus unto his disciples, If any man will come after me, let him deny himself, and take up his [h]cross, and follow me.

25 For whosoever will save his life shall lose it: and whosoever will lose his life for my sake shall find it.

26 For what is a man [i]profited, if he shall gain the whole [j]world, and lose his own soul? or what shall a man give in exchange for his soul?

27 For the Son of man shall come in the glory of his Father with his angels; and then he shall [k]reward every man [l]according to his works.

The transfiguration: a picture of the future kingdom (Mk. 9. 2–13; Lk. 9. 28–36).

28 Verily I say unto you, There be some standing here, which shall not taste of death, till they see the Son of man coming in [a]his [m]kingdom.

CHAPTER 17.

AND [n]after six days Jesus taketh Peter, [o]James, and John his brother, and bringeth them up into an high mountain apart,

2 And [3s]was [p]transfigured before them: and his face did shine as the sun, and his raiment was white as the light.

3 And, behold, there appeared unto them [q]Moses and Elias talking with [r]him.

4 Then answered Peter, and said unto Jesus, Lord, it is good for us to be here: if thou wilt, let us make here three tabernacles; one for thee, and one for Moses, and one for Elias.

5 While he yet spake, behold, a bright cloud overshadowed them: and behold a voice out of the cloud, which said, This is my beloved [t]Son, in whom I am well pleased; hear ye him.

6 And when the disciples heard it, they fell on their face, and were sore afraid.

7 And Jesus came and touched them, and said, Arise, and be not afraid.

[1] Not the keys of the church, but of the kingdom of heaven in the sense of Mt. xiii., i.e. the sphere of Christian profession. A key is a badge of power or authority (cf. Isa. xxii. 22; Rev. iii. 7). The apostolic history explains and limits this trust, for it was Peter who opened the door of Christian opportunity to Israel on the day of Pentecost (Acts ii. 38–42), and to Gentiles in the house of Cornelius (Acts x. 34–46). There was no assumption by Peter of any other authority (Acts xv. 7–11). In the council James, not Peter, seems to have presided (Acts xv. 19; cf. Gal. ii. 11–15). Peter claimed no more for himself than to be an apostle by gift (1 Pet. i. 1), and an elder by office (1 Pet. v. 1).

The power of binding and loosing was shared (Mt. xviii. 18; John xx. 23) by the other disciples. That it did not involve the determination of the eternal destiny of souls is clear from Rev. i. 18. The keys of death and the place of departed spirits are held by Christ alone.

[2] The disciples had been proclaiming Jesus as the Christ, i.e. the covenanted King of a kingdom promised to the Jews, and "at hand." The church, on the contrary, must be built upon testimony to Him as crucified, risen from the dead, ascended, and made "Head over all things to the church" (Eph. i. 20–23). The former testimony was ended, the new testimony was not yet ready, because the blood of the new covenant had not yet been shed, but our Lord begins to speak of His death and resurrection (v. 21). It is a turning point of immense significance.

[3] The transfiguration scene contains, in miniature, all the elements of the future kingdom in manifestation: (1) The Lord, not in humiliation, but in glory (v. 2).

8 And when they had lifted up their eyes, they saw no man, save Jesus only.

9 And as they came down from the mountain, Jesus charged them, saying, Tell the vision to no man, until the [a]Son of man be risen again from the dead.

10 And his disciples asked him, saying, [1]Why then say the scribes that Elias must first come?

11 And Jesus answered and said unto them, [b]Elias truly shall first come, and restore all things.

12 But I say unto you, That Elias is come already, and they knew him not, but have done unto him whatsoever they listed. Likewise shall also the Son of man suffer of them.

13 Then the disciples understood that he spake unto them of John the Baptist.

The powerless disciples: the mighty Christ (Mk. 9. 14–29; Lk. 9. 37–43).

14 And [c]when they were come to the multitude, there came to him a certain man, kneeling down to him, and saying,

15 Lord, have mercy on my son: for he is lunatick, and sore vexed: for ofttimes he falleth into the fire, and oft into the water.

16 And I brought him to thy disciples, and they could not cure him.

17 Then Jesus answered and said, O faithless and perverse generation, how long shall I be with you? how long shall I suffer you? bring him hither to [d]me.

18 And Jesus rebuked the [e]devil; and he departed out of him: and [f]the child was cured from that very hour.

19 Then came the disciples to Jesus apart, and said, Why could not we cast him out?

20 And Jesus said unto them, Because of your [g]unbelief: for verily I say unto you, If ye have [h]faith as a grain of mustard seed, ye shall say unto this mountain, Remove hence to yonder place; and it shall remove; and nothing shall be impossible unto you.

21 [i]Howbeit this kind goeth not out but by [j]prayer and fasting.

Jesus again foretells his death and resurrection (Mk. 9. 30–32; Lk. 9. 43–45).

22 And while they abode in Galilee, Jesus said unto them, The Son of man shall be [k]betrayed into the hands of men:

23 And they shall kill him, and the third day he shall be raised again. And they were exceeding sorry.

The miracle of the tribute money. (Cf. Mk. 12. 13.)

24 And when they were come to Capernaum, they that received tribute money came to Peter, and said, Doth not your master pay tribute?

25 He saith, Yes. And when he was come into the house, Jesus [l]prevented him, saying, What thinkest thou, Simon? of whom do the kings of the earth take custom or tribute? of their own children, or of [m]strangers?

26 Peter saith unto him, Of strangers. Jesus saith unto him, Then are the children free.

(2) Moses, glorified, representative of the redeemed who have passed through death into the kingdom (Mt. xiii. 43; cf. Lk. ix. 30, 31). (3) Elijah, glorified, representative of the redeemed who have entered the kingdom by translation (1 Cor. xv. 50–53; 1 Thes. iv. 14–17). (4) Peter, James, and John, not glorified, representatives (for the moment) of Israel in the flesh in the future kingdom (Ezk. xxxvii. 21–27). (5) The multitude at the foot of the mountain (v. 14), representative of the nations who are to be brought into the kingdom after it is established over Israel (Isa. xi. 10–12, etc.).

[1] Cf. Mt. xi. 14; Mk. ix. 11, 12, 13; Lk. i. 17; Mal. iii. 1; iv. 5, 6. All the passages must be construed together. (1) Christ confirms the specific and still unfulfilled prophecy of Mal. iv. 5, 6: "Elias shall truly first come and restore all things." Here, as in Malachi, the prediction fulfilled in John the Baptist, and that yet to be fulfilled in Elijah, are kept distinct. (2) But John the Baptist had come already, and with a ministry so completely in the spirit and power of Elijah's future ministry (Lk. i. 17) that in an adumbrative and typical sense it could be said: "Elias is come already." Cf. Mt. x. 40; Phm. 12, 17, where the same thought of identification, while yet preserving personal distinction, occurs (cf. John i. 27).

thou shalt find a piece of money: that take, and give unto them for me and thee.

CHAPTER 18.

The sermon on the child-text (Mk. 9. 33-37; Lk. 9. 46-48).

AT the same time came the disciples unto Jesus, saying, [a]Who is the greatest in the [b]kingdom of heaven?

2 And Jesus called a little [c]child unto him, and set him in the midst of them,

3 And said, Verily I say unto you, Except ye be converted, and become as little children, ye shall not enter into the kingdom of heaven.

4 Whosoever therefore shall humble himself as this little child, the same is greatest in the kingdom of heaven.

5 And whoso shall receive one such little child in my name receiveth me.

6 But whoso shall [d]offend one of these little ones which believe in me, it were better for him that a millstone were hanged about his neck, and that he were drowned in the depth of the sea.

7 Woe unto the [e]world because of offences! for it must needs be that offences come; but woe to that man by whom the offence cometh!

8 Wherefore [f]if thy hand or thy foot offend thee, cut them off, and cast them from thee: it is better for thee to enter into [g]life halt or maimed, rather than having two hands or two feet to be cast into [h]everlasting fire.

9 And if thine eye offend thee, pluck it out, and cast it from thee: it is better for thee to enter into life with one eye, rather than having two eyes to be cast into [i]hell fire.

10 Take heed that ye despise not one of these little ones; for I say unto you, That in heaven their [j]angels do always behold the face of my Father which is in heaven.

The lost sheep: the seeking Lord. (Cf. Lk. 15. 3-7.)

11 For the [k]Son of man is come to [l]save that which was [m]lost.

12 How think ye? [n]if a man have an [o]hundred sheep, and one of them be gone astray, doth he not leave the ninety and nine, and goeth into the mountains, and seeketh that which is gone astray?

13 And if so be that he find it, verily I say unto you, he rejoiceth more of that sheep, than of the ninety and nine which went not astray.

14 Even so it is not the will of your Father which is in heaven, that one of these little ones should perish.

Discipline in the future church.

15 Moreover if thy [p]brother shall [q]trespass against thee, go and tell him his fault between thee and him alone: if he shall hear thee, thou hast gained thy brother.

16 But if he will not hear thee, then take with thee one or two more, that in the mouth of [r]two or three witnesses every word may be established.

17 And if he shall neglect to hear them, tell it unto the [s]church: but if he neglect to hear the church, let him be unto thee as an [t]heathen man and a publican.

18 Verily I say unto you, Whatsoever ye shall [u]bind on earth shall be bound in heaven: and whatsoever ye shall loose on earth shall be loosed in heaven.

19 Again I say unto you, That if two of you shall [v]agree on earth as touching any thing that they shall ask, it shall be done for them of my Father which is in heaven.

The law of forgiveness (Lk. 17. 3, 4).

21 Then came Peter to him, and said, Lord, how [x]oft shall my brother [y]sin against me, and I [z]forgive him? till seven times?

22 Jesus saith unto him, I say not unto thee, Until seven times: but, Until [aa]seventy times seven.

23 Therefore is the [b]kingdom of heaven likened unto a certain king, which would [bb]take account of his servants.

24 And when he had begun to reckon, one was brought unto him, which owed him ten thousand talents.

25 But forasmuch as he had [cc]not to pay, his lord commanded him to be sold, and his wife, and children, and all that he had, and payment to be made.

26 The servant therefore fell down, and worshipped him, saying,

Lord, have patience with me, and I [a]will pay thee all.

27 Then the lord of that servant was moved with compassion, and loosed him, and [b]forgave him the debt.

28 But the same servant went out, and found one of his fellowservants, which owed him an hundred [c]pence: and he laid hands on him, and took him by the throat, saying, Pay me that thou owest.

29 And his fellowservant fell down at his feet, and besought him, saying, Have patience with me, and I will pay thee all.

30 And he [d]would not: but went and cast him into prison, till he should pay the debt.

31 So when his fellowservants saw what was done, they were very sorry, and came and told unto their lord all that was done.

32 Then his lord, after that he had called him, said unto him, O thou wicked servant, [e]I forgave thee all that debt, because thou desiredst me:

33 Shouldest not thou also have had compassion on thy fellowservant, even as I had pity on thee?

34 And his lord was wroth, and delivered him to the [f]tormentors, till he should pay all that was due unto him.

35 So likewise shall my heavenly Father do also unto you, if ye from your hearts forgive not every one his brother their trespasses.

CHAPTER 19.

Jesus again in Judæa.

AND it came to pass, that when Jesus had finished these sayings, he [g]departed from Galilee, and came into the coasts of Judæa beyond Jordan;

2 And great multitudes followed him; and he [h]healed them there.

Christ and divorce. (Cf. Mt. 5. 31, 32; Mk. 10. 1-12; Lk. 16. 18; 1 Cor. 7. 10-15.)

3 The Pharisees also came unto him, [i]tempting him, and saying unto him, [j]Is it lawful for a man to put away his wife for every cause?

4 And he answered and said unto them, [k]Have ye not read, [l]that he which made them at the beginning made them male and female,

5 And said, For this cause shall a man leave father and mother, and shall cleave to his wife: and [m]they twain shall be one flesh?

6 Wherefore they are no more twain, but one flesh. What therefore God hath joined together, let not man put asunder.

7 They say unto him, Why did [n]Moses then command to give a writing of divorcement, and to put her away?

8 He saith unto them, [o]Moses because of the [p]hardness of your hearts suffered you to put away your wives: but from the beginning it was not so.

9 And I say unto you, [q]Whosoever shall put away his wife, except it be for fornication, and shall marry another, committeth adultery: and whoso marrieth her which is put away doth commit adultery.

10 His disciples say unto him, If the case of the man be so with his wife, it is not good to marry.

11 But he said unto them, [r]All men cannot receive this saying, save they to whom it is given.

12 For there are some eunuchs, which were so born from their mother's womb: and there are some eunuchs, which were made eunuchs of men: and there be eunuchs, which have [s]made themselves eunuchs for the [t]kingdom of heaven's sake. He that is able to receive it, let him receive it.

Jesus receives and blesses little children (Mk. 10. 13-16; Lk. 18. 15-17).

13 Then were there brought unto him little children, that he should put his hands on them, and pray: and the disciples rebuked them.

14 But Jesus said, Suffer little children, and forbid them not, to come unto me: for [u]of such is the [t]kingdom of heaven.

15 And he laid his hands on them, and departed thence.

23 Then said Jesus unto his disciples, Verily I say unto you, That a [f]rich man shall hardly enter into the [g]kingdom of heaven.

24 And again I say unto you, It is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle, than for a rich man to enter into the kingdom of God.

29 And [m]every one that hath forsaken houses, or brethren, or sisters, or father, or mother, or wife, or children, or lands, for my name's sake, shall receive an hundredfold, and shall inherit everlasting life.

CHAPTER 20.

Parable of the labourers in the vineyard.

FOR the kingdom of heaven is [o]like unto a man that is an householder, which went out early in the morning to hire labourers into his [p]vineyard.

2 And when he had agreed with the labourers for a penny a day, he sent them into his vineyard.

3 And he went out about the third hour, and saw [q]others standing idle in the marketplace,

4 And said unto them; Go ye also into the vineyard, and whatsoever is right I will give you. And they went their way.

5 Again he went out about the sixth and ninth hour, and did likewise.

6 And about the eleventh hour he went out, and found others standing idle, and saith unto them, [r]Why stand ye here all the day idle?

7 They say unto him, Because no man hath hired us. He saith unto them, Go ye also into the vineyard; and whatsoever is right, that shall ye receive.

8 So when [s]even was come, the lord of the vineyard saith unto his steward, Call the labourers, and give them their hire, beginning from the last unto the first.

9 And when they came that were hired about the eleventh hour, they [t]received every man a penny.

10 But when the first came, they supposed that they should have received more; and they likewise received every man a penny.

11 And when they had received it, they [u]murmured against the goodman of the house,

12 Saying, These last have wrought but one hour, and thou hast made them [v]equal unto us, which have borne the burden and heat of the day.

13 But he answered one of them,

[1] Gr. palingenesia = "re-creation," "making new." The word occurs once again, in Tit. iii. 5. There it refers to the new birth of a believing person; here to the re-creation of the social order, and renewal of the earth (Isa. xi. 6–9; Rom. viii. 19–23) when the kingdom shall come. (See "Kingdom, (O. T.)," Zech. xii. 8, note; 1 Cor. xv. 24, note.)

[2] Disclosing how the promise (Isa. i. 26) will be fulfilled when the kingdom is set up. The kingdom will be administered over Israel through the apostles, according to the ancient theocratic judgeship (Jud. ii. 18).

and said, Friend, I do thee no wrong: didst not thou agree with me for a penny?

14 Take that thine is, and go thy way: I will give unto this last, even as unto thee.

15 Is it not lawful for me to do [a]what I will with mine own? Is thine eye evil, because I am good?

16 So the [b]last shall be first, and the first last: for many be called, but few chosen.

Jesus again foretells his death and resurrection (Mk. 10. 32-34; Lk. 18. 31-34. See Mt. 12. 38-45; 16. 21-28; 17. 22, 23).

17 And Jesus going up to Jerusalem took the twelve disciples apart in the way, and said unto them,

18 [c]Behold, we go up to Jerusalem; and the [d]Son of man shall be betrayed unto the chief priests and unto the scribes, and they shall condemn him to death,

19 And shall deliver him to the [e]Gentiles to [f]mock, and to [g]scourge, and to [h]crucify him: and the third day he shall [i]rise again.

James and John, through their mother, make an ambitious request (Mk. 10. 35-45).

20 Then came to him the [j]mother of Zebedee's children with her sons, worshipping him, and desiring a certain thing of him.

21 And he said unto her, What wilt thou? She saith unto him, Grant that these my [k]two sons may sit, the one on thy right hand, and the other on the left, in thy [l]kingdom.

22 But Jesus answered and said, Ye know not what ye ask. Are ye able to drink of the [m]cup that I shall drink of, and to be baptized with the baptism that I am baptized with? They say unto him, We are able.

23 And he saith unto them, Ye shall drink indeed of my cup, and be baptized with the baptism that I am baptized with: but to sit on my right hand, and on my left, is not mine to give, but it shall be given to them for whom it is prepared of my Father.

24 And when the ten heard it, they were moved with [n]indignation against the two brethren.

25 But Jesus called them unto him, and said, Ye know that the princes of the Gentiles exercise dominion over them, and they that are great exercise authority upon them.

26 But it shall [o]not be so among you: but whosoever will be great among you, let him be your [p]minister;

27 And whosoever will be chief among you, let him be your [q]servant:

28 Even as the [r]Son of man came not [s]to be ministered unto, but to minister, and to give his life a [t]ransom for many.

The healing of two blind men (Mk. 10. 46-52. Cf. Lk. 18. 35-43).

29 And as they [u]departed from Jericho, a great multitude followed him.

30 And, behold, [1]two blind men sitting by the way side, when they heard that Jesus passed by, cried out, saying, Have mercy on us, O Lord, thou [v]son of David.

31 And the multitude rebuked them, because they should hold their peace: but they cried the more, saying, Have mercy on us, O Lord, thou son of David.

32 And Jesus stood still, and called them, and said, [w]What will ye that I shall do unto you?

33 They say unto him, Lord, that our eyes may be opened.

34 So Jesus had [x]compassion on them, and touched their eyes: and [y]immediately their eyes received sight, and they followed him.

[1] A discrepancy has been imagined between this account and those in Mk. x. 46; Lk. xviii. 35. Matthew and Mark obviously refer to a work of healing as Jesus departed from Jericho. Bartimeus, the active one of the two, the one who cried, "Jesus, thou Son of David," is specifically mentioned by Mark. Of the other one of the "two," we know nothing. The healing described by Luke (xviii. 35) occurred before Jesus entered Jericho. As to the form of appeal, "Son of David" (cf. Mt. ix. 27; xv. 22; xxi. 9), Jesus must have been so addressed constantly. The narratives therefore supplement, but in no wise contradict each other.

Olives, then sent Jesus two disciples,

2 Saying unto them, Go into the village over against you, and straightway ye shall find an ass tied, and a colt with her: loose them, and bring them unto me.

3 And if any man say ought unto you, ye shall say, The Lord hath [a]need of them; and straightway he will send them.

4 All this was done, that it might be [1]fulfilled which was spoken by the prophet, saying,

5 Tell ye the daughter of Sion, [b]Behold, thy [c]King cometh unto thee, meek, and sitting upon an ass, and a colt the foal of an ass.

6 And the disciples went, and did as Jesus commanded them,

7 And brought the ass, and the colt, and put on them their clothes, and they set him thereon.

8 And a very great multitude spread their garments in the way; others cut down branches from the trees, and strawed them in the way.

9 And the multitudes that went before, and that followed, cried, saying, [d]Hosanna to the son of David: Blessed is he that cometh in the name of the [e]Lord; Hosanna in the highest.

10 And when he was come into Jerusalem, all the city was moved, saying, Who is this?

11 And the [f]multitude said, This is Jesus the prophet of Nazareth of Galilee.

Jesus' second purification of the temple (Mk. 11. 15-18; Lk. 19. 45-47. Cf. John 2. 13-16).

12 And Jesus went into the temple of God, and [g]cast out all them that sold and bought in the temple, and overthrew the tables of the moneychangers, and the seats of them that sold doves, 13 And said unto them, It is written, [h]My house shall be called the house of prayer; but [i]ye have made it a den of thieves.

14 And the [j]blind and the lame came to him in the temple; and he healed them.

15 And when the chief priests and scribes saw the wonderful things that he did, and the children crying in the temple, and saying, [k]Hosanna to the [k]son of David; they were sore displeased,

16 And said unto him, Hearest thou what these say? And Jesus saith unto them, Yea; have ye never read, [l]Out of the mouth of babes and sucklings thou hast perfected praise?

17 And he [m]left them, and went out of the city into [n]Bethany; and he lodged there.

The barren fig tree cursed (Mk. 11. 12-14, 20-24).

18 Now in the morning as he returned into the city, he [o]hungered.

19 And when he saw a [p]fig tree in the way, he came to it, and found nothing thereon, but leaves only, and said unto it, Let no fruit grow on thee henceforward for ever. And presently the fig tree [q]withered away.

20 And when the disciples saw it, they marvelled, saying, How soon is the fig tree withered away!

21 Jesus answered and said unto them, Verily I say unto you, If ye have [r]faith, and doubt not, ye shall not only do this which is done to the fig tree, but also if ye shall say unto this mountain, Be thou removed, and be thou cast into the sea; it shall be done.

22 And [s]all things, whatsoever ye shall ask in prayer, believing, ye shall receive.

Jesus' authority questioned (Mk. 11. 27-33; Lk. 20. 1-8).

23 And when he was come into the temple, the chief priests and the elders of the people came unto him as he was teaching, and said, By what [t]authority doest thou these things? and who gave thee this authority?

24 And Jesus answered and said unto them, I also will ask you one thing, which if ye tell me, I in like wise will tell you by what authority I do these things.

27 And they answered Jesus, and said, We cannot tell. And he said

Parable of the two sons.

28 But what think ye? [b]A certain man had two sons; and he came to the first, and said, Son, go work to day in my [c]vineyard.

29 He answered and said, I will not: but afterward he [d]repented, and went.

30 And he came to the second, and said likewise. And he answered and said, I go, sir: and went [e]not.

31 Whether of them twain did the will of his father? They say unto him, The first. Jesus saith unto them, Verily I say unto you, That the publicans and the harlots go into the kingdom of God before you.

32 For John came unto you in the way of [f]righteousness, and ye believed him not: but the publicans and the harlots [g]believed him: and ye, when ye had seen it, repented not afterward, that ye might believe him.

Parable of the householder demanding fruit from his vineyard (Mk. 12. 1-9; Lk. 20. 9-19, Cf. Isa. 5. 1-7).

33 Hear another parable: There was a certain householder, which planted a [c]vineyard, and hedged it round about, and digged a winepress in it, and built a tower, and let it out to [h]husbandmen, and went into a far country:

34 And when the [i]time of the fruit drew near, he sent his servants to the husbandmen, that they might receive the fruits of it.

35 And the husbandmen took his servants, and beat one, and killed another, and stoned another.

36 Again, he sent other servants more than the first: and they did unto them likewise.

37 But last of all he sent unto them his [j]son, saying, They will reverence my son.

38 But when the husbandmen saw the son, they said among themselves, This is the [k]heir; come, let us kill him, and let us seize on his inheritance.

39 And they caught him, and cast him out of the vineyard, and slew him.

40 When the lord therefore of the vineyard cometh, what will he do unto those husbandmen?

41 [l]They say unto him, He will miserably destroy those wicked men, and will let out his vineyard unto other husbandmen, which shall render him the fruits in their seasons.

42 Jesus saith unto them, Did ye never [m]read in the scriptures, The [n]stone which the builders [o]rejected, the same is become the head of the corner: this is the [p]Lord's doing, and it is marvellous in our eyes?

43 Therefore say I unto [q]you, The [r]kingdom of God shall be taken from you, and given to a nation bringing forth the fruits thereof.

44 [s]And whosoever shall fall on this [2]stone shall be broken: but on whomsoever it shall fall, it will grind him to powder.

45 And when the chief priests and Pharisees had heard his parables, they perceived that he spake of them.

46 But when they sought to lay hands on him, they [t]feared the multitude, because they took him for a prophet.

CHAPTER 22.

Parable of the marriage feast (Lk. 14. 16-24).

AND Jesus answered and spake unto them again by [u]parables, and said,

2 The [v]kingdom of heaven is [w]like unto a certain king, which made a marriage for his son,

3 And sent forth his servants to call them that were bidden to the wedding: and they would not come.

4 Again, he sent forth other servants, saying, Tell them which are bidden, Behold, I have prepared my dinner: my oxen and my fatlings are killed, and all things are ready: come unto the marriage.

5 But they made light of it, and went their ways, one to his farm, another to his merchandise:

[1] Note that Matthew here as in verse 33 uses the larger word, kingdom of God. (Cf. Mt. vi. 33, note.) The kingdom of heaven (Mt. iii. 2, note; 1 Cor. xv. 24, summary) will yet be set up. Meantime the kingdom of God and His righteousness is taken from Israel nationally and given to the Gentiles (Rom. ix. 30-33).

[2] Christ as the "Stone" is revealed in a threefold way: (1) To Israel Christ,

6 And the remnant took his servants, and entreated them spitefully, and slew them.

7 But when the king heard thereof, he was wroth: and he sent forth his armies, and destroyed those murderers, and [a]burned up their city.

8 Then saith he to his servants, The wedding is ready, but they which were bidden were not worthy.

9 [b]Go ye therefore into the highways, and as many as ye shall find, bid to the marriage.

10 So those servants went out into the [c]highways, and gathered together all as many as they found, [d]both bad and good: and the wedding was furnished with guests.

11 And when the king came in to see the guests, he saw there a man which had not on a wedding garment:

12 And he saith unto him, Friend, how camest thou in hither not having a [e]wedding garment? And he was [f]speechless.

13 Then said the king to the servants, Bind him hand and foot, and take him away, and cast him into [g]outer darkness; there shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth.

14 For [h]many are called, but few are chosen.

Jesus answers the Herodians (Mk. 12. 13-17; Lk. 20. 20-26).

15 [i]Then went the Pharisees, and took counsel how they might entangle him in his talk.

16 And they sent out unto him their disciples with the [j]Herodians, saying, Master, we know that thou art true, and teachest the way of God in truth neither carest thou for any man: for thou regardest not the person of men.

17 Tell us therefore, What thinkest thou? Is it lawful to give [k]tribute unto Cæsar, or not?

18 But Jesus perceived their wickedness, and said, Why [l]tempt ye me, ye hypocrites?

19 Shew me the tribute money. And they brought unto him a penny.

20 And he saith unto them, Whose is this image and superscription?

21 They say unto him, Cæsar's. Then saith he unto them, [m]Render therefore unto Cæsar the things which are Cæsar's; and unto [n]God the things that are God's.

22 When they had heard these words, they marvelled, and left him, and went their way.

Jesus answers the Sadducees (Mk. 12. 18-27; Lk. 20. 27-40).

23 The same day came to him the Sadducees, which say that there is no [o]resurrection, and asked him,

24 Saying, Master, Moses said, If a man die, having no children, his brother shall marry his wife, and raise up seed unto his brother.

25 [p]Now there were with us seven brethren: and the first, when he had married a wife, deceased, and, having no issue, left his wife unto his brother:

26 Likewise the second also, and the third, unto the seventh.

27 And last of all the woman died also.

28 Therefore in the resurrection whose wife shall she be of the seven? for they all had her.

29 Jesus answered and said unto them, [q]Ye do err, not knowing the scriptures, nor the power of God.

30 For in the [r]resurrection they neither marry, nor are given in marriage, but are [s]as the angels of God in heaven.

31 But as touching the resurrection of the dead, have ye not read [t]that which was spoken unto you by God, saying,

32 I am the God of Abraham, and the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob? God is not the God of the dead, but of the living.

33 And when the multitude heard this, they were astonished at his doctrine.

Jesus answers the Pharisees (Mk. 12. 28-31. Cf. Lk. 10. 25-28).

34 But when the Pharisees had heard that he had put the Sadducees to silence, they were gathered together.

coming not as a splendid monarch but in the form of a servant, is a stumbling-stone and rock of offence (Isa. viii. 14, 15; Rom. ix. 32, 33; 1 Cor. i. 23; 1 Pet. ii. 8): (2) to the church, Christ is the foundation-stone and the head of the corner (1 Cor. iii. 11; Eph. ii. 20-22; 1 Pet. ii. 4, 5); (3) to the Gentile world-powers (see "Gentiles," Lk. xxi. 24; Rev. xvi. 19) He is to be the smiting-stone of destruction (Dan. ii. 34). Israel stumbled over Christ; the church is built upon Christ; Gentile world-dominion will be broken by Christ. (See "Armageddon," Rev. xvi. 14; xix. 19.)

35 Then one of them, which was a [1]a lawyer, asked him a question, tempting him, and saying,

36 Master, which is the b great commandment in the c law?

37 Jesus said unto him, Thou shalt d love the e Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind.

38 This is the first and great commandment.

39 And the second is like unto it, f Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself.

40 On these two commandments hang g all the law and the prophets.

Jesus questions the Pharisees (Mk. 12. 35-37; Lk. 20. 41-44).

41 While the Pharisees were gathered together, Jesus h asked them,

42 Saying, What think ye of Christ? whose son is he? They say unto him, The son of David.

43 He saith unto them, How then doth David i in j spirit call him Lord, saying, 44 The LORD said unto my Lord, Sit thou on my right hand, till I make thine enemies thy footstool?

45 If David then call him Lord, how is he his son?

46 And no man was able to answer him a word, neither durst any man from that day forth ask him any more questions.

CHAPTER 23.

The marks of a Pharisee (Mk. 12. 38-40; Lk. 20. 45-47).

THEN spake Jesus to the multitude, and to his disciples,

2 Saying, The scribes and the Pharisees k sit in Moses' seat:

3 All therefore whatsoever they bid you observe, that observe and do; but do not ye after their works: for they say, and do not.

4 For l they bind heavy burdens and grievous to be borne, and lay them on men's shoulders; but they themselves will not move them with one of their fingers.

5 But all their works they do for to m be seen of men: they make broad their n phylacteries, and enlarge the borders of their garments,

6 And love the uppermost rooms at feasts, and the chief seats in the synagogues,

7 And greetings in the markets, and to be called of men, Rabbi, Rabbi.

8 But be not ye called Rabbi: for one is your o Master, even Christ; and all ye are brethren.

9 And call no man your p father upon the earth: for one is your Father, which is in heaven.

10 q Neither be ye called masters: for one is your Master, even Christ.

11 But he that is greatest among you shall be your servant.

12 And whosoever shall exalt himself shall be abased; and he that shall humble himself shall be exalted.

Jesus denounces woe upon the Pharisees (Mk. 12. 38-40; Lk. 20. 47).

13 But woe unto you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! for ye shut up the kingdom of heaven against men: for ye neither go in yourselves, neither suffer ye them that are entering to go in.

14 r Woe unto you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! for ye devour widows' houses, and for a pretence make long prayer: therefore ye shall receive the greater s damnation.

15 Woe unto you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! for ye t compass sea and land to make one proselyte, and when he is made, ye make him twofold more the child of u hell than yourselves.

16 Woe unto you, ye v blind guides, which say, Whosoever shall swear by the temple, it is nothing; but whosoever shall swear by the gold of the temple, he is w a debtor!

17 Ye fools and blind: for whether is greater, the gold, or the temple that x sanctifieth the gold?

18 And, Whosoever shall swear by the altar, it is nothing; but whosoever sweareth by the gift that is upon it, he is guilty.

19 Ye fools and blind: for whether is greater, the gift, or the altar that sanctifieth the gift?

20 Whoso therefore shall swear by the altar, sweareth by it, and by all things thereon.

21 And whoso shall swear by the temple, sweareth by it, and by him that dwelleth therein.

22 And he that shall swear by heaven, sweareth by the throne of God, and by him that sitteth thereon.

23 Woe unto you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! for ye pay [a]tithe of mint and anise and cummin, and have omitted the [b]weightier matters of the law, judgment, mercy, and faith: these ought ye to have done, and not to leave the other undone.

CHAPTER 24.

The Olivet discourse: (1) destruction of the temple foretold (Mk. 13. 1, 2; Lk. 21. 5, 6).

AND Jesus went out, and [u]departed from the temple: and his disciples came to him for to shew him the buildings of the temple.

2 And Jesus said unto them, See ye not all these things? verily I say unto you, [v]There shall not be left here one stone upon another, that shall not be thrown down.

The Olivet discourse: (2) the threefold question (Mk. 13. 3, 4; Lk. 21. 7).

3 And [w]as he sat upon the mount of Olives, the disciples came unto him privately, saying, [2]Tell us, [x]when shall these things be? and what shall be the sign of thy [y]coming, and of the [z]end of the world?

The Olivet discourse: (3) the course of this age (Mk. 13. 5-13; Lk. 21. 8-19).

4 And Jesus answered and said

[1] The three "until's" of Israel's full blessing: (1) Israel must say, "Blessed is He" (Mt. xxiii. 39; cf. Rom. x. 3, 4). (2) Gentile world-power must run its course (Lk. xxi. 24; Dan. ii. 34, 35). (3) The elect number of the Gentiles must be brought in. Then "the Deliverer shall come out of Zion," etc. (Rom. xi. 25-27).

[2] Mt. xxiv. with Lk. xxi. 20-24 answers the threefold question. The order is as follows: "When shall these things be?"—i.e. destruction of the temple and city.

unto them, Take heed that no man deceive you.

5 For [a]many shall come in my name, saying, I am Christ; and shall deceive many.

6 And ye shall hear of [b]wars and rumours of wars: see that ye be not troubled: for all these things must come to pass, but the end is not yet.

7 For [c]nation shall rise against nation, and kingdom against kingdom: and there shall be [d]famines, and pestilences, and [e]earthquakes, in divers places.

8 All these are the beginning of sorrows.

9 Then shall they [f]deliver you up to be afflicted, and shall kill you: and ye shall be hated of all nations for my name's sake.

10 And then shall [g]many be offended, and shall betray one another, and shall hate one another.

11 And many [h]false prophets shall rise, and shall deceive many.

12 And because [i]iniquity shall abound, the love of many shall wax [k]cold.

13 But he that shall endure unto the end, the same shall be saved.

14 And this [l]gospel of the [m]kingdom shall be preached in all the [n]world for a witness unto all nations; and then shall the end come.

15 When ye therefore shall see the [o]abomination of desolation, [p]spoken of by Daniel the prophet, stand in the holy place, (whoso readeth, let him understand:)

16 [1]Then let them which be in Judæa flee into the mountains:

17 Let him which is on the house-top not come down to take any thing out of his house:

18 Neither let him which is in the field return back to take his clothes.

19 And woe unto them that are with child, and to them that give suck in those days!

20 But pray ye that your flight be not in the winter, neither on the sabbath day:

21 For then shall be [q]great tribulation, such as was not since the beginning of the [r]world to this time, no, nor ever shall be.

22 And except those days should be [s]shortened, there should no flesh be saved: but for the elect's sake those days shall be shortened.

23 Then if any man shall say unto you, Lo, here is Christ, or there; believe it not.

24 For there shall arise false Christs, and false prophets, and shall shew great signs and won-

Answer, Lk. xxi. 20-24. Second and third questions: "And what shall be the sign of thy coming, and of the end of the age?" Answer, Mt. xxiv. 4-33. Verses 4 to 14 have a double interpretation: They give (1) the character of the age—wars, international conflicts, famines, pestilences, persecutions, and false Christs (cf. Dan. ix. 26). This is not the description of a converted world. (2) But the same answer (vs. 4-14) applies in a specific way to the end of the age, viz. Daniel's seventieth week (Dan. ix. 24-27, note). All that has characterized the age gathers into awful intensity at the end. Verse 14 has specific reference to the proclamation of the good news that the kingdom is again "at hand" by the Jewish remnant (Isa. i. 9; Rev. xiv. 6, 7; Rom. xi. 5, note). Verse 15 gives the sign of the abomination (Dan. ix. 27, note)—the "man of sin," or "Beast" (2 Thes. ii. 3-8; Dan. ix. 27; xii. 11; Rev. xiii. 4-7).

This introduces the great tribulation (Psa. ii. 5; Rev. vii. 14, note), which runs its awful course of three and a half years, culminating in the battle of Rev. xix. 19-21, note, at which time Christ becomes the smiting Stone of Dan. ii. 34. The detail of this period (vs. 15-28) is: (1) The abomination in the holy place (v. 15); (2) the warning (vs. 16-20) to believing Jews who will then be in Jerusalem; (3) the great tribulation, with renewed warning as to false Christs (vs. 21-26); (4) the sudden smiting of the Gentile world-power (vs. 27, 28); (5) the glorious appearing of the Lord, visible to all nations, and the regathering of Israel (vs. 29-31); (6) the sign of the fig-tree (vs. 32, 33); (7) warnings, applicable to this present age over which these events are ever impending (vs. 34-51; Phil. iv. 5). Careful study of Dan. ii., vii., ix., and Rev. xiii. will make the interpretation clear. See, also, "Remnant" (Isa. i. 9; Rom. xi. 5).

[1] Cf. Lk. xxi. 20-24. The passage in Luke refers in express terms to a destruction of Jerusalem which was fulfilled by Titus, A.D. 70; the passage in Matthew to a future crisis in Jerusalem after the manifestation of the "abomination." See "Beast" (Dan. vii. 8; Rev. xix. 20); and "Armageddon" (Rev. xvi. 14; xix. 17). As the circumstances in both cases will be similar, so are the warnings. In the former case Jerusalem was destroyed; in the latter it will be delivered by divine interposition.

ders; insomuch that, if it were possible, they shall deceive the very elect.

25 Behold, I have told you before.

26 Wherefore if they shall say unto you, Behold, he is in the desert; go not forth: behold, he is in the secret chambers; believe it not.

The Olivet discourse: (5) the return of the King in glory (Mk. 13. 24-37; Lk. 21. 25-36).

27 For as the [a]lightning cometh out of the east, and shineth even unto the west; [b]so shall also the coming of the [c]Son of man be.

28 For wheresoever the [d]carcase is, there will the eagles be gathered together.

29 Immediately after the tribulation of [e]those days shall the sun be darkened, and the moon shall not give her light, and the stars shall fall from heaven, and the powers of the heavens shall be shaken:

30 And then shall appear the sign of the Son of man in heaven: and then shall all the tribes of the earth mourn, and they shall see [f]the Son of man coming in the clouds of heaven with power and great glory.

31 And he shall [g]send his [h]angels with a great sound of a trumpet, and they [i]shall gather together his elect from the four winds, from one end of heaven to the other.

Parable of the fig tree (Mk. 13. 28, 29; Lk. 21. 29-31).

32 Now learn a [j]parable of the fig tree; When his branch is yet tender, and putteth forth leaves, ye know that summer is nigh:

33 So likewise ye, when ye shall [k]see all these things, know that [l]it is near, even at the doors.

34 Verily I say unto you, [1m]This generation shall not pass, till all these things be fulfilled.

35 [n]Heaven and earth shall pass away, but my words shall not pass away.

36 But of that day and hour [o]knoweth no man, no, not the [h]angels of heaven, but my Father only.

37 But as the [p]days of Noe were, so shall also the coming of the Son of man be.

38 For as in the days that were before the flood they were eating and drinking, marrying and giving in marriage, until the day that Noe entered into the ark,

39 And knew not until the flood came, and took them all away; [q]so shall also the coming of the Son of man be.

40 Then shall two be in the field; the one shall be taken, and the other left.

41 Two women shall be grinding at the mill; the one shall be taken, and the other left.

42 [r]Watch therefore: for ye know not [s]what hour your Lord doth come.

43 But know this, that if the goodman of the house had known [t]in what watch the thief would come, he would have watched, and would not have suffered his house to be broken up.

44 Therefore be ye also [t]ready: for in such an hour as ye think not the Son of man cometh.

45 Who then is a [u]faithful and wise servant, whom his lord hath made ruler over his household, [v]to give them meat in due season?

46 Blessed is that servant, whom his lord when he cometh shall find so doing.

47 Verily I say unto you, That he shall make him ruler over all his goods.

48 But and if that evil servant shall say in his heart, [w]My lord delayeth his coming;

49 And shall begin to smite his fellowservants, and to eat and drink with the drunken;

50 The lord of that servant shall [x]come in a day when he looketh not for him, and in an hour that he is not aware of,

51 And shall cut him asunder, and appoint him his portion with the [y]hypocrites: there shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth.

The promise is, therefore, that the generation—nation, or family of Israel—will be preserved unto "these things"; a promise wonderfully fulfilled to this day.

The Olivet discourse: (6) the Lord's return tests the real state of the kingdom in mystery.

THEN [1]shall the kingdom of [a]heaven be [b]likened unto ten [2]virgins, which took their lamps, and went forth to meet the bridegroom.

2 And five of them were [c]wise, and five were [d]foolish.

3 They that were foolish took their lamps, and took no oil with them:

4 But the wise took oil in their vessels with their lamps.

5 While the bridegroom tarried, they all slumbered and slept.

6 And at midnight there was a cry made, Behold, the bridegroom cometh; go ye out to meet him.

7 Then all those virgins arose, and trimmed their lamps.

8 And the foolish said unto the wise, Give us of your oil; for our lamps are [e]gone out.

9 But the wise answered, saying, Not so; lest there be not enough for us and you: but go ye rather to them that sell, and buy for yourselves.

10 And while they went to buy, the bridegroom came; and they that were [f]ready went in with him to the marriage: and the door was shut.

11 Afterward came also the other virgins, saying, Lord, Lord, [g]open to us.

12 But he answered and said, Verily I say unto you, I know you not.

13 Watch therefore, for ye [h]know neither the day nor the hour wherein the [i]Son of man cometh.

The Olivet discourse: (7) the Lord's return tests the servants.

14 For [j]the kingdom of heaven is as a man travelling into a far country, who called his own servants, and delivered unto them his [k]goods.

15 And unto one he gave five talents, to another two, and to another one; to every man [l]according to his several ability; and straightway took his journey.

16 Then he that had received the five talents went and [m]traded with the same, and made them other five talents.

17 And likewise he that had received two, he also gained other two.

18 But he that had received one went and digged in the earth, and [n]hid his lord's money.

19 After a long time the lord of those servants cometh, and [o]reckoneth with them.

20 And so he that had received five talents came and brought other five talents, saying, Lord, thou deliveredst unto me five talents: behold, I have gained beside them five talents more.

21 His lord said unto him, [p]Well done, thou good and faithful servant: thou hast been [q]faithful over a few things, I will make thee ruler over many things: enter thou into the joy of thy lord.

22 He also that had received two talents came and said, Lord, thou deliveredst unto me two talents: behold, I have gained two other talents beside them.

23 His lord said unto him, [r]Well done, good and faithful servant; thou hast been faithful over a few things, I will make thee ruler over many things: enter thou into the [s]joy of thy lord.

24 Then he which had received the one talent came and said, Lord, I knew thee that thou art an [t]hard man, reaping where thou hast not sown, and gathering where thou hast not strawed:

25 And I was afraid, and went and hid thy talent in the earth: lo, there thou hast that is thine.

26 His lord answered and said unto him, Thou [u]wicked and sloth-

[1] This part of the Olivet discourse goes beyond the "sign" questions of the disciples (Mt. xxiv. 3), and presents our Lord's return in three aspects: (1) As testing profession, vs. 1-13; (2) as testing service, vs. 14-30; (3) as testing the Gentile nations, vs. 31-46.

[2] The kingdom of heaven here is the sphere of profession, as in Mt. xiii. All alike have lamps, but two facts fix the real status of the foolish virgins: They "took no oil," and the Lord said, "I know you not." Oil is the symbol of the Holy Spirit, and "If any man have not the spirit of Christ, he is none of his" (Rom. viii. 9). Nor could the Lord say to any believer, however unspiritual, "I know you not."

ful servant, thou knewest that I reap where I sowed not, and gather where I have not strawed:

27 Thou oughtest therefore to have put my money to the exchangers, and then at my coming I should have received mine own with usury.

28 Take therefore the talent from him, and give it unto him which hath ten talents.

29 For unto [a]every one that hath shall be given, and he shall have abundance: but from him that hath not shall be taken away even [b]that which he hath.

30 And [c]cast ye the unprofitable servant into [d]outer darkness: there shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth.

The Olivet discourse: (8) the Lord's return tests the Gentile nations. (Cf. Joel 3. 11-16.)

31 When the Son of man shall [e]come in his glory, and all the [f]holy [g]angels with him, [h]then shall he sit upon the throne of his glory:

32 [1]And before him shall be [i]gathered all nations: and he shall separate them one from another, as a shepherd divideth his sheep from the goats:

33 And he shall set the [j]sheep on his right hand, but the [k]goats on the left.

34 Then shall the King say unto them on his right hand, Come, ye blessed of my Father, inherit the [l]kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the [m]world:

35 For I was an [n]hungred, and ye gave me meat: I was thirsty, and ye gave me drink: I was a stranger, and ye took me in:

36 Naked, and ye clothed me: I was sick, and ye visited me: I was in prison, and ye came unto me.

37 Then shall the [o]righteous answer him, saying, Lord, when saw we thee an hungred, and fed thee? or thirsty, and gave thee drink?

38 When saw we thee a stranger, and took thee in? or naked, and clothed thee?

39 Or when saw we thee sick, or in prison, and came unto thee?

40 And the King shall answer and say unto them, Verily I say unto you, Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the [p]least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me.

41 Then shall he say also unto them on the left hand, [q]Depart from me, ye cursed, into everlasting fire, prepared for the [r]devil and his [s]angels:

42 For I was an [t]hungred, and ye gave me no meat: I was thirsty, and ye gave me no drink:

43 I was a stranger, and ye took me not in: naked, and ye clothed me not: sick, and in prison, and ye visited me not.

44 Then shall they also answer him, saying, Lord, when saw we thee an hungred, or athirst, or a stranger, or naked, or sick, or in prison, and did not minister unto thee?

45 Then shall he answer them, saying, Verily I say unto you, [u]Inasmuch as ye did it not to one of the least of these, ye did it not to me.

46 [v]And these shall go away [w]into [x]everlasting punishment: but the [o]righteous into [y]life eternal.

The Jewish authorities consult to put Jesus to death (Mk. 14. 1, 2; Lk. 22. 1, 2).

AND it came to pass, when Jesus had finished all these sayings, he said unto his disciples,

2 Ye know that after two days is the feast of the passover, and the Son of man is betrayed to be crucified.

3 Then assembled together the chief priests, and the scribes, and the elders of the people, unto the palace of the high priest, who was called Caiaphas,

[1] This judgment is to be distinguished from the judgment of the great white throne. Here there is no resurrection; the persons judged are living nations; no books are opened; three classes are present, sheep, goats, brethren; the time is at the return of Christ (v. 31); and the scene is on the earth. All these particulars are in contrast with Rev. xx. 11-15. The test in this judgment is the treatment accorded by the nations to those whom Christ here calls "my brethren." These "brethren" are the Jewish Remnant who will have preached the Gospel of the kingdom to all nations during the tribulation. See "Remnant" (Isa. 1. 9; Rom. xi. 5). The test in Rev. xx. 11-15, is the possession of eternal life. Jesus anointed by Mary of Bethany (Mk. 14. 3-9; John 12. 1-8).

6 Now when Jesus was in [c]Bethany, in the house of Simon the [d]leper,

7 There came unto him a [e]woman having an alabaster box of very precious ointment, and poured it on his [1]head, as he sat at meat.

8 But when his disciples saw it, they had indignation, saying, To what purpose is this waste?

9 For this ointment might have been sold for much, and given to the poor.

10 When Jesus understood it, he said unto them, Why trouble ye the woman? for she hath wrought a good work upon me.

11 For ye have the poor always with you; but [f]me ye have not always.

12 For in that she hath poured this ointment on my body, she did it [g]for my [h]burial.

13 Verily I say unto you, Wheresoever this [i]gospel shall be preached in the whole [j]world, there shall also this, that this woman hath done, be told for a memorial of her.

Judas Iscariot sells the Lord (Mk. 14. 10, 11; Lk. 22. 3-6).

14 Then one of the twelve, called Judas Iscariot, went unto the chief priests,

15 And said unto them, What will ye give me, and I will deliver him unto you? And they covenanted with him for [k]thirty pieces of silver.

16 And from that time he sought opportunity to betray him.

The preparation of the passover (Mk. 14. 12-16; Lk. 22. 7-13).

17 Now the first day of the feast of unleavened bread the disciples came to Jesus, saying unto him, Where wilt thou that we prepare for thee to eat the passover?

18 And he said, Go into the city to such a man, and say unto him, The Master saith, [l]My time is at hand; I will keep the passover at thy house with my disciples.

19 And the disciples did as Jesus had appointed them; and they made ready the passover.

The last passover (Mk. 14. 17-21; Lk. 22. 14-20, 24-30).

20 Now when the even was come, he [2]sat down with the twelve.

(Here read John 13. 2-30.)

21 And as they did eat, he said, Verily I say unto you, that one of you shall [m]betray me.

22 And they were exceeding sorrowful, and began every one of them to say unto him, Lord, is it I?

23 And he answered and said, He that [n]dippeth his hand with me in the dish, the same shall betray me.

24 The Son of man goeth as it is [o]written of him: but woe unto that man by whom the Son of man is betrayed! [p]it had been good for that man if he had not been born.

25 Then Judas, which betrayed him, answered and said, Master, is it I? He said unto him, Thou hast said.

Jesus institutes the Lord's Supper (Mk. 14. 22-25; Lk. 22. 17-20; 1 Cor. 11. 23-25).

[1] No contradiction of John xii. 3 is implied. The ordinary anointing of hospitality and honour was of the feet (Lk. vii. 38) and head (Lk. vii. 46). But Mary of Bethany, who alone of our Lord's disciples had comprehended His thrice repeated announcement of His coming death and resurrection, invested the anointing with the deeper meaning of the preparation of His body for burying. Mary of Bethany was not among the women who went to the sepulchre with intent to embalm the body of Jesus.

[2] The order of events on the night of the Passover supper appears to have been: (1) The taking by our Lord and the disciples of their places at the table; (2) the contention who should be greatest; (3) the feet-washing; (4) the identification of Judas as the traitor; (5) the withdrawal of Judas; (6) the institution of the supper; (7) the words of Jesus while still in the room (Mt. xxvi. 26-29; Lk. xxii. 35-38; John xiii. 31-35; xiv. 1-31); (8) the words of Jesus between the room and the garden (Mt. xxvi. 31-35; Mk. xiv. 26-31; John xv., xvi., xvii.); it seems probable that the high-priestly prayer (John xvii.) was uttered after they reached the garden; (9) the agony in the garden; (10) the betrayal and arrest; (11) Jesus before Caiaphas; Peter's denial.

sus [a]took bread, and [b]blessed it, and brake it, and gave it to the disciples, and said, Take, eat; this is my [c]body.

27 And he took the cup, and gave thanks, and gave it to them, saying, Drink ye all of it;

28 For this is my [d]blood of the [e]new [f]testament, which is shed for many for the [g]remission of [h]sins.

29 But I say unto you, I will not drink henceforth of this fruit of the vine, until that day when I drink it new with you in my Father's [i]kingdom.

Jesus foretells Peter's denial (Mk. 14. 26-31; Lk. 22. 31-34; John 13. 36-38).

30 And when they had sung an [j]hymn, they went out into the mount of Olives.

(Here read John 15., 16., 17.)

31 Then saith Jesus unto them, [k]All ye shall be offended because of me this night: for it is written, I will [l]smite the [m]shepherd, and the sheep of the flock shall be scattered abroad.

32 But after I am risen again, I will go before you into Galilee.

33 Peter answered and said unto him, Though [n]all men shall be offended because of thee, yet will I never be offended.

34 Jesus said unto him, Verily I say unto thee, That this night, before the [o]cock crow, thou shalt deny me thrice.

35 Peter said unto him, Though I should die with thee, yet will I not deny thee. Likewise also said all the disciples.

Jesus' agony in the garden (Mk. 14. 32-42; Lk. 22. 40-46).

36 Then [p]cometh Jesus with them unto a place called Gethsemane, and saith unto the disciples, Sit ye here, while I go and pray yonder.

37 And he took with him Peter and the two sons of Zebedee, and began to be [q]sorrowful and very heavy.

38 Then saith he unto them, My soul is exceeding sorrowful, even unto death: tarry ye here, and watch with me.

The first prayer (Mk. 14. 35; Lk. 22. 41, 42).

39 And he went a little farther, and fell on his face, and [r]prayed, saying, O my Father, if it be possible, let this [s]cup pass from me: nevertheless not as I will, [t]but as thou wilt.

The sleeping disciples (Mk. 14. 37, 38, 40; Lk. 22. 45, 46).

[1]Forgiveness. Summary: The Greek word translated "remission" in Mt. xxvi. 28; Acts x. 43; Heb. ix. 22, is elsewhere rendered "forgiveness." It means, to send off, or away. And this, throughout Scripture, is the one fundamental meaning of forgiveness—to separate the sin from the sinner. Distinction must be made between divine and human forgiveness: (1) Human forgiveness means the remission of penalty. In the Old Testament and the New, in type and fulfilment, the divine forgiveness follows the execution of the penalty. "The priest shall make an atonement for his sin that he hath committed, and it shall be forgiven him" (Lev. iv. 35). "This is my blood of the new covenant, which is shed for many for the remission [sending away, forgiveness] of sins" (v. 28). "Without shedding of blood there is no remission" (Heb. ix. 22). See "Sacrifice" (Gen. iv. 4; Heb. x. 18, note). The sin of the justified believer interrupts his fellowship, and is forgiven upon confession, but always on the ground of Christ's propitiating sacrifice (1 John i. 6-9; ii. 2). (2) Human forgiveness rests upon and results from the divine forgiveness. In many passages this is assumed rather than stated, but the principle is declared in Eph. iv. 32; Mt. xviii. 32, 33.

[2]The "cup" must be interpreted by our Lord's own use of that symbol in speaking of His approaching sacrificial death (Mt. xx. 22; John xviii. 11). In view of John x. 17, 18, He could have been in no fear of an unwilling death. The value of the account of the agony in the Garden is in the evidence it affords that He knew fully what the agony of the cross would mean when His soul was made an offering for sin (Isa. liii. 10) in the hiding of the Father's face. Knowing the cost to the utmost, He voluntarily paid it.

The second prayer (Mk. 14. 36; Lk. 22. 44).

42 He went away again the second time, and prayed, saying, O my Father, if this cup may not pass away from me, except I drink it, thy will be done.

43 And he came and found them asleep again: for their eyes were heavy.

The third prayer (Mk. 14. 39).

44 And he left them, and went away again, and prayed the third time, saying the same words.

45 Then cometh he to his disciples, and saith unto them, [a]Sleep on now, and take your rest: behold, the hour is at hand, and the Son of man is betrayed into the hands of [b]sinners.

46 Rise, let us be going: behold, he is at hand that doth betray me.

The betrayal and arrest of Jesus (Mk. 14. 43-50; Lk. 22. 47-53; John 18. 3-11).

47 And [c]while he yet spake, lo, Judas, one of the twelve, came, and with him a great multitude with swords and staves, from the chief priests and elders of the people.

48 Now he that betrayed him gave them a sign, saying, Whomsoever I shall [d]kiss, that same is he: hold him fast.

49 And forthwith he came to Jesus, and said, Hail, master; and [e]kissed him.

50 And Jesus said unto him, [f]Friend, wherefore art thou come? Then came they, and laid hands on Jesus, and took him.

51 And, behold, one of them which were with Jesus stretched out his hand, and [g]drew his sword, and struck a servant of the high priest's, and smote off his ear.

52 Then said Jesus unto him, Put up again thy sword into his place: for all they that take the sword shall perish with the sword.

53 Thinkest thou that I cannot now pray to my Father, and he shall presently give me more than [h]twelve legions of [i]angels?

54 But how then shall the [j]scriptures be [k]fulfilled, that thus it must be?

55 In that same hour said Jesus to the multitudes, [l]Are ye come out as against a thief with swords and staves for to take me? I sat daily with you teaching in the temple, and ye laid no hold on me.

56 But all this was done, that the scriptures of the prophets might be fulfilled. Then all the disciples [m]forsook him, and fled.

Jesus brought before Caiaphas and the Sanhedrin (Mk. 14. 53-65. Cf. John 18. 12, 19-24).

57 And they that had laid hold on Jesus [1]led him away to [n]Caiaphas the high priest, where the scribes and the elders were assembled.

58 But [o]Peter followed him afar off unto the high priest's [p]palace, and went in, and sat with the [q]servants, to see the end.

59 Now the chief priests, and elders, and all the council, sought [r]false witness against Jesus, to put him to death;

60 But found none: yea, though many false witnesses came, yet found they none. At the last came two false witnesses,

61 And said, This fellow said, I am able to [s]destroy the temple of God, and to build it in three days.

[1] A comparison of the narratives gives the following order of events on the crucifixion day: (1) Early in the morning Jesus is brought before Caiaphas and the Sanhedrin. He is condemned and mocked (Mt. xxvi. 57-68; Mk. xiv. 55-65; Lk. xxii. 63-71; John xviii. 19-24). (2) The Sanhedrin lead Jesus to Pilate (Mt. xxvii. 1, 2, 11-14; Mk. xv. 1-5; Lk. xxiii. 1-5; John xviii. 28-38). (3) Pilate sends Jesus to Herod (Lk. xxiii. 6-12; John xix. 4). (4) Jesus is again brought before Pilate who releases Barabbas and delivers Jesus to be crucified (Mt. xxvii. 15-26; Mk. xv. 6-15; Lk. xxiii. 13-25; John xviii. 39, 40; xix. 4-16). (5) Jesus is crowned with thorns, and mocked (Mt. xxvii. 26-30; Mk. xv. 15-20; John xix. 1-3). (6) Suicide of Judas (Mt. xxvii. 3-10). (7) Led forth to be crucified, the cross is laid upon Simon: Jesus discourses to the women (Mt. xxvii. 31, 32; Mk. xv. 20-23; Lk. xxiii. 26-33; John xix. 16, 17). For the order of events at the crucifixion see Mt. xxvii. 33, note.

hast said: nevertheless I say unto you, Hereafter shall ye see the Son of man [a]sitting on the right hand of power, and [b]coming in the clouds of heaven.

65 Then the high priest rent his clothes, saying, He hath spoken blasphemy; what further need have we of witnesses? behold, now ye have heard his [c]blasphemy.

66 What think ye? They answered and said, He is guilty of death.

67 Then did they [d]spit in his face, and buffeted him; and others [e]smote him with the palms of their hands,

68 Saying, Prophesy unto us, thou Christ, Who is he that smote thee?

Peter denies the Lord (Mk. 14. 66-72; Lk. 22. 55-62; John 18. 16-18, 25-27).

69 Now Peter [f]sat without in the palace: and a damsel came unto him, saying, Thou also wast with Jesus of Galilee.

70 But he denied before them all, saying, I know not what thou sayest.

71 And when he was gone out into the porch, another [1]maid saw him, and said unto them that were there, This fellow was also with Jesus of Nazareth.

72 And again he denied with an oath, I do not know the man.

73 And after a while came unto him they that stood by, and said to Peter, Surely thou also art one of them; for thy [g]speech bewrayeth thee.

74 Then began he to [h]curse and to swear, saying, I know not the man. And immediately the [i]cock crew.

75 And Peter remembered the word of Jesus, which said unto him, Before the cock crow, thou shalt deny me thrice. And he went out, and wept bitterly.

CHAPTER 27.

The Sanhedrin deliver Jesus to Pilate (Mk. 15. 1; Lk. 23. 1; John 18. 28).

WHEN the morning was come, all the chief priests and elders of the people took counsel against Jesus to put him to death:

2 And when they had bound him, they led him away, and [j]delivered him to Pontius Pilate the governor.

Judas' unavailing remorse.
(Cf. Acts 1. 16-19.)

3 Then Judas, which had betrayed him, when he saw that he was condemned, repented himself, and brought again the [k]thirty pieces of silver to the chief priests and elders,

4 Saying, I have [l]sinned in that I have betrayed the innocent blood. And they said, What is that to us? see thou to that.

5 And he cast down the pieces of silver in the temple, and departed, and went and [m]hanged himself.

6 And the chief priests took the silver pieces, and said, It is not lawful for to put them into the treasury, because it is the price of blood.

7 And they took counsel, and bought with them the potter's field, to bury strangers in.

8 Wherefore that field was called, The field of blood, unto this day.

9 Then was [n]fulfilled that which was spoken by [2]Jeremy the prophet, saying, And they took the [o]thirty pieces of silver, the price of him that was valued, whom they of the children of Israel did value;

10 And gave them for the potter's field, as the [p]Lord appointed me.

Jesus interrogated by Pilate (Mk. 15. 2-5; Lk. 23. 2, 3; John 18. 29-38).

11 And Jesus stood before the governor: and the governor [q]asked him, saying, Art thou the King of the Jews? And Jesus said unto him, [r]Thou sayest.

12 And when he was accused of the chief priests and elders, he answered [s]nothing.

13 Then said Pilate unto him, Hearest thou not how many things they witness against thee?

14 And he answered him to never a word; insomuch that the governor marvelled greatly.

Let it be remembered that an excited crowd had gathered, and that Peter was interrogated in two places: "With the servants" (Mt. xxvi. 58) where the first charge was made (v. 69); "the porch" where a great number of people would be gathered, and where the second and third interrogations were made by "another maid" and by "they," i.e. the crowd (vs. 71, 73; John xviii. 25).

Jesus or Barabbas? (Mk. 15. 6-15; Lk. 23. 17-25; cf. John 18. 38-40).

15 Now at that feast the governor was [a]wont to release unto the people a prisoner, whom they would.
16 And they had then a notable prisoner, called Barabbas.
17 Therefore when they were gathered together, Pilate said unto them, Whom will ye that I release unto you? Barabbas, or Jesus which is called Christ?
18 For he knew that for [b]envy they had delivered him.
19 When he was set down on the judgment seat, his wife sent unto him, saying, Have thou nothing to do with that just man: for I have suffered many things this day in a [c]dream because of him.
20 But the chief priests and elders persuaded the multitude that they should ask Barabbas, and destroy Jesus.
21 The governor answered and said unto them, Whether of the twain will ye that I release unto you? They said, [d]Barabbas.
22 Pilate saith unto them, What shall I do then with Jesus which is called Christ? They all say unto him, Let him be [e]crucified.
23 And the governor said, Why, what evil hath he done? But they cried out the more, saying, Let him be crucified.
24 When Pilate saw that he could prevail nothing, but that rather a tumult was made, he took [f]water, and washed his hands before the multitude, saying, I am innocent of the blood of this just person: see ye to it.
25 Then answered all the people, and said, [g]His blood be on us, and on our children.

Barabbas released (Mk. 15. 15; Lk. 23. 24, 25).

26 Then released he Barabbas unto them: and when he had [h]scourged Jesus, he delivered him to be crucified.

The King crowned with thorns, and led away to crucifixion (Mk. 15. 16-23; Lk. 23. 26-32; John 19. 16, 17).

27 Then the soldiers of the governor [i]took Jesus into the common hall, and gathered unto him the whole band of soldiers.
28 And they [j]stripped him, and put on him a [k]scarlet robe.
29 And when they had platted a crown of [l]thorns, they put it upon his head, and a [m]reed in his right hand: and they bowed the knee before him, and mocked him, saying, Hail, King of the Jews!
30 And they [n]spit upon him, and took the reed, and [o]smote him on the head.
31 And after that they had mocked him, they took the robe off from him, and put his own raiment on him, and led him away to crucify him.
32 And as they came out, they found a man of Cyrene, Simon by name: him they compelled to [p]bear his cross.

(2) The offer of the stupefying drink refused (Mt. xxvii. 34; Mk. xv. 23). (3) Jesus is crucified between two thieves (Mt. xxvii. 35-38; Mk. xv. 24-28; Lk. xxiii. 33-38; John xix. 18-24). (4) He utters the first cry from the cross, "Father, forgive," etc. (Lk. xxiii. 34). (5) The soldiers part His garments (Mt. xxvii. 35; Mk. xv. 24; Lk. xxiii. 34; John xix. 23). (6) The Jews mock Jesus (Mt. xxvii. 39-44; Mk. xv. 29-32; Lk. xxiii. 35-38). (7) The thieves rail on Him, but one repents and believes (Mt. xxvii. 44; Mk. xv. 32; Lk. xxiii. 39-43). 38 Then were there two thieves [a]crucified with him, one on the right hand, and another on the left.

39 And they that passed by reviled him, [b]wagging their heads,

40 And saying, Thou that destroyest the temple, and buildest it in three days, save thyself. If thou be the Son of God, come down from the cross.

41 Likewise also the chief priests mocking him, with the scribes and elders, said, 42 He [c]saved others; himself he cannot save. If he be the King of Israel, let him now come down from the cross, and we will [d]believe him.

43 He [e]trusted in [f]God; let him deliver him now, if he will have him: for he said, I am the Son of God.

46 And about the ninth hour Jesus cried with a loud voice, [i]saying, Eli, Eli, lama sabachthani? that is to say, My [j]God, my God, [k]why hast thou forsaken me?

47 Some of them that stood there, when they heard that, said, This man calleth for Elias.

48 And straightway one of them ran, and took a spunge, and filled it with [l]vinegar, and put it on a reed, and gave him to drink.

49 The rest said, Let be, let us see whether Elias will come to save him.

[1] Cf. Mk. xv. 26; Lk. xxiii. 38; John xix. 19. These accounts supplement, but do not contradict each other. No one of the Evangelists quotes the entire inscription. All have "The King of the Jews." Luke adds to this the further words, "This is"; Matthew quotes the name, "Jesus"; whilst John gives the additional words "of Nazareth." The narratives combined give the entire inscription: "This is [Matthew, Luke] Jesus [Matthew, John] of Nazareth [John] the King of the Jews" [all].

[2] Literally, "dismissed His spirit." The Gr. implies an act of the will. This expression, taken with Mk. xv. 37; Lk. xxiii. 46; John xix. 30, differentiates the death of Christ from all other physical death. He died by His own volition when He could say of His redemptive work, "It is finished." "No man taketh it from me, but I lay it down of myself" (John x. 18).

[3] The veil which was rent was the veil which divided the holy place into which the priests entered from the holy of holies into which only the high priest might enter on the day of atonement (Ex. xxvi. 31, note; Lev. xvi. 1-30). The rending of that veil, which was a type of the human body of Christ (Heb. x. 20) signified that a "new and living way" was opened for all believers into the very presence of God with no other sacrifice or priesthood save Christ's (cf. Heb. ix. 1-8; x. 19-22).

[4] That these bodies returned to their graves is not said and may not be inferred. The wave-sheaf (Lev. xxiii. 10-12) typifies the resurrection of Christ, but a sheaf implies plurality. It was a single "corn of wheat" that fell into the ground in the crucifixion and entombment of Christ (John xii. 24); it was a sheaf which came forth in resurrection. The inference is that these saints, with the spirits of "just men made perfect" (Heb. xii. 23) from Paradise went with Jesus (Eph. iv. 8-10) into heaven.

feared greatly, saying, [a]Truly this was the Son of God.

55 And many women were there beholding afar off, which followed Jesus from Galilee, ministering unto him:

56 Among which was Mary Magdalene, and Mary the mother of [b]James and Joses, and the mother of Zebedee's children.

The entombment of Christ (Mk. 15. 43-47; Lk. 23. 50-56; John 19. 38-42).

57 When the even was come, there came a rich man of Arimathæa, named Joseph, who also himself was Jesus' disciple:

58 He went to Pilate, and begged the body of Jesus. Then Pilate commanded the body to be delivered.

59 And when Joseph had taken the body, he wrapped it in a clean linen cloth, 60 And laid it in [c]his own new tomb, which he had hewn out in the rock: and he rolled a great stone to the door of the sepulchre, and departed.

61 And there was Mary Magdalene, and the [d]other Mary, sitting over against the sepulchre.

The sepulchre sealed and guarded.

62 Now the next day, that followed the day of the preparation, the chief priests and Pharisees came together unto Pilate, 63 Saying, Sir, we remember that that deceiver said, while he was yet alive, [e]After three days I will rise again.

64 Command therefore that the sepulchre be made sure until the third day, lest his disciples come by night, and steal him away, and say unto the people, He is risen from the dead: so the last error shall be worse than the first.

65 Pilate said unto them, Ye have a watch: go your way, make it as sure as ye can.

66 So they went, and made the sepulchre sure, sealing the stone, and setting a watch.

The resurrection of Jesus Christ, and events of that day (Mk. 16. 1-14; Lk. 24. 1-49; John 20. 1-23).

1 IN the [f]end of the sabbath, as it began to dawn toward the first day of the week, came Mary Magdalene and the [d]other Mary to see the sepulchre.

2 And, behold, there was a great earthquake: for [g]the [h]angel of the Lord descended from heaven, and came and rolled back the stone from the door, and sat upon it.

3 [i]His countenance was like lightning, and his raiment white as snow:

4 And for fear of him the keepers did shake, and became as [j]dead men.

5 And the [h]angel answered and said unto the women, [k]Fear not ye: for I know that ye seek Jesus, which was crucified.

6 He is not here: for [h]he is risen, as he said. Come, see the place where the Lord lay.

7 And go quickly, and tell his disciples that he is risen from the dead; and, behold, he goeth before you into Galilee; there shall ye see him: lo, I have told you.

8 And they departed quickly from the sepulchre with fear and great joy; and did run to bring his disciples word.

9 And as they went to tell his disciples, behold, [2]Jesus met them, saying, [m]All hail. And they came and held him by the feet, and worshipped him.

10 Then said Jesus unto them, Be

[1] The order of events, combining the four narratives, is as follows: Three women, Mary Magdalene, and Mary the mother of James, and Salome, start for the sepulchre followed by other women bearing spices. The three find the stone rolled away, and Mary Magdalene goes to tell the disciples (Lk. xxiii. 55-xxiv. 9; John xx. 1, 2). Mary, the mother of James and Joses, draws nearer the tomb and sees the angel of the Lord (Mt. xxviii. 2). She goes back to meet the other women following with the spices. Meanwhile Peter and John, warned by Mary Magdalene, arrive, look in, and go away (John xx. 3-10). Mary Magdalene returns weeping, sees the two angels and then Jesus (John xx. 11-18), and goes as He bade her to tell the disciples. Mary (mother of James and Joses), meanwhile, has met the women with the spices and, returning with them, they see the two angels (Lk. xxiv. 4, 5; Mk. xvi. 5). They also receive the angelic message, and, going to seek the disciples, are met by Jesus (Mt. xxviii. 8-10).

[2] The order of our Lord's appearances would seem to be: On the day of His resurrection: (1) To Mary Magdalene (John xx. 14-18). (2) To the women returning not afraid: go tell my [a]brethren that they go into Galilee, and there shall they see me.

11 Now when they were going, behold, some of the watch came into the city, and shewed unto the chief priests all the things that were done.

12 And when they were assembled with the elders, and had taken counsel, they gave large [b]money unto the soldiers, 13 Saying, Say ye, His disciples came by night, and stole him away while we slept.

14 And if this come to the governor's ears, we will [c]persuade him, and secure you.

15 So they took the money, and did as they were taught: and this saying is commonly reported among the Jews until this day.

At Jerusalem and Bethany again: (1) To James (1 Cor. xv. 7). (2) To the eleven (Lk. xxiv. 50-53; Mk. xvi. 19-20; Acts i. 9-12). To Paul: (1) Near Damascus (Acts ix. 3-6; 1 Cor. xv. 8). [1] With the death and resurrection of Jesus Christ begins the "dispensation of the grace of God" (Eph. iii. 2), which is defined as "his kindness toward us through Christ Jesus"; and, "the gift of God: not of works, lest any man should boast" (Eph. ii. 7-9). Under grace God freely gives to the believing sinner eternal life (Rom. vi. 23); accounts to him a perfect righteousness (Rom. iii. 21, 22; iv. 4, 5); and accords to him a perfect position (Eph. i. 6). The predicted results of this sixth testing of man are: (1) The salvation of all who believe (Acts xvi. 31); (2) judgment upon an unbelieving world and an apostate church (Mt. xxv. 31-46; 2 Thes. i. 7-10; 1 Pet. iv. 17, 18; Rev. iii. 15, 16).

(1) Man's state at the beginning of the dispensation of grace (Rom. iii. 19; Gal. iii. 22; Eph. ii. 11, 12). (2) Man's responsibility under grace (John i. 11, 12; iii. 36; vi. 28, 29). (3) His predicted failure (Mt. xxiv. 37-39; Lk. xviii. 8; xix. 12-14). (4) The judgment (2 Thes. ii. 7-12).

[2] The word is in the singular, the "name," not names. Father, Son, and Holy Spirit is the final name of the one true God. It affirms: (1) That God is one. (2) That He subsists in a personality which is threefold, indicated by relationship as Father and Son; by a mode of being as Spirit; and by the different parts taken by the Godhead in manifestation and in the work of redemption, e.g. John iii. 5, 6 (Spirit), 16, 17 (Father and Son). In Mt. iii. 16, 17; Mk. i. 10, 11; Lk. iii. 21, 22, the three persons are in manifestation together. (3) The conjunction in one name of the Three affirms equality and oneness of substance. See O.T. WRITER. The writer of the second Gospel, Mark, called also John, was the son of one of the New Testament Marys, and nephew of Barnabas. He was an associate of the apostles, and is mentioned in the writings of Paul and of Luke (Acts xii. 12, 25; xv. 37, 39; Col. iv. 10; 2 Tim. iv. 11; Phm. 24).

The date of Mark has been variously placed between A.D. 57 and 63.

Theme. The scope and purpose of the book are evident from its contents. In it Jesus is seen as the mighty Worker, rather than as the unique Teacher. It is the Gospel of Jehovah's "Servant the Branch" (Zech. iii. 8), as Matthew is the Gospel of the "Branch . . . unto David" (Jer. xxxiii. 15).

Everywhere the servant character of the incarnate Son is manifest. The keyverse is x. 45, "For even the Son of man came not to be ministered unto, but to minister." The characteristic word is "straightway," a servant's word. There is no genealogy, for who gives the genealogy of a servant? The distinctive character of Christ in Mark is that set forth in Phil. ii. 6-8.

But this lowly Servant, who emptied Himself of the "form of God," "and was found in fashion as a man," was, nevertheless, "the mighty God" (Isa. ix. 6), as Mark distinctly declares (i. 1), and therefore mighty works accompanied and authenticated His ministry. As befits a Servant-Gospel, Mark is characteristically a Gospel of deeds, rather than of words.

The best preparation of heart for the study of Mark is the prayerful reading of Isa. xlii. 1-21; l. 4-11; lii. 13-liii. 12; Zech. iii. 8; Phil. ii. 5-8.

Mark is in five principal divisions: I. The manifestation of the Servant-Son, i. 1-11. II. The Servant-Son tested as to His fidelity, i. 12, 13. III. The Servant-Son at work, i. 14-xiii. 37. IV. The Servant-Son "obedient unto death," xiv. 1-xv. 47. V. The ministry of the risen Servant-Son, now exalted to all authority, xvi. 1-20.

CHAPTER 1.

The ministry of John the Baptist (Mt. 3. 1-11; Lk. 3. 1-16; John 1. 6-8, 19-28).

THE [a]beginning of the [b]gospel of Jesus Christ, the Son of God;

2 As it is written in the prophets, [c]Behold, I send my messenger before thy face, which shall prepare thy way before thee.

3 The [d]voice of one crying in the wilderness, Prepare ye the way of the [e]Lord, make his paths straight.

4 John did baptize in the wilderness, and preach the baptism of [f]repentance for the remission of [g]sins.

5 And there went out unto him all the land of Judæa, and they of Jerusalem, and were all baptized of him in the river of Jordan, confessing their [g]sins.

6 And John was [h]clothed with camel's hair, and with a girdle of a skin about his loins; and he did eat locusts and wild honey;

7 And preached, saying, There [i]cometh one mightier than I after me, the latchet of whose shoes I am not worthy to stoop down and unloose.

8 I indeed have baptized you with water: but he shall baptize you with the [j]Holy Ghost.

The baptism of Jesus (Mt. 3. 13-17; Lk. 3. 21, 22).

9 And it [k]came to pass in those days, that Jesus came from Nazareth of Galilee, and was baptized of John in Jordan.

10 And straightway coming up out of the water, he saw the [l]heavens opened, and the Spirit like a dove descending upon him:

11 And there came a voice from heaven, saying, Thou art my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased.

The temptation of Jesus (Mt. 4. 1-11; Lk. 4. 1-13).

12 And [m]immediately the spirit [n]driveth him into the wilderness.

13 And he was there in the wilderness forty days, tempted of [o]Satan; and was with the wild beasts; and the angels ministered unto him.

The first Galilean ministry (Mt. 4. 12-17; Lk. 4. 14).

14 Now after that John was put in prison, Jesus came into Galilee, preaching the gospel of the [a]kingdom of God,

15 And saying, The time is fulfilled, and the kingdom of God is at hand: repent ye, and believe the gospel.

The call of Peter and Andrew (Mt. 4. 18-22; Lk. 5. 10, 11. Cf. John 1. 35-42).

16 Now as he walked by the sea of Galilee, he saw Simon and Andrew his brother casting a net into the sea: for they were fishers.

17 And Jesus said unto them, Come ye after me, and I will make you to become [b]fishers of men.

18 And straightway they forsook their nets, and followed him.

19 And when he had gone a little farther thence, he saw [c]James the son of Zebedee, and John his brother, who also were in the [d]ship mending their nets.

20 And straightway he called them: and they left their father Zebedee in the ship with the hired servants, and went after him.

Jesus casts out demons in Capernaum (Lk. 4. 31-37).

21 And they went into Capernaum; and straightway on the sabbath day he entered into the [e]synagogue, and taught.

22 And they were [f]astonished at his doctrine: for he taught them as one that had authority, and not as the scribes.

23 And there was in their synagogue a man with an [g]unclean spirit; and he cried out,

24 Saying, Let us alone; what have we to do with thee, [h]thou Jesus of Nazareth? art thou come to destroy us? I [i]know thee who thou art, the Holy One of God.

25 And Jesus rebuked him, saying, Hold thy peace, and come out of him.

26 And when the unclean spirit had torn him, and cried with a loud voice, [j]he came out of him.

27 And they were all amazed, insomuch that they questioned among themselves, saying, What thing is this? what new doctrine is this? for with authority commandeth he even the unclean spirits, and they do obey him.

28 And [k]immediately his fame spread abroad throughout all the region round about Galilee.

Simon's wife's mother healed of a fever (Mt. 8. 14, 15; Lk. 4. 38, 39).

29 And [k]forthwith, when they were come out of the synagogue, they entered into the house of Simon and Andrew, with James and John.

30 But Simon's wife's [l]mother lay sick of a fever, and anon they tell him of her.

31 And he came and took her by the hand, and lifted her up; and [k]immediately the fever left her, and she [m]ministered unto them.

Demons cast out: many healed (Mt. 8. 16, 17; Lk. 4. 40, 41).

32 And at [n]even, when the sun did set, they brought unto him [o]all that were diseased, and them that were possessed with [p]devils.

33 And all the city was gathered together at the door.

34 And he healed many that were sick of divers diseases, and cast out many [p]devils; and [q]suffered not the devils to speak, because they knew him.

Jesus prays: a preaching tour in Galilee (Lk. 4. 42-44).

35 And in the morning, [r]rising up a great while before day, he went out, and departed into a solitary place, and there prayed.

36 And Simon and they that were with him followed after him.

37 And when they had found him, they said unto him, All men seek for thee.

38 And he said unto them, Let us go into the next towns, that I may preach there also: for [s]therefore came I forth.

39 And he preached in their synagogues throughout all Galilee, and cast out [p]devils.

A leper healed (Mt. 8. 2-4; Lk. 5. 12-14).

40 And there came a [t]leper to him, beseeching him, and kneeling down to him, and saying unto him, If thou wilt, thou canst make me clean.

41 And Jesus, moved with compassion, put forth his hand, and touched him, and saith unto him, [u]I will; be thou clean.

42 And as soon as he had spoken, [k]immediately the leprosy departed from him, and he was cleansed.

43 And he straitly charged him, and forthwith sent him away;

45 But he went out, and began to publish it much, and to blaze abroad the matter, insomuch that Jesus could no more openly enter into the city, but was without in [d]desert places: and they came to him from every quarter.

CHAPTER 2.

The palsied man healed (Mt. 9. 1-8; Lk. 5. 18-26).

AND again he entered into Capernaum after some days; and it was noised that he was in the house.

2 And straightway many were gathered together, insomuch that there was no room to receive them, no, not so much as about the door: and he preached the word unto them.

3 And they come unto him, bringing one sick of the [e]palsy, which was borne of four.

4 And when they could not come nigh unto him for the press, they uncovered the roof where he was: and when they had [f]broken it up, they let down the bed wherein the sick of the palsy lay.

5 When Jesus saw their faith, he said unto the sick of the palsy, Son, thy [g]sins be [h]forgiven thee.

6 But there were certain of the scribes sitting there, and reasoning in their hearts,

7 Why doth this man thus speak blasphemies? who can forgive sins but [i]God only?

8 And [j]immediately when Jesus [k]perceived in his spirit that they so reasoned within themselves, he said unto them, Why reason ye these things in your hearts?

9 Whether is it easier [l]to say to the sick of the palsy, Thy [g]sins be forgiven thee; or to say, Arise, and take up thy bed, and walk?

10 But that ye may know that the [m]Son of man hath power on earth to forgive sins, (he saith to the sick of the palsy,)

11 I say unto thee, Arise, and take up thy bed, and go thy way into thine house.

12 [n]And [j]immediately he arose, took up the bed, and went forth before them all; insomuch that they were all amazed, and [o]glorified God, saying, We never saw it on this fashion.

The call of Levi (Matthew) (Mt. 9. 9-13; Lk. 5. 27-32).

13 And he went forth again by the sea side; and all the multitude resorted unto him, and he taught them.

14 And as he [p]passed by, he saw Levi the son of Alphæus sitting at the receipt of custom, and said unto him, Follow me. And he arose and followed him.

15 And it came to pass, that, as Jesus sat at meat in his house, many publicans and [g]sinners sat also together with Jesus and his disciples: for there were many, and they followed him.

16 And when the scribes and Pharisees saw him eat with publicans and [g]sinners, they said unto his disciples, How is it that he eateth and drinketh with publicans and sinners?

17 When Jesus heard it, he saith unto them, They that are [q]whole have no need of the physician, but they that are sick: I came not to call the righteous, but sinners to [r]repentance.

18 And the disciples of John and of the Pharisees [s]used to fast: and they come and say unto him, Why do the disciples of John and of the Pharisees fast, but thy disciples fast not?

19 And Jesus said unto them, Can the children of the bridechamber fast, while the [t]bridegroom is with them? as long as they have the bridegroom with them, they cannot fast.

20 But the days will come, when the bridegroom shall be [u]taken away from them, and then shall they fast in those days.

Parables of the cloth and the bottles. (Cf. Mt. 9. 16, 17; Lk. 5. 36-39.)

21 No man also [v]seweth a piece of new cloth on an old garment: else the new piece that filled it up taketh away from the old, and the rent is made worse.

22 And [w]no man putteth new wine into old [x]bottles: else the new wine doth burst the bottles, and the wine is spilled, and the bottles will be [y]marred: but new wine must be put into new bottles.

Jesus Lord of the sabbath (Mt. 12. 1–8; Lk. 6. 1–5).

23 And it came to pass, that he [a]went through the corn fields on the sabbath day; and his disciples began, as they went, to pluck the ears of corn.

24 And the Pharisees said unto him, Behold, why do they on the sabbath day that which is not lawful?

25 And he said unto them, Have ye never read what [b]David did, when he had need, and was an hungred, he, and they that were with him?

26 How he went into the house of God in the days of Abiathar the high priest, and did eat the [c]shewbread, which is not lawful to eat but for the [d]priests, and gave also to them which were with him?

27 And he said unto them, The [e]sabbath was made for man, and not man for the sabbath:

28 Therefore the [f]Son of man is Lord also of the sabbath.

CHAPTER 3.

Jesus heals the withered hand on the sabbath (Mt. 12. 10–14; Lk. 6. 6–11).

AND he entered again into the synagogue; and there was a man there which had a [g]withered hand.

2 And they watched him, whether he would heal him on the sabbath day; that they might accuse him.

3 And he saith unto the man which had the withered hand, Stand forth.

4 And he saith unto them, Is it lawful to do [h]good on the sabbath days, or to do evil? to save life, or to kill? But they held their peace.

5 And when he had looked round about on them with [i]anger, being grieved for the hardness of their hearts, he saith unto the man, [j]Stretch forth thine hand. And he stretched it out: and his hand was [k]restored whole as the other.

The multitudes healed (Mt. 12. 15, 16; Lk. 6. 17–19).

6 And the Pharisees went forth, and straightway took [l]counsel with the Herodians against him, how they might destroy him.

7 But Jesus withdrew himself with his disciples to the sea: and a great [m]multitude from Galilee followed him, and from Judæa,

8 And from Jerusalem, and from Idumæa, and from beyond Jordan; and they about Tyre and Sidon, a great multitude, when they had heard what great things he did, came unto him.

9 And he spake to his disciples, that a small ship should wait on him because of the multitude, lest they should throng him.

10 For he had healed many; insomuch that they pressed upon him for to [n]touch him, as many as had plagues.

11 And unclean spirits, when they saw him, fell down before him, and cried, saying, Thou art the Son of God.

12 And he straitly [o]charged them that they should not make him known.

The twelve chosen (Mt. 10. 1–4; Lk. 6. 12–16).

13 And he goeth up into a mountain, and [p]calleth unto him whom he would: and they came unto him.

14 And he ordained twelve, that they should be with him, and that he might send them forth to preach,

15 And to have power to heal sicknesses, and to cast out devils:

16 And Simon he surnamed Peter;

17 And [q]James the son of Zebedee, and John the brother of James; and he surnamed them Boanerges, which is, The sons of thunder:

18 And Andrew, and Philip, and Bartholomew, and Matthew, and Thomas, and James the son of Alphæus, and Thaddæus, and Simon the Canaanite, 19 And Judas Iscariot, which also betrayed him: and they went into an house.

20 And the multitude cometh together again, so that they could not so much as eat bread.

21 And when his [r]friends heard of it, they went out to lay hold on him: for they said, He is beside himself.

The unpardonable sin (Mt. 12. 24–29; Lk. 11. 14–20).

22 And the scribes which came down from Jerusalem said, He hath [s]Beelzebub, and by the prince of the devils casteth he out [t]devils.

against itself, that kingdom cannot stand.

25 And if a house be divided against itself, that house cannot stand.

26 And if [a]Satan rise up against himself, and be divided, he cannot stand, but hath an end.

27 No man can enter into a [b]strong man's house, and spoil his goods, except he will first [c]bind the strong man; and then he will spoil his house.

28 Verily I say unto you, All [d]sins shall be forgiven unto the sons of men, and blasphemies wherewith soever they shall blaspheme:

29 But he that shall [e]blaspheme against the [f]Holy Ghost hath never forgiveness, but is [g]in danger of eternal damnation:

31 There came then his [i]brethren and his mother, and, standing without, sent unto him, calling him.

32 And the multitude sat about him, and they said unto him, Behold, thy mother and thy brethren without seek for thee.

33 And he answered them, saying, Who is my mother, or my brethren?

34 And he looked round about on them which sat about him, and said, Behold my mother and my brethren!

35 For whosoever shall do the [j]will of God, the same is my brother, and my sister, and mother.

CHAPTER 4.

The parable of the sower (Mt. 13. 1-17; Lk. 8. 4-10).

AND he began again to teach by the [k]sea side: and there was gathered unto him a great multitude, so that he entered into a ship, and sat in the sea; and the whole multitude was by the sea on the land.

2 And he taught them many things by parables, and said unto them in his doctrine,

3 Hearken; Behold, there went out a [l]sower to sow:

4 And it came to pass, as he sowed, some fell by the way side, and the [m]fowls of the air came and devoured it up.

5 And some fell on stony ground, where it had not much earth; and immediately it sprang up, because it had no depth of earth:

6 But when the sun was up, it was scorched; and because it had no root, it withered away.

7 And some fell among thorns, and the thorns grew up, and choked it, and it yielded no fruit.

8 And other fell on good ground, and did yield fruit that sprang up and increased; and brought forth, some thirty, and some sixty, and some an hundred.

9 And he said unto them, He that hath [n]ears to hear, let him hear.

10 And when he was alone, they that were about him with the twelve asked of him the parable.

11 And he said unto them, Unto you it is given to know the [o]mystery of the kingdom of God: but unto them that are without, all these things are done in parables:

12 That [p]seeing they may see, and not perceive; and hearing they may hear, and not understand; lest at any time they should [q]be converted, and their [d]sins should be forgiven them.

The parable of the sower explained (Mt. 13. 18-23; Lk. 8. 11-15).

13 And he said unto them, Know ye not this parable? and how then will ye know all parables?

14 The sower soweth the word.

15 And these are they by the way side, where the word is sown; but when they have heard, [r]Satan cometh immediately, and taketh away the word that was sown in their hearts.

16 And these are they likewise which are sown on stony ground; who, when they have heard the word, immediately receive it with gladness;

17 And have no root in themselves, and so endure but for a time: afterward, when [s]affliction or persecution ariseth for the word's sake, immediately they are offended.

18 And these are they which are sown among thorns; such as hear the word,

19 And the [t]cares of this [u]world, and the deceitfulness of riches, and the lusts of other things entering in, choke the word, and it becometh unfruitful.

20 And these are they which are sown on good ground; such as hear the word, and [v]receive it, and bring

Parable of the candle. (Cf. Mt. 5. 15, 16; Lk. 8. 16; 11. 33.)

21 And he said unto them, Is a candle brought to be put under a [a]bushel, or under a [b]bed? and not to be set on a candlestick?

22 [c]For there is nothing hid, which shall not be [d]manifested; neither was any thing kept secret, but that it should come abroad.

23 If any man have ears to hear, let him hear.

24 And he said unto them, Take [e]heed what ye hear: with what measure ye mete, it shall be measured to you: and unto you that hear shall more be given.

25 For he that hath, to him shall be given: and he that hath not, from him shall be taken even that which he hath.

The unconscious growth.

26 And he said, So is the [f]kingdom of God, as if a man should cast [g]seed into the ground;

27 And should sleep, and rise night and day, and the seed should spring and grow up, he knoweth not how.

28 For the [h]earth bringeth forth fruit of herself; first the blade, then the ear, after that the full corn in the ear.

29 But when the fruit is brought forth, immediately he putteth in the sickle, because the [i]harvest is come.

Parable of the mustard seed (Mt. 13. 31-32, note; Lk. 13. 18-19).

30 And he said, Whereunto shall we liken the kingdom of God? or with what comparison shall we compare it?

31 It is like a grain of [j]mustard seed, which, when it is sown in the earth, is less than all the seeds that be in the earth:

32 But when it is sown, it groweth up, and becometh greater than all herbs, and shooteth out great branches; so that the [k]fowls of the air may lodge under the shadow of it.

33 And with [l]many such parables spake he the word unto them, as they were able to hear it.

34 But without a parable spake he not unto them: and when they were alone, he expounded all things to his disciples.

Jesus stills the storm (Mt. 8. 23-27; Lk. 8. 22-25).

35 And the same day, when the even was come, he saith unto them, Let us pass over unto the [m]other side.

36 And when they had sent away the multitude, they took him even as he was in the ship. And there were also with him other little ships.

37 And there arose a great storm of wind, and the waves beat into the ship, so that it was now [n]full.

38 And he was in the hinder part of the ship, [o]asleep on a pillow: and they awake him, and say unto him, Master, [p]carest thou not that we perish?

39 And he arose, and rebuked the wind, and said unto the sea, [q]Peace, be still. And the wind [r]ceased, and there was a great calm.

40 And he said unto them, Why are ye so fearful? how is it that ye have no [s]faith?

41 And they feared exceedingly, and said one to another, [t]What manner of man is this, that even the wind and the sea obey him?

CHAPTER 5.

The maniac of Gadara (Mt. 8. 28-34; Lk. 8. 26-37).

AND they [u]came over unto the other side of the sea, into the country of the Gadarenes.

2 And when he was come out of the ship, immediately there met him out of the tombs a man with an [v]unclean spirit,

3 Who had his dwelling among the tombs; and no man could bind him, no, not with chains:

4 Because that he had been [w]often bound with fetters and chains, and the chains had been plucked asunder by him, and the fetters broken in pieces: neither could any man tame him.

5 And always, night and day, he was in the [x]mountains, and in the [y]tombs, crying, and cutting himself with stones.

6 But when he saw Jesus afar off, he ran and worshipped him,

7 And cried with a loud voice, and said, [z]What have I to do with thee, Jesus, thou Son of the most high God? I adjure thee by God, that thou torment me not.

8 For he said unto him, Come out of the man, thou unclean spirit.

9 And he asked him, What is thy name? And he answered, saying, My name is Legion: for we are [a]many.

10 And he besought him much that he would not send them away out of the country.

11 Now there was there nigh unto the mountains a great herd of swine feeding.

12 And all the devils besought him, saying, Send us into the swine, that we may enter into them.

13 And forthwith Jesus gave them leave. [b]And the unclean spirits went out, and entered into the [c]swine: and the herd ran violently down a steep place into the sea, (they were about two thousand;) and were choked in the sea.

14 And they that fed the swine fled, and told it in the city, and in the country. And they went out to see what it was that was done.

15 And they come to Jesus, and see him that was possessed with the devil, and had the legion, [d]sitting, and clothed, and in his right mind: and they were afraid.

16 And they that saw it told them how it befell to him that was possessed with the devil, and also concerning the swine.

17 And they began to pray him to [e]depart out of their [f]coasts.

18 And when he was come into the ship, he that had been possessed with the devil prayed him that he might be [g]with him.

19 Howbeit Jesus suffered him not, but saith unto him, Go home to thy friends, and [h]tell them how great things the Lord hath done for thee, and hath had compassion on thee.

20 And he departed, and began to publish in Decapolis how great things Jesus had done for him: and all men did marvel.

Jesus heals the woman with an issue of blood, and raises the daughter of Jairus (Mt. 9. 18–26; Lk. 8. 41–56).

21 And when Jesus was passed over again by ship unto the other side, much people gathered unto him: and he was nigh unto the sea.

22 And, behold, there cometh one of the rulers of the synagogue, [i]Jairus by name; and when he saw him, he fell at his feet,

23 And besought him greatly, saying, My little daughter lieth at the point of death: I pray thee, come and lay thy hands on her, that she may be healed; and she shall live.

24 And Jesus went with him; and much people followed him, and thronged him.

25 And a certain [j]woman, which had an issue of blood [k]twelve years,

26 And had suffered many things of many physicians, and had [l]spent all that she had, and was nothing bettered, but rather grew worse,

27 When she had heard of Jesus, came in the press behind, and [m]touched his garment.

28 For she said, If I may touch but his clothes, I shall be whole.

29 And straightway the fountain of her blood was dried up; and she felt in her body that she was healed of that plague.

30 And Jesus, immediately [n]knowing in himself that [o]virtue had gone out of him, turned him about in the press, and said, Who touched my clothes?

31 And his disciples said unto him, Thou seest the multitude [p]thronging thee, and sayest thou, Who touched me?

32 And he looked round about to see her that had done this thing.

33 But the woman fearing and trembling, knowing what was done in her, came and [q]fell down before him, and told him all the truth.

34 And he said unto her, Daughter, thy [r]faith hath made thee whole; go in peace, and be whole of thy plague.

35 While he yet spake, there came from the ruler of the synagogue's house certain which said, Thy daughter is dead: why troublest thou the Master any further?

36 [s]As soon as Jesus heard the word that was spoken, he saith unto the ruler of the synagogue, [t]Be not afraid, only believe.

37 And he suffered no man to follow him, save Peter, and [u]James, and John the brother of James.

38 And he cometh to the house of the ruler of the synagogue, and seeth the tumult, and them that wept and wailed greatly.

39 And when he was come in, he saith unto them, Why make ye this ado, and weep? the damsel is not dead, but [v]sleepeth.

40 And they laughed him to scorn. But when he had [w]put them all out, he taketh the father and the mother of the damsel, and them that were with him, and entereth in where the damsel was lying.

CHAPTER 6.

Jesus again at Nazareth (Mt. 13. 54-58. See Lk. 4. 16, note).

AND he went out from thence, and came into his own country; and his disciples follow him.

2 And when the sabbath day was come, he began to teach in the synagogue: and many hearing him were astonished, saying, From [g]whence hath this man these things? and what wisdom is this which is given unto him, that even such mighty works are wrought by his hands?

3 Is not this the [h]carpenter, the son of Mary, the brother of James, and Joses, and of Juda, and Simon? and are not his sisters here with us? And they were [i]offended at him.

4 But Jesus said unto them, [j]A prophet is not without honour, but in his own country, and among his own kin, and in his own house.

5 And he [k]could there do no mighty work, save that he laid his hands upon a few sick folk, and [l]healed them.

6 And he [m]marvelled because of their unbelief. And he went round about the villages, teaching.

The twelve sent out to preach and heal (Mt. 10. 1-42; Lk. 9. 1-6).

7 And he called unto him the twelve, and began to [n]send them forth by two and two; and gave them power over unclean spirits;

8 And commanded them that they should [o]take nothing for their journey, save a staff only; no [p]scrip, no bread, no money in their [q]purse:

9 But be [r]shod with sandals; and not put on two coats.

10 And he said unto them, In what place soever ye enter into an house, there abide till ye depart from that place.

11 And whosoever shall not receive you, nor hear you, when ye depart thence, [s]shake off the dust under your feet for a testimony against them. Verily I say unto you, It shall be more tolerable for Sodom and Gomorrha in [t]the day of judgment, than for that city.

12 And they went out, and preached that men should [u]repent.

13 And they [v]cast out many devils, and [w]anointed with oil many that were sick, and healed them.

Herod's troubled conscience: murder of John the Baptist (Mt. 14. 1-14; Lk. 9. 7-9).

14 And king [x]Herod heard of him; (for his name was spread abroad:) and he said, That John the Baptist was [y]risen from the dead, and therefore mighty works do shew forth themselves in him.

15 Others said, That it is [z]Elias. And others said, That it is a prophet, or as one of the prophets.

16 But when Herod heard thereof, he said, It is John, whom I beheaded: he is risen from the dead.

17 For Herod himself had sent forth and [a]laid hold upon John, and bound him in prison for Herodias' sake, his brother Philip's wife: for he had married her.

18 For John [b]had said unto Herod, It is not [c]lawful for thee to have thy brother's wife.

19 Therefore Herodias had a quarrel against him, and would have killed him; but she could not:

20 For Herod [d]feared John, knowing that he was a just man and an [e]holy, [f]and observed him; and when he heard him, he did many things, and heard him [g]gladly.

21 And when a convenient day was come, that Herod on his birthday made a supper to his lords, high captains, and [h]chief estates of Galilee;

22 And when the daughter of the said Herodias came in, and danced, and pleased Herod and them that sat with him, the king said unto the damsel, Ask of me whatsoever thou wilt, and I will give it thee.

23 And he sware unto her, Whatsoever thou shalt ask of me, I will give it thee, unto the half of my kingdom.

24 And she went forth, and said unto her mother, What shall I ask? And she said, The head of John the Baptist.

25 And she came in straightway with haste unto the king, and asked, saying, I will that thou give 26 And the king was exceeding [b]sorry; yet for his oath's sake, and for their sakes which sat with him, he would not reject her.

27 And immediately the king sent [c]an executioner, and commanded his head to be brought: and he went and beheaded him in the prison,

28 And brought his head in a charger, and gave it to the damsel: and the damsel gave it to her mother.

29 And when his disciples [d]heard of it, [e]they came and took up his corpse, and laid it in a tomb.

Return of the apostles from their first preaching tour (Lk. 9. 10).

30 And the apostles [f]gathered themselves together unto Jesus, and told him all things, both what they had done, and what they had taught.

31 And he said unto them, Come ye yourselves [g]apart into a desert place, and rest a [h]while: for there were many coming and going, and they had no leisure so much as to eat.

32 And they departed into a desert place [i]by ship privately.

33 And the people saw them departing, and many knew him, and ran afoot thither out of all cities, and outwent them, and came together unto him.

34 And Jesus, when he came out, saw much people, and was moved with [j]compassion toward them, because they were as sheep not having a shepherd: and he began to [k]teach them many things.

35 And when the day was now far spent, his disciples came unto him, and said, This is a desert place, and now the time is far passed:

36 [l]Send them away, that they may go into the country round about, and into the villages, and buy themselves bread: for they have nothing to eat.

37 He answered and said unto them, [m]Give ye them to eat. And they say unto him, Shall we go and buy two hundred pennyworth of bread, and give them to eat?

38 He saith unto them, [n]How many loaves have ye? go and see. And when they knew, they say, Five, and two fishes.

Jesus walks on the sea (Mt. 14. 22-32; John 6. 15-21).

45 And straightway he [s]constrained his disciples to get into the ship, and to go to the other side before unto Bethsaida, while he sent away the people.

46 And when he had sent them away, he [t]departed into a mountain to pray.

47 And when even was come, the ship was in the midst of the sea, and he alone on the land.

48 And he saw them [u]toiling in rowing; for the wind was contrary unto them: and about the fourth watch of the night he cometh unto them, [v]walking upon the sea, and would have passed by them.

49 But when they saw him walking upon the sea, they [w]supposed it had been a spirit, and cried out:

50 For they all saw him, and were troubled. And immediately he talked with them, and saith unto them, [x]Be of good cheer: it is I; be not afraid.

51 And he went up unto them into the ship; and the [y]wind ceased: and they were sore amazed in themselves beyond measure, and wondered.

53 And when they had passed over, they came into the land of Gennesaret, and drew to the shore.

54 And when they were come out of the ship, straightway they [z]knew him,

55 And ran through that whole region round about, and began to carry about in beds those that were sick, where they heard he was.

56 And whithersoever he entered, into villages, or cities, or country, they laid the sick in the streets, and besought him that they might [a]touch if it were but the border of his garment: and as many as touched him were made whole.

CHAPTER 7.

The Pharisees rebuked (Mt. 15. 1-20).

THEN came together unto him the Pharisees, and certain of the scribes, which came from Jerusalem.

2 And when they saw some of his disciples [b]eat bread with defiled, that is to say, with unwashen, hands, they found fault.

3 For the Pharisees, and all the Jews, except they wash their hands oft, eat not, holding the [c]tradition of the elders.

4 And when they come from the market, except they wash, they eat not. And many other things there be, which they have received to hold, as the washing of cups, and pots, brasen vessels, and of tables.

5 Then the Pharisees and scribes asked him, Why walk not thy disciples according to the [d]tradition of the elders, but eat bread with unwashen hands?

6 He answered and said unto them, Well hath [e]Esaias prophesied of you hypocrites, as it is written, This people honoureth me with their lips, but their heart is far from me.

7 Howbeit in vain do they worship me, teaching [f]for doctrines the commandments of men.

8 For laying aside [g]the commandment of God, ye hold the tradition of men, as the washing of pots and cups: and many other such like things ye do.

9 And he said unto them, Full well ye reject the commandment of God, that ye may keep your own tradition.

10 For [h]Moses said, Honour thy father and thy mother; and, Whoso curseth father or mother, [i]let him die the death:

11 But ye say, If a man shall say to his father or mother, It is Corban, that is to say, [j]a gift, by whatsoever thou mightest be profited by me; he shall be free.

12 And ye [k]suffer him no more to do ought for his father or his mother;

13 Making the word of God of none effect through your tradition, which ye have delivered: and many such like things do ye.

14 And when he had called all the people unto him, he said unto them, Hearken unto me every one of you, and understand:

15 There is [l]nothing from without a man, that entering into him can defile him: but the things which come out of him, those are they that defile the man.

16 If any man have ears to hear, let him hear.

17 And when he was entered into the house from the people, his disciples asked him concerning the parable.

18 And he saith unto them, Are ye so without understanding also? Do ye not perceive, that whatsoever thing from without entereth into the man, it cannot defile him;

19 [m]Because it entereth not into his heart, but into the belly, and goeth out into the draught, purging all meats?

20 And he said, That which cometh out of the man, that defileth the man.

21 For from within, [n]out of the heart of men, proceed evil thoughts, adulteries, fornications, murders,

22 Thefts, covetousness, wickedness, deceit, lasciviousness, an evil eye, blasphemy, pride, foolishness:

23 All these evil things come from within, and defile the man.

CHAPTER 8.

The four thousand fed (Mt. 15. 32-39).

IN those days the multitude being very great, and having [n]nothing to eat, Jesus called his disciples unto him, and saith unto them,

2 I have compassion on the multitude, because they have now been with me three days, and have nothing to eat:

3 And if I send them away fasting to their own houses, they will [o]faint by the way: for divers of them came from far.

4 And his disciples answered him, From [p]whence can a man satisfy these men with bread here in the wilderness?

5 And he asked them, How many loaves have ye? And they said, Seven.

6 And he commanded the people to sit down on the ground: and he took the seven loaves, and gave thanks, and brake, and gave to his disciples to set before them; and they did set them before the people.

7 And they had a [q]few small fishes: and he blessed, and commanded to set them also before them.

8 So they did eat, and [r]were [s]filled: and they took up of the broken meat that was left seven baskets.

9 And they that had eaten were about four thousand: and he sent them away.

The Pharisees ask a sign: the meaning of leaven explained (Mt. 16. 1-12).

10 And straightway he [t]entered into a ship with his disciples, and came into the parts of Dalmanutha.

11 And the Pharisees came forth, and began to question with him, seeking of him a [u]sign from heaven, tempting him.

12 And he sighed deeply in his spirit, and saith, Why doth this generation seek after a sign? verily I say unto you, There shall [v]no sign be given unto this generation.

13 And he left them, and entering into the ship again departed to the other side.

14 Now the disciples had forgotten to take bread, neither had they in the ship with them more than one loaf.

15 And he charged them, saying, Take heed, beware of the [w]leaven of the Pharisees, and of the leaven of [x]Herod.

16 And they reasoned among themselves, saying, It is because we have no bread.

17 And when Jesus knew it, he saith unto them, Why reason ye, because ye have no bread? perceive ye not yet, neither understand? have ye your heart yet hardened?

18 Having [y]eyes, see ye not? and having ears, hear ye not? and do ye not remember?

19 When I brake the [z]five loaves among five thousand, how many baskets full of fragments took ye up? They say unto him, Twelve.

20 And when the [a]seven among four thousand, how many baskets

28 And they answered, John the Baptist: but some say, Elias; and others, One of the prophets.

29 And he saith unto them, But whom say ye that I am? And Peter answereth and saith unto him, [h]Thou art the Christ.

30 And he charged them that they should tell no man of him.

31 And he began to teach them, that the [i]Son of man must suffer many things, and be rejected of the elders, and of the chief priests, and scribes, and be killed, and after three days rise again.

32 And he spake that saying openly. And Peter took him, and began to [j]rebuke him.

33 But when he had turned about and looked on his disciples, he rebuked Peter, saying, [k]Get thee behind me, [l]Satan: [m]for thou savourest not the things that be of God, but the things that be of men.

35 For [o]whosoever will save his life shall lose it; but whosoever shall lose his life for my sake and the [p]gospel's, the same shall save it.

CHAPTER 9.

The transfiguration (Mt. 17. 1-8; Lk. 9. 28-36).

AND he said unto them, Verily I say unto you, That there be some of them that stand here, which shall not taste of death, till they have [w]seen the [x]kingdom of God come with power.

2 And after six days Jesus taketh with him Peter, and [y]James, and John, and leadeth them up into an high mountain apart by themselves: and he was [z]transfigured before them.

3 And his raiment became shining, exceeding white as snow; so as no fuller on earth can white them.

4 And there appeared unto them Elias with Moses: and they were talking with Jesus.

5 And Peter answered and said to Jesus, Master, it is good for us to be here: and let us make [a]three tabernacles; one for thee, and one for Moses, and one for Elias.

6 For he [b]wist not what to say; for they were sore afraid.

7 And there was a [c]cloud that overshadowed them: and a voice

[1] Our Lord's action here is most significant. Having abandoned Bethsaida to judgment (Mt. xi. 21-24), He would neither heal in that village, nor permit further testimony to be borne there (v. 26). The probation of Bethsaida as a community was ended, but He would still show mercy to individuals. Cf. Rev. iii. 20. Christ is outside the door of that church, but "If any man hear My voice," etc.

came out of the cloud, saying, [a]This is my beloved Son: hear him.

8 And suddenly, when they had looked round about, they saw [b]no man any more, save Jesus only with themselves.

9 And as they came down from the mountain, he [c]charged them that they should tell no man what things they had seen, till the Son of man were [d]risen from the dead.

10 And they kept that saying with themselves, questioning one with another what the rising from the dead should mean.

11 And they asked him, saying, Why say the scribes that [e]Elias must first come?

12 And he answered and told them, Elias verily cometh first, and restoreth all things; and how it is written of the Son of man, that he must suffer many things, and be set at nought.

13 But I say unto you, [f]That Elias is indeed come, and they have done unto him whatsoever they listed, as it is written of him.

The impotent disciples: the mighty Christ (Mt. 17. 14-21; Lk. 9. 37-42).

14 And when he came to his disciples, he saw a [g]great multitude about them, and the scribes questioning with them.

15 And straightway all the people, when they beheld him, were greatly [h]amazed, and running to him saluted him.

16 And he asked the scribes, What question ye with them?

17 And one of the multitude answered and said, Master, I have brought unto thee my son, which hath a [i]dumb spirit;

18 And wheresoever he taketh him, he teareth him: and he foameth, and gnasheth with his teeth, and pineth away: and I spake to thy disciples that they should cast him out; and they [j]could not.

19 He answereth him, and saith, O [k]faithless generation, how long shall I be with you? how long shall I suffer you? bring him unto me.

20 And they brought him unto him: and [l]when he saw him, straightway the spirit tare him; and he fell on the ground, and wallowed foaming.

21 And he asked his father, How long is it ago since this came unto him? And he said, Of a child.

22 And ofttimes it hath cast him into the fire, and into the waters, to destroy him: but [m]if thou canst do any thing, have compassion on us, and help us.

23 Jesus said unto him, If thou canst [n]believe, [o]all things are possible to him that believeth.

24 And straightway the father of the child cried out, and said with tears, Lord, I believe; [p]help thou mine unbelief.

25 When Jesus saw that the people came running together, he rebuked the foul spirit, saying unto him, Thou dumb and deaf spirit, [q]I charge thee, come out of him, and enter [r]no more into him.

26 And the spirit cried, and rent him sore, and came out of him: and he was as one dead; insomuch that many said, He is dead.

27 [s]But Jesus took him by the hand, [t]and lifted him up; and he arose.

28 And when he was come into the house, his disciples asked him privately, Why could not we cast him out?

29 And he said unto them, [u]This kind can come forth by nothing, but by prayer and fasting.

Jesus foretells his death and resurrection (Mt. 17. 22, 23; Lk. 9. 43-45).

30 And they departed thence, and passed through Galilee; and he would not that any man should [v]know it.

31 For he taught his disciples, and said unto them, [w]The Son of man is delivered into the hands of men, and they shall kill him; and after that he is killed, he shall rise the third day.

32 But they [x]understood not that saying, and were afraid to ask him.

The dispute who should be greatest (Mt. 18. 1-6; Lk. 9. 46-48).

33 And he [y]came to Capernaum: and being in the house he asked them, What was it that ye disputed among yourselves by the way?

34 But they held their peace: for by the way they had disputed among themselves, who should be the [z]greatest.

35 And he sat down, and called the twelve, and saith unto them, If any man desire to be [a]first, the same shall be last of all, and servant of all.

36 And he took a [b]child, and set him in the midst of them: and

CHAPTER 10.

Jesus' law of divorce. (Cf. Mt. 5. 31, 32; 19. 1-9; Lk. 16. 18; 1 Cor. 7. 10-15.)

AND he arose from thence, and cometh into the [p]coasts of Judæa by the farther side of Jordan: and the people resort unto him again; and, as he was wont, he taught them again.

2 And the Pharisees came to him, and asked him, Is it lawful for a man to put away his wife? tempting him.

3 And he answered and said unto them, What did [q]Moses command you?

4 And they said, Moses [r]suffered to write a bill of divorcement, and to put her away.

5 And Jesus answered and said unto them, For the hardness of your heart [s]he wrote you this precept.

6 But from the beginning of the creation [t]God made them male and female.

7 For this cause shall a man [u]leave his father and mother, and cleave to his wife;

8 And [v]they twain shall be one flesh: so then they are no more twain, but one flesh.

9 What therefore God hath joined together, let not man put asunder.

10 And in the house his disciples asked him again of the same matter.

11 And he saith unto them, [w]Whosoever shall put away his wife, and marry another, committeth adultery against her.

12 And if a woman shall put away her husband, and be married to another, she committeth adultery.

Jesus blesses little children (Mt. 19. 13-15; Lk. 18. 15-17).

13 And they brought [x]young children to him, that he should touch them: and his disciples rebuked those that brought them.

14 But when Jesus saw it, he was [y]much displeased, and said unto them, Suffer the little children [z]to come unto me, and forbid them not: for of such is the kingdom of God.

15 Verily I say unto you, Whosoever shall not receive the kingdom of God as a little child, he shall not enter therein.

16 [a]And he took them up in his arms, put his hands upon them, and [1]blessed them.

The rich young ruler (Mt. 19. 16–30; Lk. 18. 18–30. Cf. Lk. 10. 25).

17 [a]And when he was gone forth into the way, there came one running, and kneeled to him, and asked him, Good [b]Master, what shall I do that I may inherit eternal life?

18 And Jesus said unto him, [c]Why callest thou me good? there is none good but one, that is, God.

19 Thou knowest the [d]commandments, Do not commit adultery, Do not kill, Do not steal, Do not bear false witness, Defraud not, Honour thy father and mother.

20 And he answered and said unto him, Master, all these have I observed from my youth.

21 Then Jesus beholding him loved him, and said unto him, One thing thou lackest: go thy way, sell whatsoever thou hast, and give to the poor, and thou shalt have [e]treasure in heaven: and come, take up the cross, and follow me.

22 And he was sad at that saying, and went away grieved: for he had great possessions.

The warning against riches.

23 [f]And Jesus looked round about, and saith unto his disciples, How hardly shall they that have riches enter into the kingdom of God!

24 And the disciples were [g]astonished at his words. But Jesus answereth again, and saith unto them, Children, how hard is it for them that [h]trust in riches to enter into the kingdom of God!

25 It is easier for a camel to go through the [i]eye of a needle, than for a rich man to enter into the kingdom of God.

26 And they were astonished out of measure, saying among themselves, Who then can be saved?

27 And Jesus looking upon them saith, With men it is impossible, but not with God: for with God all things are possible.

28 [j]Then Peter began to say unto him, Lo, we have left all, and have followed thee.

29 And Jesus answered and said, Verily I say unto you, There is no man that hath left house, or brethren, or sisters, or father, or mother, or wife, or children, or lands, for my sake, and the [k]gospel's,

30 But he shall receive an hundredfold now in this time, [l]houses, and [m]brethren, and sisters, and mothers, and children, and lands, with persecutions; and in the [n]world to come eternal life.

31 But many that are first shall be last; and the last first.

Jesus again foretells his death and resurrection (Mt. 20. 17–19; Lk. 18. 31–33).

32 And they were in the way going up to Jerusalem; and Jesus went before them: and they were amazed; and as they followed, they were afraid. [o]And he took again the twelve, and began to tell them what things should happen unto him,

33 Saying, Behold, we go up to Jerusalem; [p]and the [q]Son of man shall be delivered unto the chief priests, and unto the scribes; and they shall condemn him to death, and shall deliver him to the Gentiles:

34 And they [r]shall mock him, and shall scourge him, and shall spit upon him, and shall kill him: and the third day he shall rise again.

The desire of James and John to be first (Mt. 20. 20–28).

35 And James and John, the sons of Zebedee, come unto him, saying, Master, we would that thou shouldest do for us whatsoever we shall desire.

36 And he said unto them, What would ye that I should do for you?

37 They said unto him, [s]Grant unto us that we may sit, one on thy right hand, and the other on thy left hand, in thy glory.

38 But Jesus said unto them, Ye know not what ye ask: [t]can ye drink of the cup that I drink of? and be baptized with the baptism that I am baptized with?

39 And they said unto him, We can. [u]And Jesus said unto them, Ye shall indeed drink of the cup that I drink of; and with the [v]baptism that I am baptized withal shall ye be baptized:

40 But to sit on my right hand and on my left hand is not mine to give; [w]but it shall be given to them for whom it is prepared.

they began to be much displeased with James and John.

CHAPTER 11.

The official presentation of Jesus as King (Zech. 9. 9; Mt. 21. 1-9; Lk. 19. 29-38).

AND when they came nigh to Jerusalem, unto [j] Bethphage and [k] Bethany, at the mount of Olives, he sendeth forth two of his disciples,

2 And saith unto them, Go your way into the village over against you: and as soon as ye be entered into it, ye shall find a colt tied, whereon never man sat; loose him, and bring him.

3 And if any man say unto you, Why do ye this? say ye that the Lord hath need of him; and straightway he will send him hither.

4 And they went their way, and found the colt tied by the door without in a place where two ways met; and they loose him.

5 And certain of them that stood there said unto them, What do ye, loosing the colt?

6 And they said unto them even as Jesus had commanded: and they let them go.

7 And they brought the colt to Jesus, and cast their garments on him; and he sat upon him.

8 And many spread their garments in the way: and others cut down branches off the trees, and strawed them in the way.

9 And they that went before, and they that followed, cried, saying, Hosanna; Blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord:

10 Blessed be the [l] kingdom of our father David, that cometh in the name of the Lord: Hosanna in the highest.

11 And Jesus entered into Jerusalem, and into the temple: and when he had looked round about upon all things, and now the [m] eventide was come, he went out unto Bethany with the twelve.

The prayer of faith. (Cf. Jas. 5. 15.)

22 And Jesus answering saith unto them, [g]Have faith in God.

33 And they answered and said unto Jesus, We cannot tell. And Jesus answering saith unto them, Neither do I tell you by what authority I do these things.

CHAPTER 12.

Parable of the householder demanding fruit from his vineyard (Mt. 21. 33–46; Lk. 20. 9–19. Cf. Isa. 5. 1–7).

AND he began to speak unto [k]them by [l]parables. A certain man planted a [m]vineyard, and set an hedge about it, and digged a place for the winefat, and built a tower, and let it out to husbandmen, and went into a far country.

2 And at the season he [n]sent to the husbandmen a servant, that he might receive from the husbandmen of the fruit of the vineyard.

3 And they caught him, and beat him, and sent him away empty.

4 And again he sent unto them another servant; and at him they cast stones, and wounded him in the head, and sent him away shamefully handled.

5 And again he sent another; and him they killed, and many others; beating some, and killing some.

6 Having yet therefore one [o]son, his wellbeloved, he sent him also last unto them, saying, They will reverence my son.

7 But those husbandmen said among themselves, This is the heir; come, let us kill him, and the inheritance shall be our's.

8 And they took him, and killed him, and cast him out of the vineyard.

9 What shall therefore the lord of the vineyard do? he will come and [p]destroy the husbandmen, and will give the vineyard unto others.

10 And have ye not read this scripture; [q]The stone which the builders rejected is become the head of the corner:

11 This was the [r]Lord's doing, and it is marvellous in our eyes?

parable against them: and they left him, and went their way.

The question of tribute (Mt. 22. 15-22; Lk. 20. 20-26).

13 And they [a]send unto him certain of the Pharisees and of the Herodians, to catch him in his words.

14 And when they were come, they say unto him, Master, we know that thou art true, and carest for no man: for thou regardest not the person of men, but teachest the way of God in truth: [b]Is it lawful to give tribute to Cæsar, [c]or not?

15 Shall we give, or shall we not give? But he, knowing their hypocrisy, said unto them, Why tempt ye me? bring me a [d]penny, that I may see it.

16 And they brought it. And he saith unto them, Whose is this image and superscription? And they said unto him, Cæsar's.

17 And Jesus answering said unto them, [e]Render to Cæsar the things that are Cæsar's, and to [f]God the things that are God's. And they marvelled at him.

Jesus answers the Sadducees (Mt. 22. 23-33; Lk. 20. 27-38).

18 Then come unto him the [g]Sadducees, which say there is no resurrection; and they asked him, saying,

19 Master, [h]Moses wrote unto us, If a man's brother die, and leave his wife behind him, and leave no children, that his [i]brother should take his wife, and raise up seed unto his brother.

20 Now there were seven brethren: and the first took a wife, and dying left no seed.

21 And the second took her, and died, neither left he any seed: and the third likewise.

22 And the seven had her, and left no seed: last of all the woman died also.

23 In the resurrection therefore, when they shall rise, whose wife shall she be of them? for the seven had her to wife.

24 And Jesus answering [j]said unto them, Do ye not therefore err, because ye know not the scriptures, neither the power of God?

25 For [k]when they shall rise [l]from the dead, they neither marry, nor are given in marriage; but are as the [m]angels which are in heaven.

26 And as touching the dead, that they rise: have ye not [n]read in the book of Moses, how in the bush God [o]spake unto him, saying, I am the [p]God of Abraham, and the [p]God of Isaac, and the [p]God of Jacob?

27 He is not the God of the dead, but the God of the living: ye therefore do greatly err.

The great commandments (Mt. 22. 34-40; cf. Lk. 10. 25-37).

28 And one of the scribes came, and having heard them reasoning together, and perceiving that he had answered them well, asked him, Which is the first commandment of all?

29 And Jesus answered him, The first of all the commandments is, Hear, O Israel; The Lord our God is one [q]Lord:

30 And thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind, and with all thy strength: this is the first commandment.

31 And the second is like, namely this, [r]Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself. There is none other commandment greater than these.

32 And the scribe said unto him, Well, Master, thou hast said the truth: for there is one God; and there is none other but he:

33 And to love him with all the heart, and with all the understanding, and with all the soul, and with all the strength, and to love his neighbour as himself, is more than all whole burnt-offerings and sacrifices.

34 And when Jesus saw that he answered [s]discreetly, he said unto him, Thou art not [t]far from the kingdom of God. And no man after that durst ask him any question.

Jesus questions the Pharisees (Mt. 22. 41-46; Lk. 20. 41-44).

35 And Jesus answered and said, while he taught in the temple, How say the scribes that Christ is the [u]son of David?

36 [v]For David himself said by the [w]Holy Ghost, The [x]LORD said to my [y]Lord, Sit thou on my right hand, till I make thine enemies thy footstool.

37 David therefore himself calleth him Lord; and whence is he then his son? And the common people heard him gladly.

38 And he said unto them in his doctrine, Beware of the scribes, which love to go in long clothing,

42 And there came a certain poor widow, and she threw in two [b]mites, which make a [c]farthing.

43 And he called unto him his disciples, and saith unto them, Verily I say unto you, That this poor widow hath cast more in, than all they which have cast into the treasury:

44 For all they did cast in of their abundance; but she of her want did cast in all that she had, even all her living.

CHAPTER 13.

The Olivet discourse: the disciples' questions. (Cf. Mt. 24., 25.; Lk. 21.)

AND as he went out of the temple, one of his disciples saith unto him, Master, see what manner of stones and what buildings are here!

2 [d]And Jesus answering said unto him, Seest thou these great buildings? there shall not be left one stone upon another, that shall not be thrown down.

3 And as he sat upon the mount of Olives over against the temple, Peter and James and John and Andrew asked him privately,

4 Tell us, when shall these things be? and what shall be the sign when all these things shall be fulfilled?

The Olivet discourse: the course of this age.

5 And Jesus answering them began to say, Take heed lest any man [e]deceive you:

6 For many shall come in my name, saying, I am Christ; and shall deceive many.

7 And when ye shall hear of wars and rumours of wars, [f]be ye not troubled: for such things must needs be; but the end shall not be yet.

8 For nation shall rise against nation, and kingdom against kingdom: and there shall be earthquakes in divers places, and there shall be famines and troubles: these are the beginnings of [g]sorrows.

9 But take heed to yourselves: for they shall [h]deliver you up to councils; and in the synagogues ye shall be beaten: and ye shall be brought before rulers and kings for my sake, for a testimony against them.

10 [i]And the [j]gospel must first be published among all nations.

11 But when they shall lead you, and deliver you up, [k]take no thought beforehand what ye shall speak, neither do ye premeditate: but whatsoever shall be given you in that hour, that speak ye: for it is not ye that speak, [l]but the [m]Holy Ghost.

12 Now the [n]brother shall betray the brother to death, and the father the son; and children shall rise up against their parents, and shall cause them to be put to death.

13 And ye shall be hated of all men for my name's sake: but he that shall endure unto the [o]end, the same shall be [p]saved.

14 But [q]when ye shall see the abomination of desolation, spoken of by Daniel the prophet, standing where [r]it ought not, (let him that readeth understand,) [s]then let them that be in Judæa flee to the mountains:

15 And let him that is on the housetop not go down into the house, neither enter therein, to take any thing out of his house:

16 And let him that is in the field not turn back again for to take up his garment.

17 But woe to them that are with child, and to them that give suck in those days!

18 And pray ye that your flight be not in the winter.

19 For in those days shall be [t]affliction, such as was not from the beginning of the creation which God created unto this time, neither shall be.

20 And except that the Lord had shortened those days, no flesh

The Lord's return in glory (Mt. 24. 29-34).

24 But in those days, after that tribulation, the sun shall be darkened, and the moon shall not give her light,

25 And the stars of heaven shall fall, and the powers that are in heaven shall be shaken.

30 Verily I say unto you, that this generation shall not pass, till all these things be done.

31 Heaven and earth shall pass away: but my words shall not pass away.

32 But of that day and that hour knoweth no man, no, not the [c]angels which are in heaven, neither the Son, but the Father.

33 Take ye heed, watch and pray: for ye know not when the time is.

The plot to put Jesus to death (Mt. 26. 2-5; Lk. 22. 1, 2).

AFTER two days was the feast of the passover, and of unleavened bread: and the chief priests and the scribes sought how they might take him by craft, and put him to death.

2 But they said, Not on the feast day, lest there be an uproar of the people.

3 [g]And being in Bethany in the house of Simon the leper, as he sat at meat, there came a [h]woman having an alabaster box of ointment of spikenard very precious; and she brake the box, and poured it on his [i]head.

4 And there were some that had indignation within themselves, and said, Why was this waste of the ointment made?

5 For it might have been sold for more than [j]three hundred pence, and have been given to the poor. And they murmured against her.

6 And Jesus said, Let her alone; why trouble ye her? she hath wrought a good work on me.

7 [k]For ye have the poor with you always, and whensoever ye will ye may do them good: but me ye have not always.

8 She hath done what she could: she is come aforehand to [l]anoint my body to the burying.

9 Verily I say unto you, [m]Wheresoever this [n]gospel shall be preached throughout the whole [o]world, this also that she hath done shall be spoken of for a memorial of her.

12 And the [a]first day of unleavened bread, when they [b]killed the passover, his disciples said unto him, Where wilt thou that we go and prepare that thou mayest eat the passover?

13 And he sendeth forth two of his disciples, and saith unto them, Go ye into the city, and there shall meet you a man bearing a pitcher of water: follow him.

14 And wheresoever he shall go in, say ye to the goodman of the house, The [c]Master saith, Where is the guest-chamber, where I shall eat the passover with my disciples?

15 And he will shew you a large upper room furnished and prepared: there make ready for us.

16 And his disciples went forth, and came into the city, and [d]found as he had said unto them: and they made ready the passover.

The last passover (Mt. 26. 20-24; Lk. 22. 14, 21-23; John 13. 18, 19).

17 [e]And in the evening he cometh with the twelve.

18 And as they sat and did eat, Jesus said, Verily I say unto you, One of you which [f]eateth with me shall betray me.

19 And they began to be sorrowful, and to say unto him one by one, Is it I? and another said, Is it I?

20 And he answered and said unto them, It is one of the twelve, that dippeth with me in the dish.

Peter's denial foretold (Mt. 26. 31-35; Lk. 22. 31-34; John 13. 36-38).

26 And when they had sung an [p]hymn, they went out into the mount of Olives.

27 And Jesus saith unto them, All ye shall be offended because of me this night: for it is [q]written, I will smite the shepherd, and the sheep shall be scattered.

28 [r]But after that I am risen, I will go before you into Galilee.

29 But [s]Peter said unto him, Although all shall be offended, yet will not I.

30 And Jesus saith unto him, Verily I say unto thee, That this day, even in this night, before the cock crow twice, thou shalt deny me thrice.

31 But he spake the more vehemently, If I should die with thee, I will not deny thee in any wise. [t]Likewise also said they all.

The agony in the garden. (Cf. Mt. 26. 36-46; Lk. 22. 40-46; John 18. 1.)

32 And they came to a place which was named Gethsemane: and he saith to his disciples, Sit ye here, while I shall pray.

33 And he [u]taketh with him Peter and James and John, and began to be sore amazed, and to be very heavy;

34 And saith unto them, My [v]soul is exceeding sorrowful unto death: tarry ye here, and watch.

The first prayer. (Cf. Mt. 26. 39; Lk. 22. 41, 42.)

35 And he went forward a little, and fell on the ground, and prayed that, if it were possible, the hour might pass from him.

36 And he said, Abba, Father, all things are possible unto thee; take away this [w]cup from me: [x]nevertheless not what I will, but what thou wilt.

37 And he cometh, and findeth them sleeping, and saith unto Peter, Simon, sleepest thou? couldest not thou watch one hour?

The second prayer. (Cf. Mt. 26. 42; Lk. 22. 44.)

39 And again he went away, and prayed, and spake the same words.

40 And when he returned, he found them asleep again, (for their eyes were heavy,) neither wist they what to answer him.

The third prayer. (Cf. Mt. 26. 44.)

41 And he cometh the third time, and saith unto them, Sleep on now, and take your rest: it is enough, the [a]hour is come; behold, the Son of man is betrayed into the hands of [b]sinners.

42 Rise up, let us go; lo, he that betrayeth me is at hand.

The betrayal and arrest of Jesus (Mt. 26. 47-56; Lk. 22. 47-53; John 18. 3-11).

43 And immediately, while he yet spake, cometh [c]Judas, one of the twelve, and with him a great [d]multitude with swords and staves, from the chief priests and the scribes and the elders.

44 And he that betrayed him had given them a token, saying, Whomsoever I shall kiss, that same is he; take him, and lead him away safely.

45 [e]And as soon as he was come, he goeth straightway to him, and saith, [f]Master, master; and kissed him.

46 And they laid their hands on him, and took him.

Peter smites with the sword and follows afar off. Jesus forsaken by all (Mt. 26. 51-56).

47 And one of them that stood by drew a sword, and smote a servant of the high priest, and cut off his ear.

48 And Jesus answered and said unto them, Are ye come out, as against a thief, with swords and with staves to take me?

49 I was daily with you in the temple teaching, and ye took me not: but the scriptures must be fulfilled.

50 And they [g]all forsook him, and fled.

51 And there followed him a certain young man, having a linen cloth cast about his naked body; and the young men laid hold on him:

52 And he left the linen cloth, and fled from them naked.

Jesus is brought before the high priest and Sanhedrin (Mt. 26. 57-68; John 18. 12-14, 19-24).

53 [h]And they [i]led Jesus away to the high priest: and with him were assembled all the chief priests and the elders and the scribes.

54 And Peter followed him afar off, [j]even into the [k]palace of the high priest: and he sat with the servants, and warmed himself at the fire.

55 And the chief priests and all the council sought for witness against Jesus to put him to death; and found none.

56 For many bare false witness against him, but their witness agreed not together.

57 And there arose certain, and bare false witness against him, saying,

58 We heard him [l]say, I will destroy this temple that is made with hands, and within three days I will build another made without hands.

59 But neither so did their witness agree together.

60 And the high priest stood up in the midst, and asked Jesus, saying, Answerest thou nothing? what is it which these witness against thee?

61 [m]But he held his peace, and [n]answered nothing. Again the high priest asked him, and said unto him, Art thou the Christ, the Son of the Blessed?

62 And Jesus said, I am: and ye shall see the Son of man [o]sitting on the right hand of power, and coming in the clouds of heaven.

63 Then the high priest [p]rent his clothes, and saith, What need we any further witnesses?

64 Ye have heard the [q]blasphemy: what think ye? And they all condemned him to be guilty of death.

65 And some began to [r]spit on him, and to cover his face, and to buffet him, and to say unto him, [s]Prophesy: and the servants [t]did strike him with the palms of their hands.

Peter denies his Lord (Mt. 26. 69-75; Lk. 22. 56-62; John 18. 16-18, 25-27).

66 And as Peter was beneath in the palace, there cometh one of the maids of the high priest:

67 And when she saw Peter warming himself, she looked upon him, and said, And thou also wast with Jesus of Nazareth.

68 But he denied, saying, I know not, neither understand I what thou sayest. And he went out into the porch; and the cock crew.

71 But he began to curse and to swear, saying, I know not this man of whom ye speak.

CHAPTER 15.

Jesus sent before Pilate (Mt. 27. 1, 2, 11-15; Lk. 23. 1-7, 13-18; John 18. 28-40; 19. 1-16).

AND straightway in the morning the chief priests held a [b]consultation with the elders and scribes and the whole council, and bound Jesus, and carried him away, and delivered him to Pilate.

2 And Pilate [c]asked him, Art thou the King of the Jews? And he answering said unto him, Thou sayest it.

3 And the chief priests accused him of many things: but he answered nothing.

4 And Pilate asked him again, saying, [d]Answerest thou nothing? behold how many things they witness against thee.

5 [e]But Jesus yet answered nothing; so that Pilate marvelled.

6 Now at that feast he released unto them one prisoner, whomsoever they desired.

Not Jesus but Barabbas (Mt. 27. 16-26; Lk. 23. 16-25; John 18. 40).

7 And there was one named Barabbas, which lay bound with them that had made insurrection with him, who had committed murder in the insurrection.

8 And the multitude crying aloud began to desire him to do as he had ever done unto them.

9 But Pilate answered them, saying, Will ye that I release unto you the King of the Jews?

10 For he knew that the chief priests had delivered him for [f]envy.

11 But the chief priests moved the people, that he should rather [g]release Barabbas unto them.

12 And Pilate answered and said again unto them, What will ye then that I shall do unto him whom ye call the [h]King of the Jews?

13 And they cried out again, Crucify him.

14 Then Pilate said unto them, Why, [i]what evil hath he done? And they cried out the more exceedingly, Crucify him.

15 And so Pilate, willing to content the people, released Barabbas unto them, and delivered Jesus, when he had scourged him, to be [j]crucified.

Jesus crowned with thorns (Mt. 27. 27-31).

16 And the soldiers led him away into [k]the hall, called Prætorium; and they call together the whole band.

17 And they clothed him with purple, and [l]platted a crown of [m]thorns, and put it about his head, 18 And began to salute him, [n]Hail, King of the Jews!

19 [o]And they [p]smote him on the head with a reed, and did spit upon him, and bowing their knees worshipped him.

20 And when they had mocked him, they took off the purple from him, and put his own clothes on him, and led him out to crucify him.

23 And they gave him to [t]drink wine mingled with myrrh: [u]but he received it not.

Jesus crucified (Mt. 27. 33-56; Lk. 23. 33-49; John 19. 17-37).

24 [v]And when they had crucified him, they [w]parted his garments, [x]casting lots upon them, what every man should take.

25 And it was the [y]third hour, and they crucified him.

26 And the [z]superscription of his accusation was written over, THE KING OF THE JEWS.

27 And with him they crucify two thieves; the one on his right hand, and the other on his left.

CHAPTER 16.

The resurrection of Jesus Christ and the events of that day. (Mt. 28. 1-15; Lk. 24. 1-49; John 20. 1-23).

AND [o]when the sabbath was past, Mary Magdalene, and [n]Mary the mother of James, and Salome, had bought sweet spices, that they might come and anoint him.

2 [1]And very early in the morning the first day of the week, they came unto the sepulchre at the rising of the sun.

3 And they said among themselves, [p]Who shall roll us away the stone from the door of the sepulchre?

4 And when they looked, they saw that the stone was rolled away: for it was very great.

5 And entering into the sepulchre, they saw a young man sitting on the right side, clothed in a long white garment; and they were affrighted.

6 And he saith unto them, Be not affrighted: [q]Ye seek Jesus of Nazareth, which was crucified: he is [r]risen; he is not here: behold the place where they laid him.

7 But go your way, tell his disciples and Peter that he goeth before you into Galilee: there shall ye see him, [s]as he said unto you.

trembled and were amazed: neither said they any thing to any man; for they were afraid.

9 [1]Now when Jesus was risen early the first day of the week, he [a]appeared first to Mary Magdalene, out of whom he had cast seven devils.

10 And she went and told them that had been with him, as they mourned and wept.

11 And they, when they had heard that he was alive, and had been seen of her, believed not.

12 After that he [b]appeared in another form unto two of them, as they walked, and went into the country.

13 And they went and told it unto the residue: neither believed they them.

14 Afterward he appeared unto the [2]eleven as they sat at meat, and upbraided them with their unbelief and hardness of heart, because they believed not them which had seen him after he was risen.

15 And he said unto them, Go ye into all the [c]world, and preach the [d]gospel to every creature.

16 He that believeth and is baptized shall be [e]saved; but he that believeth not shall be [f]damned.

17 And these [g]signs shall follow them that believe; In my name shall they cast out [h]devils; they shall speak with [i]new tongues;

18 They shall take up [j]serpents; and if they drink any [k]deadly thing, it shall not hurt them; they shall lay hands on the [l]sick, and they shall recover.

19 So then after the Lord had spoken unto them, he was [m]received up into heaven, and sat on the right hand of God.

20 And they went forth, and preached every where, the Lord [n]working with them, and confirming the word with signs following. Amen.

WRITER. The writer of the third Gospel is called by Paul "the beloved physician" (Col. iv. 14); and, as we learn from the Acts, was Paul's frequent companion. He was of Jewish ancestry, but his correct Greek marks him as a Jew of the dispersion. Tradition says that he was a Jew of Antioch, as Paul was of Tarsus.

Date. The date of Luke falls between A.D. 63 and 68.

Theme. Luke is the Gospel of the human-divine One, as John is of the divine-human One. The key-phrase is "Son of man," and the key-verse (xix. 10), "For the Son of man is come to seek and to save that which was lost." In harmony with this intent, Luke relates those things concerning Jesus which demonstrate how entirely human He was. His genealogy is traced to Adam, and the most detailed account is given of His mother, and of His infancy and boyhood. The parables peculiar to Luke have distinctively the human and the seeking note. But Luke is careful to guard the Deity and Kingship of Jesus Christ (Lk. i. 32-35). Luke, then, is the Gospel of "the man whose name is The BRANCH" (Zech. vi. 12).

Luke has seven chief divisions: I. The Evangelist's Introduction, i. 1-4. II. The human relationships of Jesus, i. 5-ii. 52. III. The baptism, ancestry, and testing of Jesus, iii. 1-iv. 13. IV. The ministry of the Son of man as Prophet-King in Galilee, iv. 14-ix. 50. V. The journey of the Son of man from Galilee to Jerusalem, ix. 51-xix. 44. VI. The final offer of the Son of man as King to Israel, His rejection and sacrifice, xix. 45-xxiii. 56. VII. The resurrection, resurrection ministry, and ascension of the Son of man, xxiv. 1-53.

CHAPTER 1.

Introduction.

FORASMUCH as many have taken in hand to set forth in order a declaration of those things which are most surely believed among us,

2 Even as they delivered them unto us, which from the beginning [a]were eyewitnesses, and ministers of [b]the word;

3 It seemed good to me also, [c]having had perfect [d]understanding of all things [1]from the very first, to write unto thee [e]in order, most excellent [f]Theophilus,

4 That thou mightest know the certainty of those things, wherein thou hast been instructed.

Birth of John the Baptist foretold.

5 [g]THERE was in the days of [h]Herod, the king of Judæa, a certain priest named Zacharias, of the course of Abia: and his [i]wife was of the daughters of Aaron, and her name was Elisabeth.

6 And they were both [j]righteous before God, walking in all the [k]commandments and ordinances of the Lord blameless.

7 And they had no child, because that Elisabeth was barren, and they both were now well stricken in years.

8 And it came to pass, that while he executed the priest's office before God in the order of his course,

9 According to the custom of the priest's office, his lot was to burn incense when he went into the temple of the Lord.

10 And the whole multitude of the people were praying without at the time of incense.

11 And there appeared unto him an angel of the Lord standing on the right side of the altar of incense.

12 And when Zacharias saw him,

[j] Law (of Moses). Lk. 10. 25-37. (Ex. 19. 1; Gal. 3. 1-29.)

[1] "From the very first": Gr. anothen, "from above." So translated in John iii. 31; xix. 11; Jas. i. 17; iii. 15, 17. In no other place is anothen translated "from the very first." The use by Luke of anothen is an affirmation that his knowledge of these things, derived from those who had been eye-witnesses from the beginning (Lk. i. 2), was confirmed by revelation. In like manner Paul had doubtless heard from the eleven the story of the institution of the Lord's Supper, but he also had it by revelation from the Lord (cf. 1 Cor. xi. 23), and his writing, like Luke's "anothen" knowledge, thus became first-hand, not traditional, merely.

he was troubled, and fear fell upon him.

13 But the [a]angel said unto him, Fear not, Zacharias: for thy [b]prayer is heard; and thy wife Elisabeth shall bear thee a son, and thou shalt call his name John.

14 And thou shalt have joy and gladness; and many shall rejoice at his birth.

15 For he shall be [c]great in the sight of the Lord, and shall drink neither wine nor strong drink; and he shall be filled with the [d]Holy Ghost, [e]even from his mother's womb.

16 And many of the children of Israel shall he turn to the Lord their God.

17 And he [f]shall go before him in the [g]spirit and power of Elias, to turn the hearts of the fathers to the children, and the disobedient to the wisdom of the just; to make ready a [h]people prepared for the Lord.

18 And Zacharias said unto the angel, Whereby shall I know this? for I am an old man, and my wife well stricken in years.

19 And the [a]angel answering said unto him, I am [i]Gabriel, that stand in the presence of God; and am [j]sent to speak unto thee, and to shew thee these glad tidings.

20 And, behold, thou shalt be dumb, and not able to speak, until the day that these things shall be performed, because thou believest not my words, which shall be fulfilled in their season.

21 And the people waited for Zacharias, and marvelled that he tarried so long in the temple.

22 And when he came out, he could not speak unto them: and they perceived that he had seen a vision in the temple: for he beckoned unto them, and remained speechless.

23 And it came to pass, that, as soon as the days of his ministration were accomplished, he departed to his own house.

24 And after those days his wife Elisabeth conceived, and hid herself five months, saying,

25 Thus hath the Lord dealt with me in the days wherein he looked on me, to [k]take away my reproach among men.

The annunciation.

26 And in the [l]sixth month the [a]angel Gabriel was sent from God unto a city of Galilee, named Nazareth,

27 To a [m]virgin espoused to a man whose name was Joseph, of the house of David; and the virgin's name was Mary.

28 And the [a]angel came in unto her, and said, Hail, thou that art [n]highly favoured, the Lord is with thee: blessed art thou among women.

29 And when she saw him, she was troubled at his saying, and cast in her mind what manner of salutation this should be.

30 And the [a]angel said unto her, Fear not, Mary: for thou hast found favour with God.

31 And, behold, [o]thou shalt conceive in thy womb, and bring forth a son, and shalt call his name JESUS.

32 He shall be [p]great, and shall be called the [q]Son of the Highest: and the Lord God shall give unto him the [r]throne of his [s]father David:

33 And [t]he shall reign over the house of Jacob for ever; and [u]of his [v]kingdom there shall be no end.

34 Then said Mary unto the angel, How shall this be, seeing I know not a man?

35 And the angel answered and said unto her, The Holy Ghost shall come upon thee, [w]and the power of the Highest shall overshadow thee: therefore also that [x]holy thing which shall be born of thee shall be called the [y]Son of God.

36 And, behold, thy cousin Elisabeth, she hath also conceived a son in her old age: and this is the sixth month with her, who was called barren.

37 For [z]with God nothing shall be impossible.

38 And Mary said, Behold the handmaid of the Lord; be it unto me according to thy word. And the angel departed from her.

Mary visits Elisabeth.

39 And Mary arose in those days, and went into the hill country with haste, into a city of Juda;

40 And entered into the house of Zacharias, and saluted Elisabeth.

41 And it came to pass, that, when Elisabeth heard the salutation of Mary, the babe leaped in her womb; and Elisabeth was filled with the Holy Ghost:

42 And she spake out with a loud

The magnificat. (Cf. 1 Sam. 2. 1-10.)

46 And Mary said, [c]My soul doth magnify the Lord,

47 And my spirit hath rejoiced in God my [d]Saviour.

48 For he hath regarded the low estate of his handmaiden: for, behold, from henceforth all generations shall call me blessed.

49 For he that is mighty hath done to me great things; and [e]holy is his name.

50 And his [f]mercy is on them that fear him from generation to generation.

51 He hath shewed strength with his arm; he hath scattered the proud in the imagination of their hearts.

52 He hath put down the mighty from their seats, and exalted them of low degree.

53 He hath filled the hungry with good things; and the rich he hath sent empty away.

54 He hath holpen his servant Israel, in remembrance of his mercy;

55 As he [g]spake to our fathers, to Abraham, and to his seed for ever.

56 And Mary abode with her about three months, and returned to her own house.

Birth of John the Baptist.

57 Now Elisabeth's full time came that she should be delivered; and she brought forth a son.

58 And her neighbours and her cousins heard how the Lord had shewed great mercy upon her; and they rejoiced with her.

59 And it came to pass, that on the eighth day they came to [h]circumcise the child; and they called him Zacharias, after the name of his father.

60 And his mother answered and said, Not so; but he shall be called John.

61 And they said unto her, There is none of thy kindred that is called by this name.

62 And they made signs to his father, how he would have him called.

63 And he asked for a writing table, and wrote, saying, His name is [i]John. And they marvelled all.

64 And his [j]mouth was opened immediately, and his tongue loosed, and he spake, and praised God.

65 And fear came on all that dwelt round about them: and all these sayings were noised abroad throughout all the hill country of Judæa.

66 And all they that heard them laid them up in their hearts, saying, What manner of child shall this be! And the hand of the Lord was with him.

67 And his father Zacharias was filled with the Holy Ghost, and prophesied, saying,

68 Blessed be the [k]Lord God of Israel; for he hath visited and [l]redeemed his people,

69 And hath raised up an [m]horn of salvation for us in the [n]house of his servant David;

70 As he spake [o]by the mouth of his holy prophets, which have been since the world began:

71 That we should be [p]saved from our enemies, and from the hand of all that hate us;

72 To perform the mercy promised to our fathers, and to remember his holy covenant;

73 The [q]oath which he sware to our father Abraham,

74 That he would grant unto us, that we being delivered out of the hand of our enemies might [r]serve him without fear,

75 In holiness and righteousness before him, all the days of our life.

76 And thou, child, shalt be called the prophet of the Highest: for thou shalt go before the face of the Lord to prepare his ways;

77 To give knowledge of salvation unto his people by the remission of their [s]sins,

78 Through the tender mercy of our God; whereby the [t]dayspring from on high hath visited us,

79 To give light to them that sit in darkness and in the shadow of [u]death, to guide our feet into the way of peace.

CHAPTER 2.

The birth of Jesus (Mt. 1. 18–25; 2. 1; cf. John 1. 14).

AND it came to pass in those days, that there went out a decree from Caesar Augustus, that all the [1a]world should be taxed.

2 (And this taxing was first made when Cyrenius was governor of Syria.)

3 And all went to be taxed, every one into his own city.

4 And Joseph also went up from Galilee, out of the city of Nazareth, into Judaea, unto the city of David, which is called [b]Bethlehem; (because he was of the house and lineage of David:)

5 To be taxed with Mary his espoused wife, being great with child.

6 And so it was, that, while they were there, the days were accomplished that she should be delivered.

7 And [c]she brought forth her firstborn son, and wrapped him in swaddling clothes, and laid him in a manger; because there was no room for them in the inn.

Adoration of the shepherds.

8 And there were in the same country shepherds abiding in the field, keeping watch over their flock by night.

9 And, lo, the [d]angel of the Lord came upon them, and the glory of the Lord shone round about them: and they were sore afraid.

10 And the angel said unto them, Fear not: for, behold, I bring you good [e]tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people.

11 For unto you is born this day in the city of David a [f]Saviour, which is Christ the Lord.

12 And this shall be a sign unto you; Ye shall find the babe wrapped in swaddling clothes, lying in a manger.

13 And suddenly there was with the [d]angel a multitude of the heavenly host praising God, and saying,

14 Glory to God in the highest, and [g]on earth peace, [h]good will toward men.

15 And it came to pass, as the [d]angels were gone away from them into heaven, the shepherds said one to another, Let us now go even unto Bethlehem, and see this thing which is come to pass, which the Lord hath made known unto us.

16 And they came with haste, and found Mary, and Joseph, and the babe lying in a manger.

17 And when they had seen it, they made known abroad the saying which was told them concerning this child.

18 And all they that heard it wondered at those things which were told them by the shepherds.

19 But Mary kept all these things, and pondered them in her heart.

20 And the shepherds returned, glorifying and praising God for all the things that they had heard and seen, as it was told unto them.

Circumcision of Jesus. (Cf. Lk. 1. 59.)

21 And when eight days were accomplished [i]for the circumcising of the child, his name was called [j]JESUS, which was so named of the [d]angel before he was conceived in the womb.

22 And when the [k]days of her purification according to the law of Moses were accomplished, they brought him to Jerusalem, to present him to the Lord;

23 (As it is written in the law of the [l]Lord, [m]Every male that openeth the womb shall be called holy to the Lord;)

24 And to offer a sacrifice according to that which is said in the law of the Lord, A [n]pair of turtledoves, or two young pigeons.

Adoration and prophecy of Simeon.

This passage is noteworthy as defining the usual N.T. use of oikoumene as the sphere of Roman rule at its greatest extent, that is, of the great Gentile world-monarchies (Dan. ii., vii.). That part of the earth is therefore peculiarly the sphere of prophecy.

27 And he came by the Spirit into the temple: and when the parents brought in the child Jesus, to do for him after the custom of the law,

28 Then took he him up in his arms, and blessed God, and said,

29 Lord, now lettest thou thy servant depart [a]in peace, according to thy word:

30 For mine eyes have seen thy [b]salvation,

31 Which thou hast prepared before the face of all people;

32 A light to lighten the [c]Gentiles, and the glory of thy people Israel.

33 And Joseph and his mother marvelled at those things which were spoken of him.

34 And Simeon blessed them, and said unto Mary his mother, Behold, this child is set for the [d]fall and rising again of many in Israel; and for a sign which shall be spoken against;

35 (Yea, a [e]sword shall pierce through thy own soul also,) that the thoughts of many hearts may be revealed.

Adoration of Anna.

36 And there was one Anna, a prophetess, the daughter of Phanuel, of the tribe of Aser: she was of a great age, and had lived with an husband seven years from her virginity;

37 And she was a widow of about fourscore and four years, which departed not from the temple, but served God with fastings and [g]prayers night and day.

38 And she coming in that instant gave thanks likewise unto the Lord, and spake of him to all them that looked for [h]redemption in Jerusalem.

Jesus and his parents at the passover.

41 Now his parents went to Jerusalem [j]every year at the feast of the passover.

42 And when he was twelve years old, they went up to Jerusalem after the custom of the feast.

43 And when they had fulfilled the days, as they returned, the child Jesus tarried behind in Jerusalem; and Joseph and his mother knew not of it.

44 But they, supposing him to have been in the company, went a day's journey; and they sought him among their kinsfolk and acquaintance.

45 And when they found him not, they turned back again to Jerusalem, seeking him.

46 And it came to pass, that after three days they found him in the temple, sitting in the midst of the doctors, both hearing them, and asking them questions.

47 And all that heard him were astonished at his understanding and answers.

48 And when they saw him, they were amazed: and his mother said unto him, Son, why hast thou thus dealt with us? behold, thy father and I have sought thee sorrowing.

49 And he said unto them, How is it that ye sought me? wist ye not that I must be [k]about my Father's business?

50 And they understood not the saying which he spake unto them.

51 And he went down with them, and came to Nazareth, and was subject unto them: but his mother kept all these sayings in her heart.

52 And Jesus increased in [l]wisdom and stature, and in favour with God and man.

English words used to translate the Hebrew words yasher, "upright"; tsadiq, "just"; tsidkah, "righteous." In all of these words but one idea inheres: the righteous, or just, man is so called, because he is right with God; and he is right with God because he has walked "in all the commandments and ordinances of the Lord blameless" (Lk. i. 6; Rom. x. 5; Phil. iii. 6). The O.T. righteous man was not sinless (Eccl. vii. 20), but one who, for his sins, resorted to the ordinances, and offered in faith the required sacrifice (e.g. Lev. iv. 27–35). Cf. "Righteousness (N.T.)," Rom. x. 10, note, and Paul's contrast, Phil. iii. 4–9.

CHAPTER 3.

The ministry of John the Baptist (Mt. 3. 1-12; Mk. 1. 1-8; John 1. 6-8, 15-36).

NOW in the fifteenth year of the reign of Tiberius Cæsar, Pontius Pilate being governor of Judæa, and [z]Herod being tetrarch of Galilee, and his brother Philip tetrarch of Ituræa and of the region of Trachonitis, and Lysanias the tetrarch of Abilene,

2 [b]Annas and Caiaphas being the high priests, the word of God came unto John the son of Zacharias in the wilderness.

3 [c]And he came into all the country about Jordan, preaching the baptism of [d]repentance for the remission of [e]sins;

4 As it is written in the book of the words of Esaias the [f]prophet, saying, The voice of one crying in the wilderness, Prepare ye the way of the [g]Lord, make his paths straight.

5 Every valley shall be filled, and every mountain and hill shall be brought low; and the crooked shall be made straight, and the rough ways shall be made smooth;

6 [h]And all flesh shall see the [i]salvation of God.

7 Then said he to the multitude that came forth to be baptized of him, O [j]generation of vipers, who hath warned you to flee from the wrath to come?

8 Bring forth therefore fruits worthy of [k]repentance, and begin not to say within yourselves, [l]We have Abraham to our father: for I say unto you, That God is able of these stones to raise up children unto Abraham.

9 And now also the axe is laid unto the root of the trees: [m]every tree therefore which bringeth not forth good fruit is hewn down, and cast into the fire.

10 And the people asked him, saying, [n]What shall we do then?

11 He answereth and saith unto them, [o]He that hath two [p]coats, let him impart to him that hath none; and he that hath meat, let him do likewise.

12 Then came also [q]publicans to be baptized, and said unto him, Master, what shall we do?

13 And he said unto them, Exact no more than that which is appointed you.

14 And the soldiers likewise demanded of him, saying, And what shall we do? And he said unto them, Do violence to no man, neither accuse any falsely; and be [r]content with your [s]wages.

15 And as the people were [t]in expectation, and all men mused in their hearts of John, whether he were the Christ, or not;

16 John answered, saying unto them all, I indeed [u]baptize you with water; but one mightier than I cometh, the latchet of whose shoes I am not worthy to unloose: he shall baptize you with the [v]Holy Ghost and with fire:

17 Whose fan is in his hand, and he will throughly purge his floor, and will [w]gather the wheat into his garner; but the chaff he will burn with fire unquenchable.

18 And many other things in his exhortation preached he unto the people.

19 But [x]Herod the tetrarch, being reproved by him for Herodias his brother Philip's wife, and for all the evils which Herod had done, 20 Added yet this above all, that he shut up [y]John in prison.

The baptism of Jesus (Mt. 3. 13-17; Mk. 1. 9-11).

21 Now when all the people were baptized, it came to pass, that [z]Jesus also being baptized, and praying, the heaven was opened,

22 And the [a]Holy Ghost descended in a bodily shape like a dove upon him, and a voice came from heaven, which said, [b]Thou art my beloved Son; in thee I am well pleased.

[1] In Matthew, where unquestionably we have the genealogy of Joseph, we are told (v. 16) that Joseph was the son of Jacob. In what sense, then, could he be called in Luke "the son of Heli"? He could not be by natural generation the son both of Jacob and of Heli. But in Luke it is not said that Heli begat Joseph, so that the natural explanation is that Joseph was the son-in-law of Heli, who was,

CHAPTER 4.

The temptation of Christ (Mt. 4. 1–11; Mk. 1. 12, 13).

AND Jesus being full of the [b]Holy Ghost returned from Jordan, and was led by the Spirit into the wilderness,
2 Being forty days [c]tempted of the devil. And in those days he did eat nothing: and when they were ended, he afterward hungered.
3 And the devil said unto him, If thou be the Son of God, [d]command this stone that it be made bread.
4 And Jesus answered him, saying, It is written, That man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word of [e]God.
5 And the devil, taking him up into an high mountain, shewed unto him all the kingdoms of the [f]world in a moment of time.
6 And the devil said unto him, All this power will I give thee, and the glory of them: for that is [g]delivered unto me; and to whomsoever I will I give it.
7 If thou therefore wilt worship me, all shall be thine.
8 And Jesus answered and said unto him, Get thee behind me, [h]Satan: for it is written, [i]Thou shalt worship the [j]Lord thy God, and him only shalt thou serve.
9 And he brought him to Jerusalem, and set him on a pinnacle of the temple, and said unto him, If thou be the Son of God, cast thyself down from hence:
10 For it is written, [k]He shall give his [l]angels charge over thee, [m]to keep thee:

like himself, a descendant of David. That he should in that case be called "son of Heli" ("son" is not in the Greek, but rightly supplied by the translators) would be in accord with Jewish usage (cf. 1 Sam. xxiv. 16). The conclusion is therefore inevitable that in Luke we have Mary's genealogy; and Joseph was "son of Heli" because espoused to Heli's daughter. The genealogy in Luke is Mary's, whose father, Heli, was descended from David.

Jesus returns to Galilee (Mt. 4. 12-16; Mk. 1. 14).

14 And Jesus returned in the [c]power of the Spirit into Galilee: and there went out a [d]fame of him through all the region round about.

15 And he taught in their synagogues, being glorified of all.

Jesus in the synagogue at Nazareth.

16 And he [1]came to [e]Nazareth, where he had been brought up: and, as his custom was, [f]he went into the synagogue on the sabbath day, and stood up for to read.

17 And there was delivered unto him the book of the prophet Esaias. And when he had opened the book, he found the place [g]where it was written,

18 The Spirit of the [h]Lord is upon me, because he hath anointed me to preach the [i]gospel to the poor; he hath sent me to heal the broken-hearted, to preach deliverance to the captives, and recovering of sight to the blind, to set at liberty them that are bruised,

19 To preach the [2]acceptable year of the [j]Lord.

20 And he closed the book, and he gave it again to the minister, and sat down. And the eyes of all them that were in the synagogue were fastened on him.

21 And he began to say unto them, This day is this scripture fulfilled in your ears.

22 And all bare him witness, and wondered at the [k]gracious words which proceeded out of his mouth. And they said, [l]Is not this Joseph's son?

23 And he said unto them, Ye will surely say unto me this proverb, Physician, heal thyself: whatsoever we have heard done in Capernaum, do also here in thy country.

24 And he said, Verily I say unto you, [m]No prophet is accepted in his own country.

25 But I tell you of a truth, many widows were in Israel in the [n]days of Elias, when the heaven was shut up three years and six months, when great famine was throughout all the land;

26 But unto none of them was Elias sent, save unto Sarepta, a city of Sidon, unto a woman that was a widow.

27 And many lepers were in Israel in the time of Eliseus the prophet; and none of them was cleansed, [o]saving Naaman the Syrian.

28 And all they in the synagogue, when they heard these things, were filled with wrath,

29 [p]And rose up, and thrust him out of the city, and led him unto the brow of the hill whereon their city was built, that they might cast him down headlong.

31 And came down to Capernaum, a city of Galilee, and taught them on the sabbath days.

32 And they were astonished at his doctrine: for [q]his word was with power.

33 And in the [r]synagogue there was a man, which had a spirit of an [s]unclean devil, and cried out with a loud voice,

34 Saying, Let us alone; what have we to do with thee, thou Jesus of Nazareth? art thou come to destroy us? I know thee who thou art; the Holy One of God.

35 And Jesus rebuked him, saying, Hold thy peace, and come out of him. And when the devil had thrown him in the midst, [t]he came out of him, and hurt him not.

36 And they were all amazed, and spake among themselves, saying, [u]What a word is this! for with authority and power he commandeth the unclean spirits, and they come out.

Jesus stopped at, "the acceptable year of the Lord," which is connected with the first advent and the dispensation of grace (Gen. iii. 15; Acts i. 11, note); "the day of vengeance of our God" belongs to the second advent (Deut. xxx. 3; Acts i. 11, note) and judgment.

Jesus heals Peter's wife's mother, and many others (Mt. 8. 14–17; Mk. 1. 29–38).

38 And he arose out of the synagogue, and entered into Simon's house. And [a]Simon's wife's mother was taken with a great fever; and they besought him for her.

39 And he stood over her, and rebuked the fever; and it left her: and immediately she arose and [b]ministered unto them.

40 Now when the [c]sun was setting, all they that had any sick with divers diseases brought them unto him; and he laid his hands on every one of them, and healed them.

41 And devils also came out of many, crying out, and saying, Thou art Christ the Son of God. [d]And he rebuking them suffered them not to speak: for they knew that he was Christ.

42 And when it was day, he departed and went into a desert place: and the people sought him, and came unto him, and stayed him, that he should not depart from them.

43 And he said unto them, I must preach the kingdom of God to other cities also: [e]for therefore am I sent.

44 And he preached in the synagogues of Galilee.

CHAPTER 5.

The miraculous draught of fishes. (Cf. John 21. 6–8.)

AND it came to pass, that, as the people pressed upon him to hear the word of God, he stood by [f]the lake of Gennesaret,

2 And saw two ships standing by the lake: but the fishermen were gone out of them, and were washing their nets.

3 And he entered into one of the ships, which was Simon's, and prayed him that he would thrust out a little from the land. And he sat down, and [g]taught the people out of the ship.

4 Now when he had left speaking, he said unto Simon, Launch out into the deep, and [h]let down your nets for a draught.

5 And Simon answering said unto him, Master, we have [i]toiled all the night, and have taken nothing: nevertheless [j]at thy word I will let down the net.

6 And when they had this done, they [k]inclosed a great multitude of fishes: and their net brake.

7 And they beckoned unto their partners, which were in the other ship, that they should come and help them. And they came, and filled both the ships, so that they [l]began to sink.

8 When Simon Peter saw it, [m]he fell down at Jesus' knees, saying, Depart from me; for I am a [n]sinful man, O Lord.

9 For he was astonished, and all that were with him, at the draught of the fishes which they had taken:

10 And so was also James, and John, the sons of Zebedee, which were partners with Simon. And Jesus said unto Simon, [o]Fear not; from henceforth thou shalt catch men.

11 And when they had brought their ships to land, they [p]forsook all, and followed him.

12 And it came to pass, when he was in a certain city, behold a man full of [q]leprosy: who seeing Jesus fell on his face, and besought him, saying, Lord, [r]if thou wilt, thou canst make me clean.

13 And he put forth his hand, and touched him, saying, I will: be thou clean. And immediately the leprosy departed from him.

14 And he charged him to tell no man: but go, and shew thyself to the priest, and offer for thy [s]cleansing, according as Moses commanded, for a testimony unto them.

15 But so much the more went there a fame abroad of him: and great multitudes came together to hear, and to be healed by him of their infirmities.

16 And he withdrew himself into the wilderness, [t]and prayed.

19 And when they could not find by what way they might bring him in [a]because of the multitude, they went upon the housetop, and let him down through the tiling with his couch into the midst [b]before Jesus.

20 And when he saw [c]their faith, he said unto him, Man, thy [d]sins are forgiven thee.

21 And the scribes and the Pharisees began to reason, saying, Who is this which speaketh [e]blasphemies? [f]Who can forgive sins, but God alone?

22 But when Jesus perceived their thoughts, he answering said unto them, What reason ye in your hearts?

23 Whether is easier, to say, Thy sins be forgiven thee; or to say, Rise up and walk?

24 But that ye may [g]know that the Son of man hath power upon earth to forgive sins, (he said unto the sick of the palsy,) [h]I say unto thee, Arise, and take up thy couch, and go into thine house.

25 And immediately he rose up before them, and took up that whereon he lay, and departed to his own house, [i]glorifying God.

26 And they were all amazed, and they [j]glorified God, and were filled with fear, saying, We have seen strange things to day.

27 And after these things he went forth, and saw a publican, named Levi, sitting at the receipt of custom: and he said unto him, [k]Follow me.

28 And he left all, rose up, and followed him.

29 And Levi made him a [l]great feast in his own house: and there was a great company of publicans and of others that sat down with them.

Jesus answers the scribes and Pharisees (Mt. 9. 10-17; Mk. 2. 16-22).

30 But their scribes and Pharisees murmured against his disciples, saying, [m]Why do ye eat and drink with publicans and [n]sinners?

31 And Jesus answering said unto them, They that are whole need not a physician; but they that are sick.

32 I came not to call the righteous, but [o]sinners to [p]repentance.

33 And they said unto him, Why do the [q]disciples of John fast often, and make prayers, and likewise the disciples of the Pharisees; but [r]thine eat and drink?

34 And he said unto them, Can ye make the children of the bridechamber fast, while [s]the bridegroom is with them?

35 But the days will come, when the [t]bridegroom shall be taken away from them, and then shall they fast in those days.

36 And he spake also a [u]parable unto them; No man putteth a piece of a new garment upon an old; if otherwise, then both the new maketh a rent, and the piece that was taken out of the new agreeth not with the old.

37 And no man putteth new wine into old [v]bottles; else the new wine will burst the bottles, and be spilled, and the bottles shall perish.

38 But new wine must be put into new bottles; and both are preserved.

39 No man also having drunk old wine straightway desireth new: for he saith, The old is better.

CHAPTER 6.

Jesus and the sabbath (Mt. 12. 1-8; Mk. 2. 23-28).

AND it came to pass on the second sabbath after the first, that he went through the corn fields; and his disciples plucked the ears of corn, and did eat, rubbing them in their hands.

2 And certain of the Pharisees said unto them, Why do ye that which is not [w]lawful to do on the sabbath days?

3 And Jesus answering them said, Have ye not read so much as this, what [x]David did, when himself was an hungred, and they which were with him;

4 How he went into the house of God, and did take and eat the [y]shewbread, and gave also to them that were with him; which it is not lawful to eat but for the priests alone?

5 And he said unto them, [z]That the Son of man is Lord also of the sabbath.

The withered hand healed (Mt. 12. 9-14; Mk. 3. 1-6).

6 And it came to pass also on another sabbath, that he [a]entered into the synagogue and taught: and there was a man whose right hand was withered.

7 And the scribes and Pharisees watched him, whether he would heal on the sabbath day; that they might find an [b]accusation against him.

8 But he [c]knew their thoughts, and said to the man which had the withered hand, Rise up, and stand forth in the midst. And he arose and stood forth.

9 Then said Jesus unto them, I will ask you one thing; [d]Is it lawful on the sabbath days to do good, or to do evil? to save life, or to destroy it?

10 And looking round about upon them all, he said unto the man, Stretch forth thy hand. And he did so: [e]and his hand was restored whole as the other.

The twelve chosen (Mt. 10. 2-4; Mk. 3. 13-19).

12 And it came to pass in those days, that he went out into a [h]mountain to pray, and continued all night in prayer to God.

13 And when it was day, he called unto him his disciples: and of them he [i]chose twelve, whom also he named apostles;

14 Simon, (whom he also named Peter,) and Andrew his brother, James and John, Philip and Bartholomew,

15 Matthew and Thomas, James the son of Alphæus, and Simon called Zelotes,

16 And Judas the brother of James, and Judas Iscariot, which also was the traitor.

17 And he came down with them, and stood in the plain, and the company of his disciples, and a great [j]multitude of people out of all Judæa and Jerusalem, and from the sea coast of Tyre and Sidon, which came to hear him, and to be healed of their diseases;

18 And they that were vexed with unclean spirits: and they were healed.

19 And the whole multitude sought to [k]touch him: for there went [l]virtue out of him, and healed them all.

The sermon on the mount. (Cf. Mt. 5. 1-8. 1.)

20 And he lifted up his eyes on his disciples, and said, Blessed be ye poor: for your's is the kingdom of God.

21 Blessed are ye that hunger now: for ye shall be filled. Blessed are ye that weep now: for ye shall laugh.

22 Blessed are ye, when men shall hate you, and when they shall separate you from their company, and shall reproach you, and cast out your name as evil, for the Son of man's sake.

23 Rejoice ye in that day, and leap for joy: for, behold, your reward is great in heaven: for in the like manner did their fathers unto the prophets.

24 But woe unto you that are rich! for [m]ye have received your consolation.

25 Woe unto you that are full! for ye shall hunger. Woe unto you that laugh now! for ye shall mourn and weep.

26 Woe unto you, when all men shall speak well of you! for so did their fathers to the false prophets.

27 But I say unto you which hear, [n]Love your enemies, do good to them which hate you,

28 [o]Bless them that curse you, and [p]pray for them which despitefully use you.

29 And unto him that smiteth thee on the one cheek offer also the other; and him that [q]taketh away thy cloke forbid not to take thy coat also.

30 [r]Give to every man that asketh of thee; and of him that taketh away thy goods ask them not again.

31 And as ye would that men should do to you, do ye also to them likewise.

32 For if ye love them which love you, what thank have ye? for [s]sinners also [t]love those that love them.

33 And if ye do good to them which do good to you, what thank have ye? for sinners also do even the same.

34 And if ye lend to them of whom ye hope to receive, what thank have ye? for sinners also lend to sinners, to receive as much again.

CHAPTER 7.

The centurion's servant healed (Mt. 8. 5-13).

NOW when he had ended all his sayings in the audience of the people, he entered into Capernaum.

2 And a certain [y]centurion's servant, who was dear unto him, was sick, and ready to die.

3 And when he heard of Jesus, he sent unto him the elders of the Jews, beseeching him that he would come and heal his servant.

4 And when they came to Jesus, they besought him instantly, saying, That he was [z]worthy for whom he should do this:

5 For he loveth our nation, and he hath built us a synagogue.

6 Then Jesus went with them. And when he was now not far from the house, the centurion sent friends to him, saying unto him, Lord, trouble not thyself: for I am not worthy that thou shouldest enter under my roof:

7 Wherefore neither thought I myself worthy to come unto thee: but [a]say in a word, and my servant shall be healed.

8 For I also am a man set under authority, having under me soldiers, and I say unto one, Go, and he goeth; and to another, Come, and he cometh; and to my servant, Do this, and he doeth it.

9 When Jesus heard these things, he [b]marvelled at him, and turned him about, and said unto the people that followed him, I say unto you, I have not found so great faith, no, not in Israel.

10 And they that were sent, returning to the house, found the servant [c]whole that had been sick.

The widow's son raised.

11 And it came to pass the day after, that he went into a city called Nain; and many of his disciples went with him, and much people.

12 Now when he came nigh to the gate of the city, behold, there was a dead man carried out, the only son of his mother, and she was a widow: and much people of the city was with her.

13 And when the Lord saw her, he had compassion on her, and said unto her, [a]Weep not.

14 And he came and touched the bier: and they that bare him stood still. And he said, Young man, I say unto thee, Arise.

15 And [b]he that was dead [c]sat up, and began to speak. And he delivered him to his mother.

16 And there came a fear on all: and they [d]glorified God, saying, That a great prophet is risen up among us; and, [e]That God hath visited his people.

17 And this rumour of him went forth throughout all Judæa, and throughout all the region round about.

18 And the disciples of John [f]shewed him of all these things.

John the Baptist sends disciples to question Jesus (Mt. 11. 2-6).

19 And John calling unto him two of his disciples sent them to Jesus, saying, Art thou he that should come? or look we for another?

20 When the men were come unto him, they said, John Baptist hath sent us unto thee, saying, Art thou he that should come? or look we for another?

21 And in that same hour he cured many of their infirmities and plagues, and of evil spirits; and unto many that were blind he gave sight.

22 Then Jesus answering said unto them, Go your way, and [g]tell John what things ye have seen and heard; how that the blind see, the lame walk, the lepers are cleansed, the deaf hear, the [h]dead are raised, to the poor the [i]gospel is preached.

23 And [j]blessed is he, whosoever shall not be offended in me.

Jesus' testimony to John the Baptist (Mt. 11. 7-15).

24 And when the messengers of John [k]were departed, he began to speak unto the people concerning John, What went ye out into the [l]wilderness for to see? [m]A reed shaken with the wind?

25 But what went ye out for to see? A man clothed in [n]soft raiment? Behold, they which are gorgeously apparelled, and live delicately, are in kings' courts.

26 But what went ye out for to see? A prophet? Yea, I say unto you, and much more than a prophet.

27 This is he, of whom it is written, [o]Behold, I send my messenger before thy face, which shall prepare thy way before thee.

28 For I say unto you, Among those that are born of women there is not a greater prophet than John the Baptist: but [p]he that is least in the kingdom of God is greater than he.

29 And all the people that heard him, and the publicans, justified God, being [q]baptized with the baptism of John.

Jesus exposes the unreason of unbelief (Mt. 11. 16-19).

30 But the [r]Pharisees and lawyers rejected the counsel of God against themselves, being not baptized of him.

31 And the Lord said, Whereunto then shall I liken the men of this generation? and to what are they like?

32 They are like unto children sitting in the marketplace, and calling one to another, and saying, We have piped unto you, and ye have not danced; we have mourned to you, and ye have not wept.

33 For John the Baptist came [s]neither eating bread nor drinking wine; and ye say, He hath a devil.

34 The Son of man is come [t]eating and drinking; and ye say, Behold a gluttonous man, and a winebibber, a friend of publicans and [u]sinners!

35 But [v]wisdom is justified of all her children.

Jesus in the Pharisee's house.

36 And one of the [w]Pharisees desired him that he would eat with him. And he went into the Pharisee's house, and sat down to meat.

37 And, behold, a woman in the city, which was a [x]sinner, when she knew that Jesus sat at meat in the Pharisee's house, brought an [y]alabaster box of ointment,

38 And stood at his [z]feet behind him weeping, and began to wash his feet with tears, and did wipe them with the [a]hairs of her head, and kissed his feet, and anointed them with the ointment.

39 Now when the Pharisee which had bidden him saw it, he spake

Parable of the creditor and two debtors.

41 [b]There was a certain creditor which had two debtors: the one owed five hundred pence, and the other fifty.

42 And when they had nothing to pay, he [c]frankly forgave them both. Tell me therefore, which of them will love him most?

43 Simon answered and said, I suppose that he, to whom he forgave most. And he said unto him, Thou hast rightly judged.

44 And he turned to the woman, and said unto [1]Simon, Seest thou this woman? I entered into thine house, thou gavest me no water for my feet: but she hath washed my feet with tears, and wiped them with the hairs of her head.

45 Thou gavest me no kiss: but this woman since the time I came in hath not ceased to kiss my feet.

46 [d]My head with oil thou didst not anoint: but this woman hath anointed my feet with ointment.

47 Wherefore I say unto thee, Her sins, which are many, are [e]forgiven; for she loved much: but to whom little is forgiven, the same loveth little.

48 And he said unto her, Thy sins are [f]forgiven.

49 And they that sat at meat with him began to say within themselves, [g]Who is this that forgiveth sins also?

50 And he said to the woman, Thy [g]faith hath saved thee; go in peace.

CHAPTER 8.

Jesus preaches and heals in Galilee.

AND it came to pass afterward, that he went [h]throughout every city and village, preaching and shewing the glad tidings of the kingdom of God: and the twelve were with him,

2 And [i]certain women, which had been healed of evil spirits and infirmities, Mary called Magdalene, out of whom went seven devils,

3 And Joanna the wife of Chuza [j]Herod's steward, and Susanna, and many others, which ministered unto him of their substance.

Parable of the sower (Mt. 13. 1–23; Mk. 4. 1–20).

4 And when much people were gathered together, and were come to him out of every city, he spake by a [k]parable:

5 A [l]sower went out to sow his seed: and as he sowed, some fell by the way side; and it was trodden down, and the fowls of the air devoured it.

6 And some fell upon a rock; and as soon as it was sprung up, it withered away, because it lacked moisture.

7 And some fell among thorns; and the thorns sprang up with it, and choked it.

8 And other fell on good ground, and sprang up, and bare fruit an hundredfold. And when he had said these things, he cried, [m]He that hath ears to hear, let him hear.

9 And his disciples asked him, saying, What might this parable be?

10 And he said, Unto you it is given to know the [n]mysteries of the kingdom of God: but to others in parables; that [o]seeing they might not see, and hearing they might not understand.

11 Now the parable is this: The seed is the [p]word of God.

12 Those by the way side are they that hear; then cometh the [q]devil, and taketh away the word out of their [r]hearts, lest they should believe and be [s]saved.

13 They on the rock are they, which, when they hear, receive the word with joy; and these have no root, which for a while believe, and in time of [t]temptation fall away.

[1]See Jas. ii. 14–26. When Jesus would justify the woman in the eyes of Simon, He points to her works, for only through her works could Simon see the proof of her faith; but when He would send the woman away in peace, he points to her faith, not her works. See Tit. ii. 14; iii. 4–8. His works can never be to the believer his own ground of assurance, which must rest upon the work of Christ (cf. Mt. vii. 22, 23). See "Assurance" (Isa. xxxii. 17; Jude 1).

14 And that which fell among thorns are they, which, when they have heard, go forth, and are choked with cares and [a]riches and pleasures of this life, and bring no fruit to perfection.

15 But that on the good ground are they, which in an [b]honest and good heart, having [c]heard the word, keep it, and bring forth fruit with [d]patience.

Parable of the lighted candle (Mt. 5. 15, 16; Mk. 4. 21–23; Lk. 11. 33).

16 No man, when he hath lighted a [e]candle, covereth it with a vessel, or putteth it under a bed; but setteth it on a candlestick, that they which enter in may [f]see the light.

17 For [g]nothing is secret, that shall not be made manifest; neither any thing hid, that shall not be known and come abroad.

18 [h]Take heed therefore how ye hear: for whosoever hath, to him shall be given; and whosoever hath not, from him shall be taken even that which he seemeth to have.

The new relationships (Mt. 12. 46–50; Mk. 3. 31–35).

19 Then came to him his [i]mother and his brethren, and could not come at him for the press.

20 And it was told him by certain which said, Thy mother and thy brethren stand without, desiring to see thee.

21 And he answered and said unto them, My mother and my brethren are these which [j]hear the word of God, and do it.

Jesus stills the waves (Mt. 8. 23–27; Mk. 4. 36–41).

22 Now it came to pass on a certain day, that [k]he went into a ship with his disciples: and he said unto them, Let us go over unto the other side of the lake. And they launched forth.

23 But as they sailed he [l]fell asleep: and there came down a storm of wind on the lake; and they were filled with water, and were in jeopardy.

24 And they came to him, and awoke him, saying, Master, master, we perish. Then he arose, and rebuked the wind and the raging of the water: and they [m]ceased, and there was a calm.

25 And he said unto them, [n]Where is your faith? And they being afraid wondered, saying one to another, [o]What manner of man is this! for he commandeth even the winds and water, and they obey him.

Demons cast out of the maniac of Gadara (Mt. 8. 28–34; Mk. 5. 1–17).

26 And they arrived at the country of the Gadarenes, which is over against Galilee.

27 And when he went forth to land, there met him out of the city [p]a certain man, which had [q]devils long time, and [r]ware no clothes, neither abode in any house, but in the [s]tombs.

28 When he saw Jesus, he cried out, and fell down before him, and with a loud voice said, [t]What have I to do with thee, Jesus, thou Son of God [u]most high? I beseech thee, torment me not.

29 (For he had commanded the unclean spirit to come out of the man. For oftentimes it had caught him: and he was kept bound with chains and in fetters; and he [v]brake the bands, and was driven of the devil into the wilderness.)

30 And Jesus asked him, saying, [w]What is thy name? And he said, Legion: because many devils were entered into him.

31 And they besought him that he would not command them to go out into the [x]deep.

32 And there was there an herd of many swine feeding on the mountain: and they besought him that he would suffer them to enter into them. And he suffered them.

33 Then went the devils out of the man, and entered into the [y]swine: and the herd ran violently down a steep place into the lake, and were choked.

34 When they that fed them saw what was done, they fled, and went and told it in the city and in the country.

35 Then they went out to see what was done; and came to Jesus, and found the man, out of whom the devils were departed, [z]sitting at the feet of Jesus, [a]clothed, and [b]in his right mind: and they were afraid.

36 They also which saw it told them by what means he that was possessed of the devils was healed.

37 Then the whole multitude of the country of the Gadarenes round about [c]besought him to [d]depart from them; for they were taken with great fear: and he went up into the ship, and returned back again.

38 Now the man out of whom the devils were departed [a]besought him that he might be with him: but Jesus sent him away, saying,

A woman healed: Jairus' daughter raised (Mt. 9. 18-26; Mk. 5. 22-43).

40 And it came to pass, that, when Jesus was returned, the people gladly received him: for they were all waiting for him.

41 And, behold, there came a man named [c]Jairus, and he was a [d]ruler of the synagogue: and he [e]fell down at Jesus' feet, and besought him that he would come into his house:

42 For he had one only [f]daughter, about twelve years of age, and she [g]lay a dying. But as he went the people thronged him.

43 And a woman having an [h]issue of blood twelve years, which had [i]spent all her living upon physicians, neither could be healed of any,

44 Came behind him, and [j]touched the border of his garment: and immediately her issue of blood stanched.

45 And Jesus said, Who touched me? When all denied, Peter and they that were with him said, Master, the multitude [k]throng thee and press thee, and sayest thou, Who touched me?

46 And Jesus said, Somebody hath touched me: for I perceive that [l]virtue is gone out of me.

47 And when the woman saw that she was not hid, she came trembling, and falling down before him, she [m]declared unto him before all the people for what cause she had touched him, and how she was healed immediately.

48 And he said unto her, Daughter, be of good comfort: [n]thy faith hath made thee whole; [o]go in peace.

49 While he yet spake, there cometh one from the ruler of the synagogue's house, saying to him, Thy daughter is [p]dead; trouble not the Master.

50 But when Jesus heard it, he answered him, saying, [q]Fear not: [r]believe only, and she shall be made whole.

51 And when he came into the house, he [s]suffered no man to go in, save Peter, and James, and John, and the father and the mother of the maiden.

52 And all wept, and bewailed her: but he said, Weep not; she is not dead, but [t]sleepeth.

53 And they laughed him to scorn, knowing that she was dead.

54 And he put them all out, and took her by the [u]hand, and called, saying, [v]Maid, [w]arise.

55 And her spirit came again, and she arose straightway: and he commanded to [x]give her meat.

56 And her parents were astonished: but [y]he charged them that they should tell no man what was done.

CHAPTER 9.

The twelve sent forth to preach (Mt. 10. 1-42. Cf. Mk. 6. 7-13).

THEN he called his [z]twelve disciples together, and gave them power and authority over all devils, and to cure diseases.

2 And he sent them to preach the kingdom of God, and to heal the sick.

3 And he said unto them, [a]Take [b]nothing for your journey, neither staves, nor scrip, neither bread, neither money; neither have two coats apiece.

4 And whatsoever house ye enter into, there abide, and thence depart.

5 And whosoever will not [c]receive you, when ye go out of that city, shake off the very dust from your feet for a testimony against them.

6 And they departed, and went through the towns, preaching the [d]gospel, and healing every where.

7 Now [e]Herod the tetrarch heard of all that was done by him: and he was perplexed, because that it was said of some, that John was risen from the dead;

8 And of some, that Elias had appeared; and of others, that one of the old prophets was risen again.

9 And Herod said, John have I beheaded: but who is this, of whom I hear such things? [f]And he desired to see him.

[f] Lk. 23. 8.
[g] Mk. 6. 30.

and [a]went aside privately into a desert place belonging to the city called Bethsaida.

11 And the people, when they knew it, followed him: and he received them, and [b]spake unto them of the kingdom of God, and healed them that had [c]need of healing.

12 And when the day began to wear away, then came the twelve, and said unto him, [d]Send the multitude away, that they may go into the towns and country round about, and lodge, and get victuals: for we are here in a desert place.

13 But he said unto them, Give ye them to eat. And they said, We have no more but [e]five loaves and two fishes; except we should go and buy meat for all this people.

14 For they were about five thousand men. And he said to his disciples, Make them [f]sit down by fifties in a company.

15 And they did so, and made them all sit down.

16 Then he took the five loaves and the two fishes, and looking up to heaven, he [g]blessed them, and brake, and gave to the disciples to set before the multitude.

17 And they did eat, and [h]were all filled: and there was taken up of [i]fragments that remained to them twelve baskets.

Peter's confession of Christ (Mt. 16. 13-20; Mk. 8. 27-30).

18 And it came to pass, as he was alone [j]praying, his disciples were with him: and he asked them, saying, [k]Whom say the people that I am?

19 They answering said, John the Baptist; but some say, Elias; and others say, that one of the old prophets is risen again.

20 He said unto them, But whom say ye that I am? [l]Peter answering said, The Christ of God.

21 And he straitly charged them, and commanded them to tell no man that thing;

Jesus foretells his death and resurrection (Mt. 16. 21; Mk. 8. 31).

22 Saying, The Son of man must suffer many things, and be rejected of the elders and chief priests and scribes, and be slain, and be [m]raised the third day.

The test of discipleship (Mt. 16. 22-28; Mk. 8. 32-9. 1).

23 And he said to them all, [n]If any man will come after me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross daily, and follow me.

24 For whosoever will [o]save his life shall lose it: but whosoever will lose his life for my sake, the same shall save it.

25 For what is a man [p]advantaged, if he gain the whole [q]world, and lose himself, or be cast away?

26 For whosoever shall be [r]ashamed of me and of my words, of him shall the Son of man be [s]ashamed, when he shall [t]come in his own glory, and in his Father's, and of the [u]holy [v]angels.

The transfiguration (Mt. 17. 1-8; Mk. 9. 2-8).

27 But I tell you of a truth, there be [w]some standing here, which shall not taste of death, till they see the kingdom of God.

28 [x]And it came to pass about an eight days after these sayings, he took Peter and John and James, and went up into a mountain to pray.

29 And as he [y]prayed, the [z]fashion of his countenance was altered, and his raiment was white and glistering.

30 And, behold, there talked with him [a]two men, which were Moses and Elias:

31 Who appeared in glory, and spake of his [b]decease which he should accomplish at Jerusalem.

32 But Peter and they that were with him were heavy with [c]sleep: and when they were awake, they saw his glory, and the two men that stood with him.

33 And it came to pass, as they departed from him, Peter said unto Jesus, Master, it is good for us to be here: and let us make [d]three tabernacles; one for thee, and one for Moses, and one for Elias: [e]not knowing what he said.

34 While he thus spake, there came a [f]cloud, and overshadowed them: and they feared as they entered into the cloud.

35 And there came a voice out of the cloud, saying, [g]This is my beloved Son: hear him.

36 And when the voice was past, Jesus was found alone. And they [h]kept it close, and told no man in those days any of those things which they had seen.

The powerless disciples. Demon cast out of a child (Mt. 17. 14-21; Mk. 9. 14-29).

37 And it came to pass, that on the next day, when they were [a]come down from the hill, much people met him.

38 And, behold, a man of the company cried out, saying, Master, I beseech thee, look upon my son: for he is mine [b]only child.

39 And, lo, a [c]spirit taketh him, and he suddenly crieth out; and it teareth him that he foameth again, and bruising him hardly departeth from him.

40 And I besought thy [d]disciples to cast him out; and they could not.

41 And Jesus answering said, O [e]faithless and perverse generation, how long shall I be with you, and suffer you? Bring thy son hither.

42 And as he was [f]yet a coming, the devil threw him down, and tare him. And Jesus rebuked the unclean spirit, and healed the child, and delivered him again to his father.

43 And they were all amazed at [g]the mighty power of God. But while they wondered every one at all things which Jesus did, he said unto his disciples, Jesus again foretells his death (Mt. 17. 22, 23; Mk. 9. 30-32).

44 Let these sayings [h]sink down into your ears: for the Son of man shall be delivered into the hands of men.

45 But they understood not this saying, and it was hid from them, that they perceived it not: and they feared to ask him of that saying.

46 Then there arose a [i]reasoning among them, which of them should be greatest.

47 And Jesus, [j]perceiving the thought of their heart, took a [k]child, and set him by him,

48 And said unto them, [l]Whosoever shall receive this child in my name receiveth me: and whosoever shall receive me receiveth him that sent me: for he that is [m]least among you all, the same shall be great.

The new spirit of grace: final departure from Galilee. (Cf. John 7. 2-10.)

51 And it came to pass, when the time was come that he should be received up, he [p]stedfastly set his face to go to Jerusalem,

52 And sent messengers before his face: and they went, and entered into a village of the Samaritans, to make ready for him.

53 And [q]they did not receive him, because his face was as though he would go to Jerusalem.

54 And when his disciples James and John saw this, they said, Lord, wilt thou that we command [r]fire to come down from heaven, and consume them, even as Elias did?

55 But he turned, and rebuked them, and said, Ye know not what manner of spirit ye are of.

56 For the [s]Son of man is not come to destroy men's lives, but to save them. And they went to another village.

Another test of discipleship (Mt. 8. 18-22).

57 And it came to pass, that, as they went in the way, a [t]certain man said unto him, Lord, I will follow thee whithersoever thou goest.

58 And Jesus said unto him, Foxes have holes, and birds of the air have [u]nests; but the Son of man [v]hath not where to lay his head.

59 And he said unto another, [w]Follow me. But he said, Lord, suffer me first to go and [x]bury my father.

60 Jesus said unto him, Let the dead bury their dead: but go thou and preach the kingdom of God.

61 And another also said, Lord, I will follow thee; but let me first go [y]bid them farewell, which are at home at my house.

62 And Jesus said unto him, No man, having put his hand to the [z]plough, and looking back, is fit for the kingdom of God.

CHAPTER 10.

The seventy sent before him. (Cf. Mt. 10. 1-42.)

AFTER these things the Lord appointed other seventy also, and sent them two and two before his face into every city and place, whither he himself would come.

2 Therefore said he unto [a]them, The harvest truly is great, but [b]the labourers are few: pray ye therefore the Lord of the harvest, that he would send forth labourers into his harvest.

3 [c]Go your ways: behold, I send you forth as lambs among wolves.

4 [d]Carry neither purse, nor scrip, nor shoes: and [e]salute no man by the way.

5 And into whatsoever house ye enter, first say, Peace be to this house.

6 And if the [f]son of peace be there, your peace shall rest upon it: if not, it shall [g]turn to you again.

7 And in the same house remain, eating and drinking such things as they give: [h]for the labourer is worthy of his hire. Go not from house to house.

8 And into whatsoever city ye enter, and they receive you, eat such things as are set before you:

9 And heal the sick that are therein, and say unto them, [i]The kingdom of God is come nigh unto you.

10 But into whatsoever city ye enter, and they receive you not, go your ways out into the streets of the same, and say,

11 Even the very dust of your city, which cleaveth on us, we do wipe off against you: notwithstanding be ye sure of this, that the kingdom of God is come nigh unto you.

12 But I say unto you, that [j]it shall be more tolerable in that day for Sodom, than for that city.

Jesus denounces judgment on the cities (Mt. 11. 20-24).

13 [k]Woe unto thee, Chorazin! woe unto thee, Bethsaida! for if the mighty works had been done in Tyre and Sidon, which have been done in you, they had a great while ago [l]repented, sitting in sackcloth and ashes.

14 But it shall be more tolerable for Tyre and Sidon [m]at the judgment, than for you.

15 And thou, Capernaum, [n]which art exalted to heaven, shalt be thrust down to hell.

16 He that [o]heareth you [p]heareth me; and he that despiseth you despiseth me; and he that despiseth me despiseth him that sent me.

17 And the seventy returned again with joy, saying, Lord, even the devils are subject unto us through thy name.

18 And he said unto them, I beheld [q]Satan as [r]lightning fall from heaven.

19 Behold, I give unto you power to tread on [s]serpents and scorpions, and over all the power of the enemy: and nothing shall by any means hurt you.

20 Notwithstanding in this rejoice not, that the spirits are subject unto you; but rather rejoice, because your names are written in heaven.

21 In that hour Jesus rejoiced in [t]spirit, and said, I thank thee, O Father, Lord of heaven and earth, that thou hast hid these things from the wise and prudent, and hast revealed them unto babes: even so, Father; for so it seemed good in thy sight.

22 All things [u]are delivered to me of my Father: and no man knoweth who the Son is, but the Father; and who the Father is, but the Son, and he to whom the Son will reveal him.

23 And he turned him unto his disciples, and said privately, [v]Blessed are the eyes which see the things that ye see:

24 For I tell you, that [w]many prophets and kings have desired to see those things which ye see, and have not seen them; and to hear those things which ye hear, and have not heard them.

25 And, behold, a certain lawyer stood up, and [x]tempted him, saying, Master, what shall I do to inherit [y]eternal life?

26 He said unto him, What is written in the [z]law? how readest thou?

27 And he answering said, Thou shalt love the [a]Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy strength, and with all thy mind; and thy neighbour as thyself.

28 And he said unto him, Thou hast answered right: this do, and thou shalt live.

32 And likewise a Levite, when he was at the place, came and looked on him, and passed by on the other side.

33 But a certain [d]Samaritan, as he journeyed, came where he was: and when he saw him, he had compassion on him,

34 And went to him, and bound up his wounds, pouring in oil and wine, and set him on his own beast, and brought him to an inn, and took care of him.

35 And on the morrow when he departed, he took out two [e]pence, and gave them to the host, and said unto him, Take care of him; and whatsoever thou spendest more, when I come again, I will repay thee.

36 Which now of these three, thinkest thou, was neighbour unto him that fell among the thieves?

37 And he said, He that shewed [f]mercy on him. Then said Jesus unto him, Go, and do thou likewise.

39 And she had a sister called Mary, which also [h]sat at Jesus' feet, and heard his word.

40 But Martha was cumbered about much serving, and came to him, and said, Lord, dost thou not care that my sister hath left me to serve alone? bid her therefore that she help me.

42 But one [j]thing is needful: and Mary hath chosen that good part, which shall not be taken away from her.

CHAPTER 11.

Jesus' doctrine of prayer.

AND it came to pass, that, as he was [k]praying in a certain place, when he ceased, one of his disciples said unto him, Lord, [l]teach us to pray, as John also taught his disciples.

2 And he said unto them, When ye [k]pray, say, [l]Our Father which art in heaven, Hallowed be thy name. [m]Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done, as in heaven, so in earth.

3 Give us [n]day by day our daily bread.

[1] This is the central N.T. passage on prayer. In the Sermon on the Mount Christ had announced the new basis of prayer, viz.: relationship (Mt. vi. 9, 28-32). The believer is a child of God through the new birth (John iii. 3, note). The clear revelation of this fact at once establishes the reasonableness of prayer; a reasonableness against which the argument from the apparent uniformity of natural law shatters itself. God is more than a Creator, bringing a universe into being, and establishing laws for it; more than a decree-maker determining future events by an eternal fiat. Above all this is the divine family for whom the universe with its laws exists (Col. i. 16-20; Heb. i. 2; ii. 10, 11; Rom. viii. 17): "When ye pray, say, Our Father." What God habitually does in the material universe concerns the reverent investigator of that universe. What He may do in His own family concerns Him, and them, and is matter for divine promise and revelation. Science, which deals only with natural phenomena, cannot intrude there (1 Cor. ii. 9).

Christ's law of prayer may be thus summarized: (1) He grounds prayer upon relationship, and reveals God as freely charging Himself with all the responsibilities, as His heart glows with all the affections of a Father toward all who believe on Jesus Christ (Mt. vi. 25-32; vii. 9-11). Prayer, therefore, is a child's petition to an all-wise, all-loving, and all-powerful, Father-God. (2) In the so-called Lord's prayer Christ gives an incomparable model for all prayer. It teaches that right prayer begins with worship; puts the interest of the kingdom before merely personal interest; accepts beforehand the Father's will, whether to grant or withhold; and petitions for present need, leaving the future to the Father's care and love. Used as a form, the Lord's prayer is, dispensationally, upon legal, not church

4 And [a]forgive us our [b]sins; for we also forgive every one that is indebted to us. And lead us not into temptation; but deliver us from evil.

Parable of the importunate friend.

5 And he said unto them, [c]Which of you shall have a friend, and shall go unto him at midnight, and say unto him, Friend, lend me three loaves;

6 For a friend of mine in his journey is come to me, and I have nothing to set before him?

7 And he from within shall answer and say, Trouble me not: the door is now shut, and my children are with me in bed; I cannot rise and give thee.

8 I say unto you, Though he will not rise and give him, because he is his friend, yet because of his [d]importunity he will rise and give him as many as he needeth.

9 And I say unto you, [e]Ask, and it shall be given you; [f]seek, and ye shall find; [g]knock, and it shall be opened unto you.

10 For every one that asketh receiveth; and he that seeketh findeth; and to him that knocketh it shall be opened.

Parable of the fatherhood.

11 If a son shall ask bread of any of you that is a father, will he give him a stone? or if he ask a fish, will he for a fish give him a serpent?

12 Or if he shall ask an egg, will he offer him a scorpion?

13 If ye then, being evil, know how to give good gifts unto your children: how much more shall your heavenly Father [i]give the [h]Holy Spirit to them that ask him?

Jesus charged with casting out demons by Beelzebub (Mt. 12. 22-37).

14 And he was casting out a [i]devil, and it was dumb. And it came to pass, when the devil was gone out, the dumb [j]spake; and the people wondered.

15 But some of them said, He casteth out devils through [k]Beelzebub the chief of the devils.

16 And others, [l]tempting him, sought of him a sign from heaven.

17 But he, knowing their thoughts, said unto them, Every kingdom divided against itself is brought to desolation; and a house divided against a house falleth.

18 If [m]Satan also be divided against himself, how shall his kingdom stand? because ye say that I cast out devils through Beelzebub.

19 And if I by Beelzebub cast out devils, by whom do your sons cast them out? therefore shall they be your judges.

20 But if I with the finger of God cast out devils, no doubt [n]the kingdom of God is come upon you.

21 When a strong man armed keepeth his palace, his goods are in peace:

22 But when a [o]stronger than he shall come upon him, and overcome him, he taketh from him all his armour wherein he trusted, and divideth his spoils.

23 He that is not with me is [p]against me: and he that gathereth not with me scattereth.

Worthlessness of self-reformation (Mt. 12. 43-45).

24 [q]When the unclean spirit is gone out of a man, he walketh through dry places, seeking rest; and finding none, he saith, I will ground; it is not a prayer in the name of Christ (cf. John xiv. 13, 14; xvi. 24); and it makes human forgiveness, as under the law it must, the condition of divine forgiveness; an order which grace exactly reverses (cf. Eph. iv. 32). (3) Prayer is to be definite (vs. 5, 6); and, (4) importunate, that is, undiscouraged by delayed answers.

[1] It is evident that none of the disciples, with the possible exception of Mary of Bethany, asked for the Spirit in the faith of this promise. It was a new and staggering thing to a Jew that, in advance of the fulfilment of Joel ii. 28, 29, all might receive the Spirit. Mary alone of the disciples understood Christ's repeated declaration concerning His own death and resurrection (John xii. 3-7). Save Mary, not one of the disciples but Peter, and he only in the great confession (Mt. xvi. 17), manifested a spark of spiritual intelligence till after the resurrection of Christ and the impartation of the Spirit (John xx. 22; Acts ii. 1-4). To go back to the promise of Lk. xi. 13, is to forget Pentecost, and to ignore the truth that now every believer has the indwelling Spirit (Rom. viii. 9, 15; 1 Cor. vi. 19; Gal. iv. 6; 1 John ii. 20, 27). See Acts ii. 4, note.

return unto my house whence I came out.

25 And when he cometh, he findeth it [a]swept and garnished.

26 Then goeth he, and taketh to him seven other spirits more wicked than himself; and they enter in, and dwell there: and the last state of that man is [b]worse than the first.

27 And it came to pass, as he spake these things, a certain woman of the company lifted up her voice, and said unto him, [c]Blessed is the womb that bare thee, and the paps which thou hast sucked.

28 But he said, Yea rather, [d]blessed are they that hear the word of God, and keep it.

The sign of Jonas (Mt. 12. 39-42).

29 And when the people were gathered thick together, he began to say, This is an evil generation: they seek a sign; and [e]there shall no sign be given it, but the sign of Jonas the prophet.

30 For as [f]Jonas was a sign unto the Ninevites, so shall also [g]the Son of man be to this generation.

31 The queen of the south shall rise up in the judgment with the men of this generation, and condemn them: for she came from the utmost parts of the earth to hear the wisdom of Solomon; and, behold, a greater than Solomon is here.

32 The men of Nineve shall rise up [h]in the judgment with this generation, and shall condemn it: for they [i]repented at the preaching of Jonas; and, behold, a greater than Jonas is here.

Parable of the lighted candle (Mt. 5. 15, 16; Mk. 4. 21, 22. Cf. Lk. 8. 16).

33 No man, when he hath lighted a [j]candle, putteth it in a secret place, neither under a bushel, but on a candlestick, that they which come in may see the light.

34 The [k]light of the body is the eye: therefore when thine eye is single, thy whole body also is full of light; but when thine eye is evil, thy body also is full of darkness.

35 Take heed therefore that the light which is in thee be not dark-

36 If thy whole body therefore be full of light, having no part dark, the whole shall be full of light, as when the bright [l]shining of a candle doth give thee light.

37 And as he spake, a certain Pharisee besought him to dine with him: and he went in, and sat down to meat.

38 And [m]when the Pharisee saw it, he marvelled that he had not first washed before dinner.

Jesus denounces woes upon the Pharisees. (Cf. Mt. 23. 13-35.)

39 And the Lord said unto him, Now do ye Pharisees make clean the outside of the cup and the platter; but your inward part is full of ravening and wickedness.

40 Ye fools, did not he that made that which is without make that which is within also?

41 But rather give alms of such things as ye have; and, behold, all things are clean unto you.

42 But [n]woe unto you, Pharisees! for ye tithe mint and rue and all manner of herbs, and [o]pass over judgment and the love of God: these ought ye to have done, and not to leave the other undone.

43 Woe unto you, Pharisees! [p]for ye love the uppermost seats in the synagogues, and greetings in the markets.

44 Woe unto you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! for ye are as [q]graves which appear not, and the men that walk over them are not aware of them.

Jesus denounces woes upon the lawyers.

45 Then answered one of the [r]lawyers, and said unto him, Master, thus saying thou reproachest us also.

46 And he said, Woe unto you also, ye lawyers! for ye [s]lade men with burdens grievous to be borne, and ye yourselves touch not the burdens with one of your fingers.

47 Woe unto you! for ye build the sepulchres of the prophets, and your fathers killed them.

48 Truly ye bear witness that ye allow the deeds of your fathers: for they indeed killed [t]them, and ye build their sepulchres.

49 Therefore also said the wisdom of God, I will send them prophets and apostles, and some of them they shall slay and persecute:

50 That the blood of all the prophets, which was shed from the foundation of the [u]world, may be [v]required of this generation;

52 Woe unto you, lawyers! for ye have taken away the key of knowledge: [d]ye entered not in yourselves, and them that were entering in ye hindered.

53 And as he said these things unto them, the scribes and the Pharisees began to urge him vehemently, and to [e]provoke him to speak of many things:

54 Laying wait for him, and seeking to catch something out of his mouth, that they might accuse him.

CHAPTER 12.

Jesus warns of the leaven of the Pharisees. (Cf. Mk. 8. 14-21.)

IN [f]the mean time, when there were gathered together an innumerable multitude of people, insomuch that they trode one upon another, he began to say unto his disciples first of all, Beware ye of the [g]leaven of the Pharisees, which is [h]hypocrisy.

2 For [i]there is nothing covered, that shall not be revealed; neither hid, that shall not be known.

3 Therefore whatsoever ye have spoken in darkness shall be heard in the light; and that which ye have spoken in the ear in closets shall be proclaimed upon the housetops.

4 And I say unto [j]you my friends, Be not afraid of them that kill the body, and after that have no more that they can do.

5 But I will forewarn you whom ye shall fear: Fear him, which after he hath killed hath power to cast into [k]hell; yea, I say unto you, Fear him.

6 Are not five sparrows sold for two [m]farthings, and not one of them is forgotten before God?

7 But even the very hairs of your head are all numbered. Fear not therefore: ye are of more value than many sparrows.

8 Also I say unto you, Whosoever shall confess me before men, him shall the [n]Son of man also confess before the [o]angels of God:

9 But he that denieth me before men shall be denied before the angels of God.

10 And whosoever shall speak a word against the [n]Son of man, it shall be forgiven him: but unto him that blasphemeth against the [p]Holy Ghost it shall not be forgiven.

11 And when they bring you unto the synagogues, and unto magistrates, and powers, [q]take ye no thought how or what thing ye shall answer, or what ye shall say:

12 For the [p]Holy Ghost shall teach you in the same hour what ye ought to say.

13 And one of the company said unto him, Master, speak to my brother, that he divide the inheritance with me.

14 And he said unto him, [r]Man, who made me a judge or a divider over you?

15 And he said unto them, Take heed, and beware of covetousness: for a man's [s]life consisteth not in the abundance of the things which he possesseth.

Parable of the rich fool.

16 And he spake a [t]parable unto them, saying, The ground of a certain rich man brought forth plentifully:

17 And he thought within himself, saying, What shall I do, because I have no room where to bestow my fruits?

18 And he said, This will [u]I do: I will pull down my barns, and build greater; and there will I bestow all my fruits and my goods.

19 And I will say to my soul, [v]Soul, thou hast much goods laid up for many years; take thine ease, [w]eat, drink, and be merry.

20 But God said unto him, Thou fool, this night [x]thy soul shall be required of thee: then whose shall those things be, which thou hast provided?

21 So is he that layeth up treasure for himself, and is not [y]rich toward God.

22 [z]And he said unto his disciples, Therefore I say unto you, [a]Take no thought for your life, what ye shall eat; neither for the body, what ye shall put on.

23 The life is more than meat, and the [b]body is more than raiment.

24 Consider the ravens: for they neither sow nor reap; which neither have storehouse nor barn; and God feedeth them: how much more are ye better than the fowls?

25 And which of you with taking thought can add to his stature one [c]cubit?

26 If ye then be not able to do that thing which is least, why take ye thought for the rest?

27 Consider the lilies how they grow: they toil not, they spin not; and yet I say unto you, that Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed like one of these.

28 If then God so clothe the grass, which is to day in the field, and to morrow is cast into the oven; how much more will he clothe you, O ye of little faith?

29 And seek not ye what ye shall eat, or what ye shall drink, neither be ye of doubtful mind.

Parable and warnings connected with the second coming (Mt. 24. 37-25. 30).

35 [g]Let your loins be girded about, and your lights burning;

36 And ye yourselves like unto men that wait for their lord, when he will return from the wedding; that when he cometh and knocketh, they may open unto him immediately.

37 Blessed are those servants, whom the lord when he cometh shall find watching: verily I say unto you, that he shall gird himself, and [h]make them to sit down to meat, and will come forth and serve them.

38 And if he shall come in the second watch, or come in the third watch, and find them so, blessed are those servants.

39 And [i]this know, that if the goodman of the house had known what hour the [j]thief would come, he would have watched, and not have suffered his house to be broken through.

40 Be ye therefore ready also: for the [k]Son of man [l]cometh at an hour when ye think not.

41 Then Peter said unto him, Lord, speakest thou this parable unto us, or even to all?

Parable of the steward and his servants.

42 And the Lord said, Who then is that faithful and wise [m]steward, whom his lord shall make ruler over his household, to give them their portion of meat in due season?

43 Blessed is that servant, whom his lord when he cometh shall find so doing.

44 Of a truth I say unto you, that he will make him [n]ruler over all that he hath.

45 But and if that servant say in his heart, My lord [o]delayeth his coming; and shall begin to beat the menservants and maidens, and to eat and drink, and to be drunken;

46 The lord of that servant will come in a [p]day when he looketh not for him, and at an hour when he is not aware, and will [q]cut him in sunder, and will appoint him his portion with the unbelievers.

47 And that servant, [r]which knew his lord's will, and prepared not himself, neither did according to his will, shall be beaten with many stripes.

48 But [s]he that knew not, and did commit things worthy of stripes, shall be beaten with few stripes. [t]For unto whomsoever much is given, of him shall be much required: and to whom men have committed much, of him they will ask the more.

53 The [x]father shall be divided against the son, and the son against the father; the mother against the daughter, and the daughter against the mother; the mother in law against her daughter in law, and the daughter in law against her mother in law.

CHAPTER 13.

Men are not to judge, but repent.

THERE were present at that season some that told him of the [e]Galilæans, whose blood Pilate had mingled with their sacrifices.

2 And Jesus answering said unto them, Suppose ye that these Galilæans were [f]sinners above all the Galilæans, because they suffered such things?

3 I tell you, Nay: but, except ye [g]repent, ye shall all likewise perish.

6 He spake also this [h]parable; A certain man had a fig tree planted in his vineyard; and he came and sought fruit thereon, and found none.

7 Then said he unto the dresser of his vineyard, Behold, these three years I come seeking fruit on this fig tree, and find none: cut it [i]down; why cumbereth it the ground?

8 And he answering said unto him, Lord, let it alone this year also, till I shall dig about it, and dung it.

The woman loosed from her infirmity.

10 And he was teaching in one of the synagogues on the sabbath.

11 And, behold, there was a woman which had a spirit of infirmity eighteen years, and was bowed together, and could in no wise lift up herself.

12 And when Jesus saw her, he called her to him, and said unto her, Woman, thou art loosed from thine infirmity.

13 And he laid his hands on her: and [k]immediately she was made straight, and glorified God.

14 And the ruler of the synagogue answered with indignation, because that Jesus had [l]healed on the sabbath day, and said unto the people, [m]There are six days in which men ought to work: in them therefore come and be healed, and not on the sabbath day.

15 The Lord then answered him, and said, Thou hypocrite, [n]doth not each one of you on the sabbath loose his ox or his ass from the stall, and lead him away to watering?

16 And ought not this woman, being a [o]daughter of Abraham, whom [p]Satan hath bound, lo, these eighteen years, be loosed from this bond on the sabbath day?

17 And when he had said these things, all his adversaries were [q]ashamed: and all the people rejoiced for all the glorious things that were done by him.

18 Then said he, [r]Unto what is the kingdom of God like? and whereunto shall I resemble it?

19 It is like a grain of mustard seed, which a man took, and cast into his garden; and it grew, and [s]waxed a great tree; and the fowls of the air lodged in the branches of it.

Parable of the leaven (Mt. 13. 33, note).

20 And again he said, Whereunto shall I liken the kingdom of God?

21 It is like [t]leaven, which a woman took and hid in three measures of meal, till the [u]whole was leavened.

Teachings on the way to Jerusalem.

22 And he went through the cities and villages, teaching, and journeying toward Jerusalem.

23 Then said one unto him, Lord, are there [a]few that be [b]saved? And he said unto them,

24 [c]Strive to enter in at the [d]strait gate: for many, I say unto you, will seek to enter in, and shall not be able.

25 When [e]once the master of the house is risen up, and hath [f]shut to the door, and ye begin to stand without, and to knock at the door, saying, Lord, Lord, open unto us; and he shall answer and say unto you, I know you not whence ye are:

26 Then shall ye begin to say, We have eaten and drunk in thy presence, and thou hast taught in our streets.

27 But [g]he shall say, I tell you, I know you not whence ye are; depart from me, all ye [h]workers of iniquity.

28 There shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth, when ye shall see Abraham, and Isaac, and Jacob, and all the prophets, in the kingdom of God, and you yourselves thrust out.

29 And [i]they shall come from the east, and from the west, and from the north, and from the south, and shall sit down in the kingdom of God.

30 And, behold, [j]there are last which shall be first, and there are first which shall be last.

31 The same day there came certain of the Pharisees, saying unto him, Get thee out, and depart hence: for [k]Herod will kill thee.

32 And he said unto them, Go ye, and tell that fox, Behold, I cast out devils, and I do cures to day and to morrow, and the third day I shall be [l]perfected.

33 Nevertheless I must walk to day, and to morrow, and the day following: for it cannot be that a prophet perish out of Jerusalem.

Jesus' lament over Jerusalem (Mt. 23. 37–39. Cf. Lk. 19. 41–44).

34 O [m]Jerusalem, Jerusalem, which killest the prophets, and stonest them that are sent unto thee; how often would [n]I have [o]gathered thy children together, as a hen doth gather her brood under her wings, and ye would not!

35 Behold, your house is left unto you desolate: and verily I say unto you, Ye shall not see me, [p]until the time come when ye shall say, Blessed is he that cometh in the name of the [q]Lord.

CHAPTER 14.

Jesus heals on the sabbath.

AND it came to pass, as he went into the house of one of the chief Pharisees to eat bread on the sabbath day, that they watched him.

2 And, behold, there was a certain man before him which had the dropsy.

3 And Jesus answering spake unto the lawyers and Pharisees, saying, Is it lawful to heal on the sabbath day?

4 And they held their peace. And he took him, and [r]healed him, and let him go;

5 And answered them, saying, Which of you shall have an ass or an ox fallen into a pit, and will not straightway pull him out on the sabbath day?

6 And they could not answer him again to these things.

Parable of the ambitious guest.

7 And he put forth a parable to those which were bidden, when he marked how they chose out the chief rooms; saying unto them,

8 When thou art bidden of any man to a wedding, sit not down in the highest room; lest a more honourable man than thou be bidden of him;

9 And he that bade thee and him come and say to thee, Give this man place; and thou begin with shame to take the lowest room.

10 But when thou art bidden, go and sit down in the lowest room; that when he that bade thee cometh, he may say unto thee, Friend, go up higher: then shalt thou have worship in the presence of them that sit at meat with thee.

11 For whosoever [s]exalteth himself shall be abased; and he that [t]humbleth himself shall be exalted.

12 Then said he also to him that bade him, When thou makest a dinner or a supper, call not thy friends, nor thy brethren, neither thy kinsmen, nor thy rich neighbours; lest they also bid thee again, and a recompence be made thee.

13 But when thou makest a feast, call the [u]poor, the maimed, the lame, the blind:

14 And [v]thou shalt be blessed; for they cannot recompense thee: for thou shalt be [a]recompensed at the [b]resurrection of the just.

15 And when one of them that sat at meat with him heard these things, he said unto him, Blessed is he that shall eat bread in the [c]kingdom of God.

Parable of the great supper.
(Cf. Mt. 22. 1-14.)

16 Then said he unto him, [d]A certain man made a great supper, and bade many:

17 And [e]sent his servant at supper time to say to them that were bidden, Come; for all things are now ready.

18 [f]And they all with one consent began to make excuse. The first said unto him, I have bought a piece of ground, and I must needs go and see it: I pray thee have me excused.

19 And another said, I have bought five yoke of oxen, and I go to prove them: I pray thee have me excused.

20 And another said, I have married a wife, and therefore I cannot come.

21 So that servant came, and shewed his lord these things. Then the master of the house being angry said to his servant, Go out quickly into the [g]streets and lanes of the city, and bring in hither the [h]poor, and the maimed, and the [i]halt, and the blind.

22 And the servant said, Lord, it is done as thou hast commanded, and [j]yet there is room.

23 And the lord said unto the servant, Go out into the highways and hedges, and [k]compel them to come in, that my house may be filled.

24 For I say unto you, That [l]none of those men which were bidden shall taste of my supper.

Discipleship again tested.
(Cf. Mt. 10. 37-39.)

25 And there went great multitudes with him: and he turned, and said unto them,

26 If any man come to me, and [1][m]hate not his father, and mother, and wife, and children, and brethren, and sisters, yea, and his own life also, he cannot be my disciple.

27 And [n]whosoever doth not bear his cross, and come after me, cannot be my disciple.

Parable of the tower.

28 For which of you, intending to build a tower, sitteth not down first, and counteth the cost, whether he have sufficient to finish it?

29 Lest haply, after he hath laid the foundation, and is not able to finish it, all that behold it begin to mock him,

30 Saying, This man began to build, and was not able to [o]finish.

Parable of the king going to war.

31 Or what king, going to make war against another king, sitteth not down first, and [p]consulteth whether he be able with ten thousand to meet him that cometh against him with twenty thousand?

32 Or else, while the other is yet a great way off, he sendeth an ambassage, and desireth conditions of peace.

33 So likewise, whosoever he be of you that forsaketh not [q]all that he hath, he cannot be my disciple.

Parable of the savourless salt.
(Cf. Mt. 5. 13; Mk. 9. 50.)

34 [r]Salt is good: but if the salt have lost his savour, wherewith shall it be seasoned?

35 It is neither fit for the land, nor yet for the dunghill; but [s]men cast it out. He that hath ears to hear, let him hear.

CHAPTER 15.

The murmuring Pharisees.

THEN drew [t]near unto him all the publicans and [u]sinners for to hear him.

2 And the Pharisees and scribes murmured, saying, This man receiveth [u]sinners, and eateth with them.

Parable of the lost sheep.
(Cf. Mt. 18. 12-14.)

3 And he spake this [v]parable unto them, saying,

John xix. 26, 27; Eph. v. 25-28).

5 And when he hath found it, he layeth it on his shoulders, rejoicing.

6 And when he cometh home, he calleth together his friends and neighbours, saying unto them, Rejoice with me; for I have found my [b]sheep which was lost.

10 Likewise, I say unto you, [e]there is joy in the presence of the [f]angels of God over one [g]sinner that repenteth.

Parable of the lost son.

11 And he said, A certain man had two sons:

(The departure.)

12 And the younger of them said to his father, Father, give me the portion of goods that falleth to me. And he divided unto them his living.

13 And not many days after the younger son gathered all together, and took his journey into a far country, and there wasted his substance with riotous living.

(The misery of the far country.)

14 And when he had spent all, there arose a mighty famine in that land; and he began to be in want.

15 And he went and joined himself to a citizen of that country; and he sent him into his fields to feed swine.

16 And he would fain have filled his belly with the husks that the swine did eat: and no man gave unto him.

(The repentance.)

17 And when he came to himself, he said, How many hired servants of my father's have bread enough and to spare, and I perish with hunger!

18 I [h]will arise and go to my father, and will [i]say unto him, Father, I have [g]sinned against heaven, and before thee,

19 And am no more worthy to be called thy son: make me as one of thy hired servants.

(The return and the father.)

20 And he arose, and came to his father. But when he was yet a great way off, his father saw him, and had compassion, and ran, and fell on his neck, and kissed him.

21 And the son said unto him, Father, I have [g]sinned against [j]heaven, and in thy sight, and am no more worthy to be called thy son.

22 But the father said to his servants, [k]Bring forth the best robe, and put it on him; and put a ring on his hand, and shoes on his feet:

(The rejoicing.)

23 And bring hither the fatted calf, and kill it; and let us eat, and be merry:

24 For this my son was [m]dead, and is alive again; he was lost, and is found. And they began to be merry.

(The Pharisee.)

25 Now his elder son was in the field: and as he came and drew nigh to the house, he heard musick and dancing.

26 And he called one of the servants, and asked what these things meant.

27 And he said unto him, Thy brother is come; and thy father hath killed the fatted calf, because he hath received him safe and sound.

28 And he was angry, and would not go in: therefore came his father out, and intreated him.

29 And he answering said to his father, Lo, these many years do [n]I serve thee, neither transgressed I at any time thy commandment: and yet thou never gavest me a kid, that I might make merry with my friends:

30 But as soon as this thy son was come, which hath devoured thy living with harlots, thou hast killed for him the fatted calf.

31 And he said unto him, Son, thou art ever with me, and all that I have is thine.

32 It was meet that we should make merry, and be glad: [o]for this thy brother was dead, and is alive again; and was lost, and is found.

CHAPTER 16.

Parable of the unjust steward.

AND he said also unto his disciples, [a]There was a certain rich man, which had a steward; and the same was accused unto him that he had wasted his goods.

2 And he called him, and said unto him, How is it that I hear this of thee? give an account of thy stewardship; for thou mayest be no longer steward.

3 Then the steward said within himself, What shall I do? for my lord taketh away from me the stewardship: I cannot dig; to beg I am ashamed.

4 I am resolved what to do, that, when I am put out of the stewardship, they may receive me into their houses.

5 So he called every one of his lord's debtors unto him, and said unto the first, How much owest thou unto my lord?

6 And he said, An hundred [b]measures of oil. And he said unto him, Take thy bill, and sit down quickly, and write fifty.

7 Then said he to another, And how much owest thou? And he said, An hundred [c]measures of wheat. And he said unto him, Take thy bill, and write fourscore.

8 And the lord commended the unjust steward, because he had done wisely: for the children of this world are in their generation wiser than the [d]children of [e]light.

9 And I say unto you, [e]Make to yourselves friends of the [f]mammon of [g]unrighteousness; that, when ye [h]fail, they may receive you into everlasting habitations.

10 He that is faithful in that which is least is faithful also in much: and he that is unjust in the least is unjust also in much.

Jesus answers the Pharisees.

14 And the Pharisees also, who were covetous, heard all these things: and they derided him.

15 And he said unto them, Ye are they which justify [n]yourselves before men; but [o]God knoweth your hearts: for that which is highly esteemed [p]among men is abomination in the sight of God.

16 The law and the prophets were until John: since that time [q]the kingdom of God is preached, and every man presseth into it.

The rich man and Lazarus.

19 [s]There was a certain rich man, which was clothed in purple and fine linen, and fared sumptuously every day:

20 And there was a certain beggar named Lazarus, which was laid at his gate, full of sores,

21 And desiring to be fed with the crumbs which fell from the rich man's table: moreover the dogs came and licked his sores.

22 And it came to pass, that the beggar died, and was carried by the [t]angels into [u]Abraham's bosom: the [v]rich man also [w]died, and was buried;

23 [x]And in [1]hell he lift up his eyes, being in torments, and seeth Abraham afar off, and Lazarus in his bosom.

24 And he cried and said, Father Abraham, have mercy on me, and

[1]Gr. hades, "the unseen world," is revealed as the place of departed human spirits between death and resurrection. The word occurs, Mt. xi. 23; xvi. 18; Lk. x. 15; Acts ii. 27, 31; Rev. i. 18; vi. 8; xx. 13, 14, and is the equivalent of the O.T. sheol (Hab. ii. 5, note). The Septuagint invariably renders sheol by hades.

Summary: (1) Hades before the ascension of Christ. The passages in which the word occurs make it clear that hades was formerly in two divisions, the abodes respectively of the saved and of the lost. The former was called "paradise" and "Abrasend Lazarus, that he may dip the tip of his finger in water, and cool my tongue; for I am tormented in this [a]flame.

25 But Abraham said, Son, remember that thou in thy [b]lifetime receivedst thy good things, and likewise Lazarus evil things: but now he is comforted, and thou art tormented.

26 And beside all this, between us and you there is a great gulf fixed: so that they which would pass from hence to you cannot; neither can they pass to us, that would come from thence.

27 Then he said, I pray thee therefore, father, that thou wouldest send him to my father's house:

28 For I have five brethren; that he may testify unto them, lest they also come into this place of torment.

29 Abraham saith unto him, They have Moses and the prophets; let them hear [c]them.

30 And he said, Nay, father Abraham: but if one went unto them from the dead, they will [d]repent.

31 And he said unto him, [e]If they hear not Moses and the prophets, neither will they be persuaded, though one rose from the dead.

CHAPTER 17.

An instruction in forgiveness. (Cf. Mt. 18. 7, 15.)

THEN said he unto the disciples, [f]It is impossible but that offences will come: but woe unto him, through whom they come!

2 It were better for him that a millstone were hanged about his neck, and he cast into the sea, than that he should offend one of these little ones.

3 Take heed to yourselves: If thy brother [g]trespass against thee, rebuke him; and if he [d]repent, [h]forgive him.

4 And if he [g]trespass against thee seven times in a day, and seven times in a day turn again to thee, saying, I [d]repent; thou shalt [h]forgive him.

5 And the apostles [i]said unto the Lord, Increase our faith.

6 And the Lord said, If ye had [j]faith as a grain of mustard seed, ye might say unto this sycamine tree, Be thou plucked up by the root, and be thou planted in the sea; and it should obey you.

A parable of service.

7 But [k]which of you, having a servant plowing or feeding cattle, will say unto him by and by, when he is come from the field, Go and sit down to meat?

8 And will not rather say unto him, Make ready wherewith I may sup, and gird thyself, and serve me, till I have eaten and drunken; and afterward thou shalt eat and drink?

9 Doth he thank that servant because he did the things that were commanded him? I trow not.

10 So likewise ye, when ye shall have done all those things which are commanded you, say, We [l]are unprofitable servants: we have done that which was our duty to do.

ham's bosom." Both designations were Talmudic, but adopted by Christ in Lk. xvi. 22; xxiii. 43. The blessed dead were with Abraham, they were conscious and were "comforted" (Lk. xvi. 25). The believing malefactor was to be, that day, with Christ in "paradise." The lost were separated from the saved by a "great gulf fixed" (Lk. xvi. 26). The representative man of the lost who are now in hades is the rich man of Lk. xvi. 19-31. He was alive, conscious, in the full exercise of his faculties, memory, etc., and in torment.

(2) Hades since the ascension of Christ. So far as the unsaved dead are concerned, no change of their place or condition is revealed in Scripture. At the judgment of the great white throne, hades will give them up, they will be judged, and will pass into the lake of fire (Rev. xx. 13, 14). But a change has taken place which affects paradise. Paul was "caught up to the third heaven . . . into paradise" (2 Cor. xii. 1-4). Paradise, therefore, is now in the immediate presence of God. It is believed that Eph. iv. 8-10 indicates the time of the change. "When he ascended up on high he led a multitude of captives." It is immediately added that He had previously "descended first into the lower parts of the earth," i.e. the paradise division of hades. During the present church-age the saved who died are "absent from the body, at home with the Lord." The wicked dead in hades, and the righteous dead "at home with the Lord," alike await the resurrection (Job xix. 25; 1 Cor. xv. 52). See Mt. v. 22, note.

12 And as he entered into a certain village, there met him ten men that were lepers, which stood afar off:

13 And they lifted up their voices, and [a]said, Jesus, Master, have mercy on us.

14 And when he saw them, he said unto them, Go shew yourselves unto the priests. And it came to pass, that, as they went, they were cleansed.

15 And one of them, when he saw that he was healed, turned back, and with a loud voice glorified God,

16 And fell down on his face at his feet, giving him thanks: and he was a Samaritan.

17 And Jesus answering said, Were there not ten cleansed? but where are the nine?

18 There are not found that returned to give glory to God, save this stranger.

19 And he said unto him, Arise, go thy way: thy faith [b]hath made thee whole.

The kingdom in its spiritual aspect.
(Cf. Lk. 19. 11, 12.)

20 And when he was demanded of the Pharisees, when the kingdom of God should come, he answered them and said, The kingdom of God cometh not with [c]observation:

21 Neither shall they say, Lo here! or, lo there! for, behold, [d]the kingdom of God is [1e]within you.

Jesus foretells his second coming
(Deut. 30. 3; Acts 1. 9-11, note).

22 And he said unto the disciples, The days will come, when ye shall desire to see one of the days of the [f]Son of man, and ye shall not see it.

23 [g]And they shall say to you, See here; or, see there: go not after them, nor follow them.

24 For as the lightning, that lighteneth out of the one part under heaven, shineth unto the other part under heaven; so shall also the Son of man be in his day.

25 But first must he suffer many things, and be rejected of this generation.

26 And as it was in the days of Noe, [h]so shall it be also in the days of the [f]Son of man.

27 They did eat, they drank, they married wives, they were given in marriage, until the day that Noe entered into the ark, and the flood came, and destroyed them all.

28 Likewise also as it was in the days of Lot; they did eat, they drank, they bought, they sold, they planted, they builded;

29 But the same day that Lot went out of Sodom it rained fire and brimstone from heaven, and destroyed them all.

30 Even [i]thus shall it be in the day when the [f]Son of man is revealed.

31 In that day, he which shall be upon the housetop, and his stuff in the house, let him not come down to take it away: and he that is in the field, let him likewise not return back.

32 [j]Remember Lot's wife.

33 Whosoever shall seek to save his life shall lose it; and whosoever shall lose his life shall preserve it.

34 I tell you, [k]in that night there shall be two men in one bed; the one shall be taken, and the other shall be left.

35 Two women shall be grinding together; the one shall be taken, and the other left.

36 Two men shall be in the field; the one shall be taken, and the other left.

37 And they answered and said unto him, Where, Lord? And he said unto them, [2]Wheresoever the body is, [l]thither will the eagles be gathered together.

[1] Gr. entos = "in the midst." It could not be said of a self-righteous, Christ-rejecting Pharisee, that the kingdom of God, as to its spiritual content, was within him. Our Lord's whole answer, designedly enigmatic to the Pharisees (cf. Mt. xiii. 10-13), has a dispensational meaning. The kingdom in its outward form, as covenanted to David (2 Sam. vii. 8-17) and described by the prophets (Zech. xii. 8, note), had been rejected by the Jews; so that, during this present age, it would not "come with observation" (lit. "outward show") but in the hearts of men (cf. Lk. xix. 11, 12; Acts i. 6-8, note; Rom. xiv. 17). Meantime, the kingdom was actually "in the midst" of the Pharisees in the persons of the King and his disciples. Ultimately the kingdom of heaven will come, with outward show. (See v. 24.)

2 Saying, There was in a city a judge, which feared not God, neither regarded man:
3 And there was a widow in that city; and she came unto him, saying, Avenge me of mine adversary.
4 And he would not for a while: but afterward he said within himself, Though I fear not God, nor regard man;
5 Yet because this widow troubleth me, I will avenge her, lest by her continual coming she weary me.
6 And the Lord said, Hear what the unjust judge saith.
7 And shall not God [a]avenge his own elect, which cry day and night unto him, though he bear long with them?
8 I tell you that he will avenge them speedily. Nevertheless when the [b]Son of man [c]cometh, shall he find [1][d]faith on the earth?

Parable of the Pharisee and the publican.

9 And he spake this parable unto certain which trusted in themselves that they were [e]righteous, and despised others:
10 Two men went up into the temple to pray; the one a Pharisee, and the other a publican.
11 The Pharisee stood and [f]prayed thus with himself, God, I thank thee, that I am not as other men are, extortioners, unjust, adulterers, or even as this publican.
12 I fast twice in the week, I give tithes of all that I possess.
13 And the publican, standing afar off, would not lift up so much as his eyes unto heaven, but smote upon his breast, [g]saying, God be [2][h]merciful to me a [i]sinner.
14 I tell you, this man went down to his house [j]justified rather than the other: for every one that exalteth himself shall be abased; and he that humbleth himself shall be exalted.

Jesus blesses little children (Mt. 19. 13-15; Mk. 10. 13-16).

15 [k]And they brought unto him also infants, that he would touch them: but when his disciples saw it, they rebuked them.
16 But Jesus called them unto him, and said, Suffer little children to come unto me, and forbid them not: for of [l]such is the kingdom of God.
17 Verily I say unto you, Whosoever shall not receive the kingdom of God as a little child [m]shall in no wise enter therein.

The rich young ruler (Mt. 19. 16-30; Mk. 10. 17-31).

18 [n]And a certain ruler asked him, saying, Good Master, what shall I do to inherit eternal life?
19 And Jesus said unto him, Why callest thou me good? none is good, save [o]one, that is, God.
20 Thou knowest the [p]commandments, Do not commit adultery, Do not kill, Do not steal, Do not bear false witness, Honour thy father and thy mother.
21 And he said, All [q]these have I kept from my youth up.
22 Now when Jesus heard these things, he said unto him, [r]Yet lackest thou one thing: sell all that thou hast, and distribute unto the poor, and thou shalt have treasure in heaven: and come, follow me.
23 And when he heard this, [s]he was very sorrowful: for he was very rich.
24 And when Jesus saw that he was very sorrowful, he said, [t]How hardly shall they that have riches enter into the kingdom of God!
25 For it is easier for a camel to go through a needle's eye, than for a rich man to enter into the kingdom of God.
26 And they that heard it said, Who then can be [u]saved?
27 And he said, The [v]things which are impossible with men are possible with God.
28 Then Peter said, Lo, we have [w]left all, and followed thee.
29 And he said unto them, Verily I say unto you, There is no man that hath [x]left house, or parents, or

[2] Gr. hilaskomai, used in the Septuagint and N.T. in connection with the mercy-seat (Ex. xxv. 17, 18, 21; Heb. ix. 5). As an instructed Jew the publican is thinking, not of mere mercy, but of the blood-sprinkled mercy-seat (Lev. xvi. note; "Propitiation," Rom. iii. 25, note). His prayer might be paraphrased, "Be toward me as thou art when thou lookest upon the atoning blood." The Bible knows nothing of divine forgiveness apart from sacrifice (see Mt. xxvi. 28, note).

Jesus again foretells his death and resurrection (Mt. 20. 17-19; Mk. 10. 32-34).

31 Then he took unto him the twelve, and said unto them, Behold, we go up to Jerusalem, and [c]all things that are written by the prophets concerning the [d]Son of man shall be accomplished.

32 For he shall be [e]delivered unto the Gentiles, and shall be mocked, and spitefully entreated, and spitted on:

33 And they shall scourge him, and put him to death: and the third day he shall rise again.

34 And they understood none of these things: and this saying was hid from them, neither knew they the things which were spoken.

35 And it [f]came to pass, that as he was come nigh unto Jericho, a certain [g]blind man sat by the way side begging:

36 And hearing the multitude pass by, he asked what it meant.

37 And they told him, that Jesus of Nazareth passeth by.

38 And he cried, saying, Jesus, thou son of David, have mercy on me.

39 And they which went before rebuked him, that he should hold his peace: but he cried [h]so much the more, Thou son of David, have mercy on me.

40 And Jesus stood, and commanded him to be brought unto him: and when he was come near, he asked him,

41 Saying, What wilt thou that I shall do unto thee? And he said, Lord, that I may receive my sight.

42 And Jesus said unto him, Receive thy sight: thy faith hath [i]saved thee.

43 And immediately he [j]received his sight, and followed him, glorifying God: and all the people, when they saw it, gave praise unto God.

CHAPTER 19.

Conversion of Zacchæus.

AND Jesus entered and passed through Jericho.

2 And, behold, there was a man named Zacchæus, which was the chief among the publicans, and he was rich.

3 And he sought to see Jesus who he was; and could not for the press, because he was little of stature.

4 And he ran before, and climbed up into a sycomore tree to see him: for he was to pass that way.

5 And when Jesus came to the place, he looked up, and saw him, and said unto him, Zacchæus, make haste, and come down; for to day I must [k]abide at thy house.

6 And he made haste, and came down, and received him joyfully.

7 And when they saw it, they all murmured, saying, [l]That he was gone to be guest with a man that is a sinner.

8 And Zacchæus stood, and said unto the Lord; Behold, Lord, the half of my goods I give to the [m]poor; and if I have taken any thing from any man by false accusation, I [n]restore him fourfold.

9 And Jesus said unto him, This day is [o]salvation come to this house, forsomuch as he also is a son of Abraham.

10 For the [p]Son of man is come to seek and to save that which was lost.

Parable of the ten pounds: the postponed kingdom. (See Lk. 17. 21, note; Acts 1. 6-8, note.)

11 And as they heard these things, he added and spake a [q]parable, because he was nigh to Jerusalem, and [r]because they thought that the kingdom of God should immediately appear.

12 He said therefore, [s]A certain nobleman went into a far country to receive for himself a kingdom, and to return.

13 And he called his ten servants, and delivered them ten [t]pounds, and said unto them, [u]Occupy till I come.

14 But his citizens hated him, and sent a message after him, saying, We will not have this man to reign over us.

15 And it came to pass, that when he was returned, having received the kingdom, then he commanded these servants to be called unto him, to whom he had given the [a]money, that he might know how much every man had gained by trading.

16 Then came the first, saying, Lord, thy pound hath gained ten pounds.

17 And he said unto him, Well, thou good servant: because thou hast been faithful in a very little, have thou authority over ten cities.

18 And the second came, saying, Lord, thy pound hath gained five pounds.

19 And he said likewise to him, Be thou also over five cities.

20 And another came, saying, Lord, behold, here is thy pound, which I have kept laid up in a napkin:

21 For I [b]feared thee, because thou art an austere man: thou takest up that thou layedst not down, and reapest that thou didst not sow.

22 And he saith unto him, [c]Out of thine own mouth will I judge thee, thou wicked servant. Thou knewest that I was an austere man, taking up that I laid not down, and reaping that I did not sow:

23 Wherefore then gavest not thou my money into the bank, that at my coming I might have required mine own with usury?

24 And he said unto them that stood by, Take from him the pound, and give it to him that hath ten pounds.

25 (And they said unto him, Lord, he hath ten pounds.)

26 For I say unto you, [d]That unto every one which hath shall be given; and from him that hath not, even that he hath shall be taken away from him.

27 But those mine [e]enemies, which would not that I should reign over them, bring hither, and slay them before me.

[f]The triumphal entry (Mt. 21. 1-9; Mk. 11. 1-10).

28 And when he had thus spoken, he went before, ascending up to Jerusalem.

29 And [g]it came to pass, when he was come nigh to Bethphage and Bethany, at the mount called the mount of Olives, he sent two of his disciples,

30 Saying, Go ye into the village over against you; in the which at your entering ye shall find a colt tied, whereon yet never man sat: loose him, and bring him hither.

31 And if any man ask you, Why do ye loose him? thus shall ye say unto him, Because the Lord hath need of him.

32 And they that were sent went their way, and found even as he had said unto them.

33 And as they were loosing the colt, the owners thereof said unto them, Why loose ye the colt?

34 And they said, The Lord hath need of him.

35 And they brought him to Jesus: and they cast their garments upon the colt, and they [h]set Jesus thereon.

36 And as he went, they spread their clothes in the way.

37 And when he was come nigh, even now at the descent of the mount of Olives, the whole multitude of the disciples began to rejoice and praise God with a loud voice for all the mighty works that they had seen;

38 Saying, [i]Blessed be the King that cometh in the name [j]of the Lord: peace in heaven, and [k]glory in the highest.

39 And some of the Pharisees from among the multitude said unto him, Master, rebuke thy disciples.

40 And he answered and said unto them, I tell you that, if these should hold their peace, the stones would immediately cry out.

Jesus weeps over Jerusalem. (Cf. Lk. 13. 34-35.)

41 And when he was come near, he beheld the city, and wept [l]over it,

42 Saying, [m]If thou hadst known, even thou, at least in this [n]thy day, the things which [o]belong unto thy peace! but now they are hid from thine eyes.

43 For the days shall come upon thee, that thine enemies shall cast a trench about thee, and compass thee round, and keep thee in on every side, 44 [p]And shall lay thee even with the ground, and thy children within thee; and they shall not leave in thee one stone upon another; because thou knewest not [q]the time of thy visitation.

48 And could not find what they might do: for all the people [c]were very attentive to hear him.

CHAPTER 20.

Jesus' authority questioned (Mt. 21. 23-27; Mk. 11. 27-33).

AND [d]it came to pass, that on one of those days, as he taught the people in the temple, and preached the [e]gospel, the chief priests and the scribes came upon him with the elders,

2 And spake unto him, saying, Tell us, [f]by what authority doest thou these things? or who is he that gave thee this authority?

3 And he answered and said unto them, I will also ask you one thing; and answer me:

4 The baptism of John, was it from heaven, or of men?

5 And they reasoned with themselves, saying, If we shall say, From heaven; he will say, Why then believed ye him not?

6 But and if we say, Of men; all the people will stone us: for they [g]be persuaded that John was a prophet.

7 And they answered, that they could not tell whence it was.

8 And Jesus said unto them, Neither tell I you by what authority I do these things.

Parable of the vineyard (Mt. 21. 33-46; Mk. 12. 1-12. Cf. Isa. 5. 1-7).

9 Then began he to speak to the people this [h]parable; A [i]certain man planted a [j]vineyard, and let it forth to husbandmen, and went into a far country for a long time.

10 And at the season he [k]sent a servant to the husbandmen, that they should give him of the [l]fruit of the vineyard: but the husbandmen beat him, and sent him away empty.

11 And again he sent another servant: and they beat him also, and entreated him shamefully, and sent him away empty.

12 And again he sent a third: and they wounded him also, and cast him out.

13 Then said the lord of the vineyard, What shall I do? I will [m]send my beloved son: it may be they will reverence him when they see him.

14 But when the husbandmen saw him, they reasoned among themselves, saying, [n]This is the heir: come, [o]let us kill him, that the inheritance may be our's.

15 So they [p]cast him out of the vineyard, and killed him. What therefore shall the lord of the vineyard do unto them?

16 He shall come and [q]destroy these husbandmen, and shall give the vineyard to [r]others. And when they heard it, they said, God forbid.

17 And he beheld them, and said, What is this then that is written, The [s]stone which the builders rejected, the same is become the head of the corner?

18 Whosoever shall fall upon that stone shall be broken; [t]but on whomsoever it shall fall, it will grind him to powder.

Question of the tribute-money (Mt. 22. 15-22; Mk. 12. 13-17).

19 And the chief priests and the scribes the same hour [u]sought to lay hands on him; and they feared the people: for they perceived that he had spoken this parable against them.

20 And they watched him, and sent forth spies, which should feign themselves just men, that they might take hold of his words, that so they might deliver him unto the power and authority of the governor.

21 And they asked him, saying, Master, we know that thou sayest and teachest rightly, neither acceptest thou the person of any, but teachest the way of God truly:

22 Is it lawful for us to give tribute unto Cæsar, or no?

23 But he perceived their craftiness, and said unto them, Why tempt ye me?

24 Shew me a [v]penny. Whose image and superscription hath it? They answered and said, Cæsar's.

25 And he said unto them, [w]Render therefore unto Cæsar the things which be Cæsar's, and unto [x]God the things which be God's.

26 And they could not take hold of his words before the people: and they [y]marvelled at his answer, and held their peace.

Jesus answers the Sadducees about the resurrection (Mt. 22. 23-33; Mk. 12. 18-27).

27 [a]Then came to him certain of the [b]Sadducees, which deny that there is any resurrection; and they asked him,

28 Saying, Master, [c]Moses wrote unto us, If any man's brother die, having a wife, and he die without children, that his brother should take his wife, and raise up seed unto his brother.

29 There were therefore seven brethren: and the first took a wife, and died without children.

30 And the second took her to wife, and he died childless.

31 And the third took her; and in like manner the seven also: and they left no children, and died.

32 Last of all the woman died also.

33 Therefore in the resurrection whose wife of them is she? for seven had her to wife.

34 And Jesus answering said unto them, The children of this [d]world marry, and are given in marriage:

35 But they which shall be accounted [e]worthy to obtain that [d]world, and the resurrection from the dead, neither marry, nor are given in marriage:

36 Neither can they die any more: for they are equal unto the angels; and are the children of God, being the children of the resurrection.

37 Now that the dead are raised, [f]even Moses shewed at the bush, when he calleth the Lord the [h]God of Abraham, and the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob.

38 For he is not a God of the dead, but of the living: for all live unto him.

Jesus questions the scribes (Mt. 22. 41-46; Mk. 12. 35-37).

39 Then certain of the scribes answering said, Master, thou hast well said.

40 And after that they durst not ask him any question at all.

41 [i]And he said unto them, How say they that Christ is David's son?

42 And David himself saith in the book of Psalms, [j]The LORD said unto my [k]Lord, Sit thou on my right hand, 43 Till I make thine enemies thy footstool.

44 David therefore calleth him Lord, [l]how is he then his son?

45 Then in the audience of all the people he said unto his disciples,

46 [m]Beware of the scribes, which desire to walk in long robes, and [n]love greetings in the markets, and the [o]highest seats in the synagogues, and the chief rooms at feasts;

47 Which [p]devour widows' houses, and for a shew make long prayers: the same shall receive [q]greater [r]damnation.

CHAPTER 21.

The widow's mite: Jesus' estimate of giving (Mk. 12. 41-44).

AND he looked up, and saw the [s]rich men casting their gifts into the treasury.

2 And he saw also a certain poor [t]widow casting in thither two [u]mites.

3 And he said, Of a truth I say unto you, that [v]this poor widow hath cast in more than they all:

4 For all these have of their abundance cast in unto the offerings of God: but she of her penury hath cast in [w]all the living that she had.

The Olivet discourse. (Cf. Mt. 24., 25.; Mk. 13.)

5 And as some spake of the [x]temple, how it was adorned with goodly stones and gifts, he said,

6 As for these things which ye behold, the days will come, in the which there shall not be left one [y]stone upon another, that shall not be thrown down.

The disciples' question. (Cf. Mt. 24. 3.)

7 And they asked him, saying, Master, but when shall these things be? and what sign will there be when these things shall come to pass?

The course of this age. (Cf. Mt. 24. 4-14.)

8 [z]And he said, Take heed that ye be not [a]deceived: for many shall come in my name, saying, I am Christ; and the time draweth near: go ye not therefore after them.

9 But when ye shall hear of [b]wars and commotions, be not terrified: for these things must first come to pass; but the end is not [c]by and by.

10 Then said he unto them, [d]Nation shall rise against nation, and kingdom against kingdom:

12 But before all these, they shall [b]lay their hands on you, and persecute you, delivering you up to the synagogues, and into [c]prisons, being brought before kings and rulers [d]for my name's sake.

13 And it shall turn to you for [e]a testimony.

14 Settle it therefore in your hearts, not to [f]meditate before what ye shall answer:

15 For I will give you a mouth and wisdom, [g]which all your adversaries shall not be able to gainsay nor resist.

The destruction of Jerusalem foretold.

20 And [1]when ye shall see [m]Jerusalem compassed with armies, then know that the desolation thereof is nigh.

21 Then let them which are in Judæa flee to the mountains; and let them which are in the midst of it depart out; and let not them that are in the countries enter thereinto.

22 For these be the days of vengeance, that [n]all things which are written may be fulfilled.

23 But woe unto them that are with child, and to them that give suck, in those days! for there shall be great distress in the land, and wrath upon this people.

24 And they shall fall by the edge of the sword, and shall be led away captive into all nations: and Jerusalem shall be [o]trodden down of the Gentiles, until the [2]times of the Gentiles be fulfilled.

The return of the Lord in glory. (Cf. Mt. 24. 29–31.)

25 And there shall be [p]signs in the sun, and in the moon, and in the stars; and upon the earth distress of nations, with perplexity; the sea and the waves roaring;

26 [q]Men's hearts failing them for fear, and for looking after those things which are coming on the [r]earth: for the [s]powers of heaven shall be shaken.

27 And then shall they see the [t]Son of man [u]coming [v]in a cloud with power and great glory.

28 And when these things begin to come to pass, then look up, and lift up your heads; for your [w]redemption draweth nigh.

Parable of the fig tree (Mt. 24. 32, 33; Mk. 13. 28, 29).

29 And he spake to them a [x]parable; Behold the fig tree, and all the trees;

30 When they now shoot forth, ye see and know of your own selves that summer is now nigh at hand.

31 So likewise ye, when ye see these things come to pass, know ye that the [y]kingdom of God is nigh at hand.

32 Verily I say unto you, This generation shall not pass away, till all be fulfilled.

33 [z]Heaven and earth shall pass away: but my words shall not pass away.

[1] Verses 20, 24 are not included in the report of the Olivet discourse as given by Matthew and Mark. Two sieges of Jerusalem are in view in that discourse. Luke xxi. 20–24 refers to the siege by Titus, A.D. 70, when the city was taken, and verse 24 literally fulfilled. But that siege and its horrors but adumbrate the final siege at the end of this age, in which the "great tribulation" culminates. At that time the city will be taken, but delivered by the glorious appearing of the Lord (Rev. xix. 11–21). The references in Mt. xxiv. 15–28, Mk. xiii. 14–26 are to the final tribulation siege; Lk. xxi. 20–24 to the destruction of Jerusalem by Titus. In Luke the sign is the compassing of Jerusalem by armies (Lk. xxi. 20); in Matthew (xxiv. 15) and Mark (xiii. 14) the sign is the abomination in the holy place (2 Thes. ii. 4).

[2] The "times of the Gentiles" began with the captivity of Judah under Nebuchadnezzar (2 Chr. xxxvi. 1–21), since which time Jerusalem has been under Gentile overlordship.

Warnings in view of the Lord's return. (Cf. Mt. 24. 34-51; Mk. 13. 30-37.)

34 And [a]take heed to yourselves, lest at any time your hearts be overcharged with surfeiting, and drunkenness, and [b]cares of this life, and so that day come upon you unawares.

35 For [c]as a snare shall it come on all them that dwell on the face of the whole earth.

36 [d]Watch ye therefore, and [e]pray always, that ye may be accounted worthy to [f]escape all these things that shall come to pass, and to [g]stand before the Son of man.

37 And in [h]the day time he was teaching in the temple; and [i]at night he went out, and abode in the mount that is called the mount of Olives.

38 And all the people came early in the morning to him in the temple, for to hear him.

CHAPTER 22.

Judas covenants to betray Jesus (Mt. 26. 2, 14, 15; Mk. 14. 1, 2, 10, 11).

NOW the feast of unleavened bread drew nigh, which is called the Passover.

2 And the [j]chief priests and scribes sought how they might kill him; for they [k]feared the people.

3 Then entered [l]Satan into Judas surnamed Iscariot, being of the number of the twelve.

4 And he went his way, and communed with the chief priests and captains, how he might betray him unto them.

5 And they were glad, and [m]covenanted to give him money.

6 And he promised, and sought opportunity to [n]betray him unto them in the absence of the multitude.

Preparation of the passover (Mt. 26. 17-19; Mk. 14. 12-16).

7 Then came the day of unleavened bread, when the [o]passover must be killed.

8 And he sent Peter and John, saying, Go and prepare us the passover, that we may eat.

9 And they said unto him, Where wilt thou that we prepare?

10 And he said unto them, Behold, when ye are entered into the city, there shall a man meet you, bearing a [p]pitcher of water; follow him into the house where he entereth in.

11 And ye shall say unto the goodman of the house, The Master saith unto thee, Where is the guestchamber, where I shall eat the passover with my disciples?

12 And he shall shew you a large upper room furnished: there make ready.

13 And they went, and found as he had said unto them: and they made ready the passover.

The last passover. (Cf. Mt. 26. 20; Mk. 14. 17; John 13. 12.)

14 [1]And when the hour was come, he sat down, and the twelve apostles with him.

15 And he said unto them, [q]With desire I have desired to eat this passover with you before I suffer:

16 For I say unto you, I [r]will not any more eat thereof, until it be fulfilled in the kingdom of God.

17 And he took the [s]cup, and gave thanks, and said, Take this, and divide it among yourselves:

18 For I say unto you, I will not drink of the fruit of the vine, [t]until the kingdom of God shall come.

The Lord's supper instituted (Mt. 26. 26-29; Mk. 14. 22-25).

19 And he took bread, and gave thanks, and brake it, and gave unto them, saying, This is my body which is given for you: [u]this do in remembrance of me.

20 Likewise also the cup after supper, saying, [v]This cup is the [w]new [x]testament in my blood, which is shed for you.

Jesus announces his betrayal (Mt. 26. 21-25; Mk. 14. 18-21; John 13. 18-30).

21 [y]But, behold, the hand of him that betrayeth me is with me on the table.

22 And truly the [z]Son of man goeth, [a]as it was determined: but woe unto that man by whom he is betrayed!

23 And they [b]began to enquire among themselves, which of them it was that should do this thing.

among them, which of them should be accounted the greatest.

25 And he said unto them, The kings of the Gentiles exercise lordship over them; and they that exercise authority upon them are called benefactors.

26 [a]But ye shall not be so: [b]but he that is greatest among you, let him be as the younger; and he that is chief, as he that doth serve.

Jesus predicts Peter's denial (Mt. 26. 33-35; Mk. 14. 29-31).

31 And the Lord said, Simon, Simon, behold, [j]Satan [k]hath desired to have you, that he may sift you as [l]wheat:

32 [m]But I have prayed for thee, that thy faith fail not: and when thou [n]art converted, [o]strengthen thy brethren.

33 And he said unto him, Lord, I am ready to go with thee, both into prison, and to death.

34 And he said, I tell thee, Peter, the cock shall not crow this day, before that thou shalt thrice deny that thou knowest me.

The disciples warned of coming conflicts.

35 And he said unto them, [p]When I sent you without purse, and scrip, and shoes, lacked ye any thing? And they said, Nothing.

36 Then said he unto them, But now, he that hath a purse, let him take it, and likewise his scrip: and he that hath no sword, let him sell his garment, and buy one.

37 For I say unto you, that this that is written must yet be accomplished in me, And he was [q]reckoned [r]among the transgressors: for the things concerning me have an end.

38 And they said, Lord, behold, here are two swords. And he said unto them, It is enough.

Jesus in the garden (Mt. 26. 36-46; Mk. 14. 32-42).

39 And he came out, and [s]went, as he was wont, to the mount of Olives; and his disciples also followed him.

40 And when he was at the place, he said unto them, Pray that ye enter not into temptation.

41 And he was withdrawn from them about a stone's cast, and kneeled down, and prayed, 42 Saying, Father, if thou be willing, remove this [t]cup from me: nevertheless not my will, but thine, be done.

43 And there appeared an [u]angel unto him from heaven, strengthening him.

44 And being in an agony he prayed more earnestly: and his sweat was as it were great drops of blood falling down to the ground.

45 And when he rose up from prayer, and was come to his disciples, he found them [v]sleeping for sorrow, 46 And said unto them, Why sleep ye? rise and pray, lest ye enter into temptation.

Jesus betrayed by Judas; restores a severed ear (Mt. 26. 47-56; Mk. 14. 43-50; John 18. 3-11).

47 And while he yet spake, behold a multitude, and he that was called Judas, one of the twelve, went before them, and drew near unto Jesus to kiss him.

48 But Jesus said unto him, Judas, betrayest thou the [w]Son of man with a kiss?

49 When they which were about him saw what would follow, they said unto him, Lord, shall we smite with the sword?

50 And [x]one of them smote the servant of the high priest, [y]and cut off his right ear.

51 And Jesus answered and said, Suffer ye thus far. And he touched his ear, and [z]healed him.

52 Then Jesus said unto the chief priests, and captains of the temple, and the elders, which were come to him, Be ye come out, as against a [a]thief, with swords and staves?

54 Then took they him, and led him, and brought him into the high priest's house. And Peter followed [a]afar off.

55 And when they had kindled a fire in the midst of the hall, and were set down together, Peter sat down [b]among them.

56 But a certain maid beheld him as he sat by the fire, and earnestly looked upon him, and said, This man was also with him.

57 And he [c]denied him, saying, Woman, I know him not.

58 And after a little while another saw him, and said, Thou art also of them. And Peter said, Man, I am not.

59 And about the space of one hour after another confidently affirmed, saying, Of a truth this fellow also was with him: for he is a [d]Galilæan.

60 And Peter said, Man, I know not what thou sayest. And immediately, while he yet spake, the cock crew.

61 And the Lord turned, and [e]looked upon Peter. And Peter remembered the word of the Lord, [f]how he had said unto him, Before the cock crow, thou shalt deny me thrice.

62 And Peter went out, and [g]wept bitterly.

Jesus buffeted (Mt. 26. 67, 68; Mk. 14. 65; John 18. 22, 23).

63 And the men that held Jesus [h]mocked him, and [i]smote him.

64 And when they had blindfolded him, they [j]struck him on the face, and asked him, saying, Prophesy, who is it that smote thee?

65 And many other things blasphemously spake they against him.

Jesus before the Sanhedrin (Mt. 26. 59-68; Mk. 14. 55-65; John 18. 19-24).

66 [k]And as soon as it was day, the [l]elders of the people and the chief priests and the scribes came together, and led him into their council, saying,

67 Art thou the Christ? tell us. And he said unto them, If I tell you, ye will not believe:

68 And if I also ask you, ye will not answer me, nor let me go.

69 [m]Hereafter shall the [n]Son of man sit on the right hand of the power of God.

70 Then said they all, Art thou then the Son of God? And he said unto them, Ye say that [o]I am.

71 And they said, What [p]need we any further witness? for we ourselves have heard of his own mouth.

CHAPTER 23.

Jesus before Pilate (Mt. 27. 2, 11-14; Mk. 15. 1-5; John 18. 28-38).

AND the whole multitude of them arose, and led him unto Pilate.

2 And they began to accuse him, saying, We found this fellow perverting the nation, and forbidding to give [q]tribute to Cæsar, saying that he himself is [r]Christ a [s]King.

3 And Pilate asked him, saying, Art thou the King of the Jews? And he answered him and said, Thou sayest it.

4 Then said Pilate to the chief priests and to the people, [t]I find no fault in this man.

5 And they were the more fierce, saying, [u]He stirreth up the people, teaching throughout all Jewry, beginning from [v]Galilee to this place.

Jesus sent before Herod.

6 When Pilate heard of Galilee, he asked whether the man were a Galilæan.

7 And as soon as he knew that he belonged unto [w]Herod's jurisdiction, he sent him to Herod, who himself also was at Jerusalem at that time.

8 And when Herod saw Jesus, he was exceeding glad: for he was [x]desirous to see him of a long season, because he had [y]heard many things of him; and he hoped to have seen some miracle done by him.

9 Then he questioned with him in many words; but he answered him [z]nothing.

10 And the chief priests and scribes stood and vehemently accused him.

11 [a]And Herod with his men of war set him at nought, and mocked him, and arrayed him in a gorgeous robe, and sent him again to Pilate.

12 And the same day [b]Pilate and Herod were made friends together: for before they were at enmity between themselves.

together the chief priests and the rulers and the people,

14 Said unto them, [a]Ye have brought this man unto me, as one that perverteth the people: and, behold, I, having examined him before you, have found no [b]fault in this man touching those things whereof ye accuse him:

15 No, nor yet Herod: for I sent you to him; and, lo, nothing worthy of death is done unto him.

16 [c]I will therefore chastise him, and release him.

17 ([d]For of necessity he must release one unto them at the feast.)

18 And [e]they cried out all at once, saying, Away with this man, and release unto us Barabbas:

19 (Who for a certain sedition made in the city, and for murder, was cast into prison.)

20 Pilate therefore, [f]willing to release Jesus, spake again to them.

21 But they cried, saying, [g]Crucify him, crucify him.

22 And he said unto them the third time, Why, what evil hath he done? I have found no cause of death in him: I will therefore chastise him, and let him go.

23 And they were instant with loud voices, requiring that he might be crucified. And the [h]voices of them and of the chief priests prevailed.

24 And Pilate gave sentence that it should be as they required.

25 [i]And he released unto them him that for sedition and murder was cast into prison, whom they had desired; but he/delivered Jesus to their will.

26 And as they led him away, they laid hold upon one [k]Simon, a Cyrenian, coming out of the country, and on him they laid the cross, that he might bear it after Jesus.

The crucifixion (Mt. 27. 33-38; Mk. 15. 22-28; John 19. 17-19).

27 And there [l]followed him a great company of people, and of women, which also bewailed and lamented him.

28 But Jesus turning unto them said, Daughters of Jerusalem, [m]weep not for me, but weep for yourselves, and for your children.

29 For, behold, the days are coming, in the which they shall say, [n]Blessed are the barren, and the wombs that never bare, and the paps which never gave suck.

30 Then shall they begin to say to the mountains, [o]Fall on us; and to the hills, Cover us.

31 For if they do these things in a [p]green tree, what shall be done in the [q]dry?

32 And there were also two other, [r]malefactors, led with him to be put to death.

33 [1]And when they were come to the place, which is called [s]Calvary, there they crucified him, and the malefactors, one on the right hand, and the other on the left.

34 Then [t]said Jesus, [u]Father, [v]forgive them; for they know not what they do. And [w]they parted his raiment, and cast lots.

35 And the [2x]people stood beholding. And the rulers also with them [y]derided him, saying, He saved others; let him save himself, if he be Christ, the chosen of God.

36 And the soldiers also mocked him, coming to him, and offering him vinegar, 37 And saying, If thou be the king of the Jews, save thyself.

38 And a [z]superscription also was written over him in letters of Greek, and Latin, and Hebrew, THIS IS THE KING OF THE JEWS.

The repentant thief. (Cf. Mt. 27. 44; Mk. 15. 32.)

39 And one of the malefactors which were hanged railed on him, saying, If thou be Christ, save thyself and us.

40 But the other answering rebuked him, saying, Dost not thou fear God, seeing thou art in the same condemnation?

41 And we indeed [a]justly; for we receive the due reward of our deeds: but this man [b]hath done nothing amiss.

[2] Jesus crucified is the true touchstone revealing what the world is: "The people stood beholding" in stolid indifference; the rulers, who wanted religion, but without a divine Christ crucified for their sins, "reviled"; the brutal amongst them mocked or railed; the conscious sinner prayed; the covetous sat down before the cross and played their sordid game. The cross is the judgment of this world (John xii. 31).

42 And he [a]said unto Jesus, Lord, remember me when thou comest into thy [b]kingdom.

43 And Jesus said unto him, [c]Verily I say unto thee, To day shalt thou be with me in paradise.

44 And it was about the sixth hour, and there was a darkness over all the earth until the ninth hour.

45 And the sun was darkened, and the [d]veil of the temple was rent in the midst.

Jesus dismisses his spirit (Mt. 27. 50; Mk. 15. 37; John 19. 30).

46 And when Jesus had cried with a loud voice, [e]he said, Father, [f]into thy hands I commend my spirit: and having said thus, he [1]gave up the ghost.

47 Now when the [g]centurion saw what was done, he glorified God, saying, Certainly this was a [h]righteous man.

48 And all the people that came together to that sight, beholding the things which were done, [i]smote their breasts, and returned.

49 And all his acquaintance, and the women that followed him from Galilee, stood afar off, beholding these things.

The entombment (Mt. 27. 57-61; Mk. 15. 42-47; John 19. 38-42).

50 And, behold, there was a man named Joseph, a counsellor; and he was a good man, and a just:

51 (The same had not consented to the counsel and deed of them;) he was of Arimathæa, a city of the Jews: [j]who also himself waited for the kingdom of God.

52 This man went unto Pilate, and begged the body of Jesus.

53 And he took it down, and wrapped it in linen, and [k]laid it in a sepulchre that was hewn in stone, [l]wherein never man before was laid.

54 And that day was the [m]preparation, and the sabbath drew on.

55 And the [n]women also, which came with him from Galilee, followed after, and beheld the sepulchre, and how his body was laid.

56 And they returned, and [o]prepared spices and ointments; and rested the sabbath day [p]according to the commandment.

CHAPTER 24.

The resurrection of Jesus Christ (Mt. 28. 1-6; Mk. 16. 1-8; John 20. 1-17).

NOW [2]upon the first day of the week, very early in the morning, they came unto the sepulchre, [q]bringing the spices which they had prepared, and certain others with them.

2 And they found the [r]stone rolled away from the sepulchre.

3 And they entered in, and [s]found not the body of the Lord Jesus.

4 And it came to pass, as they were much perplexed thereabout, behold, [t]two men stood by them in shining garments:

5 And as they were afraid, and bowed down their faces to the earth, they said unto them, Why seek ye the [u]living among the dead?

6 He is not here, but is risen: remember [v]how he spake unto you when he was yet in Galilee,

7 Saying, The [w]Son of man must be delivered into the hands of [x]sinful men, and be crucified, and the third day [y]rise again.

8 And they [z]remembered his words,

9 And returned from the sepulchre, and told all these things unto the eleven, and to all the rest.

10 It was Mary Magdalene, and [a]Joanna, and Mary the mother of James, and other women that were with them, which told these things unto the apostles.

11 And [b]their words seemed to them as idle tales, and they believed them not.

12 Then arose [c]Peter, and ran unto the sepulchre; and stooping down, he beheld the linen clothes laid by themselves, and departed, wondering in himself at that which was come to pass.

Ministry of the risen Christ: (1) to the Emmaus disciples.

13 [3]And, behold, [d]two of them went that same day to a village called Emmaus, which was from Jerusalem about threescore [e]furlongs.

14 And they talked together of all these things which had happened.

15 And it came to pass, that, while they communed together and reasoned, Jesus himself drew near, and went with them.

16 But their [a]eyes were holden that they should not know him.

17 And he said unto them, What manner of communications are these that ye have one to another, as ye walk, and are sad?

18 And the one of them, whose name was [b]Cleopas, answering said unto him, Art thou only a stranger in Jerusalem, and hast not known the things which are come to pass there in these days?

19 And he said unto them, What things? And they said unto him, Concerning Jesus of Nazareth, which was a [c]prophet mighty in deed and word before God and all the people:

20 [d]And how the chief priests and our rulers delivered him to be condemned to death, and have crucified him.

21 But we [e]trusted that it had been he which should have [f]redeemed Israel: and beside all this, to day is the third day since these things were done.

22 Yea, and [g]certain women also of our company made us astonished, which were early at the sepulchre;

23 And when they found not his body, they came, saying, that they had also seen a vision of [h]angels, which said that he was alive.

24 And [i]certain of them which were with us went to the sepulchre, and found it even so as the women had said: but him they saw not.

25 Then he said unto them, O fools, and slow of heart to believe [j]all that the [k]prophets have spoken:

26 [l]Ought not Christ to have suffered these things, and to [m]enter into his glory?

27 And [n]beginning at Moses and all the prophets, he expounded unto them in all the scriptures the things concerning [o]himself.

28 And they drew nigh unto the village, whither they went: and he made as though he would have gone further.

29 But they [p]constrained him, saying, Abide with us: for it is toward evening, and the day is far spent. And he went in to tarry with them.

30 And it came to pass, as he sat at meat with them, he [q]took bread, and blessed it, and brake, and gave to them.

31 And their [r]eyes were opened, and they knew him; and he vanished out of their sight.

32 And they said one to another, Did not our [s]heart burn within us, while he talked with us by the way, and while he opened to us the scriptures?

33 And they rose up the same hour, and returned to Jerusalem, and found the [t]eleven gathered together, and them that were with them, 34 Saying, The Lord is risen indeed, and [u]hath appeared to Simon.

35 And they told what things were done in the way, and how he was known of them in breaking of bread.

(2) To the eleven. (Cf. Mt. 28. 16, 17; Mk. 16. 14; John 20. 19-23.)

36 And as they thus spake, Jesus himself [v]stood in the midst of them, and saith unto them, Peace be unto you.

37 But they were terrified and affrighted, and supposed that they had seen [w]a spirit.

38 And he said unto them, Why are ye troubled? and why do thoughts arise in your hearts?

39 Behold my [x]hands and my feet, that it is I myself: [y]handle me, and see; for a [z]spirit hath not flesh and bones, as ye see me have.

40 And when he had thus spoken, he shewed them his hands and his feet.

41 And while they yet [a]believed not for joy, and wondered, he said unto them, Have ye here [b]any meat?

42 And they gave him a piece of a broiled fish, and of an honeycomb.

43 And he took it, and did eat before them.

44 And he said unto them, These are the words which I spake unto you, while I was yet with you, that all things must be fulfilled, which were written in the law of Moses, and in the prophets, and in the [c]psalms, concerning me.

45 Then opened he their understanding, that they might understand the [d]scriptures,

The commission to evangelize (Mt. 28. 18-20; Mk. 16. 15-18; Acts 1. 8).

46 And said unto them, Thus it is written, and thus it behoved Christ to suffer, and to rise from the dead the third day:

[1]The attitude of our Lord here characterizes this age. It is one of grace; an ascended Lord is blessing a believing people with spiritual blessings. The Jewish age was marked by temporal blessings as the reward of an obedient people (Deut. xxviii. 1–15). In the kingdom-age spiritual and temporal blessings unite.

[2]The Scriptures distinguish three heavens: first, the lower heavens, or the region of the clouds; secondly, the second or planetary heavens; and, thirdly, the heaven of heavens, the abode of God.

WRITER. The fourth Gospel was written by the Apostle John (John xxi. 24). This has been questioned on critical grounds, but on the same grounds and with equal scholarship, the early date and Johanean authorship have been maintained.

Date. The date of John's Gospel falls between A.D. 85 and 90. Probably the latter.

Theme. This is indicated both in the Prologue (i. 1-14), and in the last verse of the Gospel proper (xx. 31), and is: The incarnation of the eternal Word, and Son of God, Himself God, in Jesus the Christ, (1) to reveal God in the terms of a human life; (2) that as many as believe on Him as "the Christ, the Son of God" (xx. 31) may have eternal life. The prominent words are, "believed" and "life."

The book is in seven natural divisions: I. Prologue: The eternal Word incarnate in Jesus the Christ, i. 1-14. II. The witness of John the Baptist, i. 15-34. III. The public ministry of Christ, i. 35-xii. 50. IV. The private ministry of Christ to His own, xiii. 1-xvii. 26. V. The sacrifice of Christ, xviii. 1-xix. 42. VI. The manifestation of Christ in resurrection, xx. 1-31. VII. Epilogue: Christ the Master of life and service, xxi. 1-25.

CHAPTER 1.

The deity of Jesus Christ. (Cf. Heb. 1. 5-13.)

IN the beginning was the [1a]Word, and the Word was with [b]God, and the Word was [c]God.

2 The same was in the beginning with God.

His pre-incarnation work. (Cf. Heb. 1. 2.)

3 [d]All things were made by him; and without him was not any thing made that was made.

4 In him was [e]life; and the life was the light of men.

5 And the light shineth in darkness; and the darkness [f]comprehended it not.

Ministry of John Baptist. (See vs. 29-34. Cf. Mt. 3. 1-17; Mk. 1. 1-11; Lk. 3. 1-23.)

6 There was a [g]man sent from God, whose name was John.

7 The same came for a [h]witness, to bear witness of the Light, that all men through him might believe.

8 [i]He was not that Light, but was sent to bear witness of that Light.

Jesus Christ the true Light. (Cf. John 8. 12; 9. 5; 12. 46.)

9 That was the true [j]Light, which lighteth every man that cometh into the [k]world.

10 He was in the [k]world, and the world was made by him, and the world knew him not.

The two classes: sons and unbelievers. (Cf. 1 John 3. 1, 2; 5. 11, 12.)

11 [l]He came unto his own, and his own received him not.

12 But as many as received him, to them gave he [m]power to become the sons of God, even to them that [n]believe on his name:

13 Which were born, not of blood, nor of the will of the [o]flesh, nor of the will of man, but of God.

The incarnation. (Cf. Mt. 1. 18-23; Lk. 1. 30-35; Rom. 1. 3, 4.)

14 And the [p]Word was made flesh, and dwelt among us, (and we beheld his glory, the glory as of the only begotten of the Father,) full of grace and truth.

[1]Gr. Logos (Aram. Memra, used in the Targums, or Heb. paraphrases, for God). The Greek term means, (1) a thought or concept; (2) the expression or utterance of that thought. As a designation of Christ, therefore, Logos is peculiarly felicitous because, (1) in Him are embodied all the treasures of the divine wisdom, the collective "thought" of God (1 Cor. i. 24; Eph. iii. 11; Col. ii. 2, 3); and, (2) He is, from eternity, but especially in His incarnation, the utterance or expression of the Person, and "thought" of Deity (John i. 3-5, 9, 14-18; xiv. 9-11; Col. ii. 9). In the Being, Person, and work of Christ Deity is told out.

The witness of John Baptist. (Cf. Mt. 3. 1-17; Mk. 1. 1-11; Lk. 3. 1-18.)

15 John bare [a]witness of him, and cried, saying, This was he of whom I spake, He that cometh after me is preferred before me: for he was before me.

16 And of his fulness have all we received, and [1]grace for grace.

17 For the [b]law was given by Moses, but [c]grace and truth came by Jesus Christ.

18 No man hath [2]seen God at any time; the only begotten Son, which is in the bosom of the Father, he hath [d]declared him.

19 And [e]this is the record of John, when the Jews sent priests and Levites from Jerusalem to ask him, Who art thou?

20 And he confessed, and denied not; but confessed, I am not the Christ.

21 And they asked him, What then? Art thou Elias? And he saith, I am not. Art thou that [f]prophet? And he answered, No.

22 Then said they unto him, Who art thou? that we may give an answer to them that sent us. What sayest thou of thyself?

23 [g]He said, I am the voice of one crying in the wilderness, Make straight the way of the [h]Lord, as said the [i]prophet Esaias.

24 And they which were sent were of the Pharisees.

25 And they asked him, and said unto him, Why baptizest thou then, if thou be not that Christ, nor Elias, neither that prophet?

26 John answered them, saying, I baptize with water: but there standeth one among you, whom ye know not;

27 He it is, who coming after me is preferred before me, whose shoe's latchet I am not worthy to unloose.

28 These things were done in [j]Bethabara beyond Jordan, where John was baptizing.

29 The next day John seeth Jesus coming unto him, and saith, Behold the [k]Lamb of God, which taketh away the [l]sin of the world.

30 This is he of whom I said, After me cometh a man which is preferred before me: for he was before me.

31 And I knew him not: but that he should be made manifest to Israel, therefore am I come baptizing with water.

32 And John bare record, saying, I saw the [m]Spirit descending from heaven like a dove, and it abode upon him.

33 And I knew him not: but he that sent me to baptize with water, the same said unto me, Upon whom thou shalt see the Spirit descending, and remaining on him, the same is he which baptizeth with the Holy Ghost.

34 And I saw, and bare record that this is the Son of God.

[1]Grace. Summary: (1) Grace is "the kindness and love of God our Saviour toward man . . . not by works of righteousness which we have done" (Tit. iii. 4-5). It is, therefore, constantly set in contrast to law, under which God demands righteousness from man, as, under grace, he gives righteousness to man (Rom. iii. 21, 22; viii. 4; Phil. iii. 9). Law is connected with Moses and works; grace with Christ and faith (John i. 17; Rom. x. 4-10). Law blesses the good; grace saves the bad (Ex. xix. 5; Eph. ii. 1-9). Law demands that blessings be earned; grace is a free gift (Deut. xxviii. 1-6; Eph. ii. 8; Rom. iv. 4, 5).

(2) As a dispensation, grace begins with the death and resurrection of Christ (Rom. iii. 24-26; iv. 24, 25). The point of testing is no longer legal obedience as the condition of salvation, but acceptance or rejection of Christ, with good works as a fruit of salvation (John i. 12, 13; iii. 36; Mt. xxi. 37; xxii. 42; John xv. 22, 25; Heb. i. 2; 1 John v. 10-12). The immediate result of this testing was the rejection of Christ by the Jews, and His crucifixion by Jew and Gentile (Acts iv. 27). The predicted end of the testing of man under grace is the apostasy of the professing church (see "Apostasy," 2 Tim. iii. 1-8, note), and the resultant apocalyptic judgments.

(3) Grace has a twofold manifestation: in salvation (Rom. iii. 24, refs.), and in the walk and service of the saved (Rom. vi. 15, refs.). See, for the other six dispensations: Innocence, Gen. i. 28; Conscience, Gen. iii. 23; Human Government, Gen. viii. 21; Promise, Gen. xii. 1; Law, Ex. xix. 8; Kingdom, Eph. i. 10.

[2]Cf. Gen. xxxii. 30; Ex. xxiv. 10; xxxiii. 18; Jud. vi. 22; xiii. 22; Rev. xxii. 4. The divine essence, God, in His own triune Person, no human being in the flesh has seen. But God, veiled in angelic form, and especially as incarnate in Jesus Christ, has been seen of men (Gen. xviii. 2, 22; John xiv. 8, 9).

The public ministry of Jesus Christ (John 1. 35–12. 50).

35 Again the next day after John stood, and two of his disciples;

36 And looking upon Jesus as he walked, he saith, Behold the Lamb of God!

37 And the two disciples heard him speak, and [a]they followed Jesus.

38 Then Jesus turned, and saw them following, and saith unto them, What seek ye? They said unto him, Rabbi, (which is to say, being interpreted, Master,) where dwellest thou?

39 He saith unto them, [b]Come and see. They came and saw where he dwelt, and abode with him that day: for it was about [c]the tenth hour.

40 One of the two which heard John speak, and followed him, was Andrew, Simon Peter's brother.

41 He first findeth his own brother Simon, and saith unto him, We have found the Messias, which is, being interpreted, [d]the Christ.

42 And he brought him to Jesus. And when Jesus beheld him, he said, Thou art Simon the son of Jona: thou shalt be called Cephas, which is by interpretation, A stone.

43 The day following Jesus would go forth into Galilee, and findeth Philip, and saith unto him, Follow me.

44 Now Philip was of Bethsaida, the city of Andrew and Peter.

45 Philip findeth Nathanael, and saith unto him, We have found him, of whom [e]Moses in the law, and the prophets, did write, [f]Jesus of Nazareth, the son of Joseph.

46 And Nathanael said unto him, Can there any good thing come out of Nazareth? Philip saith unto him, Come and see.

47 Jesus saw Nathanael coming to him, and saith of him, [g]Behold an Israelite indeed, in whom is no guile!

48 Nathanael saith unto him, Whence knowest thou me? Jesus answered and said unto him, Before that Philip called thee, when thou wast under the fig tree, I [h]saw thee.

49 Nathanael answered and saith unto him, Rabbi, [i]thou art the Son of God; thou art the [j]King of Israel.

50 Jesus answered and said unto him, Because I said unto thee, I saw thee under the fig tree, believest thou? thou shalt see greater things than these.

51 And he saith unto him, Verily, verily, I say unto you, Hereafter ye shall see heaven open, and the [k]angels of God ascending and descending upon the Son of man.

CHAPTER 2.

The marriage at Cana: the first miracle.

AND the third day there was a marriage in Cana of Galilee; and the mother of Jesus was there:

2 And both Jesus was called, and his disciples, to the [l]marriage.

3 And when they wanted wine, the mother of Jesus saith unto him, They have no wine.

4 Jesus saith unto her, [m]Woman, what [n]have I to do with thee? mine [o]hour is not yet come.

5 His mother saith unto the servants, Whatsoever he saith unto you, do it.

6 And there were set there six waterpots of stone, after the manner of the [p]purifying of the Jews, containing two or three [q]firkins apiece.

7 Jesus saith unto them, Fill the waterpots with water. And they filled them up to the brim.

8 And he saith unto them, Draw out now, and bear unto the governor of the feast. And they bare it.

9 When the ruler of the feast had tasted the water that was [r]made wine, and knew not whence it was: (but the servants which drew the water knew;) the governor of the feast called the bridegroom,

10 And saith unto him, Every man at the beginning doth set forth good wine; and when men have well drunk, then that which is worse: but thou hast kept the good wine until now.

11 This beginning of miracles did Jesus in Cana of Galilee, and manifested forth his glory; and his disciples believed on him.

12 After this he went down to Capernaum, he, and his mother, and his brethren, and his disciples: and they continued there not many days.

The first passover (vs. 13, 23; cf. John 6. 4; 11. 55): first purification of the temple. (Cf. Mt. 21. 12, 13; Mk. 11. 15–17; Lk. 19. 45, 46.)

13 And the Jews' [s]passover was at hand, and [a]Jesus went up to Jerusalem,

14 And [b]found in the [c]temple those that sold [d]oxen and sheep and doves, and the changers of [e]money sitting:

15 And when he had made a scourge of small cords, he drove them all out of the temple, and the sheep, and the oxen; and poured out the changers' money, and overthrew the tables;

16 And said unto them that sold doves, Take these things hence; make not my Father's house an house of merchandise.

17 And his disciples remembered that it was written, The [f]zeal of thine house hath eaten me up.

18 Then answered the Jews and said unto him, What [g]sign shewest thou unto us, seeing that thou doest these things?

19 Jesus answered and said unto them, [h]Destroy this temple, and in three days I will raise it up.

20 Then said the Jews, Forty and six years was this temple in building, and wilt thou rear it up in three days?

21 But he spake of the [i]temple of his body.

22 When therefore he was [j]risen from the dead, his disciples remembered that he had said this unto them; and they believed the scripture, and the word which Jesus had said.

23 Now when he was in Jerusalem at the passover, in the feast day, many believed in his name, when they saw the miracles which he did.

24 But Jesus did not commit himself unto them, because he [k]knew all men,

25 And needed not that any should testify of man: for he knew what was in man.

CHAPTER 3.

Jesus and Nicodemus: the new birth. (Cf. v. 3, note.)

THERE was a man of the Pharisees, named [l]Nicodemus, a ruler of the Jews:

2 The same came to Jesus by night, and said unto him, Rabbi, we know that thou art a teacher come from God: for no man can do these miracles that thou doest, except [m]God be with him.

3 Jesus answered and said unto him, Verily, verily, I say unto thee, [n]Except a man be [1]born [o]again, he cannot see the kingdom of God.

4 Nicodemus saith unto him, How can a man be born when he is old? can he enter the second time into his mother's womb, and be born?

5 Jesus answered, Verily, verily, I say unto thee, Except a man be born of [p]water and of the Spirit, he cannot enter into the kingdom of God.

6 That which is born of the flesh is [q]flesh; and that which is born of the Spirit is spirit.

7 Marvel not that I said unto thee, Ye must be born again.

8 The wind bloweth where it listeth, and thou hearest the sound thereof, but canst not tell whence it cometh, and whither it goeth: [r]so is every one that is born of the Spirit.

9 Nicodemus answered and said unto him, How can these things be?

10 Jesus answered and said unto him, Art thou [s]a master of Israel, and knowest not these things?

11 Verily, verily, I say unto thee, We speak that we do know, and testify that we have seen; and ye receive not our witness.

12 If I have told you [t]earthly things, and ye believe not, how shall ye believe, if I tell you of [u]heavenly things?

13 And no man hath ascended up to heaven, but he that came down from heaven, even the [v]Son of man which is in heaven.

14 And [w]as Moses lifted up the serpent in the wilderness, even so must the Son of man be lifted up:

15 That whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have eternal life.

16 For God so loved the [x]world, that he gave his only begotten [y]Son, that whosoever believeth in

[1] Regeneration: (1) The necessity of the new birth grows out of the incapacity of the natural man to "see" or "enter into" the kingdom of God. However gifted, moral, or refined, the natural man is absolutely blind to spiritual truth, and impotent to enter the kingdom; for he can neither obey, understand, nor please God (John iii. 3, 5, 6; Psa. li. 5; Jer. xvii. 9; Mk. vii. 21-23; 1 Cor. ii. 14; Rom. viii 7, 8; Eph. ii. 3. See Mt. vi. 33, note). (2) The new birth is not a reformation of him should not [1]perish, but have everlasting life.

17 For God sent not his Son into the [a]world to [b]condemn the world; but that the world through him might be [c]saved.

18 [d]He that believeth on him is not condemned: but he that believeth not is condemned already, because he hath not believed in the name of the only begotten Son of God.

19 And this is the condemnation, that light is come into the [a]world, and men loved darkness rather than light, because their deeds were evil.

20 For every one that doeth evil hateth the light, neither cometh to the light, lest his deeds should be [e]reproved.

21 But he that [f]doeth truth cometh to the light, that his deeds may be made manifest, that they are [g]wrought in God.

Last testimony of John Baptist.

22 After these things came Jesus and his disciples into the land of Judæa; and there he tarried with them, and [h]baptized.

23 And John also was baptizing in Ænon near to Salim, because there was much water there: and they [i]came, and were baptized.

24 For John [j]was not yet cast into prison.

25 Then there arose a question between some of John's disciples and the Jews about [k]purifying.

26 And they came unto John, and said unto him, Rabbi, he that was with thee beyond Jordan, to whom thou barest witness, behold, the same baptizeth, and all men come to him.

27 John answered and said, A [l]man can receive nothing, except it be given him from heaven.

28 Ye yourselves bear me witness, that I said, I am not the Christ, but that [m]I am sent before him.

29 He that hath the bride is the [n]bridegroom: but the friend of the bridegroom, which standeth and heareth him, rejoiceth greatly because of the bridegroom's voice: this my joy therefore is fulfilled.

30 [o]He must increase, but I must decrease.

Declarative statement concerning Jesus Christ.

31 He that cometh from above is above all: he that is of the earth is earthly, and speaketh of the earth: he that cometh from heaven is above all.

32 And what [p]he hath seen and heard, that he testifieth; and no man receiveth his testimony.

33 He that hath received his testimony hath [q]set to his seal that God is true.

34 For [r]he whom God hath sent speaketh the words of God: for God giveth not the [s]Spirit by measure unto him.

35 The Father loveth the Son, and hath given all things into his hand.

36 He that [t]believeth on the Son [u]hath everlasting life: and he that believeth not the Son shall not see life; but the [v]wrath of God abideth on him.

CHAPTER 4.

Jesus departs into Galilee.

WHEN therefore the Lord knew how the Pharisees had heard that Jesus made and baptized more disciples than John,

2 (Though Jesus himself baptized not, but his disciples,)

3 He left Judæa, and departed again into Galilee.

4 And he must needs go through Samaria.

5 Then cometh he to a city of Samaria, which is called Sychar, near to the parcel of ground that Jacob [w]gave to his son Joseph.

the old nature (Rom. vi. 6, note), but a creative act of the Holy Spirit (John iii. 5; i. 12, 13; 2 Cor. v. 17; Eph. ii. 10; iv. 24). (3) The condition of the new birth is faith in Christ crucified (John iii. 14, 15; i. 12, 13; Gal. iii. 24). (4) Through the new birth the believer becomes a partaker of the divine nature and of the life of Christ Himself (Gal. ii. 20; Eph. ii. 10; iv. 24; Col. i. 27; 1 Pet. i. 23-25; 2 Pet. i. 4; 1 John v. 10-12).

[1]Gr. apollumi, trans. "marred," Mk. ii. 22; "lost," Mt. x. 6; xv. 24; xviii. 11; Lk. xv. 4, 6, 32. In no N.T. instance does it signify cessation of existence or of consciousness. It is the condition of every non-believer.

7 There cometh a woman of Samaria to draw water: Jesus saith unto her, Give me to drink.
8 (For his disciples were gone away unto the city to buy meat.)
9 Then saith the woman of Samaria unto him, How is it that thou, being a Jew, askest drink of me, which am a woman of Samaria? for the Jews have no [a]dealings with the Samaritans.
10 Jesus answered and said unto her, If thou knewest the gift of God, and who it is that saith to thee, Give me to drink; thou wouldest have asked of him, and he would have given thee living water.
11 The woman saith unto him, Sir, thou hast nothing to draw with, and the well is deep: from whence then hast thou that living water?
12 Art thou greater than our father Jacob, which gave us the well, and drank thereof himself, and his children, and his cattle?
13 Jesus answered and said unto her, Whosoever drinketh of this [b]water shall thirst again:

The indwelling Spirit.
(Cf. John 7. 37-39.)

14 But whosoever drinketh of the water that I shall give him shall never thirst; but the water that I shall give him shall [c]be in him a well of water springing up into [d]everlasting life.
15 The woman [e]saith unto him, Sir, give me this water, that I thirst not, neither come hither to draw.
16 Jesus saith unto her, Go, call thy husband, and come hither.
17 The woman answered and said, I have no husband. Jesus said unto her, Thou hast well said, I have no husband:
18 For thou hast had five husbands; and he whom thou now hast is not thy husband: in that saidst thou truly.
19 The woman saith unto him, Sir, I perceive that thou art a prophet.
20 Our fathers worshipped in this [f]mountain; and ye say, that in [g]Jerusalem is the place where men ought to worship.
21 Jesus saith unto her, Woman, believe me, the hour cometh, when ye shall neither in this mountain, nor yet at Jerusalem, worship the Father.
22 Ye worship ye know not what: we know what we worship: for [h]salvation is of the Jews.

24 [k]God is a [l]Spirit: and they that worship him must worship him in spirit and in truth.
25 The woman saith unto him, I know that Messias cometh, which is called Christ: when he is come, he will [m]tell us all things.
26 Jesus saith unto her, I that speak unto thee am he.
27 And upon this came his disciples, and marvelled [n]that he talked with the woman: yet no man said, What seekest thou? or, Why talkest thou with her?
28 The woman then left her waterpot, and went her way into the city, and saith to the men,
29 Come, see a man, which told me all things that ever I did: is not this the Christ?
30 Then they went out of the city, and came unto him.
31 In the mean while his disciples prayed him, saying, Master, eat.
32 But he said unto them, I have meat to eat that ye know not of.
33 Therefore said the disciples one to another, Hath any man brought him ought to eat?
34 Jesus saith unto them, My meat is to do the [o]will of him that sent me, and to [p]finish his work.
35 Say not ye, There are yet four months, and then cometh harvest? behold, I say unto you, Lift up your eyes, and look on the fields; for they are white already to harvest.
36 And he that reapeth receiveth wages, and gathereth [q]fruit unto life eternal: that [r]both he that soweth and he that reapeth may rejoice together.
37 And herein is that saying true, One [s]soweth, and another reapeth.
38 I sent you to reap that whereon ye bestowed no labour: [t]other men laboured, and ye are entered into their labours.
39 And many of the Samaritans of that city believed on him for the saying of the woman, which testified, He told me all that ever I did.

Jesus and the Samaritans.

40 So when the Samaritans were come unto him, they besought him that he would tarry with them: and he abode there two days.
41 And many more believed because of his own word;

42 And said unto the woman, Now we believe, not because of thy saying: for we have heard him ourselves, and know that this is indeed the Christ, the [a]Saviour of the [b]world.

43 Now after two days he departed thence, and went into Galilee.

44 For Jesus himself testified, [c]that a prophet hath no honour in his own country.

45 Then when he was come into Galilee, the Galilæans received him, having [d]seen all the things that he did at Jerusalem at the feast: [e]for they also went unto the feast.

The nobleman's son healed.

46 So Jesus came again into Cana of Galilee, where he [f]made the water wine. And there was a certain [g]nobleman, whose son was sick at Capernaum.

47 When he heard that Jesus was come out of Judæa into Galilee, he went unto him, and besought him that he would come down, and heal his son: for he was at the point of death.

48 Then said Jesus unto him, Except ye see signs and wonders, ye will not believe.

49 The nobleman [h]saith unto him, Sir, come down ere my child die.

50 Jesus saith unto him, [i]Go thy way; thy son liveth. And the man believed the word that Jesus had spoken unto him, and he went his way.

51 And as he was now going down, his servants met him, and told him, saying, Thy son liveth.

52 Then enquired he of them the hour when he began to amend. And they said unto him, Yesterday at the seventh hour the [j]fever left him.

53 So the father knew that it was at the same hour, in the which Jesus said unto him, Thy son liveth: and himself believed, and his whole house.

54 This is again the second miracle that Jesus did, when he was come out of Judæa into Galilee.

CHAPTER 5.

The feast (Pentecost?): the pool of Bethesda, and healing.

AFTER this there was a [k]feast of the Jews; and Jesus went up to Jerusalem.

2 Now there is at Jerusalem by the [l]market a pool, which is called in the Hebrew tongue Bethesda, having five porches.

3 In these lay a great multitude of impotent folk, of blind, halt, withered, [m]waiting for the moving of the water.

4 For an [n]angel went down at a certain season into the pool, and troubled the water: whosoever then first after the troubling of the water stepped in was made whole of whatsoever disease he had.

5 And a certain man was there, which had an infirmity thirty and eight years.

6 When Jesus saw him lie, [o]and knew that he had been now a long time in that case, he saith unto him, [p]Wilt thou be made whole?

7 The impotent man answered him, Sir, I have no man, when the water is troubled, to put me into the pool: but while I am coming, another steppeth down before me.

8 Jesus saith unto him, Rise, take up thy bed, and walk.

9 And immediately the man was made [q]whole, and took up his bed, and walked: and on the same day was the sabbath.

10 The Jews therefore said unto him that was cured, It is the [r]sabbath day: it is not lawful for thee to carry thy bed.

11 He answered them, He that made me whole, the same said unto me, Take up thy bed, and walk.

12 Then asked they him, What man is that which said unto thee, Take up thy bed, and walk?

13 And he that was healed wist not who it was: for Jesus had [s]conveyed himself away, a multitude being in that place.

14 Afterward Jesus findeth him in the temple, and said unto him, Behold, thou art made whole: [t]sin no more, lest a worse thing come unto thee.

15 The man departed, and told the Jews that it was Jesus, which had made him whole.

16 And therefore did the Jews persecute Jesus, and sought to [u]slay him, because he had done these things on the sabbath day.

17 But Jesus answered them, My Father worketh hitherto, and I work.

18 Therefore the Jews sought the more to [u]kill him, because he not only had broken the sabbath, but said also that God was [v]his Father, [w]making himself equal with God.

19 Then answered Jesus and said unto them, Verily, verily, I say unto you, The Son can do nothing of himself, but what he seeth the Father [a]do: for what things soever he doeth, these also doeth the Son likewise.

20 [b]For the Father loveth the Son, and sheweth him all things that himself doeth: and he will shew him greater works than these, that ye may marvel.

21 For [c]as the Father raiseth up the dead, and quickeneth them; [d]even so the Son quickeneth whom he will.

22 For the Father judgeth no man, but hath committed all [e]judgment unto the Son:

23 That all men should honour the Son, even as they honour the Father. He that honoureth not the Son honoureth not the Father which hath sent him.

24 Verily, verily, I say unto you, He that heareth my word, and believeth on him that sent me, [f]hath everlasting life, and shall not come into [g]condemnation; but is passed from [h]death unto life.

25 Verily, verily, I say unto you, The hour is coming, and now is, when the [i]dead shall hear the voice of the Son of God: and they that hear shall live.

42 But I know you, that ye have not the love of God in you.

43 I am come in my Father's name, and ye receive me not: if [t]another shall come in his own name, him ye will receive.

44 How can ye believe, which receive honour one of another, and seek not the honour that cometh from God only?

45 Do not think that I will accuse you to the Father: there is one that accuseth you, even Moses, in whom ye [u]trust.

46 For had ye believed Moses, ye would have believed me: [v]for he wrote [w]of me.

[1] Cf. John viii. 14. In John v. 31 our Lord, defending His Messianic claims before Jews who denied those claims, accepts the biblical rule of evidence, which required "two witnesses" (John viii. 17; Num. xxxv. 30; Deut. xvii. 6). A paraphrase of verse 31 would be: "If I bear witness of myself [ye will say] my witness is not true."

47 But if ye believe not his writings, how shall ye believe my words?

CHAPTER 6.

Feeding the five thousand (Mt. 14. 13-21; Mk. 6. 32-44; Lk. 9. 10-17).

AFTER these things Jesus went over the sea of Galilee, which is the sea of Tiberias.

2 And a great multitude followed him, because they saw his miracles which he did on them that were diseased.

3 And Jesus went up into a mountain, and there he sat with his disciples.

4 And the [a]passover, a feast of the Jews, was nigh.

5 When Jesus then lifted up his eyes, and saw a great company come unto him, he saith unto Philip, Whence shall we buy bread, that these may eat?

6 And this he said to prove him: for he himself knew what he would do.

7 Philip answered him, [b]Two hundred pennyworth of bread is not sufficient for them, that every one of them may take a little.

8 One of his disciples, Andrew, Simon Peter's brother, saith unto him,

9 There is a lad here, which hath five barley loaves, and two small fishes: but what are they among so many?

10 And Jesus said, Make the men sit down. Now there was much grass in the place. So the men sat down, in number about five thousand.

11 And Jesus took the loaves; and when he had [c]given thanks, he distributed to the disciples, and the disciples to them that were set down; and likewise of the fishes as much as they would.

12 When they were filled, he said unto his disciples, Gather up the fragments that remain, that nothing be lost.

13 Therefore they gathered them together, and filled twelve baskets with the fragments of the five barley loaves, which remained over and above unto them that had eaten.

14 Then those men, when they had seen the [d]miracle that Jesus did, said, This is of a truth [e]that prophet that should come into the [f]world.

Jesus walks upon the sea (Mt. 14. 22-36; Mk. 6. 45-56).

15 When Jesus therefore perceived that they would come and take him by force, to make him a [g]king, he departed again into a mountain himself alone.

16 [h]And when even was now come, his disciples went down unto the sea,

17 And entered into a ship, and went over the sea toward Capernaum. And it was now dark, and Jesus was not come to them.

18 And the sea arose by reason of a great wind that blew.

19 So when they had rowed about five and twenty or thirty [i]furlongs, they see Jesus walking on the sea, and drawing nigh unto the ship: and they were afraid.

20 But he saith unto them, [j]It is I; be not afraid.

21 Then they willingly received him into the ship: and immediately the ship was at the land whither they went.

The great discourse on the bread of life.

22 The day following, when the people which stood on the other side of the sea saw that there was none other boat there, save that one whereinto his disciples were entered, and that Jesus went not with his disciples into the boat, but that his disciples were gone away alone;

23 (Howbeit there came other boats from Tiberias nigh unto [k]the place where they did eat bread, after that the Lord had given thanks:)

24 When the people therefore saw that Jesus was not there, neither his disciples, they also took [l]shipping, and came to Capernaum, seeking for Jesus.

25 And when they had found him on the other side of the sea, they said unto him, Rabbi, when camest thou hither?

26 Jesus answered them and said, Verily, verily, I say unto you, Ye seek me, not because ye saw the miracles, but because ye did eat of the loaves, and were filled.

27 [m]Labour not for the meat which perisheth, but for [n]that meat which endureth unto everlasting life, which the [o]Son of man shall [p]give unto you: [q]for him hath God the Father sealed.

28 Then said they unto him, What shall we do, that we might work the works of God?

29 Jesus answered and said unto them, This is the work of God, that ye [a]believe on him whom he hath sent.

30 They said therefore unto him, What [b]sign shewest thou then, that we may see, and believe thee? what dost thou work?

31 Our fathers did eat manna in the desert; [c]as it is written, He gave them [d]bread from heaven to eat.

32 Then Jesus said unto them, Verily, verily, I say unto you, Moses gave you not that bread from heaven; but [e]my Father giveth you the true bread from heaven.

33 For the bread of God [f]is he which cometh down from heaven, and [g]giveth life unto the [h]world.

34 Then said they unto him, Lord, evermore give us this bread.

35 And Jesus said unto them, I am the bread of life: he that cometh to me shall never hunger; and [i]he that [a]believeth on me shall never thirst.

36 But I said unto you, That [j]ye also have seen me, and believe not.

37 [k]All that the Father giveth me shall come to me; and [l]him that cometh to me I will in no wise cast out.

38 For I came down from heaven, not to do mine own will, [m]but the will of him that sent me.

39 And this is the Father's will which hath sent me, that of all which he hath given me I should lose nothing, but should raise it up again at the last day.

40 And this is the will of him that sent me, [n]that every one which seeth the Son, and believeth on him, may have everlasting life: and I will [o]raise him up at the last day.

41 The Jews then murmured at him, because he said, I am the bread which came down from heaven.

42 And they said, [p]Is not this Jesus, the son of Joseph, whose father and mother we know? how is it then that he saith, I came down from heaven?

43 Jesus therefore answered and said unto them, Murmur not among yourselves.

44 No man can [q]come to me, except the Father which hath sent me [r]draw him: and I will raise him up at the last day.

45 It is written in the prophets, And they shall be all taught of [s]God. Every man therefore that hath heard, and hath learned of the Father, cometh unto me.

46 Not that any man hath seen the Father, save he which is of [t]God, he hath seen the Father.

47 Verily, verily, I say unto [u]you, He that believeth on me hath everlasting life.

48 I [v]am that bread of life.

49 Your fathers did eat manna in the wilderness, and are dead.

50 This is the bread which cometh down from heaven, that a man may eat thereof, and not die.

51 I am the living bread which came down from heaven: if any man eat of this bread, he shall live for ever: and the bread that I will give is my flesh, which I will give for the [w]life of the [x]world.

52 The Jews therefore strove among themselves, saying, How can this man give us his flesh to eat?

53 Then Jesus said unto them, Verily, verily, I say unto you, Except ye eat the flesh of the Son of man, and drink his blood, ye have no life in you.

54 [y]Whoso eateth my flesh, and drinketh my blood, hath eternal life; and I will raise him up at the last day.

55 For my flesh is meat indeed, and my blood is drink indeed.

56 He that eateth my flesh, and drinketh my blood, dwelleth in me, and I in him.

57 As the living Father hath sent me, and I live by the Father: so he that eateth me, even he shall live by me.

58 This is that bread which came down from heaven: not as your fathers did eat manna, and are dead: he that eateth of this bread shall live for ever.

59 These things said he in the synagogue, as he taught in Capernaum.

Discipleship tested by doctrine.
(Cf. Mt. 8. 19–22; 10. 36.)

60 Many therefore of his disciples, when they had heard this, said, This is an hard saying; who can hear it?

61 When Jesus knew in himself that his disciples murmured at it, he said unto them, Doth this offend you?

63 It is the [a]spirit that quickeneth; the [b]flesh profiteth nothing: the words that I speak unto you, they are spirit, and they are life.

64 But there are some of you that believe not. For Jesus knew from the beginning who they were that believed not, and who should betray him.

65 And he said, Therefore said I unto you, that no man can come unto me, except it were given unto him of my Father.

66 From that time many of his disciples went [c]back, and walked no more with him.

Peter's confession of faith. (Cf. Mt. 16. 13-20; Mk. 8. 27-30; Lk. 9. 18-21.)

67 Then said Jesus unto the twelve, Will ye also go away?

68 Then Simon Peter answered him, Lord, to whom shall we go? thou hast the words of [d]eternal life.

69 And [e]we believe and are sure that thou art that Christ, the Son of the living God.

70 Jesus answered them, Have not I chosen you twelve, and one of you is a [f]devil?

71 He spake of Judas Iscariot the son of Simon: for he it was that should betray him, being one of the twelve.

CHAPTER 7.

Jesus urged to go to the feast of tabernacles. (Cf. Lk. 9. 51-62.)

AFTER these things Jesus walked in Galilee: for he would not walk in Jewry, because the Jews sought to kill him.

2 Now the Jews' [g]feast of tabernacles was at hand.

3 His brethren therefore said unto him, Depart hence, and go into Judæa, that thy disciples also may see the works that thou doest.

4 For there is no man that doeth any thing in secret, and he himself seeketh to be known openly. If thou do these things, shew thyself to the [h]world.

5 For [i]neither did his brethren believe in him.

6 Then Jesus said unto them, [j]My time is not yet come: but your time is alway ready.

7 The [k]world cannot hate you; but me it hateth, because I testify of it, that the works thereof are evil.

8 Go ye up unto this feast: I go not up yet unto this feast; for my time is not yet full come.

9 When he had said these words unto them, he abode still in Galilee.

Final departure from Galilee.

10 But when his brethren were gone up, then went he also up unto the feast, not openly, but as it were in secret.

11 Then the Jews sought him at the feast, and said, Where is he?

12 And [l]there was much murmuring among the people concerning him: for some said, He is a good man: others said, Nay; but he deceiveth the people.

13 Howbeit no man spake openly of him for [m]fear of the Jews.

Jesus at the feast of tabernacles.

14 Now about the midst of the feast Jesus went up into the temple, and taught.

15 And the Jews marvelled, saying, How knoweth this man letters, having never learned?

16 Jesus answered them, and said, My doctrine is not mine, but [n]his that sent me.

17 If any man [o]will do his will, he shall know of the doctrine, whether it be of God, or whether I speak of myself.

18 He [p]that speaketh of himself seeketh his own glory: but he that seeketh his glory that sent him, the same is true, and no unrighteousness is in him.

19 Did not Moses give you the [q]law, and yet none of you keepeth the law? Why go ye about to kill me?

20 The people answered and said, Thou hast a [r]devil: who goeth about to kill thee?

21 Jesus answered and said unto them, I have done one work, and ye all marvel.

22 Moses therefore gave unto you circumcision; (not because it is of Moses, [s]but of the fathers;) and ye on the sabbath day circumcise a man.

23 If a man on the sabbath day receive circumcision, [t]that the law of Moses should not be broken; are ye angry at me, because I have made a man every whit whole on the sabbath day?

24 Judge not according to the appearance, but judge [u]righteous judgment.

25 Then said some of them of Jerusalem, Is not this he, whom they seek to kill?

26 But, lo, he speaketh boldly, and they say nothing unto him. [a]Do the rulers know indeed that this is the very Christ?

27 [b]Howbeit we know this man whence he is: but when Christ cometh, no man knoweth whence he is.

28 Then cried Jesus in the temple as he taught, saying, Ye both know me, and ye know whence I am: and [c]I am not come of myself, but he that sent me is true, whom ye know not.

29 But I know him: for I am from him, and he hath sent me.

30 Then they sought to take him: but no man laid hands on him, because his hour was not yet come.

31 And many of the people believed on him, and said, When Christ cometh, will he do more miracles than these which this man hath done?

32 The Pharisees heard that the people murmured such things concerning him; and the Pharisees and the chief priests sent officers to take him.

33 Then said Jesus unto them, Yet a little while am I with you, and then I go unto him that sent me.

34 Ye shall seek me, and shall not find me: and where I am, thither ye cannot come.

35 Then said the Jews among themselves, Whither will he go, that we shall not find him? will he go unto the [d]dispersed among the Gentiles, and teach the Gentiles?

36 What manner of saying is this that he said, Ye shall seek me, and shall not find me: and where I am, thither ye cannot come?

The great prophecy concerning the Holy Spirit for power (Acts 2. 2–4. Cf. John 4. 14).

37 In the [e]last day, that great day of the feast, Jesus stood and cried, saying, If any man [f]thirst, let him come unto me, and drink.

38 He that [g]believeth on me, as the scripture hath said, out of his belly shall flow rivers of living water.

39 (But this spake he of the [h]Spirit, which they that believe on him should receive: for the Holy Ghost was not yet given; because that Jesus was not yet [i]glorified.)

The people divided in opinion.

40 Many of the people therefore, when they heard this saying, said, Of a truth this is the [j]Prophet.

41 Others said, This is [k]the Christ. But some said, [l]Shall Christ come out of Galilee?

42 Hath not the scripture said, [m]That Christ cometh of the seed of David, and out of the town of [n]Bethlehem, where David was?

43 So there was a division among the people because of him.

44 And some of them would have taken him; but no man laid hands on him.

45 Then came the officers to the chief priests and Pharisees; and they said unto them, Why have ye not brought him?

46 The officers answered, [o]Never man spake like this man.

47 Then answered them the Pharisees, Are ye also deceived?

48 Have any of the rulers or of the Pharisees believed on him?

49 But this people who knoweth not the law are cursed.

50 Nicodemus saith unto them, ([p]he that came to Jesus by night, being one of them,)

51 Doth our law judge any man, before it hear him, and know what he doeth?

52 They answered and said unto him, Art thou also of Galilee? Search, and look: for out of Galilee ariseth no prophet.

53 And every man went unto his own house.

[1] John viii. 1–11 is not found in some of the most ancient manuscripts. Augustine declares that it was stricken from many copies of the sacred story because of a prudish fear that it might teach immorality! But the immediate context (vs. 12–46), beginning with Christ's declaration, "I am the light of the world," seems clearly to have its occasion in the conviction wrought in the hearts of the Pharisees as recorded in verse 9; as, also, it explains the peculiar virulence of the Pharisee's words (v. 41).

brought unto him a woman taken in adultery; and when they had set her in the midst,

4 They say unto him, Master, this woman was taken in adultery, in the very act.

5 Now [a]Moses in the law commanded us, that such should be stoned: but what sayest thou?

6 This they said, tempting him, that they [b]might have to accuse him. But Jesus stooped down, and with his finger wrote on the ground, as though he heard them not.

7 So when they continued asking him, he lifted up himself, and said unto them, He that is without [c]sin among you, [d]let him first cast a stone at her.

8 And again he stooped down, and wrote on the ground.

9 And they which heard it, being convicted by their own conscience, went out one by one, beginning at the eldest, even unto the last: and Jesus was left alone, and the woman standing in the midst.

10 When Jesus had lifted up himself, and saw none but the woman, he said unto her, Woman, where are those thine accusers? hath no man [e]condemned thee?

11 She said, No man, Lord. And Jesus said unto her, Neither do I condemn thee: go, and [f]sin no more.

Discourse after the feast: Jesus the light of the world. (Cf. John 1. 9.)

12 Then spake Jesus again unto them, saying, [g]I am the light of the [h]world: he that followeth me shall not walk in darkness, but shall have the light of [i]life.

13 The Pharisees therefore said unto him, Thou bearest record of thyself; thy record is not true.

14 Jesus answered and said unto them, [j]Though I bear record of myself, yet my record is true: for I know whence I came, and whither I go; but ye cannot tell whence I come, and whither I go.

15 Ye judge after the [k]flesh; I judge no man.

16 And yet if I judge, my judgment is true: for I am not alone, but I and the Father that sent me.

17 It is also [l]written in your law, that the testimony of two men is true.

18 I am one that bear witness of myself, and the Father that sent me beareth witness of me.

19 Then said they unto him, Where is thy Father? Jesus answered, [m]Ye neither know me, nor my Father: [n]if ye had known me, ye should have known my Father also.

20 These words spake Jesus in the treasury, as he taught in the temple: and no man laid hands on him; for his hour was not yet come.

21 Then said Jesus again unto them, I go my way, and ye shall seek me, and shall die in your [o]sins: whither I go, ye cannot come.

22 Then said the Jews, Will he kill himself? because he saith, Whither I go, ye cannot come.

23 And he said unto them, Ye are from beneath; I am from above: ye are of this world; I am not of this [o]world.

24 I said therefore unto you, that ye shall [p]die in your [o]sins: for if ye [q]believe not that I am he, ye shall die in your sins.

25 Then said they unto him, Who art thou? And Jesus saith unto them, Even the same that I said unto you from the beginning.

26 I have many things to say and to judge of you: but he that sent me is true; and I speak to the [r]world those things which I have heard of him.

27 They understood not that he spake to them of the Father.

28 Then said Jesus unto them, When ye have lifted up the [s]Son of man, then shall ye know that I am he, and that [t]I do nothing of myself; but as my Father hath taught me, I speak these things.

29 And he that sent me is with me: the Father hath not left me alone; for I do always those things that please him.

30 As he spake these words, many believed on him.

31 Then said Jesus to those Jews which believed on him, If ye continue in my word, then are ye my disciples indeed;

32 And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free.

33 They answered him, We be Abraham's seed, and were never in bondage to any man: how sayest thou, Ye shall be made free?

34 Jesus answered them, Verily, verily, I say unto you, Whosoever committeth [o]sin is the servant of sin.

35 And the servant abideth not in the house for ever: but the Son [u]abideth ever.

36 If the Son therefore shall make you free, ye shall be free indeed.

37 I know that ye are [1]Abraham's seed; but ye seek to kill me, because my word hath no place in you.

38 [a]I speak that which I have seen with my Father: and ye do that which ye have seen with your father.

39 They answered and said unto him, Abraham is our father. Jesus saith unto them, If ye were Abraham's children, ye would do the works of Abraham.

40 But now ye seek to kill me, a man that hath told you the truth, [b]which I have heard of God: this did not Abraham.

41 Ye do the deeds of your father. Then said they to him, We be not born of fornication; we have one Father, even God.

42 Jesus said unto them, If God were your Father, ye would love me: for I proceeded forth and came from God; neither came I of myself, but [c]he sent me.

43 [d]Why do ye not understand my speech? even because ye cannot hear my word.

44 Ye are of your father [e]the [f]devil, and the lusts of your father ye will do. He was a murderer from the beginning, and [g]abode not in the truth, because there is no truth in him. When he speaketh a lie, he speaketh of his own: for he is a [h]liar, and the father of it.

45 And because [i]I tell you the truth, ye believe me not.

46 Which of you convinceth me of [j]sin? And if I say the truth, why do ye not believe me?

47 He that is of God [k]heareth God's words: ye therefore hear them not, because ye are not of God.

48 Then answered the Jews, and said unto him, Say we not well that thou art a [l]Samaritan, and [m]hast a [n]devil?

49 Jesus answered, I have not a [n]devil; [o]but I honour my Father, and ye do dishonour me.

50 And I [p]seek not mine own glory: there is one that seeketh and judgeth.

CHAPTER 9.

The man born blind is healed.

AND as Jesus passed by, he saw a man which was blind from his birth.

2 And his disciples asked him, saying, Master, [c]who did [j]sin, this man, or his parents, that he was born blind?

3 Jesus answered, Neither hath this man [j]sinned, nor his parents: but [d]that the works of God should be made manifest in him.

4 [e]I must work the works of him that sent me, while it is [f]day: the night cometh, when no man can work.

5 As long as I am in the [g]world, I am [h]the light of the world.

6 When he had thus spoken, [i]he spat on the ground, and made clay of the spittle, and he anointed the eyes of the blind man with the clay,

[1] Cf. v. 39. The contrast, "I know that ye are Abraham's seed"—"If ye were Abraham's children," is that between the natural and the spiritual posterity of Abraham. The Israelitish people and Ishmaelites are the former; all who are "of like precious faith with Abraham," whether Jews or Gentiles, are the latter (Rom. ix. 6-8; Gal. iii. 6-14. See "Abrahamic Covenant," Gen. xv. 18, note).

7 And said unto him, Go, wash in the [a]pool of Siloam, (which is by interpretation, Sent.) [b]He went his way therefore, and washed, and [c]came seeing.

8 The neighbours therefore, and they which before had seen him that he was blind, said, Is not this he that sat and begged?

9 Some said, This is he: others said, He is like him: but he said, I am he.

10 Therefore said they unto him, [d]How were thine eyes opened?

11 He answered and said, A man that is called Jesus made clay, and anointed mine eyes, and said unto me, Go to the pool of Siloam, and wash: and I went and washed, and I received sight.

12 Then said they unto him, Where is he? He said, I know not.

13 They brought to the Pharisees him that aforetime was blind.

14 And it was the [e]sabbath day when Jesus made the clay, and opened his eyes.

15 Then again the Pharisees also asked him how he had received his sight. He said unto them, He put clay upon mine eyes, and I washed, and do see.

16 Therefore said some of the Pharisees, This man is not of God, because he keepeth not the sabbath day. Others said, [f]How can a man that is a [g]sinner do such miracles? And there was a [h]division among them.

17 They say unto the blind man again, What sayest thou of him, that he hath opened thine eyes? He said, [i]He is a prophet.

18 But the Jews did not believe concerning him, that he had been blind, and received his sight, until they called the parents of him that had received his sight.

19 And they asked them, saying, Is this your son, who ye say was born blind? how then doth he now see?

20 His parents answered them and said, We know that this is our son, and that he was born blind:

21 But by what means he now seeth, we know not; or who hath opened his eyes, we know not: he is of age; ask him: he shall speak for himself.

22 These words spake his parents, because [j]they feared the Jews: for the Jews had agreed already, that if any man did confess that he was Christ, [k]he should be put out of the synagogue.

23 Therefore said his parents, He is of age; ask him.

24 Then again called they the man that was blind, and said unto him, [l]Give God the praise: we [m]know that this man is a [g]sinner.

25 He answered and said, Whether he be a [g]sinner or no, I know not: one thing I know, that, whereas I was blind, now I see.

26 Then said they to him again, What did he to thee? how opened he thine eyes?

27 He answered them, I have told you already, and ye did not hear: wherefore would ye hear it again? will ye also be his disciples?

28 Then they reviled him, and said, Thou art his disciple; but we are [n]Moses' disciples.

29 We know that God spake unto Moses: as for this fellow, we know not from [o]whence he is.

30 The man answered and said unto them, [p]Why herein is a marvellous thing, that ye know not from whence he is, and yet he hath opened mine eyes.

31 Now we know that [q]God heareth not [g]sinners: but if any man be a worshipper of God, and doeth his will, him he heareth.

32 Since the [r]world began was it not heard that any man opened the eyes of one that was born blind.

33 If this man were not of God, he could do [s]nothing.

34 They answered and said unto him, Thou wast altogether [t]born in [g]sins, and dost thou teach us? And they [u]cast him out.

35 Jesus heard that they had cast him out; and when he had found him, he said unto him, Dost thou believe on the [v]Son of God?

36 He answered and said, Who is he, Lord, that I might believe on him?

37 And Jesus said unto him, Thou hast both seen him, and [w]it is he that talketh with thee.

38 And he said, Lord, I believe. And he [x]worshipped him.

39 And Jesus said, For judgment I am come into this [y]world, [z]that they which see not might see; and that they which see might be made blind.

40 And some of the Pharisees which were with him heard these words, and said unto him, [a]Are we blind also?

CHAPTER 10.

Discourse on the Good Shepherd. (Cf. [1]Psa. 23.; Heb. 13. 20; 1 Pet. 5. 4.)

VERILY, verily, I say unto you, He that entereth not by the door into the sheepfold, but climbeth up some other way, the same is a [c]thief and a robber.

2 But he that entereth in by the door is the shepherd of the sheep.

3 To him [d]the porter openeth; and the sheep [e]hear his voice: and he calleth his own sheep by [f]name, and [g]leadeth them out.

4 And when he putteth forth his own sheep, he goeth [h]before them, and the sheep follow him: for they know his voice.

5 And a [i]stranger will they not follow, but will flee from him: for they know not the voice of strangers.

6 This parable spake Jesus unto them: but they [j]understood not what things they were which he spake unto them.

7 Then said Jesus unto them again, Verily, verily, I say unto you, [k]I am the door of the sheep.

8 All that ever came before me are thieves and robbers: but the sheep did not hear them.

9 I am the door: by me if any man enter in, he shall be [l]saved, and shall go in and out, and find pasture.

10 The thief cometh not, but for to steal, and to kill, and to destroy: I am come that they might have [m]life, and that they might have it more [n]abundantly.

11 I am the [o]good shepherd: the good shepherd giveth his life for the sheep.

12 But he that is an hireling, and not the shepherd, whose own the sheep are not, seeth the wolf coming, and leaveth the sheep, and fleeth: and the wolf catcheth them, and scattereth the sheep.

13 The hireling fleeth, because he is an hireling, and careth not for the sheep.

14 I am the good shepherd, and [p]know my sheep, and [q]am known of mine.

15 As the Father knoweth me, even so know I the Father: and [r]I lay down my life for the sheep.

16 And [s]other sheep I have, which are not of this fold: them also I must bring, and they shall hear my voice; and there shall be one [t]fold, and [u]one shepherd.

17 Therefore doth my [v]Father love me, because I lay down my life, that I might take it again.

18 No man taketh it from me, but I lay it down of [w]myself. I have [x]power to lay it down, and I have power to take it again. [y]This commandment have I received of my Father.

19 There was a [z]division therefore again among the Jews for these sayings.

20 And many of them said, He hath a [a]devil, and is mad; why hear ye him?

21 Others said, These are not the words of him that [b]hath a devil. Can a [c]devil open the eyes of the blind?

Jesus asserts his deity. (Cf. John 14. 9; 20. 28, 29.)

22 And it was at Jerusalem the feast of the dedication, and it was winter.

23 And Jesus walked in the temple in Solomon's porch.

24 Then came the Jews round about him, and said unto him, How long dost thou make us to doubt? If thou be the Christ, tell us [d]plainly.

25 Jesus answered them, I told you, and ye believed not: the works that I do in my Father's name, they bear witness of me.

26 But ye [e]believed not, [f]because ye are not of my sheep, as I said unto you.

27 My sheep hear my voice, and [g]I know them, and they [h]follow me:

28 And I [i]give unto them [j]eternal life; and they shall never per-

This answers to Psa. xxii. (2) He is the "Great" Shepherd, "brought again from the dead" (Heb. xiii. 20), to care for and make perfect the sheep. This answers to Psa. xxiii. (3) He is the "Chief" Shepherd who is coming in glory to give crowns of reward to the faithful shepherds (1 Pet. v. 4). This answers to Psa. xxiv.

ish, [a]neither shall any man [b]pluck them out of my hand.

29 My Father, which gave them me, is greater than all; and no man is able to pluck them [c]out of my Father's hand.

30 I and my Father [d]are one.

31 Then the Jews took up stones again to [e]stone him.

32 Jesus answered them, Many good works have I shewed you from my Father; for which of those works do ye stone me?

33 The Jews answered him, saying, For a good work we stone thee not; but for [f]blasphemy; and because that thou, being a man, makest thyself God.

34 Jesus answered them, Is it not written in your law, I said, [g]Ye are gods?

35 If he called them gods, unto whom the word of God came, and the scripture [h]cannot be broken;

36 Say ye of him, whom the Father hath [i]sanctified, and sent into the [j]world, Thou blasphemest; because I said, I am the Son of God?

37 If I do not the works of my Father, believe me not.

38 But if I do, though ye believe not me, believe the works: that ye may know, and believe, that the Father is [k]in me, and I in him.

39 Therefore they sought again to take him: but he [l]escaped out of their hand,

Jesus goes to the place where he was baptized. (Cf. Mt. 3. 1, 13, 17.)

40 And went away again beyond Jordan into the place where John at first baptized; and there he abode.

41 And many resorted unto him, and said, John did no miracle: but all things that John spake of this man were true.

42 And many believed on him there.

CHAPTER 11.

The raising of Lazarus.

NOW a certain man was sick, named Lazarus, of Bethany, the town of [m]Mary and her sister Martha.

2 ([n]It was that Mary which anointed the Lord with ointment, and wiped his feet with her hair, whose brother Lazarus was sick.)

3 Therefore his sisters [o]sent unto him, saying, Lord, behold, he whom thou lovest is sick.

4 When Jesus heard that, he said, This sickness is [p]not unto death, but for the glory of God, that the Son of God might be glorified thereby.

5 Now Jesus loved Martha, and her sister, and Lazarus.

6 When he had heard therefore that he was sick, he [q]abode two days still in the same place where he was.

7 Then after that saith he to his disciples, Let us go into Judæa again.

8 His disciples say unto him, Master, the Jews of late sought to [r]stone thee; and goest thou thither again?

9 Jesus answered, Are there not twelve hours in the day? If any man walk in the day, he stumbleth not, [s]because he seeth the light of this world.

10 But [t]if a man walk in the night, he stumbleth, because there is no light in him.

11 These things said he: and after that he saith unto them, Our friend Lazarus [u]sleepeth; but I go, that I may [v]awake him out of sleep.

12 Then said his disciples, Lord, if he sleep, he shall do well.

13 Howbeit Jesus spake of his death: but they thought that he had spoken of taking of rest in sleep.

14 Then said Jesus unto them plainly, Lazarus is [w]dead.

15 And I am [x]glad for your sakes that I was not there, to the intent ye may believe; nevertheless let us go unto him.

16 Then said [y]Thomas, which is called Didymus, unto his fellowdisciples, Let us also go, that we may die with him.

17 Then when Jesus came, he found that he had lain in the grave four days already.

18 Now Bethany was nigh unto Jerusalem, about fifteen [z]furlongs off:

19 And many of the Jews came to Martha and Mary, to [a]comfort them concerning their brother.

20 Then Martha, as soon as she heard that Jesus was coming, went and met him: but Mary sat still in the house.

21 Then said Martha unto Jesus, Lord, if thou hadst been here, my brother had not died.

22 But I know, that even now, whatsoever thou [b]wilt ask of God, God will give it thee.

23 Jesus saith unto her, Thy brother shall rise again.

25 Jesus said unto her, [b]I am the resurrection, and the [c]life: he that [d]believeth in me, [e]though he were [f]dead, yet shall he live:

26 And whosoever liveth and believeth in me [g]shall [h]never die. Believest thou this?

27 She saith unto him, Yea, Lord: I believe that [i]thou art the Christ, the Son of God, which should come into the [j]world.

28 And when she had so said, she went her way, and called Mary her sister secretly, saying, The Master is come, and calleth for thee.

29 As soon as she heard that, she arose quickly, and came unto him.

30 Now Jesus was not yet come into the town, but was in that place where Martha met him.

31 The Jews then which were with her in the house, and comforted her, when they saw Mary, that she rose up hastily and went out, followed her, saying, She goeth unto the grave to weep there.

32 Then when Mary was come where Jesus was, and saw him, she fell down at his feet, saying unto him, [k]Lord, if thou hadst been here, my brother had not died.

33 When Jesus therefore saw her [l]weeping, and the Jews also weeping which came with her, he groaned in the spirit, and was troubled,

34 And said, Where have ye laid him? They said unto him, Lord, come and see.

35 Jesus [m]wept.

36 Then said the Jews, Behold how he loved him!

37 And some of them said, Could not this man, which [n]opened the eyes of the blind, have caused that even this man should not have died?

Jesus at the grave of Lazarus.

38 Jesus therefore again groaning in himself cometh to the grave. It was a cave, and a [o]stone lay upon it.

39 Jesus said, Take ye away the stone. Martha, the sister of him that was dead, saith unto him, Lord, by this time [p]he stinketh: for he hath been dead four days.

40 Jesus saith unto her, Said I not unto thee, that, if thou wouldest believe, thou shouldest see the [q]glory of God?

41 Then they took away the stone from the place where the dead was laid. And Jesus lifted up his eyes, and [r]said, Father, I thank thee that thou hast heard me.

42 And I knew that [s]thou hearest me always: but because of the people which [t]stand by I said it, that they may believe that thou hast sent me.

43 And when he thus had spoken, he [u]cried with a loud voice, Lazarus, come forth.

44 And [v]he that was dead [w]came forth, bound hand and foot with [x]graveclothes: and his face was bound about with a napkin. Jesus saith unto them, [y]Loose him, and let him go.

The friends of Mary of Bethany are converted. (Cf. Lk. 10. 38-42; John 12. 1-7.)

45 Then many of the Jews which came to Mary, and had seen the things which Jesus did, [z]believed on him.

46 But some of them went their ways to the Pharisees, and [a]told them what things Jesus had done.

The Pharisees plot to put Jesus to death.

47 Then gathered the chief priests and the Pharisees a [b]council, and said, What do we? [c]for this man doeth many miracles.

48 If we let him thus alone, [d]all men will believe on him: and the [e]Romans shall come and take away both our place and nation.

49 And one of them, named [f]Caiaphas, being the high priest that same year, said unto them, Ye know nothing at all,

50 Nor consider that it is expedient for us, that [g]one man should die for the people, and that the whole nation perish not.

51 And this spake he not of himself: but being high priest that year, he [h]prophesied that Jesus should die for that nation;

52 And [i]not for that nation only, but that also he should [j]gather together in one the children of God that were scattered abroad.

53 Then from that day forth they took counsel together for to put him to death.

54 Jesus therefore walked [k]no more openly among the Jews; but went thence unto a country near to the wilderness, into a city called

CHAPTER 12.

The supper at Bethany (Mt. 26. 6-13; Mk. 14. 3-9. Cf. Lk. 7. 37, 38).

THEN Jesus six days before the passover came to [e]Bethany, where Lazarus was which had been dead, whom he raised from the dead.

2 There they made him a supper; and [f]Martha served: but Lazarus was one of them that [g]sat at the table with him.

3 [h]Then took [i]Mary a [j]pound of ointment of spikenard, very costly, and anointed the [k]feet of Jesus, and wiped his feet with her hair: and the house was filled with the odour of the ointment.

4 Then saith one of his disciples, [m]Judas Iscariot, Simon's son, which should betray him,

5 Why was not this ointment sold for three hundred pence, and given to the poor?

6 This he said, not that he cared for the poor; but because he was a [n]thief, and had the bag, and bare what was put therein.

7 Then said Jesus, Let her alone: against the day of my burying hath she kept this.

8 For the poor always ye have with you; but [o]me ye have not always.

9 [p]Much people of the Jews therefore knew that he was there: and they came not for Jesus' sake only, but that they might see Lazarus also, whom he had raised from the dead.

The triumphal entry (Mt. 21. 4-9; Mk. 11. 7-10; Lk. 19. 35-38).

12 On the next day much people that were come to the feast, [s]when they heard that Jesus was coming to Jerusalem,

13 Took branches of palm trees, and went forth to meet him, and cried, [t]Hosanna: Blessed is the King of Israel that cometh in the name of the [u]Lord.

14 [v]And Jesus, when he had found a young ass, sat thereon; as [w]it is written,

15 Fear not, daughter of Sion: behold, thy King cometh, sitting on an ass's colt.

16 These things [x]understood not his disciples at the first: but when Jesus was glorified, then remembered they that these things were written of him, and that they had done these things unto him.

17 The people therefore that was with him when he called Lazarus out of his grave, and raised him from the dead, [y]bare record.

18 For this cause the people also met him, for that they heard that he had done this miracle.

19 The Pharisees therefore said among themselves, Perceive ye how ye prevail nothing? behold, the [z]world is [a]gone after him.

Certain Greeks would see Jesus.

20 And there were certain [b]Greeks among them that came up to worship at the feast:

21 The same came therefore to [c]Philip, which was of Bethsaida of Galilee, and desired him, saying, Sir, we would see Jesus.

22 Philip cometh and telleth Andrew: and again Andrew and Philip tell Jesus.

Jesus' answer.

23 And Jesus [1]answered them, saying, [d]The hour is come, that the [e]Son of man should be glorified.

24 Verily, verily, I say unto you,

[1]He does not receive these Gentiles. A Christ in the flesh, King of the Jews, could be no proper object of faith to the Gentiles, though the Jews should have believed on Him as such. For Gentiles the corn of wheat must fall into the ground and die; Christ must be lifted up on the cross and believed in as a sacrifice for sin, as Seed of Abraham, not David (vs. 24, 32; Gal. iii. 7-14; Eph. ii. 11-13).

[1]Except a corn of wheat fall into the ground and die, it abideth alone: but if it [a]die, it bringeth forth [b]much fruit.

25 [c]He that loveth his life shall lose it; and he that hateth his life in this [d]world shall keep it unto life eternal.

26 If any man serve me, let him [e]follow me; and [f]where I am, there shall also my servant be: if any man serve me, him will my Father [g]honour.

27 Now is my soul troubled; and what shall I say? [h]Father, save me from this hour: [i]but for this cause came I unto this hour.

28 Father, [j]glorify thy name. [k]Then came there a voice from heaven, saying, I have both glorified it, and will glorify it again.

29 The people therefore, that stood by, and heard it, said that it thundered: others said, An [l]angel spake to him.

30 Jesus answered and said, [m]This voice came not because of me, but for your sakes.

31 Now is the [2]judgment of this [n]world: now shall the [o]prince of this world be cast out.

32 And I, if I be [p]lifted up from the earth, will draw all men unto me.

33 This he said, signifying what death he should die.

34 The people answered him, We have heard out of the law that [q]Christ abideth for ever: and how sayest thou, The Son of man must be lifted up? who is this Son of man?

35 Then Jesus said unto them, [r]Yet a little while is the light with you. Walk while ye have the light, lest darkness come upon you: for [s]he that walketh in darkness knoweth not whither he goeth.

36 While ye have light, believe in the light, that ye may be [s]the children of light. These things spake Jesus, and departed, and [t]did hide himself from them.

37 But [u]though he had done so many miracles before them, yet they believed not on him:

38 That the saying of Esaias the prophet might be fulfilled, which he spake, [v]Lord, [w]who hath believed our report? and to whom hath the arm of the Lord been revealed?

39 Therefore they could not believe, because that [x]Esaias said again,

40 He hath blinded their eyes, and hardened their heart; that they should not see with their eyes, nor understand with their [y]heart, and [z]be converted, and I should heal them.

41 [a]These things said Esaias, when he saw his glory, and spake of him.

42 Nevertheless among the chief rulers also many believed on him; but because of the Pharisees they did not confess him, lest they should be put out of the synagogue:

43 For they loved the praise of men more than the praise of God.

44 Jesus cried and said, He that believeth on me, believeth not on me, but on [b]him that sent me.

45 And [c]he that seeth me seeth him that sent me.

46 [d]I am come a light into the [e]world, that whosoever believeth on me should not abide in darkness.

47 And if any man hear my words, and believe not, [f]I judge him not: for [g]I came not to judge the [e]world, but to save the world.

48 He that rejecteth me, and receiveth not my words, hath one that judgeth him: [h]the word that I have spoken, the same shall judge him in the last day.

[1]Chapters xii.-xvii. are a progression according to the order of approach to God in the tabernacle types: Chapter xii., in which Christ speaks of His death, answers to the brazen altar of burnt-offering, type of the cross. Passing from the altar toward the holy of holies, the laver is next reached (Ex. xxx. 17-21), answering to Chapter xiii. With His associate priests, now purified, the High Priest approaches and enters the holy place, in the high communion of Chapters xiv.-xvi. Entering alone the holy of holies (xvii. 1), the High Priest intercedes. (Cf. Heb. vii. 24-28.) That intercession is not for the salvation, but the keeping and blessing of those for whom He prays. His death (assumed as accomplished, xvii. 4) has saved them.

[2]The Seven Judgments. (1) Of Jesus Christ as bearing the believer's sins. The sins of believers have been judged in the person of Jesus Christ "lifted up" on the cross. The result was death for Christ, and justification for the believer, who can never again be put in jeopardy (John v. 24; Rom. v. 9; viii. 1; 2 Cor. v. 21; Gal. iii. 13; Heb. ix. 26-28; x. 10, 14-17; 1 Pet. ii. 24; iii. 18). See other judgments, 1 Cor. xi. 31, note; 2 Cor. v. 10, note; Mt. xxv. 32, note; Ezk. xx. 37, note; Jude 6, note; Rev. xx. 12, note.

49 For [a]I have not spoken of myself; but the Father which sent me, he gave me a commandment, what I should say, and what I should speak.

50 And I know that his commandment is [b]life everlasting: whatsoever I speak therefore, even as the Father said unto me, so I speak.

CHAPTER 13.

The last passover. (Cf. Mt. 26. 7-30; Mk. 14. 17-26; Lk. 22. 14-39.)

NOW [1]before the feast of the passover, when Jesus knew that his [c]hour was come that he should depart out of this [d]world unto the Father, having loved his own which were in the world, he [e]loved them [f]unto the end.

Jesus washes the disciples' feet.

2 And [g]supper being ended, the [h]devil having now put into the heart of Judas Iscariot, Simon's son, to betray him;

3 Jesus knowing that the Father had [i]given all things into his hands, and that he was [j]come from God, [k]and went to God;

4 He riseth from supper, and [l]laid aside his garments; and took a towel, and girded himself.

5 After that he poureth [m]water into a bason, and began to wash the disciples' feet, and to wipe them with the towel wherewith he was girded.

6 Then cometh he to Simon Peter: and Peter saith unto him, Lord, [n]dost thou wash my feet?

7 Jesus answered and said unto him, What I do thou [o]knowest not now; but thou shalt know hereafter.

8 Peter saith unto him, Thou shalt never wash my feet. Jesus answered him, If I [p]wash thee not, thou hast [q]no part with me.

9 Simon Peter saith unto him, Lord, not my feet only, but also my hands and my head.

10 Jesus saith to him, He that is [r]washed [2]needeth not save to wash his feet, but is clean [s]every whit: and ye are clean, but not all.

11 For [t]he knew who should betray him; therefore said he, Ye are not all clean.

12 So after he had washed their feet, and had taken his garments, and was set down again, he said unto them, Know ye what I have done to you?

13 [u]Ye call me Master and Lord: and ye say well; for so I am.

14 If I then, your Lord and Master, have washed your feet; [v]ye also ought to wash one another's feet.

15 For I [w]have given you an example, that ye should do as I have done to you.

16 Verily, verily, I say unto you, [x]The servant is not greater than his lord; neither he that is sent greater than he that sent him.

17 [y]If ye know these things, happy are ye if ye do them.

18 I speak not of you all: I know whom I have chosen: but that the [z]scripture may be fulfilled, [a]He that eateth bread with me hath lifted up his heel against me.

19 Now I tell you [b]before it come, that, when it is come to pass, ye may believe that I am he.

20 Verily, verily, I say unto you, He that receiveth whomsoever I send receiveth me; and [c]he that receiveth me receiveth him that sent me.

Jesus foretells his betrayal (Mt. 26. 20-25; Mk. 14. 17-21; Lk. 22. 21, 22).

21 [d]When Jesus had thus said, he was troubled in spirit, and testified, and said, Verily, verily, I say unto you, that [e]one of you shall betray me.

22 Then the disciples looked one on another, doubting of whom he spake.

[1] For order of events during the night of the last passover, see Mt. xxvi. 20, note.

[2] The underlying imagery is of an oriental returning from the public baths to his house. His feet would contract defilement and require cleansing, but not his body. So the believer is cleansed as before the law from all sin "once for all" (Heb. x. 1-12), but needs ever to bring his daily sins to the Father in confession, that he may abide in unbroken fellowship with the Father and with the Son (1 John i. 1-10). The blood of Christ answers forever to all the law could say as to the believer's guilt, but he needs constant cleansing from the defilement of sin. See Eph. v. 25-27; 1 John v. 6. Typically, the order of approach to the presence of God was, first, the brazen altar of sacrifice, and then the laver of cleansing (Ex. xl. 6, 7). See, also, the order in Ex. xxx. 17-21. Christ cannot have communion with a defiled saint, but He can and will cleanse him.

sus' bosom [a]one of his disciples, whom Jesus loved.

24 Simon Peter therefore beckoned to him, that he should ask who it should be of whom he spake.

25 He then lying on Jesus' breast saith unto him, Lord, who is it?

26 Jesus answered, He it is, to whom I shall give a sop, when I have dipped it. And when he had dipped the sop, he gave it to Judas Iscariot, the son of Simon.

27 And after the sop [b]Satan entered into him. Then said Jesus unto him, That thou doest, do quickly.

28 Now no man at the table knew for what intent he spake this unto him.

29 For some of them thought, because Judas had the bag, that Jesus had said unto him, Buy those things that we have need of against the feast; or, that he should give something to the poor.

30 He then having received the sop went immediately out: and it was night.

31 Therefore, when he was gone out, Jesus said, Now is the [c]Son of man glorified, and God is glorified in him.

32 If God be glorified in him, God shall also glorify him in himself, and shall straightway glorify him.

33 Little children, yet a little while I am with you. Ye shall seek me: and [d]as I said unto the Jews, Whither I go, ye cannot come; so now I say to you.

34 A [e]new commandment I give unto you, That ye love one another; as I have loved you, that ye also love one another.

35 By this shall all men know that ye are my disciples, if ye have love one to another.

Jesus foretells Peter's denial (Mt. 26. 33-35; Mk. 14. 29-31; Lk. 22. 33, 34).

36 Simon Peter said unto him, Lord, whither goest thou? Jesus answered him, Whither I go, thou canst not follow me now; [f]but thou shalt follow me afterwards.

37 Peter said unto him, Lord, why cannot I follow thee now? I will [g]lay down my life for thy sake.

38 Jesus answered him, Wilt thou lay down thy life for my sake? Verily, verily, I say unto thee, The cock shall not crow, till thou hast denied me thrice.

CHAPTER 14.

Spoken in the passover chamber: Jesus foretells his coming for his own. (Cf. 1 Thes. 4. 14-17.)

[h]LET not your heart be troubled: ye [i]believe in God, believe also in me.

2 In my Father's house are many mansions: if it were not so, I would have told you. I go to prepare a place for you.

3 And if I go and prepare a place for you, [j]I will come again, and receive [1]you unto myself; that where I am, there ye may be also.

4 And whither I go ye know, and the way ye know.

5 Thomas saith unto him, Lord, we know not whither thou goest; and how can we know the way?

6 Jesus saith unto him, I am the way, the truth, and the [k]life: no man cometh unto the Father, but by me.

Jesus and the Father are one.

7 If ye had known me, ye should have known my Father also: and from henceforth ye know him, and have seen him.

8 Philip saith unto him, Lord, shew us the Father, and it sufficeth us.

9 Jesus saith unto him, Have I been so long time with you, and yet hast thou not known me, Philip? [l]he that hath seen me hath seen the Father; and how sayest thou then, Shew us the Father?

10 Believest thou not that [m]I am in the Father, and the Father in me? the [n]words that I speak unto you [o]I speak not of myself: but the Father that dwelleth in me, he doeth the works.

11 Believe me that I am in the Father, and the Father in me: or else believe me for the [p]very works' sake.

12 Verily, verily, I say unto you, He that believeth on me, the works that I do shall he do also; and greater works than these shall he do; because I go unto my Father.

[1]This aspect of the second advent of Christ is to be distinguished from His return in glory to the earth; it is the first intimation in Scripture of "the day of Christ" (1 Cor. i. 8, note). Here He comes for His saints (1 Thes. iv. 14-17), there (e.g. Mt. xxiv. 29, 30) He comes to judge the nations, etc.

The new promise and privilege in prayer.

13 And whatsoever ye shall ask in [a]my name, that will I do, that the Father may be [b]glorified in the Son.

14 If ye shall ask any thing in my name, I will do it.

15 [c]If ye love me, keep my commandments.

The promise of the Spirit.

16 [d]And I will pray the Father, and he shall give you another [1e]Comforter, that he may abide with you for ever;

17 Even the [f]Spirit of truth; whom the [g]world [h]cannot receive, because it seeth him not, neither knoweth him: but ye know him; for he dwelleth with you, and [i]shall be in you.

18 I will not leave you [j]comfortless: I will come to you.

19 Yet a little while, and the [g]world seeth me no more; but ye see me: [k]because I live, ye shall live also.

20 At that day ye shall know that [l]I am in my Father, and ye in me, and I in you.

21 [m]He that hath my commandments, and keepeth them, he it is that loveth me: and he that loveth me shall be loved of my Father, and I will love him, and will [n]manifest myself to him.

22 Judas saith unto him, not Iscariot, Lord, how is it that thou wilt manifest thyself unto us, and not unto the [g]world?

23 Jesus answered and said unto him, [o]If a man [p]love me, he will keep my words: and my Father will love him, and we will come unto him, and make our abode with him.

24 He that [q]loveth me not keepeth not my sayings: and the [r]word which ye hear is not mine, but the Father's which sent me.

The bequest of peace.

27 [u]Peace I leave with you, [v]my peace I give unto you: not as the [g]world giveth, give I unto you. Let not your heart be [w]troubled, neither let it be afraid.

28 Ye have heard how I said unto you, I go away, and come again unto you. If ye loved me, ye would rejoice, because I said, I go unto the Father: for my Father is greater than I.

29 And now I have told you before it come to pass, that, when it is come to pass, ye might believe.

30 Hereafter I will not talk much with you: for the prince of this world cometh, and hath nothing in me.

31 But that the [x]world may know that I love the Father; and [y]as the Father gave me commandment, even so I do. Arise, let us go hence.

CHAPTER 15.

Spoken on the way to the garden: the vine and branches.

I AM the [z]true vine, and my Father is the husbandman.

2 Every branch in me that beareth not fruit he taketh away: and every branch that [a]beareth fruit, he [2]purgeth it, that it may bring forth more fruit.

3 Now ye are [b]clean through the word which I have spoken unto you.

4 [2c]Abide in me, and I in you. As the branch cannot bear fruit of itself, except it abide in the vine; no more can ye, except ye abide in me.

5 I am the vine, ye are the branches: He that abideth in me, and I in him, the same bringeth

[1] Gr. Parakletos, "one called alongside to help." Translated "advocate," 1 John ii. 1. Christ is the believer's Paraclete with the Father when he sins; the Holy Spirit the believer's indwelling Paraclete to help his ignorance and infirmity, and to make intercession (Rom. viii. 26, 27). (See "Holy Spirit," N.T. doctrine, Mt. i. 18; Acts ii. 4.)

[2] Three conditions of the fruitful life: Cleansing, vs. 2, 3; John xiii. 10, note; abiding, v. 4, note; obedience, vs. 10, 12. (See "Law of Christ," Gal. vi. 2; 2 John 5, note.)

[3] To abide in Christ is, on the one hand, to have no known sin unjudged and unconfessed, no interest into which He is not brought, no life which He cannot share.

forth much [a]fruit: for [b]without me ye can do nothing.

6 If a man abide not in me, he is cast forth [c]as a branch, and is withered; and men gather them, and cast them into the fire, and they are burned.

7 If ye abide in me, and [d]my words abide in you, ye shall ask what ye will, and it shall be done unto you.

8 Herein is my Father glorified, that ye bear [1]much fruit; so shall ye be my disciples.

9 As the Father hath [e]loved me, so have I loved you: continue ye in my love.

10 If [f]ye keep my commandments, ye shall abide in my love; even as I have kept my Father's commandments, and abide in his love.

11 These things have I spoken unto you, that my joy might remain in you, and that your joy might be full.

12 [g]This is my commandment, That ye love one another, as I have loved you.

13 Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends.

14 Ye are my friends, if ye do whatsoever I command you.

The new intimacy.

15 [2]Henceforth I call you not servants; for the servant knoweth not what his lord doeth: but I have called you friends; for all things that I have heard of my Father I have made known unto you.

16 Ye have not [h]chosen me, but I have chosen you, and ordained you, that ye should go and bring forth fruit, and that your fruit should remain: that whatsoever ye shall ask of the Father in [i]my name, he may give it you.

17 These things I [j]command you, that ye love one another.

The believer and the world.

20 Remember the word that I said unto you, The servant is not greater than his lord. If they have persecuted me, they will also persecute you; if they have kept my saying, they will keep your's also.

21 But all these things will they do unto you for my name's sake, because they know not him that sent me.

22 If I had not come and spoken unto them, they had not had [o]sin: but now they have no cloke for their sin.

23 He that hateth me hateth my Father also.

24 If I had not done among them the works which none other man did, they had not had [o]sin: but now have they both seen and hated both me and my Father.

25 But this cometh to pass, that the word might be fulfilled that is written in their law, They hated me [p]without a cause.

The believer and the Spirit.

26 But when the Comforter is come, whom I will send unto you from the Father, even the [q]Spirit of truth, which proceedeth from the Father, he shall testify of me:

27 And ye also shall bear witness, [r]because ye have been with me from the beginning.

CHAPTER 16.

The disciples warned of persecutions. (Cf. Mt. 24. 9, 10; Lk. 21. 16-19.)

THESE things have I spoken unto you, that ye should not be offended.

2 They shall put you out of the synagogues: yea, the time cometh,

On the other hand, the abiding one takes all burdens to Him, and draws all wisdom, life and strength from Him. It is not unceasing consciousness of these things, and of Him, but that nothing is allowed in the life which separates from Him. See "Fellowship," 1 John i. 3; Communion, 1 Cor. x. 16.

[1] Three degrees in fruit-bearing: "Fruit," v. 2; "more fruit," v. 2. l.c.; "much fruit," vs. 5, 8. As we bear "much fruit" the Father is glorified in us. The minor moralities and graces of Christianity are often imitated, but never the ninefold "fruit" of Gal. v. 22, 23. Where such fruit is the Father is glorified. The Pharisees were moral and intensely "religious," but not one of them could say with Christ, "I have glorified thee on the earth" (John xvii. 4).

that whosoever killeth you will think that he doeth God service.

3 And these things will they do unto you, because they have not known the Father, nor me.

4 But these things have I told you, that when the time shall come, ye may remember that I told you of them. And these things I said not unto you at the beginning, because I was with you.

5 But now I go my way to him that sent me; and none of you asketh me, Whither goest thou?

6 But because I have said these things unto you, sorrow hath filled your heart.

Threefold work of the Spirit toward the world.

7 Nevertheless I tell you the truth; It is expedient for you that I go away: for if I go not away, [a]the Comforter will not come unto you; but if I depart, I will send him unto you.

8 And when he is come, he will reprove the [b]world of [c]sin, and of righteousness, and of judgment:

9 Of sin, because they [d]believe not on me;

10 Of righteousness, because I go to my Father, and ye see me no more;

11 Of judgment, because the prince of this [e]world is judged.

New truth to be revealed by the Spirit.

12 [1]I have yet many things to say unto you, but ye cannot bear them now.

13 Howbeit when he, the [f]Spirit of truth, is come, he will guide you into all truth: for he shall not speak [g]of himself; [h]but whatsoever he shall hear, that shall he speak: and he will shew you things to come.

14 He shall glorify me: for he shall receive of mine, and shall shew it unto you.

15 All things that the Father hath are mine: therefore said I, that he shall take of mine, and shall shew it unto you.

Jesus speaks of his death, resurrection, and second advent.

16 A little while, and ye shall not see me: and again, a little while, and ye shall see me, because I go to the Father.

17 Then said some of his disciples among themselves, What is this that he saith unto us, A little while, and ye shall not see me: and again, a little while, and ye shall see me: and, Because I go to the Father?

18 They said therefore, What is this that he saith, A little while? we cannot tell what he saith.

19 Now Jesus knew that they were desirous to ask him, and said unto them, Do ye enquire among yourselves of that I said, A [i]little while, and ye shall not see me: and again, a little while, and ye shall see me?

20 Verily, verily, I say unto you, That [j]ye shall weep and lament, but the [k]world shall rejoice: and ye shall be sorrowful, but your sorrow shall be turned into joy.

21 A woman when she is in travail hath sorrow, because her hour is come: but as soon as she is delivered of the child, she remembereth no more the anguish, for joy that a man is born into the [k]world.

22 And ye now therefore have sorrow: but I will see you again, and [l]your heart shall rejoice, and your [m]joy no man taketh from you.

23 And in that day ye shall ask me nothing. [n]Verily, verily, I say unto you, Whatsoever ye shall ask the Father in my name, he will give it you.

24 Hitherto have ye asked nothing in my name: [n]ask, and ye shall receive, that your joy may be full.

25 These things have I spoken unto you in proverbs: but the time cometh, when I shall no more speak unto you in proverbs, but I shall shew you plainly of the Father.

26 At that day ye shall ask in my name: and I say not unto you, that I will pray the Father for you:

27 For the [o]Father himself loveth you, because ye have loved me, and

[1] Christ's pre-authentication of the New Testament: (1) He expressly declared that He would leave "many things" unrevealed (v. 12). (2) He promised that this revelation should be completed ("all things") after the Spirit should come, and that such additional revelation should include new prophecies (v. 13). (3) He chose certain persons to receive such additional revelations, and to be His witnesses to them (Mt. xxviii. 19; John xv. 27; xvi. 13; Acts i. 8; ix. 15-17). (4) He gave to their words when speaking for Him in the Spirit precisely the same authority as His own (Mt. x. 14, 15; Lk. x. 16; John xiii. 20; xvii. 20; see, e.g., 1 Cor. xiv. 37, and "Inspiration," Ex. iv. 15; Rev. xxii. 19).

have believed that I came out from God.

28 I came forth from the Father, and am come into the [a]world: again, I leave the world, and go to the Father.

29 His disciples said unto him, Lo, now speakest thou plainly, and speakest no proverb.

30 Now are we sure that thou knowest all things, and needest not that any man should ask thee: by this we believe that thou camest forth from God.

31 Jesus answered them, Do ye now believe?

32 [b]Behold, the hour cometh, yea, is now come, that ye shall be scattered, every man to his own, and shall leave me alone: and yet I am not alone, because the Father is with me.

33 These things I [c]have spoken unto you, that in me ye might have peace. In the [c]world ye shall have tribulation: but be of good cheer; I have overcome the world.

CHAPTER 17.

The prayer of intercession.

THESE words spake Jesus, and lifted up his eyes to heaven, and [d]said, Father, the hour is come; [1]glorify thy Son, that thy Son also may glorify thee:

2 As thou hast given him power over all flesh, that he should [2]give eternal [e]life to as many as thou hast [2]given him.

3 And this is [e]life eternal, that they might know [f]thee the only true God, and Jesus Christ, whom thou hast sent.

4 I have glorified thee on the earth: [g]I have finished the work which thou gavest me to do.

5 And now, O Father, glorify thou me with thine own self with the glory which [h]I had with thee before the [i]world was.

6 I have manifested thy name unto the men which thou gavest me out of the [a]world: thine they were, and thou gavest them me; and they have kept thy word.

7 Now they have known that all things whatsoever thou hast given me are of thee.

8 For I have given unto them the [f]words which thou gavest me; and they have received them, and have known surely that I came out from thee, and they have believed that [k]thou didst send me.

9 I pray for them: I pray not for the [c]world, but for them which thou hast given me; for they are thine.

10 And all mine are thine, and thine are mine; and I am glorified in them.

11 And now I am no more in the [a]world, but these are in the world, and I come to thee. Holy Father, [l]keep through thine own name those whom thou hast given me, that they may be one, as we are.

12 While I was with them in the [a]world, I kept them in thy name: those that thou gavest me I have kept, and none of them is lost, but the son of perdition; that the scripture might be fulfilled.

13 And now come I to thee; and these things I speak in the [a]world, that they might have my joy fulfilled in themselves.

14 I have given them [m]thy word; and the [n]world hath hated them, because they are not of the world, even as I am not of the world.

15 I pray not that thou shouldest take them out of the [a]world, but that thou shouldest keep them from the evil.

16 They are [o]not of the [n]world, even as I am not of the world.

17 Sanctify them through thy truth: thy word is truth.

It is Christ who commits the believer to the Father for safe-keeping, so that the believer's security rests upon the Father's faithfulness to His Son Jesus Christ.

18 As thou hast sent me into the [a]world, even so have I also sent them into the world.

19 And for their sakes I [b]sanctify myself, that they also might be sanctified through the truth.

20 Neither pray I for these alone, but for them also which shall believe on me through their word;

21 That they all may be one; [c]as thou, Father, art in me, and I in thee, that they also may be one in us: that the [a]world may believe that thou hast sent me.

22 And the [d]glory which thou gavest me I have given them; that they may be one, even as we are one:

23 I in them, and thou in me, that they may be made [e]perfect in one; and that the [a]world may know that thou hast sent me, and hast loved them, as thou hast loved me.

24 Father, I will that they also, whom thou hast given me, [f]be with me where I am; that they may behold my glory, which thou hast given me: for thou lovedst me before the foundation of the [g]world.

25 O righteous Father, the [a]world hath not known thee: but I have known thee, and these have known that thou hast sent me.

26 And I have declared unto them thy [h]name, and will declare it: [i]that the love wherewith thou hast loved me may be in them, and I in them.

CHAPTER 18.

Jesus arrives at Gethsemane. (Cf. Mt. 26. 36; Mk. 14. 32.)

WHEN Jesus had spoken these words, he went forth with his disciples over the brook Cedron, where was a garden, into the which he entered, and his disciples.

The betrayal and arrest (Mt. 26. 47-56; Mk. 14. 43-50; Lk. 22. 47-53).

2 And [j]Judas also, which betrayed him, knew the place: for Jesus oftimes resorted thither with his disciples.

3 Judas then, having received a band of men and officers from the chief priests and Pharisees, cometh thither with lanterns and torches and weapons.

4 Jesus therefore, [k]knowing all things that should come upon him, went forth, and said unto them, Whom seek ye?

5 They answered him, Jesus of Nazareth. Jesus saith unto them, I am he. And Judas also, which [l]betrayed him, stood with them.

6 As soon then as he had said unto them, I am he, they went backward, and fell to the ground.

7 Then asked he them again, Whom seek ye? And they said, Jesus of Nazareth.

8 Jesus answered, I have told you that I am he: if therefore ye [m]seek me, let these go their way:

9 That the saying might be fulfilled, which he [n]spake, Of them which thou gavest me have I lost none.

10 Then Simon Peter having a sword drew it, and smote the high priest's servant, and cut off his right ear. The servant's name was Malchus.

11 Then said Jesus unto Peter, Put up thy sword into the sheath: the cup which my Father hath given me, shall I not drink it?

Jesus brought before the high priest (Mt. 26. 57-68; Mk. 14. 53-65; Lk. 22. 66-71).

12 Then the band and the captain and officers of the Jews took Jesus, and bound him,

13 And led him away to [o]Annas first; for he was father in law to Caiaphas, which was the high priest that same year.

14 Now Caiaphas was he, which gave [p]counsel to the Jews, that it was expedient that one man should die for the people.

Peter's denial (also vs. 25-27) (Mt. 26. 69-75; Mk. 14. 66-72; Lk. 22. 54-62).

15 And [q]Simon Peter followed Jesus, and so did another disciple: that disciple was known unto the high priest, and went in with Jesus into the palace of the high priest.

16 But Peter stood at the door without. Then went out that other disciple, which was known unto the high priest, and spake unto her that kept the door, and brought in Peter.

17 Then saith the damsel that kept the door unto Peter, Art not thou also one of this man's disciples? He saith, I am [r]not.

18 And the servants and officers stood there, who had made a fire of coals; for it was cold: and they warmed themselves: and Peter stood with them, and warmed himself.

(Jesus before the high priest, continued.)

19 [a]The high priest then asked Jesus of his disciples, and of his doctrine.

20 Jesus answered him, I spake openly to the [b]world; I ever taught in the synagogue, and in the temple, whither the Jews always resort; and in secret have I said nothing.

21 Why askest thou me? ask them which heard me, what I have said unto them: behold, they know what I said.

22 And when he had thus spoken, one of the officers which stood by struck Jesus with the palm of his hand, saying, Answerest thou the high priest so?

23 Jesus answered him, If I have spoken evil, bear witness of the evil: [c]but if well, why smitest thou me?

24 Now Annas had sent him bound unto Caiaphas the high priest.

25 And Simon Peter stood and warmed himself. They said therefore unto him, Art not thou also one of his disciples? He denied it, and said, I am not.

26 One of the servants of the high priest, being his kinsman whose ear Peter cut off, saith, Did not I see thee in the garden with him?

27 Peter then denied again: and [d]immediately the cock crew.

Jesus brought before Pilate (Mt. 27. 1-14; Mk. 15. 1-5; Lk. 23. 1-7, 13, 16).

28 [e]Then led they Jesus from Caiaphas unto the hall of judgment: and it was early; and they themselves went not into the judgment hall, [f]lest they should be defiled; but that they might eat the passover.

29 Pilate then went out unto them, and said, What accusation bring ye against this man?

30 They answered and said unto him, If he were not a malefactor, we would not have delivered him up unto thee.

31 Then said Pilate unto them, Take ye him, and judge him according to your law. The Jews therefore said unto him, It is not lawful for us to put any man to death:

32 That the saying of Jesus might be fulfilled, which he [g]spake, signifying what death he should die.

33 Then Pilate entered into the judgment hall again, and called Jesus, and said unto him, Art thou the King of the Jews?

34 Jesus answered him, Sayest thou this thing of thyself, or did others tell it thee of me?

35 Pilate answered, Am I a Jew? Thine own nation and the chief priests have delivered thee unto me: what hast thou done?

36 [h]Jesus answered, [i]My kingdom is not of this [j]world: if my kingdom were of this world, then would my servants fight, that I should not be delivered to the Jews: but now is my kingdom not from hence.

37 Pilate therefore said unto him, Art thou a king then? Jesus answered, Thou sayest that I am a king. To this end was I born, and for this cause came I into the [b]world, that I should bear [k]witness unto the truth. Every one that is of the truth heareth my voice.

38 Pilate saith unto him, What is truth? And when he had said this, he went out again unto the Jews, and saith unto them, I find in him [l]no fault at all.

Jesus condemned: Barabbas released (Mt. 27. 15-26; Mk. 15. 6-15; Lk. 23. 18-25).

39 But ye have a custom, that I should release unto you one at the passover: will ye therefore that I release unto you the King of the Jews?

40 Then cried they all again, saying, Not this man, but Barabbas. Now Barabbas was a robber.

Jesus crowned with thorns (Mt. 27. 27-30; Mk. 15. 16-20).

THEN [m]Pilate therefore took Jesus, and scourged him.

2 And the soldiers platted a crown of thorns, and put it on his head, and they put on him a [n]purple robe,

3 And said, Hail, King of the Jews! and they smote him with their hands.

Pilate brings Jesus before the multitude.

4 Pilate therefore went forth again, and saith unto them, Behold, I bring him forth to you, that ye may know [o]that I find no fault in him.

5 Then came Jesus forth, wearing the crown of thorns, and the purple robe. And Pilate saith unto them, [p]Behold the man!

6 When the chief priests therefore and officers saw him, they cried out, saying, Crucify him, crucify him,

Pilate saith unto them, Take ye him, and crucify him: for I find no fault in him.

7 The Jews answered him, [a]We have a law, and by our law he ought to die, because he made himself the Son of God.

8 When Pilate therefore heard that saying, he was the more afraid;

9 And went again into the judgment hall, and saith unto Jesus, Whence art thou? [b]But Jesus gave him no answer.

10 Then saith Pilate unto him, Speakest thou not unto me? knowest thou not that I have power to crucify thee, and have power to release thee?

11 Jesus answered, [c]Thou couldest have no power at all against me, except it were given thee from above: [d]therefore he that delivered me unto thee hath the greater [e]sin.

12 And from thenceforth Pilate sought to release him: but the Jews cried out, saying, If thou let this man go, thou art not Cæsar's friend: [f]whosoever maketh himself a king speaketh against Cæsar.

13 [g]When Pilate therefore heard that saying, he brought Jesus forth, and sat down in the judgment seat in a place that is called the Pavement, but in the Hebrew, Gabbatha.

The final rejection of the King by the Jewish authorities and people.

14 And it was the preparation of the passover, and about the [h]sixth hour: and he saith unto the Jews, Behold your King!

15 But they cried out, Away with him, away with him, crucify him. Pilate saith unto them, Shall I crucify your King? The chief priests answered, [i]We have no king but Cæsar.

The crucifixion of Jesus Christ (Mt. 27. 33-54; Mk. 15. 22-39; Lk. 23. 33-47).

16 [j]Then delivered he him therefore unto them to be crucified. And they took Jesus, and led him away.

17 And he bearing his cross [k]went forth into a place called the place of a skull, which is called in the Hebrew Golgotha:

18 Where they [l]crucified him, and two other with him, [m]on either side one, and Jesus in the midst.

19 And Pilate wrote a title, and put it on the cross. And the writing was, JESUS OF NAZARETH THE KING OF THE JEWS.

20 This title then read many of the Jews: for the place where Jesus was crucified was nigh to the city: and it was written in Hebrew, and Greek, and Latin.

21 Then said the chief priests of the Jews to Pilate, Write not, The King of the Jews; but that he said, I am King of the Jews.

22 Pilate answered, What I have written I have written.

23 Then the soldiers, when they had crucified Jesus, [n]took his garments, and made four parts, to every soldier a part; and also his coat: now the coat was without seam, woven from the top throughout.

24 They said therefore among themselves, [o]Let us not rend it, but cast lots for it, whose it shall be: that the scripture might be fulfilled, which saith, [p]They parted my raiment among them, and for my vesture they did cast lots. These things therefore the soldiers did.

25 [q]Now there stood by the cross of Jesus his mother, and his mother's sister, Mary the wife of Cleophas, and Mary Magdalene.

26 When Jesus therefore saw his mother, and the [r]disciple standing by, whom he loved, he saith unto his mother, Woman, [s]behold thy son!

27 Then saith he to the disciple, Behold thy mother! And from that hour that disciple took her unto his own home.

28 After this, Jesus knowing that all things were now accomplished, [t]that the scripture might be fulfilled, saith, I thirst.

29 Now there was set a vessel full of [u]vinegar: and they filled a spunge with vinegar, and put it upon hyssop, and put it to his mouth.

30 When Jesus therefore had received the vinegar, he said, [v]It is finished: and he bowed his head, [w]and [x]gave up the ghost.

"Not a bone of him broken."

31 The Jews therefore, because it was the [y]preparation, that the bodies should not remain upon the cross on the sabbath day, (for that sabbath day was an [z]high day,) besought Pilate that [a]their legs might be broken, and that they might be taken away.

32 Then came the soldiers, and brake the legs of the first, and of 34 But one of the soldiers with a spear [b]pierced his side, and forthwith [c]came there out [d]blood and water.

35 And he that saw it bare record, and his record is true: and he knoweth that he saith true, that ye might believe.

36 For these things were done, that the scripture should be fulfilled, [e]A bone of him shall not be broken.

37 And again another scripture saith, [f]They shall look on him whom they pierced.

The entombment (Mt. 27. 57-60; Mk 15. 43-47; Lk. 23. 50-56).

38 And after this Joseph of Arimathæa, being a disciple of Jesus, but [g]secretly for fear of the Jews, besought Pilate that he might take away the body of Jesus: and Pilate gave him leave. He came therefore, and took the body of Jesus.

39 And there came also [h]Nicodemus, which at the first came to Jesus by night, and brought a mixture of [i]myrrh and aloes, about an hundred [j]pound weight.

40 Then took they the body of Jesus, and wound it in [k]linen clothes with the spices, as the manner of the Jews is to bury.

41 Now in the place where he was crucified there was a garden; and in the garden a new sepulchre, wherein was [l]never man yet laid.

42 There laid they Jesus therefore because of the [m]Jews' preparation day; for the sepulchre was nigh at hand.

CHAPTER 20.

The resurrection of Jesus Christ (Mt. 28. 1-10; Mk. 16. 1-14; Lk. 24. 1-43).

THE first day of the week cometh [n]Mary Magdalene early, when it was yet dark, unto the sepulchre, and seeth the stone taken away from the sepulchre.

2 Then she runneth, and cometh to Simon Peter, and to the [o]other disciple, whom Jesus loved, and saith unto them, They have [p]taken away the Lord out of the sepulchre, and we know not where they have laid him.

3 Peter therefore went forth, and that other disciple, and came to the sepulchre.

4 So they ran both together: and the [q]other disciple did outrun Peter, and came first to the sepulchre.

5 And he stooping down, and looking in, saw the linen clothes lying; yet went he not in.

6 Then cometh Simon Peter following him, and [r]went into the sepulchre, and seeth the linen clothes lie,

7 And the [s]napkin, that was about his head, not lying with the linen clothes, but wrapped together in a place by itself.

8 Then went in also that other disciple, which came first to the sepulchre, and he saw, and believed.

9 [t]For as yet they knew not the scripture, that he must rise again from the dead.

10 Then the disciples [u]went away again unto their own home.

Jesus appears to Mary Magdalene.

11 But Mary stood without at the sepulchre [v]weeping: and as she wept, she stooped down, and looked into the sepulchre,

12 And seeth [w]two angels in white sitting, the one at the head, and the other at the feet, where the body of Jesus had lain.

13 And they say unto her, Woman, why weepest thou? She saith unto them, Because they have taken away my Lord, and I know not where they have laid him.

14 And when she had thus said, she turned herself back, and saw Jesus standing, and [x]knew not that it was Jesus.

15 Jesus saith unto her, Woman, why weepest thou? [y]whom seekest thou? She, supposing him to be the gardener, saith unto him, Sir, if thou have borne him hence, tell me where thou hast laid him, and I will take him away.

16 Jesus saith unto her, [z]Mary. She turned herself, and saith unto him, Rabboni; which is to say, Master.

17 Jesus saith unto her, [1a]Touch

[a] Or, do not detain me.

[1] Cf. Mt. xxviii. 9, "and they came and held him by the feet." A contradiction has been supposed. Three views are held: (1) That Jesus speaks to Mary as the High Priest fulfilling the day of atonement (Lev. xvi.). Having accomplished the sacrifice, He was on His way to present the sacred blood in heaven, and that, between the meeting with Mary in the garden and the meeting of Mt. xxviii. 9, He me not; for I am not yet [a]ascended to my Father: but go to my [b]brethren, and say unto them, I ascend unto [c]my Father, and [d]your Father; and to my God, and your God.

18 [e]Mary Magdalene came and told the disciples that she had seen the Lord, and that he had spoken these things unto her.

Jesus appears to the disciples: Thomas not present (Lk. 24. 36-49).

19 Then the same day at evening, being the first day of the week, when the doors were shut where the disciples were assembled for [f]fear of the Jews, came Jesus and [g]stood in the midst, and saith unto them, [h]Peace be unto you.

20 And when he had so said, he [i]shewed unto them his hands and his side. [j]Then were the disciples glad, when they saw the Lord.

21 Then said Jesus to them again, Peace be unto you: [k]as my Father hath sent me, even so send I you.

22 And when he had said this, he [l]breathed on them, and saith unto them, Receive ye the [m]Holy Ghost:

23 Whose soever [n]sins ye remit, they are remitted unto them; and whose soever sins ye retain, they are retained.

Jesus appears to the disciples: Thomas present.

24 But Thomas, one of the twelve, called [o]Didymus, was not with them when Jesus came.

25 The other disciples therefore said unto him, We have seen the Lord. But he said unto them, [p]Except I shall see in his hands the print of the nails, and put my finger into the print of the nails, and thrust my hand into his side, I will not believe.

26 And after eight days again his disciples were within, and Thomas with them: then came Jesus, the doors being shut, and stood in the midst, and said, [q]Peace be unto you.

27 Then saith he to Thomas, Reach hither thy finger, and behold my hands; and reach hither thy hand, and thrust it into my side: and be not faithless, but believing.

28 And Thomas answered and said unto him, [r]My [1]Lord and my God.

29 Jesus saith unto him, Thomas, because thou hast seen me, thou hast believed: [s]blessed are they that have not seen, and yet have believed.

Conclusion: why John's Gospel was written.

30 And many other signs truly did Jesus in the presence of his disciples, which are not written in this book:

31 But these are written, that ye might [t]believe that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God; and that believing ye might have [u]life through his name.

CHAPTER 21.

Epilogue: "If I will." The risen Christ is Master of our service.

AFTER these things Jesus shewed himself again to the disciples at the [v]sea of Tiberias; and on this wise shewed he himself.

2 There were together Simon Peter, and Thomas called Didymus, and [w]Nathanael of Cana in Galilee, and the sons of Zebedee, and two other of his disciples.

had so ascended and returned: a view in harmony with types. (2) That Mary Magdalene, knowing as yet only Christ after the flesh (2 Cor. v. 15-17), and having found her Beloved, sought only to hold Him so; while He, about to assume a new relation to His disciples in ascension, gently teaches Mary that now she must not seek to hold Him to the earth, but rather become His messenger of the new joy. (3) That He merely meant: "Do not detain me now; I am not yet ascended; you will see me again; run rather to my brethren," etc.

[1]The deity of Jesus Christ is declared in Scripture: (1) In the intimations and explicit predictions of the O.T. (a) The theophanies intimate the appearance of God in human form, and His ministry thus to man (Gen. xvi. 7-13; xviii. 2-23, especially v. 17; xxxii. 28 with Hos. xii. 3-5; Ex. iii. 2-14). (b) The Messiah is expressly declared to be the Son of God (Psa. ii. 2-9), and God (Psa. xlv. 6, 7 with Heb. i. 8, 9; Psa. cx. 1 with Mt. xxii. 44; Acts ii. 34 and Heb. i. 13

(3) Christ-directed service, and the result.

6 And he said unto them, [b]Cast the net on the right side of the ship, and ye shall find. They cast therefore, and now [c]they were not able to draw it for the multitude of fishes.

7 Therefore that disciple whom Jesus loved saith unto Peter, It is the [d]Lord. Now when Simon Peter heard that it was the Lord, he girt his fisher's coat unto him, (for he was naked,) and did [e]cast himself into the sea.

8 And the other disciples came in a little ship; (for they were not far from land, but as it were two hundred [f]cubits,) dragging the net with fishes.

9 As soon then as they were come to land, they saw a [g]fire of coals there, and fish laid thereon, and bread.

10 Jesus saith unto them, Bring of the fish which ye have now caught.

11 Simon Peter went up, and drew the net to land full of great fishes, an hundred and fifty and three: and for all there were so many, yet [h]was not the net broken.

14 This is now the [l]third time that Jesus shewed himself to his disciples, after that he was risen from the dead.

(2) Christ Himself affirmed His deity. (a) He applied to Himself the Jehovistic I AM. (The pronoun "he" is not in the Greek; cf. John viii. 24; John viii. 56-58. The Jews correctly understood this to be our Lord's claim to full deity [v. 59]. See, also, John x. 33; xviii. 4-6, where, also, "he" is not in the original.) (b) He claimed to be the Adonai of the O.T. (Mt. xxii. 42-45. See Gen. xv. 2, note). (c) He asserted His identity with the Father (Mt. xxviii. 19; Mk. xiv. 62; John x. 30; that the Jews so understood Him is shown by vs. 31, 32; John xiv. 8, 9; xvii. 5). (d) He exercised the chief prerogative of God (Mk. ii. 5-7; Lk. vii. 48-50). (e) He asserted omnipresence (Mt. xviii. 20; John iii. 13); omniscience (John i. 11-14, when Jesus was fifty miles away; Mk. xi. 6-8); omnipotence (Mt. xxviii. 18; Lk. vii. 14; John v. 21-23; vi. 19); mastery over nature, and creative power (Lk. ix. 16, 17; John ii. 9; x. 28). (f) He received and approved human worship (Mt. xiv. 33; xxviii. 9; John xx. 28, 29).

(5) The N.T. writers ascribe divine works to Christ (John i. 3, 10; Col. i. 16, 17; Heb. i. 3).

(6) The N.T. writers teach that supreme worship should be paid to Christ (Acts vii. 59, 60; 1 Cor. i. 2; 2 Cor. xiii. 14; Phil. ii. 9, 10; Heb. i. 6; Rev. i. 5, 6; v. 8, 13).

(7) The holiness and resurrection of Christ prove His deity (John viii. 46; Rom. i. 4).

these? He saith unto him, Yea, Lord; thou knowest that I [a]love thee. He saith unto him, [b]Feed my lambs.

16 He saith to him again the second time, Simon, son of Jonas, [c]lovest thou me? He saith unto him, Yea, Lord; thou knowest that I [a]love thee. He saith unto him, [d]Feed my sheep.

17 He saith unto him the third time, Simon, son of Jonas, [c]lovest thou me? Peter was [f]grieved because he said unto him the third time, Lovest thou me? And he said unto him, Lord, thou knowest all things; thou knowest that I [a]love thee. Jesus saith unto him, [g]Feed my sheep.

(6) The Master appoints the time and manner of the servant's death.

18 Verily, verily, I say unto thee, When thou wast young, thou girdedst thyself, and walkedst whither [h]thou wouldest: but when thou shalt be old, thou shalt stretch forth thy hands, and another shall gird thee, and carry thee whither thou wouldest not.

19 This spake he, signifying [i]by what death he should glorify God. And when he had spoken this, he saith unto him, [j]Follow me.

(7) If the Lord returns the servants will not die. (Cf. 1 Cor. 15. 51, 52; 1 Thes. 4. 14–18.)

20 Then Peter, turning about, seeth the [k]disciple whom Jesus loved following; which also leaned on his breast at supper, and said, Lord, which is he that betrayeth thee?

21 Peter seeing him saith to Jesus, Lord, and [l]what shall this man do?

22 Jesus saith unto him, If I will that he tarry [m]till I come, what is that to thee? follow thou me.

23 Then went this saying abroad among the brethren, that that disciple [n]should not die: yet Jesus said not unto him, He shall not die; but, If I will that he tarry till I come, what is that to thee?

24 This is the disciple which [o]testifieth of these things, and wrote these things: and we know that his testimony is true.

25 And there are also [p]many other things which Jesus did, the which, if they should be written every one, I suppose that even the [q]world itself [r]could not contain the books that should be written. Amen.

WRITER. In the Acts of the Apostles Luke continues the account of Christianity begun in the Gospel which bears his name. In the "former treatise" he tells what Jesus "began both to do and teach"; in the Acts, what Jesus continued to do and teach through His Holy Spirit sent down.

Date. The Acts concludes with the account of Paul's earliest ministry in Rome, A.D. 65, and appears to have been written at or near that time.

Theme. This book records the ascension and promised return of the Lord Jesus, the descent of the Holy Spirit at Pentecost, Peter's use of the keys, opening the kingdom (considered as the sphere of profession, as in Mt. xiii.) to the Jews at Pentecost, and to the Gentiles in the house of Cornelius; the beginning of the Christian church and the conversion and ministry of Paul.

The Holy Spirit fills the scene. As the presence of the Son, exalting and revealing the Father, is the great fact of the Gospels, so the presence of the Spirit, exalting and revealing the Son, is the great fact of the Acts.

Acts is in two chief parts: In the first section, i. 1-ix. 43, Peter is the prominent personage, Jerusalem is the centre, and the ministry is to Jews. Already in covenant relations with Jehovah, they had sinned in rejecting Jesus as the Christ. The preaching, therefore, was directed to that point, and repentance (i.e. "a changed mind") was demanded. The apparent failure of the Old Testament promises concerning the Davidic kingdom was explained by the promise that the kingdom would be set up at the return of Christ (Acts ii. 25-31; xv. 14-16). This ministry to Israel fulfilled Lk. xix. 12-14. In the persecutions of the apostles and finally in the martyrdom of Stephen, the Jews sent after the king the message, "We will not have this man to reign over us." In the second division (x. 1-xxviii. 31) Paul is prominent, a new centre is established at Antioch, and the ministry is chiefly to Gentiles who, as "strangers from the covenants of promise" (Eph. ii. 12), had but to "believe on the Lord Jesus Christ" to be saved. Chapters xi., xii., and xv. of this section are transitional, establishing finally the distinction, doctrinally, between law and grace. Galatians should be read in this connection.

CHAPTER 1.

Introduction (vs. 1, 2).

1 THE [a]former treatise have I made, O [b]Theophilus, of all that Jesus began both to do and teach,
2 Until the day in which he was [c]taken up, after that he through the Holy Ghost had given commandments unto the apostles whom he had chosen:

The resurrection-ministry of Christ.

3 [d]To whom also he shewed himself alive after his passion by many [e]infallible proofs, being seen of them forty days, and speaking of the things pertaining to the kingdom of God:

[j] Mt. 24. 36; Mk. 13. 32; 1 Thes. 5. 1.

4 And, [f]being assembled together with them, commanded them that they should not depart from Jerusalem, but wait for the promise of the Father, which, saith he, [g]ye have heard of me.

5 For John truly baptized [h]with water; but ye shall be baptized [h]with the Holy Ghost not many days hence.

6 When they therefore were come together, they asked of him, saying, Lord, wilt thou at this time [i]restore again the [1][i]kingdom to Israel?

7 And he said unto them, [j]It is not for you to know the times or the seasons, which the Father hath put in his own power.

[1] Forty days the risen Lord had been instructing the apostles "of the things pertaining to the kingdom of God," doubtless, according to His custom (Lk. xxiv. 27, 32, 44, 45), teaching them out of the Scriptures. One point was left untouched, viz., the time when He would restore the kingdom to Israel; hence the apostles' question. The answer was according to His repeated teaching; the time was not revealed (Mt. xxiv. 36, 42, 44; xxv. 13; cf. 1 Thes. v. 1).

The apostolic commission. (Cf. Mt. 28. 18-20; Mk. 16. 15-18; Lk. 24. 47, 48; John 20. 21-23.)

8 But ye shall receive power, after that the Holy Ghost is come upon you: and ye shall be [a]witnesses unto me both in Jerusalem, and in all Judæa, and in Samaria, and unto the uttermost part of the earth.

9 And when he had spoken these things, while they beheld, [b]he was taken up; and a cloud received him out of their sight.

The promise of the return of Jesus to the earth.

10 And [c]while they looked stedfastly toward [d]heaven as he went up, behold, two men stood by them in white apparel;

11 Which also said, Ye men of Galilee, why stand ye gazing up into heaven? this same Jesus, which [e]is taken up from you into heaven, [f]shall so [1]come in like manner as ye have seen him go into heaven.

The ten days' waiting for the Spirit.

12 Then returned they unto Jerusalem from the mount called Olivet, which is from Jerusalem a sabbath day's [g]journey.

13 And when they were come in, they went up into [h]an upper room, where abode both Peter, and James, and John, and Andrew, Philip, and Thomas, Bartholomew, and Matthew, James the son of Alphæus, and Simon [i]Zelotes, and Judas the brother of James.

14 These all continued with one accord in prayer and supplication with the women, and Mary the mother of Jesus, and with his brethren.

The choice of Matthias.

15 And in those days Peter stood up in the midst of the [j]disciples, and said, (the number of names together were about an hundred and twenty,)

16 Men and brethren, this scripture must needs have been fulfilled [k]which the [l]Holy Ghost by the mouth of David spake before concerning [m]Judas, which was guide to them that took Jesus.

17 For he was numbered with us, and had [n]obtained part of this ministry.

[1] The two Advents—Summary: (1) The O.T. foreview of the coming Messiah is in two aspects—that of rejection and suffering (as, e.g. in Isa. liii.), and that of earthly glory and power (as, e.g. in Isa. xi.; Jer. xxiii.; Ezk. xxxvii.). Often these two aspects blend in one passage (e.g. Psa. ii.). The prophets themselves were perplexed by this seeming contradiction (1 Pet. i. 10, 11). It was solved by partial fulfilment. In due time the Messiah, born of a virgin according to Isaiah, appeared among men and began His ministry by announcing the predicted kingdom as "at hand" (Mt. iv. 17, note). The rejection of King and kingdom followed. (2) Thereupon the rejected King announced His approaching crucifixion, resurrection, departure, and return (Mt. xii. 38-40; xvi. 1-4, 27; Lk. xii. 35-46; xvii. 20-36; xviii. 31-34; xix. 12-27; Mt. xxiv., xxv.). (3) He uttered predictions concerning the course of events between His departure and return (Mt. xiii. 1-50; xvi. 18; xxiv. 4-26). (4) This promised return of Christ becomes a prominent theme in the Acts, Epistles, and Revelation.

Taken together, the N.T. teachings concerning the return of Jesus Christ may be summarized as follows: (1) That return is an event, not a process, and is personal and corporeal (Mt. xxiii. 39; xxiv. 30; xxv. 31; Mk. xiv. 62; Lk. xvii. 24; John xiv. 3; Acts i. 11; Phil. iii. 20, 21; 1 Thes. iv. 14-17). (2) His coming has a threefold relation: to the church, to Israel, to the nations.

(a) To the church the descent of the Lord into the air to raise the sleeping and change the living saints is set forth as a constant expectation and hope (Mt. xxiv. 36, 44, 48-51; xxv. 13; 1 Cor. xv. 51, 52; Phil. iii. 20; 1 Thes. i. 10; iv. 14-17; 1 Tim. vi. 14; Tit. ii. 13; Rev. xxii. 20).

(b) To Israel, the return of the Lord is predicted to accomplish the yet unfulfilled prophecies of her national regathering, conversion, and establishment in peace and power under the Davidic Covenant (Acts xv. 14-17 with Zech. xiv. 1-9). See "Kingdom (O.T.)," 2 Sam. vii. 8-17; Zech. xiii. 8, note; Lk. i. 31-33; 1 Cor. xv. 24, note.

(c) To the Gentile nations the return of Christ is predicted to bring the destruction of the present political world-system (Dan. ii. 34, 35; Rev. xix. 11, note); the judgment of Mt. xxv. 31-46, followed by world-wide Gentile conversion and participation in the blessings of the kingdom (Isa. ii. 2-4; xi. 10; lx. 3; Zech. viii. 3, 23; xiv. 16-21).

18 Now this man purchased a field with the [a]reward of iniquity; and falling headlong, he burst asunder in the midst, and all his bowels gushed out.

19 And it was known unto all the dwellers at Jerusalem; insomuch as that field is called in their proper tongue, Aceldama, that is to say, The field of blood.

20 For it is written in the book of Psalms, [b]Let his habitation be desolate, and let no man dwell therein: and his [c]bishoprick let another [d]take.

21 Wherefore of these men which have companied with us all the time that the Lord Jesus went in and out among us,

22 Beginning from the baptism of John, unto that same day that he was [e]taken up from us, must one [f]be ordained to be a witness with us of his resurrection.

23 And they [g]appointed two, Joseph called Barsabas, who was surnamed Justus, and Matthias.

24 And they [h]prayed, and said, Thou, Lord, which knowest the hearts of all men, shew whether of these two thou hast chosen,

25 That he may take [i]part of this ministry and apostleship, from which Judas by [j]transgression fell, that he might go to his own place.

26 And they gave forth their lots; and the lot fell upon Matthias; and he was numbered with the eleven apostles.

CHAPTER 2.

Pentecost: Peter's first use of the keys (Mt. 16. 18, 19); the gospel given to the Jews. (Cf. Acts 10. 1-48.)

AND when [k]the day of Pentecost was fully come, they were all with one accord in one place.

2 And suddenly there came a sound from heaven as of a rushing mighty wind, and it filled all the house where they were sitting.

3 And there appeared unto them [l]cloven tongues like as of fire, and it sat upon each of them.

4 And they were all filled with the [1]Holy Ghost, and began to speak with [m]other tongues, as the [n]Spirit gave them utterance.

5 And there were dwelling at Jerusalem Jews, devout men, out of every nation under heaven.

6 Now when this was noised abroad, the multitude came together, and were confounded, because that every man heard them speak in his own language.

7 And they were all amazed and marvelled, saying one to another, Behold, are not all these which speak Galilæans?

[1] The Holy Spirit, N.T. Summary (see Mal. ii. 15, note):

(1) The Holy Spirit is revealed as a divine Person. This is expressly declared (e.g. John xiv. 16, 17, 26; xv. 26; xvi. 7-15; Mt. xxviii. 19), and everywhere implied.

(2) The revelation concerning Him is progressive: (a) In the O.T. (see Mal. ii. 15, note), He comes upon whom He will, apparently without reference to conditions in them. (b) During His earth-life, Christ taught His disciples (Lk. xi. 13) that they might receive the Spirit through prayer to the Father. (c) At the close of His ministry He promised that He would Himself pray the Father, and that in answer to His prayer the Comforter would come to abide (John xiv. 16, 17). (d) On the evening of His resurrection He came to the disciples in the upper room, and breathed on them saying, "Receive ye the Holy Ghost" (John xx. 22), but instructed them to wait before beginning their ministry till the Spirit should come upon them (Lk. xxiv. 49; Acts i. 8). (e) On the day of Pentecost the Spirit came upon the whole body of believers (Acts ii. 1-4). (f) After Pentecost, so long as the Gospel was preached to Jews only, the Spirit was imparted to such as believed by the laying on of hands (Acts viii. 17; ix. 17, etc.). (g) When Peter opened the door of the kingdom to the Gentiles (Acts x.), the Holy Spirit, without delay, or other condition than faith, was given to those who believed (Acts x. 44; xi. 15-18). This is the permanent fact for the entire church-age. Every believer is born of the Spirit (John iii. 3, 6; 1 John v. 1), indwelt by the Spirit, whose presence makes the believer's body a temple (1 Cor. vi. 19; Rom. viii. 9-15; 1 Cor. vi. 19; Gal. iv. 6), and baptized by the Spirit (1 Cor. xii. 12, 13; 1 John ii. 20, 27), thus sealing him for God (Eph. i. 13; iv. 30).

(3) The N.T. distinguishes between having the Spirit, which is true of all believers, and being filled with the Spirit, which is the believers' privilege and duty (cf. Acts ii. 4 with iv. 29-31; Eph. i. 13, 14 with v. 18)—"One baptism, many fillings."

8 And how hear we every man in our own [a]tongue, wherein we were born?
9 Parthians, and Medes, and Elamites, and the dwellers in Mesopotamia, and in Judæa, and Cappadocia, in Pontus, and Asia,
10 Phrygia, and Pamphylia, in Egypt, and in the parts of Libya about Cyrene, and strangers [b]of Rome, Jews and proselytes,
11 Cretes and Arabians, we do hear them speak in our [c]tongues the wonderful works of God.

Peter's sermon. Theme: Jesus is Lord and Christ (v. 36).

14 But Peter, standing up with the eleven, lifted up his voice, and [1]said unto them, Ye men of Judæa, and all ye that dwell at Jerusalem, be this known unto you, and hearken to my words:

(1) Introductory. Joel's prophecy fulfilled.

15 For these are not drunken, as ye suppose, seeing it is but the third hour of the day.
16 But this is that which was spoken [e]by the prophet Joel;
17 And it shall come to pass in the

(4) The Holy Spirit is related to Christ in His conception (Mt. i. 18-20; Lk. i. 35), baptism (Mt. iii. 16; Mk. i. 10; Lk. iii. 22; John i. 32, 33), walk and service (Lk. iv. 1, 14), resurrection (Rom. viii. 11), and as His witness throughout this age (John xv. 26; xvi. 8-11, 13, 14).

(5) The Spirit forms the church (Mt. xvi. 18; Heb. xii. 23, note) by baptizing all believers into the body of Christ (1 Cor. xii. 12, 13), imparts gifts for service to every member of that body (1 Cor. xii. 7-11, 27, 30), guides the members in their service (Lk. ii. 27; iv. 1; Acts xvi. 6, 7), and is Himself the power of that service (Acts i. 8; ii. 4; 1 Cor. ii. 4).

(6) The Spirit abides in the company of believers who constitute a local church, making of them, corporately, a temple (1 Cor. iii. 16, 17).

(7) Christ indicates a threefold personal relationship of the Spirit to the believer: "With," "in," "upon" (John xiv. 17; Lk. xxiv. 49; Acts i. 8). "With" indicates the approach of God to the soul, convicting of sin (John xvi. 9), presenting Christ as the object of faith (John xvi. 14), imparting faith (Eph. ii. 8), and regenerating (John iii. 3-16). "In" describes the abiding presence of the Spirit in the believer's body (1 Cor. vi. 19) to give victory over the flesh (Rom. viii. 2-4; Gal. v. 16, 17), to create the Christian character (Gal. v. 22, 23), to help infirmities (Rom. viii. 26), to inspire prayer (Eph. vi. 18), to give conscious access to God (Eph. ii. 18), to actualize to the believer his sonship (Gal. iv. 6), to apply the Scriptures in cleansing and sanctification (Eph. v. 26; 2 Thes. ii. 13; 1 Pet. i. 2), to comfort and intercede (Acts ix. 31; Rom. viii. 26), and to reveal Christ (John xvi. 14).

(8) Sins against the Spirit committed by unbelievers are: To blaspheme (Mt. xii. 31), resist (Acts vii. 51), insult (Heb. x. 29, "despite," lit. insult). Believers' sins against the Spirit are: To grieve Him by allowing evil in heart or life (Eph. iv. 30, 31), and to quench Him by disobedience (1 Thes. v. 19). The right attitude toward the Spirit is yieldedness to His sway in walk and service, and in constant willingness that He shall "put away" whatever grieves Him or hinders His power (Eph. iv. 31).

(9) The symbols of the Spirit are: (a) oil (John iii. 34; Heb. i. 9); (b) water (John vii. 38, 39); (c) wind (Acts ii. 2; John iii. 8); (d) fire (Acts ii. 3); (e) a dove (Mt. iii. 16); (f) a seal (Eph. i. 13; iv. 30); (g) an earnest or pledge (Eph. i. 14).

[1]The theme of Peter's sermon at Pentecost is stated in verse 36. It is, that Jesus is the Messiah. No message could have been more unwelcome to the Jews who had rejected His Messianic claims, and crucified Him. Peter, therefore, does not announce his theme until he has covered every possible Jewish objection. The point of difficulty with the Jews was the apparent failure of the clear and repeated prophetic promise of a regathered Israel established in their own land under their covenanted King (e.g. Isa. xi. 10-12; Jer. xxiii. 5-8; Ezk. xxxvii. 21-28). Instead of explaining, as Rome first taught, followed by some Protestant commentators, that the covenant and promises were to be fulfilled in the church in a so-called "spiritual" sense, Peter shows (vs. 25-32) from Psa. xvi. that David himself understood that the dead and risen Christ would fulfil the covenant and sit on his throne (Lk. i. 32, 33). In precisely the same way James (Acts xv. 14-17) met the same difficulty. See "Kingdom (O.T.)," Zech. xii. 8; (N.T.), Lk. i. 33; 1 Cor. xv. 24.

[1]last days, saith God, I will [a]pour out of my [b]Spirit upon all flesh: and your sons and your daughters shall prophesy, and your young men shall see visions, and your old men shall dream dreams:

18 And on my [c]servants and on my handmaidens I will pour out in those days of my [d]Spirit; and they shall prophesy:

19 And I will shew wonders in heaven above, and signs in the earth beneath; blood, and fire, and vapour of smoke:

20 The sun shall be turned into darkness, and the moon into blood, before that [e]great and notable day of the [f]Lord come:

21 And it shall come to pass, that whosoever shall call on the name of the [g]Lord shall be [h]saved.

(2) The works of Jesus prove that he is Lord and Christ.

22 Ye men of Israel, hear these words; Jesus of Nazareth, a man approved of God among you by miracles and wonders and signs, which God did by him in the midst of you, as ye yourselves also know:

23 Him, being delivered by the determinate counsel and [i]foreknowledge of God, ye have taken, and by wicked hands have crucified and slain:

24 Whom God hath raised up, having loosed the pains of death: because it was not possible that he should be holden of it.

(3) David foretold Messiah's kingship after resurrection.

25 For [j]David speaketh concerning him, I foresaw the [k]Lord always before my face, for he is on my right hand, that I should not be moved:

26 Therefore did my heart rejoice, and my tongue was glad; moreover also my flesh shall rest in hope:

27 Because thou wilt not leave my soul in [l]hell, neither wilt thou suffer thine [m]Holy One to see corruption.

28 Thou hast made known to me the ways of [n]life; thou shalt make me full of joy with thy countenance.

29 Men and brethren, let me freely speak unto you of the patriarch [o]David, that he is both dead and buried, and his sepulchre is with us unto this day.

30 Therefore being a prophet, and knowing that God had sworn with an oath to him, that of the fruit of his loins, according to the flesh, [p]he would raise up Christ to sit on his [q]throne;

31 He seeing this before spake of the resurrection of [r]Christ, that his soul was not left in [s]hell, neither his flesh did see corruption.

(4) His resurrection proves that he is Lord and Christ.

32 This Jesus hath God [t]raised up, whereof we all are witnesses.

33 Therefore being by the right hand of God exalted, and having received of the Father the promise of the Holy Ghost, he hath shed forth this, which ye now see and hear.

34 For David is not ascended into the heavens: but he saith himself, The LORD said unto my [u]Lord, Sit thou on my right hand, 35 Until I make thy foes thy footstool.

36 Therefore let all the house of Israel know assuredly, that God hath made that same Jesus, whom ye have crucified, both Lord and Christ.

(5) What Israel must do.

37 Now when they heard this, they were pricked in their heart, and said unto Peter and to the rest of the apostles, Men and brethren, what shall we do?

38 Then Peter said unto them, [v]Repent, and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ [w]for the [x]remission of [y]sins, and ye shall receive the gift of the Holy Ghost.

[1] A distinction must be observed between "the last days" when the prediction relates to Israel, and the "last days" when the prediction relates to the church (1 Tim. iv. 1-3; 2 Tim. iii. 1-8; Heb. i. 1, 2; 1 Pet. i. 4, 5; 2 Pet. iii. 1-9; 1 John ii. 18, 19; Jude 17-19). Also distinguish the expression the "last days" (plural) from "the last day" (singular); the latter expression referring to the resurrections and last judgment (John vi. 39, 40, 44, 54; xi. 24; xii. 48). The "last days" as related to the church began with the advent of Christ (Heb. i. 2), but have especial reference to the time of declension and apostasy at the end of this age (2 Tim. iii. 1; iv. 4). The "last days" as related to Israel are the days of Israel's exaltation and blessing, and are synonymous with the kingdom-age (Isa. ii. 2-4, Mic. iv. 1-7). They are "last" not with reference to this dispensation, but with reference to the whole of Israel's history.

39 For the promise is unto you, and to your children, and to all that are afar off, even as many as the [a]Lord our God shall call.

40 And with many other words did he testify and exhort, saying, Save yourselves from this untoward generation.

41 Then they [b]that gladly received his word were baptized: and the same day there were [c]added unto them about three thousand souls.

The first church. (Cf. Acts 4. 32-37.)

42 And they continued stedfastly in the apostles' [d]doctrine and fellowship, and in breaking of bread, and in prayers.

43 And fear came upon every soul: and many wonders and signs were done [e]by the apostles.

44 And all that believed were together, and had all things common;

45 And sold their possessions and goods, and parted them to all men, as every man had need.

46 And they, continuing daily with one accord in the temple, and breaking bread from house to house, did [f]eat their meat with gladness and singleness of heart, 47 Praising God, and having favour with all the people. [g]And the Lord added to the [h]church daily such as should be [i]saved.

CHAPTER 3.

The first apostolic miracle: the lame man healed.

NOW Peter and John [j]went up together into the temple at the hour of [k]prayer, being the ninth hour.

2 And a [l]certain man lame from his mother's womb was carried, whom they laid daily at the gate of the temple which is called Beautiful, [m]to ask alms of them that entered into the temple;

3 Who seeing Peter and John about to go into the temple asked an alms.

4 And Peter, fastening his eyes upon him with John, said, Look on us.

5 And he gave heed unto them, expecting to receive something of them.

6 Then Peter said, Silver and gold have I none; but such as I have give I thee: [n]In the name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth rise up and walk.

7 And he took him by the right hand, and lifted him up: and [o]immediately his feet and ankle bones received strength.

8 And he [p]leaping up stood, and [q]walked, and entered with them into the temple, walking, and leaping, and praising God.

9 And [r]all the people saw him walking and praising God:

10 And they knew that it was he which sat for alms at the Beautiful gate of the temple: and they were filled with wonder and amazement at that which had happened unto him.

11 And as the lame man which was healed held Peter and John, all the people ran together unto them in the [s]porch that is called Solomon's, greatly wondering.

Peter's second sermon. Theme: the covenants will be fulfilled.

12 And when Peter saw it, he answered unto the people, Ye men of Israel, why marvel ye at this? or why look ye so earnestly on us, as though by our own power or [t]holiness we had made this man to walk?

13 The God of Abraham, and of Isaac, and of Jacob, the God of our fathers, hath glorified his Son Jesus; whom ye delivered up, and denied him in the presence of Pilate, when he was determined to let him go.

14 But ye denied the [u]Holy One and the Just, and desired a murderer to be granted unto you;

15 And killed the [v]Prince of [w]life, whom God hath raised from the dead; whereof we are witnesses.

16 And his name through [x]faith in his name hath made this man strong, whom ye see and know: yea, the faith which is [y]by him hath given him this perfect soundness in the presence of you all.

17 And now, brethren, I wot that through ignorance ye did it, as did also your rulers.

18 But those things, which God before had shewed by the mouth of all his prophets, that [z]Christ should suffer, he hath so fulfilled.

19 [a]Repent ye therefore, and [b]be converted, that your [c]sins may be blotted out, [d]when the times of [1]refreshing shall come from the presence of the Lord;

Peter's address to the Sanhedrin.

5 And it came to pass on the morrow, that their rulers, and elders, and scribes,
6 And [l]Annas the high priest, and Caiaphas, and John, and Alexander, and as many as were of the kindred of the high priest, were gathered together at Jerusalem.
7 And when they had set them in the midst, they asked, [m]By what power, or by what name, have ye done this?
8 Then [n]Peter, filled with the Holy Ghost, said unto them, Ye rulers of the people, and elders of Israel,
9 If we this day be examined of the good deed done to the impotent man, by what means he is made whole;
10 Be it known unto you all, and to all the people of Israel, that [o]by the [p]name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth, whom ye crucified, [q]whom God raised from the dead, even [o]by him doth this man stand here before you whole.

12 Neither is there [t]salvation in any other: for there is none other name under heaven given among men, [u]whereby we must be saved.

Preaching in the name of Jesus forbidden.

13 Now when they saw the boldness of Peter and John, and perceived that they were [v]unlearned and ignorant men, they marvelled; dom, there shall occur blessed rest and refreshment for the people of God."—Heinrich A. W. Meyer.

[1]The appeal here is national to the Jewish people as such, not individual as in Peter's first sermon (Acts ii. 38, 39). There those who were pricked in heart were exhorted to save themselves from (among) the untoward nation; here the whole people is addressed, and the promise to national repentance is national deliverance: "and he shall send Jesus Christ" to bring in the times which the prophets had foretold (see Acts ii. 14, note). The official answer was the imprisonment of the apostles, and the inhibition to preach, so fulfilling Lk. xix. 14.

[2]Gr. apokatastaseos = restoration, occurring here and Acts i. 6 only. The meaning is limited by the words: "Which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his holy prophets." The prophets speak of the restoration of Israel to the land (see "Israel," Gen. xii. 2, 3; Rom. xi. 26; also "Palestinian Covenant," Deut. xxx. 1-9, note); and of the restoration of the theocracy under David's Son. (See "Davidic Covenant," 2 Sam. vii. 8-17, note; "Kingdom," Gen. i. 26-28; Zech. xii. 8, note.) No prediction of the conversion and restoration of the wicked dead is found in the prophets, or elsewhere. Cf. Rev. xx. 11-15.

and they took knowledge of them, that they had been with Jesus.

14 And beholding the man which was healed standing with them, they could say nothing against it.

15 But when they had commanded them to go aside out of the council, they conferred among themselves,

16 Saying, [a]What shall we do to these men? for that indeed a notable [b]miracle hath been done by them is manifest to all them that dwell in Jerusalem; and we cannot deny it.

17 But that it spread no further among the people, let us straitly threaten them, that they speak henceforth to no man in this name.

18 And they called them, and commanded them not to speak at all nor teach in the name of Jesus.

19 But Peter and John answered and said unto them, Whether it be right in the sight of God to [c]hearken unto you more than unto God, judge ye.

20 For we [d]cannot but speak the things which we [e]have seen and heard.

21 So when they had further threatened them, they let them go, finding nothing how they might punish them, because of the people: for all men glorified God for that which was done.

22 For the man was above forty years old, on whom this miracle of healing was shewed.

The Christians again filled with the Spirit. (Cf. Acts 2. 1-4.)

23 And being let go, [f]they went to their own company, and reported all that the chief priests and elders had said unto them.

24 And when they heard that, they [g]lifted up their voice to God with one accord, and said, Lord, [h]thou art God, which hast made heaven, and earth, and the sea, and all that in them is:

25 Who by the mouth of thy servant David hast [i]said, Why did the [j]heathen [k]rage, and the people imagine vain things?

26 The kings of the earth stood up, and the rulers were gathered together against the [l]Lord, and against his [m]Christ.

27 For of a truth against thy [n]holy child Jesus, whom thou hast anointed, both [o]Herod, and Pontius Pilate, with the Gentiles, and the people of Israel, were gathered together,

28 For to do whatsoever thy hand and thy counsel [p]determined before to be done.

29 And now, Lord, behold their threatenings: and grant unto thy servants, that with all boldness they may speak thy word,

30 By stretching forth thine hand to heal; and that signs and wonders may be done by the name of thy holy child Jesus.

31 And when they had prayed, the place was shaken where they were assembled together; and they were all filled with the [q]Holy Ghost, and they spake the word of God with boldness.

State of the church at Jerusalem. (Cf. Acts 2. 42-47.)

32 And the multitude of them that believed were of one heart and of one soul: neither said any of them that ought of the things which he possessed was his own; but they had all things common.

33 And with great power gave the apostles witness of the [r]resurrection of the Lord Jesus: and great grace was upon them all.

34 Neither was there any among them that lacked: for as many as were possessors of lands or houses sold them, and brought the prices of the things that were sold,

35 And laid them down at the apostles' feet: and distribution was made unto every man according as he had need.

36 And Joses, who by the apostles was surnamed Barnabas, (which is, being interpreted, The son of [s]consolation,) a Levite, and of the country of Cyprus, 37 Having land, sold it, and brought the money, and laid it at the apostles' feet.

CHAPTER 5.

The sin and death of Ananias and Sapphira.

BUT a certain man named Ananias, with Sapphira his wife, sold a possession,

2 And [t]kept back part of the price, his wife also being privy to it, and brought [u]a certain part, and laid it at the apostles' feet.

3 But Peter said, Ananias, [v]why hath [w]Satan filled thine heart to lie to the Holy Ghost, and to keep back part of the price of the land?

4 Whiles it remained, was it not thine own? and after it was sold, was it not in thine own power?

why hast thou conceived this thing in thine heart? thou hast not lied unto men, [a]but unto God.

5 And Ananias [b]hearing these words fell down, and gave up the ghost: and great fear came on all them that heard these things.

6 And the [c]young men arose, wound him up, and carried him out, and buried him.

7 And it was about the space of three hours after, when his wife, not knowing what was done, came in.

8 And Peter answered unto her, Tell me whether ye sold the land for so much? And she said, Yea, for so much.

9 Then Peter said unto her, How is it that ye have agreed together to [d]tempt the Spirit of the Lord? behold, the feet of them which have buried thy husband are at the door, and shall carry thee out.

10 Then fell she down straightway at his feet, and yielded up the ghost: and the young men came in, and found her dead, and, carrying her forth, buried her by her husband.

11 And great fear came upon all the church, and upon as many as heard these things.

The power of a holy church.
(See 1 Thes. 1. 1-10.)

12 And by the hands of the apostles were [e]many signs and wonders [f]wrought among the people; (and they were all with one accord in Solomon's porch.

13 And of the rest durst no man join himself to them: but the people magnified them.

14 And believers were the more added to the Lord, multitudes both of men and women.)

15 Insomuch that they brought forth the sick [g]into the streets, and laid them on beds and couches, that at the least the shadow of Peter passing by might overshadow some of them.

16 There came also a multitude [h]out of the cities round about unto Jerusalem, [i]bringing sick folks, and them which were vexed with unclean spirits: and they were healed every one.

The second persecution.

17 Then the high priest rose up, and all they that were with him, (which is the [k]sect of the Sadducees,) and were filled with [l]indignation,

18 And laid their hands on the apostles, and put them in the common prison.

19 But [m]the [n]angel of the Lord by night opened the prison doors, and brought them forth, and said,

20 Go, stand and speak in the temple to the people all the words of this [o]life.

21 And when they heard that, they entered into the temple early in the morning, and taught. But the high priest came, and they that were with him, and called the council together, and all the senate of the children of Israel, and sent to the prison to have them brought.

22 But when the officers came, and found them not in the prison, they returned, and told,

23 Saying, The prison truly found we shut with all safety, and the keepers standing without before the doors: but when we had opened, we found no man within.

24 Now when the high priest and the captain of the temple and the chief priests heard these things, they doubted of them whereunto this would grow.

25 Then came one and told them, saying, Behold, the men whom ye put in prison are standing in the temple, and teaching the people.

26 Then went the captain with the officers, and brought them without violence: for they feared the people, lest they should have been stoned.

27 And when they had brought them, they set them before the council: and the high priest asked them,

28 Saying, Did not we straitly command you that ye should not teach in this name? and, behold, ye have filled Jerusalem with your [p]doctrine, and intend to bring this man's blood upon us.

The answer of the apostles.

29 Then Peter and the other apostles answered and said, We ought to obey God rather than men.

30 The God of our fathers raised up Jesus, whom ye slew and hanged on a tree.

31 Him hath God exalted with his right hand to be a Prince and a [q]Saviour, for to give [r]repentance to Israel, and [s]forgiveness of [t]sins.

32 And we are his witnesses of these things; and so is also the [u]Holy Ghost, whom God hath given to them that obey him.

The warning of Gamaliel.

34 Then stood there up one in the council, a Pharisee, named Gamaliel, a doctor of the law, had in reputation among all the people, and commanded to put the apostles forth a little space;

35 And said unto them, Ye men of Israel, take heed to yourselves what ye intend to do as touching these men.

36 For before these days rose up Theudas, boasting himself to be somebody; to whom a number of men, about four hundred, joined themselves: who was slain; and all, as many as [b]obeyed him, were scattered, and brought to nought.

37 After this man rose up Judas of Galilee [c]in the days of the taxing, and drew away much people after him: [d]he also perished; and all, even as many as obeyed him, were dispersed.

38 And now I say unto you, Refrain from these men, and let them alone: [e]for if this counsel or this work be of men, it will come to nought:

39 But [f]if it be of God, ye cannot overthrow it; lest haply ye be found even to fight against God.

The apostles beaten.

40 And to him they agreed: and when they had called the apostles, and [g]beaten them, they commanded that they should not speak in the name of Jesus, and let them go.

41 And they departed from the presence of the council, rejoicing that they were counted worthy to suffer [h]shame for his name.

42 And daily in the temple, and in every house, they ceased not to teach and preach Jesus Christ.

CHAPTER 6.

The first deacons.

AND in those days, when the number of the disciples was multiplied, there arose a murmuring of the [i]Grecians against the Hebrews, because their widows were neglected in the daily ministration.

2 Then the twelve called the multitude of the disciples unto them, and said, It is not reason that we should leave the word of God, and serve tables.

3 Wherefore, brethren, look ye out among you seven men of honest report, full of the Holy Ghost and wisdom, whom we may appoint over this business.

4 But we will give ourselves continually to prayer, and to the ministry of the word.

5 And the saying pleased the whole multitude: and they [j]chose Stephen, a man full of faith and of the Holy Ghost, and [k]Philip, and Prochorus, and Nicanor, and Timon, and Parmenas, and Nicolas a proselyte of Antioch:

6 Whom they set before the apostles: and when they had prayed, they laid their hands on them.

7 And the word of God increased; and the number of the disciples multiplied in Jerusalem greatly; and a great company of the priests were obedient to the faith.

The third persecution: Stephen brought before the council.

8 And Stephen, full of faith and power, did great wonders and [l]miracles among the people.

9 Then there arose certain of the synagogue, which is called the synagogue of the Libertines, and Cyrenians, and Alexandrians, and of them of Cilicia and of Asia, disputing with Stephen.

10 And they were not able to resist the wisdom and the [m]spirit by which he spake.

11 [n]Then they suborned men, which said, We have heard him speak blasphemous words against Moses, and against God.

12 And they stirred up the people, and the elders, and the scribes, and came upon him, and caught him, and brought him to the council,

13 And set up false witnesses, which said, This man ceaseth not to speak blasphemous words against this [o]holy place, and the law:

14 [p]For we have heard him say, that this Jesus of Nazareth shall destroy this place, and shall change the customs which Moses delivered us.

15 And all that sat in the council, looking stedfastly on him, [q]saw his face as it had been the face of an [r]angel.

THEN said the high priest, Are these things so?

fathers, hearken; The [a]God of glory appeared unto our father Abraham, when he was in Mesopotamia, before he dwelt in [b]Charran,

3 And said unto him, [c]Get thee out of thy country, and from thy kindred, and come into the land which I shall shew thee.

4 Then came he out of the land of the Chaldæans, and dwelt in [b]Charran: and from thence, when [d]his father was dead, [e]he removed him into this land, wherein ye now dwell.

5 And he gave him [f]none inheritance in it, no, not so much as to set his foot on: yet he [g]promised that he would give it to him for a possession, and to his seed after him, when as yet he had no child.

6 And God spake on this wise, That his [h]seed should sojourn in a strange land; and that they should bring them into [i]bondage, and entreat them evil four hundred years.

7 And the nation to whom they shall be in bondage will I judge, said God: and after that shall they [j]come forth, and serve me in this place.

8 And he gave him the [k]covenant of circumcision: and so Abraham begat Isaac, and circumcised him the eighth day; and Isaac begat Jacob; and Jacob begat the twelve patriarchs.

9 And the patriarchs, moved with [l]envy, [m]sold Joseph into Egypt: but [n]God was with him,

10 And delivered him out of all his afflictions, and gave him favour and wisdom in the sight of Pharaoh king of Egypt; and he made him governor over Egypt and all his house.

11 [o]Now there came a dearth over all the land of Egypt and [p]Chanaan, and great affliction: and our fathers found no sustenance.

12 But when [q]Jacob heard that there was corn in Egypt, he sent out our fathers first.

13 And at the [r]second time Joseph was made known to his brethren; and Joseph's kindred was made known unto Pharaoh.

14 Then sent Joseph, and called his father Jacob to him, and all his [1]kindred, threescore and fifteen souls.

15 So Jacob went down into Egypt, and died, he, and our fathers,

16 And were carried over [s]into Sychem, and laid in the [t]sepulchre that Abraham bought for a sum of money of the sons of Emmor [u]the father of Sychem.

17 But when the [v]time of the promise drew nigh, which God had sworn to Abraham, the [w]people grew and multiplied in Egypt,

18 Till another king arose, which knew not Joseph.

19 The same dealt subtilly with our kindred, and evil entreated our fathers, so that they cast out their young children, to the end they might not live.

20 In which time Moses was born, and was [x]exceeding fair, and nourished up in his father's house three months:

21 And when he was cast out, [y]Pharaoh's daughter took him up, and nourished him for her own son.

22 And Moses was learned in all the wisdom of the Egyptians, and was [z]mighty in words and in deeds.

23 And [a]when he was full forty years old, it came into his heart to visit his brethren the children of Israel.

24 And seeing one of them suffer wrong, he defended him, and avenged him that was oppressed, and smote the Egyptian:

25 For he supposed his brethren would have [b]understood how that God by his hand would deliver them: but they understood not.

26 And the [c]next day he shewed himself unto them as they strove, and would have set them at one again, saying, Sirs, ye are brethren; why do ye wrong one to another?

27 But he that did his neighbour wrong thrust him away, saying, [d]Who made thee a ruler and a judge over us?

28 Wilt thou kill me, as thou diddest the Egyptian yesterday?

29 [e]Then fled Moses at this saying, and was a stranger in the land of Madian, where he begat two sons.

30 And when forty years were expired, there appeared to him in the wilderness of mount Sina an [f]angel of the Lord in a [g]flame of fire in a bush.

31 When Moses saw it, he wondered at the sight: and as he drew near to behold it, the voice of the Lord came unto him, 32 Saying, I am the [a]God of thy fathers, the God of Abraham, and the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob. Then Moses trembled, and durst not behold.

33 Then said the Lord to him, [b]Put off thy shoes from thy feet: for the place where thou standest is holy ground.

34 [c]I have seen, I have seen the affliction of my people which is in Egypt, and I have heard their groaning, and am come down to deliver them. And now come, [d]I will send thee into Egypt.

35 This Moses whom they refused, saying, Who made thee a ruler and a judge? the same did God send to be a ruler and a deliverer by the hand of the [e]angel which appeared to him in the bush.

36 He brought them out, after that he had shewed wonders and signs in the land of Egypt, and in the Red sea, and in the wilderness forty years.

37 This is that Moses, which said unto the children of Israel, [f]A prophet shall the [g]Lord your God raise up unto you of your brethren, like unto me; him shall ye hear.

38 This is he, that was in the [1]church in the wilderness with the [e]angel which spake to him in the mount Sina, and with our fathers: who received the [h]lively oracles to give unto us:

39 To whom our fathers [i]would not obey, but thrust him from them, and in their hearts turned back again into Egypt,

40 Saying unto Aaron, [f]Make us gods to go before us: for as for this Moses, which brought us out of the land of Egypt, we wot not what is become of him.

41 And they made a calf in those days, and offered sacrifice unto the idol, and [k]rejoiced in the works of their own hands.

42 Then God turned, and [l]gave them up to worship the host of heaven; as it is written in the book of the prophets, [m]O ye house of Israel, have ye offered to me slain beasts and sacrifices by the space of forty years in the wilderness?

43 Yea, ye took up the tabernacle of Moloch, and the star of your god [n]Remphan, figures which ye made to worship them: and [o]I will carry you away beyond Babylon.

44 Our fathers had the [p]tabernacle of witness in the wilderness, as he had appointed, speaking unto Moses, that he should make it [q]according to the fashion that he had seen.

45 Which also our fathers that came after brought in with [r]Jesus into the possession of the [s]Gentiles, whom God drave out before the face of our fathers, unto the days of David;

46 Who found favour before God, and [t]desired to find a tabernacle for the God of Jacob.

47 [u]But Solomon built him an house.

48 Howbeit the most High dwelleth not in temples made with hands; as saith the prophet,

49 [v]Heaven is my throne, and earth is my footstool: what house will ye build me? saith the [w]Lord: or what is the place of my rest?

50 Hath not my hand [x]made all these things?

51 Ye stiffnecked and uncircumcised in heart and ears, ye do always resist the Holy Ghost: as your fathers did, so do ye.

CHAPTER 8.

The fourth persecution: Saul chief persecutor.

AND Saul was consenting unto his death. And at that time there was a great persecution against the church which was at Jerusalem; and they were all [g]scattered abroad throughout the regions of Judæa and Samaria, except the apostles.

2 And devout men carried Stephen to his burial, and made great lamentation over him.

3 As for Saul, he made havock of the [h]church, entering into every house, and haling men and women committed them to prison.

The first missionaries.

4 Therefore [i]they that were scattered abroad went every where preaching the word.

The ministry of Philip. (See Acts 6. 5; 21. 8.)

5 Then [j]Philip went down to the [k]city of Samaria, and preached Christ unto them.

6 And the [l]people with one accord gave heed unto those things which Philip spake, hearing and seeing the [m]miracles which he did.

7 For [n]unclean spirits, crying with loud voice, came out of many that were possessed with them: and many taken with palsies, and that were lame, were healed.

8 And there was great joy in that city.

(The case of Simon the sorcerer.)

9 But there was a certain man, called Simon, which beforetime in the same city [o]used sorcery, and bewitched the people of Samaria, giving out that himself was some great one:

10 To whom they all gave heed, from the least to the greatest, saying, This man is the great power of God.

11 And to him they had regard, because that of long time he had bewitched them with sorceries.

12 But when they [p]believed Philip preaching the things concerning the kingdom of God, and the name of Jesus Christ, they were baptized, both men and women.

13 Then Simon himself believed also: and when he was baptized, he continued with Philip, and wondered, beholding the miracles and signs which were done.

14 Now when the [q]apostles which were at Jerusalem heard that Samaria had received the word of God, they sent unto them Peter and John:

15 Who, when they were come down, prayed for them, that they might receive the [r]Holy Ghost:

16 (For as yet [s]he was fallen upon none of them: only they were baptized in the name of the Lord Jesus.)

17 Then [t]laid they their hands on them, and they received the Holy Ghost.

18 And when Simon saw that through laying on of the apostles' hands the Holy Ghost was given, he offered them money,

19 Saying, Give me also this power, that on whomsoever I lay hands, he may receive the Holy Ghost.

20 But Peter said unto him, Thy money [u]perish with thee, because thou hast thought that the gift of God may be purchased with money.

21 Thou hast neither part nor lot in this [v]matter: for thy [w]heart is not right in the sight of God.

22 [x]Repent therefore of this thy wickedness, and pray [y]God, if perhaps the thought of thine heart may be forgiven thee.

23 For I perceive that thou [z]art in the gall of bitterness, and in the bond of iniquity.

24 Then answered Simon, and said, Pray ye to the Lord for me, [a]that none of these things which ye have spoken come upon me.

25 And they, when they had testified and preached the word of the Lord, returned to Jerusalem, and preached the [b]gospel in many [c]villages of the Samaritans.

Philip and the Ethiopian.

26 And the [d]angel of the Lord spake unto Philip, saying, Arise, and go toward the south unto the way that goeth down from Jerusalem unto Gaza, which is [e]desert.

27 And he arose and went: and, behold, a man of [f]Ethiopia, an eunuch of great authority under

Candace queen of the Ethiopians, who had the charge of all her treasure, and had come to [a]Jerusalem for to worship, 28 Was returning, and sitting in his chariot read Esaias the prophet.

29 Then the [b]Spirit said unto Philip, Go near, and join thyself to this chariot.

30 And Philip ran thither to him, and heard him read the prophet Esaias, and said, [c]Understandest thou what thou readest?

31 And he said, How can I, except some man should guide me? And he [d]desired Philip that he would come up and sit with him.

32 The place of the scripture which he read was this, [e]He was led as a sheep to the slaughter; and like a lamb dumb before his shearer, so opened he not his mouth:

33 In his humiliation his judgment was taken away: and who shall declare his generation? for his life is taken from the earth.

34 And the eunuch answered Philip, and said, I pray thee, [f]of whom speaketh the prophet this? of himself, or of some other man?

35 Then Philip opened his mouth, and [g]began at the same scripture, and preached unto him Jesus.

36 And as they went on their way, they came unto a certain water: and the eunuch said, See, here is water; what doth hinder me to be baptized?

37 [h]And Philip said, If thou believest with all thine heart, thou mayest. And he answered and said, I believe that Jesus Christ is the Son of God.

38 And he commanded the chariot to stand still: and they went down both into the water, both Philip and the eunuch; and he [i]baptized him.

39 And when they were come up out of the water, the [j]Spirit of the [k]Lord caught away Philip, that the eunuch saw him no more: and he went on his way [l]rejoicing.

40 But Philip was found at Azotus: and passing through he preached [m]in all the cities, till he came to Cæsarea.

The conversion of Saul. (Cf. Acts 22. 1-16; 26. 9-18.)

AND Saul, [n]yet breathing out threatenings and slaughter against the disciples of the Lord, went unto the high priest,

2 And desired of him [o]letters to Damascus to the synagogues, that if he found any [p]of this way, whether they were men or women, he might bring them bound unto Jerusalem.

3 And as he journeyed, he came near Damascus: and suddenly there shined round about him a [q]light from heaven:

4 And he fell to the earth, and heard a voice saying unto him, Saul, Saul, [r]why persecutest thou [s]me?

5 And he said, Who art thou, Lord? And the Lord said, I am [t]Jesus whom thou persecutest: it is hard for thee to kick against the pricks.

6 And he trembling and astonished [u]said, Lord, what wilt thou have me to do? And the Lord said unto him, Arise, and go into the city, and it shall be told thee what thou must do.

7 And the men which journeyed with him stood speechless, hearing [v]a [1]voice, but seeing no man.

8 And Saul arose from the earth; and when his eyes were opened, he saw [w]no man: but they led him by the hand, and brought him into Damascus.

9 And he was three days without sight, and neither did eat nor drink.

10 And there was a certain disciple at Damascus, named [x]Ananias; and to him said the Lord in a vision, Ananias. And he said, Behold, I am here, Lord.

11 And the Lord said unto him, Arise, and go into the street which is called Straight, and enquire in the house of Judas for one called Saul, of Tarsus: for, behold, he [y]prayeth, 12 And hath seen in a vision a man named Ananias coming in, and putting his hand on him, that he might receive his sight.

13 Then Ananias answered, Lord

[1] Cf. Acts xxii. 9; xxvi. 14. A contradiction has been imagined. The three statements should be taken together. The men heard the "voice" as a sound (Gr. phone), but did not hear the "voice" as articulating the words, "Saul, Saul," etc.

I have [a]heard by many of this man, how much evil he hath done to thy saints at Jerusalem:

14 And here he hath authority from the chief priests to bind all that call on thy name.

15 But the Lord said unto him, Go thy way: [b]for he is a [c]chosen vessel unto me, to bear my name before the [d]Gentiles, and [e]kings, and the [f]children of Israel:

16 For [g]I will shew him how great things he must suffer for my name's sake.

Paul filled with the Spirit.

17 And Ananias went his way, and entered into the house; and putting his hands on him said, Brother Saul, the Lord, even Jesus, that appeared unto thee in the way as thou camest, hath sent me, that thou mightest receive thy sight, and be filled with the [h]Holy Ghost.

Paul baptized.

18 And immediately there fell from his eyes as it had been scales: and he received [i]sight forthwith, and arose, and was baptized.

19 And when he had received meat, he was strengthened. Then was Saul certain days with the disciples which were at Damascus.

Paul preaches.

20 [j]And straightway he preached Christ in the synagogues, [1]that he is the Son of God.

21 But all that heard him were amazed, and said; Is not this he that destroyed them which called on this name in Jerusalem, and came hither for that intent, that he might bring them bound unto the chief priests?

22 [2]But Saul increased the more in strength, and confounded the Jews which dwelt at Damascus, proving that this is [k]very Christ.

23 And after that many days were fulfilled, the Jews took counsel to kill him:

24 But their laying await was known of Saul. And they watched the gates day and night to kill him.

25 Then the disciples took him by night, and [l]let him down by the wall in a basket.

Paul visits Jerusalem.

26 And when Saul was [3]come to Jerusalem, he assayed to join himself to the disciples: but they were all [m]afraid of him, and believed not that he was a disciple.

27 But [n]Barnabas took him, and brought him to the apostles, and declared unto them how he had seen the Lord in the way, and that he had spoken to him, and how he had preached [o]boldly at Damascus in the name of Jesus.

28 And he was with them coming in and going out at Jerusalem.

29 And he spake boldly in the name of the Lord Jesus, and disputed against the [p]Grecians: but they went about to slay him.

Paul returns to Tarsus.

30 Which when the brethren knew, they brought him down to Cæsarea, and sent him forth to Tarsus.

31 Then had the [q]churches rest throughout all Judæa and Galilee and Samaria, and were [r]edified; and walking in the [s]fear of the Lord, and in the [t]comfort of the Holy Ghost, were [u]multiplied.

[1] Cf. Acts ii. 36. Peter, while maintaining the deity of Jesus — "God hath made that same Jesus, whom ye have crucified, both Lord and Christ" — gives especial prominence to His Messiahship. Paul, fresh from the vision of the glory, puts the emphasis on His Deity. Peter's charge was that the Jews had crucified the Son of David (Acts ii. 25-30); Paul's that they had crucified the Lord of glory (1 Cor. ii. 8). In the A.V. the sense is largely lost. The point was, not that the Christ was God, a truth plainly taught by Isaiah (vii. 14; ix. 6, 7), but that Jesus, the crucified Nazarene, was the Christ and therefore God the Son.

[2] It seems probable that verses 22-25 refer to Paul's labours in Damascus after his return from Arabia (Gal. i. 17). The "many days" of verse 23 may represent the "three years" of Gal. i. 18, which intervened between Paul's return to Damascus and his visit to Peter.

[3] The Acts records four visits of Paul to Jerusalem after his conversion: (1) Acts ix. 23-30. This seems identical with the visit of Gal. i. 18, 19. The "apostles" of verse 27 were Peter, and James, the Lord's brother. (2) Acts xi. 30. Paul may have been in Jerusalem during the events of Acts xii. 1-24. (See v. 25.) (3) Acts xv. 1-30; Gal. ii. 2-10. (4) Acts xxi. 17-xxiii. 35.

The healing of Æneas.

32 And it came to pass, as Peter passed throughout all quarters, he came down also to the saints which dwelt at Lydda.

33 And there he found a certain man named Æneas, which had kept his bed eight years, and was [a]sick of the palsy.

34 And Peter said unto him, Æneas, [b]Jesus Christ maketh thee whole: arise, and make thy bed. And he arose immediately.

35 And all that dwelt at Lydda and [c]Saron saw him, and [d]turned to the Lord.

Tabitha raised from the dead.

36 Now there was at Joppa a certain disciple named Tabitha, which by interpretation is called [e]Dorcas: this woman was [f]full of good works and almsdeeds which she did.

37 And it came to pass in those days, that she was sick, and died: whom when they had washed, they laid her in an upper chamber.

38 And forasmuch as Lydda was nigh to Joppa, and the disciples had heard that Peter was there, they sent unto him two men, desiring him that he would not delay to come to them.

39 Then Peter arose and went with them. When he was come, they brought him into the upper chamber: and all the [g]widows stood by him weeping, and shewing the coats and garments which Dorcas made, while she was with them.

40 But Peter put them all forth, and [h]kneeled down, and prayed; and turning him to the body said, Tabitha, arise. And she opened her eyes: and when she saw Peter, she sat up.

41 And he gave her his hand, and lifted her up, and when he had called the saints and widows, presented her [i]alive.

42 And it [j]was known throughout all Joppa; [k]and many believed in the Lord.

43 And it came to pass, that he tarried many days in Joppa with one [l]Simon a tanner.

CHAPTER 10.

Peter's second use of the keys: the gospel given to Gentiles. (Cf. Mt. 16. 19; Acts 2. 14–41.)

Cornelius' vision.

THERE was a certain man in Cæsarea called Cornelius, a [m]centurion of the [n]band called the Italian band,

2 A devout man, and one that [o]feared God with all his house, which gave much alms to the people, and prayed to God alway.

3 He saw in a [p]vision evidently about the ninth hour of the day an [q]angel of God coming in to him, and saying unto him, Cornelius.

4 And when he looked on him, he was afraid, and said, What is it, Lord? And he said unto him, Thy prayers and thine alms are come up for a [r]memorial before God.

5 And now [s]send men to Joppa, and call for one Simon, whose surname is Peter:

6 He lodgeth with one Simon a tanner, whose house is by the sea side: he shall tell thee what thou oughtest to do.

Cornelius sends for Peter.

7 And when the [q]angel which spake unto Cornelius was departed, he called two of his household servants, and a devout soldier of them that waited on him continually;

8 And when he had declared all these things unto them, he sent them to Joppa.

Peter's vision of the great sheet.

9 On the morrow, as they [t]went on their journey, and drew nigh unto the city, Peter went up upon the housetop to pray about the sixth hour:

10 And he became very hungry, and would have eaten: but while they made ready, he fell into a trance,

11 And saw [u]heaven opened, and a certain vessel descending unto him, as it had been a great sheet knit at the four corners, and let down to the earth:

12 Wherein were all manner of fourfooted beasts of the earth, and wild beasts, and creeping things, and fowls of the air.

13 And there came a voice to him, Rise, Peter; kill, and eat.

14 But Peter said, Not so, Lord; for I have never eaten any thing that is [v]common or unclean.

15 And the voice spake unto him again the second time, [w]What God hath cleansed, that call not thou common.

16 This was done thrice: and the vessel was received up again into heaven.

Peter and the messengers of Cornelius.

17 Now while Peter [a]doubted in himself what this vision which he had seen should mean, behold, the men which were sent from Cornelius had made inquiry for Simon's house, and stood before the gate,

18 And called, and asked whether Simon, which was surnamed Peter, were lodged there.

19 While Peter thought on the vision, the Spirit said unto him, Behold, three men seek thee.

20 Arise therefore, and get thee down, and go with them, [b]doubting nothing: for I have sent them.

21 Then Peter went down to the men which were sent unto him from Cornelius; and said, Behold, I am he whom ye seek: [c]what is the cause wherefore ye are come?

22 And they said, [d]Cornelius the centurion, a just man, and one that feareth God, and of [e]good report among all the nation of the Jews, was warned from God by an holy angel to send for thee into his house, and to hear words of thee.

24 And the morrow after they entered into Cæsarea. And Cornelius [g]waited for them, and had called together his kinsmen and near friends.

25 And as Peter was coming in, Cornelius met him, and [h]fell down at his feet, and worshipped him.

26 But Peter took him up, saying, [i]Stand up; I myself also am a man.

27 And as he talked with him, he went in, and found many that were come together.

28 And he said unto them, Ye know how that it is an [j]unlawful thing for a man that is a Jew to keep company, or come unto one of another nation; but [k]God hath shewed me that I should not call any man common or unclean.

29 Therefore came I unto you without gainsaying, as soon as I was sent for: I ask therefore for [l]what intent ye have sent for me?

30 And Cornelius said, Four days ago I was fasting until this hour; and at the ninth hour I prayed in my house, and, behold, a man stood before me in [m]bright clothing,

31 And said, Cornelius, thy [n]prayer is heard, and [o]thine alms are had in remembrance in the sight of God.

32 Send therefore to Joppa, and call hither Simon, whose surname is Peter; he is lodged in the house of one Simon a tanner by the sea side: who, when he cometh, shall speak unto thee.

33 Immediately therefore I sent to thee; and thou hast well done that thou art come. Now therefore are [p]we all here [q]present before God, to hear all things that are commanded thee of [r]God.

38 How [w]God anointed Jesus of Nazareth with the [x]Holy Ghost and with power: who went about doing good, and healing all that were oppressed of the [y]devil; for [z]God was with him.

39 And we are [a]witnesses of all things which he did both in the land of the Jews, and in Jerusalem; whom they [b]slew and hanged on a tree:

40 Him God [c]raised up the third day, and shewed him openly;

41 Not to all the people, but unto witnesses [d]chosen before of God, even to us, who did [e]eat and drink with him after he rose from the dead.

42 And he commanded us to preach unto the people, and to testify that it is he which was ordained of God to be the Judge of quick and dead.

The Holy Spirit given to Gentile believers.

44 [1]While Peter yet spake these words, the [a]Holy Ghost fell on all them which heard the word.

45 And they of the circumcision which believed were astonished, as many as came with Peter, because that on the Gentiles also was poured out the gift of the Holy Ghost.

46 For they heard them speak with [b]tongues, and magnify God. Then answered Peter, 47 Can any man forbid water, that these should not be baptized, which have received the Holy Ghost as well as we?

48 And he commanded them to be baptized in the name of [c]the Lord. Then prayed they him to tarry certain days.

CHAPTER 11.

Peter vindicates his ministry to Gentiles.

AND the apostles and brethren that were in Judæa heard that the Gentiles had also received the word of God.

2 And when Peter was come up to Jerusalem, they that were of the circumcision contended with him,

3 Saying, Thou wentest in to men uncircumcised, and didst eat with them.

4 But Peter rehearsed the matter from the beginning, and expounded it [d]by order unto them, saying,

5 I was in the city of [e]Joppa praying: and in a trance I saw a vision, A certain vessel descend, as it had been a great sheet, let down from heaven by four corners; and it came even to me:

6 Upon the which when I had fastened mine eyes, I considered, and saw fourfooted beasts of the earth, and wild beasts, and creeping things, and fowls of the [f]air.

7 And I heard a voice saying unto me, Arise, Peter; slay and eat.

8 But I said, Not so, Lord: for nothing common or unclean hath at any time entered into my mouth.

9 But the voice answered me again from heaven, What God hath cleansed, that call not thou common.

10 And this was done three times: and all were drawn up again into heaven.

11 And, behold, immediately there were three men already come unto the house where I was, sent from Cæsarea unto me.

12 And the [g]Spirit bade me go with them, [h]nothing doubting. Moreover these six brethren accompanied me, and we entered into the man's house:

13 And he shewed us how he had seen an [i]angel in his house, which stood and said unto him, Send men to Joppa, and call for Simon, whose surname is Peter;

14 Who shall tell thee words, whereby thou and all thy house shall be [j]saved.

15 And as I began to speak, the Holy Ghost fell on them, [k]as on us at the beginning.

16 Then [l]remembered I the word of the Lord, how that he [m]said, John indeed baptized with water; but ye shall be baptized with the Holy Ghost.

17 [n]Forasmuch then as God gave them the like gift as he did unto us, who believed on the Lord Jesus Christ; what was I, that I could withstand God?

18 When they heard these things, they held their peace, and glorified God, saying, Then hath God also to the Gentiles granted [o]repentance unto [p]life.

The church at Antioch: the new name.

19 Now they which were scattered abroad upon the [q]persecution that arose about Stephen travelled as far as [r]Phenice, and Cyprus, and Antioch, preaching the word to none but unto the Jews only.

20 And some of them were men of Cyprus and Cyrene, which, when they were come to Antioch, spake unto the [s]Grecians, preaching the Lord Jesus.

21 And the hand of the Lord was with them: and a great number believed, and turned unto the Lord.

22 Then tidings of these things came unto the ears of the church which was in Jerusalem: and they sent forth Barnabas, that he should go as far as Antioch.

[1] Verse 44 is one of the pivotal points of Scripture. Heretofore the Gospel has been offered to Jews only, and the Holy Spirit bestowed upon believing Jews through apostolic mediation. But now the normal order for this age is reached: the Holy Spirit is given without delay, mediation, or other condition than simple ith in Jesus Christ. Cf. Acts ii. 4, note; 1 Cor. vi. 19.

23 Who, when he came, and had seen the grace of God, was glad, and exhorted them all, that with purpose of heart they would cleave unto the Lord.

24 For he was a good man, and full of the [a]Holy Ghost and of faith: and much people was added unto the Lord.

25 Then departed Barnabas to Tarsus, for to seek Saul:

26 And when he had found him, he brought him unto Antioch. And it came to pass, that a whole year they assembled themselves with the [b]church, and taught much people. And the disciples were called Christians first in Antioch.

The church at Antioch sends relief to Jerusalem.

27 And in these days came prophets from Jerusalem unto Antioch.

28 And there stood up one of them named Agabus, and signified by the Spirit that there should be great dearth throughout all the [c]world: which came to pass in the days of Claudius Cæsar.

29 Then the disciples, every man according to his ability, determined to send relief unto the brethren which dwelt in Judæa:

30 Which also they did, and sent it to the [d]elders by the hands of Barnabas and Saul.

CHAPTER 12.

The fifth persecution: arrest of Peter.

NOW about that time [e]Herod the king stretched forth his hands to vex certain of the church.

2 And he killed James the brother of John with the sword.

3 And because he saw it pleased the Jews, he proceeded further to take [f]Peter also. (Then were the days of unleavened bread.)

4 And when he had apprehended him, he put him in prison, and delivered him to four quaternions of soldiers to keep him; intending after [g]Easter to bring him forth to the people.

Prayer for Peter's deliverance: an angel sent.

5 Peter therefore was kept in prison: but [h]prayer was made without ceasing of the church unto God for him.

6 And when Herod would have brought him forth, the same night Peter was sleeping between two soldiers, bound with two chains: and the keepers before the door kept the prison.

7 And, behold, [i]the angel of the Lord came upon him, and a light shined in the prison: and he smote Peter on the side, and [j]raised him up, saying, Arise up quickly. And his chains fell off from his hands.

8 And the [k]angel said unto him, Gird thyself, and bind on thy sandals. And so he did. And he saith unto him, Cast thy garment about thee, and follow me.

9 And he went out, and followed him; and wist not that it was true which was done by the [k]angel; but thought he saw a vision.

10 When they were past the first and the second ward, they came unto the iron gate that leadeth unto the city; which opened to them of his own accord: and they went out, and passed on through one street; and forthwith the [k]angel departed from him.

11 And when Peter was come to himself, he said, Now I know of a surety, that the Lord hath sent [l]his [k]angel, and hath delivered me out of the hand of Herod, and from all the expectation of the people of the Jews.

12 And when he had considered the thing, he came to the house of Mary the mother of John, whose surname was Mark; [m]where many were gathered together praying.

13 And as Peter knocked at the door of the gate, a damsel came to [m]hearken, named Rhoda.

14 And when she knew Peter's voice, she opened not the gate for gladness, but ran in, and told how Peter stood before the gate.

15 And they said unto her, Thou art mad. But she constantly affirmed that it was even so. Then said they, It is his [o]angel.

16 But Peter continued knocking: and when they had opened the door, and saw him, they were astonished.

17 But he, beckoning unto them with the hand to hold their peace, [p]declared unto them how the Lord had brought him out of the prison. And he said, Go shew these things unto James, and to the brethren. And he departed, and went into another place.

18 Now as soon as it was day, there was no small stir among the soldiers, what was become of Peter.

19 And when Herod had sought for him, and found him not, he examined the keepers, and commanded that they should be [a]put to death. And he went down from Judæa to Cæsarea, and there abode.

Death of Herod.

20 And Herod was highly displeased with them of Tyre and Sidon: but they came with one accord to him, and, having made Blastus the [b]king's chamberlain their friend, desired peace; because their country was nourished by the king's country.

21 And upon a set day Herod, arrayed in royal apparel, sat upon his throne, and made an oration unto them.

22 And the people gave a shout, saying, It is the voice of a god, and not of a man.

23 And [c]immediately [d]the angel of the Lord smote him, because he gave not God the glory: and he was eaten of worms, and gave up the ghost.

24 But the word of God grew and multiplied.

25 And Barnabas and Saul returned [e]from Jerusalem, when they had fulfilled their ministry, and took with them John, whose surname was Mark.

CHAPTER 13.

Paul and Barnabas called by the Holy Spirit.

NOW there were in the [f]church that was at Antioch certain prophets and teachers; as Barnabas, and Simeon that was called Niger, and Lucius of Cyrene, and Manaen, [g]which had been brought up with [h]Herod the tetrarch, and Saul.

2 As they ministered to the Lord, and fasted, the [i]Holy Ghost said, Separate me Barnabas and Saul for the work whereunto I have called them.

3 And when they had fasted and prayed, and laid their hands on them, they sent them away.

4 So they, being sent forth by the Holy Ghost, departed unto Seleucia; and from thence they sailed to Cyprus.

5 And when they were at Salamis, they preached the word of God in the synagogues of the Jews: and they had also John [j]to their minister.

6 And when they had gone through the isle unto Paphos, they found a certain [k]sorcerer, a false prophet, a Jew, whose name was Bar-jesus:

7 Which was with the [l]deputy of the country, Sergius Paulus, a prudent man; who called for Barnabas and Saul, and desired to hear the word of God.

8 But Elymas the sorcerer (for so is his name by interpretation) withstood them, seeking to turn away the deputy from the faith.

9 Then Saul, (who also is called Paul,) filled with the Holy Ghost, set his eyes on him,

10 And said, O full of all subtilty and all mischief, thou [m]child of the [n]devil, thou enemy of all righteousness, wilt thou not cease to pervert the right ways of the Lord?

11 And now, behold, the hand of the Lord is upon thee, and thou shalt be blind, not seeing the sun for a season. And immediately there [o]fell on him a mist and a darkness; and he went about seeking some to lead him by the hand.

12 Then the [l]deputy, when he saw what was done, believed, being astonished at the [p]doctrine of the Lord.

13 Now when Paul and his company loosed from Paphos, they came to Perga in Pamphylia: and John departing from them returned to Jerusalem.

Paul's sermon in the synagogue at Antioch in Pisidia. Theme: Justification by faith, vs. 38, 39.

14 But when they departed from Perga, they came to Antioch in Pisidia, and went into the synagogue on the sabbath day, and sat down.

15 And after the reading of the law and the prophets the rulers of the synagogue sent unto them, saying, Ye men and brethren, if ye have any word of exhortation for the people, say on.

16 Then Paul stood up, and beckoning with his hand said, Men of Israel, and ye that fear God, give audience.

17 The God of this people of Israel [q]chose our fathers, and exalted the people when they dwelt as strangers in the land of Egypt, and with an high arm brought he them out of it.

18 And about the time of forty years suffered he their manners in the wilderness.

19 And when he had destroyed seven nations in the land of [a]Chanaan, [b]he divided their land to them by lot.

20 And after that he gave unto them judges about the space of four hundred and fifty years, until Samuel the prophet.

21 And afterward they desired a king: and God gave unto them Saul the son of [c]Cis, a man of the tribe of Benjamin, by the space of forty years.

22 And when he had removed him, he raised up unto them David to be their king; to whom also he gave testimony, and [d]said, I have found David the son of Jesse, a man after mine own heart, which shall fulfil all my will.

23 Of this man's seed hath God according to his promise raised unto Israel a [e]Saviour, Jesus:

24 When John had first preached before his coming the baptism of [f]repentance to all the people of Israel.

25 And as John fulfilled his course, he said, Whom think ye that I am? I am not he. But, behold, there cometh one after me, whose shoes of his feet I am not worthy to loose.

26 Men and brethren, children of the stock of Abraham, and [g]whosoever among you feareth God, [h]to you is the word of this [i]salvation sent.

27 For they that dwell at Jerusalem, and their rulers, because they knew him not, nor yet the voices of the prophets which are read every sabbath day, they have fulfilled them in condemning him.

28 And though they found no cause of death in him, yet desired they Pilate that he should be slain.

29 And when they had fulfilled all that was written of him, they took him down from the tree, and laid him in a sepulchre.

30 But God raised him from the dead:

31 And he was [j]seen many days of them which came up with him from Galilee to Jerusalem, who are his witnesses unto the people.

32 And we declare unto you [k]glad tidings, how that the promise which was made unto the fathers,

33 God hath fulfilled the same unto us their children, in that he hath raised up Jesus again; as it is also written in the second psalm, [l]Thou art my Son, this day have I begotten thee.

34 And as concerning that he raised him up from the dead, now no more to return to corruption, he said on this wise, [m]I will give you the sure mercies of David.

35 Wherefore he saith also in [n]another psalm, Thou shalt not suffer thine [o]Holy One to see corruption.

36 For David, after he had served his own generation by the will of God, fell on sleep, and was laid unto his fathers, and saw corruption:

37 But he, whom God [p]raised again, saw no corruption.

38 Be it known unto you therefore, men and brethren, that through this man is preached unto you the [q]forgiveness of [r]sins:

39 And by him all that [s]believe are [t]justified from [u]all things, from which ye could not be [v]justified by [w]the law of Moses.

40 Beware therefore, lest that come upon you, which is spoken of in the prophets;

41 Behold, ye despisers, and wonder, and perish: for I [x]work a work in your days, a work which ye shall in no wise believe, though a man declare it unto you.

42 And [y]when the Jews were gone out of the synagogue, the Gentiles besought that these words might be preached to them the next sabbath.

43 Now when the congregation was broken up, many of the Jews and religious proselytes followed Paul and Barnabas: who, speaking to them, persuaded them to [z]continue in the grace of God.

Opposition from the Jews. (Cf. vs. 6, 50.)

44 And the next sabbath day came almost the whole city together to hear the word of God.

45 But when the Jews saw the multitudes, they were filled with envy, and spake against those things which were spoken by Paul, contradicting and blaspheming.

lasting life, lo, we turn to the Gentiles.

47 For so hath the Lord commanded us, saying, [a]I have set thee to be a light of the Gentiles, that thou shouldest be for salvation unto the ends of the earth.

48 And when the Gentiles heard this, they were glad, and glorified the word of the Lord: and as many as were ordained to [b]eternal life [c]believed.

51 But they shook off the dust of their feet against them, and came unto Iconium.

52 And the disciples were filled with [d]joy, and with the Holy Ghost.

CHAPTER 14.

The work in Iconium.

AND it came to pass in Iconium, that they went both together into the synagogue of the Jews, and so spake, that a great multitude both of the Jews and also of the Greeks believed.

2 But the unbelieving Jews stirred up the Gentiles, and made their minds evil affected against the brethren.

3 Long time therefore abode they speaking boldly in the Lord, which gave testimony unto the word of his grace, and granted signs and wonders to be done by their hands.

4 But the multitude of the city was divided: and part held with the Jews, and part with the apostles.

5 And when there was an assault made both of the Gentiles, and also of the Jews with their rulers, to use them despitefully, and to stone them,

The impotent man at Lystra healed.

8 And there sat a certain man at Lystra, impotent in his feet, being a cripple from his mother's womb, who never had walked:

9 The same heard Paul speak: who stedfastly beholding him, and perceiving that he had [f]faith to be healed,

10 Said with a loud voice, Stand upright on thy feet. And he [g]leaped and walked.

11 And when the people saw what Paul had done, they lifted up their voices, saying in the speech of Lycaonia, The gods are come down to us in the likeness of men.

12 And they called Barnabas, [h]Jupiter; and Paul, [i]Mercurius, because he was the chief speaker.

13 Then the priest of Jupiter, which was before their city, brought oxen and garlands unto the gates, and would have done sacrifice with the people.

14 Which when the apostles, Barnabas and Paul, heard of, they rent their clothes, and [j]ran in among the people, crying out,

15 And saying, Sirs, why do ye these things? [k]We also are men of like passions with you, and preach unto you that ye should turn from these vanities [l]unto the living God, which made heaven, and earth, and the sea, and all things that are therein:

16 Who in times past suffered all nations to walk in their own ways.

17 Nevertheless he left not himself without witness, in that he did good, and gave us rain from heaven, and fruitful seasons, filling our hearts with food and gladness.

18 And with these sayings scarce restrained they the people, that they had not done sacrifice unto them.

25 And when they had preached the word in Perga, they went down into Attalia:

26 And thence sailed to Antioch, from whence they had been [g]recommended to the grace of God for the work which they fulfilled.

27 And when they were come, and had gathered the [f]church together, they rehearsed all that God had done with them, and how he had opened the door of faith unto the Gentiles.

28 And there they abode long time with the disciples.

CHAPTER 15.

Council at Jerusalem: the question of circumcision.

The legalizers from Judæa.

AND [h]certain men which came down from Judæa taught the brethren, and said, [i]Except ye be circumcised [j]after the manner of Moses, ye cannot be saved.

Paul, Barnabas, and others go to Jerusalem.

2 When therefore Paul and Barnabas had no small dissension and disputation with them, they determined that Paul and Barnabas, and certain other of them, should go up to Jerusalem unto the apostles and elders about this question.

3 And being brought on their way by the church, they passed through [k]Phenice and Samaria, declaring the conversion of the Gentiles: and they caused great joy unto all the brethren.

4 And when they were come to Jerusalem, they were received of the church, and of the apostles and elders, and they declared all things that God had done with them.

The questions at issue.

5 But there rose up certain of the sect of the Pharisees which believed, saying, That it was needful to circumcise them, and to command them to keep [l]the law of Moses.

6 And the apostles and elders came together for to consider of this matter.

Peter's argument for Christian liberty: why put under law those to whom God has given the Spirit?

7 And when there had been much [m]disputing, Peter rose up, and said unto them, Men and brethren, ye know how that a good while ago God made [n]choice among us, that the Gentiles by [o]my mouth should hear the word of the [p]gospel, and believe.

8 And God, which knoweth the hearts, bare them witness, giving them the Holy Ghost, even as he did unto us;

9 And put no difference between us and them, purifying their hearts by faith.

10 Now therefore why [q]tempt ye God, to put a yoke upon the neck of the disciples, which neither our fathers nor we were able to bear?

11 But we believe that through the grace of the Lord Jesus Christ we shall be saved, even as they.

Paul and Barnabas testify.

12 Then all the multitude kept silence, and gave audience to Barnabas and Paul, declaring what miracles and wonders God had wrought among the Gentiles by them.

James declares the result: (1) the outcalling of the Gentiles agrees with the promises to Israel.

1 Dispensationally, this is the most important passage in the N.T. It gives the divine purpose for this age, and for the beginning of the next. (1) The taking out from among the Gentiles of a people for His name, the distinctive work of the pres-

[a]at the first did visit the Gentiles, to take out of them a people for his name.

15 And to this agree the words of the prophets; as it is written,

16 After this I will return, and will build again the tabernacle of [b]David, which is fallen down; and I will build again the ruins thereof, and I will set it up:

17 That the residue of men might seek after the [c]Lord, and all the Gentiles, upon whom my name is called, saith the Lord, [d]who doeth all these things.

18 Known unto God are all his works from the beginning of the [e]world.

(2) The Gentiles are not under the law.

19 [1]Wherefore my [f]sentence is, that we trouble not them, which from among the Gentiles are turned to God:

20 But that we write unto them, that they abstain from pollutions of idols, and from fornication, and from things strangled, and from blood.

21 For Moses of old time hath in every city them that preach him, being read in the synagogues every sabbath day.

22 Then pleased it the apostles and elders, with the whole church, to send chosen men of their own company to Antioch with Paul and Barnabas; namely, Judas surnamed Barsabas, and Silas, chief men among the brethren:

23 And they wrote letters by them after this manner; The apostles and [g]elders and brethren send greeting unto the brethren which are of the Gentiles in Antioch and Syria and Cilicia:

24 Forasmuch as we have heard, that certain which went out from us have troubled you with words, [h]subverting your souls, saying, Ye must be circumcised, and keep the law: [i]to whom we gave no such commandment:

25 It seemed good unto us, being assembled with one accord, to send chosen men unto you with our beloved Barnabas and Paul,

26 [j]Men that have hazarded their lives for the name of our Lord Jesus Christ.

27 We have sent therefore Judas and Silas, who shall also tell you the same things by mouth.

But Gentile believers must not give offence to godly Jews.

28 For it seemed good to the [k]Holy Ghost, and to us, to lay upon you no greater burden than these necessary things;

29 That ye abstain from [l]meats offered to [m]idols, and from blood, and from [n]things strangled, and from [o]fornication: from which if ye keep yourselves, [p]ye shall do well. Fare ye well.

30 So when they were dismissed, they came to Antioch: and when they had gathered the multitude together, they delivered the epistle:

31 Which when they had read, [q]they rejoiced for the consolation.

32 And Judas and Silas, being [r]prophets also themselves, exhorted the brethren with many words, and confirmed them.

ent, or church-age. The church is the ecclesia—the "called-out assembly." Precisely this has been in progress since Pentecost. The Gospel has never anywhere converted all, but everywhere has called out some. (2) "After this [viz. the out-calling] I will return." James quotes from Amos ix. 11, 12. The verses which follow in Amos describe the final regathering of Israel, which the other prophets invariably connect with the fulfilment of the Davidic Covenant (e.g. Isa. xi. 1, 10-12; Jer. xxiii. 5-8). (3) "And will build again the tabernacle of David," i.e. re-establish the Davidic rule over Israel (2 Sam. vii. 8-17; Lk. i. 31-33). (4) "That the residue of men [Israelites] may seek after the Lord" (cf. Zech. xii. 7, 8; xiii. 1, 2). (5) "And all the Gentiles," etc. (cf. Mic. iv. 2; Zech. viii. 21, 22). This is also the order of Rom. xi. 24-27.

[1]The scope of the decision goes far beyond the mere question of circumcision. The whole question of the relation of the law to Gentile believers had been put in issue (v. 5), and their exemption is declared in the decision (vs. 19, 24). The decision might be otherwise stated in the terms of Rom. vi. 14: "Ye are not under the law, but under grace." Gentile believers were to show grace by abstaining from the practices offensive to godly Jews (vs. 20, 21, 28, 29; cf. Rom. xiv. 12-17; 1 Cor. viii. 1-13).

35 [a]Paul also and Barnabas continued in Antioch, teaching and preaching the word of the Lord, with many others also.

Paul's second missionary journey: Silas chosen.

36 And some days after [b]Paul said unto Barnabas, Let us go again and visit our brethren in every city where we have preached the word of the Lord, and see how they do.

37 And Barnabas [c]determined to take with them [d]John, whose surname was Mark.

38 But Paul thought not good to take him with them, who [e]departed from them from Pamphylia, and went not with them to the work.

39 And the contention was so sharp between them, that they departed asunder one from the other: and so [f]Barnabas took Mark, and sailed unto [g]Cyprus;

40 And Paul chose Silas, and departed, [h]being recommended by the brethren unto the grace of God.

41 And he went through Syria and Cilicia, [i]confirming the churches.

CHAPTER 16.

Paul finds Timothy.

THEN came he to [j]Derbe and Lystra: and, behold, a certain disciple was there, named Timotheus, the son of a certain [k]woman, which was a Jewess, and believed; but his father was a Greek:

2 Which was [l]well reported of by the brethren that were at Lystra and Iconium.

3 Him would Paul have to go forth with him; and took and [m]circumcised him because of the Jews which were in those quarters: for they knew all that his father was a Greek.

4 And as they went through the cities, they delivered them the decrees for to keep, that were ordained of the apostles and [n]elders which were at Jerusalem.

5 And so were the churches [o]established in the faith, and increased in number daily.

The Spirit guides: the Macedonian vision.

6 Now when they had gone throughout Phrygia and the region of Galatia, and were forbidden of the [p]Holy Ghost to preach the word in Asia,

7 After they were come to Mysia, they assayed to go into Bithynia: but the Spirit [q]suffered them not.

8 And they passing by Mysia came down to Troas.

9 And a vision appeared to Paul in the night; There stood a man of Macedonia, and [r]prayed him, saying, Come over into Macedonia, and help us.

10 And after he had seen the vision immediately [1]we endeavoured to go [s]into Macedonia, assuredly gathering that the Lord had called us for to preach the [t]gospel unto them.

11 Therefore loosing from Troas, we came with a straight course to Samothracia, and the next day to Neapolis;

Paul and Silas at Philippi.

12 And from thence to [u]Philippi, which is the chief city of that part of Macedonia, and a [v]colony: and we were in that city abiding certain days.

13 And on the sabbath we went out of the city by a river side, where prayer [w]was wont to be made; and we sat down, and spake unto the women which resorted thither.

The first convert in Europe.

14 And a certain woman named Lydia, a seller of purple, of the city of Thyatira, which worshipped God, heard us: whose [x]heart the Lord opened, that she attended unto the things which were spoken [y]of Paul.

15 And when she was baptized, and her household, she besought us, saying, If ye have judged me to be [z]faithful to the Lord, come into my house, and abide there. And [a]she constrained us.

A demon cast out: Paul and Silas beaten.

16 And it came to pass, as we went to prayer, a certain damsel possessed with a [b]spirit of divination met us, which brought her masters [c]much gain by soothsaying:

17 The same followed Paul and us, and cried, saying, These men are the servants of the [a]most high God, which shew unto us the way of [b]salvation.

[1] The change here from "they," as in the preceding verses, to "we" indicates that at Troas Luke, the narrator, joined Paul's company.

18 And this did she many days. But Paul, being grieved, turned and said to the spirit, [c]I command thee in the name of Jesus Christ to come out of her. And he [d]came out the same hour.

19 And when her masters [e]saw that the hope of their gains was gone, they caught Paul and Silas, and [f]drew them into the marketplace unto the rulers,

20 And brought them to the [g]magistrates, saying, These men, being Jews, [h]do exceedingly trouble our city,

21 And teach customs, which are not lawful for us to receive, neither to observe, being Romans.

22 And the multitude rose up together against them: and the magistrates rent off their clothes, and [i]commanded to beat them.

23 And when they had laid many stripes upon them, they cast them into [j]prison, charging the jailor to keep them safely:

24 Who, having received such a charge, thrust them into the inner prison, and made their feet fast in the stocks.

Conversion of the Philippian jailor.

25 And at midnight Paul and Silas [k]prayed, and sang praises unto God: and the prisoners [l]heard them.

26 And suddenly there was a great [m]earthquake, so that the foundations of the prison were shaken: and immediately all the [n]doors were opened, and every one's bands were loosed.

27 And the keeper of the prison awaking out of his sleep, and seeing the prison doors open, he drew out his sword, and would have [o]killed himself, supposing that the prisoners had been fled.

28 But Paul cried with a loud voice, saying, Do thyself no harm: for we are all here.

29 Then he called for a light, and sprang in, and came trembling, and fell down before Paul and Silas,

The only condition of salvation.

30 And brought them out, and said, Sirs, [p]what must I do to be [q]saved?

31 And they said, [r]Believe [s]on the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be [q]saved, and thy [t]house.

32 And they spake unto him the word of the Lord, and to all that were in his house.

33 And he took them the same hour of the night, and washed their stripes; and was baptized, he and all his, straightway.

34 And when he had brought them into his house, he set meat before them, and [u]rejoiced, [v]believing in God with all his house.

Paul refuses to depart privily.

35 And when it was day, the magistrates sent the [w]serjeants, saying, Let those men go.

36 And the keeper of the prison told this saying to Paul, The magistrates have sent to let you go: now therefore depart, and go in peace.

37 But Paul said unto them, They have beaten us openly uncondemned, being [x]Romans, and have cast us into prison; and now do they thrust us out privily? nay verily; but let them come themselves and fetch us out.

38 And the serjeants told these words unto the magistrates: and they feared, when they heard that they were Romans.

39 And they came and besought them, and brought them out, and [y]desired them to depart out of the city.

40 And they went out of the prison, and entered into the house of Lydia: and when they had seen the brethren, they [z]comforted them, and departed.

NOW when they had passed through Amphipolis and Apollonia, they came to Thessalonica, where was a synagogue of the Jews:

2 And Paul, [a]as his manner was, went in unto them, and three sabbath days reasoned with them out of the scriptures,

3 Opening and alleging, that [b]Christ must [c]needs have suffered, and [d]risen again from the dead; and that this [e]Jesus, whom I preach unto you, is Christ.

5 But the Jews which believed not, moved with envy, took unto them certain [b]lewd fellows [c]of the baser sort, and gathered a company, and set all the city on an uproar, and assaulted the house of [d]Jason, and sought to bring them out to the people.

6 And when they found them not, they [e]drew Jason and certain brethren unto the rulers of the city, crying, These that have turned the world upside down are come hither also;

7 Whom Jason hath received: and these all do contrary to the decrees of Cæsar, saying that there is [f]another king, one Jesus.

8 And they troubled the people and the rulers of the city, when they heard these things.

9 And when they had taken security of Jason, and of the other, they let them go.

Paul and Silas at Berea.

10 And the brethren immediately sent away Paul and Silas by night unto Berea: who coming thither went into the synagogue of the Jews.

11 These were more noble than those in Thessalonica, in that they received the word with all [g]readiness of mind, and [h]searched the scriptures daily, whether those things were so.

12 [i]Therefore many of them believed; also of [j]honourable women which were Greeks, and of men, not a few.

13 But when the Jews of Thessalonica had knowledge that the word of God was preached of Paul at Berea, they came thither also, and stirred up the people.

14 And then immediately the brethren sent away Paul to go as it were to the sea: but Silas and Timotheus abode there still.

Paul at Athens.

15 And they that conducted Paul brought him unto Athens: and [k]receiving a commandment unto Silas and Timotheus for to come to him with all speed, they departed.

16 Now while Paul waited for them at Athens, his spirit was [l]stirred in him, when he saw the city wholly given to idolatry.

17 Therefore [m]disputed he in the synagogue with the Jews, and with the devout persons, and in the market daily with them that met with him.

18 Then certain philosophers of the [n]Epicureans, and of the [o]Stoicks, encountered him. And some said, What will this babbler say? other some, He seemeth to be a setter forth of strange gods: because he preached unto them [p]Jesus, and the resurrection.

19 And they took him, and brought him unto [q]Areopagus, saying, May we know what this new doctrine, whereof thou speakest, is?

20 For thou bringest certain strange things to our ears: we would know therefore what these things mean.

21 (For all the Athenians and strangers which were there spent their time in nothing else, but either to tell, or to hear some new thing.)

The sermon from Mars' hill. Theme: God will judge the world by Jesus Christ.

22 Then Paul stood in the midst of Mars' hill, and said, Ye men of Athens, I perceive that in all things ye are too superstitious.

23 For as I passed by, and beheld [r]your devotions, I found an altar with this inscription, [s]TO THE UNKNOWN GOD. Whom therefore ye ignorantly worship, him declare I unto you.

24 [t]God that made the [u]world and all things therein, seeing that he is Lord of heaven and earth, [v]dwelleth not in temples made with hands;

25 Neither is [w]worshipped with men's hands, as though he needed any thing, seeing he [x]giveth to all life, and breath, and all things;

26 And hath made of one [y]blood all nations of men for to dwell on all the face of the earth, and hath determined the times before appointed, and the [z]bounds of their habitation;

Paul at Corinth.

AFTER these things Paul departed from Athens, and came to Corinth;

2 And found a certain Jew named [l]Aquila, born in Pontus, lately come from Italy, with his wife Priscilla; (because that Claudius had commanded all Jews to depart from Rome:) and came unto them.

3 And because he was of the same craft, he abode with them, and wrought: for by their occupation they were [m]tentmakers.

The careless Gallio.

12 And when Gallio was the [u]deputy of Achaia, the Jews made insurrection with one accord against Paul, and brought him to the judgment seat, 13 Saying, This fellow persuadeth men to worship God contrary to the law.

14 And when Paul was now about to open his mouth, Gallio said unto the Jews, If it were a matter of wrong or [v]wicked lewdness, O ye Jews, reason would that I should bear with you:

15 But if it be a question of [w]words and names, and of your law, look

[1] Gr. genos = "race." The reference is to the creation-work of God in which He made man (i.e. mankind, the race in Adam) in His own likeness, Gen. i. 26, 27, thus rebuking the thought that "the Godhead is like unto gold," etc. The word "Father" is not used, nor does the passage affirm anything concerning fatherhood or sonship, which are relationships based upon faith, and the new birth. Cf. John i. 12, 13; Gal. iii. 26; iv. 1-7; 1 John v. 1.

[2] Repentance is the trans. of a Gr. word (metanoia—metanoeo) meaning, "to have another mind," "to change the mind," and is used in the N.T. to indicate a change of mind in respect of sin, of God, and of self. This change of mind may, especially in the case of Christians who have fallen into sin, be preceded by sorrow (2 Cor. vii. 8-11), but sorrow for sin, though it may "work" repentance, is not repentance. The son in Mt. xxi. 28, 29 illustrates true repentance. Saving faith (Heb. xi. 39, note) includes and implies that change of mind which is called repentance.

19 And he came to Ephesus, and left them there: but he himself entered into the synagogue, and [d]reasoned with the Jews.

20 When they desired him to tarry longer time with them, he consented not;

21 But bade them farewell, saying, I must by all means keep this feast that cometh in [e]Jerusalem: but I will return again unto you, if God will. And he sailed from Ephesus.

22 And when he had landed at Cæsarea, and gone up, and [f]saluted the church, he went down to Antioch.

CHAPTER 19.

Paul at Ephesus: the disciples of John become Christians.

AND it came to pass, that, while Apollos was at Corinth, Paul having passed through the upper coasts came to Ephesus: and finding certain disciples,

2 He [q]said unto them, [1]Have ye received the [r]Holy Ghost [s]since ye believed? And they said unto him, We have not so much as heard whether there be any Holy Ghost.

3 And he said unto them, Unto what then were ye baptized? And they said, Unto John's baptism.

4 Then said Paul, John verily baptized with the baptism of [t]repentance, saying unto the people, that they should believe on him which should come after him, that is, on Christ Jesus.

5 When they heard this, they were baptized in the [u]name of the Lord Jesus.

6 And when Paul had laid his hands upon them, the [r]Holy Ghost came on them; and they spake with tongues, and prophesied.

7 And all the men were about twelve.

Paul in the synagogue at Ephesus; and in the school of Tyrannus.

8 And he went into the synagogue, and spake boldly for the space of three months, disputing and persuading the things concerning the kingdom of God.

9 But when divers were hardened, and believed not, but spake evil of that way before the multitude, he departed from them, and separated the disciples, disputing daily in the school of one Tyrannus.

[1] Not as in A.V., "since ye believed," but as in R.V. and marg.: "Did ye receive the Holy Spirit when ye believed?" Paul was evidently impressed by the absence of spirituality and power in these so-called disciples. Their answer brought out the fact that they were Jewish proselytes, disciples of John the Baptist, looking forward to a coming King, not Christians looking backward to an accomplished redemption. See Rom. viii. 9; 1 Cor. vi. 19; Eph. i. 13, marg.

10 And this continued by the space of two years; so that all they which dwelt in Asia heard the word of the Lord Jesus, both Jews and Greeks.

Miracles by Paul.

11 And God wrought special [a]miracles by the hands of Paul:

12 So that from his body were brought unto the sick handkerchiefs or aprons, and the diseases departed from them, and the evil spirits went out of them.

13 Then certain of the vagabond Jews, exorcists, took upon them to call over them which had evil spirits the name of the Lord Jesus, saying, We adjure you by Jesus whom Paul preacheth.

14 And there were seven sons of one Sceva, a Jew, and chief of the priests, which did so.

15 And the evil spirit answered and said, [b]Jesus I know, and Paul I know; but who are ye?

16 And the man in whom the evil spirit was leaped on them, and [c]overcame them, and [d]prevailed against them, so that they fled out of that house naked and wounded.

17 And this was known to all the Jews and Greeks also dwelling at Ephesus; and [e]fear fell on them all, and the name of the Lord Jesus was magnified.

18 And many that believed came, and [f]confessed, and shewed their deeds.

19 Many of them also which used [g]curious arts brought their books together, and burned them before all men: and they counted the price of them, and found it fifty thousand pieces of silver.

20 So [h]mightily grew the word of God and prevailed.

21 After these things were ended, Paul purposed in the [i]spirit, when he had passed through Macedonia and Achaia, to go to Jerusalem, saying, After I have been there, I must also see [j]Rome.

22 So he sent into Macedonia two of them that ministered unto him, [k]Timotheus and [l]Erastus; but he himself stayed in Asia for a season.

The uproar of the silversmiths at Ephesus.

23 And the same time there arose no small stir [m]about that way.

24 For a certain man named Demetrius, a silversmith, which made silver shrines for Diana, brought no small gain unto the craftsmen;

25 Whom he called together with the workmen of like occupation, and said, Sirs, ye know that by this [n]craft we have our wealth.

26 Moreover ye see and hear, that not alone at Ephesus, but almost throughout all Asia, this Paul hath persuaded and turned away much people, saying that they be [o]no gods, which are made with hands:

27 So that not only this our craft is in danger to be set at nought; but also that the temple of the great goddess Diana should be despised, and her magnificence should be destroyed, whom all Asia and the [p]world worshippeth.

28 And when they heard these sayings, they were full of wrath, and cried out, saying, Great is [q]Diana of the Ephesians.

29 And the whole city was filled with confusion: and having caught [r]Gaius and [s]Aristarchus, men of Macedonia, Paul's companions in travel, they rushed with one accord into the theatre.

30 And when Paul would have entered in unto the people, the disciples suffered him not.

31 And certain of the chief of Asia, which were his friends, sent unto him, desiring him that he would not adventure himself into the theatre.

32 Some therefore cried one thing, and some another: for the assembly was confused; and the more part knew not wherefore they were come together.

33 And they drew [t]Alexander out of the multitude, the Jews putting him forward. And Alexander beckoned with the hand, and would have made his defence unto the people.

34 But when they knew that he was a Jew, all with one voice about the space of two hours cried out, Great is Diana of the Ephesians.

35 And when the townclerk had appeased the people, he said, Ye men of Ephesus, what man is there that knoweth not how that the [u]city of the Ephesians is a worshipper of the great goddess Diana, and of the image which fell down from Jupiter?

36 Seeing then that these things cannot be spoken against, ye ought to be quiet, and to do nothing rashly.

37 For ye have brought hither these men, which are [v]neither rob-

38 Wherefore if Demetrius, and the craftsmen which are with him, have a matter against any man, the law is open, and there are deputies: let them implead one another.

39 But if ye enquire any thing concerning other matters, it shall be determined in a lawful assembly.

40 For we are in danger to be [a]called in question for this day's uproar, there being no cause whereby we may give an account of this concourse.

41 And when he had thus spoken, he dismissed the assembly.

CHAPTER 20.

Paul's last visit to Jerusalem:
(1) he goes into Macedonia and Greece.

AND after the uproar was ceased, Paul called unto him the disciples, and embraced them, and departed for to go into [b]Macedonia.

2 And when he had gone over those parts, and had given them much exhortation, he came into [c]Greece,

3 And there abode three months. And when [d]the Jews [e]laid wait for him, as he was about to sail into Syria, he purposed to return through Macedonia.

4 And there accompanied him into Asia [f]Sopater of Berea; and of the Thessalonians, [g]Aristarchus and Secundus; and [h]Gaius of Derbe, and [i]Timotheus; and of Asia, [j]Tychicus and [k]Trophimus.

5 These going before tarried for us at Troas.

(2) Paul at Troas.

6 And [l]we sailed away from Philippi after the [m]days of unleavened bread, and came unto them to Troas in five days; where we abode seven days.

7 And upon [n]the first day of the week, when the [o]disciples came together to break bread, Paul preached unto them, ready to depart on the morrow; and continued his speech until midnight.

8 And there were many lights in [p]the upper chamber, where they were gathered together.

9 And there sat in a window a certain young man named Eutychus, being fallen into a deep sleep:

and as Paul was long preaching, he sunk down with sleep, and fell down from the third loft, and was taken up dead.

10 And Paul went down, and [q]fell on him, and embracing him said, [r]Trouble not yourselves; for his life is in him.

11 When he therefore was come up again, and had broken bread, and eaten, and talked a long while, even till break of day, so he departed.

12 And they brought the young man [s]alive, and were not a little comforted.

(3) From Troas to Miletus.

13 And we went before to ship, and sailed unto Assos, there intending to take in Paul: for so had he appointed, minding himself to go afoot.

14 And when he met with us at Assos, we took him in, and came to Mitylene.

15 And we sailed thence, and came the next day over against Chios; and the next day we arrived at Samos, and tarried at Trogyllium; and the next day we came to Miletus.

16 For Paul had determined to sail by Ephesus, [t]because he would not spend the time in Asia: for he hasted, if it were possible for him, to be at Jerusalem the day of [u]Pentecost.

(4) Paul and the Ephesian elders.

17 And from Miletus he sent to Ephesus, and called the [v]elders of the church.

18 And when they were come to him, he said unto them, Ye know, from the first day that I came into Asia, after what manner I have been with you at all seasons,

19 Serving the Lord with all humility of mind, and with many tears, and [w]temptations, which befell me by the lying in wait of the Jews:

20 And how I [x]kept back nothing that was profitable unto you, but have shewed you, and have taught you publickly, and from house to house,

21 Testifying both to the Jews, and also to the Greeks, [y]repentance toward God, and faith toward our Lord Jesus Christ.

22 And now, behold, I go bound in the [1]spirit unto Jerusalem, not knowing the things that shall befall me there:

23 Save that the Holy Ghost witnesseth in every city, saying that bonds and afflictions abide me.

24 But none of these things move me, [a]neither count I my life dear unto myself, so that I might finish my course with joy, and the ministry, which I have received of the Lord Jesus, to testify the [b]gospel of the grace of God.

25 And now, behold, I know that ye all, among whom I have gone preaching the kingdom of God, shall see my face no more.

26 Wherefore I take you to record this day, that I am [c]pure from the blood of all men.

27 [d]For I have not shunned to declare unto you all the counsel of God.

28 [e]Take heed therefore unto yourselves, and to all the [f]flock, over the which the [g]Holy Ghost hath made you overseers, to feed the church of God, which he hath [h]purchased with his own blood.

29 For I know this, that after my departing shall grievous [i]wolves enter in among you, not sparing the flock.

30 Also [j]of your own selves shall men arise, speaking perverse things, to draw away disciples after them.

31 Therefore watch, and remember, that by the space of three years I ceased not to warn every one night and day with tears.

32 And now, brethren, [k]I commend you to God, and to the word of his grace, which is able to build you up, and to give you an inheritance among all them which are [l]sanctified.

33 I have coveted no man's silver, or gold, or apparel.

34 Yea, ye yourselves know, that these hands have ministered unto my necessities, and to them that were with me.

35 [m]I have shewed you all things, how that so labouring ye ought to support the weak, and to remember the words of the Lord Jesus, how he said, [n]It is more blessed to give than to receive.

36 And when he had thus spoken, he kneeled down, and prayed with them all.

37 And they all wept sore, and fell on Paul's neck, and kissed him,

38 Sorrowing most of all for the words which he spake, that they should see his face no more. And they accompanied him unto the ship.

CHAPTER 21.

(5) From Miletus to Tyre.

AND it came to pass, that after we were gotten from them, and had launched, we came with a straight course unto [o]Coos, and the day following unto Rhodes, and from thence unto Patara:

2 And finding a ship sailing over unto Phenicia, we went aboard, and set forth.

3 Now when we had [p]discovered Cyprus, we left it on the left hand, and sailed into Syria, and landed at Tyre: for there the ship was to unlade her burden.

(6) The Holy Spirit forbids Paul to go to Jerusalem.

4 And finding disciples, we tarried there seven days: who said to Paul through the Spirit, that he should not [q]go up to Jerusalem.

5 And when we had accomplished those days, we departed and went our way; and they all brought us on our way, with wives and children, till we were out of the city: and we kneeled down on the shore, and prayed.

6 And when we had taken our leave one of another, we took ship; and they returned home again.

7 And when we had finished our course from Tyre, we came to Ptolemais, and saluted the brethren, and abode with them one day.

8 And the next day we that were of Paul's company departed, and came unto Cæsarea: and we entered into the house of [r]Philip the evangelist, which was one of the seven; and abode with him.

9 And the same man had four daughters, virgins, which did prophesy.

[1] Cf. Acts xxi. 4. In Acts xx. 22 Paul's own spirit (1 Thes. v. 23, note) is meant; in Acts xxi. 4 the Holy Spirit. Paul's motive in going to Jerusalem seems to have been his great affection for the Jews (Rom. ix. 1-5), and his hope that the gifts of the Gentile churches, sent by him to poor saints at Jerusalem (Rom. xv. 25-28), would open the hearts of the law-bound Jewish believers to the "gospel of the grace of God" (Acts xx. 24).

(7) The Holy Spirit again warns Paul.

10 And as we tarried there many days, there came down from Judæa a certain prophet, named Agabus.

11 And [a]when he was come unto us, he took Paul's girdle, and bound his own hands and feet, and said, Thus saith the [b]Holy Ghost, So shall the Jews at Jerusalem bind the man that owneth this girdle, and shall deliver him into the hands of the Gentiles.

12 And when we heard these things, both we, and they of that place, besought him not to go up to Jerusalem.

13 Then Paul answered, What mean ye to weep and to break mine heart? for I am [c]ready not to be bound only, but also to die at Jerusalem for the name of the Lord Jesus.

(8) Paul at Jerusalem.

14 And when he would not be persuaded, we ceased, saying, The [d]will of the Lord be done.

15 And after those days we took up our [e]carriages, and went up to Jerusalem.

16 There went with us also certain of the disciples of Cæsarea, and brought with them one Mnason of Cyprus, an [f]old disciple, with whom we should lodge.

17 And when we were come to Jerusalem, the brethren received us gladly.

Paul takes a Jewish vow involving a Jewish sacrifice. (Cf. Heb. 10. 2, 9–12.)

18 And the day following Paul went in with us unto James; and all the [g]elders were present.

19 And when he had saluted them, he [h]declared particularly what things God had wrought among the Gentiles by his ministry.

20 And when they heard it, they glorified the Lord, and said unto him, Thou seest, brother, how many [i]thousands of Jews there are which believe; and [j]they are all zealous of the law:

21 And they are informed of thee, that thou teachest all the Jews which are among the Gentiles to [k]forsake Moses, saying that they ought not to circumcise their children, neither to walk after the customs.

22 What is it therefore? the multitude must needs come together: for they will hear that thou art come.

23 Do therefore this that we say to thee: We have four men which have a [k]vow on them;

24 Them take, and purify thyself with them, and be at [l]charges with them, that they may shave their heads: and all may know that those things, whereof they were informed concerning thee, are nothing; but that thou thyself also [m]walkest orderly, and keepest the law.

25 As touching the Gentiles which believe, we have written and concluded that they observe no such thing, save only that they keep themselves from things offered to idols, and from blood, and from strangled, and from fornication.

26 Then [n]Paul took the men, and the next day purifying himself with them entered into the temple, to signify the accomplishment of the days of purification, until that an [n]offering should be offered for every one of them.

Paul seized in the temple by the Jews.

27 And when the seven days were almost ended, the Jews which were of Asia, when they saw him in the temple, stirred up all the people, and laid hands on him,

28 Crying out, Men of Israel, help: This is the man, that teacheth all men every where against the people, and the law, and this place: and further brought Greeks also into the temple, and hath polluted this [o]holy place.

29 (For they had seen before with him in the city Trophimus an Ephesian, whom they supposed that Paul had brought into the temple.)

30 And all the city was moved, and the people ran together: and they took Paul, and [p]drew him out of the temple: and forthwith the doors were shut.

31 And as they went [q]about to kill him, tidings came unto the chief captain of the band, that all Jerusalem was in an uproar.

32 [r]Who immediately took soldiers and centurions, and ran down unto them: and when they saw the chief captain and the soldiers, they left beating of Paul.

Paul bound with chains.

33 Then the chief captain came near, and took him, and commanded him to be bound with two chains; and demanded who he was, and what he had done.

34 And some cried one thing, some another, among the multitude: and when he could not know the certainty for the tumult, he commanded him to be carried into the castle.

35 And when he came upon the stairs, so it was, that he was borne of the soldiers for the violence of the people.

36 For the multitude of the people followed after, crying, [a]Away with him.

37 And as Paul was to be led into the castle, he said unto the [b]chief captain, May I speak unto thee? Who said, Canst thou speak Greek?

38 Art not thou [c]that Egyptian, which before these days madest an uproar, and leddest out into the wilderness four thousand men that were murderers?

39 But Paul said, I am a man which am a Jew of Tarsus, a city in Cilicia, a [d]citizen of no mean city: and, I beseech thee, suffer me to speak unto the people.

40 And when he had given him licence, Paul stood on the stairs, and beckoned with the hand unto the people. And when there was made a great silence, he spake unto them in the Hebrew tongue, saying,

CHAPTER 22.

Paul's defence before the multitude: recounts his conversion. (Cf. Acts 9. 1-18; 26. 9-18.)

MEN, brethren, and fathers, hear ye my defence [e]which I make now unto you.

2 (And when they heard that he spake in the Hebrew tongue to them, they kept the more silence: and he saith,)

3 I am [f]verily a man which am a Jew, born in Tarsus, a city in Cilicia, yet brought up in this city at the feet of [g]Gamaliel, and [h]taught according to the perfect manner of the law of the fathers, and was zealous toward God, as ye all are this day.

4 And I [i]persecuted this way unto the death, binding and delivering into prisons both men and women.

5 As also the high priest doth bear me witness, and all the estate of the elders: from whom also I received letters unto the brethren, and went to Damascus, [j]to bring them which were there bound unto Jerusalem, for to be punished.

6 And it came to pass, that, as I made my journey, and was come nigh unto Damascus about noon, suddenly there shone from heaven a great light round about me.

7 And I fell unto the ground, and heard a voice saying unto me, Saul, Saul, why persecutest [k]thou me?

8 And I answered, Who art thou, Lord? And he said unto me, I am Jesus of Nazareth, whom thou persecutest.

9 And they that were with me [l]saw indeed the light, and were afraid; but they heard not the [m]voice of him that spake to me.

10 And I said, What shall I [n]do, Lord? And the Lord said unto me, Arise, and go into Damascus; and there it shall be told thee of all things which are appointed for thee to do.

11 And when I could not see for the glory of that light, being led by the hand of them that were with me, I came into Damascus.

12 And one Ananias, a devout man according to the law, having [o]a good report of all the Jews which dwelt there, 13 Came unto me, and stood, and said unto me, Brother Saul, receive thy sight. And the same hour I looked up upon him.

14 And he said, The God of our fathers hath [p]chosen thee, that thou shouldest know his will, and see that Just One, and shouldest hear the voice of his mouth.

15 For [q]thou shalt be his witness unto all men of what thou hast seen and heard.

16 And now why tarriest thou? arise, and be baptized, and [r]wash away thy [s]sins, calling on the name of the Lord.

The Lord had warned Paul to keep away from Jerusalem.

17 And it came to pass, that, [t]when I was come again to Jerusalem even while I prayed in the temple I was in a trance;

18 And saw him saying unto me Make haste, and get thee quickly [u]out of Jerusalem: for they will no receive thy testimony concerning me.

19 And I said, Lord, [v]they know that I imprisoned and beat in every synagogue them that believed on thee:

20 And when the blood of thy martyr Stephen was shed, [a]I also was standing by, and consenting unto his death, and kept the raiment of them that slew him.

21 And he said unto me, Depart: [b]for I will send thee far hence unto the Gentiles.

22 [c]And they gave him audience unto this word, and then lifted up their voices, and said, Away with such a fellow from the earth: for it is not fit that he should live.

23 And as they cried out, and cast off their clothes, and threw dust into the air, 24 The chief captain commanded him to be brought into the castle, and bade that he should be examined by scourging; that he might know [d]wherefore they cried so against him.

Paul a Roman citizen.

25 And [e]as they bound him with thongs, Paul said unto the centurion that stood by, Is it lawful for you to scourge a man that is a [f]Roman, and uncondemned?

26 When the centurion heard that, he went and told the chief captain, saying, Take heed what thou dost: for this man is a Roman.

27 Then the chief captain came, and said unto him, Tell me, art thou a Roman? He said, Yea.

28 And the chief captain answered, With a great sum obtained I this [g]freedom. And Paul said, But I [h]was free born.

29 Then straightway they departed from him which should have [i]examined him: and the chief captain also was afraid, after he knew that he was a Roman, and because he had bound him.

30 On the morrow, because he would have known the certainty wherefore he was accused of the Jews, he loosed him from his bands, and commanded the chief priests and all their council to appear, and brought Paul down, and set him before them.

CHAPTER 23.

Paul before the Sanhedrin.

AND Paul, earnestly beholding the council, said, Men and brethren, [a]I have lived in all good conscience before God until this day.

2 And the high priest Ananias commanded them that stood by him to smite him on the mouth.

3 [b]Then said Paul unto him, God shall smite thee, thou whited wall: for sittest thou to judge me after the law, and commandest me to be smitten contrary to the law?

4 And they that stood by said, Revilest thou God's high priest?

5 Then said Paul, I wist not, brethren, that he was the high priest: for it is written, [c]Thou shalt not speak evil of the ruler of thy people.

Paul appeals to the Pharisees.

6 But when Paul perceived that the one part were [d]Sadducees, and the other Pharisees, he cried out in the council, Men and brethren, I am a Pharisee, the son of a Pharisee: of the hope and resurrection of the dead I am called in question.

7 And when he had so said, there arose a dissension between the Pharisees and the Sadducees: and the multitude was divided.

8 For the Sadducees say that there is no resurrection, neither angel, nor spirit: but the Pharisees confess both.

9 And there arose a great [e]cry: and the [f]scribes that were of the Pharisees' part arose, and strove, saying, We find no evil in this man: but if a spirit or an angel hath spoken to him, let us not fight against God.

10 And when there arose a great dissension, the chief captain, fearing lest Paul should have been pulled in pieces of them, commanded the soldiers to go down, and to take him by force from among them, and to bring him into the castle.

The Lord's grace to Paul.

11 And the night following the Lord [g]stood by him, and said, Be of good cheer, Paul: for as thou hast testified of me in Jerusalem, so must thou bear witness also at Rome.

13 And they were more than forty which had made this conspiracy.
14 And they came to the chief priests and elders, and said, We have bound ourselves under a great curse, that we will eat nothing until we have slain Paul.
15 Now therefore ye with the council signify to the chief captain that he bring him down unto you to morrow, as though ye would enquire something more perfectly concerning him: and we, or ever he come near, are [a]ready to kill him.
16 And when Paul's sister's son heard of their lying in wait, he went and entered into the castle, and told Paul.
17 [b]Then Paul called one of the centurions unto him, and said, Bring this young man unto the chief captain: for he hath a certain thing to tell him.
18 So he took him, and brought him to the chief captain, and said, Paul the prisoner [c]called me unto him, and prayed me to bring this young man unto thee, who hath something to say unto thee.
19 Then the chief captain took him by the hand, and went with him aside privately, and asked him, What is that thou hast to tell me?
20 And he said, The Jews have agreed to desire thee that thou wouldest bring down Paul to morrow into the council, as though they would enquire somewhat of him more perfectly.
21 But do not thou yield unto them: for there lie in wait for him of them more than forty men, which have bound themselves with an oath, that they will neither eat nor drink till they have killed him: and now are they ready, looking for a promise from thee.
22 So the chief captain then let the young man depart, and charged him, See thou tell no man that thou hast shewed these things to me.

Paul sent to Felix at Cæsarea.

23 And he called unto him two centurions, saying, Make ready two hundred soldiers to go to Cæsarea, and horsemen threescore and ten, and spearmen two hundred, at the third hour of the night;
24 And provide them beasts, that they may set Paul on, and bring him safe unto Felix the governor.
25 And he wrote a letter after this manner:

27 This man was [d]taken of the Jews, and should have been killed of them: then [e]came I with an army, and rescued him, having understood that he was a Roman.
28 [f]And when I would have known the cause wherefore they accused him, I brought him forth into their council:
29 Whom I perceived to be accused of questions of their law, but to have [g]nothing laid to his charge worthy of death or of bonds.
30 And when it was told me how that the Jews laid wait for the man, I sent straightway to thee, and gave commandment to his accusers also to say before thee what they had against him. Farewell.
31 Then the soldiers, as it was commanded them, took Paul, and brought him by night to Antipatris.
32 On the morrow they left the horsemen to go with him, and returned to the castle:
33 Who, when they came to Cæsarea, and delivered the epistle to the governor, presented Paul also before him.
34 And when the governor had read the letter, he asked of what province he was. And when he understood that he was of [h]Cilicia;
35 I will hear thee, said he, when thine accusers are also come. And he commanded him to be kept in Herod's [i]judgment hall.

CHAPTER 24.

Paul before Felix.

AND after five days [j]Ananias the high priest descended with the elders, and with a certain orator named Tertullus, who informed the governor against Paul.

(The accusation.)

2 And when he was called forth Tertullus began to accuse him, saying, Seeing that by thee we enjoy great quietness, and that very worthy deeds are done unto this nation by thy providence,
3 We accept it always, and in all places, most noble Felix, with all thankfulness.
4 Notwithstanding, that I be not further tedious unto thee, I pray thee that thou wouldest hear us of thy clemency a few words.

5 For we have found this man a pestilent *a*fellow, and a mover of sedition among all the Jews throughout the *b*world, and a ringleader of the sect of the Nazarenes:
6 Who also hath gone about to *c*profane the temple: whom we took, and would have *d*judged according to our law.
7 But the chief *e*captain Lysias came upon us, and with great violence took him away out of our hands,
8 Commanding his accusers *f*to come unto thee: by examining of whom thyself mayest take knowledge of all these things, whereof we accuse him.
9 And the Jews also assented, saying that these things were so.

(Paul's defence before Felix.)

10 Then Paul, after that *g*the governor had beckoned unto him to speak, answered, Forasmuch as I know that thou hast been of many years a judge unto this nation, I do the more cheerfully answer *h*for myself:
11 Because that thou mayest understand, that there are yet but twelve days since I went up *i*to Jerusalem for to worship.
12 And they neither found me in the temple disputing with any man, neither raising up the people, neither in the synagogues, nor in the city:
13 Neither can they *j*prove the things whereof they now accuse me.
14 But this I confess unto thee, that after the way which they call heresy, so worship I the God *k*of my fathers, believing all things *l*which are written in the law and in the prophets:
15 And have *m*hope toward God, which they themselves also allow, that there shall be a resurrection of the dead, both of the just and unjust.
16 And herein do I exercise myself, *n*to have always a conscience void of offence toward God, and toward men.
17 Now after many years *o*I came to bring alms to my nation, and offerings.
18 *p*Whereupon certain Jews from Asia found me purified in the temple, neither with multitude, nor with tumult.
19 Who ought to have been here before thee, and object, if they had ought against me.
20 Or else let these same here say, if they have found any evil doing in me, while I stood before the council,
21 Except it be for this one voice, that I cried standing among them, Touching the *q*resurrection of the dead I am called in question by you this day.
22 And when Felix heard these things, having more perfect knowledge *r*of that way, he deferred them, and said, When Lysias the chief captain shall come down, I will know the uttermost of your matter.
23 And he commanded a centurion to keep Paul, and to let him have liberty, and that he should forbid none of his acquaintance to minister or come unto him.

(Paul before Felix the second time.)

24 And after certain days, when Felix came with his wife Drusilla, which was a Jewess, he sent for Paul, and heard him concerning the faith in Christ.
25 And as he reasoned of *s*righteousness, temperance, and judgment to come, Felix *t*trembled, and answered, Go thy way for this time; when I have a convenient season, I will call for thee.
26 He hoped also that money should have been given him of Paul, that he might loose him: wherefore he sent for him the oftener, and communed with him.

The silent two years at Cæsarea.

27 *u*But after two years Porcius Festus came into Felix' room: and Felix, willing to *v*shew the Jews a pleasure, left Paul bound.

CHAPTER 25.

Paul before Festus.

NOW when Festus was come into the province, after three days he ascended from Cæsarea to Jerusalem.
2 Then the high priest and the chief of the Jews informed him against Paul, and besought him,
3 And desired favour against him, that he would send for him to Jerusalem, *w*laying wait in the way to kill him.
4 But Festus answered, that Paul should be kept at Cæsarea, and that he himself would depart shortly thither.

5 Let them therefore, said he, which among you are able, go down with me, and accuse this man, if there be any wickedness in him.

6 And when he had tarried among them [a]more than ten days, he went down unto Cæsarea; and the next day sitting on the judgment seat commanded Paul to be brought.

7 And when he was come, the Jews which came down from Jerusalem stood round about, and laid many and grievous complaints against Paul, [b]which they could not prove.

8 While he answered for himself, Neither against the law of the Jews, neither against the temple, nor [c]yet against Cæsar, have I offended any thing at all.

9 But Festus, willing to do the Jews a pleasure, answered Paul, and said, Wilt thou go up to Jerusalem, and there be judged of these things before me?

Paul appeals to Cæsar.

10 Then said Paul, I stand at Cæsar's judgment seat, where I ought to be judged: to the Jews have I done no wrong, as thou very well knowest.

11 For if I be an offender, or have committed any thing worthy of death, I refuse not to die: but if there be none of these things whereof these accuse me, no man may deliver me unto them. [d]I appeal unto Cæsar.

12 Then Festus, when he had conferred with the council, answered, Hast thou appealed unto Cæsar? unto Cæsar shalt thou go.

13 And after certain days king [e]Agrippa and Bernice came unto Cæsarea to salute Festus.

14 And when they had been there many days, Festus declared Paul's cause unto the king, saying, There is a certain man left in bonds by Felix:

15 About whom, when I was at Jerusalem, the chief priests and the elders of the Jews informed me, desiring to have judgment against him.

16 To whom I answered, It is not the manner of the Romans to deliver any man to die, before that he which is accused have the accusers face to face, and have licence to answer for himself concerning the crime laid against him.

17 Therefore, when they were come hither, without any delay on the morrow I sat on the judgment seat, and commanded the man to be brought forth.

18 Against whom when the accusers stood up, they brought none accusation of such things as I supposed:

19 But had certain questions against him of their [f]own superstition, and of one Jesus, which was dead, whom Paul affirmed to be alive.

20 And because I doubted of such manner of questions, I asked him whether he would go to Jerusalem, and there be judged of these matters.

21 But when Paul had appealed to be [g]reserved unto the hearing of Augustus, I commanded him to be kept till I might send him to Cæsar.

22 Then Agrippa said unto Festus, I would also hear the man myself. To morrow, said he, thou shalt hear him.

23 And on the morrow, when Agrippa was come, and Bernice, with great pomp, and was entered into the place of hearing, with the chief captains, and principal men of the city, at Festus' commandment [h]Paul was brought forth.

24 And Festus said, King Agrippa, and all men which are here present with us, ye see this man, about whom all the multitude of the Jews have dealt with me, both at Jerusalem, and also here, crying that he ought not to live any longer.

25 But when I found that he had committed [i]nothing worthy of death, and that he himself hath appealed to Augustus, I have determined to send him.

26 Of whom I have no certain thing to write unto my lord. Wherefore I have brought him forth before you, and specially before [f]thee, O king Agrippa, that, after examination had, I might have somewhat to write.

27 For it seemeth to me unreasonable to send a prisoner, and not withal to signify the crimes laid against him.

forth the hand, and answered for himself:

2 I think myself happy, king Agrippa, because I shall answer for myself this day before thee touching all the things whereof I am accused of the Jews:

3 Especially because I know thee to be expert in all customs and questions which are among the Jews: wherefore I beseech thee to hear me patiently.

4 My manner of life from my youth, which was at the first among mine own nation at Jerusalem, know all the Jews;

5 Which [a]knew me from the beginning, if they would testify, that after the most straitest sect of our religion I lived a [b]Pharisee.

6 And now [c]I stand and am judged for the hope of the [d]promise made of God unto our fathers:

7 Unto which promise our twelve tribes, instantly serving God day and night, hope to come. For which hope's sake, king Agrippa, I am accused of the Jews.

8 Why [e]should it be thought a thing incredible with you, that God should raise the dead?

9 I [f]verily thought with myself, that I ought to do many things contrary to the name of Jesus of Nazareth.

10 Which thing I also did [g]in Jerusalem: and many of the saints did I shut up in prison, having received [h]authority from the chief priests; and when they were put to death, I gave my [i]voice against them.

11 And I punished them oft in every synagogue, and compelled them to blaspheme; and being exceedingly mad against them, I persecuted them even unto strange cities.

12 Whereupon as I [j]went to Damascus with authority and commission from the chief priests,

13 At midday, O king, I saw in the way a light from heaven, above the brightness of the sun, shining round about me and them which journeyed with me.

14 And when we were all fallen to the earth, I [k]heard a voice speaking unto me, and saying in the Hebrew tongue, Saul, Saul, why persecutest thou me? it is hard for thee to kick against the [l]pricks.

15 And I said, Who art thou, Lord? And he said, I am Jesus whom thou persecutest.

16 But rise, and stand upon thy feet: for I have appeared unto thee for this purpose, to make thee a minister and a witness both of these things which thou hast seen, and of those things in the which I will appear unto thee;

17 Delivering thee from the people, and from the Gentiles, unto whom now I send thee,

18 To open their eyes, and to turn them from darkness to light, and from the power of [m]Satan unto God, that they may receive forgiveness of [n]sins, and inheritance among them which are [o]sanctified by faith that is in me.

19 Whereupon, O king Agrippa, I was not disobedient unto the heavenly vision:

20 But shewed first unto them of Damascus, and at Jerusalem, and throughout all the coasts of Judæa, and then to the Gentiles, that they should [p]repent and turn to God, and do works meet for repentance.

21 For these causes the Jews caught me in the temple, and went about to kill me.

22 Having therefore obtained help of God, I continue unto this day, witnessing both to small and great, saying none other things than those which the prophets and Moses did say should come:

23 That [q]Christ should suffer, and that he should be the first that should rise from the dead, and should shew light unto the people, and to the Gentiles.

24 And as he thus spake for himself, Festus said with a loud voice, Paul, thou art [r]beside thyself; much learning doth make thee mad.

25 But he said, I am not mad, most noble Festus; but speak forth the words of truth and soberness.

26 For the king knoweth of these things, before whom also I speak freely: for I am persuaded that none of these things are hidden from him; for this thing was not done in a corner.

27 King Agrippa, believest thou the prophets? I know that thou [s]believest.

28 Then Agrippa said unto Paul, [t]Almost thou persuadest me to be a Christian.

29 And Paul said, I would to God, that not only thou, but also all that hear me this day, were [u]both almost, and altogether such as I am, except these bonds.

CHAPTER 27.

Paul is sent to Rome.

AND when it was determined that we should sail into Italy, they delivered [b]Paul and certain other prisoners unto one named Julius, a [c]centurion of Augustus' band.

2 And entering into a ship of Adramyttium, we launched, meaning to sail by the coasts of Asia; one [d]Aristarchus, a Macedonian of Thessalonica, being with us.

3 And the next day we touched at Sidon. And [e]Julius courteously entreated Paul, and gave him liberty to go unto his friends to refresh himself.

4 And when we had launched from thence, we sailed under Cyprus, because the winds were contrary.

5 And when we had sailed over the sea of Cilicia and Pamphylia, we came to Myra, a city of Lycia.

6 And there the centurion found a ship of Alexandria sailing into Italy; and he put us therein.

7 And when we had sailed slowly many days, and scarce were come over against Cnidus, the wind not suffering us, we sailed under [f]Crete, over against Salmone;

8 And, hardly passing it, came unto a place which is called The fair havens; nigh whereunto was the city of Lasea.

9 Now when much time was spent, and when sailing was now dangerous, because the [g]fast was now already past, Paul admonished them,

10 And said unto them, Sirs, I [h]perceive that this voyage will be with hurt and much damage, not only of the lading and ship, but also of our lives.

11 Nevertheless the centurion believed the master and the owner of the ship, more than those things which were spoken by Paul.

12 And because the haven was not commodious to winter in, the more part advised to depart thence also, if by any means they might attain to Phenice, and there to winter; which is an haven of Crete, and lieth toward the south west and north west.

13 And when the south wind blew softly, supposing that they had obtained their purpose, loosing thence, they sailed close by Crete.

The storm.

14 But not long after there [i]arose against it a [j]tempestuous wind, called Euroclydon.

15 And when the ship was caught, and could not bear up into the wind, we let her drive.

16 And running under a certain island which is called Clauda, we had much work to come by the boat:

17 Which when they had taken up, they used helps, undergirding the ship; and, fearing lest they should [k]fall into the quicksands, strake sail, and so were driven.

18 And we being exceedingly tossed with a tempest, the next day they lightened the ship;

19 And the third day we cast out with our own hands the tackling of the ship.

20 And when neither sun nor stars in many days appeared, and no small tempest lay on us, all hope that we should be saved was then taken away.

The moral ascendency of Paul.

21 But after long abstinence Paul stood forth in the midst of them, and said, Sirs, ye should have [l]hearkened unto me, and not have loosed from Crete, and to have gained this harm and loss.

22 And now [m]I exhort you to be of good cheer: for there shall be no loss of any man's life among you, but of the ship.

23 For there stood by me this night [n]the angel of God, whose I am, and whom I serve,

24 Saying, Fear not, Paul; thou must be brought before Cæsar: and, lo, God hath given thee all them that sail with thee.

25 Wherefore, sirs, be of good cheer: for I [o]believe God, that it shall be even as it was told me.

26 Howbeit we must be cast upon a certain island.

the shipmen deemed that they drew near to some country;

28 And sounded, and found it twenty [a]fathoms: and when they had gone a little further, they sounded again, and found it fifteen fathoms.

29 Then fearing lest we should have fallen upon rocks, they cast four anchors out of the stern, and wished for the day.

30 And as the [b]shipmen were about to flee out of the ship, when they had let down the boat into the sea, under colour as though they would have cast anchors out of the foreship,

31 Paul said to the centurion and to the soldiers, [c]Except these abide in the ship, ye cannot be saved.

32 Then the soldiers cut off the ropes of the boat, and let her fall off.

33 And while the day was coming on, Paul besought them all to take meat, saying, This day is the fourteenth day that ye have tarried and continued fasting, having taken nothing.

34 Wherefore I pray you to take some meat: [d]for this is for your health: [e]for there shall not an hair fall from the head of any of you.

35 And when he had thus spoken, he took bread, and gave thanks to God in presence of them all: and when he had broken it, he began to eat.

36 Then were they all of good cheer, and they also took some meat.

37 And we were in all in the ship [f]two hundred threescore and sixteen souls.

38 And when they had eaten enough, they lightened the ship, and cast out the wheat into the sea.

39 And when it was day, they knew not the land: but they discovered a certain creek with a shore, into the which they were minded, if it were possible, to thrust in the ship.

40 And when they had [g]taken up the anchors, they committed themselves unto the sea, and loosed the rudder bands, and hoised up the mainsail to the wind, and made toward shore.

41 And falling into a place where two seas met, they ran the ship aground; and the forepart stuck fast, and remained unmoveable, but the hinder part [h]was broken with the violence of the waves.

42 And the soldiers' counsel was to kill the prisoners, lest any of them should swim out, and escape.

43 But the centurion, willing to save [i]Paul, kept them from their purpose; and commanded that they which could swim should cast themselves first into the sea, and get to land:

CHAPTER 28.

The landing on Melita: miracle of the viper's bite. (Cf. Mk. 16. 18.)

AND when they were escaped, then they knew that the island was called Melita.

2 And the barbarous people shewed us no little kindness: for they kindled a fire, and [k]received us every one, because of the present rain, and because of the cold.

3 And when Paul had gathered a bundle of sticks, and laid them on the fire, there came a viper out of the heat, and [l]fastened on his hand.

4 And when the barbarians saw the venomous beast hang on his hand, they said among themselves, No doubt this man is a murderer, whom, though he hath escaped the sea, yet [m]vengeance suffereth not to live.

5 And he shook off the beast into the fire, and felt no harm.

6 Howbeit they looked when he should have swollen, or fallen down dead suddenly: but after they had looked a great while, and saw no harm come to him, they changed their minds, and said that he was a god.

Miracle of the healing of Publius' father.

7 In the same quarters were possessions of the chief man of the island, whose name was Publius; who received us, and lodged us three days courteously.

8 And it came to pass, that the father of Publius lay sick of a fever and of a bloody flux: to [n]whom Paul entered in, and prayed, and [o]laid his hands on him, and [l]healed him.

9 So when this was done, others also, which had diseases in the island, came, and were healed:

10 Who also honoured us with many honours; and when we departed, they laded us with such things as were necessary.

11 And after three months we departed in a ship of Alexandria, which had wintered in the isle, whose sign was Castor and Pollux.

12 And landing at Syracuse, we tarried there three days.

13 And from thence we fetched a compass, and came to Rhegium: and after one day the south wind blew, and we came the next day to Puteoli:

14 Where we found brethren, and were desired to tarry with them seven days: and so we went toward Rome.

15 And from thence, when [a]the brethren heard of us, they came to meet us as far as [b]Appii forum, and The three taverns: whom when Paul saw, he thanked God, and took [c]courage.

Paul arrives at Rome.

16 And when we came to Rome, the centurion delivered the prisoners to the captain of the guard: but Paul was suffered to dwell by himself with [d]a soldier that kept him.

Paul in Rome: his ministry there to the Jews.

17 And it came to pass, that after three days Paul called the chief of the Jews together: and when they were come together, he said unto them, Men and brethren, though I have committed nothing against the people, or customs of our fathers, yet was I [e]delivered prisoner from Jerusalem into the hands of the Romans.

18 Who, [f]when they had examined me, would have let me go, because there was no cause of death in me.

19 But when the Jews spake against it, I was constrained to [g]appeal unto Cæsar; not that I had ought to accuse my nation of.

20 For this cause therefore [h]have I called for you, to see you, and to speak with you: because that for the [i]hope of Israel I am bound with this [j]chain.

21 And they said unto him, We neither received letters out of Judæa concerning thee, neither any of the brethren that came shewed or spake any harm of thee.

22 But we desire to hear of thee what thou thinkest: for as concerning this sect, we know that [k]every where it is spoken against.

23 And when they had appointed him a day, there came many to him into his lodging; to whom he [l]expounded and testified the kingdom of God, persuading them concerning Jesus, both out of the law of Moses, and out of the prophets, from morning till evening.

24 And some believed the things which were spoken, and some believed not.

Paul turns to the Gentiles.

25 And [m]when they agreed not among themselves, they departed, after that Paul had spoken one word, Well spake the [n]Holy Ghost [o]by Esaias the prophet unto our fathers,

26 Saying, Go unto this people, and say, Hearing ye shall hear, and [p]shall not understand; and seeing ye shall see, and not perceive:

27 For the heart of this people is waxed gross, and their ears are dull of hearing, and their eyes have they closed; lest they should see with their eyes, and hear with their ears, and understand with [q]their heart, and should be [r]converted, and I should heal them.

28 Be it known therefore unto you, that the [s]salvation of God is sent unto the Gentiles, and that they will hear it.

29 And when he had said these words, the Jews departed, and had great reasoning among themselves.

30 And Paul dwelt two whole years in [1]his own hired house, and received all that came in unto him,

31 Preaching the kingdom of God, and teaching those things which concern the Lord Jesus Christ, [t]with all confidence, no man forbidding him.

[1] It has been much disputed whether Paul endured two Roman imprisonments from A.D. 62 to 68, or one. The tradition from Clement to Eusebius favours two imprisonments with a year of liberty between. Erdman (W.J.) has pointed out that the leaving of Trophimus sick at Miletus, mentioned in 2 Tim. iv. 20, could not have been an occurrence of Paul's last journey to Jerusalem, for then Trophimus was not left (Acts xx. 4; xxi. 29), nor of the journey to Rome to appear before Cæsar, for then he did not touch at Miletus. To make this incident possible there must have been a release from the first imprisonment, and an interval of ministry and travel.

THE EPISTLES OF PAUL

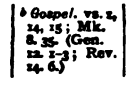
THE Epistles of the Apostle Paul have a very distinctive character. All Scripture, up to the Gospel accounts of the crucifixion, looks forward to the cross, and has primarily in view Israel, and the blessing of the earth through the Messianic kingdom. But "hid in God" (Eph. iii. 9) was an unrevealed fact—the interval of time between the crucifixion and resurrection of Christ and His return in glory; and an unrevealed purpose—the outcalling of the ecclesia, the church which is Christ's body. In Mt. xvi. our Lord announced that purpose, but wholly without explanation as to how, when, or of what materials, that church should be built, or what should be its position, relationships, privileges, or duties.

All this constitutes precisely the scope of the Epistles of Paul. They develope the doctrine of the church. In his letters to seven Gentile churches (in Rome, Corinth, Galatia, Ephesus, Philippi, Colosse, and Thessalonica), the church, the "mystery which from the beginning of the world hath been hid in God" (Eph. iii. 9), is fully revealed, and fully instructed as to her unique place in the counsels and purposes of God.

Through Paul alone we know that the church is not an organization, but an organism, the body of Christ; instinct with His life, and heavenly in calling, promise, and destiny. Through him alone we know the nature, purpose, and form of organization of local churches, and the right conduct of such gatherings. Through him alone do we know that "we shall not all sleep," that "the dead in Christ shall rise first," and that living saints shall be "changed" and caught up to meet the Lord in the air at His return.

But to Paul was also committed the unfolding of the doctrines of grace which were latent in the teachings of Jesus Christ. Paul originates nothing, but unfolds everything, concerning the nature and purpose of the law; the ground and means of the believer's justification, sanctification, and glory; the meanings of the death of Christ, and the position, walk, expectation, and service of the Christian.

Paul, converted by the personal ministry of the Lord in glory, is distinctively the witness to a glorified Christ, Head over all things to the church which is His body, as the Eleven were to a Christ in the flesh, the Son of Abraham and of David.



The chronological order of Paul's Epistles is believed to be as follows: 1 and 2 Thessalonians, 1 and 2 Corinthians, Galatians, Romans, Philemon, Colossians, Ephesians, Philippians, 1 Timothy, Titus, 2 Timothy. Hebrews has a distinctive place, nor can the order of that book amongst the writings of Paul be definitely fixed.

HOW TO USE THE SUBJECT REFERENCES

THE subject references lead the reader from the first clear mention of a great truth to the last. The first and last references (in parenthesis) are repeated each time, so that wherever a reader comes upon a subject he may recur to the first reference and follow the subject, or turn at once to the Summary at the last reference.

ILLUSTRATION

Here Gospel is the subject; vs. 1, 14, 15 show where it is at that particular place; Mk. viii. 35 is the next reference in the chain, and the references in parenthesis are the first and last.

WRITER. The Apostle Paul (i. 1). Date. Romans, the sixth in chronological order of Paul's Epistles, was written from Corinth during the apostle's third visit to that city (2 Cor. xiii. 1), in A.D. 60. The Epistle has its occasion in the intention of the apostle soon to visit Rome. Naturally, he would wish to announce before his coming the distinctive truths which had been revealed to and through him. He would desire the Christians in Rome to have his own statement of the great doctrines of grace so bitterly assailed everywhere by legalistic teachers.

Theme. The theme of Romans is "the Gospel of God" (i. 1), the very widest possible designation of the whole body of redemption truth, for it is He with whom is "no respect of persons"; and who is not "the God of the Jews only," but "of the Gentiles also" (ii. 11; iii. 29). Accordingly, "all the world" is found guilty (iii. 19), and a redemption is revealed as wide as the need, upon the alone condition of faith. Not only does Romans embody in the fullest way the doctrines of grace in relation to salvation, but in three remarkable chapters (ix.–xi.) the great promises to Israel are reconciled with the promises concerning the Gentiles, and the fulfilment of the former shown to await the completion of the church and coming of the Deliverer out of Zion (xi. 25–27). The key-phrase is "the righteousness of God" (i. 17; iii. 21, 22).

The Epistle, exclusive of the introduction (i. 1–17), is in seven parts: I. The whole world guilty before God, i. 18–iii. 20. II. Justification through the righteousness of God by faith, the Gospel remedy for guilt, iii. 21–v. 11. III. Crucifixion with Christ, the resurrection life of Christ, and the walk in the Spirit, the Gospel provision for inherent sin, v. 12–viii. 13. IV. The full result in blessing of the Gospel, viii. 14–39. V. Parenthesis: the Gospel does not abolish the covenant promises to Israel, ix. 1–xi. 36. VI. Christian life and service, xii. 1–xv. 33. VII. The outflow of Christian love, xvi. 1–27.

CHAPTER 1.

Introduction (vs. 1–15); theme (vs. 16, 17).

PAUL, a [a]servant of Jesus Christ, called to be an apostle, separated unto the gospel of God,

2 (Which he had promised afore [b]by his prophets in the [c]holy scriptures,)

3 Concerning his Son Jesus Christ our Lord, [d]which was made of the [e]seed of David according to the flesh;

4 And declared to be the [f]Son of God with power, according to the [g]spirit of holiness, by the resurrection [h]from the dead:

5 [i]By whom we have received grace and apostleship, [j]for obedience to the faith among all nations, for his name:

6 Among whom are ye also the called of Jesus Christ:

7 To all that be in Rome, beloved of God, called to be saints: Grace to you and peace from God our Father, and [k]the Lord Jesus Christ.

8 First, I thank my God through Jesus Christ for you all, [k]that your faith is spoken of throughout the whole [l]world.

9 For God is my witness, whom I serve with my spirit in the gospel of his Son, that without ceasing I make mention of you always in my prayers;

10 Making request, if by any means now at length I might have a prosperous journey [m]by the will of God to come unto you.

11 For I long to see you, that I may impart unto you some spiritual gift, to the end ye may be established;

12 That is, that I may be comforted together with you by the mutual faith both of you and me.

13 Now I would not have you ignorant, brethren, that oftentimes I purposed to come unto you, (but was [n]let hitherto,) that I might have some fruit among you also, even as among other Gentiles.

14 I am debtor both to the Greeks, and to the Barbarians; both to the wise, and to the unwise.

15 So, as much as in me is, I am ready to preach the gospel to you that are at Rome also.

16 For I am not ashamed of the [a]gospel of Christ: for it is the power of God unto [l]salvation to every one that [b]believeth; to the Jew first, and also to the Greek.

17 For therein is [c]the righteousness of God revealed from faith to [d]faith: as it is written, [e]The just shall live by faith.

Part I. The guilty world.

(1) The Gospel a revelation of wrath also.

18 For [f]the wrath of God is revealed from heaven against all ungodliness and unrighteousness of men, who [g]hold the [h]truth in unrighteousness;

(2) The universe a revelation of the power and deity of God.

19 Because that which may be known of God is manifest in them; for God hath shewed it unto them.

20 For the invisible things of him [i]from the creation of the [j]world are clearly seen, being understood by the things that are made, even his eternal power and [k]Godhead; so that they are [l]without excuse:

(3) The seven stages of Gentile world apostasy.

21 Because that, when they knew God, they glorified him not as God, neither were thankful; but became vain in their [m]imaginations, and their foolish heart was darkened.

22 Professing themselves to be [n]wise, they became fools,

23 And changed the glory of the [o]uncorruptible God into an image made like to corruptible man, and to birds, and fourfooted beasts, and creeping things.

(4) The result of the Gentile world apostasy.

24 Wherefore [p]God also gave them up to uncleanness through the lusts of their own hearts, to dishonour their own bodies between themselves:

25 [q]Who changed the truth of God into a lie, and worshipped and served the creature more than the Creator, who is blessed for ever. Amen.

26 For this cause God gave them up unto vile affections: for even their women did change the natural use into that which is against nature:

27 And likewise also the men, leaving the natural use of the woman, burned in their lust one toward another; men with men working that which is unseemly, and receiving in themselves that recompence of their error which was meet.

28 And even as they [r]did not like to retain God in their knowledge, God gave them over to a reprobate mind, [t]to do those things [s]which are not convenient;

29 Being filled with all unrighteousness, fornication, wickedness, covetousness, maliciousness; full of envy, murder, debate, deceit, malignity; whisperers,

30 Backbiters, haters of God, [t]despiteful, proud, boasters, inventors of evil things, disobedient to parents,

31 Without understanding, covenantbreakers, without natural affection, implacable, unmerciful:

32 Who [u]knowing the judgment of God, that they which commit such things are worthy of death, not only do the same, but [v]have pleasure in them that do them.

[1]The Heb. and Gr. words for salvation imply the ideas of deliverance, safety, preservation, healing, and soundness. Salvation is the great inclusive word of the Gospel, gathering into itself all the redemptive acts and processes: as justification, redemption, grace, propitiation, imputation, forgiveness, sanctification, and glorification. Salvation is in three tenses: (1) The believer has been saved from the guilt and penalty of sin (Lk. vii. 50; 1 Cor. i. 18; 2 Cor. ii. 15; Eph. v. 5, 8; 2 Tim. i. 9) and is safe. (2) The believer is being saved from the habit and dominion of sin (Rom. vi. 14; Phil. i. 19; ii. 12, 13; 2 Thes. ii. 13; Rom. viii. 2; Gal. ii. 19, 20; 2 Cor. iii. 18). (3) The believer is to be saved in the sense of entire conformity to Christ (Rom. xiii. 11; Heb. x. 36; 1 Pet. i. 5; 1 John iii. 2). Salvation is by grace through faith, is a free gift, and wholly without works (Rom. iii. 27, 28; iv. 1-8; vi. 23; Eph. ii. 8). The divine order is: first salvation, then works (Eph. ii. 9, 10; Tit. iii. 5-8).

judgest another, thou condemnest thyself; for thou that judgest doest the same things.

2 But we are sure that the [a]judgment of God is according to truth against them which commit such things.

3 And thinkest thou this, O man, that judgest them which do such things, and doest the same, that thou shalt escape the judgment of God?

4 Or despisest thou the [b]riches of his goodness and [c]forbearance and [d]longsuffering; not knowing that the goodness of God leadeth thee to [e]repentance?

5 But after thy hardness and impenitent heart treasurest up unto thyself wrath [f]against the day of wrath and revelation of the righteous judgment of God;

6 Who will [g]render to every man according to his deeds:

7 To them who by patient continuance in well doing seek for glory and honour and [h]immortality, [i]eternal life:

8 But unto them that are [j]contentious, and do not obey the truth, but obey unrighteousness, indignation and wrath,

9 Tribulation and anguish, upon every soul of man that doeth evil, of the Jew first, and also of the [k]Gentile;

10 But glory, honour, and peace, to every man that worketh good, to the Jew first, and also to the [k]Gentile:

11 For [l]there is no respect of persons with God.

12 For as many as have [m]sinned without [n]law shall also perish without law: and as many as have sinned [o]in the law shall be judged by the law;

13 (For not the hearers of [p]the law are just before God, but the doers of [p]the law shall be justified.

14 For when the Gentiles, which have not the law, do by nature the things contained in the law, these, having not the law, are a law unto themselves:

15 [q]Which shew the [r]work of the law written in their hearts, their [s]conscience also bearing witness, and their [t]thoughts the mean while accusing or else excusing one another;)

(6) The Jew, knowing the law, is condemned by the law.

17 Behold, thou art called a Jew, and [v]restest in the law, and makest thy boast of God,

18 And [w]knowest his will, and approvest the things that are more excellent, being instructed out of the law;

19 And art confident that thou thyself art a guide of the blind, a light of them which are in darkness,

20 An instructor of the foolish, a teacher of babes, which hast the form of knowledge and of the truth in the law.

21 Thou therefore which teachest another, teachest thou not thyself? thou that preachest a man should not steal, dost thou steal?

22 Thou that sayest a man should not commit adultery, dost thou commit adultery? thou that abhorrest idols, dost thou [x]commit sacrilege?

23 Thou that makest thy boast of the law, through [y]breaking the law dishonourest thou God?

24 For [z]the name of God is blasphemed among the Gentiles [a]through you, as it is [b]written.

25 For circumcision verily profiteth, if thou keep the law: but if thou be a [y]breaker of the law, thy circumcision is made uncircumcision.

26 Therefore if the uncircumcision keep the [c]righteousness of the law, shall not his uncircumcision be counted for circumcision?

27 And shall not [d]uncircumcision which is by nature, if it fulfil the [e]law, judge thee, who by the letter and circumcision dost [y]transgress the law?

28 [f]For he is not a Jew, which is one outwardly; neither is that circumcision, which is outward in the flesh:

29 But he is a Jew, which is one inwardly; and circumcision is that of the heart, [g]in the spirit, and not in the letter; whose praise is not of men, but of God.

CHAPTER 3.

(7) The advantage of the Jew works his greater condemnation.

WHAT advantage then hath the Jew? or what profit is there of circumcision?

2 Much every way: chiefly, because that unto them were committed the oracles of God.

3 For what if some did not believe? shall their unbelief make the [a]faith of God without effect?

4 God forbid: yea, let God be [b]true, but every man a liar; as it is written, [c]That thou mightest be justified in thy sayings, and mightest overcome when thou art judged.

5 But if our unrighteousness commend the [d]righteousness of God, what shall we say? Is God unrighteous who taketh vengeance? (I speak as a man)

6 God forbid: for then how shall God judge the [e]world?

7 For if the truth of God hath more abounded through my lie unto his glory; why yet am I also judged as a [f]sinner?

8 And not rather, (as we be slanderously reported, and as some affirm that we say,) Let us do evil, that good may come? whose [g]damnation is just.

(8) The final verdict: the whole world guilty before God.

9 What then? are we better than they? No, in no wise: for we have before proved both Jews and Gentiles, that they are all under [f]sin;

10 As it is written, [h]There is none [i]righteous, no, not one:

11 There is none that [f]understandeth, there is none that seeketh after [k]God.

12 They are all gone out of the [l]way, they are together become unprofitable; there is none that doeth good, no, not one.

13 Their throat is an open [m]sepulchre; with their tongues they have used deceit; the poison of asps is under their lips:

14 Whose mouth is full of cursing and [n]bitterness:

15 Their feet are swift to shed [o]blood:

16 Destruction and misery are in their ways:

17 And the way of peace have they not [p]known:

18 There is no fear of [q]God before their [r]eyes.

19 Now we know that what things soever the [s]law saith, it saith to them who are under the law: that every mouth may be stopped, and all the world may [t]become guilty before God.

20 Therefore by the deeds of the law there shall no flesh be [u]justified in his sight: for by the law is the knowledge of [v]sin.

Part II. Justification by faith in Christ crucified, the alone remedy for sins (Rom. 3. 21-5. 11).

(1) Justification defined.

21 But now [w]the [1]righteousness of God without the law is manifested, being witnessed by the law and the prophets;

22 Even the [x]righteousness of God which is [y]by [2]faith of Jesus Christ unto all and upon all them that believe: for there is no difference:

23 For all have [2]sinned, and come short of the glory of God;

[1] The righteousness of God is neither an attribute of God, nor the changed character of the believer, but Christ Himself, who fully met in our stead and behalf every demand of the law, and who is, by the act of God called imputation (Lev. xxv. 50; Jas. ii. 23), "made unto us . . . righteousness" (1 Cor. i. 30). "The believer in Christ is now, by grace, shrouded under so complete and blessed a righteousness that the law from Mt. Sinai can find neither fault nor diminution therein. This is that which is called the righteousness of God by faith."—Bunyan. See 2 Cor. v. 21; Rom. iv. 6; x. 4; Phil. iii. 9.

[2] Sin, Summary: The literal meanings of the Heb. and Gr. words variously rendered "sin," "sinner," etc., disclose the true nature of sin in its manifold manifestations. Sin is transgression, an overstepping of the law, the divine boundary between good and evil (Psa. li. 1; Lk. xv. 29); iniquity, an act inherently wrong, whether expressly forbidden or not; error, a departure from right (Psa. li. 9; Rom. iii. 23); missing the mark, a failure to meet the divine standard; trespass, the intrusion of self-will into the sphere of divine authority (Eph. ii. 1); lawlessness, or spiritual anarchy (1 Tim. i. 9); unbelief, or an insult to the divine veracity (John xvi. 9). Sin originated with Satan (Isa. xiv. 12-14); entered the world through Adam (Rom. v. 12); was, and is, universal, Christ alone excepted (Rom. iii. 23; 1 Pet. ii. 22); incurs the penalties of spiritual and physical death (Gen. ii. 17; iii. 19; Ezk. xviii. 4, 20; Rom. vi. 23); and has no remedy but in the sacrificial death of Christ (Heb. ix. 26; Acts iv. 12) availed of by faith (Acts xiii. 38, 39). Sin may be summarized as threefold: An act, the violation of, or want of obedience to the revealed will of God; a state, absence of righteousness; a nature, enmity toward God.

[c]grace through the [1]redemption that is in Christ Jesus:

25 Whom God hath set forth to be a [2]propitiation through [b]faith in his [c]blood, to declare his righteousness for the [d]remission of sins that are past, through the forbearance of God;

26 To declare, I say, at this time his [3]righteousness: that he might be just, and the justifier of him which believeth in Jesus.

27 Where is boasting then? It is excluded. By what law? of works? Nay: but by the law of faith.

28 Therefore we conclude that a man is [4]justified by [e]faith [f]without the deeds of the law.

(2) Justification a universal remedy.

29 Is he the God of the Jews only? is he not also of the Gentiles? Yes, of the Gentiles also:

30 Seeing it is one God, which shall justify the circumcision by faith, and uncircumcision through faith.

(3) Justification by faith honours the law.

31 [5]Do we then make void the law through [g]faith? God forbid: yea, we establish the law.

[1] Redemption, "to deliver by paying a price." The N.T. doctrine. The N.T. records the fulfilment of the O.T. types and prophecies of redemption through the sacrifice of Christ. The completed truth is set forth in the three words which are translated redemption: (1) agorazo, "to purchase in the market." The underlying thought is of a slave-market. The subjects of redemption are "sold under sin" (Rom. vii. 14), but are, moreover, under sentence of death (Ezk. xviii. 4; John iii. 18, 19; Rom. iii. 19; Gal. iii. 10), and the purchase price is the blood of the Redeemer who dies in their stead (Gal. iii. 13; 2 Cor. v. 21; Mt. xx. 28; Mk. x. 45; 1 Tim. ii. 6; 1 Pet. i. 18); (2) exagorazo, "to buy out of the market." The redeemed are never again to be exposed to sale; (3) lutroo, "to loose," "to set free by paying a price" (John viii. 32; Gal. iv. 4, 5, 31; v. 13; Rom. viii. 21). Redemption is by sacrifice and by power (Ex. xiv. 30, note); Christ paid the price, the Holy Spirit makes deliverance actual in experience (Rom. viii. 2). See also Ex. xiv. 30, note; Isa. lix. 20; Rom. i. 16, note.

[2] Lit. a propitiatory [sacrifice], through faith by his blood; Gr. hilasterion, "place of propitiation." The word occurs, 1 John ii. 2; iv. 10, as the trans. of hilasmos, "that which propitiates," "a propitiatory sacrifice." Hilasterion is used by the Septuagint, and in Heb. ix. 5 for "mercy-seat." The mercy-seat was sprinkled with atoning blood on the day of atonement (Lev. xvi. 14), in token that the righteous sentence of the law had been (typically) carried out, so that what must else have been a judgment-seat could righteously be a mercy-seat (Heb ix. 11-15; iv. 14-16), a place of communion (Ex. xxv. 21, 22). In fulfilment of the type, Christ is Himself the hilasmos, "that which propitiates," and the hilasterion, "the place of propitiation"—the mercy-seat sprinkled with His own blood—the token that in our stead He so honoured the law by enduring its righteous sentence that God, who ever foresaw the cross, is vindicated in having "passed over" sins from Adam to Moses (Rom. v. 13) and the sins of believers under the old covenant (Ex. xxix. 33, note), and just in justifying sinners under the new covenant. There is no thought in propitiation of placating a vengeful God, but of doing right by His holy law and so making it possible for Him righteously to show mercy.

[3] "His righteousness" here is God's consistency with His own law and holiness in freely justifying a sinner who believes in Christ; that is, one in whose behalf Christ has met every demand of the law (Rom. x. 4).

[4] Justification, Summary: Justification and righteousness are inseparably united in Scripture by the fact that the same word (dikaios, "righteous"; dikaoo, "to justify") is used for both. The believing sinner is justified because Christ, having borne his sins on the cross, has been "made unto him righteousness" (1 Cor. i. 30). Justification originates in grace (Rom. iii. 24; Tit. iii. 4, 5); is through the redemptive and propitiatory work of Christ, who has vindicated the law (Rom. iii. 24, 25; v. 9); is by faith, not works (Rom. iii. 28-30; iv. 5; v. 1; Gal. ii. 16; iii. 8, 24); and may be defined as the judicial act of God whereby He justly declares righteous one who believes on Jesus Christ. It is the Judge Himself (Rom. viii. 31-34) who thus declares. The justified believer has been in court, and has been cleared.

[5] The sinner establishes the law in its right use and honour by confessing his guilt, and acknowledging that by it he is justly condemned. Christ, on the sinner's behalf, establishes the law by enduring its penalty, death. Cf. Mt. v. 17, 18.

CHAPTER 4.

(4) Justification by faith illustrated.

WHAT shall we say then that Abraham our father, as pertaining to the flesh, hath found?
2 For if Abraham were [a]justified by [1]works, he hath whereof to glory; but not before God.
3 For what saith the scripture? Abraham [b]believed [c]God, and it was [d]counted unto him for [e]righteousness.
4 Now to him that worketh is the reward not reckoned of [f]grace, but of debt.

(5) Justifying faith defined. (See also vs. 18–21.)

5 But to him that worketh not, but believeth on him that justifieth the ungodly, his [g]faith is [d]counted for righteousness.
6 Even as David also describeth the blessedness of the man, unto whom God [d]imputeth righteousness without works,
7 Saying, Blessed are they whose [h]iniquities are [i]forgiven, and whose [h]sins are covered.
8 Blessed is the man to whom the [j]Lord will not [d]impute sin.

(6) Justification is apart from ordinances.

9 Cometh this blessedness then upon the circumcision only, or upon the uncircumcision also? for we say that faith was reckoned to Abraham for righteousness.
10 How was it then reckoned? when he was in circumcision, or in uncircumcision? Not in circumcision, but in uncircumcision.
11 And he received the sign of circumcision, a seal of the righteousness of the faith which he had yet being uncircumcised: that he might be the father of all them that believe, though they be not circumcised; that righteousness might be [d]imputed unto them also:
12 And the father of circumcision to them who are not of the circumcision only, but who also walk in the steps of that faith of our father Abraham, which he had being yet uncircumcised.

(7) Justification is apart from the law.

13 For the promise, that he should be the heir of the [k]world, was not to Abraham, or to his seed, through the law, but through the righteousness of faith.
14 For if they which are of the law be heirs, faith is made void, and the promise made of none effect:
15 Because the law worketh wrath: for where no law is, there is no [h]transgression.
16 Therefore it is of faith, that it might be by grace; to the end the promise might be sure to all the seed; not to that only which is of the [l]law, but to that also which is of the faith of Abraham; who is the father of us all,
17 (As it is written, I have made thee a father of many nations,) before him whom he believed, even God, who quickeneth the dead, and calleth those things which be not as though they were.
18 Who against hope believed in hope, that he might become the father of many nations; according to that which was spoken, [m]So shall thy seed be.
19 And being not weak in faith, he considered not his own body now dead, when he was about an hundred years old, neither yet the deadness of Sarah's womb:
20 He staggered not at the promise of God through unbelief; but was strong in faith, giving glory to God;
21 And being fully persuaded that, what he had promised, he was able also to perform.
22 And therefore it was [d]imputed to him for righteousness.
23 Now it was not written for his sake alone, that it was [n]imputed to him;
24 But for us also, to whom it shall be [o]imputed, if we believe on him that raised up Jesus our Lord from the dead;
25 Who was delivered for our

[1] Cf. Jas. ii. 24. These are two aspects of one truth. Paul speaks of that which justifies man before God, viz. faith alone, wholly apart from works; James of the proof before men, that he who professes to have justifying faith really has it. Paul speaks of what God sees—faith; James of what men see—works, as the visible evidence of faith. Paul draws his illustration from Gen. xv. 6; James from Gen. xxii. 1–19. James' key-phrase is "ye see" (Jas. ii. 24), for men cannot see faith except as manifested through works.

offences, and was [1]raised again for our justification.

CHAPTER 5.

The seven results of justification.

THEREFORE being justified by [a]faith, we have peace with God through our Lord Jesus Christ:

2 [b]By whom also we [c]have access by faith into this grace wherein we stand, and rejoice in hope of the glory of God.

3 And not only so, but we glory in tribulations also: knowing that tribulation worketh patience;

4 And patience, experience; and experience, hope:

5 And hope maketh not ashamed; because the [d]love of God is shed abroad in our hearts by the [e]Holy Ghost which is given unto us.

6 For when we were yet without strength, in due time Christ died for the ungodly.

7 For scarcely for a [f]righteous man will one die: yet peradventure for a good man some would even dare to die.

8 But God commendeth his [g]love toward us, in that, while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us.

9 Much more then, being now [h]justified by his blood, we [i]shall be saved from wrath through him.

10 For if, when we were enemies, we were [j]reconciled to God by the death of his Son, much more, being reconciled, we shall be saved [k]by his life.

11 And not only so, but we also joy in God through our Lord Jesus Christ, by whom we have now received the [l]atonement.

[o] the one the many died.

Part III. Sanctification: indwelling sin, and the gospel remedy (to 8. 13).

(1) Through Adam, sin and death.

12 [2]Wherefore, as by one man sin entered into the world, and death by sin; and so death passed upon all men, for that all [3]have sinned:

13 (For until the law sin was in the world: but sin is not [m]imputed when there is no law.

14 Nevertheless [n]death reigned from [4]Adam to Moses, even over them that had not sinned after the similitude of Adam's transgression, who is the figure of him that was to come.

(2) Through Christ, righteousness and life.

15 But not as the offence, so also is the free gift. For if through the offence of [o]one many be dead, much more the grace of God, and the gift by grace, which is by one man, Jesus Christ, hath abounded unto many.

16 And not as it was by one that sinned, so is the gift: for the judgment was by one to condemnation,

[1] Christ died under our sins (1 Pet. ii. 24; 2 Cor. v. 21); that He was raised and exalted to God's right hand, "now to appear in the presence of God for us" (Heb. ix. 24), is the token that our sins are gone, that His work for us has the divine approbation and that we, for whom He suffered, are completely justified.

[2] The "wherefore" relates back to Rom. iii. 19-23, and may be regarded as a continuation of the discussion of the universality of sin, interrupted (Rom. iii. 24-v. 11) by the passage on justification and its results.

[3] The first sin wrought the moral ruin of the race. The demonstration is simple. (1) Death is universal (vs. 12, 14), all die: sinless infants, moral people, religious people, equally with the depraved. For a universal effect there must be a universal cause; that cause is a state of universal sin (v. 12). (2) But this universal state must have had a cause. It did. The consequence of Adam's sin was that "the many were made sinners" (v. 19)—"By the offence of one judgment came upon all men unto condemnation" (v. 18). (3) Personal sins are not meant here. From Adam to Moses death reigned (v. 14), although, there being no law, personal guilt was not imputed (v. 13). Accordingly, from Gen. iv. 7 to Ex. xxix. 14 the sin-offering is not once mentioned. Then, since physical death from Adam to Moses was not due to the sinful acts of those who die (v. 13), it follows that it was due to a universal sinful state, or nature, and that state is declared to be our inheritance from Adam. (4) The moral state of fallen man is described in Scripture (Gen. vi. 5; 1 Ki. viii. 46; Psa. xiv. 1-3; xxxix. 5; Jer. xvii. 9; Mt. xviii. 11; Mk. vii. 20, 23; Rom. i. 21; ii.; iii. 9-19; vii. 24; viii. 7; John iii. 6; 1 Cor. ii. 14; 2 Cor. iii. 14; iv. 4; Gal. v. 19-21; Eph. ii. 1-3, 11, 12; iv. 18-22; Col. i. 21; Heb. iii. 13; Jas. iv. 14). See 1 Cor. xv. 22.

[4] Broadly, the contrast is: Adam: sin, death; Christ: righteousness, life. Adam drew down into his ruin the old creation (Rom. viii. 19-22) of which he was lord but the free gift is of many [a]offences unto justification.

17 For if by one man's [a]offence death reigned by one; much more they which receive abundance of grace and of the gift of [b]righteousness shall reign in life by one, Jesus Christ.)

18 Therefore as by the [a]offence of one judgment came upon all men to condemnation; even so by the righteousness of one the free gift came upon all men unto [c]justification of life.

19 For as by one man's disobedience many were made [a]sinners, so by the obedience of one shall many be made righteous.

20 Moreover the [d]law [e]entered, that the offence might abound. But where sin abounded, grace did much more abound:

21 That as [1]sin hath reigned unto death, even so might [f]grace reign through righteousness unto [g]eternal life by Jesus Christ our Lord.

CHAPTER 6.

(3) Deliverance from the power of indwelling sin.

(a) By union with Christ in death and resurrection.

WHAT shall we say then? Shall we continue in [a] sin, that grace may abound?

2 God forbid. How shall we, that are dead to [a]sin, live any longer therein?

3 Know ye not, that [h]so many of us as were baptized into Jesus Christ were baptized into his death?

4 Therefore we are buried with him by baptism into death: that like as Christ was raised up from the dead by the glory of the Father, even so we also should walk in newness of life.

5 For if we have been [i]planted together in the likeness of his death, we shall be also in the likeness of his resurrection:

6 Knowing this, that our [2]old man [j]is crucified with him, that the body of sin might be [k]destroyed, that henceforth we should not serve sin.

7 For he that [l]is dead is freed from sin.

8 Now if we be dead with Christ, we believe that we shall also live with him:

9 Knowing that Christ being raised from the dead dieth no more; death hath no more dominion over him.

10 For in that he died, he died unto [a]sin [m]once: but [n]in that he liveth, he liveth unto God.

(b) By counting the old life to be dead, and by yielding the new life to God.

11 [o]Likewise [p]reckon ye also yourselves to be dead indeed unto sin, but alive unto God through Jesus Christ our Lord.

12 Let not [a]sin therefore reign in your mortal body, that ye should obey it in the lusts thereof.

13 Neither yield ye your members as instruments of [q]unrighteousness unto [a]sin: but yield yourselves unto God, as those that are alive from the dead, and your members as instruments of righteousness unto God.

(c) By deliverance from the law through death, and by the Spirit (i.e. as in Rom. 8. 2).

14 For sin shall not have dominion over you: for ye are not under the [r]law, but under grace.

15 [3]What then? shall we [a]sin, because we are not under the law, but under [s]grace? God forbid.

16 Know ye not, that to whom ye and head. Christ brings into moral unity with God, and into eternal life, the new creation of which He is Lord and Head (Eph. i. 22, 23). Even the animal and material creation, cursed for man's sake (Gen. iii. 17), will be delivered by Christ (Isa. xi. 6-9; Rom. viii. 19-22).

[1] "Sin" in Rom. vi., vii. is the nature in distinction from "sins" which are manifestations of that nature. Cf. 1 John i. 8 with 1 John i. 10, where this distinction also appears.

[2] The expression occurs elsewhere, in Eph. iv. 22 and Col. iii. 9, and always means the man of old, corrupt human nature, the inborn tendency to evil in all men. In Rom. vi. 6 it is the natural man himself; in Eph. iv. 22; Col. iii. 9 his ways. Positionally, in the reckoning of God, the old man is crucified, and the believer is exhorted to make this good in experience, reckoning it to be so by definitely "putting off" the old man and "putting on" the new (Col. iii. 8-14. See Eph. iv. 24, note 1).

[3] The old relation to the law and sin, and the new relation to Christ and life are yield yourselves servants to obey, his [a]servants ye are to whom ye obey; whether of [b]sin unto death, or of obedience unto righteousness?

17 But God be thanked, that ye were the servants of [b]sin, but ye have obeyed from the heart that form of doctrine which was delivered you.

18 Being then made free from [b]sin, ye became the servants of righteousness.

19 I speak after the manner of men because of the infirmity of your flesh: for as ye have yielded your members servants to uncleanness and to [c]iniquity unto iniquity; even so now yield your members servants to righteousness unto [d]holiness.

20 For when ye were the servants of sin, ye were free from righteousness.

21 What fruit had ye then in those things whereof ye are now ashamed? for the end of those things is death.

22 But now being made free from [b]sin, and become servants to God, ye have your fruit unto [d]holiness, and the end everlasting life.

23 For the wages of [b]sin is death; but the gift of God is [e]eternal life [f]through Jesus Christ our Lord.

CHAPTER 7.

KNOW ye not, brethren, (for I speak to them that know the law,) how that the law hath dominion over a man as long as he liveth?

2 For the woman which hath an husband is bound by the law to [g]her husband so long as he liveth; but if the husband be dead, she is loosed from the law of [g]her husband.

3 So then if, while [g]her husband liveth, she be married to another man, she shall be called an adulteress: but if [g]her husband be dead, she is free from that law; so that she is no adulteress, though she be married to another man.

4 Wherefore, my brethren, ye also [h]are become dead to the law [i]by the body of Christ; that ye should be [j]married to another, even to him who is raised from the dead, that we should bring forth fruit unto God.

5 For when we were in the flesh, the motions of sins, which were by the law, did work in our members to bring forth fruit unto death.

6 But now we [k]are delivered from the law, [l]that being dead wherein we were held; that we should serve in [1]newness of spirit, and not in the oldness of the letter.

(d) The believer is not made holy by the law.

7 What shall we say then? Is the law [b]sin? God forbid. Nay, I had not known sin, but by the law: for I had not known [m]lust, except the law had said, [n]Thou shalt not covet.

8 But [o]sin, taking occasion by the commandment, wrought in me all manner of concupiscence. For without the law sin was dead.

9 For I was alive without the law once: but [2]when the commandment came, [o]sin revived, and I died.

10 And the commandment, which was ordained to life, I found to be unto death.

illustrated by the effect of death upon servitude (vi. 16-23), and marriage (vii. 1-6). (1) The old servitude was nominally to the law, but, since the law had no delivering power, the real master continued to be sin in the nature. The end was death. The law could not give life, and "sin" (here personified as the old self) is in itself deathful. But death in another form, i.e. crucifixion with Christ, has intervened (v. 6) to free the servant from his double bondage to sin (v. 6, 7), and to the law (vii. 4, 6). (2) This effect of death is further illustrated by widowhood. Death dissolves the marriage relation (vii. 1-3). As natural death frees a wife from the law of her husband, so crucifixion with Christ sets the believer free from the law. See Gal. iii. 24, note.

[1]Cf. Rom. ii. 29; 2 Cor. iii. 6. "The letter" is a Paulinism for the law, as "spirit" in these passages is his word for the relationships and powers of new life in Christ Jesus. In 2 Cor. iii. a series is presented of contrasts of law with "spirit," of the old covenant and the new. The contrast is not between two methods of interpretation, literal and spiritual, but between two methods of divine dealing: one through the law, the other through the Holy Spirit.

[2]The passage (vs. 7-25) is autobiographical. Paul's religious experience was in three strongly marked phases: (1) He was a godly Jew under the law. That the passage does not refer to that period is clear from his own explicit statements elsewhere. At that time he held himself to be "blameless" as concerned the law (Phil.

11 For [a]sin, taking occasion by the commandment, deceived me, and by it slew me.

12 Wherefore the law is [b]holy, and the commandment holy, and just, and good.

13 Was then that which is good made death unto me? God forbid. But [a]sin, [c]that it might appear [a]sin, working death in me by that which is good; that sin by the commandment might become exceeding [a]sinful.

14 For we know that the law is spiritual: but I am [1d]carnal, sold under [a]sin.

(e) The strife of the two natures under the law.

15 For that which [2]I do I allow not: for what I would, that do I not; but what I hate, that do I.

16 If then I do that which I would not, I consent unto the law that it is good.

17 Now then it is no more I that do it, but [a]sin that dwelleth in me.

18 For I know that in me (that is, in my flesh,) dwelleth no good thing: for to will is present with me; but how to perform that which is good I find not.

19 For the good that I would I do not: but the evil which I would not, that I do.

20 Now if I do that I would not, it is no more I that do it, but [a]sin that dwelleth in me.

21 I find then a [3]law, that, when I would do good, evil is present with me.

22 For I delight in the law of God after the inward man:

23 But I see another law in my members, warring against the law of my mind, and bringing me into captivity to the law of [a]sin which is in my members.

24 O wretched man that I am! who shall deliver me [e]from the body of this death?

25 I thank God through Jesus Christ our Lord. So then with the mind I myself serve the [f]law of God; but with the [g]flesh the law of [a]sin.

iii. 6). He had "lived in all good conscience" (Acts xxiii. 1). (2) With his conversion came new light upon the law itself. He now perceived it to be "spiritual" (v. 14). He now saw that, so far from having kept it, he was condemned by it. He had supposed himself to be "alive," but now the commandment really "came" (v. 9) and he "died." Just when the apostle passed through the experience of Rom. vii. 7-25 we are not told. Perhaps during the days of physical blindness at Damascus (Acts ix. 9); perhaps in Arabia (Gal. i. 17). It is the experience of a renewed man, under the law, and still ignorant of the delivering power of the Holy Spirit (cf. Rom. viii. 2). (3) With the great revelations afterward embodied in Galatians and Romans, the apostle's experience entered its third phase. He now knew himself to be "dead to the law by the body of Christ," and, in the power of the indwelling Spirit, "free from the law of sin and death" (viii. 2); while "the righteousness of the law" was wrought in him (not by him) while he walked after the Spirit (viii. 4). Romans vii. is the record of past conflicts and defeats experienced as a renewed man under law.

[1] Cf. 1 Cor. iii. 1, 4. "Carnal" = "fleshly" is Paul's word for the Adamic nature, and for the believer who "walks," i.e. lives, under the power of it. "Natural" is his characteristic word for the unrenewed man (1 Cor. ii. 14), as "spiritual" designates the renewed man who walks in the Spirit (1 Cor. iii. 1; Gal. vi. 1).

[2] The apostle personifies the strife of the two natures in the believer, the old or Adamic nature, and the divine nature received through the new birth (1 Pet. i. 23; 2 Pet. i. 4; Gal. ii. 20; Col. i. 27). The "I" which is Saul of Tarsus, and the "I" which is Paul the apostle are at strife, and "Paul" is in defeat. In Chapter viii. this strife is effectually taken up on the believer's behalf by the Holy Spirit (viii. 2; Gal. v. 16, 17) and Paul is victorious. Contra, Eph. vi. 12, where the conflict is not fleshly, but spiritual.

[3] Six "laws" are to be distinguished in Romans: The law of Moses, which condemns (iii. 19); "law" as a principle (iii. 21); the law of faith, which excludes self-righteousness (iii. 27); the law of sin in the members, which is victorious over the law of the mind (vii. 21, 23, 25); the law of the mind, which consents to the law of Moses but cannot do it because of the law of sin in the members (vii. 16, 23); and the "law of the Spirit," having power to deliver the believer from the law of sin which is in his members, and his conscience from condemnation by the Mosaic law. Moreover the Spirit works in the yielded believer the very righteousness which Moses' law requires (viii. 2, 4).

CHAPTER 8.

THERE is therefore now no [a]condemnation to them which are in Christ Jesus, [b]who walk not after the flesh, but after the Spirit.

(f) The new law of the Spirit delivers (v. 2), makes righteous (v. 4).

2 For the law of the [1]Spirit of life in Christ Jesus hath made me free from the law of [c]sin and death.

3 For what the law could not do, in that it was weak through the flesh, God sending his own Son in the likeness of sinful flesh, and [d]for [c]sin, condemned sin in the flesh:

4 That the righteousness of the law might be fulfilled in us, who walk not after the flesh, but after the Spirit.

(g) Conflict of the Spirit with the flesh. (Cf. Gal. 5. 16-18.)

5 For they that are after the flesh do mind the things of the flesh; but they that are after the Spirit the things of the Spirit.

6 For to be [e]carnally minded is death; but to be spiritually minded is life and peace.

7 Because the [e]carnal mind is enmity against God: for it is not subject to the [f]law of God, neither indeed can be.

8 So then they that are in the flesh cannot please God.

9 But ye are not in the flesh, but in the Spirit, if so be that the Spirit of God dwell in you. Now if any man have not the Spirit of Christ, he is none of his.

10 And if Christ be in you, the body is dead because of [c]sin; but the Spirit is [g]life because of righteousness.

11 But if the Spirit of him that [h]raised up Jesus from the dead dwell in you, he that raised up Christ from the dead shall also quicken your mortal bodies [i]by his Spirit that dwelleth in you.

12 Therefore, brethren, we are debtors, not to the flesh, to live after the flesh.

13 For if ye live after the [f]flesh, ye shall die: but if ye through the Spirit do [k]mortify the deeds of the body, ye shall live.

Part IV. Full result of the gospel.

(1) The believer a son and heir. (Cf. Gal. 4. 4.)

14 For as many as are led by the Spirit of God, they are the sons of God.

15 For ye have not received the spirit of bondage again to fear; but ye have received the Spirit of [l]adoption, whereby we cry, Abba, Father.

16 The Spirit itself beareth witness with our spirit, that we are the [2]children of God:

17 And if children, then heirs; heirs of God, and joint-heirs with Christ; if so be that we suffer with him, that we may be also glorified together.

(2) The creation, delivered from suffering and death, kept for the sons of God. (Cf. Gen. 3. 18. 19.)

18 For I [m]reckon that the sufferings of this present time are not worthy to be compared with the glory which shall be revealed in us.

19 For the earnest expectation of the [n]creature waiteth for the [o]manifestation of the sons of God.

20 For the [n]creature was made subject to vanity, not willingly, but by reason of him who hath subjected the same in hope,

21 Because the [n]creature itself also shall be delivered from the bondage of corruption into the glorious liberty of the children of God.

22 For we know that the whole creation groaneth and travaileth in pain together until now.

23 And not only they, but ourselves also, which have the firstfruits of the Spirit, even we ourselves groan within ourselves, waiting for the [p]adoption, to wit, the [q]redemption of our body.

24 For [r]we are saved by hope: but hope that is seen is not hope: for what a man seeth, why doth he yet hope for?

25 But if we hope for that we see not, then do we with patience wait for it.

(3) The Spirit an indwelling Intercessor. (Cf. Heb. 7. 25.)

26 Likewise the Spirit also helpeth our infirmities: for we know not [a]what we should pray for as we ought: but the Spirit [b]itself maketh intercession for us with groanings which cannot be uttered.

27 And he that searcheth the hearts knoweth what is the mind of the [c]Spirit, because he maketh intercession for the saints according to the will of God.

(4) The unfailing purpose of God through the gospel.

28 And we know that all things work together for good to them that love God, to them who are the called according to his purpose.

29 For whom he did [d]foreknow, he also did predestinate to be conformed to the image of his Son, that he might be the firstborn among many brethren.

30 Moreover whom he did [e]predestinate, them he also called: and whom he called, them he also [f]justified: and whom he justified, them he also glorified.

31 What shall we then say to these things? If God be for us, who can be against us?

32 He that spared not his own Son, but delivered him up for us all, how shall he not with him also freely give us all things?

33 Who shall lay any thing to the charge of God's [g]elect? [h]It is God that [i]justifieth.

34 Who is he that condemneth? [j]It is Christ that died, yea rather, that is risen again, who is even at the right hand of God, who also maketh intercession for us.

(5) The believer secure.

35 Who shall separate us from the love of Christ? shall tribulation, or distress, or persecution, or famine, or nakedness, or peril, or sword?

36 As it is written, [k]For thy sake we are killed all the day long; we are accounted as sheep for the slaughter.

37 Nay, in all these things we are more than conquerors through him that loved us.

38 For I am persuaded, that neither death, nor life, nor [l]angels, nor principalities, nor powers, nor things present, nor things to come,

7 Neither, because they are the seed of Abraham, are they all [q]children: but, [r]In Isaac shall thy seed be called.

(The distinction illustrated.)

8 That is, They which are the

[1] The distinction is between Israel after the flesh, the mere natural posterity of Abraham, and Israelites who, through faith, are also Abraham's spiritual children. Gentiles who believe are also of Abraham's spiritual seed; but here the apostle is not considering them, but only the two kinds of Israelites, the natural and the spiritual Israel (Rom. iv. 1-3; Gal. iii. 6, 7. Cf. John viii. 37-39). See Rom. xi. 1, note.

children of the flesh, these are not the children of God: but the children of the promise are counted for the seed.

9 For this is the word of promise, At this time will I come, and Sarah shall have a son.

10 And not only this; but when Rebecca also had conceived by one, even by our father Isaac;

11 (For the children being not yet born, neither having done any good or evil, that the purpose of God according to [a]election might stand, not of works, but of him that calleth;)

12 It was said unto her, The elder shall serve the younger.

13 As it is written, [b]Jacob have I loved, but Esau have I hated.

(4) God's mercy is under his sovereign will.

14 What shall we say then? Is there unrighteousness with God? God forbid.

15 For he saith to Moses, [c]I will have mercy on whom I will have mercy, and I will have compassion on whom I will have compassion.

16 So then it is not of him that willeth, nor of him that runneth, but of God that sheweth mercy.

17 For the scripture saith unto Pharaoh, [d]Even for this same purpose have I raised thee up, that I might shew my power in thee, and that my name might be declared throughout all the earth.

18 Therefore hath he mercy on whom he will have mercy, and whom he will he hardeneth.

19 Thou wilt say then unto me, Why doth he yet find fault? For who hath resisted his will?

20 Nay but, O man, who art thou that repliest against God? Shall the thing formed say to him that formed it, Why hast thou made me thus?

21 Hath not the potter power over the clay, of the same lump to make one vessel unto honour, and another unto dishonour?

22 What if God, willing to shew his wrath, and to make his power known, endured with much longsuffering the vessels of wrath fitted to destruction:

23 And that he might make known the riches of his glory on the vessels of mercy, which he had afore prepared unto glory,

24 Even us, whom he hath called, [e]not of the Jews only, but also [f]of the Gentiles?

(5) The prophets foretold the blinding of Israel, and mercy to Gentiles.

25 As he saith also in Osee, [g]I will call them my people, which were not my people; and her beloved, which was not beloved.

26 And it shall come to pass, that in the place where it was said unto them, [h]Ye are not my people; there shall they be called the [i]children of the living [j]God.

27 Esaias also crieth concerning Israel, [k]Though the number of the [i]children of Israel be as the sand of the sea, a remnant shall be [l]saved:

28 For he will finish the work, and cut it short in righteousness: because a short work will the [m]Lord make upon the earth.

29 And as Esaias said before, Except the [n]Lord of Sabaoth had left us a [o]seed, we had been as Sodoma, and been made like unto Gomorrha.

30 What shall we say then? That the Gentiles, which followed not after [p]righteousness, have attained to righteousness, even the righteousness which is of faith.

31 But Israel, which followed after the law of [q]righteousness, hath not attained to the law of righteousness.

32 Wherefore? Because they sought it not by faith, but as it were by the works of the [r]law. For they stumbled at that [s]stumblingstone;

33 As it is written, [t]Behold, I lay in Sion a [s]stumblingstone and rock of offence: and whosoever believeth on him shall not be ashamed.

CHAPTER 10.

(6) The apparent failure of the promises to Israel explained by their unbelief.

BRETHREN, my heart's desire and prayer to God [u]for Israel is, that they might be [v]saved.

2 For I bear them record that they have a zeal of God, but not according to knowledge.

3 For they being ignorant of God's righteousness, and going about to establish their own [1w]righteousness, have not submitted themselves unto the righteousness of God.

4 For Christ is the end of the [a]law for righteousness to every one that believeth.

5 For Moses describeth the righteousness which is of the [a]law, [b]That the man which doeth those things shall live by them.

6 But the [c]righteousness which is of faith speaketh on this wise, Say not in thine heart, [d]Who shall ascend into heaven? (that is, to bring Christ down from above:)

7 Or, Who shall descend into the deep? (that is, to bring up Christ again from the dead.)

8 But what saith it? [e]The word is nigh thee, even in thy mouth, and in thy heart: that is, the word of faith, which we preach;

9 [f]That if thou shalt confess with thy mouth the [g]Lord Jesus, and shalt believe in thine heart that God hath raised him from the dead, thou shalt be [h]saved.

10 For with the heart man [i]believeth unto [1]righteousness; and with the mouth confession is made unto salvation.

11 For the scripture saith, [j]Whosoever believeth on him shall not be ashamed.

12 For [k]there is no difference between the Jew and the Greek: for the same Lord over all is rich unto all that call upon him.

13 For whosoever shall call upon the name of the [l]Lord shall be [h]saved.

14 How then shall they call on him in whom they have not believed? and how shall they believe in him of whom they have not heard? and how shall they hear without a preacher?

15 And how shall they preach, except they be sent? as it is written, [m]How beautiful are the feet of them that preach the [n]gospel of peace, and bring glad tidings of good things!

16 But they have not all obeyed the gospel. For Esaias saith, [o]Lord, who hath believed our report?

17 So then faith cometh by hearing, and hearing by the word of God.

18 But I say, Have they not heard? Yes verily, [p]their sound went into all the earth, and their words unto the ends of the [q]world.

19 But I say, Did not Israel know? First Moses saith, [r]I will provoke you to jealousy by them that are no people, and by a foolish nation I will anger you.

20 But Esaias is very bold, and saith, [s]I was found of them that sought me not; I was made manifest unto [t]them that asked not after me.

21 But to Israel he saith, [u]All day long I have stretched forth my hands unto a disobedient and gainsaying people.

CHAPTER 11.

(7) But spiritual Israel is finding salvation.

I SAY then, [v]Hath [w]God [2]cast away [x]his people? God forbid. For I also am an Israelite, of the seed of Abraham, of the tribe of Benjamin.

2 [w]God hath not cast away his people which he [y]foreknew. Wot ye not what the scripture saith of Elias? how he maketh intercession to God against Israel, saying,

3 [z]Lord, they have killed thy prophets, and digged down thine altars; and I am left alone, and they seek my life.

4 But what saith the answer of God unto him? [a]I have reserved to myself seven thousand men, who have not bowed the knee to the image of Baal.

[1] Righteousness here, and in the passages which refer to Rom. x. 10, means that righteousness of God which is judicially reckoned to all who believe on the Lord Jesus Christ; believers are the righteous. See Rom. iii. 21, note.

[2] That Israel has not been forever set aside is the theme of this chapter. (1) The salvation of Paul proves that there is still a remnant (v. 1). (2) The doctrine of the remnant proves it (vs. 2-6). (3) The present national unbelief was foreseen (vs. 7-10). (4) Israel's unbelief is the Gentile opportunity (vs. 11-25). (5) Israel is judicially broken off from the good olive tree, Christ (vs. 17-22). (6) They are to be grafted in again (vs. 23, 24). (7) The promised Deliverer will come out of Zion and the nation will be saved (vs. 25-29). That the Christian now inherits the distinctive Jewish promises is not taught in Scripture. The Christian is of the heavenly seed of Abraham (Gen. xv. 5, 6; Gal. iii. 29), and partakes of the spiritual blessings of the Abrahamic Covenant (Gen. xv. 18, note); but Israel as a nation always has its own place, and is yet to have its greatest exaltation as the earthly people of God. See "Israel" (Gen. xii. 2; Rom. xi. 26); "Kingdom" (Gen. i. 26-28; Zech. xii. 8).

5 Even so then at this present time also there is a [1a]remnant according to the [b]election of grace.

6 And if [c]by grace, then is it no more of works: otherwise grace is no more grace. But if it be of works, then is it no more grace: otherwise work is no more work.

(8) National Israel is judicially blinded.

7 What then? [d]Israel hath not obtained that which he seeketh for; but the [e]election hath obtained it, and the rest were blinded

8 (According as it is written, [f]God hath given them the spirit of slumber, eyes that they should not see, and ears that they should not hear;) unto this day.

9 And David saith, [g]Let their table be made a snare, and a trap, and a stumblingblock, and a recompence unto them:

10 Let their eyes be darkened, that they may not see, and bow down their back alway.

11 I say then, Have they stumbled that they should fall? God forbid: but rather through their fall salvation is come unto the [h]Gentiles, for to provoke them to [i]jealousy.

12 Now if the fall of them be the riches of the [j]world, and the diminishing of them the riches of the Gentiles; [k]how much more their fulness?

(9) The Gentiles warned.

13 For I speak to you Gentiles, inasmuch as I am the apostle of the Gentiles, I magnify mine office:

14 If by any means I may provoke to emulation them which are my flesh, and might [l]save some of them.

15 For if the casting away of them be the reconciling of the [j]world, what shall the receiving of them be, [m]but life from the dead?

16 For if the firstfruit be holy, the lump is also holy: and if the root be holy, so are the branches.

17 And if some of the branches be broken off, and thou, being a wild olive tree, wert graffed in among them, and with them partakest of the root and fatness of the olive tree;

18 Boast not against the branches. But if thou boast, thou bearest not the root, but the root thee.

19 Thou wilt say then, The branches were broken off, that I might be graffed in.

20 Well; because of [n]unbelief they were broken off, and thou [o]standest by faith. Be not [p]highminded, but fear:

21 For if God spared not the natural branches, take heed lest he also spare not thee.

22 Behold therefore the goodness and severity of God: on them which fell, severity; but toward thee, goodness, if thou continue in his goodness: otherwise thou also shalt be cut off.

23 And they also, if they [q]abide not still in unbelief, shall be graffed in: for God is able to graff them in again.

24 For if thou wert cut out of the olive tree which is wild by nature, and wert graffed contrary to nature into a good olive tree: how much more shall these, which be the natural branches, be graffed into their own olive tree?

25 For I would not, brethren, that ye should be ignorant of this [r]mystery, lest ye should be wise in your own conceits; that blindness in part is happened to Israel, until the [2]fulness of the Gentiles be come in.

[1] Remnant, Summary: In the history of Israel a "remnant" may be discerned, a spiritual Israel within the national Israel. In Elijah's time 7,000 had not bowed the knee to Baal (1 Ki. xix. 18). In Isaiah's time it was the "very small remnant" for whose sake God still forbore to destroy the nation (Isa. i. 9). During the captivities the remnant appears in Jews like Ezekiel, Daniel, Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego, Esther and Mordecai. At the end of the 70 years of Babylonian captivity it was the remnant which returned under Ezra and Nehemiah. At the advent of our Lord, John the Baptist, Simeon, Anna, and "them that looked for redemption in Jerusalem" (Lk. ii. 38), were the remnant. During the church-age the remnant is composed of believing Jews (Rom. xi. 4, 5). But the chief interest in the remnant is prophetic. During the great tribulation a remnant out of all Israel will turn to Jesus as Messiah, and will become His witnesses after the removal of the church (Rev. vii. 3-8). Some of these will undergo martyrdom (Rev. vi. 9-11), some will be spared to enter the millennial kingdom (Zech. xii. 6-xiii. 9). Many of the Psalms express, prophetically, the joys and sorrows of the tribulation remnant.

[2] The "fulness of the Gentiles" is the completion of the purpose of God in this

(10) Israel is yet to be saved nationally.

26 And so all Israel shall be saved: as it is written, [a]There shall come out of Sion the [b]Deliverer, and shall turn away ungodliness from [1]Jacob:

27 For this is my [c]covenant unto [d]them, when I shall take away their [e]sins.

28 As concerning the [f]gospel, they are enemies for your sakes: but as touching the election, they are beloved for the fathers' sakes.

29 For the gifts and calling of God are without [g]repentance.

30 For as ye in times past have not [h]believed God, yet have now obtained mercy through their [i]unbelief:

31 Even so have these also now not [h]believed, that through your mercy they also may obtain mercy.

32 For God hath concluded them [j]all in unbelief, that he might have mercy upon all.

33 O the depth of the riches both of the wisdom and knowledge of God! how unsearchable are his judgments, and his ways past finding out!

34 For who hath known the [k]mind of the Lord? or who hath been his counsellor?

35 Or [l]who hath first given to him, and it shall be recompensed unto him again?

36 For [m]of him, and through him, and to him, are all things: to whom be glory for ever. Amen.

CHAPTER 12.

Part VI. Christian life and service (Rom. 12.1-15.33).

(1) Consecration.

I BESEECH you therefore, brethren, by the [n]mercies of God, that ye [o]present your bodies a living [p]sacrifice, [q]holy, acceptable unto God, which is your reasonable [r]service.

2 [s]And be not conformed to this [t]world: but be ye [u]transformed by the renewing of your mind, that ye may prove what is that good, and acceptable, and perfect, will of God.

(2) Service.

3 For I say, through the [v]grace given unto me, to every man that is among you, not to think of himself more highly than he ought to think; but to think soberly, according as God hath dealt to every man the measure of faith.

4 For as we have many members in one body, and all members have not the same office:

5 So we, being many, are one body in Christ, and every one members one of another.

6 Having then gifts differing according to the grace that is given to us, whether prophecy, let us prophesy according to the proportion of faith;

7 Or ministry, let us wait on our ministering: or he that teacheth, on teaching;

8 Or he that exhorteth, on exhortation: he that giveth, let him do it with simplicity; he that ruleth, with diligence; he that sheweth mercy, with cheerfulness.

(3) The Christian and those within.

9 Let love be without [w]dissimulation. Abhor that which is evil; cleave to that which is good.

10 Be kindly affectioned one to another with brotherly love; in honour preferring one another;

11 Not slothful in business; fervent in spirit; serving the Lord;

12 Rejoicing in hope; patient in tribulation; continuing instant in prayer; age, viz. the outcalling from among the Gentiles of a people for Christ's name, "the church which is His body" (Eph. i. 22, 23). Cf. Acts xv. 14; Eph. iv. 11-13; 1 Cor. xii. 12, 13. It must be distinguished from "the times of the Gentiles" (Lk. xxi. 24).

[1] Summary: Israel, so named from the grandson of Abraham, was chosen for a fourfold mission: (1) To witness to the unity of God in the midst of universal idolatry (Deut. vi. 4, with Isa. xliii. 10, 12); (2) to illustrate to the nations the blessedness of serving the true God (Deut. xxxiii. 26-29; 1 Chr. xvii. 20, 21; Psa. cxliv. 15); (3) to receive, preserve, and transmit the Scriptures (Deut. iv. 5-8; Rom. iii. 1, 2); (4) to produce, as to His humanity, the Messiah (Gen. iii. 15; xii. 3; xxii. 18; xxviii. 10-14; xlix. 10; 2 Sam. vii. 12-16; Isa. vii. 14; ix. 6; Mt. i. 1; Rom. i. 3). According to the prophets, Israel, regathered from all nations, restored to her own land and converted, is yet to have her greatest earthly exaltation and glory. See "Kingdom (O.T.)" (Gen. i. 26; Zech. xii. 8; N.T., Lk. i. 31-33; 1 Cor. xv. 24); "Davidic Covenant" (2 Sam. vii. 8-17, note).

13 [a]Distributing to the necessity of saints; given to hospitality.
14 [b]Bless them which persecute you: bless, and curse not.
15 Rejoice with them that do rejoice, and weep with them that weep.
16 Be of the same mind one toward another. Mind not high things, but condescend to [c]men of low estate. Be not wise in your own conceits.

(4) The Christian and those without.

17 Recompense to no man evil for evil. [d]Provide things honest in the sight of all men.
18 If it be possible, as much as lieth in you, live peaceably with all men.
19 Dearly beloved, avenge not yourselves, but rather give place unto wrath: for it is written, [e]Vengeance is mine; I will repay, saith the Lord.
20 Therefore [f]if thine enemy hunger, feed him; if he thirst, give him drink: for in so doing thou shalt heap coals of fire on his head.
21 Be not overcome of evil, but overcome evil with good.

CHAPTER 13.

LET every soul be [g]subject unto the higher powers. For there is no power but of God: the powers that be are ordained of God.
2 Whosoever therefore resisteth the power, [h]resisteth the ordinance of God: and they that resist shall receive to themselves [i]damnation.
3 For rulers are not a terror to good works, but to the evil. Wilt thou then not be afraid of the power? [j]do that which is good, and thou shalt have praise of the same:
4 For he is the minister of God to thee for good. But if thou do that which is evil, be afraid; for he beareth not the sword in vain: for he is the minister of God, a [k]revenger to execute wrath upon him that doeth evil.
5 Wherefore ye must needs be subject, not only for wrath, but also for conscience sake.
6 For for this cause pay ye [l]tribute also: for they are God's ministers, attending continually upon this very thing.
7 Render therefore to [m]all their dues: tribute to whom tribute is due; custom to whom custom; fear to whom fear; honour to whom honour.

(5) The law of love toward the neighbour. (Cf. Lk. 10. 29-37.)

8 [n]Owe no man any thing, but to [o]love one another: for he that loveth another hath fulfilled the law.
9 For this, [p]Thou shalt not commit adultery, Thou shalt not kill, Thou shalt not steal, Thou shalt not bear false witness, Thou shalt not covet; and if there be any other commandment, it is briefly comprehended in this saying, namely, Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself.
10 Love worketh no ill to his neighbour: therefore [q]love is the fulfilling of the [r]law.
11 And that, knowing the time, that now it is high time to awake out of sleep: for now is our salvation [s]nearer than when we believed.
12 The night is far spent, the day is at hand: [t]let us therefore cast off the works of darkness, and [u]let us put on the armour of light.
13 Let us walk honestly, as in the day; not in [v]rioting and drunkenness, not in chambering and wantonness, not in strife and [w]envying.
14 But put ye on the Lord Jesus Christ, and make not provision for the [x]flesh, to fulfil the lusts thereof.

CHAPTER 14.

(6) The law of love concerning doubtful things. (Cf. 1 Cor. 8. 1-10. 33.)

HIM that is weak in the faith receive ye, but not [y]to doubtful disputations.
2 For one believeth that he may eat all things: another, who is weak, eateth herbs.
3 Let not him that eateth despise him that eateth not; and let not him which eateth not judge him that eateth: for God hath received him.
4 Who art thou that judgest [z]another man's servant? to his own master he standeth or falleth. Yea, he shall be holden up: for God is able to make him stand.
5 One man esteemeth one day above another: another esteemeth every day alike. [a]Let every man be fully persuaded in his own mind.
6 He that regardeth the day, regardeth it unto the Lord; and he

[y] Mt. 5. 44; Lk. 6. 28.
[z] them that are lowly.
[a] Take thought for things honourable, etc.

that regardeth not the day, to the Lord he doth not regard it. He that eateth, eateth to the Lord, for he giveth God thanks; and he that eateth not, to the Lord he eateth not, and giveth God thanks.

7 For [a]none of us liveth to himself, and no man dieth to himself.

8 For whether we [b]live, we live unto the Lord; and whether we die, we [c]die unto the Lord: whether we live therefore, or die, we are the Lord's.

9 For to this end Christ both died, and rose, and revived, that he might be [d]Lord both of the dead and living.

10 But why dost thou judge thy brother? or why dost thou set at nought thy brother? for we shall all stand before the [e]judgment seat of Christ.

11 For it is written, [f]As I live, saith the Lord, every knee shall bow to me, and every tongue shall confess to God.

12 So then every one of us shall give account of himself to God.

13 Let us not therefore judge one another any more: but judge this rather, that no man put a [g]stumblingblock or an occasion to fall in his brother's way.

14 I know, and am persuaded by the Lord Jesus, that there is [h]nothing unclean of itself: but [i]to him that esteemeth any thing to be unclean, to him it is unclean.

15 But if thy brother be [j]grieved with thy meat, now walkest thou not charitably. Destroy not him with thy meat, for whom Christ died.

16 Let not then your [k]good be evil spoken of:

17 For the [l]kingdom of God is not meat and drink; but [m]righteousness, and peace, and joy in the [n]Holy Ghost.

18 For he that in these things serveth Christ is [o]acceptable to God, and [p]approved of men.

19 Let us therefore follow after the things which make for peace, and things wherewith one may [q]edify another.

20 [r]For meat destroy not the work of God. All things indeed are pure; but it is evil for that man who eateth with offence.

21 It is good neither to eat [s]flesh, nor to drink wine, nor any thing whereby thy brother stumbleth, or is offended, or is made weak.

22 Hast thou faith? have it to thyself before God. Happy is he that [t]condemneth not himself in that thing which he alloweth.

23 And he that doubteth is [u]damned if he eat, because he eateth not of faith: [v]for whatsoever is not of [w]faith is [x]sin.

CHAPTER 15.

WE then that are strong ought to bear the infirmities of the weak, and not to please ourselves.

2 Let every one of us please his neighbour for his good to edification.

3 For [y]even Christ pleased not himself; but, as it is written, [z]The reproaches of them that reproached thee fell on me.

(7) Jewish and Gentile believers are one in salvation.

4 For [a]whatsoever things were written aforetime were written for our learning, that we through patience and comfort of the scriptures might have hope.

5 Now the God of patience and consolation grant you to be [b]likeminded one toward another according to Christ Jesus:

6 That ye may with one mind and one mouth [c]glorify God, even the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ.

7 Wherefore [d]receive ye one another, as Christ also received us to the glory of God.

8 Now I say that Jesus Christ was a [e]minister of the circumcision for the truth of God, to confirm the promises made unto the fathers:

9 And that the Gentiles might glorify God for his mercy; as it is written, [f]For this cause I will confess to thee among the [g]Gentiles, and sing unto thy name.

10 And again he saith, [h]Rejoice, ye Gentiles, with his people.

11 And again, Praise the [i]Lord, all ye Gentiles; and laud him, all ye people.

12 And again, Esaias saith, [j]There shall be a root of Jesse, and he that shall rise to reign over the Gentiles; in him shall the Gentiles [k]trust.

13 Now the [l]God of hope fill you with all [m]joy and peace in believing, that ye may abound in hope, through the power of the Holy Ghost.

(8) The apostle speaks of his ministry and coming journey.

14 And I myself also am persuaded of you, my brethren, that ye also are full of goodness, filled with all knowledge, able also to admonish one another.

15 Nevertheless, brethren, I have written the more boldly unto you in some sort, as putting you in mind, because of [a]the grace that is given to me of God,

16 That I should be the [b]minister of Jesus Christ to the Gentiles, ministering the gospel of God, that the [c]offering up of the Gentiles might be acceptable, being [d]sanctified by the Holy Ghost.

17 I have therefore whereof I may glory through Jesus Christ in those things which pertain to God.

18 For I will not dare to speak of any of those things which Christ hath not wrought by me, to make the Gentiles obedient, by word and deed,

19 Through mighty signs and wonders, by the power of the Spirit of God; so that from Jerusalem, and round about unto Illyricum, I have fully preached the gospel of Christ.

20 Yea, [e]so have I strived to preach the [f]gospel, not where Christ was named, lest I should [g]build upon another man's foundation:

21 But as it is written, [h]To whom he was not spoken of, they shall see: and they that have not heard shall understand.

22 For which cause also I have been much hindered from coming to you.

23 But now having no more place in these parts, and having a [i]great desire these many years to come unto you;

24 Whensoever I take my journey into Spain, I will come to you: for I [j]trust to see you in my journey, and to be brought on my way thitherward by you, if first I be somewhat filled with your company.

25 But now I go unto Jerusalem to [k]minister unto the saints.

26 For it hath pleased them of Macedonia and Achaia to make a certain contribution for the poor saints which are at Jerusalem.

27 It hath pleased them verily; and their debtors they are. For if the Gentiles have been made partakers of their spiritual things, their duty is also to minister unto them in [l]carnal things.

28 When therefore I have performed this, and have sealed to them this fruit, I will come by you into Spain.

29 And I am sure that, when I come unto you, I shall come in the [m]fulness of the blessing of the gospel of Christ.

30 Now I beseech you, brethren, for the Lord Jesus Christ's sake, and for the love of the [n]Spirit, that ye strive together with me in your prayers to God for me;

31 That I may be delivered from them that do not believe in Judæa; and that my [o]service which I have for Jerusalem may be accepted of the saints;

32 That I may come unto you with [p]joy by the will of God, and may with you be refreshed.

33 Now the [q]God of peace be with you all. Amen.

Part VII. The outflow of Christian love.

I [r]COMMEND unto you Phebe our sister, which is a [s]servant of the church which is at Cenchrea:

2 That ye receive her in the Lord, [t]as becometh saints, and that ye assist her in whatsoever business she hath need of you: for she hath been a [u]succourer of many, and of myself also.

3 Greet [v]Priscilla and Aquila my helpers in Christ Jesus:

4 Who have for my life laid down their own necks: unto whom not only I give thanks, but also all the churches of the Gentiles.

5 Likewise greet the church that is in their house. Salute my well-beloved Epænetus, who is the first-fruits of [w]Achaia unto Christ.

6 Greet Mary, who bestowed [x]much labour on us.

7 Salute Andronicus and Junia, my [y]kinsmen, and my fellowprisoners, who are of note among the apostles, who also were [z]in Christ before me.

8 Greet Amplias my beloved in the Lord.

9 Salute Urbane, our helper in Christ, and Stachys my beloved.

10 Salute Apelles approved in Christ. Salute them which are of Aristobulus' household.

11 Salute Herodion my [a]kinsman. Greet them that be of the house- hold of Narcissus, which are in the Lord.

12 Salute Tryphena and Tryphosa, who labour in the Lord. Salute the beloved Persis, which laboured much in the Lord.

13 Salute Rufus [a]chosen in the Lord, and his mother and mine.

14 Salute Asyncritus, Phlegon, Hermas, Patrobas, Hermes, and the brethren which are with them.

15 Salute Philologus, and Julia, Nereus, and his sister, and Olympas, and all the saints which are with them.

16 Salute one another with an [b]holy kiss. The churches of Christ salute you.

17 Now I beseech you, brethren, mark them which cause divisions and offences contrary to the doctrine which ye have learned; and avoid them.

18 For they that are such serve not our Lord Jesus Christ, but their own belly; and by good words and fair speeches deceive the hearts of the simple.

19 For your obedience is come abroad unto all men. I am glad therefore on your behalf: but yet I would have you wise unto that which is good, and simple concerning evil.

20 And the God of peace shall bruise [c]Satan under your feet shortly. The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you. Amen.

21 Timotheus my workfellow, and Lucius, and Jason, and Sosipater, my kinsmen, salute you.

22 I Tertius, who wrote this epistle, salute you in the Lord.

23 Gaius mine host, and of the whole [d]church, saluteth you. Erastus the chamberlain of the city saluteth you, and Quartus a brother.

24 The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you all. Amen.

25 Now to him that is of power to stablish you according to my [e]gospel, and the preaching of Jesus Christ, according to the revelation of the [f]mystery, which [g]was kept secret since the [h]world began,

26 But now is made manifest, and [i]by the scriptures of the prophets, according to the commandment of the everlasting God, made known to all nations for [j]the obedience of faith:

27 To God only wise, be glory through Jesus Christ for ever. Amen.

WRITER. The Apostle Paul. His relations to the church at Corinth are set forth in Acts xviii. 1-18, and in the Epistles to the Corinthians.

Date. First Corinthians was written in A.D. 59, at the close of Paul's three years' residence in Ephesus (Acts xx. 31; 1 Cor. xvi. 5-8).

Theme. The subjects treated are various, but may all be classified under the general theme, Christian conduct. Even the tremendous revelation of the truth concerning resurrection is made to bear upon that theme (1 Cor. xv. 58). The occasion of the Epistle was a letter of inquiry from Corinth concerning marriage, and the use of meats offered to idols (1 Cor. vii. 1; viii. 1-13), but the apostle was much more exercised by reports of the deepening divisions and increasing contentions in the church, and of a case of incest which had not been judged (i. 10-12; v. 1).

The factions were not due to heresies, but to the carnality of the restless Corinthians, and to their Greek admiration of "wisdom" and eloquence. The abomination of human leadership in the things of God is here rebuked. Minor disorders were due to vanity, yielding to a childish delight in tongues and the sign gifts, rather than to sober instruction (1 Cor. xiv. 1-28). Paul defends his apostleship because it involved the authority of the doctrine revealed through him.

A rigid analysis of First Corinthians is not possible. The Epistle is not a treatise, but came from the Spirit through the apostle's grief, solicitude, and holy indignation. The following analysis may, however, be helpful. I. Introduction: The believer's standing in grace, i. 1-9. II. The contrast of their present factious state, i. 10-iv. 21. III. Immorality rebuked; discipline enjoined, v. 1-vi. 8. IV. The sanctity of the body, and Christian marriage, vi. 9-vii. 40. V. Meats, and the limitations of Christian liberty, viii. 1-xi. 1. VI. Christian order and the Lord's Supper, xi. 2-34. VII. Spiritual gifts in relation to the body, the church, and Christian ministry, xii. 1-xiv. 40. VIII. The resurrection of the dead, xv. 1-58. IX. Special directions and greetings, xvi. 1-24.

CHAPTER 1.

Part I. The believer's position in grace. (Cf. Rom. 5. 1, 2; Eph. 1. 3-14.)

PAUL, called to be an apostle of Jesus Christ through [a]the will of God, and [b]Sosthenes our brother,

2 Unto the [c]church of God which is at Corinth, to [1]them that are [d]sanctified in Christ Jesus, called to be saints, with all that in every place call upon the name of Jesus Christ our Lord, both their's and our's:

3 Grace be unto you, and peace, from God our Father, and from the Lord Jesus Christ.

4 I thank my God always on your behalf, [e]for the grace of God which is given you by Jesus Christ;

5 That in every thing ye are enriched by him, [f]in all utterance, and in all knowledge;

6 Even as the testimony of Christ was confirmed in you:

7 So that ye come behind in no

[f] 2 Cor. 12. 8; 2 Cor. 8. 7.

[1] Verses 2-9, in contrast with vs. 10-13, illustrate a distinction constantly made in the Epistles between the believer's position in Christ Jesus, in the family of God, and his walk, or actual state. Christian position in grace is the result of the work of Christ, and is fully entered the moment that Christ is received by faith (John i. 12, 13; Rom. viii. 1, 15-17; 1 Cor. i. 2, 30; xii. 12, 13; Gal. iii. 26; Eph. i. 3-14; ii. 4-9; 1 Pet. ii. 9; Rev. i. 6; v. 9, 10). The weakest, most ignorant, and fallible believer has precisely the same relationships in grace as the most illustrious saint. All the after work of God in his behalf, the application of the word to walk and conscience (John xvii. 17; Eph. v. 26), the divine chastenings (1 Cor. xi. 32; Heb. xii. 10), the ministry of the Spirit (Eph. iv. 11, 12), the difficulties and trials of the path (1 Pet. iv. 12, 13), and the final transformation at the appearing of Christ (1 John iii. 2), have for their object to make the believer's character conform to his exalted position in Christ. He grows in grace, not into grace.

gift; waiting for the [1a]coming of our Lord Jesus Christ:

8 Who shall also confirm you unto the end, that ye may be [b]blameless in the [2]day of our Lord Jesus Christ.

9 [c]God is faithful, by whom ye were called unto the fellowship of his Son Jesus Christ our Lord.

Part II. The contrast of the unspiritual state of the Corinthian saints with their exalted standing in Christ.

10 Now I beseech you, brethren, by the name of our Lord Jesus Christ, that ye all speak the same thing, and that there be no [d]divisions among you; but that ye be perfectly joined together in the same mind and in the same judgment.

(1) They were following human leaders, thus dividing the body of Christ.

11 For it hath been declared unto me of you, my brethren, by them which are of the house of Chloe, that there are contentions among you.

12 Now this I say, that every one of you saith, I am of Paul; and I of [e]Apollos; and I of [f]Cephas; and I of Christ.

13 [g]Is Christ divided? was Paul crucified for you? or were ye baptized in the name of Paul?

14 I thank God that I baptized none of you, but Crispus and Gaius;

15 Lest any should say that [h]I had baptized in mine own name.

16 And I baptized also the household of Stephanas: besides, I know not whether I baptized any other.

17 For Christ sent me not to baptize, but to preach the [i]gospel: not with wisdom of words, lest the cross of Christ should be made of none effect.

(2) They were exulting in human wisdom, which is foolishness in the things of God.

18 For the preaching of the cross is to them that perish foolishness; but unto us which are [j]saved it is the power of God.

19 For it is written, [k]I will destroy the wisdom of the wise, and will bring to nothing the understanding of the prudent.

20 Where is the wise? where is the scribe? where is the disputer of this [l]world? hath not God made foolish the wisdom of this [m]world?

21 For after that in the wisdom of God the world by wisdom knew not God, it pleased God by the foolishness of [n]preaching to [j]save them that believe.

22 For the Jews require a sign, and the [o]Greeks seek after wisdom:

23 But we preach [p]Christ crucified, unto the Jews a [q]stumblingblock, and unto the Greeks foolishness;

24 But unto them which are called, both Jews and Greeks, Christ the power of God, and the wisdom of God.

25 Because the foolishness of God is wiser than men; and the weakness of God is stronger than men.

(3) Any way the Corinthian believers were not of the wise.

26 For ye see your calling, brethren, how that not many wise men after the flesh, not many mighty, not many noble, are called:

27 But God hath [r]chosen the foolish things of the [s]world to confound the wise; and God hath chosen the

[1] Three words are used in connection with the return of the Lord: (1) Parousia, "personal presence," also used by Paul of the "coming" of Stephanas (1 Cor. xvi. 17), of Titus (2 Cor. vii. 6, 7), and of his own "coming" to Philippi (Phil. i. 26). The word means simply personal presence, and is used of the return of the Lord as that event relates to the blessing of saints (1 Cor. xv. 23; 1 Thes. iv. 14, 17), and to the destruction of the man of sin (2 Thes. ii. 8). (2) Apokalupsis, "unveiling," "revelation." The use of this word emphasizes the visibility of the Lord's return. It is used of the Lord (2 Thes. i. 7; 1 Pet. i. 7, 13; iv. 13), of the sons of God in connection with the Lord's return (Rom. viii. 19), and of the man of sin (2 Thes. ii. 3, 6, 8), and always implies visibility. (3) Epiphaneia, "appearing," trans. "brightness" (2 Thes. ii. 8, A.V.; "manifestation," R.V.), and means simply an appearing. It is used of both advents (2 Tim. i. 10; 2 Thes. ii. 8; 1 Tim. vi. 14; 2 Tim. iv. 1, 8; Tit. ii. 13).

[2] The expression, "day of Christ," occurs in the following passages: 1 Cor. i. 8; v. 5; 2 Cor. i. 14; Phil. i. 6, 10; ii. 16. A.V. has "day of Christ," 2 Thes. ii. 2, incorrectly, for "day of the Lord" (Isa. ii. 12; Rev. xix. 11-21). The "day of Christ" relates wholly to the reward and blessing of saints at His coming, as "day of the Lord" is connected with judgment.

CHAPTER 2.

(4) They are reminded that the Christian revelation owes nothing to human wisdom.

(a) Paul did not use it.

AND I, brethren, when I came to you, came not with excellency of speech or of wisdom, declaring unto you the testimony of God.
2 For I determined not to know any thing among you, save Jesus Christ, and him crucified.
3 And I was with you in weakness, and in fear, and in much trembling.
4 And my speech and my preaching was not with [g]enticing words of man's wisdom, but in demonstration of the Spirit and of power:
5 That your faith should not stand in the wisdom of men, but in the power of God.
6 Howbeit we speak wisdom among them that are [h]perfect: yet not the wisdom of this [i]world, nor of the [j]princes of this [i]world, that come to nought:
7 [k]But we speak the wisdom of God in a [l]mystery, even the hidden wisdom, which God [m]ordained before the [n]world unto our glory:
8 Which none of the princes of this [i]world knew: for had they known it, they would not have crucified the Lord of glory.

(b) Spiritual verities are not discoverable by human wisdom.

9 But as it is written, Eye hath not seen, nor ear heard, neither have entered into the heart of man, the things which God hath prepared for them that love him.

(c) But God has revealed them to prepared men.

10 But God hath revealed them unto us by his Spirit: for the Spirit searcheth all things, yea, the deep things of God.
11 For what man knoweth the things of a man, save the spirit of man which is in him? even so the things of God knoweth no man, but the [o]Spirit of God.
12 Now we have received, not the spirit of the [p]world, but the spirit which is of God; that we might know the things that are freely given to us of God.

(d) The revealed things are taught in words given by the Spirit.

13 Which things also we speak, not in the [1]words which man's wisdom teacheth, but which the Holy Ghost teacheth; comparing spiritual things with spiritual.

(e) The revealed things are spiritually discerned.

14 But the [2]natural man receiveth not the things of the [o]Spirit of God: for they are foolishness unto him: neither can he know them, because they are spiritually discerned.

[1] (1) The writers of Scripture invariably affirm, where the subject is mentioned by them at all, that the words of their writings are divinely taught. This, of necessity, refers to the original documents, not to translations and versions; but the labours of competent scholars have brought our English versions to a degree of perfection so remarkable that we may confidently rest upon them as authoritative. (2) 1 Cor. ii. 9-14 gives the process by which a truth passes from the mind of God to the minds of His people. (a) The unseen things of God are undiscoverable by the natural man (v. 9). (b) These unseen things God has revealed to chosen men (vs. 10-12). (c) The revealed things are communicated in Spirit-taught words (v. 13). This implies neither mechanical dictation nor the effacement of the writer's personality, but only that the Spirit infallibly guides in the choice of words from the writer's own vocabulary (v. 13). (d) These Spirit-taught words, in which the revelation has been expressed, are discerned, as to their true spiritual content, only by the spiritual among believers (1 Cor. ii. 15, 16). See also Rev. xxii. 19, note.

[2] Paul divides men into three classes: psuchikos, "of the senses" (Jas. iii. 15; Jude 19), or "natural," i.e. the Adamic man, unrenewed through the new birth (John iii. 3, 5); pneumatikos, "spiritual," i.e. the renewed man as Spirit-filled and walk-

15 But he that is spiritual [a]judgeth all things, yet he himself is judged of no man.

16 For who hath known the [b]mind of the Lord, that he may instruct him? But we have the mind of Christ.

CHAPTER 3.

(5) A carnal state prevents spiritual growth.

AND I, brethren, could not speak unto you as unto spiritual, but as unto [c]carnal, even as unto babes in Christ.

2 I have fed you with milk, and not with meat: for hitherto ye were not able to bear it, neither yet now are ye able.

3 For ye are yet [d]carnal: for whereas there is among you envying, and strife, and divisions, are ye not carnal, and walk [e]as men?

4 For while one saith, I am of Paul; and another, I am of Apollos; are ye not [f]carnal?

(6) God only is anything in Christian service.

5 Who then is Paul, and who is Apollos, but ministers [g]by whom ye believed, even as the Lord gave to every man?

6 I have planted, Apollos watered; but [h]God gave the increase.

7 So then [i]neither is he that planteth any thing, neither he that watereth; but God that giveth the increase.

8 Now he that planteth and he that watereth are [1]one: and every man shall receive his own [j]reward according to his own labour.

(7) Christian service and its reward.

9 For we are [k]labourers together with God: ye are God's husbandry, ye are God's building.

10 According to the [l]grace of God which is given unto me, as a wise masterbuilder, I have laid the foundation, and another buildeth thereon. But let every man take heed how he buildeth thereupon.

(a) The only foundation.

11 For other foundation can no man lay than that is laid, which is Jesus Christ.

(b) Two kinds of ministry and their result.

12 Now if any man build upon this foundation gold, silver, precious stones, wood, hay, stubble;

13 Every man's work shall be made manifest: for the day shall declare it, because it shall be revealed by fire; and the fire shall try every man's work of what sort it is.

14 If any man's work abide which he hath built thereupon, he shall receive a [2]reward.

15 If any man's work shall be burned, he shall suffer loss: but he himself shall be [m]saved; yet [n]so as [o]by fire.

16 Know ye not that ye are the temple of God, and that the [p]Spirit of God dwelleth in you?

17 If any man defile the temple of God, him shall God destroy; for the temple of God is [q]holy, which temple ye are.

18 Let no man deceive himself. If any man among you seemeth to be wise in this [r]world, let him become a fool, that he may be wise.

19 For the wisdom of this world is foolishness with God. For it is written, [s]He taketh the wise in their own craftiness.

20 And again, [t]The Lord knoweth the [u]thoughts of the wise, that they are vain.

ing in the Spirit in full communion with God (Eph. v. 18-20); and sarkikos, "carnal," "fleshly," i.e. the renewed man who, walking "after the flesh," remains a babe in Christ (1 Cor. iii. 1-4). The natural man may be learned, gentle, eloquent, fascinating, but the spiritual content of Scripture is absolutely hidden from him; and the fleshly, or carnal Christian is able to comprehend only its simplest truths, "milk" (1 Cor. iii. 2).

[1]Paul refutes the notion that he and Cephas and Apollos are at variance, mere theologians and rival founders of sects: they are "one." See v. 22, and 1 Cor. xvi. 12.

[2]God, in the N.T. Scriptures, offers to the lost, salvation, and, for the faithful service of the saved, rewards. The passages are easily distinguished by remembering that salvation is invariably spoken of as a free gift (e.g. John iv. 10; Rom. vi. 23; Eph. ii. 8, 9); while rewards are earned by works (Mt. x. 42; Lk. xix. 17; 1 Cor. ix. 24, 25; 2 Tim. iv. 7, 8; Rev. ii. 10; xxii. 12). A further distinction is that salvation is a present possession (Lk. vii. 50; John iii. 36; v. 24; vi. 47), while rewards are a future distinction, to be given at the coming of the Lord (Mt. xvi. 27; 2 Tim. iv. 8; Rev. xxii. 12).

21 Therefore let no man glory in men. For all things are your's;
22 Whether Paul, or Apollos, or Cephas, or the [a]world, or life, or death, or things present, or things to come; all are your's;
23 And ye are Christ's; and Christ is God's.

CHAPTER 4.

(c) Judgment of Christ's servants is not committed to men.

LET a man so account of us, as of the ministers of Christ, and stewards of the mysteries of God.
2 Moreover it is required in stewards, that a man be found faithful.
3 But with me it is a very small thing that I should be judged of you, or of man's judgment: yea, I judge not mine own self.
4 For I know nothing [b]by myself; yet am I not hereby [c]justified: but he that judgeth me is the Lord.
5 Therefore judge nothing before the time, until the Lord come, who both will bring to light the hidden things of darkness, and [d]will make manifest the counsels of the hearts: and then shall every man have praise of God.
6 And these things, brethren, I have in a figure transferred to myself and to Apollos for your sakes; that ye might learn in us not to think of men above that which is written, that no one of you be puffed up for one against another.
7 For who maketh thee to differ from another? and [e]what hast thou that thou didst not receive? now if thou didst receive it, why dost thou glory, as if thou hadst not received it?
8 [f]Now ye are full, now ye are rich, ye have reigned as kings without us: and I would to God ye did reign, [g]that we also might reign with you.

(8) The apostolic example of humility and patience.

9 For I think that God hath set forth us the apostles last, as it were appointed to death: for we are made a spectacle unto the [h]world, and to angels, and to men.
10 We are [i]fools for Christ's sake, but ye are wise in Christ; we are weak, but ye are strong; ye are honourable, but we are despised.
11 Even unto this present hour we both hunger, and thirst, and are naked, and are buffeted, and have no certain dwellingplace;
12 And [j]labour, working with our own hands: being [k]reviled, we bless; being persecuted, we suffer it:
13 Being defamed, we intreat: we are made as the filth of the [l]world, and are the [m]offscouring of all things unto this day.
14 I write not these things to shame you, but as my beloved [n]sons I warn you.
15 For though ye have ten thousand instructers in Christ, yet have ye not many fathers: for in Christ Jesus I have begotten you through the [o]gospel.
16 Wherefore I beseech you, be ye followers of me.
17 For this cause have I sent unto you Timotheus, who is my beloved [n]son, and faithful in the Lord, who shall bring you into remembrance of my ways which be in Christ, as I teach every where in every church.

(9) But there is such a thing as apostolic authority.

18 Now some are puffed up, as though I [p]would not come to you.
19 But I will come to you shortly, if the Lord will, and will know, not the speech of them which are puffed up, but the power.
20 For the kingdom of God is not in word, but in power.
21 What will ye? shall I come unto you with a rod, or in love, and in the spirit of meekness?

CHAPTER 5.

Part III. Immorality rebuked, discipline enjoined (1 Cor. 5. 1 - 6. 8).

not rather mourned, that he that hath done this deed might be taken away from among you.

3 For I verily, as absent in body, but present in spirit, have judged already, as though I were present, concerning him that hath so done this deed,

4 In the name of our Lord Jesus Christ, when ye are gathered together, and my spirit, with the power of our Lord Jesus Christ,

5 [a]To deliver such an one unto [b]Satan for the [1]destruction of the flesh, that the spirit may be [c]saved in the day of the Lord [d]Jesus.

6 Your glorying is not good. Know ye not that a little leaven leaveneth the whole lump?

7 Purge out therefore the old leaven, that ye may be a new lump, as ye are unleavened. For even Christ our passover is [e]sacrificed for us:

8 Therefore let us keep the feast, not with old [f]leaven, neither with the leaven of malice and wickedness; but with the unleavened bread of sincerity and truth.

9 I wrote unto you in an epistle not to company with fornicators:

10 Yet not altogether with the fornicators of this [g]world, or with the covetous, or extortioners, or with idolaters; for then must ye needs go out of the [g]world.

11 But now I have written unto you not to keep company, if any man that is called a brother be a fornicator, or covetous, or an idolater, or a railer, or a drunkard, or an extortioner; with such an one no not to eat.

12 For what have I to do to judge them also that are [h]without? do not ye judge them that are within?

13 But them that are without God judgeth. Therefore put away from among [i]yourselves that wicked person.

CHAPTER 6.

Saints forbidden to go to law with each other.

DARE any of you, having a matter against another, go to law before the unjust, and not before the saints?

2 Do ye not know that the saints shall judge the [j]world? and if the world shall be judged by you, are ye unworthy to judge the smallest matters?

3 Know ye not that we shall [k]judge [l]angels? how much more things that pertain to this life?

4 If then ye have judgments of things pertaining to this life, set them to judge [m]who are least esteemed in the church.

5 I speak to your shame. Is it so, that there is not a wise man among you? no, not one that shall be able to judge between his brethren?

6 But brother goeth to law with brother, and that before the unbelievers.

7 Now therefore there is utterly a fault among you, because ye go to law one with another. Why do ye not rather take wrong? why do ye not rather suffer yourselves to be defrauded?

8 Nay, ye do wrong, and defraud, and that your brethren.

Part IV. The sanctity of the body, and marriage (1 Cor. 6. 9–7. 40).

(1) The body is holy: because washed and justified.

9 Know ye not that the unrighteous shall not inherit the kingdom of God? Be not deceived: neither fornicators, nor idolaters, nor adulterers, nor effeminate, nor abusers of themselves with mankind,

10 Nor thieves, nor covetous, nor drunkards, nor revilers, nor extortioners, shall inherit the kingdom of God.

11 And such were some of you: but ye [n]are washed, but ye are [o]sanctified, but ye are [p]justified in the name of the Lord Jesus, and by the Spirit of our God.

12 All things are lawful unto me, but all things are not expedient: all things are lawful for me, but I will not be brought under the power of any.

(2) Because the body is the Lord's.

13 Meats for the belly, and the belly for meats: but God shall destroy both it and them. Now the body is not for fornication, but for the Lord; and the Lord for the body.

14 And God hath both raised up the Lord, and will also raise up us by his own power.

15 Know ye not that your bodies are the members of Christ? [q]shall I then take the members of Christ, and make them the members of an harlot? God forbid.

16 What? know ye not that he which is joined to an harlot is one body? for two, saith he, shall be one flesh.

17 But he that is joined unto the Lord is one spirit.

18 Flee fornication. Every sin that a man doeth is without the body; but he that committeth fornication sinneth against his own body.

(3) Because the body is a temple.

19 What? know ye not that your body is [a]the temple of the [b]Holy Ghost which is in you, which ye have [c]of God, and ye are not your own?

20 For ye [d]are bought with a price: therefore glorify God in your body, and in your spirit, which are God's.

CHAPTER 7.

(4) Because God has established marriage.

NOW concerning the things whereof ye wrote unto me: It is good for a man not to touch a woman.

2 Nevertheless, to avoid fornication, let every man have his own wife, and let every woman have her own husband.

3 Let the husband render unto the wife due benevolence: and likewise also the wife unto the husband.

4 The wife hath not [e]power of her own body, but the husband: and likewise also the husband hath not power of his own body, but the wife.

5 Defraud ye not one the other, except it be with consent for a time, that ye may give yourselves to fasting and prayer; and come together again, that [f]Satan [g]tempt you not [h]for your incontinency.

6 But I speak this by [i]permission, and not of commandment.

7 For I would that all men were even as I myself. [j]But every man hath his proper gift of God, one after this manner, and another after that.

8 I say therefore to the unmarried and widows, It is good for them if they abide even as I.

9 But if they cannot contain, [k]let them marry: for it is better to marry than to burn.

The regulation of marriage among Gentile believers.

10 And unto the married I command, yet not I, but the Lord, Let not the wife depart from her husband:

11 But and if she depart, let her remain unmarried, or be reconciled to her husband: and let not the husband [l]put away his wife.

12 But to the rest [1]speak I, not the Lord: If any brother hath a wife that believeth not, and she be pleased to dwell with him, let him not [m]put her away.

13 And the woman which hath an husband that believeth not, and if he be pleased to dwell with her, let her not leave him.

14 For the unbelieving husband is [n]sanctified by the wife, and the unbelieving wife is sanctified by the husband: else were your [o]children unclean; but now are they holy.

15 But if the unbelieving depart, let him depart. A brother or a sister is not under bondage in such cases: but God hath called us to peace.

16 For what knowest thou, O wife, whether thou shalt save thy husband? or how knowest thou, O man, whether thou shalt [p]save thy wife?

17 But as God hath distributed to [q]every man, as the Lord hath called [q]every one, so let him walk. And so ordain I [r]in all [s]churches.

18 Is any man called being circumcised? let him not become uncircumcised. Is any called in uncircumcision? let him not be circumcised.

19 Circumcision is nothing, and uncircumcision is nothing, but the keeping of the commandments of God.

20 Let every man [t]abide in the same calling wherein he was called.

[1] So far from disclaiming inspiration, the apostle associates his teaching with the Lord's. Cases had arisen (e.g. vs. 12-16), as the gospel overflowed Jewish limitations, not comprehended in the words of Jesus (Mt. v. 31, 32; xix. 5-9) which were an instruction, primarily, to Israel. These new conditions demanded authoritative settlement, and only the inspired words of an apostle could give that. See v. 40.

Lord, being a servant, [a]is the Lord's [b]freeman: likewise also he that is called, being free, is Christ's servant.

23 Ye are [c]bought with a price; be not ye the servants of men.

24 Brethren, let every man, wherein he is called, therein abide with [d]God.

25 Now concerning virgins I have no commandment of the Lord: yet I give my judgment, as one that hath obtained mercy of the Lord to be faithful.

26 I suppose therefore that this is good for the present distress, I say, that it is good for a man so to be.

27 Art thou bound unto a wife? seek not to be loosed. Art thou loosed from a wife? seek not a wife.

28 But and if thou marry, thou hast not [e]sinned; and if a virgin marry, she hath not sinned. Nevertheless such shall have trouble in the flesh: [f]but I spare you.

29 But this I say, brethren, the [g]time is short: it remaineth, that both they that have wives be as though they had none;

30 And they that weep, as though they wept not; and they that rejoice, as though they rejoiced not; and they that buy, as though they possessed not;

31 And they that use this [h]world, as not abusing it: for the fashion of this world passeth away.

32 But I would have you [i]without carefulness. He that is unmarried careth for the things that belong to the Lord, how he may please the Lord:

33 But he that is married careth for the things that are of the [h]world, how he may please his wife.

34 There is difference also between a wife and a virgin. The unmarried woman careth for the things of the Lord, that she may be holy both in body and in spirit: but she that is married careth for the things of the [j]world, how she may please her husband.

35 And this I speak for your own profit; not that I may [k]cast a snare upon you, but for that which is comely, and that ye may attend upon the Lord without distraction.

36 But if any man think that he behaveth himself uncomely toward his virgin, if she pass the flower of her age, and need so require, let him do what he will, he [l]sinneth not: let them marry.

37 Nevertheless he that standeth stedfast in his heart, having no necessity, but hath power over his own will, and hath so decreed in his heart that he will keep his virgin, doeth well.

38 So then he that giveth her in marriage doeth well; but he that giveth her not in marriage doeth better.

39 The wife is bound by the law as long as her husband liveth; but if her husband be dead, she is at liberty to be married to whom she will; [m]only in the Lord.

40 But she is happier if she so abide, after my judgment: and I think [n]also that I have the [o]Spirit of God.

CHAPTER 8.

Part V. Meats, and the limitations of Christian liberty (1 Cor. 8. 1–11. 1).

NOW [p]as touching things offered unto idols, we know that we all have knowledge. Knowledge puffeth up, but [q]charity edifieth.

2 And if any man think that he knoweth any thing, he knoweth nothing yet as he ought to know.

3 But if any man love God, the same is known of him.

4 As concerning therefore the eating of those things that are offered in sacrifice unto idols, we know that an idol is nothing in the [r]world, and that there is none other God but one.

5 For though there be that are called gods, whether in heaven or in earth, (as there be gods many, and lords many,)

6 But [s]to us there is but one God, the Father, of whom are all things, and we in him; and one Lord Jesus Christ, by [t]whom are all things, and [u]we by him.

7 Howbeit there is not in every man that knowledge: for some with conscience of the idol unto this hour eat it as a thing offered unto an idol; and their conscience being weak is defiled.

8 But meat commendeth us not to God: for neither, if we eat, are we the better; neither, if we eat not, are we the worse.

9 But take heed lest by any means this [v]liberty of your's become a stumblingblock to them that are weak.

10 For if any man see thee which hast knowledge sit at meat in the idol's temple, [w]shall not the conscience of him which is weak be emboldened to eat those things which are offered to idols;

11 And through thy knowledge shall the weak brother perish, for [a] whom Christ died?

12 But when ye [b] sin so against the brethren, and wound their weak conscience, ye sin against Christ.

13 Wherefore, if meat make my brother to [c] offend, I will eat no flesh while the [d] world standeth, [e] lest I make my brother to offend.

CHAPTER 9.

Paul vindicates his apostleship. (Cf. Gal. 1. 11-2. 14.)

AM I not an apostle? am I not free? have I not seen Jesus Christ our Lord? are not ye my work in the Lord?

2 If I be not an apostle unto others, yet doubtless I am to you: for the seal of mine apostleship are ye in the Lord.

3 Mine answer to them that do examine me is this,

4 Have we [f] not power to eat and to drink?

5 Have we [f] not power to lead about a [g] sister, a wife, as well as other apostles, and as the brethren of the Lord, and Cephas?

6 Or I only and Barnabas, have not we [h] power to forbear working?

They who preach the gospel are to live of the gospel.

7 Who goeth a warfare any time at his own charges? who planteth a vineyard, and eateth not of the fruit thereof? or who feedeth a flock, and eateth not of the milk of the flock?

8 Say I these things as a man? or saith not the law the same also?

9 For [i] it is written in the law of Moses, Thou shalt not muzzle the mouth of the ox that treadeth out the corn. Doth God take care for oxen?

10 Or saith he it altogether for our sakes? [j] For our sakes, no doubt, this is written: that he that ploweth should plow in hope; and that he that thresheth [k] in hope should be partaker of his hope.

11 If we have sown unto you spiritual things, is it a great thing if we shall reap your [l] carnal things?

12 If others be partakers of this power over you, are not we rather? [m] Nevertheless we have not used this power; but suffer all things, lest we should hinder the gospel of Christ.

13 Do ye not know that they which minister about [n] holy things [o] live of the things of the temple? and they which wait at the altar are partakers with the altar?

14 Even so hath the Lord ordained that they which preach the gospel should live of the gospel.

15 But I have used none of these things: neither have I written these things, that it should be so done unto me: for it were better for me to die, than that any man should make my glorying void.

16 For though I preach the gospel, I have nothing to glory of: for necessity is laid upon me; yea, woe is unto me, if I preach not the gospel!

17 For if I do this thing willingly, I have a [p] reward: but if against my will, a dispensation of the gospel is committed unto me.

18 What is my reward then? Verily that, when I preach the gospel, I may make the gospel of Christ without charge, that I abuse not my power in the gospel.

The method and reward of true ministry.

19 For though I be free from all men, yet have I made myself servant unto all, that I might gain the more.

20 And unto the Jews I became as a Jew, that I might gain the Jews; to them that are under the law, as under the law, that I might gain them that are under the law;

21 To them that are without law, as without law, (being not [1] without law to God, but [q] under the law to Christ,) that I might gain them that are without law.

22 To the weak became I as weak, that I might gain the weak: I am made all things to all men, that I might by all means [r] save some.

23 And this I do for the [s] gospel's sake, that I might be partaker thereof with you.

24 Know ye not that they which run in a [t] race run all, but one recelveth the prize? [a]So run, that ye may obtain.

25 And every man that striveth for the mastery is temperate in all things. Now they do it to obtain a corruptible crown; but we an [b]incorruptible.

26 I therefore so run, [c]not as uncertainly; so fight I, [d]not as one that beateth the air:

Israel in the wilderness a warning example.

MOREOVER, brethren, I would not that ye should be ignorant, how that all our fathers were under the cloud, and all passed through the sea;

2 And were all baptized unto Moses in the cloud and in the sea;

3 And did all eat the same spiritual meat;

4 And did all drink the same spiritual drink: for they drank of [g]that spiritual [h]Rock that followed them: and that Rock was Christ.

5 But with many of them God was not well pleased: for they were overthrown in the wilderness.

6 Now these things [i]were our examples, to the intent we should not lust after evil things, as they also lusted.

7 Neither be ye idolaters, as were some of them; as it is written, [j]The people sat down to eat and drink, and rose up to play.

10 Neither murmur ye, as some of them also [n]murmured, and were destroyed of the destroyer.

11 Now all these things happened unto them [o]for ensamples: and they are written for our admonition, upon whom the ends of the [p]world are come.

12 Wherefore let him that thinketh he standeth take heed lest he fall.

13 There hath no [q]temptation taken you but such as is common to man: but God is faithful, who will not suffer you to be tempted above that ye are able; but will with the temptation [r]also make a way to escape, that ye may be able to bear it.

14 Wherefore, my dearly beloved, flee from idolatry.

15 I speak as to wise men; judge ye what I say.

Fellowship at the Lord's table demands separation.

16 The cup of blessing which we bless, is it not the communion of the blood of Christ? The bread which we break, is it not the communion of the body of Christ?

17 For we being many are one [s]bread, and one body: for we are all partakers of that one bread.

18 Behold Israel after the flesh: are not they which eat of the sacrifices partakers of the altar?

19 What say I then? that the [t]idol is any thing, or that which is offered in sacrifice to idols is any thing?

20 But I say, that the things which the Gentiles sacrifice, they sacrifice to [u]devils, and not to [v]God: and I would not that ye should have [w]fellowship with devils.

21 Ye cannot drink the cup of the Lord, and the cup of devils: ye can-

[1]Gr. adokimos, "disapproved." Dokimos, without the privative a, is translated "approved" in Rom. xiv. 18; xvi. 10; 1 Cor. xi. 19; 2 Cor. x. 18; 2 Tim. ii. 15, and in Jas. i. 12 by the word "tried." The prefix simply changes the word to a negative, i.e. not approved, or, disapproved. The apostle is writing of service, not of salvation. He is not expressing fear that he may fail of salvation but of his crown. See "Rewards" (Dan. xii. 3; 1 Cor. iii. 14).

[2]Cf. Num. xxv. 9. A discrepancy has been imagined. 1 Cor. x. 8 gives the number of deaths in "one day"; Num. xxv. 9, the total number of deaths "in the plague." Some discrepant statements concerning numbers are, however, found in the existing manuscripts of the Hebrew Scriptures. These are most naturally ascribed to the fact that the Hebrews used letters in the place of numerals. The letters from Koph to Tau express hundreds up to four hundred. Five certain Hebrew letters, written in a different form, carry hundreds up to nine hundred, while thousands are expressed by two dots over the proper unit letter: e.g. the letter Teth, used alone, stands for 9; with two dots it stands for nine thousand. Error in transcription of Hebrew numbers thus becomes easy, preservation of numerical accuracy difficult.

22 Do we provoke the Lord to jealousy? are we stronger than he?

The law of love in relation to eating and drinking. (Cf. Rom. 14. 1-23.)

23 All things are lawful for me, but all things are not expedient: all things are lawful for me, but all things edify not.

24 Let no man seek his [a]own, but every man another's wealth.

25 Whatsoever is sold in the shambles, that eat, asking no question for conscience sake:

26 For the earth is the [b]Lord's, and the fulness thereof.

27 If any of them that believe not bid you to a feast, and ye be disposed to go; whatsoever is set before you, eat, asking no question for conscience sake.

28 But if any man say unto you, This is offered in sacrifice unto idols, [c]eat not for his sake that shewed it, and for conscience sake: for the earth is the Lord's, and the fulness thereof:

29 Conscience, I say, not thine own, but of the other: for why is my liberty judged of another man's conscience?

30 For if I [d]by grace be a partaker, why am I evil spoken of for that for which I give thanks?

31 Whether therefore ye eat, or drink, or whatsoever ye do, do all to the glory of God.

32 Give none offence, neither to the Jews, nor to the Gentiles, nor to the [f]church of God:

33 Even as I please all men in all things, not seeking mine own profit, but the profit of many, that they may be [g]saved.

CHAPTER 11.

BE ye [h]followers of me, even as I also am of Christ.

Part VI. Christian order and the Lord's supper (vs. 2-34).

2 Now I praise you, brethren, that ye remember me in all things, and keep the [i]ordinances, as I delivered them to you.

3 But I would have you know, that the head of every man is Christ; and the head of the woman is the man; and the head of Christ is God.

4 Every man praying or prophesying, having his head covered, dishonoureth his head.

5 But [k]every woman that prayeth or prophesieth with her head uncovered dishonoureth her head: for that is even all one as if she were shaven.

6 For if the woman be not covered, let her also be shorn: but if it be a shame for a woman to be shorn or shaven, let her be covered.

7 For a man indeed ought not to cover his head, forasmuch as he is the [l]image and glory of [m]God: but the woman is the glory of the man.

8 For the man is not of the woman; but the woman of the man.

9 Neither was the man created for the woman; but the woman for the man.

10 For this cause ought the woman to have [n]power on her head because of the [o]angels.

11 Nevertheless neither is the man without the woman, neither the woman without the man, in the Lord.

12 For as the woman is of the man, even so is the man also by the woman; but all things of God.

13 Judge in yourselves: is it [p]comely that a woman pray unto God uncovered?

14 Doth not even nature itself teach you, that, if a man have long hair, it is a shame unto him?

15 But if a woman have long hair, it is a glory to her: for her hair is given her for a [q]covering.

16 But if any man seem to be contentious, we have no such custom, neither the churches of God.

19 For there must be also [t]heresies among you, that they which are approved may be made manifest among you.

20 When ye come together therefore into one place, [u]this is not to eat the Lord's supper.

23 For I have received of the Lord that which also I delivered unto you, That the Lord Jesus the same night in which he was betrayed took bread:

24 And when he had given thanks, he brake it, and said, Take, eat: this is my body, which [a]is broken for you: this do in remembrance of me.

25 After the same manner also he took the cup, when he had supped, saying, This cup is the new [b]testament [c]in my blood: this do ye, as oft as ye drink it, in remembrance of me.

26 For as often as ye eat this bread, and drink this cup, ye [d]do shew the Lord's death till he come.

27 Wherefore whosoever shall eat this bread, and drink this cup of the Lord, [e]unworthily, shall be guilty of the body and blood of the Lord.

28 But let a man examine himself, and so let him eat of that bread, and drink of that cup.

CHAPTER 12.

Part VII. Spiritual gifts in the Body of Christ for ministry and worship (1 Cor. 12. 1-14. 40).

NOW concerning [2]spiritual gifts, brethren, I would not have you ignorant.

2 Ye know that [m]ye were Gentiles, carried away unto these dumb idols, even as ye were led.

3 Wherefore I give you to understand, that no man speaking [n]by the Spirit of God calleth Jesus accursed: and that no man can say that Jesus is the Lord, but [n]by the Holy Ghost.

True ministry is the exercise of spiritual gift. (Cf. Eph. 4. 7-16.)

4 Now there are diversities of [o]gifts, but the same Spirit.

5 And there are differences of administrations, but the same Lord.

6 And there are diversities of [p]operations, but it is the same God which worketh all in all.

7 But [q]the manifestation of the Spirit is given to every man to profit withal.

8 For to one is given by the Spirit the word of wisdom; to another the

[1] Self-judgment is not so much the believer's moral condemnation of his own ways or habits, as of himself, for allowing such ways. Self-judgment avoids chastisement. If neglected, the Lord judges, and the result is chastisement, but never condemnation (v. 32; 2 Sam. vii. 14, 15; xii. 13, 14; 1 Cor. v. 5; 1 Tim. i. 20; Heb. xii. 7). See other judgments, John xii. 31, note; 2 Cor. v. 10, note; Mt. xxv. 32, note; Ezk. xx. 37, note; Jude 6, note; Rev. xx. 12, note.

[2] The word pneumatika, lit. "spirituals," i.e. matters of or from the Holy Spirit, gives the key to Chapters xii., xiii., xiv. Chapter xii. concerns the Spirit in relation to the Body of Christ. This relation is twofold: (1) The baptism with the Spirit forms the Body by uniting believers to Christ the risen and glorified Head, and to each other (vs. 12, 13). The symbol of the Body thus formed is the natural, human body (v. 12), and all the analogies are freely used (vs. 14-26). (2) To each believer is given a spiritual enablement and capacity for specific service. No believer is destitute of such gift (vs. 7, 11, 27), but in their distribution the Spirit acts in free sovereignty (v. 11). There is no room for self-choosing, and Christian service is simply the ministry of such gift as the individual may have received (cf. Rom. xii. 4-8). (3) The gifts are diverse (vs. 6, 8-10, 28-30), but all are equally honourable because bestowed by the same Spirit, administered under the same Lord, and energized by the same God.

word of knowledge by the same Spirit;
9 To another [a]faith by the same Spirit; to another the gifts of healing by the same Spirit;
10 To another the working of miracles; to another [1]prophecy; to another [b]discerning of spirits; to another divers kinds of [c]tongues; to another the interpretation of tongues:
11 But all these worketh that one and the selfsame Spirit, dividing to every man severally as he will.

Every believer is a member of Christ's Body and as such has a definite ministry.

12 For as the body is one, and hath many members, and all the members of that one body, being many, are one body: so also is Christ.
13 For by one [d]Spirit are we all baptized into one body, whether we be Jews or [e]Gentiles, whether we be bond or free; [f]and have been all [g]made to drink into one Spirit.
14 For the body is not one member, but many.
15 If the foot shall say, Because I am not the hand, I am not of the body; is it therefore not of the body?
16 And if the ear shall say, Because I am not the eye, I am not of the body; is it therefore not of the body?
17 If the whole body were an eye, where were the hearing? If the whole were hearing, where were the smelling?
18 But now hath God set the members every one of them in the body, as it hath pleased him.
19 And if they were all one member, where were the body?
20 But now are they many members, yet but one body.
21 And the eye cannot say unto the hand, I have no need of thee: nor again the head to the feet, I have no need of you.
22 Nay, much more those members of the body, which seem to be more feeble, are necessary:
23 And those members of the body, which we think to be less honourable, upon these we [h]bestow more abundant honour; and our uncomely parts have more abundant comeliness.
24 For our comely parts have no need: but God hath tempered the body together, having given more abundant honour to that part which lacked:
25 That there should be no [i]schism in the body; but that the members should have the same care one for another.
26 And whether one member suffer, all the members suffer with it; or one member be honoured, all the members rejoice with it.
27 Now ye are the body of Christ, and [j]members in particular.
28 [k]And God hath [l]set some in [m]the [n]church, first apostles, secondarily prophets, thirdly teachers, after that miracles, then gifts of healings, helps, governments, diversities of tongues.
29 Are all apostles? are all prophets? are all teachers? are all workers of miracles?
30 Have all the gifts of healing? do all speak with tongues? do all interpret?
31 But covet earnestly the best gifts: and yet shew I unto you a [2]more excellent way.

CHAPTER 13.

The ministry gifts must be governed by love.

THOUGH I speak with the tongues of men and of [o]angels, and have not [p]charity, I am become as sounding brass, or a [q]tinkling cymbal.
2 And though I have the gift of prophecy, and understand all mysteries, and all knowledge; and though I have all faith, so that I could remove mountains, and have not [r]charity, I am nothing.
3 And though I bestow all my goods to feed the poor, and though I give my body to be burned, and have not [p]charity, it profiteth me nothing.

[1] The N.T. prophet is not ordinarily a foreteller, but rather a forth-teller, one whose gift enabled him to speak "to edification, and exhortation, and comfort" (1 Cor. xiv. 3).
[2] Chapter xiii. continues the pneumatika begun in Chapter xii. Gifts are good, but only if ministered in love (xiii. 1, 2). Benevolence is good, but not apart from love (xiii. 3). Love is described (xiii. 4-7). Love is better than our present incomplete knowledge (xiii. 8-12), and greater than even faith and hope (v. 13).

4 [a]Charity suffereth long, and is kind; charity envieth not; charity vaunteth not itself, is not puffed up,

5 Doth not behave itself unseemly, seeketh not her own, is not easily provoked, thinketh no evil;

6 Rejoiceth not in iniquity, but rejoiceth [b]in the truth;

7 Beareth all things, believeth all things, hopeth all things, endureth all things.

8 [a]Charity [c]never faileth: but whether there be prophecies, they shall fail; whether there be tongues, they shall cease; whether there be knowledge, it shall vanish away.

9 For we know [d]in part, and we prophesy in part.

10 [e]But when that which is perfect is come, then that which is in part shall be done away.

11 When I was a child, I spake as a child, I understood as a child, I [f]thought as a child: but when I became a man, I put away childish things.

12 For now we see [g]through a glass, darkly; but then face to face: now I know in part; but then shall I know even as also I am known.

13 And now abideth faith, hope, [a]charity, these three; but the greatest of these is charity.

CHAPTER 14.

Prophecy is the greatest of the gifts.

FOLLOW after [h]charity, and desire spiritual gifts, but [1]rather that ye may prophesy.

2 For he that speaketh in [i]an unknown tongue speaketh not unto men, but unto God: for no man [j]understandeth him; howbeit in the spirit he speaketh mysteries.

3 But he that prophesieth speaketh unto men to edification, and exhortation, and comfort.

4 He that speaketh in an unknown tongue edifieth himself; but he that prophesieth edifieth the church.

5 I would that ye all spake with tongues, but rather that ye prophesied: for greater is he that prophesieth than he that speaketh with tongues, except he interpret, that the [k]church may receive edifying.

6 Now, brethren, if I come unto you speaking with tongues, what shall I profit you, except I shall speak to you either by revelation, or by knowledge, or by prophesying, or by doctrine?

7 And even things without life giving sound, whether pipe or harp, except they give a distinction in the sounds, how shall it be known what is piped or harped?

8 For if the trumpet give an uncertain sound, who shall prepare himself to the battle?

9 So likewise ye, except ye utter by the tongue words easy to be understood, how shall it be known what is spoken? for ye shall speak into the air.

10 There are, it may be, so many kinds of voices in the [l]world, and none of them is without signification.

11 Therefore if I know not the meaning of the voice, I shall be unto him that speaketh a barbarian, and he that speaketh shall be a barbarian unto me.

12 Even so ye, forasmuch as ye are zealous of spiritual gifts, seek that ye may excel to the [m]edifying of the church.

13 Wherefore let him that speaketh in an unknown tongue pray that he may interpret.

14 For if I pray in an unknown tongue, my spirit prayeth, but my understanding is unfruitful.

15 What is it then? I will pray with the spirit, and I will pray [n]with the understanding also: I will [a]sing with the spirit, and I will sing with the understanding also.

[1] The subject is still the pneumatika. Chapter xii. described the gifts and the Body; Chapter xiii. the love which alone gives ministry of gift any value; Chapter xiv. regulates the ministry of gift in the primitive, apostolic assembly of saints. (1) The important gift is that of prophecy (v. 1). The N.T. prophet was not merely a preacher, but an inspired preacher, through whom, until the N.T. was written, new revelations suited to the new dispensation were given (1 Cor. xiv. 29, 30). (2) Tongues and the sign gifts are to cease, and meantime must be used with restraint, and only if an interpreter be present (vs. 1-19, 27, 28). (3) In the primitive church there was liberty for the ministry of all the gifts which might be present, but for prophecy more especially (vs. 23-26, 31, 39). (4) In such meetings, when "the whole church" came together "in one place," women were required to keep silence (vs. 34, 35; cf. 1 Cor. xi. 3-16; 1 Tim. ii. 11-14). (5) These injunctions are declared to be "the commandments of the Lord" (vs. 36, 37).

16 Else when thou shalt bless with the [b]spirit, how shall he that occupieth the room of the unlearned say Amen at thy giving of thanks, seeing he understandeth not what thou sayest?

17 For thou verily givest thanks well, but the other is not edified.

18 I thank my God, I speak with tongues more than ye all:

19 Yet in the church I had rather speak five words with my understanding, that by my voice I might teach others also, than ten thousand words in an unknown tongue.

20 Brethren, be not [c]children in understanding: howbeit in malice be ye [d]children, but in understanding be men.

21 In the law it is written, [e]With men of other tongues and other lips will I speak unto this people; and yet for all that will they not hear me, saith the Lord.

22 Wherefore tongues are for a [f]sign, not to them that believe, but to them that believe not: but prophesying serveth not for them that believe not, but for them which believe.

The order of the ministry of gift in the local church.

23 If therefore the whole church be come together into one place, and all speak with tongues, and there come in those that are unlearned, or unbelievers, will they not say that [g]ye are mad?

24 But if all prophesy, and there come in one that believeth not, or one unlearned, he is convinced of all, he is judged of all:

25 And thus are the secrets of his heart made manifest; and so falling down on his face he will worship [h]God, and report that God is in you of a truth.

26 How is it then, brethren? when ye come together, every one of you hath a psalm, hath a doctrine, hath a tongue, hath a revelation, hath an interpretation. [i]Let all things be done unto edifying.

27 If any man speak in an unknown tongue, let it be by two, or at the most by three, and that [j]by course; and let one interpret.

28 But if there be no interpreter, let him keep silence in the church; and let him speak to himself, and to God.

29 [k]Let the prophets speak two or three, and let the other judge.

30 If any thing be revealed to another that sitteth by, let the first hold his peace.

31 For ye may all prophesy one by one, that all may learn, and all may be comforted.

32 And the spirits of the prophets are [l]subject to the prophets.

33 For God is not the author of confusion, but of peace, as in all churches of the saints.

34 Let your women keep silence in the churches: for it is not permitted unto them to speak; [p]but they are commanded to be under [m]obedience, as also saith the law.

35 And if they will learn any thing, let them ask [n]their husbands at home: for it is a shame for women to speak in the [o]church.

36 What? [p]came the word of God out from you? or came it unto you only?

37 If any man [q]think himself to be a prophet, or spiritual, let him acknowledge that the things that I write unto you [r]are the commandments of the Lord.

38 But if any man be ignorant, let him be ignorant.

39 Wherefore, brethren, covet to prophesy, and forbid not to speak with tongues.

40 Let all things be done decently and in order.

2 By which also ye are [t]saved, if ye [u]keep in memory what I preached unto you, unless ye have believed in vain.

3 For I delivered unto you first of all that which I also received, how that Christ died for our [v]sins according to the scriptures;

4 And that he was buried, and that he rose again the third day according to the scriptures:

5 And that he was seen of Cephas, [w]then of the twelve:

five hundred brethren at once; of whom the greater part remain unto this present, but some are fallen asleep.

7 After that, he was seen of James; then of all the apostles.

8 And last of all he was seen of me also, as of one [1]born out of due time.

9 For I am the least of the apostles, that am not meet to be called an apostle, because I persecuted the [a]church [b]of God.

10 But by the [c]grace of God I am what I am: and his grace which was bestowed upon me was not in vain; but I laboured more abundantly than they all: yet not I, but the grace of God which was with me.

11 Therefore whether it were I or they, so we preach, and so ye believed.

(2) The importance of Christ's resurrection.

12 Now if Christ be preached that he rose from the dead, [d]how say some among you that there is no resurrection of the dead?

13 But if there be no resurrection of the dead, then is Christ not risen:

14 And if Christ be not risen, then is our preaching vain, and your faith is also vain.

15 Yea, and we are found false witnesses of God; because we have testified of God that he raised up Christ: whom he raised not up, if so be that the dead rise not.

16 For if the dead rise not, then is not Christ raised:

17 And if Christ be not raised, your [e]faith is vain; ye are yet in your [f]sins.

18 Then they also which are fallen asleep in Christ are perished.

19 If in this life only we have hope in Christ, we are of all men most [g]miserable.

(3) The order of the resurrections.

20 But now is Christ risen from the dead, and become the firstfruits of them that slept.

21 For since by man came [h]death, by man came also the resurrection of the dead.

22 For as in [2]Adam all die, even so in Christ shall all [i]be made alive.

23 But every man in his own order: [j]Christ the firstfruits; afterward they that [i]are Christ's at his coming.

24 [k]Then cometh the end, when he shall have delivered up the [3]kingdom to God, even the Father; when he shall have put down all rule and all authority and power.

25 For he must reign, till he hath put all enemies under his feet.

[1]Gr. to ektromati, "before the due time." Paul thinks of himself here as an Israelite whose time to be born again had not come, nationally (cf. Mt. xxiii. 39), so that his conversion by the appearing of the Lord in glory (Acts ix. 3-6) was an illustration, or instance before the time, of the future national conversion of Israel. See Ezk. xx. 35-38; Hos. ii. 14-17; Zech. xii. 10-xiii. 6; Rom. xi. 25-27.

[2]Adam was a contrasting type of Christ (vs. 45-47; cf. Rom. v. 14-19). (1) "The first man Adam was made a living soul" (Gen. ii. 7), i.e. he derived life from another, that is, God. "The last Adam was a life-giving spirit." So far from deriving life, He was Himself the fountain of life, and He gave that life to others (John i. 4; v. 21; x. 10; xii. 24; 1 John v. 12). (2) In origin the first man was of the earth, earthy; the Second Man is the Lord from heaven. (3) Each is the head of a creation, and these also are in contrast: in Adam all die; in Christ all will be made alive; the Adamic creation is "flesh"; the new creation, "spirit" (John iii. 6).

[3]Kingdom (N.T.), Summary: See "Kingdom (O.T.)" (Gen. i. 26-28; Zech. xii. 8, note). Kingdom truth is developed in the N.T. in the following order: (1) The promise of the kingdom to David and his seed, and described in the prophets (2 Sam. vii. 8-17, refs.; Zech. xii. 8), enters the N.T. absolutely unchanged (Lk. i. 31-33). The King was born in Bethlehem (Mt. ii. 1; Mic. v. 2), of a virgin (Mt. i. 18-25; Isa. vii. 14). (2) The kingdom announced as "at hand" (Mt. iv. 17, note) by John the Baptist, by the King, and by the Twelve, was rejected by the Jews, first morally (Mt. xi. 20, note), and afterward officially (Mt. xxi. 42, 43), and the King, crowned with thorns, was crucified. (3) In anticipation of His official rejection and crucifixion, the King revealed the "mysteries" of the kingdom of heaven (Mt. xiii. 11, note) to be fulfilled in the interval between His rejection and His return in glory (Mt. xiii. 1-50). (4) Afterward He announced His purpose to "build" His church (Mt. xvi. 18, refs.), another "mystery" revealed through Paul which is being fulfilled contemporaneously with the mysteries of the kingdom. The "mysteries of the kingdom of heaven" and 26 The last enemy that shall be destroyed is death.

27 For he hath put all things under his feet. But when he saith [a]all things are put under him, it is manifest that he is excepted, which did put all things under him.
28 And when all things shall be subdued unto him, [b]then shall the Son also himself be subject unto him that put all things under him, that God may be all in all.
29 Else what shall they do which are baptized for the [c]dead, if the dead rise not at all? why are they then baptized for the dead?
30 And why stand we in jeopardy every hour?
31 I protest by your [d]rejoicing which I have in Christ Jesus our Lord, I [e]die daily.
32 If [f]after the manner of men I have fought with beasts at Ephesus, what advantageth it me, if the dead rise not? [g]let us eat and drink; for to morrow we die.
33 Be not deceived: [h]evil communications corrupt good manners.
34 [i]Awake to righteousness, and [j]sin not; for some have not the knowledge of God: I speak this to your shame.

(4) The method of resurrection.

35 But some man will say, [k]How are the dead raised up? and with what body do they come?
36 Thou fool, that which thou sowest is not quickened, except it die:
37 And that which thou sowest, thou sowest not that body that shall be, but bare grain, it may chance of wheat, or of some other grain:
38 But God giveth it a body as it hath pleased him, and to every seed his own body.
39 All flesh is not the same flesh: but there is one kind of flesh of men, another flesh of beasts, another of fishes, and another of birds.
40 There are also celestial bodies, and bodies terrestrial: but the glory of the celestial is one, and the glory of the terrestrial is another.
41 There is one glory of the sun, and another glory of the moon, and another glory of the stars: for one star differeth from another star in glory.
42 So also is the resurrection of the dead. It is sown in corruption; it is raised in incorruption:
43 It is [l]sown in dishonour; it is raised in glory: it is sown in weakness; [m]it is raised in power:
44 It is sown a natural body; it is raised a spiritual body. There is a natural body, and there is a spiritual body.
45 And so it is written, [n]The first man Adam [o]was made a living soul; the last Adam [p]was made a [q]quickening spirit.
46 Howbeit that was not first which is spiritual, but that which is natural; and afterward that which is spiritual.
47 The first man is of the earth, earthy: the second man is the Lord from heaven.
48 As is the earthy, such are they also that are earthy: and as is the heavenly, such are they also that are heavenly.
49 And as we have borne the image of the earthy, we shall [r]also bear the image of the heavenly.
50 Now this I say, brethren, that flesh and blood cannot inherit the kingdom of God; neither doth corruption inherit incorruption.

(5) All believers will not die. (Cf. 1 Thes. 4. 14-17.)

the "mystery" of the church (Eph. iii. 9-11) occupy, historically, the same period, i.e. this present age. (5) The mysteries of the kingdom will be brought to an end by the "harvest" (Mt. xiii. 39-43, 49, 50) at the return of the King in glory, the church having previously been caught up to meet Him in the air (1 Thes. iv. 14-17). (6) Upon His return the King will restore the Davidic monarchy in His own person, re-gather dispersed Israel, establish His power over all the earth, and reign one thousand years (Mt. xxiv. 27-30; Lk. i. 31-33; Acts xv. 14-17; Rev. xx. 1-10). (7) The kingdom of heaven (Mt. iii. 2, note), thus established under David's divine Son, has for its object the restoration of the divine authority in the earth, which may be regarded as a revolted province of the great kingdom of God (Mt. vi. 33, note). When this is done (vs. 24, 25) the Son will deliver up the kingdom (of heaven, Mt. iii. 2) to "God, even the Father," that "God" (i.e. the triune God, Father, Son, and Holy Spirit) "may be all in all" (v. 28). The eternal throne is that "of God, and of the Lamb" (Rev. xxii. 1). The kingdom-age constitutes the seventh Dispensation (Eph. i. 10, note).

trumpet shall sound, and the dead shall be [1a]raised incorruptible, and we shall be changed.

53 For this corruptible must put on incorruption, and this mortal must put on immortality.

(6) The final victory over death.

54 So when this corruptible shall have put on incorruption, and this mortal shall have put on immortality, then shall be brought to pass the saying that is written, [b]Death is swallowed up in victory.

55 [c]O death, where is thy sting? O [d]grave, where is thy victory?

56 The sting of death is [e]sin; and the strength of sin is the [f]law.

57 But thanks be to God, which giveth us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ.

(7) The ultimate victory a motive to service.

58 Therefore, my beloved brethren, be ye stedfast, unmoveable, always abounding in the work of the Lord, forasmuch as ye know that your labour is not in vain in the Lord.

CHAPTER 16.

Part IX. Closing instructions and greetings.

NOW concerning the collection for the saints, as I have given order to the churches of Galatia, even so do ye.

2 Upon the first day of the week let every one of you lay by him in store, [g]as God hath prospered him, that there be no [h]gatherings when I come.

3 And when I come, whomsoever ye shall approve [i]by your letters, them will I send to bring your liberality unto Jerusalem.

4 And if it be meet that I go also, they shall go with me.

5 Now I will come unto [j]you, when I shall pass through Macedonia: for I do pass through Macedonia.

6 And it may be that I will abide, yea, and winter with you, that ye may bring me on my journey whithersoever I go.

7 For I will not see you now by the way; but I [k]trust to tarry a while with you, [l]if the Lord permit.

8 But I will tarry at Ephesus until Pentecost.

9 For a great door and effectual is opened unto me, and there are many [m]adversaries.

10 Now if [n]Timotheus come, see that he may be with you without fear: for he [o]worketh the work of the Lord, as I also do.

11 Let no man therefore [p]despise him: but conduct him forth in peace, that he may come unto me: for I look for him with the brethren.

12 As touching our brother [q]Apollos, I greatly desired him to come unto you with the brethren: but his will was not at all to come at this time; but he will come when he shall have convenient time.

[1] Resurrection, Summary: (1) The resurrection of the dead was believed by the patriarchs (Gen. xxii. 5 with Heb. xi. 19; Job xix. 25-27), and revealed through the prophets (Isa. xxvi. 19; Dan. xii. 2, 13; Hos. xiii. 14), and miracles of the dead restored to life are recorded in the O.T. (2 Ki. iv. 32-35; xiii. 21). (2) Jesus Christ restored life to the dead (Mt. ix. 25; Lk. vii. 12-15; John xi. 43, 44), and predicted His own resurrection (John x. 18; Lk. xxiv. 1-8). (3) A resurrection of bodies followed the resurrection of Christ (Mt. xxvii. 52, 53); and the apostles raised the dead (Acts ix. 36-41; xx. 9, 10). (4) Two resurrections are yet future, which are inclusive of "all that are in the graves" (John v. 28). These are distinguished as "of life" (1 Cor. xv. 22, 23; 1 Thes. iv. 14-17; Rev. xx. 4), and "of judgment" (John v. 28, 29; Rev. xx. 11-13). They are separated by a period of one thousand years (Rev. xx. 5). The "first resurrection," that "unto life," will occur at the second coming of Christ (1 Cor. xv. 23), the saints of the O.T. and church ages meeting Him in the air (1 Thes. iv. 16, 17); while the martyrs of the tribulation, who also have part in the first resurrection (Rev. xx. 4), are raised at the end of the great tribulation. (5) The mortal body will be related to the resurrection body as grain sown is related to the harvest (1 Cor. xv. 37, 38); that body will be incorruptible, glorious, powerful, and spiritual (1 Cor. xv. 42-44, 49). (6) The bodies of living believers will, at the same time, be instantaneously changed (1 Cor. xv. 50-53; Phil. iii. 20, 21). This "change" of the living, and resurrection of the dead in Christ, is called the "redemption of the body" (Rom. viii. 23; Eph. i. 13, 14). (7) After the thousand years the "resurrection unto judgment" (John v. 29) occurs. The resurrection-body of the wicked dead is not described. They are judged according to their works, and cast into the lake of fire (Rev. xx. 7-15).

15 I beseech you, brethren, (ye know the house of Stephanas, that it is the [d]firstfruits of Achaia, and that they have addicted themselves to the ministry of the saints,)
16 That ye [e]submit yourselves unto such, and to every one that helpeth with us, and laboureth.
17 I am glad of the [f]coming of Stephanas and Fortunatus and Achaicus: for that which was [g]lacking on your part they have supplied.
18 For they have refreshed my spirit and your's: therefore acknowledge ye them that are such.
19 The churches of Asia salute you. Aquila and Priscilla salute you much in the Lord, with the [h]church that is in their house.

WRITER. The Apostle Paul (i. 1).

Date. A.D. 60; probably from Philippi, after the events of Acts xix. 23-xx. 1-3.

Theme. The Epistle discloses the touching state of the great apostle at this time. It was one of physical weakness, weariness, and pain. But his spiritual burdens were greater. These were of two kinds—solicitude for the maintenance of the churches in grace as against the law-teachers, and anguish of heart over the distrust felt toward him by Jews and Jewish Christians. The chilling doctrines of the legalizers were accompanied by detraction, and by denial of his apostleship.

It is evident that the really dangerous sect in Corinth was that which said, "and I of Christ" (1 Cor. i. 12). They rejected the new revelation through Paul of the doctrines of grace; grounding themselves, probably, on the kingdom teachings of our Lord as "a minister of the circumcision" (Rom. xv. 8); seemingly oblivious that a new dispensation had been introduced by Christ's death. This made necessary a defence of the origin and extent of Paul's apostolic authority.

The Epistle is in three parts: I. Paul's principles of action, i. 1-vii. 16. II. The collection for the poor saints at Jerusalem, viii. 1-ix. 15. III. Paul's defence of his apostolic authority, x. 1-xiii. 14.

CHAPTER 1.

Part I. Paul's principles of action (2 Cor. i. 1-7. 16).

(1) The explanation.

PAUL, an apostle of Jesus Christ by the will of God, and [a]Timothy our brother, unto the church of God which is at Corinth, with all the [b]saints which are in all Achaia:

2 Grace be to you and peace from God our Father, and from the Lord Jesus Christ.

3 Blessed be [c]God, even the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, the Father of [d]mercies, and the God of all [e]comfort;

4 Who [f]comforteth us in all our tribulation, that we may be able to comfort them which are in any trouble, by the comfort wherewith we ourselves are comforted of God.

5 For as the sufferings of Christ abound in us, so our consolation also aboundeth by Christ.

6 And whether we be afflicted, it is for your consolation and [g]salvation, which is [h]effectual in the enduring of the same sufferings which we also suffer: or whether we be comforted, it is for your consolation and salvation.

7 And our hope of you is stedfast, knowing, that [i]as ye are partakers of the sufferings, so shall ye be also of the consolation.

8 For we would not, brethren, have you ignorant of [j]our trouble which came to us in Asia, that we were pressed out of measure, above strength, insomuch that we despaired even of life:

9 But we had the sentence of death in ourselves, that we should not [k]trust in ourselves, but in God which raiseth the dead:

10 Who delivered us from so great a [l]death, and doth deliver: in whom we [m]trust that he will yet [n]deliver us;

11 Ye also helping together by prayer for us, that for the gift bestowed upon us by the means of many persons thanks may be given by many on our behalf.

12 For our rejoicing is this, the [o]testimony of our conscience, that in simplicity and godly sincerity, not with fleshly wisdom, but by [p]the grace of God, we have had our conversation in the [q]world, and more abundantly to you-ward.

13 For we write none other things unto you, than what ye read or acknowledge; and I [m]trust ye shall acknowledge even to the end;

14 As also ye have acknowledged us in part, that we are your rejoicing, even as ye also are our's in the [r]day of the Lord Jesus.

15 And in this confidence I was minded to come unto you before, that ye might have a second benefit;

16 And to pass by you into Macedonia, and to come again out of Macedonia unto you, and of you to be brought [a]on my way toward Judæa.

17 When I therefore was thus minded, did I use lightness? or the things that I purpose, do I purpose according to the [b]flesh, that with me there should be yea yea, and nay nay?

18 But as God is true, our word toward you was not yea and nay.

19 For the [c]Son of God, Jesus Christ, who was preached among you by us, even by me and Silvanus and Timotheus, was not yea and nay, but in him was yea.

20 For all the promises of God [d]in him are yea, and in him Amen, unto the glory of God by us.

21 Now he which stablisheth us with you in Christ, and hath [e]anointed us, is God;

22 Who hath also sealed us, and given the earnest of the [f]Spirit in our hearts.

23 Moreover I call God for a record upon my soul, that to spare you I came not as yet unto Corinth.

24 Not for that we have dominion over your faith, but are helpers of your joy: for by faith ye stand.

CHAPTER 2.

The explanation, continued.

BUT I determined this with myself, that I would not come again to you in [g]heaviness.

2 For if I make you sorry, who is he then that maketh me glad, but the same which is made sorry by me?

3 And I wrote this same unto you, lest, when I came, I should have sorrow from them of whom I ought to rejoice; having confidence in you all, that my joy is the joy of you all.

4 For out of much affliction and anguish of heart I wrote unto you with many tears; not that ye should be grieved, but that ye might know the love which I have more abundantly unto you.

5 But if any have caused grief, he hath not grieved me, but in part: that I may not overcharge you all.

6 Sufficient to such a man is this [h]punishment, which was [i]inflicted of many.

7 So that contrariwise ye ought rather to [j]forgive him, and comfort him, lest perhaps such a one should be swallowed up with overmuch sorrow.

8 Wherefore I beseech you that ye would confirm your love toward him.

9 For to this end also did I write, that I might know the proof of you, whether ye be obedient in all things.

10 To whom ye forgive any thing, I forgive also: for if I forgave any thing, to whom [k]I forgave it, for your sakes forgave I it in the person of Christ;

11 Lest [l]Satan should get an advantage of us: for we are not ignorant of his devices.

12 Furthermore, when I came to Troas to preach Christ's [m]gospel, and a door was opened unto me of the Lord,

13 I had no rest in my spirit, because I found not Titus my brother: but taking my leave of them, I went from thence into Macedonia.

(2) The ministry (to 6. 10): (a) triumphant.

14 Now thanks be unto God, which always [n]causeth us to triumph in Christ, and maketh manifest the savour of his knowledge by us in every place.

15 For we are unto God a sweet savour of Christ, in them that are [o]saved, and in them that [p]perish:

16 To the one we are the savour of death unto death; and to the other the savour of life unto [q]life. And who is sufficient for these things?

17 For we are not as many, which [r]corrupt the word of God: but as of sincerity, but as of God, in the sight of God speak we in Christ.

CHAPTER 3.

The ministry: (b) accredited.

DO we begin again to commend ourselves? or need we, as some others, epistles of commendation to you, or letters of commendation from you?

2 Ye are our epistle written in our hearts, known and read of all men:

3 Forasmuch as ye are manifestly declared to be the epistle of Christ ministered by us, written not with ink, but with the [s]Spirit of the living God; not [t]in tables of stone, but in [u]fleshy tables of the heart.

4 And such trust have we through Christ to God-ward:

[u] Jer. 31. 33; Ezk. 11. 19.

5 Not that we are sufficient of ourselves to think any thing as of ourselves; but our sufficiency is of God;

The ministry: (c) spiritual and glorious—not legal.

6 Who also hath made us [a]able ministers of the new testament; not of the letter, but of the spirit: [b]for the letter killeth, but the spirit giveth life.

7 But if the ministration of death, written and engraven in stones, [c]was glorious, so that the children of Israel could not stedfastly behold the face of Moses for the glory of his countenance; which glory was to be done away:

8 How shall not the ministration of the spirit be rather glorious?

9 For if the ministration of condemnation be glory, much more doth the ministration of [d]righteousness exceed in glory.

10 For even that which was made glorious had no glory in this respect, by reason of the [e]glory that excelleth.

11 For if that which is done away was glorious, much more that which remaineth is glorious.

12 Seeing then that we have such hope, we use great [f]plainness of speech.

13 And not as [g]Moses, which put a vail over his face, that the children of Israel could not stedfastly look to the end of that which is [h]abolished:

14 But their minds were blinded: for until this day remaineth the same vail untaken away in the reading of the old testament; which vail is done away in Christ.

15 But even unto this day, when Moses is read, [i]the vail is upon their heart.

16 Nevertheless when [j]it shall turn to the [k]Lord, the vail shall be taken away.

17 Now the Lord is that Spirit: and where the Spirit of the Lord is, there is liberty.

18 But we all, with [l]open face beholding as in a glass the glory of the [m]Lord, are [n]changed into the same image from glory to glory, even as by the Spirit of the Lord.

(Because the truth taught is commended by the life.)

2 But have renounced the hidden things of dishonesty, not walking in craftiness, nor handling the word of God deceitfully; but by manifestation of the truth commending ourselves to every man's conscience in the sight of God.

(Because not self but Christ Jesus as Lord is preached.)

3 But if our [o]gospel be [p]hid, it is hid to them that are lost:

4 In whom [q]the god of this [r]world hath blinded the minds of them which believe not, lest the [s]light of the glorious gospel of Christ, who is the image of God, should shine unto them.

5 For we preach not ourselves, but Christ Jesus the Lord; and ourselves your [t]servants for Jesus' sake.

6 For God, who commanded the light to shine out of darkness, hath shined in our hearts, to give the light of the knowledge of the glory of God in the face of Jesus Christ.

(Because the power is of God alone. Cf. 1 Cor. 2. 1-5.)

7 But we have this treasure in earthen vessels, that the excellency of the power may be of God, and not of us.

The ministry: (e) suffering.

8 We are troubled on every side, yet not distressed; we are perplexed, but not in despair;

9 Persecuted, but not forsaken; cast down, but not destroyed;

10 Always bearing about in the body the [u]dying of the Lord Jesus, that the [v]life also of Jesus might be made manifest in our body.

11 For we which live are alway delivered unto death for Jesus' sake, that the life also of Jesus might be made manifest in our mortal flesh.

12 So then death worketh in us, but life in you.

13 We having the same [w]spirit of faith, according as it is written, [x]I believed, and therefore have I spoken; we also believe, and therefore speak;

14 Knowing that he which raised up the Lord Jesus shall raise up us also by Jesus, and shall present us with you.

15 For all things are for your sakes, that the [y]abundant grace might through the thanksgiving of many redound to the glory of God.

16 For which cause we faint not; but though our outward man perish, yet the [a]inward man is renewed day by day.

17 For our [b]light affliction, which is but for a moment, worketh for us a far more exceeding and eternal weight of glory;

18 While we look not at the things which are seen, but at the things which are [c]not seen: for the things which are seen are temporal; but the things which are not seen are eternal.

CHAPTER 5.

(Why death itself has no terrors for the servant of the Lord.)

FOR we know that if our earthly [d]house of this tabernacle were dissolved, we have a building of God, an house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens.

2 For in this we groan, earnestly desiring to be clothed upon with our house which is from heaven:

3 If so be that being clothed we shall not be found naked.

4 For we that are in this tabernacle do groan, being burdened: not for that we would be unclothed, but clothed upon, that mortality might be swallowed up of [e]life.

5 Now he that hath wrought us for the selfsame thing is God, who also hath given unto us the earnest of the [f]Spirit.

6 Therefore we are always confident, knowing that, whilst we are at home in the body, we are absent from the Lord:

7 (For we walk by [g]faith, not by sight:)

8 We are confident, I say, and willing rather to be [h]absent from the body, and to be present with the Lord.

9 Wherefore we [i]labour, that, whether present or absent, we may be [j]accepted of him.

10 [1]For we must all [k]appear before the [l]judgment seat of Christ; that every one may receive the things done in his body, according to that he hath done, whether it be good or bad.

11 Knowing therefore the terror of the Lord, we persuade men; but we are made manifest unto God; and I [m]trust also are made manifest in your consciences.

12 For we commend not ourselves again unto you, but give you occasion to glory on our behalf, that ye may have somewhat to answer them which glory in appearance, and not in heart.

13 For whether we be beside ourselves, it is to God: or whether we be sober, it is for your cause.

The ministry: (f) motive and object.

14 For the [n]love of Christ constraineth us; because we thus judge, that if one died for all, then were all dead:

15 And that he died for all, that they which live should [o]not henceforth live unto themselves, but unto him which died for them, and rose again.

16 Wherefore henceforth know we no man after the [p]flesh: yea, though we have known Christ after the flesh, yet now henceforth [q]know we him no more.

17 Therefore if any man be in Christ, he is a new [r]creature: old things are passed away; behold, all things are become new.

18 And all things are of God, who hath reconciled us to himself by Jesus Christ, and hath given to us the ministry of [s]reconciliation;

19 To wit, that God was in Christ, reconciling the [t]world unto himself, not [u]imputing their [v]trespasses unto them; and hath committed unto us the word of [s]reconciliation.

20 Now then we are ambassadors for Christ, as though God did beseech you by us: we pray you in Christ's stead, be ye [s]reconciled to God.

21 For he hath made [w]him to be

[1] The judgment of the believer's works, not sins, is in question here. These have been atoned for, and are "remembered no more forever" (Heb. x. 17); but every work must come into judgment (Mt. xii. 36; Rom. xiv. 10; Gal. vi. 7; Eph. vi. 8; Col. iii. 24, 25). The result is "reward" or "loss" (of the reward), "but he himself shall be saved" (1 Cor. iii. 11-15). This judgment occurs at the return of Christ (Mt. xvi. 27; Lk. xiv. 14; 1 Cor. iv. 5; 2 Tim. iv. 8; Rev. xxii. 12). See other judgments, John xii. 31, note; 1 Cor. xi. 31, note; Mt. xxv. 32, note; Ezk. xx. 37, note; Jude 6, note; Rev. xx. 12, note.

The ministry: (g) summary.

WE then, as [d] workers together with him, beseech you also that ye receive not the [e] grace of God in vain.

2 (For he saith, [f] I have heard thee in a time accepted, and in the day of salvation have I succoured thee: behold, now is the accepted time; behold, now is the day of [g] salvation.)

3 Giving no offence in any thing, that the ministry be not blamed:

4 But in all things [h] approving ourselves as the [i] ministers of God, in much patience, in afflictions, in necessities, in distresses,

5 In stripes, in imprisonments, in tumults, in labours, in watchings, in fastings;

6 By pureness, by knowledge, by longsuffering, by kindness, by the [j] Holy Ghost, by love unfeigned,

7 By the word of truth, by the power of God, by the armour of [k] righteousness on the right hand and on the left,

8 By honour and dishonour, by evil report and good report: [l] as deceivers, and yet true;

9 As unknown, and yet well known; as dying, and, behold, we live; as chastened, and not killed;

10 As sorrowful, yet alway rejoicing; as poor, yet making many rich; as having nothing, and yet [m] possessing all things.

11 O ye Corinthians, our mouth is open unto you, our heart is enlarged.

12 Ye are not straitened in us, but ye are straitened in your own bowels.

13 Now for a recompence in the same, (I speak as unto my children,) be ye also enlarged.

14 Be ye not [n] unequally yoked together with unbelievers: for what fellowship hath [o] righteousness with [p] unrighteousness? and what communion hath light with darkness?

15 And what concord hath Christ with Belial? or what part hath he that believeth with an [q] infidel?

16 And what agreement hath the [r] temple of God with idols? for ye are the temple of the living God; as God hath said, I will dwell in them, and walk in them; and I will be their God, and they shall be my people.

17 [s] Wherefore [t] come out from among them, and be ye [u] separate, saith the Lord, and touch not the unclean thing; and I will receive you,

18 And will [v] be a Father unto you, and ye shall be my sons and daughters, saith the Lord Almighty.

CHAPTER 7.

HAVING therefore these promises, dearly beloved, let us cleanse ourselves from all filthiness of the [w] flesh and spirit, [x] perfecting holiness in the fear of God.

2 Receive us; we have wronged

[1] Separation, Summary: (1) Separation in Scripture is twofold: "from" whatever is contrary to the mind of God; and "unto" God Himself. The underlying principle is that in a moral universe it is impossible for God to fully bless and use His children who are in compromise or complicity with evil. The unequal yoke is anything which unites a child of God and an unbeliever in a common purpose (Deut. xxii. 10). (2) Separation from evil implies (a) separation in desire, motive, and act, from the world, in the ethically bad sense of this present world-system (see Rev. xiii. 8, note); and (b) separation from believers, especially false teachers, who are "vessels unto dishonour" (2 Tim. ii. 20, 21; 2 John 9-11). (3) Separation is not from contact with evil in the world or the church, but from complicity with and conformity to it (John xvii. 15; 2 Cor. vi. 14-18; Gal. vi. 1). (4) The reward of separation is the full manifestation of the divine fatherhood (2 Cor. vi. 17, 18); unhindered communion and worship (see Heb. xiii. 13-15), and fruitful service (2 Tim. ii. 21), as world-conformity involves the loss of these, though not of salvation. Here, as in all else, Christ is the model. He was "holy, harmless, undefiled, and separate from sinners" (Heb. vii. 26), and yet in such contact with them for their salvation that the Pharisees, who illustrate the mechanical and ascetic conception of separation (Mt. iii. 7, note), judged Him as having lost His Nazarite character (Lk. vii. 39). Cf. 1 Cor. ix. 19-23; x. 27.

no man, we have corrupted no man, we have defrauded no man.

3 I speak not this to condemn you: for I have said before, that ye are in our hearts to die and live with you.

4 Great is my boldness of speech toward you, great is my glorying of you: I am filled with comfort, I am exceeding joyful in all our tribulation.

5 For, when we were come into Macedonia, our flesh had no rest, but we were troubled on every side; without were fightings, within were fears.

6 Nevertheless God, that [a]comforteth those that are cast down, comforted us by the coming of Titus;

7 And not by his coming only, but by the consolation wherewith he was comforted in you, when he told us your earnest desire, your mourning, your fervent mind toward me; so that I rejoiced the more.

8 For though I made you sorry with a letter, I do not [b]repent, though I did repent: for I perceive that the same epistle hath made you sorry, though it were but for a season.

9 Now I rejoice, not that ye were made sorry, but that ye sorrowed to [c]repentance: for ye were made sorry after a godly manner, that ye might receive damage by us in nothing.

10 For godly [d]sorrow worketh repentance to [e]salvation [f]not to be repented of: but the sorrow of the [g]world worketh death.

11 For behold this selfsame thing, that ye sorrowed after a godly sort, what carefulness it wrought in you, yea, what [h]clearing of yourselves, yea, what indignation, yea, what fear, yea, what vehement desire, yea, what zeal, yea, what revenge! In all things ye have approved yourselves to be clear in this matter.

12 Wherefore, though I wrote unto you, I did it not for his cause that had done the wrong, nor for his cause that suffered wrong, but that our care for you in the sight of God might appear unto you.

13 Therefore we were comforted in your comfort: yea, and exceedingly the more joyed we for the joy of Titus, because his spirit was refreshed by you all.

14 For if I have boasted any thing to him of you, I am not ashamed; but as we spake all things to you in truth, even so our boasting, which I made before Titus, is found a truth.

15 And his inward affection is more abundant toward you, whilst he remembereth the obedience of you all, how with fear and trembling ye received him.

16 I rejoice therefore that I have confidence in you in all things.

Part II. The collection for the poor (2 Cor. 8. 1–9. 15).

(1) The example of Macedonia.

1 MOREOVER, brethren, we do you to wit of the grace of God bestowed on the churches of Macedonia;

2 How that in a great trial of affliction the [i]abundance of their joy and their deep poverty abounded unto the riches of their liberality.

3 For to their power, I bear record, yea, and beyond their power they were willing of themselves;

4 Praying us with much intreaty [j]that we would receive the gift, and take upon us the fellowship of the ministering to the saints.

5 And this they did, not as we hoped, [k]but first gave their own selves to the Lord, and unto us by the will of God.

6 Insomuch that we desired Titus, that as he had begun, so he would also finish in you the same [l]grace also.

(2) The exhortation.

7 Therefore, as ye abound in every thing, in faith, and utterance, and knowledge, and in all diligence, and in your love to us, see that ye abound in this grace also.

[1] In 2 Cor. viii., ix., the apostle sums up the Christian doctrine of giving. It may be thus summarized: (1) It is a "grace," i.e. a disposition created by the Spirit (viii. 7). (2) In contrast with the law, which imposed giving as a divine requirement, Christian giving is voluntary, and a test of sincerity and love (viii. 8–12; ix. 1, 2, 5, 7). (3) The privilege is universal, belonging, according to ability, to rich and poor (viii. 1–3, 12–15. Cf. 1 Cor. xvi. 1, 2). (4) Giving is to be proportioned to income (viii. 12–14. Cf. 1 Cor. xvi. 2). The O.T. proportion was the tithe, a proportion which antedates the law (Gen. xiv. 20). (5) The rewards of Christian giving are (a) joy (viii. 2); (b) increased ability to give in proportion to that which has been already given (ix. 7–11); (c) increased thankfulness to God (ix. 12); (d) God and the gospel glorified (ix. 13, 14).

8 I [a]speak not by commandment, but by occasion of the forwardness of others, and to prove the sincerity of your love.

9 For ye know the [b]grace of our Lord Jesus Christ, that, though he was rich, yet for your sakes he became [c]poor, that ye through his poverty might be [d]rich.

10 And herein I give my advice: for this is expedient for you, who have begun before, not only to do, but also to be forward a year ago.

11 Now therefore [e]perform the doing of it; that as there was a readiness tc will, so there may be a [f]performance also out of that which ye have.

12 For if there be first a [g]willing mind, it is accepted according to that a man hath, and not according to that he hath not.

13 For I mean not that other men be eased, and ye burdened:

14 But by an equality, that now at this time your abundance may be a supply for their want, that their abundance also may be a supply for your want: that there may be equality:

15 As it is written, [h]He that had gathered much had nothing over; and he that had gathered little had no lack.

(3) The messengers.

16 But thanks be to God, which put the same earnest care into the heart of Titus for you.

17 For indeed he accepted the exhortation; but being [i]more forward, [j]of his own accord he went unto you.

18 And we have sent with him the brother, whose praise is in the [k]gospel throughout all the churches;

19 And not that only, but who was also chosen of the churches to travel with us with [l]this grace, which is administered by us to the glory of the same Lord, and [m]declaration of your ready mind:

20 Avoiding this, that no man should blame us in this abundance which is administered by us:

21 Providing for [n]honest things, not only in the sight of the Lord, but also in the sight of men.

22 And we have sent with them our brother, whom we have oftentimes proved diligent in many things, but now much more diligent, upon the great confidence which I have in you.

23 Whether any do enquire of Titus, he is my partner and fellowhelper concerning you: or our brethren be enquired of, they are the messengers of the churches, and the glory of Christ.

24 Wherefore shew ye to them, and before the [o]churches, the proof of your love, and of our boasting on your behalf.

CHAPTER 9.

FOR as touching the [p]ministering to the saints, it is [q]superfluous for me to write to you:

2 For I know the forwardness of your mind, for which I boast of you to them of Macedonia, that Achaia was ready a year ago; and your zeal hath provoked very many.

3 Yet have I sent the brethren, lest our boasting of you should be in vain in this behalf; that, as I said, ye may be ready:

4 Lest haply if they of Macedonia come with me, and find you unprepared, we (that we say not, ye) should be ashamed in this same confident boasting.

5 Therefore I thought it necessary to exhort the brethren, that they would go before unto you, and make up beforehand your bounty, [r]whereof ye had notice before, that the same might be ready, as a matter of bounty, and not as of covetousness.

(4) The encouragement: God loves a cheerful giver; if we give, he will give.

6 But this I say, He which soweth sparingly shall reap also sparingly; and he which soweth [s]bountifully shall reap also bountifully.

7 Every man according as he purposeth in his heart, so let him give; not grudgingly, or of necessity: for God loveth a cheerful giver.

8 And God is able to make all grace abound toward you; that ye, always having all sufficiency in all things, may abound to every good work:

9 (As it is written, [t]He hath dispersed abroad; he hath given to the poor: his [u]righteousness remaineth for ever.

10 Now he that ministereth seed to the sower both minister bread for your food, and multiply your

CHAPTER 10.

Part III. The vindication of Paul's apostleship (2 Cor. 10. 1–13. 14). (Cf. Gal. 1. 11–2. 14.)

(1) The divine authentication.

NOW I Paul myself [c]beseech you by the meekness and gentleness of Christ, who in [d]presence am base among you, but being absent am bold toward you:

2 But I beseech you, that I may not be bold when I am present with that confidence, [e]wherewith I think to be bold against some, which think of us as if we walked according to the flesh.

3 For though we walk in the [f]flesh, we do not war after the flesh:

4 (For the weapons of our warfare are not [g]carnal, but mighty through God to the pulling down of strong holds;)

5 [h]Casting down imaginations, and every high thing that exalteth itself against the knowledge of God, and [i]bringing into captivity every thought [j]to the obedience of Christ;

6 And having in a readiness to revenge all disobedience, when your obedience is fulfilled.

7 Do ye look on things after the [k]outward appearance? If any man trust to himself that he is Christ's, let him of himself think this again, that, as he is Christ's, even so are we Christ's.

8 For though I should boast somewhat more of our [l]authority, which the Lord hath given us for [m]edification, and not for your [n]destruction, I should not be ashamed:

9 That I may not seem as if I would terrify you by letters.

10 For his letters, say they, are weighty and powerful; but his bodily presence is weak, and his speech contemptible.

11 Let such an one think this, that, such as we are in word by letters when we are absent, such will we be also in deed when we are present.

12 For [o]we dare not make ourselves of the number, or compare ourselves with some that commend themselves: but they measuring themselves by themselves, and comparing themselves among themselves, are not wise.

13 But we will not boast of things without our measure, but according to the measure of the rule which God hath distributed to us, a measure to reach even unto you.

14 For we stretch not ourselves beyond our measure, as though we reached not unto you: for we are come as far as to you also in preaching the [p]gospel of Christ:

15 Not boasting of things without our measure, that is, [q]of other men's labours; but having hope, when your faith is increased, that we shall be enlarged by you according to our rule abundantly,

16 To preach the gospel in the regions beyond you, and not to boast in another man's line of things made ready to our hand.

17 But he that glorieth, let him glory in the [r]Lord.

18 For not he that commendeth himself is approved, but whom the Lord commendeth.

CHAPTER 11.

(2) The godly jealousy.

WOULD to God ye could bear with me a little in my folly: and indeed bear with me.

2 For I am jealous over you with godly jealousy: for I have [s]espoused you to one husband, that I may present you [t]as a chaste virgin to Christ.

3 But I fear, lest by any means, as the serpent [u]beguiled Eve through his subtilty, so your minds should be corrupted from the simplicity that is in Christ.

4 For if he that cometh preacheth another Jesus, whom we have not preached, or if ye receive another spirit, which ye have not received, or [v]another gospel, which ye have not accepted, ye might well bear with him.

5 For I suppose I was not a whit behind the very chiefest apostles.

6 But though I be [a]rude in speech, yet not in knowledge; but we have been throughly made manifest among you in all things.

7 Have I committed an [b]offence in abasing myself that ye might be exalted, because I have preached to you the [c]gospel of God freely?

8 I robbed other churches, taking wages of them, to do you service.

9 And when I was present with you, and wanted, I was chargeable to no man: for that which was lacking to me the brethren which came from Macedonia supplied: and in all things I have kept myself from being burdensome unto you, and so will I keep myself.

10 As the truth of Christ is in me, no man shall stop me of this boasting in the regions of Achaia.

11 Wherefore? because I love you not? God knoweth.

12 But what I do, [d]that I will do, that I may cut off occasion from them which desire occasion; that wherein they glory, they may be found even as we.

(3) The warning against false teachers.

13 For such are [e]false apostles, deceitful workers, transforming themselves into the apostles of Christ.

14 And no marvel; for [f]Satan himself [g]is transformed into an angel of light.

15 Therefore it is no great thing if his ministers also [h]be transformed as the ministers of [i]righteousness; whose end shall be according to their works.

(4) The enforced boasting (to 12. 18).

16 I say again, Let no man think me a fool; if otherwise, yet as a fool receive me, that I may boast myself a little.

17 That which I speak, I speak it not after the Lord, but as it were foolishly, in this confidence of boasting.

18 Seeing that many glory after the [j]flesh, I will glory also.

19 For ye suffer fools gladly, seeing ye yourselves are wise.

20 For ye suffer, [k]if a man bring you into bondage, [l]if a man devour you, [m]if a man take of you, [n]if a man exalt himself, if a man smite you on the face.

21 I speak as concerning [o]reproach, as though we had been weak. Howbeit whereinsoever any is bold, (I speak foolishly,) I am bold also.

22 Are they [p]Hebrews? so am I. Are they Israelites? so am I. Are they the seed of Abraham? so am I.

23 Are they ministers of Christ? (I speak as a fool) I am more; in labours more abundant, in stripes above measure, in prisons more frequent, in deaths oft.

24 Of the Jews five times received I forty [q]stripes save one.

25 Thrice was I [r]beaten with rods, once was I [s]stoned, thrice I suffered shipwreck, a [t]night and a day I have been in the deep;

26 In journeyings often, in perils of waters, in [u]perils of robbers, in perils by mine own countrymen, in perils by the [v]heathen, in perils in the city, in perils in the wilderness, in perils in the sea, in perils among false brethren;

27 In weariness and painfulness, in [w]watchings often, in hunger and thirst, in fastings often, in cold and nakedness.

28 Beside those things that are without, that which cometh upon me daily, the [x]care of all the [y]churches.

29 Who is weak, and I am not weak? who is offended, and I burn not?

30 If I must needs glory, [z]I will glory of the things which concern mine infirmities.

31 The God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, [a]which is blessed for evermore, knoweth that I lie not.

32 In [b]Damascus the governor under Aretas the king kept the city of the Damascenes with a garrison, desirous to apprehend me:

33 And through a window in a basket was I let down by the wall, and escaped his hands.

CHAPTER 12.

IT is not expedient for me doubtless to glory. I will come to visions and revelations of the Lord.

2 I [c]knew a man in Christ above fourteen years ago, (whether in the body, I cannot tell; or whether out of the body, I cannot tell: God knoweth;) such an one caught up to the [d]third heaven.

[d] First heaven, of clouds; second, of stars; third, God's abode.

3 And I knew such a man, (whether in the body, or out of the body, I cannot tell: God knoweth;)

4 How that he was caught up into [a]paradise, and heard unspeakable words, which it is not [b]lawful for a man to utter.

5 Of such an one will I glory: [c]yet of myself I will not glory, but in mine infirmities.

6 For though I would desire to glory, I shall not be a fool; for I will say the truth: but now I forbear, lest any man should think of me above that which he seeth me to be, or that he heareth of me.

7 And lest I should be exalted above measure through the abundance of the revelations, there was given to me a [1][d]thorn in the flesh, the messenger of [e]Satan to buffet me, lest I should be exalted above measure.

8 For this thing I besought the Lord thrice, that it might depart from me.

9 And he said unto me, [f]My grace is sufficient for thee: for my strength is made [g]perfect in weakness. Most gladly therefore will I rather glory in my [h]infirmities, that the power of Christ may rest upon me.

10 Therefore I take pleasure in [h]infirmities, in reproaches, in necessities, in persecutions, in [i]distresses for Christ's sake: for when I am weak, then am I strong.

11 I am become a fool in glorying; ye have compelled me: for I ought to have been commended of you: for in nothing am I behind the very chiefest apostles, [j]though I be nothing.

12 Truly the [k]signs of an apostle were wrought among you in all patience, in signs, and wonders, and mighty deeds.

13 For what is it wherein ye were inferior to other [l]churches, except it be that I myself was not burdensome to you? forgive me this wrong.

14 Behold, the third time I am ready to come to you; and I will not be burdensome to you: [m]for I seek not your's, but you: for the children ought not to lay up for the parents, but the parents for the children.

15 And I will very gladly spend and be spent for [n]you; though the more abundantly I love you, the less I be loved.

16 But be it so, I did not burden you: nevertheless, being crafty, I caught you with guile.

17 Did I make a gain of you by any of them whom I sent unto you?

18 I desired Titus, and with him I sent a brother. Did Titus make a gain of you? walked we not in the same [o]spirit? walked we not in the same steps?

(5) The warning.

19 Again, think ye that we excuse [p]ourselves unto you? we speak before God in Christ: but we do all things, dearly beloved, for your edifying.

20 For I fear, lest, [q]when I come, I shall not find you such as I would, and that I shall be found unto you such as ye would not: lest there be debates, envyings, wraths, strifes, backbitings, whisperings, swellings, tumults:

21 And lest, when I come again, my God will humble me among you, and that I shall bewail many which have [r]sinned already, and have not [s]repented of the uncleanness and fornication and lasciviousness which they have committed.

CHAPTER 13.

THIS is the third time I am coming to you. [t]In the mouth of two or three witnesses shall every word be established.

2 I told you before, and foretell you, as if I were present, the second time; and being absent now I write to them which heretofore have [r]sinned, and to all other, that, if I come again, I will not spare:

3 Since ye seek a proof of Christ speaking in me, which to you-ward is not weak, but is mighty in you.

4 For [u]though he was crucified through weakness, yet he liveth by the power of God. For we also are weak in him, but we shall live with him by the power of God toward you.

[1] It has been conjectured that Paul's "thorn in the flesh" was chronic ophthalmia, inducing bodily weakness, and a repulsive appearance (Gal. iv. 15; 1 Cor. ii. 3, 4; 2 Cor. x. 10). This cannot be positively known, and the reserve of Scripture is as sure a mark of inspiration as its revelations. Paul's particular "thorn" is not described that his consolations may avail for all to whom any thorn is given.

ye be in the faith; prove your own selves. [a]Know ye not your own selves, how that Jesus Christ is in you, except ye be reprobates?

WRITER. The Apostle Paul (i. 1).

Date. Galatians was probably written A.D. 60, during Paul's third visit to Corinth. The occasion of the Epistle is evident. It had come to Paul's knowledge that the fickle Galatians, who were not Greeks, but Gauls, "a stream from the torrent of barbarians which poured into Greece in the third century before Christ," had become the prey of the legalizers, the Judaizing missionaries from Palestine.

Theme. The theme of Galatians is the vindication of the Gospel of the grace of God from any admixture of law-conditions, which qualify or destroy its character of pure grace.

The Galatian error had two forms, both of which are refuted. The first is the teaching that obedience to the law is mingled with faith as the ground of the sinner's justification; the second, that the justified believer is made perfect by keeping the law. Paul meets the first form of the error by a demonstration that justification is through the Abrahamic Covenant (Gen. xv. 18), and that the law, which was four hundred and thirty years after the confirmation of that covenant, and the true purpose of which was condemnation, not justification, cannot disannul a salvation which rests upon the earlier covenant. Paul meets the second and more subtle form by vindicating the office of the Holy Spirit as Sanctifier.

The book is in seven parts: I. Salutation, i. 1-5. II. Theme, i. 6-9. III. Paul's Gospel is a revelation, i. 10-ii. 14. IV. Justification is by faith without law, ii. 15-iii. 24. V. The rule of the believer's life is gracious, not legal, iii. 25-v. 15. VI. Sanctification is through the Spirit, not the law, v. 16-24. VII. Exhortations and conclusion, v. 25-vi. 18.

CHAPTER 1.

Part I. Salutation (vs. 1-5).

PAUL, an apostle, (not of men, neither by man, but by Jesus Christ, and God the Father, who raised him from the dead;)

2 And all the brethren which are with me, unto the [a]churches [b]of Galatia:

3 [c]Grace be to you and peace from God the Father, and from our Lord Jesus Christ,

4 Who [d]gave himself for our [e]sins, that he might [f]deliver us from this present evil [g]world, [h]according to the will of God and our Father:

5 To whom be glory for ever and ever. Amen.

Part II. Theme and occasion of the Epistle (vs. 6-9).

6 I marvel that ye are so soon removed from him that called you into the [1]grace of Christ unto another gospel:

7 Which is not [i]another; but there be some that [j]trouble you, and would [k]pervert the gospel of Christ.

8 But though we, or an [l]angel from heaven, preach any other gospel unto you than that which we have preached unto you, let him be [m]accursed.

9 As we said before, so say I now again, If any man preach any other gospel unto you than that ye have received, let him be accursed.

Part III. Paul's gospel is a revelation, not a tradition from the other apostles (Gal. i. 10-ii. 14).

10 [2]For do I now persuade men, or God? or do I seek to [n]please men? for if I yet pleased men, I should not be the [o]servant of Christ.

[1]The test of the Gospel is grace. If the message excludes grace, or mingles law with grace as the means either of justification or sanctification (Gal. ii. 21; iii. 1-3), or denies the fact or guilt of sin which alone gives grace its occasion and opportunity, it is "another" gospel, and the preacher of it is under the anathema of God (vs. 8, 9).

[2]The demonstration is as follows: (1) The Galatians know Paul, that he is no seeker after popularity (v. 10). (2) He puts his known character back of the assertion that his Gospel of grace was a revelation from God (vs. 11, 12). (3) As for the 11 But I certify you, brethren, that the [a]gospel which was preached of me is not after [b]man.

12 For I neither received it of man, neither was I taught it, but by the [c]revelation of Jesus Christ.

13 For ye have heard of my conversation in time past in the [1d]Jews' religion, how that beyond measure I persecuted [e]the church of God, and wasted it:

14 And profited in the Jews' [2]religion above many my equals in mine own nation, being more exceedingly zealous of the traditions of my fathers.

15 But when it pleased God, who [f]separated me from my mother's womb, and [g]called me by his grace,

16 To reveal his Son [h]in me, that I might preach him among the [i]heathen; immediately I [j]conferred not with flesh and blood:

17 Neither went I up to Jerusalem to them which were apostles before me; but I went into Arabia, and returned again unto Damascus.

18 Then after three years I [k]went up to Jerusalem to see Peter, and abode with him fifteen days.

19 But other of the apostles saw I none, save James the Lord's [l]brother.

20 Now the things which I write unto you, behold, before God, I lie not.

21 Afterwards I came into the regions of Syria and Cilicia;

22 And was unknown by face unto the churches of Judæa which were in Christ:

23 But they had [m]heard only, That he which persecuted us in times past now preacheth the faith which once he destroyed.

24 And they [n]glorified God in me.

2 And I went up by [q]revelation, and communicated unto them that gospel which I preach among the Gentiles, but [r]privately to them which were of reputation, lest by any means I should run, or had run, in [s]vain.

3 But neither Titus, who was with me, being a Greek, was compelled to be circumcised:

4 And that because of [t]false brethren unawares brought in, who came in privily to spy out our [u]liberty which we have in Christ Jesus, that they might bring us into bondage:

5 To whom we [v]gave place by subjection, no, not for an hour; that the [w]truth of the gospel might continue with you.

6 But of these who seemed to be somewhat, (whatsoever they were, it maketh no matter to me: God [x]accepteth no man's person:) for they who seemed to be somewhat in conference added nothing to me:

7 But contrariwise, when they saw that the gospel of the [y]uncircumcision was committed unto me, as the gospel of the [z]circumcision was unto Peter;

8 (For he that wrought effectually in Peter to the apostleship of the circumcision, the same was mighty in me toward the Gentiles:)

9 And when [a]James, Cephas, and John, who seemed to be pillars, perceived the [b]grace that was given unto me, they gave to me and Barnabas the [c]right hands of fellowship; that we should go unto the [d]heathen, and they unto the circumcision.

10 Only they would that we should remember the poor; the same which I also was forward to do.

11 But when Peter was come to [e]Antioch, I withstood him to the face, because he was to be blamed.

12 For before that certain came from James, he did [f]eat with the Gentiles: but when they were come, he withdrew and [g]separated him-

Judaizers, Paul himself, had been a foremost Jew, and had forsaken Judaism for something better (vs. 13, 14). (4) He had preached grace years before he saw any of the other apostles (vs. 15-24). (5) When he did meet the other apostles they had nothing to add to his revelations (ii. 1-6). (6) The other apostles fully recognized Paul's apostleship (ii. 7-10). (7) If the legalizers pleaded Peter's authority, the answer was that he himself had claimed none when rebuked (ii. 11-14).

[1] The new dispensation of grace having come in, the Mosaic system, if still persisted in, becomes a mere "Jews' religion."

[2] The word "religion," Gr. threskeia = "religious service," is used but five times in the N.T.: (1) In a bad sense, Acts xxvi. 5; Gal. i. 14; Jas. i. 26; Col. ii. 18 ("worshipping"); (2) in the sense of a believer's good works, Jas. i. 27. It is never used as synonymous with salvation or spirituality.

self, fearing them which were of the circumcision.

13 And the other Jews dissembled likewise with him; insomuch that [a]Barnabas also was carried away with their dissimulation.

14 But when I saw that they walked not uprightly according to the truth of the [b]gospel, I said unto Peter before them all, If thou, being a Jew, livest after the manner of Gentiles, and not as do the Jews, why compellest thou the Gentiles to live as do the Jews?

Part IV. Justification is by faith without law (Gal. 2. 15-3. 24).

(1) Even Jews must be so justified.

15 [1]We who are [c]Jews by nature, and not [d]sinners of the Gentiles,

16 Knowing that a man is not [e]justified by the works of the law, but by the [f]faith of Jesus Christ, even we have believed in [g]Jesus Christ, that we might be [h]justified by the faith of Christ, and [i]not by the works of the law: for by the works of the law shall no flesh be justified.

17 But if, while [2]we seek to be justified [f]by Christ, we ourselves also are found [d]sinners, is therefore Christ the [k]minister of sin? God forbid.

18 For if I [l]build again the things which I destroyed, I make myself a [d]transgressor.

(2) The law has already executed its sentence upon the believer.

19 For I through the law am [m]dead to the law, that I might live unto God.

(3) The Christian life is the outliving of the indwelling Christ. (Cf. Gal. 5. 15-23.)

20 I am [n]crucified with Christ: nevertheless [o]I live; yet [p]not I, but Christ liveth in me: and the [q]life which I now live in the flesh I live by the faith of the Son of God, who loved me, and gave himself for me.

(5) The gift of the Spirit is by faith, not by law-works.

O FOOLISH Galatians, who hath bewitched you, that ye should not obey the truth, before whose eyes Jesus Christ hath been evidently set forth, crucified among you?

2 This only would I learn of you, Received ye the Spirit by the works of the law, or by the [u]hearing of faith?

3 Are ye so foolish? having begun in the Spirit, are ye now made [v]perfect by the [w]flesh?

4 Have ye suffered so many things in vain? if it be yet in vain.

6 Even as Abraham [y]believed [z]God, and it was [a]accounted to him for righteousness.

7 Know ye therefore that they which are of faith, the same are [b]the children of Abraham.

8 And the scripture, foreseeing that God would justify the [c]heathen through faith, preached before the [d]gospel unto Abraham, saying, [e]In thee shall all nations be blessed.

9 So then they which be of faith are blessed with [f]faithful Abraham.

(7) The man under law-works is under the curse of the law.

10 For as many as are of the works of the law are under the curse: for it is written, Cursed is every one that continueth not in all

[1] Paul here quotes from his words to Peter when he withstood him at Antioch to show the Galatians that, whatever the legalists may have pretended, Peter and he were in perfect accord doctrinally. Paul appealed to the common belief of Peter and himself as a rebuke of Peter's inconsistent practice.

[2] That is, "we" Jews. (See Rom. iii. 19-23.) The passage might be thus paraphrased: If we Jews, in seeking to be justified by faith in Christ, take our places as mere sinners, like the Gentiles, is it therefore Christ who makes us sinners? By no means. It is by putting ourselves again under law after seeking justification through Christ, that we act as if we were still unjustified sinners, seeking to become righteous through law-works. (Cf. Gal. v. 1-4.)

things which are written in the book of the law to do them.

11 But that no man is [a]justified by the law in the sight of God, it is evident: for, [b]The just shall live by faith.

12 And the law is [c]not of faith: but, [d]The man that doeth them shall live in them.

(8) Christ has borne our law-curse that we might have the faith-blessing.

13 Christ hath [e]redeemed us from the curse of the law, being [f]made a [g]curse for us: for it is written, [h]Cursed is every one that hangeth on a tree:

14 That the [i]blessing of Abraham might come on the [j]Gentiles through [k]Jesus Christ; that we might receive the promise of the [l]Spirit through faith.

15 Brethren, I speak after the manner of men; Though it be but a man's covenant, yet if it be confirmed, no man disannulleth, or addeth thereto.

16 Now to [m]Abraham and his seed were the promises made. He saith not, And to [n]seeds, as of many; but as of [o]one, And to thy seed, which is Christ.

(9) The law does not add a new condition to the Abrahamic covenant of faith.

17 And this I say, that the covenant, that was confirmed before of [p]God in Christ, the law, which was [q]four hundred and thirty years after, cannot disannul, that it should make the promise of none effect.

18 For [r]if the inheritance be of the law, it is no more of promise: but God [s]gave it to Abraham by promise.

(10) The true intent of the law is condemnation, and as a preparatory discipline.

19 [1]Wherefore then serveth the law? It was added [t]because of transgressions, till the [u]seed should come to whom the promise was made; and it was ordained by angels in the hand of a mediator.

20 Now a mediator is not a mediator of one, but God is one.

21 Is the law then against the promises of God? God forbid: for if there had been a law given which could have given life, verily [v]righteousness should have been by the law.

22 But the scripture hath [w]concluded all under sin, that the promise by faith of Jesus Christ might be given to them that believe.

23 But before faith came we were kept under the law, shut up unto the faith which should afterwards be revealed.

24 Wherefore the [2]law was our schoolmaster [x]to bring us [y]unto

[1] The answer is sixfold: (1) The law was added because of transgressions, i.e. to give to sin the character of transgression. (a) Men had been sinning before Moses, but in the absence of law their sins were not put to their account (Rom. v. 13) the law gave to sin the character of "transgression," i.e. of personal guilt. (b) Also, since men not only continued to transgress after the law was given, but were provoked to transgress by the very law which forbade it (Rom. vii. 8), the law conclusively proved the inveterate sinfulness of man's nature (Rom. vii. 11-13). (2) The law, therefore, "concluded all under sin" (cf. Rom. iii. 19, 20, 23). (3) The law was an ad interim dealing, "till the seed should come" (v. 19). (4) The law shut sinful man up to faith as the only avenue of escape (v. 23). (5) The law was to the Jews what the pedagogue was in a Greek household, a ruler of children in their minority, and it had this character "unto" (i.e. until) Christ (v. 24). (6) Christ having come, the believer is no longer under the pedagogue (v. 25).

[2] I. The law of Moses, Summary: (1) The Mosaic Covenant was given to Israel in three parts: the commandments, expressing the righteous will of God (Ex. xx. 1-26); the "judgments," governing the social life of Israel (Ex. xxi. 1-xxiv. 11), and the "ordinances," governing the religious life of Israel (Ex. xxiv. 12-xxxi. 18). (2) The commandments and ordinances were one complete and inseparable whole. When an Israelite sinned, he was held "blameless" if he brought the required offering (Lk. i. 6; Phil. iii. 6). (3) Law, as a method of the divine dealing with man, characterized the dispensation extending from the giving of the law to the death of Jesus Christ (Gal. iii. 13, 14, 23, 24). (4) The attempt of legalistic teachers (e.g. Acts xv. 1-31; Gal. ii. 1-5) to mingle law with grace as the divine method for this present dispensation of grace, brought out the true relation of the law to the Christian, viz.

II. The Christian doctrine of the law: (1) Law is in contrast with grace. Under Christ, that we might be [a]justified by faith.

Part V. The rule of the believer's life is gracious, not legal (Gal. 3. 25-5. 15).

25 But after that faith is come, we are no longer under a [1]schoolmaster.

(1) The justified believer is a son in the family of God, not a servant under the law.

26 For ye are all [b]the children of God by faith in Christ Jesus.

27 For as many of you as have been [c]baptized [d]into Christ have put on Christ.

28 There is [e]neither Jew nor Greek, there is neither [f]bond nor free, there is neither [g]male nor female: for ye are all [h]one in Christ Jesus.

29 And if ye be Christ's, then are ye [i]Abraham's seed, and [j]heirs according to the promise.

CHAPTER 4.

NOW I say, That the heir, as long as he is a child, differeth nothing from a servant, though he be lord of all;

2 But is under tutors and governors until the time appointed of the father.

3 Even so [k]we, when we were children, were in bondage under the [l]elements of the [m]world:

(2) The believer is redeemed from under the law.

4 But when the [n]fulness of the time was come, [o]God sent forth his Son, made of a [p]woman, made under the law,

5 To [q]redeem them that were [r]under the law, that we might receive the [s]adoption of sons.

(3) The Spirit actualizes the believer's sonship. (See Eph. 1. 5, note.)

6 And because ye are sons, God hath sent forth the [t]Spirit of his Son into your hearts, crying, Abba, Father.

7 Wherefore thou art no more a servant, but a son; and if a son, then an [u]heir of God through Christ.

(4) To lapse into legality is to go back to an elementary religion.

8 Howbeit then, when ye knew not God, ye [v]did service unto them which by nature are no gods.

9 But now, after that ye have known God, or rather are known of God, how turn ye again to the [w]weak and beggarly elements, whereunto ye [x]desire again to be in bondage?

10 Ye [y]observe days, and months, and times, and years.

the latter God bestows the righteousness which, under law, He demanded (Ex. xix. 5; John i. 17; Rom. iii. 21, note; x. 3-10; 1 Cor. i. 30). (2) The law is, in itself, holy, just, good, and spiritual (Rom. vii. 12-14). (3) Before the law the whole world is guilty, and the law is therefore of necessity a ministry of condemnation, death, and the divine curse (Rom. iii. 19; 2 Cor. iii. 7-9; Gal. iii. 10). (4) Christ bore the curse of the law, and redeemed the believer both from the curse and from the dominion of the law (Gal. iii. 13; iv. 5-7). (5) Law neither justifies a sinner nor sanctifies a believer (Gal. ii. 16; iii. 2, 3, 11, 12). (6) The believer is both dead to the law and redeemed from it, so that he is "not under the law, but under grace" (Rom. vi. 14; vii. 4; Gal. ii. 19; iv. 4-7; 1 Tim. i. 8, 9). (7) Under the new covenant of grace the principle of obedience to the divine will is inwrought (Heb. x. 16). So far is the life of the believer from the anarchy of self-will that he is "inlawed to Christ" (1 Cor. ix. 21), and the new "law of Christ" (Gal. vi. 2; 2 John 5) is his delight; while, through the indwelling Spirit, the righteousness of the law is fulfilled in him (Rom. viii. 2-4; Gal. v. 16-18). The commandments are used in the distinctively Christian Scriptures as an instruction in righteousness (2 Tim. iii. 16; Rom. xiii. 8-10; Eph. vi. 1-3; 1 Cor. ix. 8, 9).

[1] Gr. paidagogos, "child-conductor." "Among the Greeks and Romans, persons, for the most part slaves, who had it in charge to educate and give constant attendance upon boys till they came of age."—H. A. W. Meyer. The argument does not turn upon the extent or nature of the pedagogue's authority, but upon the fact that it wholly ceased when the "child" (iv. 1) became a "son" (iv. 1-6), when the minor became an adult. The adult "son" does voluntarily that which formerly he did in fear of the pedagogue. But even if he does not, it is no longer a question between the son and the pedagogue (the law), but between the son and his Father—God. (Cf. Heb. xii. 5-10; 1 John ii. 1, 2.)

11 I am afraid of you, lest I have bestowed upon you labour in vain.

12 Brethren, I [a]beseech you, be as I am; for I am as ye are: ye have not [b]injured me at all.

13 Ye know how through infirmity of the flesh I preached the [c]gospel unto you at the first.

14 And my [d]temptation which was in my flesh ye despised not, nor rejected; but received me as an angel of God, even as Christ Jesus.

(5) In legality the Galatians have lost their blessing.

15 Where is then the blessedness ye spake of? for I bear you record, that, if it had been possible, ye would have [e]plucked out your own eyes, and have given them to me.

16 Am I therefore become your [f]enemy, because I tell you the truth?

17 They zealously affect you, but not well; yea, they would [g]exclude you, that ye might affect them.

18 But it is good to be zealously affected always in a good thing, and [h]not only when I am present with you.

(6) The two systems, law and grace, cannot co-exist.

19 My [1]little children, of whom I travail in birth again until Christ be formed in you,

20 I desire to be [i]present with you now, and to change my voice; for I stand in [j]doubt of you.

21 Tell me, ye that desire to be under the [k]law, do ye not [l]hear the law?

22 For it is written, [m]that Abraham had two sons, the one by a bondmaid, the other by a freewoman.

23 But he who was of the bondwoman was born after the [n]flesh; but he of the freewoman was by [o]promise.

24 Which things are an allegory: for these are the [p]two covenants; the one from the mount [q]Sinai, which gendereth to [r]bondage, which is [s]Agar.

25 For this [s]Agar is mount Sinai in Arabia, and answereth to Jerusalem which now is, and is in [t]bondage with her children.

26 But Jerusalem which is [u]above is free, which is the [v]mother of us all.

27 For it is written, [w]Rejoice, thou barren that bearest not; break forth and cry, thou that travailest not: for the desolate hath many more children than she which hath an husband.

28 Now [x]we, brethren, as Isaac was, are the children of promise.

29 But as then he that was born after the flesh [y]persecuted him that was born after the Spirit, even so it is now.

30 Nevertheless what saith the scripture? [z]Cast out the bondwoman and her son: for the son of the bondwoman shall not be heir with the son of the freewoman.

31 So then, brethren, we are [a]not children of the bondwoman, but of the [b]free.

CHAPTER 5.

Application of the allegory.

[c]STAND fast therefore in the liberty wherewith Christ hath made us free, and be not entangled again with the [d]yoke of bondage.

2 Behold, I Paul say unto you, that [e]if ye be circumcised, Christ shall profit you nothing.

3 For I testify again to every man that is circumcised, that he is a [f]debtor to do the whole law.

4 Christ is become of [g]no effect unto you, whosoever of you are [h]justified by the law; ye are [i]fallen from [j]grace.

5 For we through the Spirit [k]wait for the hope of righteousness [l]by faith.

6 For in [m]Jesus Christ neither [n]circumcision availeth any thing, nor uncircumcision; but [o]faith which [p]worketh by love.

7 Ye [q]did run well; who did hinder you that ye should not obey the truth?

8 This persuasion cometh not of him that calleth you.

9 A little [r]leaven leaveneth the whole lump.

10 I have confidence in you through the Lord, that ye will be none otherwise minded: but he that troubleth you shall bear his judgment, whosoever he be.

[1] The allegory (vs. 22-31) is addressed to justified but immature believers (cf. 1 Cor. iii. 1, 2), who, under the influence of legalistic teachers, "desire to be under the law," and has, therefore, no application to a sinner seeking justification. It raises and answers, for the fifth time in this Epistle, the question, Is the believer under the law? (Gal. ii. 19-21; iii. 1-3; iii. 25, 26; iv. 4-6; iv. 9-31).

11 And I, brethren, if I yet preach circumcision, why do I yet suffer [a]persecution? then is the [b]offence of the cross ceased.

12 I would they were even cut off which trouble you.

13 For, brethren, ye have been [c]called unto liberty; only use not liberty for an [d]occasion to the flesh, but by [e]love serve one another.

14 For all the law is fulfilled in one word, even in this; [f]Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself.

15 But if ye [g]bite and devour one another, take heed that ye be not [h]consumed one of another.

Part VI. Sanctification is through the Spirit, not the law (vs. 16-24).

16 This I say then, [i]Walk in the Spirit, and ye shall not fulfil the lust of the flesh.

(1) The Spirit gives victory over sin. (Cf. Rom. 8. 2. See Rom. 7. 15, note.)

17 For the flesh [j]lusteth against the Spirit, and the Spirit against the flesh: and these are contrary the one to the other: so that ye [k]cannot do the things that ye would.

18 But if ye be [l]led of the Spirit, ye are not [m]under the law.

19 Now the [n]works of the flesh are manifest, which are these; Adultery, fornication, uncleanness, lasciviousness,

20 Idolatry, witchcraft, hatred, variance, emulations, wrath, strife, seditions, heresies,

21 Envyings, murders, drunkenness, revellings, and such like: of the which I tell you before, as I have also told you in time past, that they which do such things shall [o]not inherit the kingdom of God.

(2) Christian character is produced by the Holy Spirit, not by self-effort. (Cf. John 15. 1-5; Gal. 2. 20.)

22 [1]But the fruit of the Spirit is love, joy, peace, longsuffering, gentleness, goodness, [p]faith,

23 Meekness, temperance: against [q]such there is no law.

24 And they that are Christ's have crucified the [r]flesh with the affections and lusts.

Part VII. The outworking of the new life in Christ Jesus (Gal. 5. 25-6. 18).

25 If we live in the [s]Spirit, let us also walk in the Spirit.

26 Let us not be desirous of [t]vain glory, provoking one another, envying one another.

CHAPTER 6.

(1) The new life as a brotherhood:
(a) the case of a sinning brother.

BRETHREN, if a man be overtaken in a [u]fault, ye which are [v]spiritual, [w]restore such an one in the spirit of [x]meekness; considering thyself, lest thou also be [y]tempted.

(b) The case of a burdened brother.

2 [z]Bear ye one another's burdens, and so fulfil the [a]law of Christ.

3 For if a man [b]think himself to be something, when he is nothing, he [c]deceiveth himself.

4 But let every man [d]prove his own work, and then shall he have rejoicing in [e]himself alone, and not in another.

5 For every man shall [f]bear his own burden.

(c) The case of a teaching brother.

6 Let [g]him that is taught in the word communicate unto him that teacheth in all good things.

(2) The new life as a husbandry.

7 [h]Be not deceived; God is not mocked: for [i]whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap.

8 For he that soweth to his flesh shall of the flesh reap corruption; but he that soweth to the [j]Spirit shall of the Spirit reap [k]life everlasting.

9 And let us not be [l]weary in well doing: for in due season we shall [m]reap, if we faint not.

---

[1]Christian character is not mere moral or legal correctness, but the possession and manifestation of nine graces: love, joy, peace—character as an inward state; longsuffering, gentleness, goodness—character in expression toward man; faith, meekness, temperance—character in expression toward God. Taken together they present a moral portrait of Christ, and may be taken as the apostle's explanation of Gal. ii. 20, "Not I, but Christ," and as a definition of "fruit" in John xv. 1-8. This character is possible because of the believer's vital union to Christ (John xv. 5; 1 Cor. xii. 12, 13), and is wholly the fruit of the Spirit in those believers who are yielded to Him (Gal. v. 22, 23).

11 Ye see how [1]large a letter I have written unto you with mine own hand.

12 As many as desire to make a fair [b]shew in the flesh, they [c]constrain you to be circumcised; only lest they should suffer persecution for the cross of Christ.

13 For neither they themselves who are circumcised keep the law; but desire to have you circumcised, that they may glory in your [d]flesh.

(5) The new exultation of the new life.

14 But [e]God forbid that I should glory, save in the [f]cross of our Lord Jesus Christ, by whom the [g]world is crucified unto me, and [h]I unto the [i]world.

15 For [j]in Christ Jesus neither circumcision availeth any thing, nor uncircumcision, but a new [k]creature.

(6) The peace of the new life.

16 And as many as walk according to this rule, peace be on them, and mercy, and upon the [l]Israel of God.

(7) The new fellowship of suffering.

17 From henceforth let no man trouble me: for I bear in my body the marks of the Lord Jesus.

[1] Gr. "with how large letters . . . mine own hand." The apostle was, it appears from many considerations, afflicted with ophthalmia, a common disease in the East, to the point almost of total blindness (e.g. Gal. iv. 13-15). Ordinarily, therefore, he dictated his letters. But now, having no amanuensis at hand, but urged by the spiritual danger of his dear Galatians, he writes, we cannot know with what pain and difficulty, with his own hand, in the "large letters" his darkened vision compelled him to use.

THE EPISTLE OF PAUL THE APOSTLE TO THE

I 1] # EPHESIANS [I 4

WRITER. The Apostle Paul (i. 1).

Date. Ephesians was written from Rome in A.D. 64. It is the first in order of the Prison Epistles (Acts xx.-xxvii.; see Acts xxviii. 30, note), and was sent by Tychicus, concurrently with Colossians and Philemon. It is probable that the two greater letters had their occasion in the return of Onesimus to Philemon. Ephesians is the most impersonal of Paul's letters. Indeed the words, "to the Ephesians," are not in the best manuscripts. Colossians (iv. 16) mentions an epistle to the Laodiceans. It has been conjectured that the letter known to us as Ephesians is really the Laodicean letter. Probably it was sent to Ephesus and Laodicea without being addressed to any church. The letter would then be "to the saints and the faithful in Christ Jesus" anywhere.

Theme. The doctrine of the Epistle confirms this view. It contains the highest church truth, but has nothing about church order. The church here is the true Church, "His Body," not the local church, as in Philippians, Corinthians, etc. Essentially, three lines of truth make up this Epistle: the believer's exalted position through grace; the truth concerning the Body of Christ; and a walk in accordance with that position.

There is a close spiritual affinity between Ephesians and Joshua, the "heavenlies" answering in Christian position to Canaan in Israel's experience. In both there is conflict, often failure, but also victory, rest, and possession (Josh. xxi. 43-45; Eph. i. 3; iii. 14-19; vi. 16, 23). As befits a complete revelation, the number seven is conspicuous in the structure of Ephesians.

The divisions are, broadly, four: I. The apostolic greeting, i. 1, 2. II. Positional; the believer's standing "in Christ" and "in the heavenlies" through pure grace, i. 3-iii. 21. III. Walk and service, iv. 1-v. 17. IV. The walk and warfare of the Spirit-filled believer, v. 18-vi. 24.

CHAPTER 1.

Part I. The apostolic salutation (vs. 1, 2).

PAUL, an apostle of Jesus Christ by the [a]will of God, to the saints which are at [b]Ephesus, and to the [c]faithful [1]in Christ Jesus:

2 [d]Grace be to you, and peace, from God our Father, and from the Lord Jesus Christ.

Part II. The believer's position in grace (Eph. i. 3-3. 21).

(1) The seven elements of the believer's position.

3 [e]Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, who [f]hath blessed us with all spiritual blessings [2]in [g]heavenly places in Christ:

4 According as he hath [h]chosen us in him before the foundation

[1]The believer's place as a member of the body of Christ, vitally united to Him by the baptism with the Holy Spirit (1 Cor. xii. 12, 13).

[2]Literally, the heavenlies. The same Greek word is used in John iii. 12, where "things" is added. In both places the word signifies that which is heavenly in contradistinction to that which is earthly. In Ephesians "places" is especially misleading. "The heavenlies" may be defined as the sphere of the believer's spiritual experience as identified with Christ in nature (2 Pet. i. 4); life (Col. iii. 4; 1 John v. 12); relationships (John xx. 17; Heb. ii. 11); service (John xvii. 18; Mt. xxviii. 20); suffering (Phil. i. 29; iii. 10; Col. i. 24); inheritance (Rom. viii. 16, 17); and future glory in the kingdom (Rom. viii. 18-21; 1 Pet. ii. 9; Rev. i. 6; v. 10). The believer is a heavenly man, and a stranger and pilgrim on the earth (Heb. iii. 1; 1 Pet. ii. 11).

of the [a]world, that we should be [b]holy and without blame before him in love:

5 Having [1]predestinated us unto the [2c]adoption of children by Jesus Christ to himself, according to the good pleasure of his will,

6 To the praise of the glory of his grace, wherein he hath made us accepted in the beloved.]

7 In whom we have redemption [d]through his blood, the forgiveness of [e]sins, according to the riches of his [f]grace;

8 Wherein he hath abounded toward us in all wisdom and prudence;

9 Having made known unto us the [g]mystery of his will, according to his good pleasure which he hath purposed in himself:

10 That in the [3]dispensation of the fulness of times he might gather together in one all things in Christ, both which are in heaven, and which are on earth; even in him:

11 In whom also we have obtained an inheritance, being [h]predestinated according to the purpose of him who worketh all things after the [i]counsel of his own will:

12 That we should be to the [j]praise of his glory, who first [k]trusted in Christ.

13 In whom ye also trusted, after that ye heard the word of truth, the [l]gospel of your salvation: in whom also [m]after that ye believed, [n]ye were [4]sealed with that [o]holy Spirit of promise,

14 Which is the earnest of our inheritance until the redemption of the purchased possession, unto the praise of his glory.

(2) The prayer for knowledge and power.

15 Wherefore I also, after I heard of your faith in the Lord Jesus, and love unto all the saints,

16 Cease not to give thanks for you, making mention of you in my [p]prayers;

17 That the God of our Lord Jesus Christ, the Father of glory, may give unto you the spirit of wisdom and revelation in the knowledge of him:

18 The eyes of your understanding being enlightened; that ye may know what is the hope of his calling, and what the riches of the glory of his inheritance in the saints,

19 And what is the exceeding greatness of his power to us-ward who believe, according to the working of his mighty power,

20 Which he wrought in Christ, when he raised him from the dead,

[p] Bible prayers (N.T.). Eph. 3. 14–21. (Mt. 6. 9; Rev. 22. 20.)

[1] Predestination is that effective exercise of the will of God by which things before determined by Him are brought to pass. See Election, 1 Pet. i. 2, note; Foreknowledge, 1 Pet. i. 20, note.

[2] Adoption (huiothesia, "placing as a son") is not so much a word of relationship as of position. The believer's relation to God as a child results from the new birth (John i. 12, 13), whereas adoption is the act of God whereby one already a child is, through redemption from the law, placed in the position of an adult son (Gal. iv. 1–5). The indwelling Spirit gives the realization of this in the believer's present experience (Gal. iv. 6); but the full manifestation of the believer's sonship awaits the resurrection, change, and translation of saints, which is called "the redemption of the body" (Rom. viii. 23; 1 Thes. iv. 14–17; Eph. i. 14; 1 John iii. 2).

[3] The Dispensation of the Fulness of Times. This, the seventh and last of the ordered ages which condition human life on the earth, is identical with the kingdom covenanted to David (2 Sam. vii. 8–17; Zech. xii. 8, Summary; Lk. i. 31–33; 1 Cor. xv. 24, Summary), and gathers into itself under Christ all past "times": (1) The time of oppression and misrule ends by Christ taking His kingdom (Isa. xi. 3, 4). (2) The time of testimony and divine forbearance ends in judgment (Mt. xxv. 31–46; Acts xvii. 30, 31; Rev. xx. 7–15). (3) The time of toil ends in rest and reward (2 Thes. i. 6, 7). (4) The time of suffering ends in glory (Rom. viii. 17, 18). (5) The time of Israel's blindness and chastisement ends in restoration and conversion (Rom. xi. 25–27; Ezk. xxxix. 25–29). (6) The times of the Gentiles end in the smiting of the image and the setting up of the kingdom of the heavens (Dan. ii. 34, 35; Rev. xix. 15–21). (7) The time of creation's thraldom ends in deliverance at the manifestation of the sons of God (Gen. iii. 17; Isa. xi. 6–8; Rom. viii. 19–21).

[4] The Holy Spirit is Himself the seal. In the symbolism of Scripture a seal signifies: (1) A finished transaction (Jer. xxxii. 9, 10; John xvii. 4; xix. 30). (2) Ownership (Jer. xxxii. 11, 12; 2 Tim. ii. 19). (3) Security (Esth. viii. 8; Dan. vi. 17; Eph. iv. 30).

and set him at his own right hand in the heavenly places,

21 Far above all principality, and power, and might, and dominion, and every name that is named, not only in this [a]world, but also in that which is to come:

(3) Christ exalted to be the Head of his Body, the Church.

22 And hath put all things under his feet, and gave him to be the head over all things to the church,

23 Which is his [b]body, the [c]fulness of him that filleth all in all.

CHAPTER 2.

(4) The method of Gentile salvation.

AND you hath he quickened, who were dead in trespasses and sins;

2 Wherein in time past ye walked according to the course of this [d]world, according to the [e]prince of the power of the air, the spirit that now [f]worketh in the [g]children of disobedience:

3 Among whom also we all had our conversation in times past in the lusts of our [h]flesh, fulfilling the desires of the [i]flesh and of the [j]mind; and were by nature the children of [k]wrath, even as others.

4 But God, who is [l]rich in mercy, for his [m]great love wherewith he loved us,

5 Even when we were [1n]dead in sins, hath [o]quickened us together with Christ, (by grace ye are [p]saved;)

6 And hath raised us up together, and made us sit together in heavenly places in Christ Jesus:

7 That in the [q]ages to come he might shew the exceeding riches of his grace in his [r]kindness toward us through Christ Jesus.

8 For by [s]grace are ye [p]saved through [t]faith; and that not of yourselves: it is the [u]gift of God:

9 Not of [v]works, lest any man should [w]boast.

10 For we are his workmanship, [x]created in Christ Jesus unto good works, which God hath before ordained that we should walk in them.

(5) The Gentile position by nature.

11 Wherefore remember, that ye being in time past Gentiles in the flesh, who are called Uncircumcision by that which is called the Circumcision in the flesh made by hands;

12 That at that time ye were without Christ, being aliens from the commonwealth of Israel, and strangers from the covenants of promise, having no hope, and without God in the [y]world:

13 But now in Christ Jesus ye who sometimes were far off are made nigh by the blood of Christ.

(6) Jew and Gentile one body in Christ.

14 For he is our peace, who hath made both one, and hath broken down the middle wall of partition between us;

15 Having abolished in his flesh the enmity, even the [z]law of commandments contained in ordinances; for to make in himself of twain one [2]new man, so making peace;

16 And that he might [a]reconcile both unto God in one body by the cross, having slain the enmity thereby:

17 And came and preached peace to you which were afar off, and to them that were nigh.

18 For through him we [b]both have access by one Spirit unto the Father.

(7) The church a temple for the habitation of God through the Spirit.

19 Now therefore ye are no more strangers and foreigners, but [c]fellowcitizens with the saints, and of the household of God;

20 And are built upon the foundation of the apostles and prophets, Jesus Christ himself being the chief corner [d]stone;

21 In whom all the building fitly

[1] Death (spiritual), Summary: Spiritual death is the state of the natural or unregenerate man as still in his sins (Eph. ii. 1), alienated from the life of God (Eph. iv. 18, 19), and destitute of the Spirit. Prolonged beyond the death of the body, spiritual death is a state of eternal separation from God in conscious suffering. This is called "the second death" (Rev. ii. 11; xx. 6, 14; xxi. 8).

[2] Here the "new man" is not the individual believer but the Church, considered as the body of Christ in the sense of Eph. i. 22, 23. 1 Cor. xii. 12, 13; Col. iii. 10, 11. (See Heb. xii. 23, note.)

CHAPTER 3.

The church a mystery hidden from past ages.

FOR this cause I Paul, the prisoner of [d]Jesus Christ for you Gentiles,

2 If ye have heard of the dispensation of the [e]grace of God which is given me to you-ward:

3 How that by [f]revelation he made known unto me the [g]mystery; (as I [h]wrote afore in few words,

4 Whereby, when ye read, ye may understand my knowledge in the [g]mystery of Christ)

5 Which in other [i]ages was not made known unto the sons of men, as it is [f]now revealed unto his [k]holy apostles and prophets by the Spirit;

6 [l]That the Gentiles should be fellowheirs, and of the same body, and partakers of his promise in Christ by the [i]gospel:

7 Whereof I was made a minister, according to the gift of the grace of God given unto me by the effectual working of his power.

8 Unto me, who am less than the [m]least of all saints, is this grace given, that I should preach among the [n]Gentiles the [o]unsearchable riches of Christ;

9 And to make all men see what is the fellowship of the [g]mystery, which [p]from the beginning of the world hath been [q]hid in God, who [r]created all things by Jesus Christ:

10 To the intent that now unto the [s]principalities and powers in heavenly places might be known by the [t]church the manifold wisdom of God,

15 Of whom [y]the whole family in heaven and earth is named,

16 That he would grant you, according to the [z]riches of his glory, to be [a]strengthened with might by his [b]Spirit in the inner man;

17 That [c]Christ may dwell in your hearts by [d]faith; that ye, being rooted and grounded in love,

18 May be [e]able to comprehend with all saints [f]what is the breadth, and length, and depth, and height;

19 And to know the love of Christ, which passeth knowledge, that ye might be filled with all the fulness of God.

20 Now unto him that is able to do exceeding abundantly above all that we ask or think, according to the power that worketh in us,

21 Unto him be glory in the church by Christ Jesus throughout all ages, world without end. Amen.

CHAPTER 4.

Part III. The walk and service of the believer as in Christ, and as having the Spirit (Eph. 4. 1-5. 17).

(1) The walk to be worthy the position.

I THEREFORE, the prisoner of the Lord, beseech you that ye walk worthy of the vocation wherewith ye are called,

2 With all lowliness and meekness, with longsuffering, forbearing one another in love;

3 Endeavouring to keep the unity of the Spirit in the bond of peace.

(2) The seven unities to be kept.

4 There is one body, and one Spirit, even as ye are called in one hope of your calling;

[1]That the Gentiles were to be saved was no mystery (Rom. ix. 24-33; x. 19-21). The mystery "hid in God" was the divine purpose to make of Jew and Gentile a wholly new thing—"the church, which is his [Christ's] body," formed by the baptism with the Holy Spirit (1 Cor. xii. 12, 13) and in which the earthly distinction of Jew and Gentile disappears (Eph. ii. 14, 15; Col. iii. 10, 11). The revelation of this mystery, which was foretold but not explained by Christ (Mt. xvi. 18), was committed to Paul. In his writings alone we find the doctrine, position, walk, and destiny of the Church.

5 [a]One Lord, [b]one faith, [c]one baptism,
6 One [d]God and Father of all, who is above all, and through all, and in you all.

(3) The ministry gifts of Christ to his body.

7 But unto every one of us is given grace according to the measure of the gift of Christ.
8 Wherefore he saith, [e]When he ascended up on high, he led captivity captive, and gave gifts unto men.
9 (Now that he ascended, what is it but that he also descended first into the lower parts of the earth?
10 He that descended is the same also that ascended up far above all heavens, that he might fill all things.)
11 And he [1]gave [2]some, apostles; and some, prophets; and some, evangelists; and some, pastors and teachers;

(4) The purpose of the ministry gifts.

12 For the [f]perfecting of the saints, [g]for the work of the ministry, for the edifying of the body of Christ:
13 Till we all come in the unity of the faith, and of the knowledge of the Son of God, unto a [h]perfect man, unto the measure of the stature of the fulness of Christ:
14 That we henceforth be no more children, tossed to and fro, and carried about with every [i]wind of doctrine, by the sleight of men, and cunning craftiness, whereby they lie in wait to deceive;
15 But [j]speaking the truth in love, may grow up [k]into him in all things, which is the [l]head, even Christ:
16 From whom the whole body fitly joined together and compacted by [m]that which every joint supplieth, according to the effectual working in the [n]measure of every part, maketh [o]increase of the body unto the edifying of itself in love.

(5) The walk of the believer as a new man in Christ Jesus.

17 This I say therefore, and testify in the Lord, that ye henceforth [p]walk not as other Gentiles walk, in the vanity of their mind,
18 Having the understanding darkened, being [q]alienated from the [r]life of God through the ignorance that is in them, because of the blindness of their heart:
19 [s]Who being past feeling have given themselves over unto lasciviousness, to work all uncleanness with greediness.
20 But ye have not so [t]learned Christ;
21 If so be that ye have heard him, and have been taught by him, as the truth is in Jesus:
22 That ye [u]put off concerning the former conversation the [v]old man, which is corrupt according to the deceitful lusts;
23 And [w]be renewed in the spirit of your mind;
24 And that ye [x]put on the [3]new man, which after God is created in [y]righteousness and true holiness.
25 Wherefore putting away lying, [z]speak every man truth with his neighbour: for we are members one of another.
26 [a]Be ye angry, and [b]sin not: let not the sun go down upon your wrath:
27 [c]Neither give place to the [d]devil.
28 Let him that stole steal no more: but rather let him labour,

[1] In 1 Cor. xii. 8-28 the Spirit is seen as enduing the members of the body of Christ with spiritual gifts, or enablements for a varied service; here certain Spirit-endued men, viz. apostles, prophets, evangelists, pastors, and teachers, are themselves the gifts whom the glorified Christ bestows upon His body the church. In Corinthians the gifts are spiritual enablements for specific service; in Ephesians the gifts are men who have such enablements.

[2] The Lord, in bestowing the gifted men, determines, providentially (e.g. Acts xi. 22-26), or directly through the Spirit (e.g. Acts xiii. 1, 2; xvi. 6, 7), the places of their service. "Some" (churches or places) need one gift, as, e.g. evangelist; "some" (churches or places) need rather a pastor or teacher. Absolutely nothing in Christ's service is left to mere human judgment or self-choosing. Even an apostle was not permitted to choose his place of service (Acts xvi. 7, 8).

[3] The new man is the regenerate man as distinguished from the old man (Rom. vi. 6, note), and is a new man as having become a partaker of the divine nature and life (2 Pet. i. 4; Col. iii. 3, 4), and in no sense the old man made over, or improved (2 Cor. v. 17; Gal. vi. 15; Eph. ii. 10; Col. iii. 10). The new man is Christ, "formed" in the believer (Gal. ii. 20; iv. 19; Col. i. 27; 1 John iv. 12).

working with his hands the thing which is good, that he may have to [a]give to him that needeth.

29 Let no corrupt communication proceed out of your mouth, but that which is good to the use of [b]edifying, that it may minister [c]grace unto the hearers.

(6) The walk of the believer as indwelt by the Spirit.

30 And grieve not the [d]holy Spirit of God, whereby ye [e]are sealed unto the day of redemption.

31 Let all bitterness, and wrath, and anger, and clamour, and evil speaking, be put away from you, with all malice:

32 And be ye kind one to another, tenderhearted, [f]forgiving one another, even as God [g]for Christ's sake hath [h]forgiven you.

CHAPTER 5.

(7) The walk of the believer as God's dear child.

BE ye therefore [i]followers of God, as dear children;

2 And [j]walk in love, as Christ also hath loved us, and hath given himself for us an offering and a sacrifice to God for a [k]sweetsmelling savour.

3 But fornication, and all uncleanness, or covetousness, let it not be once named among you, as becometh saints;

4 Neither filthiness, nor [l]foolish talking, nor jesting, which are not [m]convenient: but rather [n]giving of thanks.

5 For this ye know, that no whoremonger, nor unclean person, nor covetous man, who is an [o]idolater, hath any inheritance in the kingdom of Christ and of God.

6 Let no man deceive you with vain words: for because of these things cometh the wrath of God upon the [p]children of disobedience.

7 Be not ye therefore [q]partakers with them.

8 For ye were sometimes darkness, but now are ye [r]light in the Lord: walk as children of light:

9 (For the [s]fruit of the [t]Spirit is in all goodness and [u]righteousness and truth;)

10 Proving what is acceptable unto the Lord.

11 And have [v]no fellowship with the unfruitful works of darkness, but rather reprove them.

12 For it is a [w]shame even to speak of those things which are done of them in secret.

13 But all things that are reproved are [x]made manifest by the light: for whatsoever doth make manifest is light.

14 Wherefore he saith, [y]Awake thou that sleepest, and arise from the dead, and Christ shall give thee light.

15 See then that ye walk circumspectly, not as fools, but as wise,

16 [z]Redeeming the time, because the days are evil.

17 Wherefore be ye not unwise, [a]but understanding what the will of the Lord is.

Part IV. The walk and warfare of the believer as filled with the Spirit (Eph. 5. 18 - 6. 24).

18 And be not drunk with wine, wherein is excess; but be filled with the [b]Spirit;

(1) The inner life of the Spirit-filled believer.

19 Speaking to yourselves in psalms and hymns and spiritual songs, singing and making [c]melody in your heart to the Lord;

20 [d]Giving thanks always for all things unto God and the Father in the name of our Lord Jesus Christ;

(2) The married life of Spirit-filled believers as illustrating Christ and the church.

21 [e]Submitting yourselves one to another in the fear of God.

22 Wives, [f]submit yourselves unto your own husbands, as unto the Lord.

23 For the husband is [g]the head of the wife, even as Christ is the head of the [h]church: and he is the [i]saviour of the body.

24 Therefore as the church is [j]subject unto Christ, so let the wives be to their own husbands in every thing.

25 [k]Husbands, love your wives, even as Christ also loved the [l]church, and gave himself for it;

[1] Christ's love-work for the Church is threefold: past, present, future: (1) For love He gave Himself to redeem the Church (v. 25); (2) in love He is sanctifying the Church (v. 26); (3) for the reward of His sacrifice and labour of love He will present the Church to Himself in flawless perfection, "one pearl of great price" (v. 27; Mt. xiii. 46).

26 That he might [a]sanctify and cleanse it with the washing of water [b]by the word,

27 That he might present it to himself a glorious church, [c]not having spot, or wrinkle, or any such thing; but that it should be holy and without blemish.

28 So ought men to love their wives as their own bodies. He that loveth his wife loveth himself.

29 For no man ever yet hated his own flesh; but nourisheth and cherisheth it, even as [d]the Lord the church:

30 For we are [e]members of his body, of his flesh, and of his bones.

31 [f]For this cause shall a man leave his father and mother, and shall be joined unto his wife, and they two shall be one flesh.

32 This is a great [g]mystery: but I speak concerning Christ and the [h]church.

33 Nevertheless let every one of you in particular so love his wife even as himself; and the wife see that she [i]reverence her husband.

CHAPTER 6.

(3) The domestic life of Spirit-filled believers as children and servants.

CHILDREN, [j]obey your parents in the Lord: for this is right.

2 [k]Honour thy father and mother; which is the first commandment with promise;

3 That it may be well with thee, and thou mayest live long on the earth.

4 And, ye fathers, [l]provoke not your children to wrath: but bring them up in the [m]nurture and admonition of the Lord.

5 [n]Servants, be obedient to them that are your masters according to the flesh, with fear and trembling, in singleness of your heart, as unto Christ;

6 Not with [o]eyeservice, as menpleasers; but as the servants of Christ, doing the will of God from the heart;

(c) The warrior's foes.

12 For we wrestle not against [w]flesh and blood, but against principalities, against powers, against the [x]rulers of the darkness of this world, against spiritual wickedness in [y]high places.

13 Wherefore take unto you the [z]whole armour of God, that ye may be able to withstand in the evil day, and having done all, to stand.

14 Stand therefore, having [a]your loins girt about with truth, and having on the [b]breastplate of righteousness;

15 And your [c]feet shod with the preparation of the gospel of peace;

16 Above all, taking the [d]shield of faith, wherewith ye shall be able to quench all the fiery darts of the [e]wicked.

17 And take the helmet of [f]salvation, and the sword of the Spirit, which is the [g]word of God:

(d) The warrior's resource.

18 [h]Praying always with all prayer and supplication in the [i]Spirit, and watching thereunto with all perseverance and supplication for all saints;

---

1 Verses 30, 31 are quoted from Gen. ii. 23, 24, and exclude the interpretation that the reference is to the Church merely as the body of Christ. Eve, taken from Adam's body, was truly "bone of his bones, and flesh of his flesh," but she was also his wife, united to him in a relation which makes of "twain . . . one flesh" (Mt. xix. 5, 6), and so a clear type of the Church as bride of Christ (see 2 Cor. xi. 2, 3). The bride types are Eve (Gen. ii. 23, 24); Rebecca (Gen. xxiv. 1-7, note); Asenath (Gen. xli. 45; note under Gen. xxxvii. 2); Zipporah (Ex. ii. 21). See Hos. ii. 1-23, note.

19 And for me, [a]that utterance may be given unto me, that I may open my mouth boldly, to make known the [b]mystery of the [c]gospel,

20 For which I am an ambassador in bonds: that therein I may speak boldly, as I ought to speak.

21 But that ye also may know my affairs, and how I do, [d]Tychicus, a beloved brother and [e]faithful minister in the Lord, shall make known to you all things:

22 Whom I have sent unto you for the same purpose, that ye might know our affairs, and that he might [f]comfort your hearts.

23 Peace be to the brethren, and [g]love with faith, from God the Father and the Lord Jesus Christ.

24 Grace be with all them that love our Lord Jesus Christ in sincerity. Amen.

THE EPISTLE OF PAUL THE APOSTLE TO THE

WRITER. The Apostle Paul (i. 1).

Date. The date of Philippians cannot be positively fixed. It is one of the prison letters. Whether Paul was twice imprisoned, and if so, whether Philippians was written during the first or second imprisonment, affects in no way the message of the Epistle. A.D. 64 is the commonly received date. The immediate occasion of the Epistle is disclosed in Phil. iv. 10-18.

Theme. The theme of Philippians is Christian experience. Soundness of doctrine is assumed. There is nothing in church order to set right. Philippi is a normal New Testament assembly—"saints in Christ Jesus, with the bishops (elders) and deacons." The circumstances of the apostle are in striking contrast with his Christian experience. As to the former, he was Nero's prisoner. As to the latter, there was the shout of victory, the pæan of joy. Christian experience, he would teach us, is not something which is going on around the believer, but something which is going on within him.

The key-verse is, "For to me to live is Christ, and to die is gain" (i. 21). Right Christian experience, then, is the outworking, whatever one's circumstances may be, of the life, nature, and mind of Christ living in us (i. 6, 11; ii. 5, 13).

The divisions are indicated by the chapters: I. Christ, the believer's life, rejoicing in suffering, i. 1-30. II. Christ, the believer's pattern, rejoicing in lowly service, ii. 1-30. III. Christ, the believer's object, rejoicing despite imperfections, iii. 1-21. IV. Christ, the believer's strength, rejoicing over anxiety, iv. 1-23.

CHAPTER 1.

Part I. Christ, the believer's life, rejoicing in spite of suffering (Phil. i. 1-30).

(1) Salutation.

PAUL and Timotheus, the servants of Jesus Christ, to [a]all the saints in Christ Jesus [1]which are at Philippi, with the [b]bishops and deacons:

2 Grace be unto you, [c]and peace, from God our Father, and from the Lord Jesus Christ.

3 I thank my God upon every [d]remembrance of you,

4 Always in every [e]prayer of mine for you all making request with joy,

5 For your fellowship in the gospel from the first day until now;

6 Being confident of this very thing, that he which hath [f]begun a good work in you will perform it until the [g]day of Jesus Christ:

7 Even as it is meet for me to think this of you all, because I have you in my heart; inasmuch as both in my bonds, and in the defence and confirmation of the gospel, ye all are partakers of [h]my grace.

(2) Joy triumphing over suffering.

8 For God is my record, how greatly I long after you all in the bowels of Jesus Christ.

9 And this I [i]pray, that your love may abound yet more and more in knowledge and in all judgment;

10 That ye may approve things that are excellent; that ye may be sincere and without offence till the [g]day of Christ;

11 Being filled with the fruits of [j]righteousness, which are by Jesus Christ, unto the glory and praise of God.

12 But I would ye should understand, brethren, that the things

[1] Churches (local), Summary: A local church is an assembly of professed believers on the Lord Jesus Christ, living for the most part in one locality, who assemble themselves together in His name for the breaking of bread, worship, praise, prayer, testimony, the ministry of the word, discipline, and the furtherance of the Gospel (Heb. x. 25; Acts xx. 7; 1 Cor. xiv. 26; 1 Cor. v. 4, 5; Phil. iv. 14-18; 1 Thes. i. 8; Acts xiii. 1-4). Such a church exists where two or three are thus gathered (Mt. xviii. 20). Every such local church has Christ in the midst, is a temple of God, and indwelt by the Holy Spirit (1 Cor. iii. 16, 17). When perfected in organization a local church consists of "saints, with the bishops [elders] and deacons."

which happened unto me have fallen out rather unto the furtherance of the gospel;

13 So that my bonds [a]in Christ are manifest in all [b]the palace, [c]and in all other places;

14 And many of the brethren in the Lord, waxing confident by my bonds, are much more bold to speak the word without fear.

15 Some indeed preach Christ [d]even of envy and strife; and some also of good will:

16 The one preach Christ of contention, not sincerely, supposing to add affliction to my bonds:

17 But the other of love, knowing that I am set for the defence of the gospel.

18 What then? notwithstanding, every way, whether in pretence, or in truth, Christ is preached; and I therein do rejoice, yea, and will rejoice.

19 For I know that this shall turn to my [e]salvation through your prayer, and the supply of the [f]Spirit of Jesus Christ,

20 According to my earnest expectation and my hope, that in nothing I shall be ashamed, but that with all [g]boldness, as always, so now also Christ shall be magnified in my body, whether it be by life, or by death.

21 For to me to live is Christ, and to [h]die is gain.

22 But if I live in the flesh, this is the fruit of my labour: yet what I shall choose I wot not.

23 For I am in a strait betwixt two, having a [i]desire to depart, and to be with Christ; which is [j]far better:

24 Nevertheless to abide in the flesh is more needful for you.

25 And having this confidence, I know that I shall abide and continue with you all for your furtherance and joy of faith;

26 That your rejoicing may be more abundant in [k]Jesus Christ for me by my coming to you again.

27 Only let your [l]conversation be as it becometh the [m]gospel of Christ: that whether I come and see you, or else be absent, I may hear of your affairs, that ye stand fast in one spirit, with one mind striving together for the faith of the gospel;

28 And in nothing terrified by your adversaries: which is to them an evident token of perdition, but to you of [c]salvation, and that of God.

29 For unto you it is [n]given in the behalf of Christ, not only to believe on him, but also to suffer for his sake;

30 Having the same conflict which ye [o]saw in me, and now hear to be in me.

CHAPTER 2.

Part II. Christ the believer's pattern, rejoicing in lowly service (Phil. 2. 1-30.)

(1) Exhortation to unity and meekness.

IF there be therefore any consolation in Christ, if any comfort of love, if any fellowship of the [p]Spirit, if any [q]bowels and mercies,

2 Fulfil ye my joy, that ye be likeminded, having the same love, being of one accord, of one mind.

3 Let [r]nothing be done through [s]strife or [t]vainglory; but in lowliness of mind let each esteem other better than themselves.

4 Look not every man on [u]his own things, but every man also on the things of others.

(2) The sevenfold self-humbling of Christ.

5 Let [v]this mind be in you, which was also in Christ Jesus:

6 Who, being in the [1]form of God, thought it not [w]robbery to be equal with God:

7 But [x]made himself of no reputation, and took upon him the form of a servant, and [y]was made in the likeness of men:

8 And being found in fashion as a man, [z]he humbled himself, and became obedient unto death, even the death of the cross.

11 And that every tongue should confess that Jesus Christ [b]is Lord, to the glory of God the Father.

(4) The outworking of the inworked salvation.

12 Wherefore, my beloved, as ye have always obeyed, not as in my presence only, but now much more in my absence, [c]work out your own [d]salvation with fear and trembling.

13 For it is [e]God which worketh in you both to will and to do of his good pleasure.

14 Do all things without [f]murmurings and disputings:

15 That ye may be blameless and harmless, the [g]sons of God, without rebuke, in the midst of a crooked and perverse [h]nation, among whom ye shine as lights in the [i]world;

16 Holding forth the word of [j]life; that I may rejoice in [k]the day of Christ, that I have not run in vain, neither laboured in vain.

(5) The apostolic example.

17 Yea, and if I be [l]offered upon the sacrifice and service of your faith, I joy, and rejoice with you all.

18 For the same cause also do ye joy, and rejoice with me.

19 But I [m]trust in the Lord Jesus to send [n]Timotheus shortly unto you, that I also may be of good comfort, when I know your state.

20 For I have no man [o]likeminded, who will naturally care for your state.

21 For all seek their own, not the things which are Jesus Christ's.

22 But ye know the proof of him, that, as a [p]son with the father, he hath served with me in the [q]gospel.

23 Him therefore I hope to send presently, so soon as I shall see how it will go with me.

24 But I trust in the Lord that I also myself shall come shortly.

25 Yet I supposed it necessary to send to you [r]Epaphroditus, my brother, and companion in labour, and fellowsoldier, but your messenger, and he that ministered to my wants.

26 For he longed after you all, and was full of heaviness, because that ye had heard that he had been sick.

27 For indeed he was sick nigh unto death: but God had mercy on him; and not on him only, but on me also, lest I should have sorrow upon sorrow.

28 I sent him therefore the more carefully, that, when ye see him again, ye may rejoice, and that I may be the less sorrowful.

29 [s]Receive him therefore in the Lord with all gladness; and hold such in reputation:

30 Because for the work of Christ he was nigh unto death, not regarding his life, to supply your lack of service toward me.

CHAPTER 3.

Part III. Christ, object of the believer's faith, desire, and expectation (Phil. 3. 1–21).

(1) Warning against Judaizers.

FINALLY, my brethren, [s]rejoice in the Lord. To write the [t]same things to you, to me indeed is not grievous, but for you it is safe.

2 Beware of [u]dogs, beware of [v]evil workers, beware of the [w]concision.

3 For we are the circumcision, which worship God in the [x]spirit, and rejoice in Christ Jesus, and have no confidence in the [y]flesh.

(2) Warning against trusting in legal righteousness.

4 Though I might also have confidence in the flesh. If any other man thinketh that he hath whereof he might trust in the flesh, I more:

5 Circumcised the eighth day, of the stock of Israel, of the tribe of Benjamin, an Hebrew of the Hebrews; as touching the law, a [z]Pharisee;

6 Concerning zeal, persecuting [a]the church; touching the [b]righteousness which is in the law, blameless.

(3) Christ, object of the believer's faith for righteousness.

7 But what things were gain to me, those I counted loss for Christ.

8 Yea doubtless, and I count all things but loss [c]for the excellency of the knowledge of Christ Jesus my Lord: for whom I have [d]suffered the loss of all things, and do count them but dung, that I may win Christ,

9 And be found in him, not having mine own righteousness, which is of the [e]law, but that which is through the [f]faith of Christ, [g]the righteousness which is of God by faith:

(4) Christ, object of the believer's desire for fellowship in resurrection power.

10 That I may know him, and the power of his resurrection, and the [a]fellowship of his sufferings, being made conformable unto his death;

11 If by any means I might attain unto the resurrection [b]of the dead.

12 Not as though I had already attained, either were already [c]perfect: but I follow after, if that I may apprehend that for which also I am apprehended of Christ Jesus.

13 Brethren, I count not myself to have apprehended: but this one thing I do, forgetting those things which are behind, and reaching forth unto those things which are before,

14 I [d]press toward the [e]mark for the prize of the [f]high calling of God in Christ Jesus.

(5) The appeal for unity in the walk.

15 Let us therefore, as many as be [g]perfect, be [g]thus minded: and if in any thing ye be otherwise minded, [h]God shall reveal even this unto you.

16 Nevertheless, whereto we have already attained, let us walk by the same rule, let us mind the same thing.

(6) But truth is not to be compromised for the sake of unity.

17 Brethren, be followers together of me, and mark them which walk so as ye have us [i]for an ensample.

18 (For many walk, of whom I have told you often, and now tell you even weeping, that they are the enemies of the cross of Christ:

19 Whose [j]end is destruction, whose God is their belly, and whose glory is in their shame, who mind earthly things.)

(7) Christ, object of the believer's expectation.

20 For our [k]conversation is in heaven; [l]from whence also we look for the [m]Saviour, the Lord Jesus Christ:

21 Who shall [n]change our [o]vile body, that it may be fashioned like unto his [p]glorious body, according to the working whereby he is able even to subdue all things unto himself.

CHAPTER 4.

Part IV. Christ, the believer's strength, rejoicing over anxiety (Phil. 4. 1-23).

(1) Exhortation to unity and joy.

1 THEREFORE, my brethren dearly beloved and longed for, my joy and [q]crown, so stand fast in the Lord, my dearly beloved.

2 I beseech Euodias, and beseech Syntyche, that they be of the same mind in the Lord.

3 And I intreat thee also, true yokefellow, help those women which laboured with me in the gospel, with Clement also, and with other my fellowlabourers, whose names are in the book [r]of life.

4 Rejoice in the Lord alway: and again I say, Rejoice.

(2) The secret of the peace of God.

5 Let your [s]moderation be known unto all men. [t]The Lord is at hand.

6 [u]Be careful for nothing; but in every thing by prayer and supplication with thanksgiving let your requests be made known unto God.

7 And the [v]peace of God, which passeth all understanding, shall keep your hearts and minds through Christ Jesus.

(3) The presence of the God of peace.

8 Finally, brethren, whatsoever things are [w]true, whatsoever things are [x]honest, whatsoever things are [y]just, whatsoever things are [z]pure, whatsoever things are [a]lovely, whatsoever things are of good report; if there be any virtue, and if there be any praise, think on these things.

9 Those things, which ye have both learned, and received, and heard, and seen in me, do: and [b]the God of peace shall be with you.

(4) The victory over anxious care.

10 But I rejoiced in the Lord greatly, that now at the last your care of me hath [c]flourished again; wherein ye were also careful, but ye lacked opportunity.

11 Not that I speak in respect of want: for I have learned, in whatsoever state I am, [d]therewith to be [e]content.

12 I know both how to be abased, and I know how to abound: every where and in all things I am instructed both to be full and to be hungry, both to abound and to suffer need.

13 I can do all things [a]through Christ which strengtheneth me.

14 Notwithstanding ye have well done, that ye did communicate with my affliction.

15 Now ye Philippians know also, that in the beginning of the [b]gospel, when I departed from Macedonia, no church communicated with me as concerning giving and receiving, but ye only.

16 For even in Thessalonica ye sent once and again unto my necessity.

17 Not because I desire a gift: but I desire fruit that may abound to your account.

18 But I [c]have all, and abound: I am full, having received of Epaphroditus the things which were sent from you, an odour of a sweet smell, a [d]sacrifice acceptable, wellpleasing to God.

19 But my God shall [e]supply all your need according to his riches in glory by Christ Jesus.

20 Now unto God and our Father be glory for ever and ever. Amen.

21 Salute every saint in Christ Jesus. The brethren which are with me greet you.

22 All the saints salute you, chiefly they that are of Cæsar's household.

23 The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you all. Amen.

THE EPISTLE OF PAUL THE APOSTLE TO THE

WRITER. The Apostle Paul (i. 1).

Date. Colossians was sent by the same messenger who bore Ephesians and Philemon, and was probably written at the same time.

Theme. Epaphras, who laboured in the Word in the assembly at Colosse, was Paul's fellow-prisoner at Rome. Doubtless from him Paul learned the state of that church. As to fundamentals that state was excellent (i. 3-8), but in a subtle way two forms of error were at work: The first was legality in its Alexandrian form of asceticism, "touch not, taste not," with a trace of the Judaic observance of "days"; the object of which was the mortification of the body (cf. Rom. viii. 13). The second form of error was false mysticism, "intruding into those things which he hath not seen"—the result of philosophic speculation. Because these are ever present perils, Colossians was written, not for that day only, but for the warning of the Church in all days.

The Epistle is in seven divisions: I. Introduction, i. 1-8. II. The apostolic prayer, i. 9-14. III. The exaltation of Christ, Creator, Redeemer, Indweller, i. 15-29. IV. The Godhead incarnate in Christ, in whom the believer is complete, ii. 1-23. V. The believer's union with Christ in resurrection life and glory, iii. 1-4. VI. Christian living, the fruit of union with Christ, iii. 5-iv. 6. VII. Christian fellowship, iv. 7-18.

CHAPTER 1.

Part I. Introduction: the apostolic greeting (vs. 1-8).

PAUL, an apostle of Jesus Christ by the will of God, and Timotheus our brother,

2 To the saints and faithful brethren in Christ which are at Colosse: Grace be unto you, and peace, from God our Father and the Lord Jesus Christ.

3 We give thanks to God and the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, praying always for you,

4 Since we heard of your faith in Christ Jesus, and of the love which ye have to all the saints,

5 For the hope which is laid up for you in heaven, whereof ye heard before in the word of the truth of the gospel;

6 Which is come unto you, as it is in all the [a]world; and [b]bringeth forth fruit, as it doth also in you, since the day ye heard of it, and knew the [c]grace of God in truth:

7 As ye also learned of [d]Epaphras our dear fellowservant, who is for you a [e]faithful minister of Christ;

8 Who also declared unto us your love in the [f]Spirit.

Part II. The apostle's sevenfold prayer (vs. 9-14).

9 For this cause we also, since the day we heard it, do not cease to [g]pray for you, and to desire that ye might be filled with the [h]knowledge of his will in [i]all wisdom and spiritual understanding;

10 [j]That ye might walk worthy of the Lord unto all [k]pleasing, being [l]fruitful in every good work, and increasing in the [m]knowledge of God;

11 [n]Strengthened with all might, according to his glorious power, unto all [o]patience and longsuffering [p]with joyfulness;

12 Giving thanks unto the Father, which hath made us meet to be partakers of the inheritance of the saints in light:

13 Who hath delivered us from the power of darkness, and hath translated us into the kingdom of his [q]dear Son:

14 In whom we have [r]redemption through his blood, even the [s]forgiveness of sins:

Part III. The exaltation of Christ (vs. 15-29).

(I) The seven superiorities of Christ.

15 Who is the [t]image of the invisible God, the [u]firstborn of every creature:

16 For [v]by him were all things created, that are in heaven, and that are in earth, visible and invisible, whether they be thrones, or dominions, or principalities, or powers: [a]all things were created by him, and for him:

17 And [b]he is before all things, and by him [c]all things consist.

18 And he is the [d]head of the body, the church: who is the beginning, the firstborn [e]from the dead; that in all things he might have the preeminence.

19 [f]For it pleased the Father that in him should all fulness dwell;

(2) The reconciling work of Christ.

20 And, having made peace [g]through the blood of his cross, by him to reconcile all things unto himself; by him, I say, whether they be things in earth, or things in heaven.

21 And you, that were sometime alienated and enemies in your mind by wicked works, yet now hath he [h]reconciled

22 [i]In the body of his flesh through death, to present you [j]holy and unblameable and unreproveable [k]in his sight:

23 If ye continue in the faith grounded and settled, and be not moved away from the hope of the [l]gospel, which ye have heard, and which was [m]preached to every creature which is under heaven; whereof I Paul [n]am made a minister;

(3) The mystery of the indwelling Christ.

24 Who now rejoice in my sufferings for you, and fill up that which is behind of the afflictions of Christ in my flesh for his body's sake, which is the [o]church:

25 Whereof I am made a minister, according to the dispensation of God which is given to me for you, to [p]fulfil the word of God;

26 Even the [q]mystery which hath been hid from [r]ages and from generations, but now is made manifest to his saints:

27 To whom God would make known what is the riches of the glory of this [s]mystery among the Gentiles; which is [t]Christ [u]in you, the hope of glory:

28 Whom we preach, [v]warning every man, and teaching every man in all wisdom; that we may present every man [w]perfect in Christ Jesus:

29 Whereunto I also labour, striving according to his working, which worketh in me mightily.

CHAPTER 2.

Part IV. The Godhead incarnate in Christ, in whom the believer is complete (Col. 2. 1–23).

FOR I would that ye knew what [x]great conflict I have for you, and for them at Laodicea, and for as many as have not seen my face in the flesh;

2 [y]That their hearts might be comforted, being [z]knit together in love, and unto all riches of the [a]full assurance of understanding, to the acknowledgement of the [2][b]mystery of God, [c]and of the Father, and of Christ;

3 [d]In whom are hid all the treasures of wisdom and knowledge.

(1) The danger from enticing words. (Cf. Rom. 16. 17, 18; 1 Cor. 2. 4; 2 Pet. 2. 3.)

4 And this I say, [e]lest any man should beguile you with enticing words.

5 For though I be absent in the flesh, yet am I with you in the spirit, joying and [f]beholding your order, and the [g]stedfastness of your faith in Christ.

6 As ye have therefore received Christ Jesus the Lord, so walk ye in him:

7 Rooted and built up in him, and stablished in the faith, as ye have been taught, abounding therein with thanksgiving.

(2) The twofold warning against (a) philosophy, (b) legality.

8 Beware lest any man spoil you through philosophy and vain deceit, after the tradition of men, after the rudiments of the [h]world, and not after Christ.

[1] Reconciliation. The Greek word signifies "to change thoroughly from," and occurs, Rom. v. 10; xi. 15; 1 Cor. vii. 11; 2 Cor. v. 18, 19, 20. Reconciliation looks toward the effect of the death of Christ upon man, as propitiation (Rom. iii. 25, note) is the Godward aspect, and is that effect of the death of Christ upon the believing sinner which, through divine power, works in him a "thorough change" toward God from enmity and aversion to love and trust. It is never said that God is reconciled. God is propitiated, the sinner reconciled (cf. 2 Cor. v. 18–21).

[2] The "mystery of God" is Christ, as incarnating the fulness of the Godhead, and all the divine wisdom and knowledge for the redemption and reconciliation of man.

(3) Nothing can be added to completeness.

9 For in him [a]dwelleth all the fulness of the Godhead bodily.

10 And ye are complete in him, which is the [b]head of all principality and power:

11 In whom also ye are [c]circumcised with the circumcision made without hands, in putting off the body of [d]the sins of the flesh by the circumcision of Christ:

12 [e]Buried with him in baptism, wherein also ye are risen with him through the faith of the [f]operation of God, who hath raised him from the dead.

13 And you, being [g]dead in your sins and the uncircumcision of your flesh, hath he quickened together with him, having [h]forgiven you all trespasses;

(4) Law observances were abolished in Christ. (Cf. Mt. 5. 17.)

14 [i]Blotting out the handwriting of ordinances that was against us, which was contrary to us, and took it out of the way, nailing it to his cross;

15 And having [j]spoiled principalities and powers, he made a shew of them openly, triumphing over them in it.

16 Let no man therefore [k]judge you in meat, or in drink, or in respect of an [l]holyday, or of the new moon, or of the sabbath days:

17 Which are a [m]shadow of things to come; but the body is of Christ.

(5) Warning against false mysticism.

18 Let no man beguile you of your reward in a voluntary humility and worshipping of [n]angels, [1]intruding into those things which he hath not seen, vainly puffed up by his fleshly mind,

19 And not [o]holding the [p]Head, from which all the body by joints and bands having nourishment ministered, and knit together, increaseth with the increase of God.

20 Wherefore if ye be dead with Christ from the rudiments of the [q]world, why, as though living in the world, are ye subject to ordinances,

21 (Touch not; taste not; handle not;

22 Which all are to perish with the using;) after the commandments and doctrines of men?

23 Which things have indeed a shew of wisdom in will worship, and humility, and neglecting of the body; [r]not in any honour to the satisfying of the [s]flesh.

CHAPTER 3.

Part V. The believer's union with Christ, now and hereafter (vs. 1-4).

IF ye then be [t]risen with Christ, seek those things which are above, where [u]Christ sitteth on the right hand of God.

2 Set your affection on things above, not on things on the earth.

3 [v]For ye are dead, and your life is hid with Christ in God.

4 When Christ, who is our [w]life, [x]shall appear, then shall ye also appear with him in glory.

Part VI. Christian living, the fruit of union with Christ (Col 3. 5-4. 6).

5 [y]Mortify therefore your members which are upon the earth; fornication, uncleanness, inordinate affection, evil concupiscence, and covetousness, which is [z]idolatry:

6 For which things' sake the [a]wrath of God cometh on the [b]children of disobedience:

7 In the which [c]ye also walked some time, when ye lived in them.

8 [d]But now ye also put off all these; anger, wrath, malice, blasphemy, filthy communication out of your mouth.

9 Lie not one to another, seeing that ye have put off the [e]old man with his deeds;

10 And have put on the new man,

[1] The errorists against whom Paul warns the Colossians, and against whom, in principle, the warning has perpetual significance, were called "Gnostics," from gnosis, "knowledge." These Gnostics "came most keenly into conflict with the exalted rank and redeeming work of Christ, to whom they did not leave His full divine dignity, but assigned to Him merely the highest rank in the order of spirits, while they exalted angels as concerned in bringing in the Messianic salvation."—H. A. W. Meyer. Paul's characteristic word in Colossians for the divine revelation is epignosis, i.e. "full-knowledge" (i. 9, 10; iii. 10), as against the pretended "knowledge" of the errorists. The warnings apply to all extra-biblical forms, doctrines, and customs, and to all ascetic practices.

which is renewed in knowledge after the image of him that [a]created him:

11 Where there is neither Greek nor Jew, circumcision nor uncircumcision, Barbarian, Scythian, bond nor free: [b]but Christ is all, and in all.

12 Put on therefore, as the [c]elect of God, [d]holy and beloved, [e]bowels of mercies, kindness, humbleness of mind, meekness, longsuffering;

13 Forbearing one another, and forgiving one another, if any man have a quarrel against any: even as Christ [f]forgave you, so also do ye.

14 And [g]above all these things put on [h]charity, which is the bond of [i]perfectness.

15 And let the peace of [j]God [k]rule in your hearts, to the which also ye are called in one body: and [l]be ye thankful.

16 Let the word of Christ dwell in you richly in all wisdom; [m]teaching and admonishing one another in psalms and hymns and spiritual songs, singing with [n]grace in your hearts to the Lord.

17 And [o]whatsoever ye do in word or deed, do all in the name of the Lord Jesus, giving thanks to God and the Father by him.

18 Wives, [p]submit yourselves unto your own husbands, as [q]it is fit in the Lord.

19 Husbands, [r]love your wives, and be not bitter against them.

20 Children, obey your parents in all things: for this is [s]well pleasing unto the Lord.

21 [t]Fathers, provoke not your children to anger, lest they be discouraged.

22 [u]Servants, obey in all things your masters according to the flesh; not with eyeservice, as menpleasers; but in singleness of heart, fearing God:

23 And [v]whatsoever ye do, do it heartily, as to the Lord, and not unto men;

24 Knowing that of the Lord ye shall receive the [w]reward of the inheritance: for ye serve the Lord Christ.

25 But he that doeth wrong shall receive for the wrong which he hath done: and there is no respect of persons.

CHAPTER 4.

MASTERS, give unto your servants that which is just and equal; knowing that ye also have a Master in heaven.

2 [x]Continue in prayer, and watch in the same with thanksgiving;

3 Withal praying also for us, that God would open unto us a door of utterance, to speak the [y]mystery of Christ, for which I am also in bonds:

4 That I may make it manifest, as I ought to speak.

5 Walk in wisdom toward them that are without, redeeming the time.

6 Let your speech be alway with [z]grace, seasoned with salt, that ye may know how ye ought to answer every man.

13 For I bear him record, that he hath a great zeal for you, and them that are in Laodicea, and them in Hierapolis.

Shut up in prison, no longer able to preach, Epaphras was still, equally with all believers, a priest. No prison could keep him from the throne of grace, so he gave himself wholly to the priestly work of intercession.

[c] Heb. 3. 3.

THE FIRST EPISTLE OF PAUL THE APOSTLE TO THE

WRITER. The Apostle Paul (i. 1).

Date. The Epistle was written from Corinth, A.D. 54, shortly after Paul's departure from Thessalonica (Acts xvi., xvii.), and is the earliest of his letters.

Theme. The theme of the Epistle is threefold: (1) To confirm young disciples in the foundational truths already taught them; (2) to exhort them to go on to holiness; (3) to comfort them concerning those who had fallen asleep. The second coming of Christ is prominent throughout. The Epistle is incidentally most interesting as showing the richness in doctrine of the primitive evangelism. During a mission of about one month the apostle had taught all the great [1]doctrines of the Christian faith.

The divisions of the Epistle are sufficiently indicated by the chapters: I. The model church, and the three tenses of the Christian life, i. 1-10. II. The model servant and his reward, ii. 1-20. III. The model brother, and the believer's sanctification, iii. 1-13. IV. The model walk, and the believer's hope, iv. 1-18. V. The model walk, and the day of Jehovah, v. 1-28.

CHAPTER 1.

Part I. The model church, and the three tenses of the Christian life.

PAUL, and Silvanus, and Timotheus, unto the [a]church of the [b]Thessalonians which is in God the Father and in the Lord Jesus Christ: Grace be unto you, and peace, from God our Father, and the Lord Jesus Christ.

2 We give thanks to God always for you all, making mention of you in our prayers;

3 Remembering without ceasing your [c]work of faith, and labour of love, and patience of hope in our Lord Jesus Christ, in the sight of God and our Father;

4 Knowing, brethren beloved, your [d]election of God.

5 For our [e]gospel came not unto you in word only, but also in power, and in the Holy Ghost, and in much [f]assurance; as ye know what manner of men we were among you for your sake.

6 And ye became followers of us, and of the Lord, having received the word in much affliction, with [g]joy of the [h]Holy Ghost:

7 So that ye were ensamples to all that believe in Macedonia and Achaia.

8 For from you [i]sounded out the word of the Lord not only in Macedonia and Achaia, but also [j]in every place your faith to God-ward is spread abroad; so that we need not to speak any thing.

9 For they themselves shew of us what manner of entering in we had unto you, and [2]how ye [k]turned to God from idols to serve the living and true God;

10 And [l]to wait for his Son from heaven, whom he raised [m]from the dead, even Jesus, which delivered us from the [n]wrath to come.

CHAPTER 2.

Part II. The model servant, and his reward.

FOR yourselves, brethren, know our entrance in unto you, that it was not in vain:

[1] That is: election, i. 4; Holy Spirit, i. 5, 6; iv. 8; v. 19; assurance, i. 5; Trinity, i. 1, 5, 6; conversion, i. 9; second advent of Christ, i. 10; ii. 19; iii. 13; iv. 14-17; v. 23; walk, ii. 12; iv. 1; sanctification, iv. 3; v. 23; day of Jehovah, v. 1-3; resurrection, iv. 14-18; the tripartite nature of man, v. 23.

[2] The tenses of the believer's life here indicated are logical and give the true order. They occur also in v. 3. The "work of faith" is to "turn to God from idols" (cf. John vi. 28, 29); the "labour of love" is to "serve the living and true God"; and the "patience of hope" is to "wait for his Son from heaven" (cf. Mt. xxiv. 42; xxv. 13; Lk. xii. 36-48; Acts i. 11; Phil. iii. 20, 21). Paul repeats this threefold sequence in Tit. ii. 11-13.

2 But even after that we had suffered before, and were shamefully entreated, as ye know, at [a]Philippi, we were [b]bold in our God to speak unto you the gospel of God with much contention.

3 For our exhortation was not of [c]deceit, nor of uncleanness, nor in guile:

4 But as we were allowed of God to be put in trust with the gospel, even so we speak; not as pleasing men, but God, which trieth our hearts.

5 For [d]neither at any time used we flattering words, as ye know, nor a cloke of covetousness; God is witness:

6 Nor of men [e]sought we glory, neither of you, nor yet of others, when we might have been burdensome, as the apostles of Christ.

7 But we were gentle among you, even as a nurse cherisheth [f]her children:

8 So being affectionately desirous of you, we were willing to [g]have imparted unto you, not the gospel of God only, but also our own souls, because ye were dear unto us.

9 For ye remember, brethren, our [h]labour and travail: for labouring night and day, because we would not be chargeable unto any of you, we preached unto you the [i]gospel of God.

10 Ye are witnesses, and God also, how holily and justly and unblameably we behaved ourselves among you that believe:

11 As ye know how we exhorted and comforted and charged every one of you, as a father doth his children,

12 That ye would walk [j]worthy of God, [k]who hath called you unto his kingdom and glory.

13 For this cause also thank we God without ceasing, because, when ye received the word of God which ye heard of us, ye received it not as the word of men, but as it is in truth, the word of God, which effectually [l]worketh also in you that believe.

14 For ye, brethren, became [m]followers of the [n]churches of God which in Judæa are in Christ Jesus: for ye also have suffered like things of your own countrymen, even as they have of the Jews:

15 Who both killed the Lord Jesus, and [o]their own prophets, and have persecuted us; and they please not God, and are contrary to all men:

16 [p]Forbidding us to speak to the Gentiles that they might be [q]saved, to fill up their [r]sins alway: for the wrath is come upon them to the uttermost.

17 But we, brethren, being taken from you for a short time in presence, not in heart, endeavoured the more abundantly to see your face with great desire.

18 Wherefore we would have come unto you, even I Paul, once and again; but [s]Satan hindered us.

19 For what is our hope, or joy, or [t]crown of rejoicing? Are not even ye [u]in the presence [v]of our Lord Jesus Christ [w]at his coming?

20 For ye are our glory and joy.

CHAPTER 3.

Part III. The model brother, and the believer's sanctification.

WHEREFORE when we could no longer forbear, we thought it good to be left at Athens alone;

2 And sent [x]Timotheus, our brother, and minister of God, and our fellowlabourer in the [y]gospel of Christ, to establish you, and to comfort you concerning your faith:

3 [z]That no man should be moved by these afflictions: for yourselves know that [a]we are appointed thereunto.

4 For verily, when we were with you, we told you before that we should suffer tribulation; even as it came to pass, and ye know.

5 For this cause, [b]when I could no longer forbear, I sent to know your faith, [c]lest by some means the tempter have [d]tempted you, and our labour [e]be in vain.

6 But now when Timotheus came from you unto us, and brought us good tidings of your faith and [f]charity, and that ye have good remembrance of us always, [g]desiring greatly to see us, as we also to see you:

7 Therefore, brethren, we were [h]comforted over you in all our affliction and distress by your faith:

8 For now we live, if ye stand [i]fast in the Lord.

9 For what thanks can we render to God again for you, for all the joy wherewith we joy for your sakes before our God;

10 Night and day [j]praying exceedingly that we might see your face, and might [k]perfect that which is lacking in your faith?

and our Lord Jesus Christ, [a]direct our way unto you.

12 And the Lord make you to increase and abound [b]in love one toward another, and toward all men, even as we do toward you:

13 To the end he may stablish [c]your hearts unblameable in holiness before God, even our Father, [d]at the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ with all his saints.

CHAPTER 4.

Part IV. The model walk, and the believer's hope.

FURTHERMORE then we [e]beseech you, brethren, and [f]exhort you by the Lord Jesus, that as ye have received of us how ye ought [g]to walk and to please God, so ye would [h]abound more and more.

2 For ye know what commandments we gave you by the Lord Jesus.

3 For this is the will of God, even your sanctification, [i]that ye should abstain from fornication:

4 That every one of you should know how to possess his vessel in sanctification and honour;

5 Not in the lust of concupiscence, even as the [j]Gentiles which know not God:

6 That no man go beyond and [k]defraud his brother [l]in any matter: because that the Lord is the avenger of all such, as we also have forewarned you and testified.

7 For God hath not called us unto uncleanness, [m]but unto holiness.

8 He therefore that [n]despiseth, despiseth not man, but God, who hath also given unto us his [o]holy Spirit.

9 But as touching brotherly love ye need not that I write unto you: for ye yourselves are [p]taught of God to love one another.

10 And indeed ye do it toward all the brethren which are in all Macedonia: but we beseech you, brethren, that ye increase more and more;

11 And that ye study to be quiet, and [q]to do your own business, and to work with your own hands, as we commanded you;

12 That ye may walk [r]honestly toward them that are without, and that ye may have lack of nothing.

13 But I would not have you to be ignorant, brethren, concerning them which are [s]asleep, that ye sorrow not, even as others which have no hope.

14 For if we [t]believe that Jesus died and [u]rose again, even so [v]them also which sleep in Jesus will God bring with him.

15 For this we say unto you by the word of the Lord, that we which are alive and remain unto the coming of the Lord shall not [w]prevent them which are asleep.

16 [x]For the Lord himself shall descend from heaven with a shout, with the voice of the archangel, and with the trump of God: and the dead in Christ [y]shall rise first:

17 [z]Then we which are alive and remain shall be [1]caught up together [a]with them in the clouds, to meet the Lord in the air: and so shall we ever [b]be with the Lord.

18 Wherefore comfort one another with these words.

CHAPTER 5.

Part V. The model walk, and the day of Jehovah. (Cf. Rev. 19. 11–21, note.)

BUT of the times and the seasons, brethren, ye have no need that I write unto you.

2 For yourselves know perfectly that the [c]day of the Lord [d]so cometh as a thief in the night.

3 For when they shall say, Peace and safety; then [e]sudden destruction cometh upon them, as travail upon a woman with child; and they shall not escape.

4 But [f]ye, brethren, are not in darkness, that that day should overtake you as a thief.

5 Ye are all [g]the children of light, and the children of the day: we are not of the night, nor of darkness.

6 [h]Therefore let us not sleep, as do others; but let us watch and be [i]sober.

7 For they that sleep sleep in the night; and they that be drunken are drunken in the night.

8 But let us, who are of the day, be sober, putting on the [j]breastplate of faith and love; and for an helmet, the hope of [k]salvation.

9 For God hath not appointed us

[n] adjure.

[1]Man a trinity. That the human soul and spirit are not identical is proved by the facts that they are divisible (Heb. iv. 12), and that soul and spirit are sharply distinguished in the burial and resurrection of the body. It is sown a natural body (soma psuchikon = "soul-body"), it is raised a spiritual body (soma pneumatikon), 1 Cor. xv. 44. To assert, therefore, that there is no difference between soul and spirit is to assert that there is no difference between the mortal body and the resurrection body. In Scripture use, the distinction between spirit and soul may be traced. Briefly, that distinction is that the spirit is that part of man which "knows" (1 Cor. ii. 11), his mind; the soul is the seat of the affections, desires, and so of the emotions, and of the active will, the self. "My soul is exceeding sorrowful" (Mt. xxvi. 38; see also Mt. xi. 29; and John xii. 27). The word translated "soul" in the O.T. (nephesh) is the exact equivalent of the N.T. word for soul (Gr. psuche), and the use of "soul" in the O.T. is identical with the use of that word in the N.T. (see, e.g. Deut. vi. 5; xiv. 26; 1 Sam. xviii. 1; xx. 4, 17; Job vii. 11, 15; xiv. 22; Psa. xlii. 6; lxxxiv. 2). The N.T. word for spirit (pneuma), like the O.T. ruach, is trans. "air," "breath," "wind," but predominantly "spirit," whether of God (e.g. Gen. i. 2; Mt. iii. 16) or of man (Gen. xli. 8; 1 Cor. v. 5). Because man is "spirit" he is capable of God-consciousness, and of communication with God (Job xxxii. 8; Psa. xviii. 28; Prov. xx. 27); because he is "soul" he has self-consciousness (Psa. xiii. 2; xlii. 5, 6, 11); because he is "body" he has, through his senses, world-consciousness. See Gen. i. 26, note.

THE SECOND EPISTLE OF PAUL THE APOSTLE TO THE

WRITER. The Apostle Paul (i. 1).

Date. Second Thessalonians was evidently written very soon after Paul's first letter to that church. The occasion may well have been the return of the bearer of the former Epistle, and his report.

Theme. The theme of Second Thessalonians is, unfortunately, obscured by a mistranslation in the A. V. of ii. 2, where "day of Christ is at hand" (1 Cor. i. 8, note) should be, "day of the Lord is now present" (Isa. ii. 12, refs.) The Thessalonian converts were "shaken in mind" and "troubled," supposing, perhaps on the authority of a forged letter as from Paul, that the persecutions from which they were suffering were those of the "great and terrible day of the Lord," from which they had been taught to expect deliverance by "the day of Christ, and our gathering together unto him" (ii. 1).

The present letter, then, was written to instruct the Thessalonians concerning the day of Christ, "and our gathering together unto him" (1 Thes. iv. 14-17) and the relation of the "day of Christ" to the "day of the Lord." First Thessalonians had more in view the "day of Christ"; the present Epistle the "day of the Lord."

The Epistle is in five divisions: I. Salutation, i. 1-4. II. Comfort, i. 5-12. III. Instruction concerning the day of the Lord and the man of sin, ii. 1-12. IV. Exhortations and apostolic commands, ii. 13-iii. 15. V. Benediction and authentication, iii. 16-18.

CHAPTER 1.

Part I. Salutation.

PAUL, and Silvanus, and Timotheus, [a]unto the church of the Thessalonians in God our Father and the Lord Jesus Christ:

2 Grace unto you, and peace, from God our Father and the Lord Jesus Christ.

3 We are bound to thank God always for you, brethren, as it is meet, because that your faith groweth exceedingly, and the [b]charity of every one of you all toward each other aboundeth;

4 So that we ourselves [c]glory in you in the [d]churches of God for your patience and faith in all your persecutions and tribulations that ye [e]endure:

Part II. Comfort in persecution.

5 [f]Which is a manifest token of the righteous judgment of God, that ye may be counted worthy of the kingdom of God, for which ye also [g]suffer:

6 [h]Seeing it is a righteous thing with God to recompense tribulation to them that trouble you;

7 And to you who are troubled rest with us, when the Lord Jesus shall be revealed from heaven with his mighty [k]angels,

9 Who shall be punished with everlasting [n]destruction from the presence of the Lord, and from [o]the glory of his power;

10 When he shall come [p]to be glorified in his saints, and to be admired in all them that believe (because our testimony among you was believed) in that day.

11 Wherefore also we [q]pray always for you, that our God would [r]count you worthy of this calling, and fulfil all the good pleasure of his goodness, and the work of faith with power:

12 [s]That the name of our Lord Jesus Christ may be glorified in you, and ye in him, according to the [t]grace of our God and the Lord Jesus Christ.

CHAPTER 2.

Part III. The day of the Lord and the man of sin.

NOW we beseech you, brethren, by the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ, and by our gathering together unto him,

2 That ye be not soon shaken in mind, or be troubled, neither by spirit, nor by word, nor by letter as from us, as that the [a]day of Christ is [b]at hand.

3 Let no man deceive you by any means: [1]for that day shall not come, except there come [c]a falling away first, and that [d]man of sin be revealed, the son of perdition;

4 Who opposeth and exalteth himself above all that is called God, or that is worshipped; so that he as God sitteth in the temple of God, shewing himself that he is God.

5 Remember ye not, that, when I was yet with you, I told you these things?

6 And now ye know what [e]withholdeth that he might be revealed in his time.

7 For the [f]mystery of [g]iniquity doth already work: only he who now [h]letteth will [i]let, until he be taken out of the way.

8 And then shall [j]that [k]Wicked be revealed, [l]whom the Lord shall consume with the spirit of his mouth, and shall destroy [m]with the brightness of his coming:

9 Even him, whose coming is after the working of [n]Satan with all power and signs and lying wonders,

10 And with all deceivableness of unrighteousness in them that perish; because they received not [o]the love of the truth, that they might be [p]saved.

11 And for this cause God shall send them strong delusion, that they should believe a lie:

12 That they all might be [q]damned who [r]believed not the truth, but had pleasure in [s]unrighteousness.

Part IV. Exhortation and instruction (to 3. 15).

13 But we are bound to give thanks alway to God for you, brethren beloved of the Lord, because God hath from the beginning [t]chosen you to [u]salvation through sanctification of the [v]Spirit and belief of the truth:

14 Whereunto he called you by our [w]gospel, to the obtaining of the glory of our Lord Jesus Christ.

15 Therefore, brethren, stand fast, and hold the [x]traditions which ye have been taught, whether by word, or our epistle.

16 [y]Now our Lord Jesus Christ himself, and God, even our Father, which hath loved us, and hath given us everlasting consolation and good hope [z]through grace, 17 Comfort your hearts, and stablish you in every good word and work.

CHAPTER 3.

FINALLY, brethren, pray for us, that the word of the Lord may have free course, and be glorified, even as it is with you:

2 And that we may be delivered from unreasonable and wicked men: for all men have not faith.

3 But the Lord is faithful, who shall stablish you, and keep you from evil.

4 And we have confidence in the Lord touching you, that ye both do and will do the things which we command you.

5 And the [a]Lord direct your hearts into the love of God, and into the patient waiting for Christ.

6 Now we command you, brethren, in the name of our Lord Jesus Christ, that ye withdraw yourselves from every brother that walketh disorderly, and not after the tradition which he received of us.

7 For yourselves know how ye ought to follow us: for we behaved not ourselves disorderly among you;

8 Neither did we eat any man's bread for nought; but wrought with labour and travail night and day, that we might not be chargeable to any of you:

9 Not because we have not power, but to make ourselves an ensample unto you to follow us.

10 For even when we were with you, this we commanded you, that if any would not work, neither should he eat.

[1] The order of events is: (1) The working of the mystery of lawlessness under divine restraint which had already begun in the apostle's time (v. 7); (2) the apostasy of the professing church (v. 3; Lk. xviii. 8; 2 Tim. iii. 1-8); (3) the removal of that which restrains the mystery of lawlessness (vs. 6, 7). The restrainer is a person—"he," and since a "mystery" always implies a supernatural element (Mt. xiii. 11, note), this Person can be no other than the Holy Spirit in the church, to be "taken out of the way" (v. 7; 1 Thes. iv. 14-17); (4) the manifestation of the lawless one (vs. 8-10; Dan. vii. 8; ix. 27; Mt. xxiv. 15; Rev. xiii. 2-10); (5) the day of Jehovah (vs. 9-12; Isa. ii. 12, refs.); (6) the coming of Christ in glory and the destruction of the lawless one (v. 8; Rev. xix. 11-21).

11 For we hear that there are some which walk among you disorderly, working not at all, but are [a]busybodies.

12 Now them that are such we command and exhort by our Lord Jesus Christ, that with quietness they [b]work, and eat their own bread.

13 But ye, brethren, [c]be not weary in well doing.

14 And if any man obey not our word by this epistle, note that man, and [d]have no company with him, that he may be ashamed.

15 Yet count him not as an enemy, but admonish him [e]as a brother.

Part V. Benediction and subscription.

16 Now the [f]Lord of peace himself give you peace always by all means. The Lord be with you all.

17 The [g]salutation of Paul with mine own hand, which is the token in every epistle: so I write.

18 The [h]grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you all. Amen

THE FIRST EPISTLE OF PAUL THE APOSTLE TO TIMOTHY

WRITER.—The Apostle Paul (i. 1).

Date. The date of this Epistle turns upon the question of the two imprisonments of Paul. If there were two (see Acts xxviii. 30, note), then it is clear that First Timothy was written during the interval. If Paul endured but one Roman imprisonment, the Epistle was written shortly before Paul's last journey to Jerusalem.

Theme. As the churches of Christ increased in number, the questions of church order, of soundness in the faith, and of discipline became important. At first the apostles regulated these things directly, but the approaching end of the apostolic period made it necessary that a clear revelation should be made for the guidance of the churches. Such a revelation is in First Timothy, and in Titus. The key-phrase of this Epistle is, "That thou mayest know how thou oughtest to behave thyself in the house of God." Well had it been with the churches if they had neither added to nor taken from the divine order.

The divisions are five: I. Legality and unsound doctrine rebuked, i. 1-20. II. Prayer and the divine order of the sexes enjoined, ii. 1-15. III. The qualifications of elders and deacons, iii. 1-16. IV. The walk of the "good minister," iv. 1-16. V. The work of the "good minister," v. 1-vi. 21.

CHAPTER 1.

Part I. Legalism and unsound teaching rebuked.

PAUL, an apostle of Jesus Christ by the commandment of God our [a]Saviour, and [b]Lord Jesus Christ, which is our hope;

2 Unto Timothy, my [c]own son in the faith: Grace, mercy, and peace, from God our Father and [d]Jesus Christ our Lord.

3 As I besought thee to abide still at Ephesus, when I [e]went into Macedonia, that thou mightest charge some that they teach no other doctrine,

4 Neither give [f]heed to fables and endless genealogies, which minister questions, rather than godly edifying which is in faith: so do.

5 Now [g]the end of the commandment is [h]charity out of a [i]pure heart, and of a good conscience, and of faith unfeigned:

6 From which some [j]having swerved have turned aside unto vain jangling;

7 Desiring to be teachers of the law; understanding neither what they say, nor whereof they affirm.

8 But we know that the law is [k]good, if a man use it lawfully;

9 Knowing this, that the [l]law is not made for a righteous man, but for the lawless and disobedient, for the ungodly and for sinners, for unholy and profane, for [m]murderers of fathers and murderers of mothers, for manslayers,

10 For whoremongers, for them that defile themselves with mankind, for menstealers, for liars, for perjured persons, and if there be any other thing that is contrary to [n]sound doctrine;

11 According to the [o]glorious [p]gospel of the [q]blessed God, which was [r]committed to my trust.

12 And I thank Christ Jesus our Lord, who hath [s]enabled me, for that he counted me [t]faithful, [u]putting me into the ministry;

13 Who was [v]before a blasphemer, and a persecutor, and injurious: but I obtained mercy, because I did it [w]ignorantly in unbelief.

14 And the grace of our Lord was exceeding abundant with faith and love which is in Christ Jesus.

15 This is a [x]faithful saying, and worthy of all acceptation, that Christ Jesus came into the [y]world to [z]save [a]sinners; of whom I am chief.

16 Howbeit for this cause I obtained mercy, that in me first Jesus Christ might shew forth all long-suffering, for a [b]pattern to them which should hereafter believe on him to [c]life everlasting.

18 This charge I commit unto thee, [a]son Timothy, according to the prophecies which went before on thee, that thou by them mightest war [b]a good warfare;

19 Holding faith, and a good conscience; which some having put away concerning faith have made shipwreck:

20 Of whom is [1][c]Hymenæus and Alexander; whom I have [d]delivered unto [e]Satan, that they may learn not to blaspheme.

CHAPTER 2.

Part II. Prayer, and the divine order of the sexes.

I EXHORT therefore, that, first of all, supplications, prayers, intercessions, and giving of thanks, be made for all men;

2 For [f]kings, and for all that are in authority; that we may lead a quiet and peaceable life in all godliness and [g]honesty.

3 For this is good and acceptable in the sight of God our [h]Saviour;

4 [i]Who will have all men to be [j]saved, and to come unto the knowledge of the truth.

5 For there is one God, and one mediator between God and men, the man Christ Jesus;

6 Who gave himself a [k]ransom for all, to be testified in due time.

7 Whereunto I am ordained a preacher, and an apostle, (I speak the truth in Christ, and lie not;) a teacher of the Gentiles in faith and verity.

8 I will therefore that [l]men pray every where, lifting up holy hands, without wrath and doubting.

9 In like manner also, that women adorn themselves in modest apparel, with shamefacedness and sobriety; not with [m]broided hair, or gold, or pearls, or costly array;

10 But (which becometh women professing godliness) with good works.

11 Let the [n]woman learn in [o]silence with all [p]subjection.

12 But I suffer not a woman to teach, nor to usurp authority over the man, but to be in [q]silence.

13 For Adam was first formed, then Eve.

14 And Adam was not deceived, but the woman being deceived was in the [r]transgression.

15 Notwithstanding she shall be [s]saved in childbearing, if they continue in faith and [t]charity and holiness with sobriety.

CHAPTER 3.

Part III. The qualifications of elders and deacons.

THIS is a true saying, If a man desire the office of a [u]bishop, he desireth a good work.

2 [v]A [w]bishop then must be blameless, the husband of one wife, [x]vigilant, sober, of good behaviour, given to hospitality, apt to teach;

3 Not given to wine, no striker, not greedy of filthy lucre; but [y]patient, not a brawler, not covetous;

4 One that ruleth [z]well his own house, having his children in subjection with all gravity;

5 (For if a man know not how to rule his own house, how shall he take care of the church of God?)

6 Not a novice, lest being [a]lifted up with pride he fall into the condemnation of the [b]devil.

7 Moreover he must have a good report of [c]them which are without; lest he fall into reproach and the [d]snare of the [e]devil.

8 Likewise must the [f]deacons be grave, not doubletongued, not given to much wine, not greedy of filthy lucre;

9 Holding the [g]mystery of the faith in a pure conscience.

10 And let these also first be proved; then let them use the office of a deacon, being found blameless.

11 [h]Even so must their wives be grave, not slanderous, sober, faithful in all things.

12 Let the deacons be the husbands of one wife, [i]ruling their children and their own houses well.

13 For they that have [j]used the office of a deacon [k]well purchase to themselves a good degree, and great boldness in the faith which is in Christ Jesus.

[1] It is significant as bearing upon the seriousness of all false teaching, and particularly as related to resurrection, that Paul calls it blasphemy to teach that "the resurrection is past already" (2 Tim. ii. 17, 18).

15 But if I tarry long, that thou mayest know how thou oughtest to behave thyself [a]in the house of God, which is the [1b]church [c]of the living God, the pillar and ground of the truth.

16 And without controversy great is the [d]mystery of godliness: God was manifest in the flesh, justified in the [e]Spirit, seen of [f]angels, preached unto the Gentiles, believed on in the [g]world, received up into glory.

CHAPTER 4.

Part IV. The walk of a "good minister of Jesus Christ."

NOW the [h]Spirit [i]speaketh expressly, that in the latter times some shall [j]depart from the faith, giving heed to seducing spirits, and doctrines of [k]devils;

2 Speaking lies in hypocrisy; having their conscience seared with a hot iron;

3 Forbidding to marry, and commanding to abstain from meats, which God hath created to be received with thanksgiving of them which believe and know the truth.

4 For every creature of God is good, and nothing to be refused, if it be received with thanksgiving:

5 For it is [l]sanctified by the word of God and prayer.

6 If thou put the brethren in remembrance of these things, thou shalt be a good minister of [m]Jesus Christ, nourished up in the words of [n]faith and of good doctrine, whereunto thou hast attained.

7 But refuse profane and old wives' fables, and exercise thyself rather unto godliness.

8 For bodily exercise profiteth [o]little: but godliness is profitable unto all things, having promise of the life that now is, and of [p]that which is to come.

9 This is a faithful saying and worthy of all acceptation.

10 For therefore we both labour and suffer reproach, because we [q]trust in the living God, who is the [r]Saviour of all men, specially of those that believe.

11 These things command and teach.

12 [s]Let no man despise thy youth; but be thou an example of the believers, in word, in conversation, in [t]charity, in spirit, in faith, in purity.

13 Till I come, give attendance to reading, to exhortation, to doctrine.

14 [u]Neglect not the gift that is in thee, which was given thee by prophecy, with the [v]laying on of the hands of the presbytery.

15 Meditate upon these things; give thyself wholly to them; that thy profiting may appear to all.

16 Take heed unto thyself, and unto the doctrine; continue in them: for in doing this thou shalt both [w]save thyself, and them that hear thee.

CHAPTER 5.

Part V. The work of a "good minister of Jesus Christ."

REBUKE not an elder, but intreat him as a father; and the younger men as brethren;

2 The elder women as mothers; the younger as sisters, with all purity.

3 Honour widows that are [x]widows indeed.

4 But if any widow have children or [y]nephews, let them learn first to shew piety at home, and to requite their parents: for that is good and acceptable before God.

5 Now she that is a widow indeed, and desolate, [z]trusteth in God, and continueth in supplications and prayers night and day.

6 But she that liveth in pleasure is [a]dead while she liveth.

7 And these things give in charge, that they may be blameless.

8 But if any provide not for his own, and [b]specially for those of his own house, he hath denied the faith, and is worse than an [c]infidel.

[1] Church (visible), Summary: The passages under this head (1 Cor. x. 32; 1 Tim. iii. 15) refer to that visible body of professed believers called, collectively, "the Church," of which history takes account as such, though it exists under many names and divisions based upon differences in doctrine or in government. Within, for the most part, this historical "Church" has existed the true Church, "which is his body, the fulness of him that filleth all in all" (Eph. i. 22, 23; Heb. xii. 23, note), like the believing Remnant within Israel (Rom. xi. 5, note). The predicted future of the visible Church is apostasy (Lk. xviii. 8; 2 Tim. iii. 1-8); of the true Church, glory (Mt. xiii. 36-43; Rom. viii. 18-23; 1 Thes. iv. 14-17).

9 Let not a widow be taken into the number under threescore years old, having been the wife of one man,

10 Well reported of for good works; if she have brought up children, if she have [a]lodged strangers, if she have washed the saints' feet, if she have relieved the afflicted, if she have diligently followed every good work.

11 But the younger widows refuse: for when they have begun to wax wanton against Christ, they will marry;

12 [b]Having damnation, because they have cast off their first faith.

13 And withal they learn to be idle, wandering about from house to house; [c]and not only idle, but tattlers also and busybodies, speaking things which they ought not.

14 I will therefore that the younger women marry, bear children, guide the house, give none occasion to the adversary to speak reproachfully.

15 For some are already turned aside after [d]Satan.

16 If any man or woman that believeth have widows, let them relieve them, and let not the church be charged; that it may relieve them that are widows indeed.

17 [e]Let the elders that rule well be counted worthy of double honour, especially they who labour in the word and doctrine.

18 For the scripture saith, [f]Thou shalt not muzzle the ox that treadeth out the corn. [g]And, The labourer is worthy of his reward.

19 Against an [h]elder receive not an accusation, but [i]before two or three witnesses.

20 Them that [j]sin rebuke before all, that others also may fear.

21 I [k]charge thee before God, and the Lord Jesus Christ, and the elect [l]angels, that thou observe these things without [m]preferring [n]one before another, doing nothing by partiality.

22 [o]Lay hands suddenly on no man, neither be partaker of other men's [p]sins: keep thyself pure.

23 Drink no longer [q]water, but use a little wine for thy stomach's sake and thine often infirmities.

24 Some men's [r]sins are [s]open beforehand, going before to judgment; and some men they follow after.

25 Likewise also the good works of some are manifest beforehand; and they that are otherwise cannot be hid.

CHAPTER 6.

Part V. continued.

LET as many [s]servants as are under the yoke count their own masters worthy of all honour, that the name of God and his doctrine be not blasphemed.

2 And they that have believing masters, let them not despise them, because they are brethren; but rather do them service, because they are faithful and beloved, partakers of the benefit. These things teach and exhort.

3 If any man teach otherwise, and consent not to [t]wholesome words, even the words of our Lord Jesus Christ, and to the doctrine which is [u]according to godliness;

4 He is proud, [v]knowing nothing, but doting about questions and strifes of words, whereof cometh envy, strife, railings, evil surmisings,

5 Perverse disputings of men of corrupt minds, and destitute of the truth, supposing that gain is godliness: from [w]such withdraw thyself.

6 But [x]godliness with [y]contentment is great gain.

7 For we brought nothing into this [z]world, and it is [a]certain we can carry nothing out.

8 And having food and raiment let us be therewith [b]content.

9 But they that [c]will be rich fall into [d]temptation and a snare, and into many foolish and hurtful lusts, which drown men in destruction and perdition.

10 For the love of money is [e]the root of [f]all evil: which while some coveted after, they have erred from the faith, and pierced themselves through with many sorrows.

11 But thou, O man of God, [g]flee these things; and follow after [h]righteousness, godliness, faith, love, patience, meekness.

12 Fight the good fight of faith, lay hold on [i]eternal life, whereunto thou art also called, and hast [j]professed a good profession before many witnesses.

13 I give thee [k]charge in the sight of God, who quickeneth all things, and before Christ Jesus, [l]who before Pontius Pilate witnessed a good confession;

14 That thou keep this commandment without spot, unrebukeable, until [a]the appearing of our Lord Jesus Christ:

15 Which in his times he shall shew, who is [b]the blessed and only Potentate, the [c]King of kings, and Lord of lords;

16 Who only hath immortality, dwelling in the light which no man can approach unto; [d]whom no man hath seen, nor can see: to whom be honour and power everlasting. Amen.

17 Charge them that are rich in this [e]world, that they be not high-minded, nor [f]trust in uncertain riches, but in the living God, who giveth us richly all things [g]to enjoy;

18 That they do good, that they be rich in good works, ready to distribute, willing to communicate;

19 Laying up in store for themselves a good foundation against the time to come, that they may [h]lay hold [i]on eternal life.

20 O Timothy, keep that which is committed to thy trust, [j]avoiding profane and vain babblings, and oppositions of [k]science falsely so called:

THE SECOND EPISTLE OF PAUL THE APOSTLE TO TIMOTHY

WRITER. The Apostle Paul (i. 1).

Date. This touching letter was written by Paul to his "dearly beloved son" shortly before his martyrdom (iv. 6-8), and contains the last words of the great apostle which inspiration has preserved.

Theme. Second Timothy (in common with Second Peter, Jude, and Second and Third John) has to do with the personal walk and testimony of a true servant of Christ in a day of apostasy and declension. The key-phrases are, "All they which are in Asia be turned away from me" (i. 15); and, "A good soldier of Jesus Christ" (ii. 3). The Asian churches had not disbanded, nor ceased to call themselves Christian, but they had turned away from the doctrines of grace distinctively revealed through the Apostle Paul (see Introduction, p. 1189). This was the proof that already the apostasy had set in in its first form, legalism.

The natural divisions are four: I. The Apostle's greeting, i. 1-18. II. The pathway of an approved servant in a day of apostasy, ii. 1-26. III. Apostasy and the Word, iii. 1-17. IV. A faithful servant and his faithful Lord, iv. 1-22.

CHAPTER 1.

Part I. The Apostolic greeting.

PAUL, an apostle of Jesus Christ by the will of God, according to the [a]promise of life which is in Christ Jesus,

2 To Timothy, my dearly [b]beloved [c]son: Grace, mercy, and peace, from God the Father and Christ Jesus our Lord.

3 I thank God, whom I [d]serve from my forefathers with pure [e]conscience, that without ceasing I have remembrance of thee in my prayers night and day;

4 Greatly [f]desiring to see thee, being mindful of thy tears, that I may be filled with joy;

5 When I call to remembrance the unfeigned [g]faith that is in thee, which dwelt first in thy grandmother Lois, and thy [h]mother Eunice; and I am persuaded that in thee also.

6 Wherefore I put thee in remembrance that thou stir up [i]the gift of God, which is in thee by the putting on of my hands.

7 For God hath not given us the spirit of [j]fear; but of [k]power, and of love, and of a sound mind.

8 Be not thou therefore ashamed of the testimony of our Lord, nor of me his prisoner: but be thou [l]partaker of the afflictions of the gospel according to the power of God;

9 Who hath [m]saved us, and called us with an holy calling, not according to our works, but according to his own purpose and [n]grace, which was given us in Christ Jesus before the [o]world began,

10 But is now made manifest by the appearing of our [p]Saviour Jesus Christ, who hath abolished death, and hath brought [q]life and [r]immortality to light through the [s]gospel:

11 Whereunto I am appointed a preacher, and an apostle, and a teacher of the Gentiles.

12 For the which cause I also [t]suffer these things: [u]nevertheless I am not ashamed: for I [v]know whom I have [w]believed, and am persuaded that he is able to keep that which I have committed unto him against that day.

13 Hold fast the [x]form [y]of sound words, which thou hast heard of me, in faith and love which is in Christ Jesus.

14 That good thing which was committed unto thee keep by the [z]Holy Ghost which dwelleth in us.

15 This thou knowest, that [a]all they which are in Asia be [a]turned away from me; of whom are Phygellus and Hermogenes.

16 The Lord give mercy unto the house of Onesiphorus; [a]for he oft refreshed me, and was not ashamed of my [b]chain:

17 But, when he was in Rome, he sought me out very diligently, and found me.

18 The Lord grant unto him that he may find mercy of the Lord [c]in that day: and in how many things he [d]ministered unto me at Ephesus, thou knowest very well.

CHAPTER 2.

Part II. The path of a "good soldier" in the time of apostasy.

THOU therefore, my [e]son, be strong in the [f]grace that is in Christ Jesus.

2 And the things that thou hast heard of me among many witnesses, the same [g]commit thou to faithful men, who shall be able to teach others also.

3 Thou therefore [h]endure hardness, as a good soldier of Jesus Christ.

4 No man that [i]warreth entangleth himself with the affairs of this life; that he may please him who hath [j]chosen him to be a soldier.

5 And if a man also strive for masteries, yet is he not crowned, except he strive lawfully.

6 The husbandman [k]that laboureth must be first partaker of the fruits.

7 Consider what I say; and [l]the Lord give thee understanding in all things.

8 Remember that [m]Jesus Christ of the seed of David was raised from the dead according to my [n]gospel:

9 Wherein I suffer trouble, as an evil doer, even unto [o]bonds; but the word of God is not bound.

10 Therefore I endure all things for the [p]elect's sakes, that they may also obtain the [q]salvation which is in Christ Jesus with eternal glory.

11 It is a faithful saying: For if we [r]be dead with him, we shall also live with him:

12 If we suffer, we shall also reign with him: if we [s]deny him, he also will deny us:

13 If we [t]believe not, yet he abideth faithful: he [u]cannot deny himself.

14 Of these things [v]put them in remembrance, charging them before the Lord that they [w]strive not about words to no profit, but to the subverting of the hearers.

15 [x]Study to shew thyself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, [y]rightly dividing the word of truth.

16 But shun profane and vain babblings: for they will increase unto more ungodliness.

17 And their word will eat as doth a canker: of whom is Hymenæus and Philetus;

18 Who concerning the truth have [z]erred, [a]saying that the [b]resurrection is past already; and overthrow the faith of some.

19 Nevertheless the [c]foundation of God standeth sure, having this seal, The [d]Lord knoweth them that are his. And, Let every one that nameth the name of [e]Christ depart from iniquity.

20 But in a great house there are not only [f]vessels of gold and of silver, but also of wood and of earth; and some to honour, and some to dishonour.

21 If a man therefore [g]purge himself from these, he shall be a vessel unto honour, sanctified, and meet for the master's use, and [h]prepared unto every good work.

22 Flee also youthful lusts: but follow [i]righteousness, faith, [j]charity, peace, with them that call on the Lord out of a pure heart.

23 But foolish and unlearned [k]questions avoid, knowing that they do gender strifes.

24 And the servant of the Lord must not strive; but be gentle unto all men, apt to teach, [l]patient,

25 In [m]meekness instructing those that oppose themselves; if God peradventure will give them [n]repentance to the acknowledging of the truth;

26 And that they may recover themselves out of the snare of the [o]devil, who are taken captive by him at his will.

[1]Apostasy, Summary: Apostasy, "falling away," is the act of professed Christians who deliberately reject revealed truth (1) as to the deity of Jesus Christ, and (2) redemption through His atoning and redeeming sacrifice (1 John iv. 1-3; Phil.

2 [a]For men shall be lovers of their own selves, covetous, boasters, proud, blasphemers, disobedient to parents, unthankful, unholy,

3 Without natural affection, truce-breakers, false accusers, incontinent, fierce, despisers of those that are good,

4 [b]Traitors, heady, highminded, lovers of pleasures more than lovers of God;

5 [c]Having a form of godliness, but denying the power thereof: from such turn away.

6 For of this sort [d]are they which creep into houses, and lead [e]captive silly women laden with [e]sins, led away with divers lusts,

7 Ever learning, and never able to come to the knowledge of the truth.

8 Now as Jannes and [f]Jambres withstood Moses, so do these also resist the truth: [g]men of corrupt minds, [h]reprobate concerning the faith.

9 But they shall proceed no further: for their folly shall be manifest unto all men, as their's also was.

10 But thou hast fully known my doctrine, manner of life, purpose, faith, longsuffering, [i]charity, patience,

11 Persecutions, afflictions, which came unto me at [j]Antioch, at [k]Iconium, at Lystra; what persecutions I endured: but out of them all the Lord delivered me.

12 Yea, and all that will live godly in Christ Jesus shall suffer persecution.

13 But evil men and [l]seducers shall wax worse and worse, deceiving, and being deceived.

14 But continue thou in the things which thou hast learned and hast been assured of, knowing of whom thou hast learned them;

CHAPTER 4.

Part IV. A faithful servant and his faithful Lord.

I CHARGE thee therefore before God, and the Lord Jesus Christ, who shall [r]judge the quick and the dead at his appearing and his kingdom;

2 Preach the word; be instant in season, out of season; [s]reprove, rebuke, exhort with all longsuffering and doctrine.

3 For the time will come when they will not endure sound doctrine; but after their own lusts shall they heap to themselves teachers, having itching ears;

4 [t]And they shall turn away their ears from the truth, and shall be turned unto fables.

5 But watch thou in all [u]things, endure afflictions, do the work of an evangelist, make [v]full proof of thy ministry.

6 For I am now ready to be offered, and the time of my [w]departure is at hand.

7 I have [x]fought [y]a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith:

8 Henceforth there is [z]laid up for me a [a]crown of [b]righteousness, which the Lord, the righteous judge, shall give me at that day: and not to me only, but unto all [c]them also that love his appearing.

9 Do thy diligence to come shortly unto me:

10 For [d]Demas hath forsaken me, having loved this present [e]world, and is departed unto Thessalonica; Crescens to Galatia, Titus unto Dalmatia.

11 Only Luke is with me. Take Mark, and bring him with thee: for he is profitable to me for the ministry.

12 And [f]Tychicus have I sent to Ephesus.

iii. 18; 2 Pet. ii. 1). Apostasy differs therefore from error concerning truth, which may be the result of ignorance (Acts xix. 1-6), or heresy, which may be due to the snare of Satan (2 Tim. ii. 25, 26), both of which may consist with true faith. The apostate is perfectly described in 2 Tim. iv. 3, 4. Apostates depart from the faith, but not from the outward profession of Christianity (iii. 5). Apostate teachers are described in 2 Tim. iv. 3; 2 Pet. ii. 1-19; Jude 4, 8, 11-13, 16. Apostasy in the church, as in Israel (Isa. i. 5, 6; v. 5-7), is irremediable, and awaits judgment (2 Thes. ii. 10-12; 2 Pet. ii. 17, 21; Jude 11-15; Rev. iii. 14-16).

13 The cloke that I left at Troas with Carpus, when thou comest, bring with thee, and the books, but especially the parchments.

14 Alexander the coppersmith did me much evil: the [a]Lord reward him according to his works:

15 Of whom be thou ware also; for he hath greatly withstood our words.

16 At my first answer no man stood with me, but [b]all men forsook me: I pray God that it may not be laid to their charge.

17 Notwithstanding [c]the Lord stood with me, and strengthened me; that by me the preaching might be fully known, and that all the Gentiles might hear: and I was delivered out of the [d]mouth of the lion.

18 And the Lord shall deliver me from every evil work, and will preserve me unto his heavenly kingdom: to whom be glory for ever and ever. Amen.

19 Salute Prisca and Aquila, and the household of Onesiphorus.

20 Erastus abode at Corinth: but Trophimus have I left at Miletum sick.

21 Do thy diligence to come before winter. Eubulus greeteth thee, and Pudens, and Linus, and Claudia, and all the brethren.

22 The Lord Jesus Christ be with thy spirit. Grace be with you. Amen.

WRITER. The Apostle Paul (i. 1).

Date. Practically the same with First Timothy.

Theme. Titus has much in common with First Timothy. Both Epistles are concerned with the due order of the churches. The distinction is that in First Timothy sound doctrine is more prominent (1 Tim. i. 3-10), in Titus the divine order for the local churches (Tit. i. 5). The permanent use of these Epistles lies in this twofold application, on the one hand to churches grown careless as to the truth of God, on the other, to churches careless as to the order of God's house. The importance of this order is made solemnly emphatic in that the tests by which true elders and deacons may be known are repeated (1 Tim. iii. 1-7; Tit. i. 6-9).

There are two divisions: I. The qualifications and functions of elders, i. 1-16. II. The pastoral work of the true elder, ii. 1-iii. 15.

CHAPTER 1.

Part I. The divine order for the local churches.

PAUL, a [a]servant of God, and an apostle of Jesus Christ, according to the faith of God's [b]elect, and the acknowledging of the truth which is after godliness;

2 In hope of [c]eternal life, which God, that cannot lie, promised before the [d]world began;

3 But hath in [e]due times manifested his word through preaching, which is committed unto me according to the commandment of [f]God our [g]Saviour;

4 To Titus, mine own son [h]after the common faith: Grace, mercy, and peace, from God the Father and the Lord Jesus Christ our [g]Saviour.

5 For this cause left I thee in Crete, that thou shouldest set in order the things that are [1]wanting, and ordain [2]elders in every city, as I had appointed thee:

6 If any be blameless, the husband of one wife, having faithful children not accused of riot or unruly.

7 For a [i]bishop must be blameless, as the steward of God; not self-willed, not soon angry, not given to wine, no striker, [j]not given to filthy lucre;

8 But a lover of hospitality, a lover of good men, sober, just, [k]holy, temperate;

9 [l]Holding fast the faithful word as he hath been taught, that he may be able by sound doctrine both to exhort and to convince the gainsayers.

10 For there are many unruly and vain [m]talkers and deceivers, specially they of the circumcision:

11 Whose mouths must be stopped,

[a] bondman.
[b] Election (corporate). 1 Pet. 2. 13. (Deut. 7. 6; 1 Pet. 1. 2.)
[c] Life (eternal). Tit. 3. 7. (Mt. 7. 14; Rev. 22. 19.)

[g] Rom. 1. 26, note.
[h] 1 Tim. 1. 1, 2.
[i] Elders. vs. 5-9. (Acts 11. 30.)
[j] no seeker of base gain.
[k] Sanctify, holy (persons) (N.T.). Heb. 2. 11. (Mt. 4. 5; Rev. 22. 11.)
[l] 2 Thes. 2. 15.
[m] Jas. 1. 26.

[1] It is not at all a question of the presence in the assembly of persons having the qualifications of elders, made overseers by the Holy Spirit (Acts xx. 28); that such persons were in the churches of Crete is assumed; the question is altogether one of the appointment of such persons. These assemblies were not destitute of elders; but were "wanting," in that they were not duly appointed. There is a progress of doctrine in respect of the appointing of elders. Cf. v. 5, note.

[2] Elder (presbuteros) and bishop (episcopos = "overseer") designate the same office (cf. v. 7; Acts xx. 17; cf. v. 28), the former referring to the man, the latter to a function of the office. The eldership in the apostolic local churches was always plural. There is no instance of one elder in a local church. The functions of the elders are: to rule (1 Tim. iii. 4, 5; v. 17), to guard the body of revealed truth from perversion and error (Tit. i. 9), to "oversee" the church as a shepherd his flock (Acts xx. 28; John xxi. 16; Heb. xiii. 17; 1 Pet. v. 2). Elders are made or "set" in the churches by the Holy Spirit (Acts xx. 28), but great stress is laid upon their due appointment (Acts xiv. 23; Tit. i. 5). At first they were ordained (Gr. cheirotoneo, "to elect," "to designate with the hand," by an apostle; e.g. Acts xiv. 23), but in Titus and 1 Timothy the qualifications of an elder become part of the Scriptures for the guidance of the churches in such appointment (1 Tim. iii. 14, 15).

who [a]subvert whole houses, teaching things which they ought not, for [b]filthy lucre's sake.

12 One of themselves, even a prophet of their own, said, The Cretians are alway liars, evil beasts, [c]slow bellies.

13 This witness is true. Wherefore [d]rebuke them sharply, that they may be sound in the faith;

14 Not giving heed to Jewish fables, and commandments of men, that turn from the truth.

15 [e]Unto the pure all things are pure: but unto them that are defiled and unbelieving is nothing pure; but even their mind and conscience is defiled.

16 They [f]profess that they [g]know God; but in works they deny him, being abominable, and [h]disobedient, and unto every good work reprobate.

CHAPTER 2.

Part II. The pastoral work of a true minister (Tit. 2.1-3.15).

BUT speak thou the things which become sound doctrine:

2 That the aged men be sober, grave, temperate, sound in faith, in [i]charity, in patience.

3 The aged women likewise, that they be in behaviour as becometh holiness, not false accusers, not given to much wine, teachers of good things;

4 That they may teach the young women to be sober, to love their husbands, to love their children,

5 To be discreet, chaste, [j]keepers at home, good, [k]obedient to their own husbands, that the word of God be not blasphemed.

6 Young men likewise exhort to be sober minded.

7 In all things shewing thyself a [l]pattern of good works: in doctrine shewing uncorruptness, gravity, sincerity,

8 [m]Sound speech, that cannot be condemned; that he that is of the contrary part may be ashamed, having no evil thing to say of you.

9 Exhort servants to be obedient unto their own masters, and to please them well in all things; not answering again;

10 Not purloining, but shewing all good fidelity; that they may adorn the doctrine of [n]God our Saviour in all things.

15 These things speak, and exhort, and rebuke with all authority. [v]Let no man despise thee.

CHAPTER 3.

Part II. continued.

PUT them in mind to be [w]subject to principalities and powers, to obey magistrates, to be ready to every good work,

2 To speak evil of no man, to be no brawlers, but gentle, shewing all [x]meekness unto all men.

3 For [y]we ourselves also were sometimes foolish, disobedient, deceived, serving divers lusts and pleasures, living in malice and envy, hateful, and hating one another.

4 But after that the kindness and love of [z]God our Saviour toward man appeared,

5 [a]Not by works of [b]righteousness which we have done, but according to his mercy he [c]saved us, by the washing of regeneration, and renewing of the [d]Holy Ghost;

6 Which he shed on us abundantly through Jesus Christ our [e]Saviour;

7 That [f]being [g]justified [h]by his grace, we should be made heirs according to the hope of [i]eternal life.

8 This is a faithful saying, and these things I will that thou affirm constantly, that they which have believed in God might be [j]careful to maintain good works. These things are good and profitable unto men.

9 But [k]avoid foolish questions, and genealogies, and contentions, and strivings about the law; for they are unprofitable and vain.

10 A man that is an heretick after the first and second admonition [l]reject;

11 Knowing that he that is such is subverted, and [m]sinneth, being condemned of himself.

12 When I shall send Artemas unto thee, or Tychicus, be diligent to come unto me to Nicopolis: for I have determined there to winter.

13 Bring Zenas the lawyer and Apollos on their journey diligently, that nothing be wanting unto them.

14 And let our's also learn to maintain [a]good works for necessary uses, that they be not unfruitful.

15 All that are with me salute thee. Greet them that love us in the faith. Grace be with you all. Amen.

THE EPISTLE OF PAUL THE APOSTLE TO

WRITER. The Apostle Paul (i. 1).

Date. Probably A.D. 64. It is one of the Prison Epistles. See Introductions to Ephesians and Colossians.

Theme. Onesimus ("profitable"), a slave of Philemon, a Christian of Colosse, had robbed his master and fled to Rome. There he became a convert through Paul, who sent him back to Philemon with this letter. It is of priceless value as a teaching (1) in practical righteousness; (2) in Christian brotherhood; (3) in Christian courtesy; (4) in the law of love.

The divisions are four: I. Greeting, 1–3. II. The character of Philemon, 4–7. III. Intercession for Onesimus, 8–21. IV. Salutations and conclusion, 22–25.

Part I. The apostolic greeting.

PAUL, a [a]prisoner of Jesus Christ, and Timothy our brother, unto Philemon our dearly beloved, and fellowlabourer,

2 And to our beloved Apphia, and [b]Archippus our fellowsoldier, and to the [c]church in thy house:

3 [d]Grace to you, and peace, from God our Father and the Lord Jesus Christ.

Part II. The character of Philemon.

4 [e]I thank my God, making mention of thee always in my prayers,

5 Hearing of thy love and faith, which thou hast toward the Lord Jesus, and toward all saints;

6 That the communication of thy faith may become [f]effectual by the acknowledging of [g]every good thing which is in you in Christ Jesus.

7 For we have great joy and consolation in thy love, because the bowels of the saints are refreshed by thee, brother.

Part III. Intercession for Onesimus.

8 Wherefore, though I might be much bold in Christ to enjoin thee that [h]which is [i]convenient,

9 Yet for love's sake I rather beseech thee, being such an one as Paul the aged, and now also a prisoner of Jesus Christ.

10 I beseech thee for my son [j]Onesimus, whom I have [k]begotten in my bonds:

11 [l]Which in time past was to thee unprofitable, but now profitable to thee and to me:

12 Whom I have sent again: thou therefore receive him, that is, mine own bowels:

13 Whom I would have retained with me, that in thy stead he might have ministered unto me in the bonds of the [m]gospel:

14 But without thy mind would I do nothing; that thy benefit should not be as it were of necessity, but willingly.

15 For perhaps he therefore departed for a season, that thou shouldest receive him for ever;

16 Not now as a [n]servant, but above a servant, a brother beloved, specially to me, but how much more unto thee, both in the flesh, and in the Lord?

17 If thou count me therefore a [o]partner, receive him as myself.

18 If he hath wronged thee, or oweth thee ought, put that on mine [p]account;

19 I Paul have written it with mine own hand, I will repay it: albeit I do not say to thee how thou owest unto me even thine own self besides.

20 Yea, brother, let me have joy of thee in the Lord: refresh my bowels [q]in the Lord.

21 Having [r]confidence in thy obedience I wrote unto thee, knowing that thou wilt also do more than I say.

HOW TO USE THE SUBJECT REFERENCES

THE subject references lead the reader from the first clear mention of a great truth to the last. The first and last references (in parenthesis) are repeated each time, so that wherever a reader comes upon a subject he may recur to the first reference and follow the subject, or turn at once to the Summary at the last reference.

ILLUSTRATION

(at Mark i. 1.)

Here Gospel is the subject; vs. 1, 14, 15 show where it is at that particular place; Mk. viii. 35 is the next reference in the chain, and the references in parenthesis are the first and last.

THE JEWISH-CHRISTIAN EPISTLES

In Hebrews, James, First and Second Peter, and Jude we have a group of inspired writings differing in important respects from Paul's Epistles. But this difference is in no sense one of conflict. All present the same Christ, the same salvation, the same morality. The difference is one of extension, of development. The Jewish-Christian writings deal with the elementary and foundational things of the Gospel, while to Paul was given the revelations concerning the Church, her place in the counsels of God, and the calling and hope of the believer as vitally united to Christ in the one Body.

The other characteristic difference is that while Paul has in view the body of true believers, who are therefore assuredly saved, the Judæo-Christian writers view the church as a professing body in which, during this age, the wheat and tares are mingled (Mt. xiii. 24-30). Their writings, therefore, abound in warnings calculated to arouse and alarm the mere professor. Characteristic contrasts are, Heb. vi. 4-6 with Rom. viii. 29-39; 2 Pet. i. 10 with Phil. i. 6. In this respect these Epistles group with Mt. xiii.-xxiii.; Acts ii.-ix. The two Epistles of Peter, however, are less Jewish and more truly catholic than the other Jewish-Christian writings. He addresses, in his first Epistle, neither Jews as such, nor even Christian Jews of Jerusalem, or Judæa, but of the dispersion; while Second Peter is not distinctively Jewish at all.

said he at any time, Thou art my [a]Son, this day have I begotten thee? And again, [b]I will be to him a Father, and he shall be to me a Son?

6 And again, when he bringeth in the firstbegotten into the [c]world, he saith, And let all the [d]angels of God worship him.

7 And of the [d]angels he saith, [e]Who maketh his angels spirits, and his ministers a flame of fire.

8 But unto the Son he saith, Thy throne, O [f]God, is for ever and ever: a sceptre of [g]righteousness is the sceptre of thy kingdom.

9 Thou hast loved [h]righteousness, and hated [i]iniquity; therefore [f]God, even thy God, hath anointed thee with the oil of gladness above thy fellows.

10 And, [k]Thou, Lord, in the beginning hast laid the foundation of the earth; and the heavens are the works of thine hands:

11 They shall perish; but thou remainest; and they all shall wax old as doth a garment;

12 And as a vesture shalt thou fold them up, and they shall be changed: but thou art the same, and thy years shall not fail.

13 But to which of the angels said he at any time, [l]Sit on my right hand, until I make thine enemies thy footstool?

14 Are they not all ministering spirits, sent forth to minister for them who shall be heirs of [m]salvation?

CHAPTER 2.

(Parenthesis: hearers warned.)

THEREFORE we ought to give the more earnest heed to the things which we have heard, lest at any time we should [n]let them slip.

2 For if the word spoken by [d]angels was stedfast, and every [o]transgression and [o]disobedience received a just recompence of reward;

3 How shall we escape, if we neglect so great [m]salvation; which at the first began to be spoken by the Lord, and was confirmed unto us by them that heard him;

4 God also bearing them witness, both with signs and wonders, and with divers miracles, and gifts of the [p]Holy Ghost, according to his own will?

(3) The earth to be put under the man Christ Jesus.

5 For unto the [d]angels hath he not put in subjection the [q]world to come, whereof we speak.

6 But one in a certain place tesgender, though sex, in the human sense, is never ascribed to angels (Mt. xxii. 30; Mk. xii. 25). They are exceedingly numerous (Mt. xxvi. 53; Heb. xii. 22; Rev. v. 11; Psa. lxviii. 17). Their power is inconceivable (2 Ki. xix. 35). Their place is about the throne of God (Rev. v. 11; vii. 11). Their relation to the believer is that of "ministering spirits, sent forth to minister for them who shall be heirs of salvation," and this ministry has reference largely to the physical safety and well-being of believers (1 Ki. xix. 5; Psa. xxxiv. 7; xci. 11; Dan. vi. 22; Mt. ii. 13, 19; iv. 11; Lk. xxii. 43; Acts v. 19; xii. 7-10). From Heb. i. 14, with Mt. xviii. 10; Psa. xc. 11, it would seem that this care for the heirs of salvation begins in infancy and continues through life. The angels observe us (1 Cor. iv. 9; Eph. iii. 10; Eccl. v. 6), a fact which should influence conduct. They receive departing saints (Lk. xvi. 22). Man is made "a little lower than the angels," and in incarnation Christ took "for a little" (time) this lower place (Psa. viii. 4, 5; Heb. ii. 6, 9) that He might lift the believer into His own sphere above angels (Heb. ii. 9, 10). The angels are to accompany Christ in His second advent (Mt. xxv. 31). To them will be committed the preparation of the judgment of the nations (see Mt. xiii. 30, 39, 41, 42; xxv. 32, note). The kingdom-age is not to be subject to angels, but to Christ and those for whom He was made a little lower than the angels (Heb. ii. 5). An archangel, Michael, is mentioned as having a particular relation to Israel and to the resurrections (Dan. x. 13, 21; xii. 1, 2; Jude 9; 1 Thes. iv. 16). The only other angel whose name is revealed, Gabriel, was employed in the most distinguished services (Dan. viii. 16; ix. 21; Lk. i. 19, 26).

Fallen angels. Two classes of these are mentioned: (1) "The angels which kept not their first estate [place], but left their own habitation," are "chained under darkness," awaiting judgment (2 Pet. ii. 4; Jude 6; 1 Cor. vi. 3; John v. 22). See Gen. vi. 4, note. (2) The angels who have Satan (Gen. iii. 1; Rev. xx. 10, note) as leader. The origin of these is nowhere explicitly revealed. They may be identical with the demons (Mt. vii. 22, note). For Satan and his angels everlasting fire is prepared (Mt. xxv. 41; Rev. xx. 10).

tified, saying, [a]What is man, that thou art mindful of him? or the son of man, that thou visitest him?

7 Thou madest him a little lower than the angels; thou crownedst him with glory and honour, and didst set him over the works of thy hands:

8 Thou hast put all things in subjection under his feet. For in that he put all in subjection under him, he left nothing that is not put under him. But now we see not yet all things put under him.

(4) Jesus, made for a little time lower than the angels, dies for man that he may lift men above angels into the family of God.

9 But we see Jesus, who was made [b]a little lower than the angels for the suffering of death, crowned with glory and honour; that he by the [c]grace of God should taste death for every man.

10 For it became him, for whom are all things, and by whom are all things, in bringing many sons unto glory, to make the [d]captain of their salvation perfect through sufferings.

11 For both he that [e]sanctifieth and they who are sanctified are all of one: for which cause he is not ashamed to call them brethren,

12 Saying, /I will declare thy name unto my brethren, in the midst of the [g]church will I sing praise unto thee.

13 And again, I will put my trust in him. And again, [h]Behold I and the children which [i]God hath given me.

14 Forasmuch then as the children are partakers of flesh and blood, he also himself likewise /took part of the same; that through death he might [k]destroy him that had the power of death, that is, [l]the devil;

15 And deliver them who through fear of death were all their lifetime subject to bondage.

16 For verily [m]he took not on him the nature of angels; but he took on him the seed of Abraham.

17 Wherefore in all things it behoved him to be made like unto his brethren, that he might be a merciful and faithful high priest in things pertaining to God, to make [n]reconciliation for the sins of the people.

18 For in that he himself hath suffered being [o]tempted, he is able to succour them that are tempted.

CHAPTER 3.

Part II. Parenthetic: The rest of God (Heb. 3. 1-4. 16).

(1) Christ the Son better than Moses the servant.

WHEREFORE, [p]holy brethren, [q]partakers of the heavenly calling, consider the Apostle and High Priest of our [r]profession, Christ Jesus;

2 Who was faithful to him that appointed him, as also [s]Moses was faithful in all his house.

3 For this man was counted worthy of more glory than Moses, inasmuch as he who hath [t]builded the house hath more honour than the house.

4 For every house is builded by some man; but he that built all things is God.

5 And [u]Moses verily was faithful in all his house, as a servant, for a [v]testimony of those things which were to be spoken after;

6 But Christ as a son over his own house; whose house are we, if we hold fast the confidence and the rejoicing of the hope firm unto the end.

(2) Exhortation: the generation that came out of Egypt did not enter the Canaan-rest because of unbelief.

7 Wherefore (as the [w]Holy Ghost saith, [x]To day if ye will hear his voice,

8 Harden not your hearts, as in the provocation, in the day of temptation in the wilderness:

9 When your fathers [y]tempted me, proved me, and saw my works forty years.

10 Wherefore I was grieved with that generation, and said, They do alway err in their heart; and they have not known my ways.

11 So I sware in my wrath, They shall not enter into my rest.)

12 Take heed, brethren, lest there be in any of you an evil heart of unbelief, in departing from the living God.

13 But exhort one another daily, while it is called To day; lest any of you be hardened through the deceitfulness of [z]sin.

14 For we are made [q]partakers of Christ, if we hold the beginning of our confidence stedfast unto the end;

15 While it is said, To day if ye will hear his voice, harden not your hearts, as in the provocation.

16 For some, when they had heard, did provoke: howbeit not all that came out of Egypt by Moses.

17 But with whom was he grieved forty years? was it not with them that had [a]sinned, whose carcases fell in the wilderness?

18 And to whom sware he that they should not enter into his rest, but to them that believed not?

19 So we see that they could not enter in because of unbelief.

CHAPTER 4.

(3) But there is a better rest for the believer, of which God's creation-rest is the type.

LET us therefore fear, lest, a promise being left us of entering into his rest, any of you should seem to come short of it.

2 For unto us was the [b]gospel preached, as well as unto them: but the word preached did not profit them, not being mixed with [c]faith in them that heard it.

3 For we which have believed do enter into rest, as he said, [d]As I have sworn in my wrath, if they shall enter into my rest: although the works were finished from the foundation of the [e]world.

4 For he spake in a certain place of the seventh day on this wise, And [f]God did rest the seventh day from all his works.

5 And in this place again, If they shall enter into my rest.

6 Seeing therefore it remaineth that some must enter therein, and they to whom [g]it was first preached entered not in because of unbelief:

7 Again, he limiteth a certain day, saying in David, To day, after so long a time; as it is [h]said, To day if ye will hear his voice, harden not your hearts.

8 For if [i]Jesus had given them rest, then would he not afterward have spoken of another day.

(4) The believer rests in a perfect work of redemption, as God rested from a perfect work of creation.

9 There remaineth therefore a [j]rest to the people of God.

10 For he that is entered into his rest, he also hath ceased from his own works, as God did from his.

11 [k]Let us labour therefore to enter into that rest, lest any man [l]fall after the same example of [m]unbelief.

12 [n]For the word of God is [o]quick, and powerful, and sharper than any twoedged sword, piercing even to the dividing asunder of soul and spirit, and of the joints and marrow, and is a discerner of the thoughts and intents of the heart.

13 Neither is there any creature that is not manifest in his sight: but all things are [p]naked and opened unto the eyes of him with whom we have to do.

(5) The believer is kept in perfect rest by mercy and grace, through the Son of God.

14 Seeing then that we have a great high priest, that is [q]passed into the heavens, Jesus the Son of God, [r]let us hold fast our [s]profession.

15 For we have not an high priest which cannot be [t]touched with the feeling of our infirmities; but was in all points [u]tempted like as we are, [v]yet without [w]sin.

16 Let us therefore come boldly unto the [x]throne of grace, that we may obtain mercy, and find grace [y]to help in time of need.

CHAPTER 5.

Part III. Our great High Priest (Heb. 5. 1–8. 6).

(1) The office of high priest.

FOR every high priest taken from among men is ordained for men in things pertaining to God, that he may offer both gifts and sacrifices for [w]sins:

2 Who can have compassion on the ignorant, and on them that are out of the way; for that he himself also is [z]compassed with infirmity.

3 And by reason hereof he ought, as for the people, so also for himself, to offer for [w]sins.

4 And no man taketh this honour unto himself, but he that is called of God, as was [a]Aaron.

(2) Christ a high priest after the order of Melchisedec.

5 So also Christ glorified not himself to be made an high priest; but he that said unto him, Thou art my [b]Son, to day have I begotten thee.

11 Of whom we have many things to say, and hard to be uttered, seeing ye are dull of hearing.

12 For when for the time ye ought to be teachers, ye have need that one teach you again which be the first principles of the oracles of God; and are become such as have need of [k]milk, and not of strong meat.

13 For every one that useth milk is [l]unskilful in the word of righteousness: for he is a babe.

14 But strong meat belongeth to them that are of full age, even those who by reason of use have their senses exercised to discern both good and evil.

CHAPTER 6.

THEREFORE leaving the [m]principles of the doctrine of Christ, let us go on unto [n]perfection; not laying again [o]the foundation of [p]repentance from [q]dead works, and of faith toward God,

2 Of the doctrine of [r]baptisms, and of laying on of hands, and of [s]resurrection of the dead, and of eternal judgment.

3 And this will we do, if God permit.

4 [t]For it is [2]impossible for those who were once enlightened, and have tasted of the heavenly gift, and were made [u]partakers of the [v]Holy Ghost,

5 And have tasted the good word of God, and the powers of the [w]world to come,

6 If they shall fall away, to renew them again unto [x]repentance; seeing they crucify to themselves the Son of God afresh, and put him to an open shame.

7 For the earth which drinketh in the rain that cometh oft upon it, and bringeth forth herbs meet for them by whom it is dressed, receiveth [y]blessing from God:

8 But that which beareth thorns and briers is rejected, and is nigh unto cursing; whose end is to be burned.

9 But, beloved, we are persuaded better things of you, and things that accompany [z]salvation, though we thus speak.

10 [a]For God is not unrighteous to forget your work and labour of love, which ye have shewed toward his name, in that ye have ministered to the saints, and do minister.

11 And we desire that every one of you do shew the same diligence to the full [b]assurance of hope unto the end:

12 That ye be not slothful, but [c]followers of them who through faith and patience inherit the promises.

[1] See Gen. xiv. 18, note. Melchisedek was a suited type of Christ as High Priest, because: (1) he was a king-priest (Gen. xiv. 18 with Zech. vi. 12, 13); (2) his name means, "my king is righteous" (cf. Isa. xi. 5), and he was king of Salem (i.e. "peace," cf. Isa. xi. 6-9); (3) he had no (recorded) "beginning of days" (cf. John i. 1), nor "end of life" (cf. Rom. vi. 9; Heb. vii. 23-25); nor (4) was he made a high priest by human appointment (Psa. cx. 4). But the contrast between the high priesthood of Melchisedek and Aaron is only as to person, "order" (or appointment), and duration. In His work Christ follows the Aaronic pattern, the "shadow" of which Christ was the substance (Heb. viii. 1-6; ix. 1-28).

[2] Heb. vi. 4-8 presents the case of a Jewish professed believer who turns back from Christ after advancing to the very threshold of salvation, even "going along with" the Holy Spirit in His work of enlightenment and conviction (John xvi. 8-10). It is not said that he had faith. This supposed person is like the spies at Kadesh-barnea (Deut. i. 19-26) who saw the land and had the very fruit of it in their hands, and yet turned back. It is of such a case that our Lord speaks, Mt. xiii. 20, 21.

swear by no greater, he sware by himself,

14 [a]Saying, Surely blessing I will bless thee, and multiplying I will multiply thee.

15 And so, after he had patiently endured, he obtained the promise.

16 For men verily swear by the greater: and an oath for confirmation is to them an end of all strife.

17 Wherein God, willing more abundantly to shew unto the [b]heirs of promise the immutability of his counsel, [c]confirmed it by an oath:

18 That by two immutable things, in which it was impossible for God to lie, we might have a strong [d]consolation, who have fled for refuge to lay hold upon the hope set before us:

19 Which hope we have as an anchor of the soul, both sure and stedfast, and which entereth into that [e]within the veil;

20 [f]Whither the forerunner is for us entered, even Jesus, made an high priest for ever after the order of [g]Melchisedec.

CHAPTER 7.

The Melchisedec high priesthood resumed.

(4) The historic Melchisedec a type of Christ.

FOR this Melchisedec, king of Salem, priest of the most high [h]God, who met Abraham returning from the slaughter of the kings, and blessed him;

2 To whom also Abraham gave a tenth part of all; first being by interpretation King of righteousness, and after that also King of Salem, which is, King of peace;

3 Without father, without mother, without [i]descent, having neither beginning of days, nor end of life; but made like unto the Son of God; abideth a priest continually.

(5) Melchisedec high priesthood greater than the Aaronic.

(a) Because Aaron in Abraham paid Melchisedec tithes.

4 Now consider how great this man was, unto whom even the patriarch Abraham gave the tenth of the spoils.

5 And verily they that are of the [j]sons of Levi, who receive the office of the priesthood, have a commandment to take tithes of the people according to the law, that is, of their brethren, though they come out of the loins of Abraham:

6 But he whose [k]descent is not counted from them [l]received tithes of Abraham, and blessed him that had the promises.

7 And without all contradiction the less is blessed of the better.

8 And here men that die receive tithes; but there he receiveth them, of [m]whom it is witnessed that he liveth.

9 And as I may so say, Levi also, who receiveth tithes, payed tithes in Abraham.

10 For he was yet in the loins of his father, when Melchisedec met him.

(b) Because the Aaronic priesthood made nothing perfect.

11 [n]If therefore perfection were by the Levitical priesthood, (for under it the people received the law,) what further need was there that another priest should rise after the order of Melchisedec, and not be called after the order of Aaron?

12 For the priesthood being changed, there is made of necessity a change also of the law.

13 For he of whom these things are spoken pertaineth to another tribe, of which no man [o]gave attendance at the altar.

14 For it is [p]evident that our Lord sprang out of Juda; of which tribe Moses spake nothing concerning priesthood.

15 And it is yet far more evident: for that after the similitude of Melchisedec there ariseth another priest, 16 Who is made, not after the law of a [q]carnal commandment, but after the power [r]of an [s]endless life.

17 For he testifieth, Thou art a priest for ever after the order of [t]Melchisedec.

18 For there is verily a [u]disannulling of the commandment going before for the weakness and unprofitableness thereof.

19 [v]For the [w]law made nothing [x]perfect, but the bringing in of a better hope did; by the [y]which we draw nigh unto God.

20 And inasmuch as not without an oath he was made priest:

21 (For those priests were made without an oath; but this with an oath by him that said unto him, [z]The Lord sware and will not repent, Thou art a priest for ever after the order of Melchisedec:)

(c) Because the Aaronic priests died: Christ ever liveth.

23 And they truly were many priests, because they were not suffered to continue by reason of death:

24 But this man, because he continueth ever, hath an unchangeable priesthood.

25 Wherefore he is [b]able also to [c]save them [d]to the [e]uttermost that come unto God by him, seeing he ever liveth to make intercession for them.

26 For such an high priest became us, who is holy, harmless, undefiled, separate from [f]sinners, and made higher than the heavens;

27 Who needeth not daily, as those high priests, to offer up sacrifice, first for his own [f]sins, and then for the people's: for this he did [g]once, when he offered up himself.

28 For the law maketh men high priests which have infirmity; but the word of the oath, which was since the law, maketh the Son, who is [h]consecrated for evermore.

CHAPTER 8.

(d) Because the Aaronic priests served the shadows of which Christ serves the realities.

NOW of the things which we have spoken this is the sum: We have such an high priest, who is set on the right hand of the throne of the Majesty in the heavens;

2 A minister of the [i]sanctuary, and of the [j]true tabernacle, which the Lord pitched, and not man.

3 For every high priest is ordained to offer gifts and sacrifices: wherefore it is of necessity that this man have somewhat also to offer.

4 For if he were on earth, he should not be a priest, seeing that there are priests that offer gifts according to the law:

5 Who [k]serve unto the example and shadow of heavenly things, as Moses was [l]admonished of God when he was about to make the tabernacle: for, [m]See, saith he, that thou make all things according to the pattern shewed to thee in the mount.

(e) Because Christ mediates a better covenant.

6 But now hath he obtained a more excellent ministry, by how much also he is the mediator of a better [n]covenant, which was established upon better promises.

Part IV. The new covenant better than the old (Heb. 8. 7-10. 39).

7 For if [o]that first covenant had been faultless, then should no place have been sought for the second.

8 For finding fault with them, he saith, Behold, the days come, saith the [p]Lord, when I will [q]make a [r]new [s]covenant with the house of Israel and with the house of Judah:

[1]The New Covenant, Summary: (1) "Better" than the Mosaic Covenant, not morally, but efficaciously (Heb. vii. 19; Rom. viii. 3, 4). (2) Established on "better" (i.e. unconditional) promises. In the Mosaic Covenant God said, "If ye will" (Ex. xix. 5); in the New Covenant He says, "I will" (Heb. viii. 10, 12). (3) Under the Mosaic Covenant obedience sprang from fear (Heb. ii. 2; xii. 25-27); under the New from a willing heart and mind (v. 10). (4) The New Covenant secures the personal revelation of the Lord to every believer (v. 11); (5) the complete oblivion of sins (v. 12; Heb. x. 17; cf. Heb. x. 3); (6) rests upon an accomplished redemption (Mt. xxvi. 27, 28; 1 Cor. xi. 25; Heb. ix. 11, 12, 18-23); (7) and secures the perpetuity, future conversion, and blessing of Israel (Jer. xxxi. 31-40; see also "Kingdom (O.T.)," and 2 Sam. vii. 8-17). The New Covenant is the eighth, thus speaking of resurrection and of eternal completeness.

[2]I. The Eight Covenants, Summary: (1) The Edenic Covenant (Gen. i. 26-28, note) conditioned the life of man in innocency. (2) The Adamic Covenant (Gen. iii. 14-19, note) conditions the life of fallen man and gives promise of a Redeemer. (3) The Noahic Covenant (Gen. ix. 1, note) establishes the principle of human government. (4) The Abrahamic Covenant (Gen. xv. 18, note) founds the nation of Israel, and confirms, with specific additions, the Adamic promise of redemption. (5) The Mosaic Covenant (Ex. xix. 25, note) condemns all men, "for that all have sinned." (6) The Palestinian Covenant (Deut. xxviii.-xxx. 3, note) secures the final restoration and conversion of Israel. (7) The Davidic Covenant (2 Sam. vii. 8-17, note) establishes the perpetuity of the Davidic family (fulfilled in Christ, Mt. i. 1; Lk. i.

not in my covenant, and I regarded them not, saith the Lord.

10 For this is the covenant that I will make with the house of Israel after those days, saith the [a]Lord; I will put my [b]laws into their mind, and write them in their hearts: and I [c]will be to them a [d]God, and they shall be to me a people:

11 And they shall not teach every man his neighbour, and every man his brother, saying, Know the [e]Lord: for all shall know me, from the least to the greatest.

12 For I will be [f]merciful to their [g]unrighteousness, and their [g]sins and their [h]iniquities will I remember no more.

13 In that he saith, A new covenant, he hath made the first old. Now that which [i]decayeth and waxeth old is ready to vanish away.

CHAPTER 9.

(1) The ordinances and sanctuary of the old covenant were mere types.

THEN verily the first covenant had also ordinances of divine service, and a [j]worldly sanctuary.

2 For there was a tabernacle made; the first, wherein was the candlestick, and the table, and the [k]shewbread; which is called the [l]sanctuary.

3 And after the second veil, the tabernacle which is called the [m]Holiest of all;

4 Which had the [n]golden censer, and the [o]ark of the covenant overlaid round about with gold, wherein was the [p]golden pot that had manna, and [q]Aaron's rod that budded, and the [r]tables of the covenant;

5 And over it the cherubims of glory shadowing the [s]mercyseat; of which we cannot now speak [t]particularly.

6 Now when these things were thus ordained, the priests went always into the first tabernacle, accomplishing the service of God.

7 But into the second went the high priest alone once every year, not without blood, which he offered for himself, and for the [u]errors of the people:

8 The Holy Ghost this signifying, that the way into the holiest of all was not yet made manifest, while as the first tabernacle [v]was yet standing:

9 Which was a figure for the time then present, in which were offered both gifts and sacrifices, that could not make him that did the service [w]perfect, as pertaining to the conscience;

10 Which stood only in meats and drinks, and divers washings, and [x]carnal ordinances, imposed on them until the time of [y]reformation.

(2) The sanctuary, and sacrifice of the new covenant are realities.

11 But Christ being come an high priest [z]of good things to come, by a greater and more perfect tabernacle, not made with hands, that is to say, not of this [a]building;

12 Neither by the blood of goats and calves, but [b]by his own blood he entered in once into the [c]holy place, having obtained eternal redemption for us.

31-33; Rom. i. 3), and of the Davidic kingdom, over Israel and over the whole earth; to be fulfilled in and by Christ (2 Sam. vii. 8-17; Zech. xii. 8; Lk. i. 31-33; Acts xv. 14-17; 1 Cor. xv. 24). (8) The New Covenant rests upon the sacrifice of Christ, and secures the eternal blessedness, under the Abrahamic Covenant (Gal. iii. 13-29), of all who believe. It is absolutely unconditional, and, since no responsibility is by it committed to man, it is final and irreversible.

II. The relation of Christ to the eight covenants is as follows: (1) To the Edenic Covenant, Christ, as the "second Man," the "last Adam" (1 Cor. xv. 45-47), takes the place over all things which the first Adam lost (Col. ii. 10; Heb. ii. 7-8). (2) He is the "Seed of the woman" of the Adamic Covenant (Gen. iii. 15; John xii. 31; 1 John iii. 8; Gal. iv. 4; Rev. xx. 10), and fulfilled its conditions of toil (Mk. vi. 3) and obedience. (3) As the greatest son of Shem, in Him was fulfilled supremely the promise to Shem in the Noahic Covenant (Gen. ix. 1, note; Col. ii. 9). (4) He is the "Seed to whom the promises were made" in the Abrahamic Covenant; the son of Abraham obedient unto death (Gen. xxii. 18; Gal. iii. 16; Phil. ii. 8). (5) He lived sinlessly under the Mosaic Covenant and bore for us its curse (Gal. iii. 10-13). (6) He lived obediently as a Jew in the land under the Palestinian Covenant, and will yet perform its gracious promises (Deut. xxviii.-xxx. 1-9). (7) He is the "Seed," "Heir," and "King" under the Davidic Covenant (Mt. i. 1; Lk. i. 31-33). (8) His sacrifice is the foundation of the New Covenant (Mt. xxvi. 28; 1 Cor. xi. 25).

goats, and the ashes of an heifer sprinkling the unclean, sanctifieth to the purifying of the flesh:

14 How much more shall the blood of Christ, who through the [a]eternal Spirit offered himself without spot to God, purge your conscience from dead works to [b]serve the living God?

15 And for this cause he is the mediator of the new [c]testament, that [d]by means of death, for the [e]redemption of the [f]transgressions that were under the first testament, they which are called might receive the promise of eternal inheritance.

(3) The new covenant is also the last will and testament of Christ, sealed by his blood.

16 For where a testament is, there must also of necessity [g]be the death of the testator.

17 For a testament is of force after men are dead: otherwise it is of no strength at all while the testator liveth.

18 Whereupon neither the first testament was [h]dedicated without blood.

19 [i]For when Moses had spoken every precept to all the people according to the law, he took the blood of calves and of goats, with water, and scarlet wool, and hyssop, and sprinkled both the book, and all the people,

20 Saying, This is the blood [j]of the testament which [k]God hath enjoined unto you.

21 [l]Moreover he sprinkled with blood both the tabernacle, and all the vessels of the ministry.

22 And almost all things are by the law purged with blood; and without shedding of blood is no [m]remission.

(4) The heavenly sanctuary purged with a better sacrifice (Lev. 16. 33).

23 It was therefore necessary that the [n]patterns of things in the heavens should be purified with these; but the heavenly things themselves with better sacrifices than these.

24 For Christ is not entered into the holy places made with hands, which are the figures of the true; but into heaven itself, now to [o]appear in the presence of God for us:

(5) The one sacrifice of the new covenant is better than the many sacrifices of the old.

25 Nor yet that he should offer himself often, as the high priest entereth into the holy place every year with blood [p]of others;

26 For then must he often have suffered since the [q]foundation of the world: but now once in the end of the world hath he appeared [r]to put away [s]sin by the sacrifice of himself.

27 And as it is appointed unto men once to [1]die, but [t]after this [v]the judgment:

28 So Christ was once offered to bear the [s]sins of many; and unto them that look for him shall he appear the second time [w]without sin unto [x]salvation.

CHAPTER 10.

FOR the law having a shadow of good things to come, and not the very image of the things, can never with those sacrifices which they offered year by year continually make the comers thereunto [y]perfect.

2 For then would they not have ceased to be offered? because that the worshippers once purged should have had no more conscience of [s]sins.

3 But in those sacrifices there is a remembrance again made of [s]sins every year.

[1] Death, physical, Summary: (1) Physical death is a consequence of sin (Gen. iii. 19), and the universality of death proves the universality of sin (Rom. v. 12-14). (2) Physical death affects the body only, and is neither cessation of life nor of consciousness (Hab. ii. 5, note; Lk. xvi. 23, note; Rev. vi. 9, 10). (3) All physical death ends in the resurrection of the body. See "Resurrection" (Job xix. 25; 1 Cor. xv. 52, note). (4) Because physical death is a consequence of sin, it is not inevitable to the redeemed (Gen. v. 24; 1 Cor. xv. 51, 52; 1 Thes. iv. 15-17). (5) Physical death has for the believer a peculiar qualification. It is called "sleep," because his body may be "awakened" at any moment (Phil. iii. 20, 21; 1 Thes. iv. 14-18). (6) The soul and spirit live, independently of the death of the body, which is described as a "tabernacle" (tent), in which the "I" dwells, and which may be put off (2 Cor. v. 1-8; cf. 1 Cor. xv. 42-44; 2 Pet. i. 13-15). (7) At the believer's death he is "clothed upon" with a "house from heaven" pending the resurrection of the "earthly house," and is at once "with the Lord" (2 Cor. v. 1-8; Phil. i. 23; Lk. xxiii. 43). As to the death of Christ, see Mt. xxvii. 50, note.

4 For it is not possible that the blood of bulls and of goats should take away [a]sins.

5 Wherefore when he cometh into the [b]world, he saith, [c]Sacrifice and offering thou wouldest not, but a [1]body hast thou prepared me:

6 In burnt-offerings and sacrifices for [a]sin thou hast had no pleasure.

7 Then said I, Lo, I come (in the volume of the book it is written of me,) to do thy will, O [d]God.

8 Above when he said, Sacrifice and offering and burnt-offerings and offering for [a]sin thou wouldest not, neither hadst pleasure therein; which are offered by the law;

9 Then said he, Lo, I come to do thy will, O God. He taketh away the first, that he may establish the second.

10 By the which will [e]we are [f]sanctified through the offering of the body of Jesus Christ once for all.

11 And every priest standeth daily ministering and offering oftentimes the same sacrifices, which can never take away [a]sins:

12 But this man, after he had offered one [f]sacrifice for sins [g]for ever, sat down [h]on the right hand of God;

13 From henceforth expecting till his enemies be made his footstool.

14 For by one offering he hath [i]perfected for ever [j]them that are sanctified.

15 Whereof the [k]Holy Ghost also is a witness to us: for after that he had said before,

20 By a new and [o]living way, which he hath [p]consecrated for us, through the veil, that is to say, his flesh;

21 And having an high priest over the house of God;

22 Let us draw near with a true heart in full [q]assurance of [r]faith, having our hearts sprinkled from an evil conscience, and our bodies washed with pure water.

23 Let us hold fast the [s]profession of our faith without wavering; (for [t]he is faithful that promised;)

24 And let us consider one another to provoke unto love and to good works:

25 Not forsaking the assembling of ourselves together, [u]as the manner of some is; but [v]exhorting one another: and so much the more, [w]as ye see the day approaching.

(Parenthetic: The wavering warned: the Jewish sacrifices had lost their efficacy; it is Christ or judgment.)

26 For if we [m]sin [x]wilfully after that we have received the knowledge of the truth, there remaineth no more sacrifice for sins,

27 But a certain fearful looking for of judgment and fiery indignation, which shall devour the adversaries.

28 He that despised [y]Moses' law

[1] Cf. Psa. xl. 6; the rule, applicable to all modifications of the form of quotations in the N.T. from O.T. writings, is that the divine author of both Testaments is perfectly free, in using an earlier statement, to recast the mere literary form of it. The variant form will be found invariably to give the deeper meaning of the earlier statement.

[2] Sacrifice, Summary: (1) The first intimation of sacrifice is Gen. iii. 21, the "coats of skins" having obviously come from slain animals. The first clear instance of sacrifice is Gen. iv. 4, explained in Heb. xi. 4. Abel's righteousness was the result of his sacrifice, not of his character. (2) Before the giving of the law the head of the family was the family priest. By the law an order of priests was established who alone could offer sacrifices. Those sacrifices were "shadows," types, expressing variously the guilt and need of the offerer in reference to God, and all pointing to Christ and fulfilled in Him. (3) As foreshadowed by the types and explained by the N.T., the sacrifice of Christ is penal (Gal. iii. 13; 2 Cor. v. 21); substitutional (Lev. i. 4; Isa. liii. 5, 6; 2 Cor. v. 21; 1 Pet. ii. 24); voluntary (Gen. xxii. 9; John x. 18); redemptive (Gal. iii. 13; Eph. i. 7; 1 Cor. vi. 20); propitiatory (Rom. iii. 25); reconciling (2 Cor. v. 18, 19; Col. i. 21, 22); efficacious (John xii. 32, 33; Rom. v. 9, 10; 2 Cor. v. 21; Eph. ii. 13; Heb. ix. 11, 12, 26; x. 10-17; 1 John i. 7; Rev. i. 5); and revelatory (John iii. 16; 1 John iv. 9, 10).

died without mercy under two or three witnesses:

29 [a]Of how much sorer punishment, suppose ye, shall he be thought worthy, [b]who hath trodden under foot the Son of God, and hath counted the blood of the covenant, wherewith he was [c]sanctified, [d]an unholy thing, and hath done despite unto the [e]Spirit of grace?

30 For we know him that hath said, Vengeance belongeth unto me, I will recompense, saith the [f]Lord. And again, The Lord shall judge his people.

31 It is a fearful thing to fall into the hands of the living God.

32 But call to remembrance the former days, in which, after ye were illuminated, ye endured a great fight of afflictions;

33 Partly, whilst ye were made a gazingstock both by reproaches and afflictions; and partly, whilst ye became companions of them that were so used.

34 For ye had compassion of me in my bonds, and took joyfully the spoiling of your goods, knowing [g]in yourselves that ye have [h]in heaven a better and an enduring substance.

35 Cast not away therefore your confidence, which hath great recompence of reward.

36 For ye have need of patience, that, [i]after ye have done the will of God, ye might receive the promise.

37 For yet a little while, and he that shall come [j]will come, and will not tarry.

38 Now the [k]just shall live by faith: but if any man draw back, my soul shall have no pleasure in him.

39 But we are not of them who draw back unto perdition; but of them that believe to the saving of the soul.

CHAPTER 11.

Part V. The superiority of the faith way (Heb. 11. 1-40).

(1) The sphere of faith.

NOW faith is the [l]substance of things hoped for, the [m]evidence of things not seen.

2 For by it the elders obtained a good report.

3 Through faith we understand that the worlds were framed by the word of God, so that things which are seen were not made of things which do appear.

(2) Instances of faith: Abel.

4 By faith Abel offered unto God a more excellent [n]sacrifice than Cain, by which he obtained witness that he was [o]righteous, God testifying of his gifts: and by it he being dead yet speaketh.

Enoch.

5 By faith [p]Enoch was translated that he should not see death; and was not found, because God had translated him: for before his translation he had this testimony, that he [q]pleased God.

6 But without faith it is impossible to please him: for he that cometh to God must believe that he is, and that he is a [r]rewarder of them that diligently seek him.

Noah.

7 By faith [s]Noah, being warned of God of things not seen as yet, moved with fear, prepared an ark to the [t]saving of his house; by the which he condemned the [u]world, and became heir of the righteousness which is by faith.

Abraham and Sara.

8 By faith [v]Abraham, when he was called to go out into a place which he should after receive for an inheritance, obeyed; and he went out, not knowing whither he went.

9 By faith he sojourned in the land of promise, as in a strange country, [w]dwelling in [x]tabernacles with Isaac and Jacob, the heirs with him of the same promise:

10 For he [y]looked for a city which hath foundations, whose [z]builder and maker is God.

11 Through faith also [a]Sara herself received strength to conceive seed, and was delivered of a child when she was past age, because she judged him faithful who had promised.

12 Therefore sprang there even of one, and him as good as dead, so many as the [b]stars of the sky in multitude, and as the sand which is by the sea shore innumerable.

13 These all died in faith, not having received the [c]promises, but having seen them afar off, and were persuaded of them, and embraced them, and [d]confessed that they were strangers and pilgrims on the earth.

14 For they that say such things declare plainly that they seek a country.

15 And truly, if they had been mindful of [a]that country from whence they came out, they might have had opportunity to have returned.

16 But now they desire a better country, that is, an heavenly: wherefore God is not ashamed to be called their God: for he hath prepared for them a city.

17 By faith Abraham, when he was [b]tried, offered up Isaac: and he that had received the promises offered up his only begotten son,

18 [c]Of whom it was said, [d]That in Isaac shall thy seed be called:

19 Accounting that God was able to raise him up, [e]even from the dead; from whence also he received him [f]in a figure.

Isaac and Jacob.

20 By faith [g]Isaac blessed Jacob and Esau concerning things to come.

21 By faith Jacob, when he was a dying, blessed both the sons of Joseph; and worshipped, [h]leaning upon the top of his staff.

Joseph.

22 By faith [i]Joseph, when he died, made mention of the departing of the children of Israel; and gave commandment concerning his bones.

Moses and his parents.

23 By faith Moses, when he was born, was hid three months of his parents, because they saw [j]he was a proper child; and [k]they were not afraid of the king's commandment.

24 By faith Moses, when he was come to years, refused to be called the son of Pharaoh's daughter;

25 Choosing rather to suffer affliction with the people of God, [l]than to enjoy the pleasures of [m]sin for a season;

26 Esteeming the reproach of Christ greater riches than the treasures in Egypt: for he had respect unto the recompence [n]of the reward.

27 By faith he forsook Egypt, not fearing the wrath of the king: for he endured, as seeing him who is invisible.

28 Through faith he kept the [o]passover, and the sprinkling of blood, lest he that destroyed the firstborn should touch them.

29 [p]By faith they passed through the Red sea as by dry land: which the Egyptians assaying to do were drowned.

Joshua and Israel.

30 By faith the walls of [q]Jericho fell down, after they were compassed about seven days.

Rahab.

31 By faith the harlot [r]Rahab perished not with them that believed not, when she had received the spies with peace.

The many heroes of faith.

32 And what shall I more say? for the time would fail me to tell of [s]Gedeon, and of [t]Barak, and of [u]Samson, and of [v]Jephthae; of David also, and [w]Samuel, and of the prophets:

33 Who through faith subdued kingdoms, wrought [x]righteousness, obtained promises, stopped the mouths of lions,

34 Quenched the violence of fire, escaped the edge of the sword, out of weakness were made strong, waxed valiant in fight, turned to flight the armies of the aliens.

35 Women [y]received their dead raised to life again: and others were tortured, not [z]accepting deliverance; that they might obtain a better resurrection:

36 And others had trial of cruel mockings and scourgings, yea, moreover of bonds and imprisonment:

37 They were stoned, they were sawn asunder, were [a]tempted, were slain with the sword: they wandered about in sheepskins and goatskins; being destitute, afflicted, [b]tormented;

38 (Of whom the [c]world was not worthy:) they wandered in deserts, and in mountains, and in dens and caves of the earth.

39 And these all, having obtained a good report through [1d]faith, received not the promise:

[1]The essence of faith consists in receiving what God has revealed, and may be defined as that trust in the God of the Scriptures and in Jesus Christ whom He hath sent, which receives Him as Saviour and Lord, and impels to loving obedience and good works (John i. 12; Jas. ii. 14-26). The particular uses of faith give rise to its secondary definitions: (1) For salvation, faith is personal trust, apart from meritorious works, in the Lord Jesus Christ, as delivered for our offences and raised again for our justification (Rom. iv. 5, 23-25). (2) As used in prayer, faith is the "confidence that we have in him, that if we ask anything according to his will, he 40 God having provided some better thing for us, that they without us should not be made [a]perfect.

CHAPTER 12.

Part VI. The walk and worship of the believer-priest (Heb. 12. 1–13. 25).

(1) Jesus the example.

WHEREFORE seeing we also are compassed about with so great a cloud of witnesses, let us [b]lay aside every weight, and [c]the sin which doth so easily beset us, and let us run with patience the race that is set before us,

2 Looking unto Jesus the [d]author and [e]finisher of our [f]faith; who for the joy that was set before him endured the cross, despising the shame, and is set down at the right hand of the throne of God.

(Parenthetic (to v. 17): (a) The Father's chastening.)

3 For [g]consider him that endured such contradiction of [h]sinners against himself, lest ye be wearied and faint in your minds.

4 Ye have not yet resisted unto blood, striving against [h]sin.

5 And ye have forgotten the exhortation which speaketh unto you as unto [i]children, My son, despise not thou the chastening of the [j]Lord, nor faint when thou art rebuked of him:

6 For whom the [k]Lord loveth he chasteneth, and scourgeth every son whom he receiveth.

7 If ye endure chastening, God dealeth with you as with sons; for what [l]son is he whom the father chasteneth not?

8 But if ye be without chastisement, whereof all are partakers, then are ye bastards, and not sons.

9 Furthermore we have had fathers of our flesh which corrected us, and we gave them reverence: shall we not much rather be in subjection unto the Father of spirits, and live?

10 For they verily for a few days chastened us [m]after their own pleasure; but he for our profit, that we might be partakers of his holiness.

11 Now no [n]chastening for the present seemeth to be joyous, but grievous: nevertheless afterward it yieldeth the peaceable fruit of [o]righteousness unto them which are exercised thereby.

12 Wherefore [p]lift up the hands which hang down, and the [q]feeble knees;

13 And make [r]straight paths for your feet, lest that which is lame be turned out of the way; but [s]let it rather be healed.

14 Follow [t]peace with all men, and holiness, without which no man shall see the Lord:

15 [u]Looking diligently lest any man fail of the grace of God; lest any root of bitterness springing up trouble you, and thereby many be defiled;

(b) Esau a warning to professors lest they miss the priesthood. (Cf. Gen. 25. 31, note.)

16 Lest there be any [v]fornicator, or profane person, as Esau, [w]who for one morsel of meat sold his birthright.

17 For ye know how that afterward, when he would have inherited the blessing, he was rejected: for he found no place of [x]repentance, though he sought [y]it carefully with tears.

(2) The believer-priest does not come to Mount Sinai.

18 For ye are not come unto the [z]mount that might be touched, and that burned with fire, nor unto blackness, and darkness, and tempest,

19 And the sound of a trumpet, and the voice of words; which [a]voice they that heard intreated that the word should not be spoken to them any more:

20 (For they could not endure that which was commanded, And if so much as a beast touch the mountain, it shall be stoned, or thrust through with a dart:

21 And so terrible was the sight, that Moses said, I exceedingly fear and quake:)

heareth us" (1 John v. 14, 15). (3) As used in reference to unseen things of which Scripture speaks, faith "gives substance" to them, so that we act upon the conviction of their reality (Heb. xi. 1–3). (4) As a working principle in life, the uses of faith are illustrated in Heb. xi. 1–39.

22 But ye are [a]come unto mount Sion, and unto the city of the living God, the heavenly Jerusalem, and to [b]an innumerable company of [c]angels,

23 To the general assembly [d]and [1]church of the firstborn, which are written in heaven, and to God the Judge of all, and to the spirits of just men made [e]perfect,

24 And to Jesus the [f]mediator of the new covenant, and to [g]the blood of sprinkling, that speaketh better things than that of Abel.

(3) Warnings and instructions.

25 [h]See that ye refuse not him that speaketh. For if they escaped not who refused him that spake on earth, much more shall not we escape, if we turn away from him that speaketh from heaven:

26 Whose voice then shook the earth: but now he hath promised, saying, [i]Yet once more I shake not the earth only, but also heaven.

27 And this word, Yet once more, signifieth the removing of those things that are shaken, as of things that are made, that those things which cannot be shaken may remain.

28 Wherefore we receiving a kingdom which cannot be [j]moved, let us [k]have [l]grace, whereby we may serve God acceptably with reverence and godly fear:

29 For our God is a consuming fire.

CHAPTER 13.

LET brotherly love continue.

2 Be not forgetful to entertain strangers: for thereby some have entertained [c]angels unawares.

3 Remember them that are in [m]bonds, as bound with them; and them which suffer adversity, as being yourselves also in the body.

4 [n]Marriage is honourable in all, and the bed undefiled: but whoremongers and adulterers God will judge.

5 Let your conversation be without [o]covetousness; and be content with such things as ye have: for [p]he hath said, I will never leave thee, nor forsake thee.

6 So that we may boldly say, The Lord is my helper, and I will not fear what man shall do unto me.

7 Remember [q]them which have the rule over you, who have spoken unto you the word of God: [r]whose faith follow, considering the end of their conversation.

8 Jesus Christ the same yesterday, and to day, and [s]for ever.

9 Be not carried about with divers and strange doctrines. For it is a good thing that the heart be established [t]with grace; not with meats, which have not profited them that have been occupied therein.

(4) Christian separation and worship.

10 We have an altar, whereof they have no right to eat which serve the tabernacle.

11 For the bodies of those beasts, whose blood is brought into the sanctuary by the high priest for sin, are burned without the camp.

12 Wherefore Jesus also, that he might [u]sanctify the people [v]with his own blood, suffered without the gate.

13 Let us go forth therefore unto him without the camp, [w]bearing his reproach.

14 For here have we no [x]continuing city, but [y]we seek [z]one to come.

(5) The believer-priest's sacrifice.

15 By him therefore let us offer the [a]sacrifice of praise to God continually, that is, the fruit of our lips giving thanks to his name.

16 But to do good and to [b]communicate forget not: for with such [c]sacrifices God is well pleased.

(6) The believer-priest's obedience.

17 Obey them that [d]have the rule over you, and submit yourselves: for they [e]watch for your souls, as they that must give account, that they may do it with joy, and not with grief: for that is unprofitable for you.

[1] Church (true), Summary: The true Church, composed of the whole number of regenerate persons from Pentecost to the first resurrection (1 Cor. xv. 52), united together and to Christ by the baptism with the Holy Spirit (1 Cor. xii. 12, 13), is the body of Christ of which He is the Head (Eph. i. 22, 23). As such, it is a holy temple for the habitation of God through the Spirit (Eph. ii. 21, 22); is "one flesh" with Christ (Eph. v. 30, 31); and espoused to Him as a chaste virgin to one husband (2 Cor. xi. 2-4).

Conclusion: the apostolic benediction.

18 Pray for us: for we trust we have a good [a]conscience, in all things willing to live honestly.

19 But I beseech you the rather to do this, that I may be restored to you the sooner.

20 [b]Now the [c]God of peace, that brought again [d]from the dead our Lord Jesus, that great shepherd of the sheep, through the blood of the [e]everlasting covenant,

21 [f]Make you [g]perfect in every good work to do his will, working in you that which is wellpleasing in his sight, through Jesus Christ; to whom be glory for ever and ever. Amen.

22 And I beseech you, brethren, suffer the word of exhortation: for I have written a letter unto you in few words.

23 Know ye that our brother Timothy is set at liberty; with whom, if he come shortly, I will see you.

24 Salute all them that [h]have the rule over you, and all the saints. They of Italy salute you.

25 Grace be with you all. Amen.

WRITER. James (Mt. iv. 21, note), called "the Just," mentioned by Paul with Cephas and John as "pillars" in the church at Jerusalem (Gal. ii. 9). He seems to have been, as a religious man, austere, legal, ceremonial (Acts xxi. 18-24).

Date. Tradition fixes the martyrdom of James in the year 62, but his Epistle shows no trace of the larger revelations concerning the church and the distinctive doctrines of grace made through the Apostle Paul, nor even of the discussions concerning the relation of Gentile converts to the law of Moses, which culminated in the first council (Acts xv.), over which James presided. This presumes the very early date of James, which may confidently be set down as "the first Epistle to Christians."—Weston.

Theme. By "the twelve tribes scattered abroad" we are to understand, not Jews, but Christian Jews of the Dispersion. The church began with such (Acts ii. 5-11), and James, who seems not to have left Jerusalem, would feel a particular pastoral responsibility for these scattered sheep. They still resorted to the synagogues, or called their own assemblies by that name (Jas. ii. 2, where "assembly" is "synagogue" in the Gr.). It appears from Jas. ii. 1-8 that they still held the synagogue courts for the trial of causes arising amongst themselves. The Epistle, then, is elementary in the extreme. To suppose that Jas. ii. 14-26 is a polemic against Paul's doctrine of justification is absurd. Neither Galatians nor Romans was yet written.

James' theme, then, is "religion" (Gr. threskeia, "outward religious service") as the expression and proof of faith. He does not exalt works as against faith, but faith as producing works. His style is that of the Wisdom-books of the O. T.

The divisions are five: I. The testing of faith, i. 1-ii. 26. II. The reality of faith tested by the tongue, iii. 1-18. III. The rebuke of worldliness, iv. 1-17. IV. The rich warned, v. 1-6. V. Hortatory, v. 7-20.

CHAPTER 1.

Part I. The testings of faith (Jas. i. 1-ii. 26).

(1) The purpose of testings.

JAMES, a [a]servant of God and of the Lord Jesus Christ, to the twelve tribes which are [b]scattered abroad, greeting.

2 My brethren, count it all joy when ye fall into divers [c]temptations;

3 Knowing this, that the trying of your faith [d]worketh patience.

4 But let patience have her perfect work, that ye may be [e]perfect and [f]entire, wanting nothing.

5 If any of you lack wisdom, let him ask of God, [g]that giveth to all men liberally, and upbraideth not; and it shall be given him.

6 [h]But let him ask in faith, nothing wavering. For he that wavereth is like a wave of the sea driven with the wind and tossed.

7 For let not that man think that he shall receive any thing of the Lord.

8 A [i]double minded man is unstable in all his ways.

9 [j]Let the brother of low degree rejoice in that he is exalted:

10 But the rich, [k]in that he is made low: because as the flower of the grass he shall pass away.

11 For the sun is no sooner risen with a burning heat, but it withereth the grass, and the flower thereof falleth, and the grace of the fashion of it perisheth: so also shall the rich man fade away in his ways.

12 Blessed is the man that endureth [l]temptation: for when he is tried, he shall receive the [m]crown of [n]life, which the Lord hath promised to them that love him.

(2) Solicitation to do evil is not of God.

13 Let no man say when he is tempted, I am tempted of God: for God cannot be tempted with evil, neither tempteth he any man:

14 But every man is [1]tempted, when he is drawn away of his own lust, and enticed.

15 Then when lust hath conceived, it bringeth forth [a]sin: and sin, when it is finished, bringeth forth death.

16 Do not err, my beloved brethren.

17 Every good [b]gift and every perfect gift is from above, and cometh down from the Father of lights, with whom is no [c]variableness, neither shadow of turning.

18 [d]Of his own will begat he us with the word of truth, that we should be a kind of firstfruits of his creatures.

19 Wherefore, my beloved brethren, let every man be swift to hear, slow to speak, slow to wrath:

20 For the wrath of man worketh not the [e]righteousness of God.

21 Wherefore lay apart all filthiness and [f]superfluity of naughtiness, and receive with meekness the engrafted word, which is able to [g]save your souls.

(3) The test of obedience.

22 But be ye [h]doers of the word, and not hearers only, deceiving your own selves.

23 For if any be a hearer of the word, and not a doer, he is like unto a man beholding his natural face in a glass:

24 For he beholdeth himself, and goeth his way, and straightway forgetteth what manner of man he was.

25 But whoso [i]looketh into the [j]perfect law of liberty, and continueth therein, he being not a forgetful hearer, but a doer of the work, this man shall be blessed in his deed.

(4) The test of true religion.

26 If any man among you seem to be [k]religious, and bridleth not his [l]tongue, but deceiveth his own heart, this man's religion is vain.

CHAPTER 2.

(5) The test of brotherly love.

MY brethren, have not the faith of our Lord Jesus Christ, [p]the Lord of glory, [q]with respect of persons.

2 For if there come unto your assembly a man with a gold ring, in goodly apparel, and there come in also a poor man in vile raiment;

3 And ye have respect to him that weareth the gay clothing, and say unto him, Sit thou here in a good place; and say to the poor, Stand thou there, or sit here under my footstool:

4 [r]Are ye not then partial in yourselves, and are become judges [s]of evil thoughts?

5 Hearken, my beloved brethren, [t]Hath not God chosen the poor of this [u]world [v]rich in faith, and heirs of the kingdom which he hath promised to them that love him?

6 But ye have despised the poor. Do not rich men oppress you, and draw you before the judgment seats?

7 Do not they blaspheme that [w]worthy name by the which ye are called?

8 If ye fulfil the royal law according to the scripture, [x]Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself, ye do well:

9 But [y]if ye have respect to persons, ye commit [z]sin, and are convinced of the law as transgressors.

10 For whosoever shall keep the whole [a]law, and yet [b]offend in one point, he is guilty of all.

11 For he that said, [c]Do not commit adultery, said also, Do not kill. Now if thou commit no adultery, yet if thou kill, thou art become a [z]transgressor of the law.

12 So speak ye, and so do, as they that shall be judged by the [d]law of liberty.

13 For he shall have judgment without mercy, that hath shewed

[1] "Temptation" is used in two senses: (1) Solicitation to evil (e.g. Gen. iii. 1–6; Mt. iv. 1; 1 Cor. x. 13; 2 Cor. xi. 3, 4; Jas. i. 14). (2) Testing under trial (e.g. Gen. xxii. 1; Lk. xxii. 28; cf. Lk. iv. 2). Cf. Mt. vi. 13 (solicitation to evil) and 1 Pet. i. 6 (testing under trial).

no mercy; and [a]mercy [b]rejoiceth against judgment.

(6) The test of good works.

14 What doth it profit, my brethren, though a man say he hath faith, and have not works? can [c]faith [d]save him?

15 If a brother or sister be naked, and destitute of daily food,

16 And [c]one of you say unto them, Depart in peace, be ye warmed and filled; notwithstanding ye give them not those things which are needful to the body; what doth it profit?

17 Even so [f]faith, if it hath not works, is [g]dead, being alone.

18 Yea, a man may say, Thou hast faith, and I have works: [h]shew me thy faith without thy works, and I will shew thee my faith by my works.

19 Thou believest that [i]there is one God; thou doest well: the [j]devils also believe, and tremble.

20 But wilt thou know, O vain man, that [k]faith without works is dead?

(7) The illustration of Abraham. (Cf. Rom. 4. 1-25.)

21 Was not Abraham our father [l]justified by works, when he had offered Isaac his son upon the altar?

22 Seest thou how faith wrought with his works, and by works was faith made [m]perfect?

23 And the scripture was fulfilled which saith, Abraham believed [n]God, and it was [o]imputed unto him for [p]righteousness: and he was called the [q]Friend of God.

24 Ye see then how that by works a man is justified, and not by faith only.

25 Likewise also was not [r]Rahab the harlot justified by works, when she had received the messengers, and had sent them out another way?

26 For as the [s]body without the spirit is dead, so faith without works is dead also.

CHAPTER 3.

Part II. A true faith will control the tongue.

MY brethren, be not many [t]masters, knowing that we shall receive the greater condemnation.

2 For in many things [u]we offend all. If any man offend not in word, the same is a [m]perfect man, and able also to bridle the whole body.

3 Behold, we put [v]bits in the horses' mouths, that they may obey us; and we turn about their whole body.

4 Behold also the ships, which though they be so great, and are driven of fierce winds, yet are they turned about with a very small helm, whithersoever the governor listeth.

5 Even so [w]the tongue is a little member, and boasteth great things. Behold, how great a matter a little fire kindleth!

6 [x]And the tongue is a fire, a world of iniquity: so is the tongue among our members, that it [y]defileth the whole body, and setteth on fire the course of nature; and it is set on fire of [z]hell.

7 For every kind of beasts, and of birds, and of [a]serpents, and of things in the sea, is tamed, and hath been tamed of mankind:

8 But the tongue can no man tame; it is an unruly evil, [b]full of deadly poison.

9 Therewith bless we [c]God, even the Father; and therewith curse we men, which are made [d]after the similitude of God.

10 Out of the same mouth proceedeth blessing and cursing. My brethren, these things ought not so to be.

11 Doth a fountain send forth at the same place sweet water and bitter?

12 Can the [e]fig tree, my brethren, bear olive berries? either a vine, figs? so can no fountain both yield salt water and fresh.

13 Who is a wise man and endued with knowledge among you? let him shew out of a good [f]conversation his works with meekness of wisdom.

14 But if ye have bitter envying and strife in your hearts, glory not, and lie not against the truth.

[1] Imputation is the act of God whereby He accounts righteousness to the believer in Christ, who has borne the believer's sins in vindication of the law. See Phm. 17, 18, note.

15 [a]This wisdom descendeth not from above, but is earthly, [b]sensual, devilish.

16 For where envying and strife is, there is confusion and every evil work.

17 But the [c]wisdom that is from above is first pure, then peaceable, gentle, and easy to be intreated, full of mercy and good fruits, without partiality, and [d]without hypocrisy.

18 And the fruit of [e]righteousness is sown in peace [f]of them that make peace.

CHAPTER 4.

Part III. The rebuke of worldliness.

FROM whence come wars and fightings among you? come they not hence, even of your lusts [g]that war in your members?

2 Ye lust, and have not: ye kill, and desire to have, and cannot obtain: ye fight and war, yet ye have not, because ye ask not.

3 Ye ask, and receive not, [h]because ye ask [i]amiss, that ye may consume it upon your lusts.

4 Ye adulterers and adulteresses, know ye not that the [j]friendship of the [k]world is enmity with God? [l]whosoever therefore will be a friend of the world is the enemy of God.

5 Do ye think that the scripture [m]saith in vain, [n]The [o]spirit that dwelleth in us lusteth to envy?

6 But he giveth more [p]grace. Wherefore he saith, [q]God resisteth the proud, but giveth grace unto the humble.

7 Submit yourselves therefore to God. Resist the [r]devil, and he will flee from you.

8 [s]Draw nigh to God, and he will draw nigh to you. Cleanse your hands, ye [t]sinners; and purify your hearts, ye double minded.

9 Be afflicted, and mourn, and weep: let your laughter be turned to mourning, and your joy to heaviness.

10 [u]Humble yourselves in the sight of the Lord, and he shall lift you up.

11 [v]Speak not evil one of another, brethren. He that speaketh evil of his brother, and judgeth his brother, speaketh evil of the law, and judgeth the law: but if thou judge the law, thou art not a doer of the law, but a judge.

Part IV. The rich warned.

GO to now, ye [c]rich men, weep and howl for your miseries that shall come upon you.

2 Your [d]riches are corrupted, and your garments are motheaten.

3 Your gold and silver is cankered; and the rust of them shall be a witness against you, and shall eat your flesh as it were fire. Ye have heaped treasure [e]together for the last days.

4 Behold, the hire of the labourers who have reaped down your fields, which is of you kept back by fraud, crieth: and the cries of them which have reaped are entered into the ears of [f]the Lord of sabaoth.

5 Ye have lived [g]in pleasure on the earth, and [h]been wanton; ye have nourished your hearts, as in a day of slaughter.

6 Ye have condemned and killed the just; and he doth not [i]resist you.

Part V. Exhortations in view of the coming of the Lord.

7 [j]Be patient therefore, brethren, unto the coming of the Lord. Behold, the husbandman waiteth for the precious fruit of the earth, and hath long patience for it, until he receive the early and latter rain.

8 Be ye also patient; stablish your hearts: for [k]the coming of the Lord draweth nigh.

9 [l]Grudge not one against another, brethren, lest ye be condemned: be hold, the judge standeth before the door.

10 Take, my brethren, the prophets, who have spoken in the name of the Lord, for an example of suffering [a]affliction, and of patience.

11 Behold, we count them [b]happy which endure. Ye have heard of the [c]patience of Job, and have seen the [d]end of the Lord; that the Lord is very pitiful, and of tender mercy.

12 But above all things, my brethren, [e]swear not, neither by heaven, neither by the earth, neither by any other oath: but let your yea be yea; and your nay, nay; lest ye fall into condemnation.

13 Is any among you afflicted? let him pray. Is any merry? let him sing [f]psalms.

14 Is any sick among you? [g]let him call for the [h]elders of the church; and let them pray over him, anointing him with oil in the name of the Lord:

WRITER. The Apostle Peter (i. 1).

Date. Probably A.D. 60. That "Babylon" refers to the former city on the Euphrates, or to Rome, cannot be inferred from v. 13. The text is obscure.

Theme. While Peter undoubtedly has scattered Jewish believers in mind, his Epistles comprehend Gentile believers also (1 Pet. ii. 10). The present Epistle, written from a church on Gentile ground (v. 13), presents all the foundational truths of the Christian faith, with special emphasis on the atonement. The distinctive note of First Peter is preparation for victory over suffering. That word occurs about fifteen times, and is the key-word of the Epistle.

The Epistle is in three parts: I. Christian suffering and conduct in the light of full salvation, i. 1–ii. 8. II. The believer's life in view of his sevenfold position, and of the vicarious suffering of Christ, ii. 9–iv. 19. III. Christian service in the light of the coming of the Chief Shepherd, v. 1–14.

CHAPTER 1.

Part I. Christian suffering and conduct in the light of full salvation (1 Pet. i. 1–ii. 8).

1 PETER, an apostle of Jesus Christ, to the [a]strangers scattered throughout Pontus, Galatia, Cappadocia, Asia, and Bithynia,

2 [b]Elect according to the foreknowledge of God the Father, through [c]sanctification of the Spirit, unto obedience and sprinkling of the blood of Jesus Christ: Grace unto you, and peace, be multiplied.

3 Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, which according to his abundant mercy hath begotten us again unto a [d]lively hope by the resurrection of Jesus Christ [e]from the dead,

4 To an inheritance incorruptible, and undefiled, and that fadeth not away, reserved in heaven for you,

5 Who are [f]kept by the power of God through [g]faith unto salvation ready to be revealed in the last time.

6 Wherein ye greatly rejoice, though now for a season, if need be, ye are in heaviness through manifold [h]temptations:

7 That the trial of your faith, being much more precious than of gold that perisheth, though it be tried with fire, [2]might be found unto praise and honour and glory at the [i]appearing of Jesus Christ:

8 Whom having not seen, ye love; in whom, though now ye see him not, yet believing, ye rejoice with joy unspeakable and full of glory:

9 Receiving the end of your faith, even the [j]salvation of your souls.

[1]Election, Summary: In both Testaments the Hebrew and Greek words are rendered "elect," "election," "choose," "chosen." In all cases they mean, simply, "chosen," or "to choose"; and are used of both human and divine choices. (1) In the latter use election is: (a) corporate, as of the nation of Israel, or the church (Isa. xlv. 4; Eph. i. 4); and (b) individual (1 Pet. i. 2). (2) Election is according to the foreknowledge of God (1 Pet. i. 2), and wholly of grace, apart from human merit (Rom. ix. 11; xi. 5, 6). (3) Election proceeds from the divine volition (John xv. 16).

Election is, therefore: (1) The sovereign act of God in grace whereby certain are chosen from among mankind for Himself (John xv. 19). (2) The sovereign act of God whereby certain elect persons are chosen for distinctive service for Him (Lk. vi. 13; Acts ix. 15; 1 Cor. i. 27, 28).

[2]Suffering, in First Peter, is set in the light of: (1) assured salvation, i. 2–5; (2) the greater glory at Christ's appearing, i. 7; (3) Christ's sufferings and coming glories, i. 11; (4) the believer's association with Him in both, ii. 20, 21; iii. 17, 18; iv. 12, 13; (5) the purifying effect of suffering, i. 7; iv. 1, 2; v. 10; (6) that Christ is now glorified in the believer's patient suffering, iv. 16; (7) that suffering is disciplinary, iv. 17–19. (1 Cor. xi. 31, 32; Heb. xii. 5–13.)

10 Of which [a]salvation the prophets have inquired and searched diligently, [b]who prophesied of the grace that should come unto you:

11 Searching what, or what manner of time the [c]Spirit of Christ which was in them did signify, when it testified beforehand the sufferings of Christ, and the glory that should follow.

12 Unto whom it was revealed, that not unto themselves, but unto us they did minister the things, which are now reported unto you by them that have preached the gospel unto you with the [d]Holy Ghost sent down from heaven; which things the angels desire to look into.

13 Wherefore gird up the loins of your mind, be sober, and hope to the end [e]for the grace that is to be brought unto you at the revelation of Jesus Christ;

14 As obedient children, not [f]fashioning yourselves according to the former lusts in your ignorance:

15 But as he which hath called you is holy, so be ye holy in all manner of conversation;

16 Because it is written, [g]Be ye [h]holy; for I am holy.

17 And if ye call on the Father, who without respect of persons judgeth according to every man's work, pass the time of your sojourning here in fear:

18 Forasmuch as ye know that ye were not [i]redeemed with corruptible things, as silver and gold, from your vain conversation received by tradition from your fathers;

19 But [j]with the precious blood of Christ, as of a lamb without blemish and without spot:

20 Who verily was [k]foreordained before the foundation of the [l]world, but was manifest [m]in these last times for you,

21 Who by him do believe in God, that raised him up from the dead, and gave him glory; that your faith and hope might be in God.

22 Seeing ye have purified your souls in obeying the truth through the Spirit [n]unto unfeigned love of the brethren, see that ye love one another with a pure heart fervently:

23 Being born again, not of corruptible seed, but of incorruptible, by the word of God, which liveth and abideth for ever.

24 For [o]all flesh is as grass, and all the glory of man as the flower of grass. The grass withereth, and the flower thereof falleth away:

25 But the [p]word of the [q]Lord endureth for ever. And this is the word which by the [r]gospel is preached unto you.

CHAPTER 2.

Part I. continued.

WHEREFORE laying aside all malice, and all guile, and hypocrisies, and envies, and all evil speakings,

2 As newborn babes, desire the sincere milk of the word, that ye may grow thereby:

3 If so be ye have [s]tasted that the Lord is gracious.

4 To whom coming, [t]as unto a living stone, [u]disallowed indeed of men, but chosen of God, and precious,

5 Ye also, as lively stones, [v]are built up a spiritual house, an holy priesthood, to offer up [w]spiritual sacrifices, acceptable to God by Jesus Christ.

6 Wherefore also it is contained in the [x]scripture, Behold, I lay in Sion a chief corner stone, elect, precious: and he that believeth on him shall not be confounded.

7 Unto you therefore which [y]believe [z]he is precious: but unto them which be disobedient, the stone which the builders [u]disallowed, the same is made the head of the corner,

8 And a [aa]stone of stumbling, and a

[1] The divine order is foreknowledge, election, predestination. That foreknowledge determines the election or choice is clear from 1 Pet. i. 2, and predestination is the bringing to pass of the election. "Election looks back to foreknowledge; predestination forward to the destiny." But Scripture nowhere declares what it is in the divine foreknowledge which determines the divine election and predestination. The foreknown are elected, and the elect are predestinated, and this election is certain to every believer by the mere fact that he believes (1 Thes. i. 4, 5). See "Predestination," Eph. i. 11.

[2] Christ crucified is the Rock: (1) Smitten that the Spirit of life may flow from Him to all who will drink (Ex. xvii. 6; 1 Cor. x. 4; John iv. 13, 14; vii. 37-39). (2) To the church the foundation and chief corner Stone (Eph. ii. 20). (3) To the Jews at His first coming a "stumbling stone" (Rom. ix. 32, 33; 1 Cor. i. 23).

rock of offence, even to them which stumble at the word, being disobedient: whereunto also they were appointed.

Part II. The believer's life in view of his sevenfold position, and of the vicarious suffering of Christ.

9 But ye are a [a]chosen generation, a royal [1]priesthood, an [b]holy nation, a [c]peculiar people; that ye should shew forth the [d]praises of him who hath called you out of darkness into his marvellous light:

10 Which in time past were not a people, but are now the people of [e]God: which had not obtained mercy, but now have obtained mercy.

11 Dearly beloved, I beseech you as [f]strangers and pilgrims, abstain from fleshly lusts, which [g]war against the soul;

12 Having your conversation honest among the Gentiles: that, whereas they speak against you as evildoers, they may by your [h]good works, which they shall behold, glorify God in the day of visitation.

13 Submit [i]yourselves to every ordinance of man for the Lord's sake: whether it be to the king, as supreme;

14 Or unto governors, as unto them that are sent by him for the punishment of evildoers, and for the praise of them that do well.

15 For so is the will of God, that with well doing ye may put to silence the ignorance of foolish men:

16 [j]As free, and not using your liberty for a cloke of maliciousness, but as the [k]servants of God.

17 Honour all men. Love the brotherhood. Fear [l]God. Honour the king.

18 [m]Servants, be subject to your masters with all fear; not only to the good and gentle, but also to the froward.

19 For [n]this is [o]thankworthy, if a man for conscience toward God endure grief, suffering wrongfully.

20 For what glory is it, if, when ye be buffeted for your [p]faults, ye shall take it patiently? but if, when ye do well, and suffer for it, ye take it patiently, this is acceptable with God.

(The vicarious suffering of Christ.)

21 For even [q]hereunto were ye called: because Christ also suffered for us, leaving us an example, that ye should follow his steps:

22 [r]Who did no [s]sin, neither was guile found in his mouth:

23 Who, [t]when he was reviled, reviled not again; when he suffered, he threatened not; but committed himself to him that judgeth righteously:

24 [u]Who his own self [v]bare our [s]sins in his own body on the tree, that we, being dead to sins, should live unto [w]righteousness: by whose stripes ye were healed.

25 For ye were as sheep going astray; but are now returned unto the [x]Shepherd and [y]Bishop of your souls.

(6) In the divine purpose the Stone which, after the destruction of Gentile world-power, is to grow and fill the earth. (7) To unbelievers the crushing Stone of judgment (Mt. xxi. 44).

[1] The New Testament priesthood, Summary: (1) Until the law was given the head of each family was the family priest (Gen. viii. 20; xxvi. 25; xxxi. 54). (2) When the law was proposed, the promise to perfect obedience was that Israel should be unto God "a kingdom of priests" (Ex. xix. 6); but Israel violated the law, and God shut up the priestly office to the Aaronic family, appointing the tribe of Levi to minister to them, thus constituting the typical priesthood (Ex. xxviii. 1). (3) In the dispensation of grace, all believers are unconditionally constituted a "kingdom of priests" (1 Pet. ii. 9; Rev. i. 6), the distinction which Israel failed to achieve by works. The priesthood of the believer is, therefore, a birthright; just as every descendant of Aaron was born to the priesthood (Heb. v. 1). (4) The chief privilege of a priest is access to God. Under law the high priest only could enter "the holiest of all," and that but once a year (Heb. ix. 7). But when Christ died, the veil, type of Christ's human body (Heb. x. 20), was rent, so that now the believer-priests, equally with Christ the High Priest, have access to God in the holiest (Heb. x. 19-22). The High Priest is corporeally there (iv. 14-16; Heb. ix. 24; x. 19-22). (5) In the exercise of his office the New Testament believer-priest is (1) a sacrificer who offers a threefold sacrifice: (a) his own living body (Rom. xii. 1; Phil. ii. 17; 2 Tim. iv. 6

CHAPTER 3.

Part II. continued.

LIKEWISE, ye wives, be in [a]subjection to your own husbands; that, if any obey not the word, they also may without the word be won by the [b]conversation of the wives;

2 While they behold your chaste [b]conversation coupled with fear.

3 Whose [c]adorning let it not be that outward adorning of plaiting the hair, and of wearing of gold, or of putting on of apparel;

4 But let it be the hidden man [d]of the heart, in [e]that which is not corruptible, even the ornament of a meek and quiet spirit, which is in the sight of God of great price.

5 For after this manner in the old time the holy women also, who [f]trusted in God, adorned themselves, being in subjection unto their own husbands:

6 Even as Sara obeyed Abraham, [g]calling him lord: whose daughters ye are, as long as ye do well, and [h]are not afraid with any amazement.

7 Likewise, ye husbands, dwell with them according to knowledge, giving honour unto the wife, as unto the weaker vessel, and as being heirs together of the [i]grace of [j]life; that your prayers be not hindered.

8 Finally, be ye all of one mind, having compassion one of another, [k]love as brethren, be pitiful, be courteous:

9 Not [l]rendering evil for evil, or railing for railing: but contrariwise blessing; [m]knowing that ye are thereunto called, that ye should inherit a blessing.

10 For [n]he that will love life, and see good days, let him refrain his tongue from evil, and his lips that they speak no guile:

11 Let him eschew evil, and do good; let him seek peace, and [o]ensue it.

12 For the eyes of the [p]Lord are over the [q]righteous, and his ears are open unto their prayers: but the face of the [r]Lord is [s]against them that do evil.

13 And who is he that will harm you, if ye be followers of that which is good?

14 But and if ye suffer for [t]righteousness' sake, happy are ye: and be not afraid of their terror, neither be troubled;

15 But [u]sanctify the Lord God in your hearts: and be [v]ready always to give an answer to every man that asketh you a reason of the [w]hope that is in you with meekness and fear:

16 Having a good conscience; that, whereas they speak evil of you, as of evildoers, they may be ashamed that falsely accuse your good conversation in Christ.

17 For it is better, if the will of God be so, that ye suffer for well doing, than for evil doing.

(The vicarious suffering of Christ, preached by Christ through the Spirit in Noah.)

18 [x]For Christ also [y]hath [z]once suffered for [a]sins, the just for the unjust, [b]that he might bring us to God, being put to death in the flesh, but quickened by the [c]Spirit:

19 [d]By which also he went and preached unto the spirits in prison;

20 Which sometime were disobedient, when [e]once the longsuffering of God waited in the days of Noah, while the ark was a preparing, wherein few, that is, eight souls were saved by water.

21 [f]The like figure whereunto even [g]baptism doth also now save us (not the putting away of the filth of the [h]flesh, but the [i]answer of a good conscience toward God,) by the resurrection of Jesus Christ:

22 Who is gone into heaven, and is on the right hand of God; [j]angels and authorities and powers being made subject unto him.

(2) The N.T. priest is also an intercessor (1 Tim. ii. 1; Col. iv. 12).

3 For the time past of our life may suffice us to have wrought the will of the Gentiles, when we walked in lasciviousness, lusts, excess of wine, revellings, banquetings, and abominable idolatries:

4 Wherein they think it strange that ye run not with them to the same excess of riot, speaking evil of you:

5 Who shall give account to him that is ready to judge the quick and the dead.

6 [a]For for this cause was the gospel preached also to them [b]that are dead, that they might be [c]judged according to men in the [d]flesh, but [e]live according to God in the spirit.

7 But the [f]end of all things is [g]at hand: be ye therefore sober, and watch unto prayer.

8 And above all things have fervent [h]charity among yourselves: for charity shall cover the multitude of [i]sins.

9 Use hospitality one to another without grudging.

10 As every man hath [j]received the gift, even so minister the same one to another, as [k]good stewards of the manifold [l]grace of God.

11 [m]If any man speak, let him speak as the oracles of God; if any man minister, let him do it as of the ability which God giveth: that God in [n]all things may be glorified through Jesus Christ, to whom be praise and dominion for ever and ever. Amen.

12 Beloved, think it not strange concerning the fiery trial which is to try you, as though some strange thing happened unto you:

13 But rejoice, [o]inasmuch as ye are partakers of Christ's sufferings: that, [p]when his glory shall be revealed, ye may be glad also with exceeding joy.

14 [q]If ye be reproached for the name of Christ, happy are ye; for the [r]spirit of glory and of God resteth upon you: on their part he is evil spoken of, [s]but on your part he is glorified.

15 But let none of you suffer as a murderer, or as a thief, or as an evildoer, or as a busybody in other men's matters.

16 Yet if any man suffer as a Christian, let him not be ashamed; but let him glorify God on this behalf.

17 For the time is come that [t]judgment must [u]begin at the house of God: and if it first begin at us, what shall the end be of them that obey not the [v]gospel of God?

18 And if the [w]righteous [x]scarcely be [y]saved, where shall the ungodly and the [z]sinner appear?

19 Wherefore let them that suffer according to the will of God [a]commit the keeping of their souls to him in well doing, as unto a faithful Creator.

CHAPTER 5.

Part III. Christian service in view of the coming again of the Chief Shepherd.

THE [a]elders which are among you I exhort, who am also an elder, and a [b]witness of the sufferings of Christ, and also a partaker of the [c]glory that shall be revealed:

2 [d]Feed the flock of God which is among you, taking the oversight thereof, not by constraint, but willingly; not for filthy lucre, but of a ready mind;

3 Neither as [e]being lords over God's heritage, but being ensamples to the flock.

4 And when the chief [f]Shepherd shall appear, ye shall receive a [g]crown of glory that fadeth not away.

5 Likewise, ye younger, submit yourselves unto the elder. Yea, [h]all of you be subject one to another, and be clothed with humility: for [i]God resisteth the proud, and giveth grace to the humble.

6 [j]Humble yourselves therefore under the mighty hand of God, that he may exalt you in due time:

7 [k]Casting all your care upon him; for he careth for you.

8 Be sober, be vigilant; because your adversary the [l]devil, as a roaring lion, walketh about, seeking whom he may devour:

9 Whom [m]resist stedfast in the faith, knowing that the same afflictions are accomplished in your brethren that are in the [n]world.

10 But the God of [o]all grace, who hath called us unto his eternal glory by Christ Jesus, [p]after that ye have suffered a while, make you [q]perfect, stablish, strengthen, settle you.

11 To him be glory and dominion for ever and ever. Amen.

WRITER. The Apostle Peter (i. 1).

Date. Probably A.D. 66.

Theme. Second Peter and Second Timothy have much in common. In both, the writers are aware that martyrdom is near (2 Tim. iv. 6; 2 Pet. i. 14 with John xxi. 18, 19); both are singularly sustained and joyful; and to both it is given to foresee the apostasy in which the history of the professing church will end. Paul finds that apostasy in its last stage when the laity have become infected (2 Tim. iii. 1-5; iv. 3, 4); Peter traces the origin of the apostasy to false teachers (2 Pet. ii. 1-3, 15-19). In Peter the false teachers deny redemption truth (ii. 1); we shall find in First John a deeper depth—denial of the truth concerning Christ's person (1 John iv. 1-5). In Jude all phases of the apostasy are seen. But in none of these Epistles is the tone one of dejection or pessimism. God and His promises are still the resource of the believer.

The Epistle is in four divisions: I. The great Christian virtues, i. 1-14. II. The Scriptures exalted, i. 15-21. III. Warnings concerning apostate teachers, ii. 1-22. IV. The second coming of Christ and the day of Jehovah, iii. 1-18.

CHAPTER 1.

Part I. The great Christian virtues.

SIMON Peter, a [a]servant and an apostle of Jesus Christ, to them that have obtained like precious faith with us through the [b]righteousness of God and our [c]Saviour Jesus Christ:

2 [d]Grace and peace be multiplied unto you through the knowledge of God, and of Jesus our Lord,

3 According as his divine power hath given unto us all things that pertain unto [e]life and godliness, through the knowledge of him that hath called us [f]to glory and virtue:

4 [g]Whereby are given unto us exceeding great and precious promises: that by these ye might be [h]partakers of the divine nature, having [i]escaped the corruption that is in the [j]world through lust.

5 And beside this, giving all diligence, [k]add to your faith virtue; [l]and to virtue knowledge;

6 And to knowledge temperance; and to temperance patience; and to patience godliness;

7 And to godliness brotherly kindness; and to brotherly kindness [m]charity.

8 For if these things be in you, and abound, they make you that ye shall neither be [n]barren nor unfruitful in the knowledge of our Lord Jesus Christ.

9 But he that lacketh these things is [o]blind, and cannot see afar off, and hath forgotten that he was purged from his old [p]sins.

10 Wherefore the rather, brethren, give diligence to make your calling and election sure: [q]for if ye do these things, ye shall never fall:

11 For so an entrance shall be ministered unto you abundantly into the everlasting kingdom of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ.

12 Wherefore I will not be negligent to put you always in remembrance of these things, though ye know them, and be established in the present truth.

13 Yea, I think it meet, as long as I am in this tabernacle, [r]to stir you up by putting you in remembrance;

14 Knowing that shortly I must [s]put off this my tabernacle, even as our Lord Jesus Christ hath [t]shewed me.

Part II. The Scriptures exalted.

15 Moreover I will endeavour that ye may be able after my decease to have these things always in remembrance.

16 For we have not followed cunningly devised [u]fables, when we made known unto you the [v]power and [w]coming of our Lord Jesus Christ, but were [a]eyewitnesses of his majesty.

17 For he received from God the Father honour and glory, when there came such a voice to him from the excellent glory, [b]This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased.

18 And this voice which came from heaven we heard, when we were with him in the [1][c]holy mount.

19 We have also [d]a more sure word of prophecy; [2]whereunto ye do well that ye take heed, as unto a [e]light that shineth in a dark place, [f]until the day dawn, and the [g]day star arise in your hearts:

20 Knowing this first, that no prophecy of the scripture is of [h]any private interpretation.

21 For the prophecy came not in [i]old time by the will of man: but [j]holy men of God [k]spake as they were moved by the [l]Holy Ghost.

CHAPTER 2.

Part III. Warnings concerning apostate teachers.

(1) They will deny redemption by blood: many will follow them.

BUT there were false prophets also among the people, even as there shall be [m]false teachers among you, who privily shall bring in [n]damnable heresies, even [o]denying the [p]Lord that bought them, and bring upon themselves swift destruction.

2 And many shall follow their pernicious ways; by reason of whom the way of truth shall be evil spoken of.

3 And through covetousness shall they with feigned words make merchandise of you: whose judgment now of a long time lingereth not, and their [q]damnation slumbereth not.

4 For if God [r]spared not the angels that sinned, but cast them down to hell, and delivered them into chains of darkness, to be reserved unto judgment;

5 And spared not the old world, but saved Noah the eighth person, a preacher of righteousness, bringing in the flood upon the [s]world of the ungodly;

6 And turning the cities of Sodom and Gomorrha into ashes condemned them with an overthrow, making them an ensample unto those that after should live ungodly;

7 And delivered just Lot, vexed with the filthy conversation of the wicked.

8 (For that righteous man dwelling among them, in seeing and hearing, vexed his righteous soul from day to day with their unlawful deeds;)

9 The Lord knoweth how [t]to deliver the godly out of [u]temptations, and to reserve the unjust unto the [v]day of judgment to be punished:

10 But chiefly them that walk after the flesh in the lust of uncleanness, and despise government. Presumptuous are they, selfwilled, they are not afraid to speak evil of dignities.

11 Whereas angels, which are greater in power and might, bring not railing accusation against them before the Lord.

12 But these, as [w]natural brute beasts, made to be taken and destroyed, speak evil of the things that they understand not; and shall utterly perish in their own corruption;

13 And shall receive the reward of unrighteousness, as they that count it pleasure to riot in the day time. Spots they are and blemishes, sporting themselves with their own deceivings while they feast with you;

[1] Where the reference is to things, the meaning of "holy" or "sanctified" is, simply, set apart for the use of God, or rendered sacred by the divine presence.

[2] That is, made more sure by fulfilment in part. Fulfilled prophecy is a proof of inspiration because the Scripture predictions of future events were uttered so long before the events transpired that no merely human sagacity or foresight could have anticipated them, and these predictions are so detailed, minute, and specific, as to exclude the possibility that they were mere fortunate guesses. Hundreds of predictions concerning Israel, the land of Canaan, Babylon, Assyria, Egypt, and numerous personages—so ancient, so singular, so seemingly improbable, as well as so detailed and definite that no mortal could have anticipated them, have been fulfilled by the elements, and by men who were ignorant of them, or who utterly disbelieved them, or who struggled with frantic desperation to avoid their fulfilment. It is certain, therefore, that the Scriptures which contain them are inspired. "Prophecy came not in olden time by the will of man; but holy men of God spake as they were moved by the Holy Ghost" (2 Pet. i. 21).

14 Having eyes full of adultery, and that cannot cease from [a]sin; beguiling unstable souls: an heart they have exercised with covetous practices; cursed children:

(a) They are like Balaam.

15 Which have forsaken the right way, and are gone astray, following the way of [1b]Balaam the son of Bosor, who loved the wages of unrighteousness;

16 But was rebuked for his iniquity: the dumb ass speaking with man's voice forbad the madness of the prophet.

(b) They are destitute of the Spirit. (Cf. John 4. 14; 7. 37-39; Rom. 8. 9.)

(c) Their words are learned and pretentious. (Cf. 1 Cor. 2. 1-5.)

18 [d]For when they speak great swelling words of vanity, they allure through the lusts of the [e]flesh, through much wantonness, those that were clean escaped from them who live in error.

(d) They affect liberality.

19 While they promise them liberty, they themselves are the servants of corruption: [f]for of whom a man is overcome, of the same is he brought in bondage.

20 For if after they have escaped the pollutions of the [g]world through the knowledge of the Lord and [h]Saviour Jesus Christ, they are [i]again entangled therein, and overcome, the latter end is worse with them than the beginning.

21 For it had been [j]better for them not to have known the way of righteousness, than, [k]after they have known it, to turn from the holy commandment delivered unto them.

(e) Unsaved professors run after them.

CHAPTER 3.

Part IV. The return of the Lord and the day of Jehovah (Isa. 2. 12, refs.).

1 THIS second epistle, beloved, I now write unto you; in both which I stir up your [m]pure minds by way of remembrance:

2 That ye may be mindful of the words [n]which were spoken before by the holy prophets, and of the commandment [o]of us the apostles of the Lord and [p]Saviour:

3 Knowing this first, that there shall come in the last days [q]scoffers, walking after their own lusts,

(1) The return of the Lord to be generally disbelieved.

4 And saying, [r]Where is the promise of his coming? for since the fathers fell asleep, all things continue as they were from the beginning of the creation.

5 For this [s]they willingly are ignorant of, that [t]by the word of God the heavens were of old, and the earth standing out of the water and in the water:

6 Whereby the [u]world that then was, being overflowed with water, [v]perished:

7 But the heavens and the earth, which are now, by the same word are kept in store, reserved unto fire against the [w]day of judgment and [x]perdition of ungodly men.

8 But, beloved, be not ignorant of this one thing, that one day is with the Lord as a thousand years, and [y]a thousand years as one day.

9 The Lord is not [z]slack concerning his promise, as some men count slackness; but is [a]longsuffering to us-ward, [b]not willing that any should perish, but that all [c]should come to [d]repentance.

(2) The day of the Lord (Isa. 2. 12, refs.).

10 But the [e]day of the Lord will come [f]as a thief in the night; in the which the [g]heavens shall pass away with a great noise, and the elements shall melt with fervent heat, the earth also and the works that are therein shall be burned up.

11 Seeing then that all these things shall be dissolved, what manner of persons ought ye to be in all holy conversation and godliness,

[1] Balaam (see Num. xxii. 5, refs.) was the typical hireling prophet, anxious only to make a market of his gift. This is the "way" of Balaam. See the "error" of Balaam, Jude 11, note; and the "doctrine" of Balaam, Rev. ii. 14, note.

12 Looking for and [a]hasting unto the coming of the day of God, wherein the heavens being on fire shall be dissolved, and the elements shall melt with fervent heat?

13 Nevertheless we, according to his promise, [b]look for [c]new heavens and a new earth, wherein dwelleth [d]righteousness.

14 Wherefore, beloved, seeing that ye look for such things, [e]be diligent that ye may be found of him in peace, without spot, and blameless.

15 And account that the long-suffering of our Lord is [f]salvation; even as our beloved brother Paul also according to the wisdom given unto him hath written unto you;

16 As also in all his [g]epistles, speaking in them of these things; in which are some things hard to be understood, which they that are unlearned and unstable wrest, as they do [h]also the other scriptures, unto their own destruction.

17 Ye therefore, beloved, seeing ye [i]know these things before, beware lest ye also, being led away with the error of the wicked, fall from your own stedfastness.

18 But grow in [j]grace, and in the knowledge of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ. To him be glory both now and for ever. Amen.

[j] Grace (imparted). (Rom. 6. 1.)

[1]Grace (imparted), Summary (see "Grace," John i. 16): Grace is not only dispensationally a method of divine dealing in salvation (John i. 16, note), but is also the method of God in the believer's life and service. As saved, he is "not under the law, but under grace" (Rom. vi. 14). Having by grace brought the believer into the highest conceivable position (Eph. i. 6), God ceaselessly works through grace, to impart to, and perfect in him, corresponding graces (John xv. 4, 5; Gal. v. 22, 23). Grace, therefore, stands connected with service (Rom. xii. 6; xv. 15, 16; 1 Cor. i. 3-7; iii. 10; xv. 10; 2 Cor. xii. 9, 10; Gal. ii. 9; Eph. iii. 7, 8; iv. 7; Phil. i. 7; 2 Tim. ii. 1, 2; 1 Pet. iv. 10); with Christian growth (2 Cor. i. 12; Eph. iv. 29; Col. iii. 16; iv. 6; 2 Thes. i. 12; Heb. iv. 16; xii. 28, 29; xiii. 9; Jas. iv. 6; 1 Pet. i. 2; iii. 7; v. 5, 10; 2 Pet. iii. 18; Jude 4); and with giving (2 Cor. iv. 15; viii. 1, 6, 7, 19; ix. 14).

THE FIRST EPISTLE GENERAL OF

WRITER. The Apostle John, as unbroken tradition affirms, and as internal evidence and comparison with the Gospel of John prove.

Date. Probably A.D. 90.

Theme. First John is a family letter from the Father to His "little children" who are in the world. With the possible exception of the Song of Solomon, it is the most intimate of the inspired writings. The world is viewed as without. The sin of a believer is treated as a child's offence against his Father, and is dealt with as a family matter (i. 9; ii. 1). The moral government of the universe is not in question. The child's sin as an offence against the law has been met in the Cross, and "Jesus Christ the righteous" is now his "Advocate with the Father." John's Gospel leads across the threshold of the Father's house; his first Epistle makes us at home there. A tender word is used for "children," teknia, "born ones," or "bairns." Paul is occupied with our public position as sons; John with our nearness as born-ones of the Father.

First John is in two principal divisions: I. The family with the Father, i. 1–iii. 24. II. The family and the world, iv. 1–v. 21. There is a secondary analysis, in each division of which occurs the phrase, "My little children," as follows: (I.) Introductory, the incarnation, i. 1, 2. (II.) The little children and fellowship, i. 3–ii. 11. (III.) The little children and the secular and "religious" world, ii. 15–28. (IV.) How the little children may know each other, ii. 29–iii. 10. (V.) How the little children must live together, iii. 11–24. (VI.) Parenthetic: How the little children may know false teachers, iv. 1–6. (VII.) The little children assured and warned, iv. 7–v. 21.

CHAPTER 1.

Part I. The family with the Father: fellowship.

(1) The incarnation makes fellowship possible.

THAT which was [a]from the beginning, which we have [b]heard, which we have [c]seen with our eyes, which we have [d]looked upon, and our hands have [e]handled, of the [f]Word of life;

2 (For the [g]life was manifested, and we have seen it, and bear witness, and shew unto you that [h]eternal life, which was [i]with the Father, and was manifested unto us;)

(2) Fellowship is with the Father and with the Son.

3 That which we have seen and heard declare we unto you, that ye also may have fellowship with us: and truly our fellowship is [j]with the Father, and with his Son Jesus Christ.

4 And these things write we unto you, that [k]your joy may be full.

(3) The conditions of fellowship.

(a) The walk in the light.

5 This then is the message which we have heard of him, and declare unto you, that [l]God is light, and in him is no darkness at all.

6 If we [m]say that we have fellowship with him, and walk in darkness, we lie, and [n]do not the truth:

7 But if we walk in the [o]light, as he is in the light, we have fellowship [p]one with another, and [q]the blood of Jesus Christ his Son cleanseth us from all sin.

(b) The fact of indwelling sin admitted. (Cf. 1 Cor. II. 31, note.)

8 If we say that we have no sin,

[1] What it is to "walk in the light" is explained by vs. 8–10. "All things . . . are made manifest by the light" (Eph. v. 13). The presence of God brings the consciousness of sin in the nature (v. 8), and sins in the life (vs. 9, 10). To walk in the light is to frankly confess both. The blood of Christ is the divine provision. In the Cross "sin" was condemned (Rom. viii. 3), and "sins" put away (Heb. ix. 26). "In the light" means the acknowledgment of these facts and belief in Christ crucified as the remedy.

we deceive ourselves, and the truth is not in us.

(c) Sins confessed, forgiven, and cleansed.

9 If we confess our sins, he is [a]faithful and [b]just to forgive us our sins, and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness.

10 If we say that we have not sinned, [c]we make him a liar, and his word is not in us.

CHAPTER 2.

(d) Fellowship maintained by Christ's advocacy.

MY little children, these things write I unto you, that ye [d]sin not. And if any man sin, [e]we have an [1]f[1]advocate with the Father, Jesus Christ the righteous:

2 And he is the [g]propitiation for our sins: and not for ours only, [h]but also for [i]the sins of the whole [j]world.

(e) The tests of fellowship: obedience and love.

3 And hereby we do know that we know him, if we keep his [2]commandments.

4 He that saith, I know him, and keepeth not his commandments, is a liar, and the truth is not in him.

5 But whoso [k]keepeth his word, in him verily is the love of God [l]perfected: hereby know we that we are in him.

6 He that saith he abideth in him [m]ought himself also so to walk, even as he walked.

7 Brethren, [n]I write no new commandment unto you, but an old commandment which ye had [o]from the beginning. The [p]old commandment is the word which ye have heard from the beginning.

8 Again, a [q]new commandment I write unto you, which thing is true in him and in you: because the darkness is past, and the [r]true light now shineth.

9 He that [s]saith he is in the light, and hateth his brother, is in darkness even until now.

10 He that [t]loveth his brother abideth in the light, and there is none occasion of stumbling in him.

11 But he that hateth his brother is in darkness, and [u]walketh in darkness, and knoweth not whither he goeth, because that darkness hath blinded his eyes.

12 I write unto you, little children, because your [d]sins are [v]forgiven you for his name's sake.

13 I write unto you, fathers, because ye have [w]known him that is from the beginning. I write unto you, young men, because ye have [x]overcome the wicked one. I write unto you, [y]little children, because ye have [z]known the Father.

14 I have written unto you, fathers, because ye have known him that is from the beginning. I have written unto you, young men, because ye are strong, and the word of God abideth in you, and ye have overcome the wicked one.

The children must not love the present world (Rev. 13. 8, note).

15 [a]Love not the [b]world, neither the things that are in the world. [c]If any man love the world, [d]the love of the Father is not in him.

16 For all that is in the world, the lust of the [e]flesh, and the lust of the eyes, and the pride of life, is not of the Father, but is of the world.

17 And the world passeth away, and the lust thereof: [f]but he that doeth the will of God abideth for ever.

The children warned against apostates who deny the true deity of Christ.

18 Little children, it is the last time: and as ye have heard that antichrist shall come, even now are there many antichrists; whereby we know that it is the last time.

[2] John uses "commandments" (1) in the general sense of the divine will, however revealed, "his word" (v. 5); and (2) especially of the law of Christ (Gal. vi. 2; 2 John 5). See, also, John xv. 10-12.

[3] "Went out from us," that is, doctrinally. Doubtless then, as now, the deniers of the Son (vs. 22, 23) still called themselves Christians. Cf. 2 Tim. i. 15.

doubt have continued with us: but they went out, [a]that they might be made manifest that [b]they were not all of us.

20 But ye have an [c]unction from the Holy One, and ye know all things.

21 I have not written unto you because ye know not the truth, but [d]because ye know it, and that no lie is of the truth.

22 Who is [e]a liar but he that denieth that [f]Jesus is the Christ? He is [g]antichrist, that [h]denieth the Father and the Son.

23 Whosoever denieth the Son, the same hath not the Father: [but] he that acknowledgeth the Son hath the Father also.

24 Let that therefore abide in you, which ye have heard from the beginning. If that which ye have heard from the beginning shall remain in you, ye also shall [i]continue in the Son, and in the Father.

25 And this is the [j]promise that he hath promised us, even [k]eternal life.

26 These things have I written unto you concerning them that [l]seduce you.

27 But the [m]anointing which ye have received of him abideth in you, and ye need not that any man teach you: but as the same anointing teacheth you of all things, and is truth, and is no lie, and even as it hath taught you, ye shall abide in him.

28 And now, [n]little children, abide in him; that, when [o]he shall appear, we may have confidence, and not be ashamed before him at his coming.

How the little children may know each other.

29 If ye know that he is [p]righteous, ye know that every one that [q]doeth righteousness is born of him.

CHAPTER 3.

BEHOLD, [r]what manner of love the Father hath bestowed upon us, [s]that we should be called the [t]sons of God: therefore the [u]world knoweth us not, because it knew him not.

2 Beloved, now are we the [t]sons of God, and it doth not yet appear what we shall be: but we know that, [v]when he shall appear, [w]we shall be like him; for we shall see him as he is.

3 And every man that hath this hope in him purifieth himself, even as he is pure.

4 Whosoever [x]committeth [y]sin transgresseth also the law: for sin is the transgression of the law.

5 And ye know that he was manifested to [z]take away our sins; and [a]in him is no sin.

6 Whosoever abideth in him sinneth not: whosoever sinneth hath not seen him, neither known him.

7 Little children, let no man deceive you: he that doeth [1]righteousness is righteous, even as he is righteous.

8 He that committeth sin is of the [b]devil; for the devil sinneth from the beginning. For this purpose the Son of God was manifested, [c]that he might [d]destroy the works of the devil.

9 Whosoever is [e]born of God doth not [f]commit sin; for his seed remaineth in him: and he cannot sin, because he is born of God.

10 In this the children of God are manifest, and the children of the devil: whosoever [g]doeth not [h]righteousness is not of God, neither he that loveth not his brother.

How the little children must live together.

11 For this is the [i]message that ye heard from the beginning, that [j]we should love one another.

12 Not as Cain, who was of that wicked one, and slew his brother. And wherefore slew he him? Because his own works were evil, and his brother's righteous.

13 Marvel not, my brethren, if the [k]world [l]hate you.

14 We know that we have passed from death unto life, because we love the brethren. He that loveth not his brother abideth in death.

is a murderer: and ye know that no murderer hath [a]eternal life abiding in him.

16 Hereby [b]perceive we the love of God, [c]because he laid down his life for us: and we ought to [d]lay down our lives for the brethren.

17 But whoso hath this world's good, and seeth his brother have need, and shutteth up his bowels of compassion from him, how [e]dwelleth the love of God in him?

18 [f]My little children, let us not love in word, neither in tongue; but in deed and in truth.

19 And hereby we know that we are of the truth, and shall assure our hearts before him.

20 [g]For if our heart condemn us, God is greater than our heart, and knoweth all things.

21 Beloved, if our heart condemn us not, [h]then have we confidence toward God.

22 And [i]whatsoever we ask, we receive of him, because we keep his commandments, and do those things that are pleasing in his sight.

23 And [j]this is his commandment, That we should [k]believe on the name of his Son Jesus Christ, and [l]love one another, as he gave us commandment.

24 And he that keepeth his commandments [m]dwelleth in him, and he in him. And hereby we know that he abideth in us, by the [n]Spirit which he hath given us.

CHAPTER 4.

Part II. The family and the world.

Parenthetic: The children warned against false teachers.

BELOVED, believe not every spirit, but [o]try the spirits whether they are of God: because many false prophets are gone out into the [p]world.

The marks of false teachers.

(a) The false doctrine of Christ's person.

2 Hereby know ye the [q]Spirit of God: Every spirit that confesseth that [r]Jesus Christ is come in the flesh is of God:

3 And every spirit that confesseth not that Jesus Christ is come in the flesh is not of God: and this is that spirit of [s]antichrist, whereof ye have heard that it should come; and even now already is it in the [t]world.

4 Ye are of God, little children, and have overcome them: because [u]greater is he that is in you, than [v]he that is in the world.

(b) The world-marks of false teachers.

5 [w]They are of the world: therefore speak they of the world, and [x]the world heareth them.

6 We are of God: he that knoweth God heareth us; he that is not of God heareth not us. [y]Hereby know we the spirit of truth, and the spirit of error.

The true children are born of God through faith in the propitiation of the Son of God.

7 [z]Beloved, let us love one another: for love is of God; and every one that [a]loveth is born of God, and knoweth God.

8 He that loveth not knoweth not God; for [b]God is love.

9 In this was [c]manifested the love of God toward us, because that God sent his only begotten [d]Son into the [e]world, that we might live through him.

10 Herein is love, [f]not that we loved God, but that he loved us and sent his Son to be the [g]propitiation for our sins.

The love-life is shown by the life of love.

11 Beloved, if God so loved us, we ought also to love one another.

12 No man hath seen God at any time. [h]If we love one another, God dwelleth in us, and his love is [i]perfected in us.

13 Hereby know we that we dwell in him, and he in us, because he hath given us of his Spirit.

14 And we have seen and do testify that the Father sent the Son to be the [j]Saviour of the [k]world.

15 Whosoever shall confess that Jesus is the Son of God, God dwelleth in him, and he in God.

16 And we have known and believed the love that God hath to us. God is love; and he that dwelleth in love dwelleth in God, and God in him.

17 Herein [l]is our love made perfect, that we may have boldness in the [m]day of judgment: because as he is, so are we in this world.

18 There is no fear in love; but perfect love casteth out fear: because fear hath torment. He that feareth is not made [a]perfect in love.

19 [b]We love him, because he first loved us.

20 [c]If a man say, I love God, and hateth his brother, he is a liar: for he that loveth not his brother whom he hath seen, how can he love God whom he hath not seen?

21 And [d]this commandment have we from him, That he who loveth God love his brother also.

CHAPTER 5.

Faith is the overcoming principle in the world-conflict.

WHOSOEVER [e]believeth that [f]Jesus is the Christ is [g]born of God: and [h]every one that loveth him that begat loveth him also that is begotten of him.

2 By this we know that we love the children of God, when we love God, and [i]keep his commandments.

3 For this is the love of God, that we keep his commandments: and his commandments [j]are not grievous.

4 For whatsoever is born of God overcometh the [k]world: and this is the victory that overcometh the world, even our faith.

5 Who is he that overcometh the world, but he that [l]believeth that Jesus is the Son of God?

6 This is he that came by [m]water and blood, even Jesus Christ; not by water only, but by water and blood. And it is the [n]Spirit that beareth witness, because the Spirit is truth.

7 [o]For there are three that bear record in heaven, the Father, the Word, and the Holy Ghost: and these three are one.

8 [p]And there are three that bear witness [q]in earth, the [r]Spirit, and the water, and the blood: and these three [s]agree in one.

9 If we receive the [t]witness of men, the witness of God is greater: for this is the witness of God which he hath testified of his Son.

10 He that believeth on the Son of God [u]hath the witness in himself: he that believeth not God [v]hath made him a liar; because he believeth not the record that God gave of his Son.

11 And this is the record, that God hath given to us eternal life, and this life is in his Son.

12 He that [w]hath the Son hath life; and he that hath not the Son of God hath not life.

13 These things have I written unto you that [x]believe on the name of the Son of God; that ye may know that ye have eternal life, and that ye may believe on the name of the Son of God.

14 And this is the confidence that we have in him, that, [y]if we ask any thing according to his will, he heareth us:

15 And if we know that he hear us, whatsoever we ask, we know that we have the petitions that we desired of him.

16 If any man see his brother [z]sin a sin which is not unto death, he shall ask, and he shall give him life for them that sin not unto death. There is a sin unto death: I do not say that he shall pray for it.

17 [a]All unrighteousness is sin: and there is a sin not unto death.

18 We know that whosoever is [b]born of God sinneth not; but he that is begotten of God keepeth himself, and that wicked one toucheth him not.

19 And we know that we are of God, and [c]the whole world lieth [d]in wickedness.

20 And we know that the [e]Son of God is come, and hath given us an understanding, that we may [f]know him that is true, and we are in him that is true, even in his Son Jesus Christ. This is the true God, and [g]eternal life.

21 [h]Little children, [i]keep yourselves from idols. Amen.

THE SECOND EPISTLE OF

WRITER. The Apostle John.

Date. Probably A.D. 90.

Theme. Second John gives the essentials of the personal walk of the believer in a day when "many deceivers are entered into the world" (v. 7). The key-phrase is "the truth," by which John means the body of revealed truth, the Scriptures. The Bible, as the alone authority for doctrine and life, is the believer's resource in a time of declension and apostasy.

The Epistle is in three divisions: I. The pathway of truth and love, vs. 1–6. II. The peril of unscriptural ways, vs. 7–11. III. Superscription, vs. 12, 13.

Part I. "The truth" and love inseparable in the Christian life.

THE [a]elder unto the [b]elect lady and her children, whom I love in the truth; and not I only, but also all they that have known the truth;

2 For the truth's sake, [c]which dwelleth in us, and [d]shall be with us for ever.

3 Grace be with you, mercy, and peace, from God the Father, and from the Lord Jesus Christ, the Son of the Father, in truth and love.

4 I [e]rejoiced greatly that I found of thy children walking in truth, as we have received a commandment from the Father.

5 And now I beseech thee, lady, not as though I wrote a new commandment unto thee, but that which we had from the beginning, [1][f]that we love one another.

6 And this is [g]love, that we walk after his commandments. This is the commandment, That, as ye have heard from the beginning, ye should walk in it.

Part II. Doctrine the final test of reality. (Cf. John 6. 60–66.)

7 For many deceivers are [h]entered into the [i]world, who confess not [j]that Jesus Christ is come in the flesh. This is [k]a deceiver and [l]an [l]antichrist.

8 Look to yourselves, that we lose not those things which we have wrought, but that we receive a full [m]reward.

9 Whosoever [n]transgresseth, and abideth not in the doctrine of Christ, hath not God. He that abideth in the doctrine of Christ, he hath both the Father and the Son.

10 If there come any unto you, and bring not this doctrine, receive him [o]not into your house, neither [p]bid him God speed:

11 For he that [q]biddeth him God speed is partaker of his evil deeds.

Part III. Superscription.

12 Having many things to write unto you, I would not write with paper and ink: but I [r]trust to come unto you, and speak face to face, that our joy may be full.

13 The children of thy [b]elect sister greet thee. Amen.

[1] The new "law of Christ" is the divine love, as wrought into the renewed heart by the Holy Spirit (Rom. v. 5; Heb. x. 16), and outflowing in the energy of the Spirit, unforced and spontaneous, toward the objects of the divine love (2 Cor. v. 14–20; 1 Thes. ii. 7, 8). It is, therefore, "the law of liberty" (Jas. i. 25; ii. 12), in contrast with the external law of Moses. Moses' law demands love (Lev. xix. 18; Deut. vi. 5; Lk. x. 27); Christ's law creates love (Rom. v. 5; 1 John iv. 7, 19, 20), and so takes the place of the external law by fulfilling it (Rom. xiii. 10; Gal. v. 14). It is the "law written in the heart" under the New Covenant (Heb. viii. 8, note).

THE THIRD EPISTLE OF JOHN

WRITER. The Apostle John.

Date. Probably about A.D. 90.

Theme. The aged Apostle had written to a church which allowed one Diotrephes to exercise an authority common enough in later ages, but wholly new in the primitive churches. Diotrephes had rejected the apostolic letters and authority. It appears also that he had refused the ministry of visiting brethren (v. 10), and cast out those who received them. Historically, this letter marks the beginning of that clerical and priestly assumption over the churches in which the primitive church order disappeared. This Epistle reveals, as well, the believer's resource in such a day. No longer writing as an apostle, but as an elder, John addresses this letter, not to the church as such, but to a faithful man in the church for the comfort and encouragement of those who were standing fast in the primitive simplicity. Second John conditions the personal walk of a Christian in a day of apostasy; Third John the personal responsibility in such a day of the believer as a member of the local church. The key-phrase is "the truth" (see 2 John, Introduction).

There are three divisions: I. Personal greetings, vs. 1-4. II. Instructions concerning ministering brethren, vs. 5-8. III. The apostate leader, and the good Demetrius, vs. 9-14.

Part I. Personal greetings.

THE [a]elder unto the wellbeloved Gaius, whom I love in the truth.

2 Beloved, I wish [b]above all things [c]that thou mayest prosper and be in health, even as thy soul prospereth.

3 For I rejoiced greatly, when the brethren came and testified of the truth that is in thee, even as thou walkest in the truth.

4 I have no greater [d]joy than to hear that [e]my children walk in [f]truth.

Part II. Concerning ministering brethren.

5 Beloved, thou doest faithfully whatsoever thou doest to the brethren, and to strangers;

6 Which have borne witness of thy [g]charity before the church: whom if thou bring [h]forward on their journey [i]after a godly sort, thou shalt do well:

7 Because that for his name's sake they went forth, [j]taking nothing of the Gentiles.

8 We therefore ought to [k]receive such, that we might be fellowhelpers to the truth.

Part III. The domineering Diotrephes.

9 I wrote unto the church: but Diotrephes, who loveth to have the [l]preeminence among them, receiveth us not.

10 Wherefore, if I come, I will remember his deeds which he doeth, [m]prating against us with malicious words: and not content therewith, neither doth he himself receive the brethren, and forbiddeth them that would, and casteth them out of the [n]church.

11 Beloved, [o]follow not that which is evil, but that which is good. He that doeth good is of God: but he that doeth evil hath not seen God.

The good Demetrius.

12 Demetrius hath good report of all men, and of the truth itself: yea, and we also bear [p]record; and ye know that our [p]record is true.

13 I had many things to write, but I will not with ink and pen write unto thee:

14 But I [q]trust I shall shortly see thee, and we shall speak face to face. Peace be to thee. Our friends salute thee. Greet the friends by name.

WRITER. Jude, the brother of James (i. 1).

Date. Probably A.D. 66.

Theme. It is not so much Jude who speaks, as the constraining Spirit (v. 3), and the theme is, "Contending for the faith" (Lk. xviii. 8, refs.). In this brief letter the apostasy (2 Thes. ii. 3, note.) of the professing church is predicted, and the cause and course described. As in Second Timothy and Second Peter the apostasy is treated as having already set in.

The Epistle is in five divisions: I. Introduction, vs. 1, 2. II. Occasion of the Epistle, vs. 3, 4. III. Apostasy is possible, vs. 5-7. IV. Apostate teachers described, vs. 8-19. V. The saints assured and comforted, vs. 20-25.

Part I. Introduction.

JUDE, the servant of Jesus Christ, and brother of James, to [a]them that are sanctified by God the Father, [b]and [1]preserved in Jesus Christ, and [c]called:

2 Mercy unto you, and peace, and love, be multiplied.

Part II. Occasion of the Epistle: the apostasy.

3 Beloved, when I gave all diligence to write unto you of the common [d]salvation, [e]it was needful for me to write unto you, and exhort you that ye should earnestly contend for the [f]faith which was [g]once delivered unto the saints.

4 For there are certain men crept in unawares, [h]who were before of old ordained to this condemnation, ungodly men, turning the grace of our God into lasciviousness, and denying [i]the only Lord God, and our Lord Jesus Christ.

Part III. Historical instances of apostasy.

5 I will therefore put you in remembrance, though ye once knew this, how that the Lord, having [j]saved the people out of the land of Egypt, afterward destroyed them that believed not.

6 And the [k]angels which kept not their first estate, but left their own habitation, he hath reserved in everlasting chains under darkness unto the judgment of [l]the [2]great day.

7 Even as Sodom and Gomorrha, and the cities about them in like manner, giving themselves over to fornication, and going after strange flesh, are set forth for an example, suffering the [m]vengeance of eternal fire.

Part IV. Apostate teachers described.

8 Likewise also these filthy dreamers [n]defile the flesh, despise dominion, and speak evil of dignities.

9 Yet Michael the archangel, when contending with the [o]devil he disputed about the body of Moses, durst not bring against him a railing [p]accusation, but said, The [q]Lord rebuke thee.

10 But these speak evil of those things which they know not: but what they know naturally, as brute beasts, in those things they corrupt themselves.

11 Woe unto them! [r]for they have gone in the way of [3]Cain, and ran

[1] Assurance is the believer's full conviction that, through the work of Christ alone, received by faith, he is in possession of a salvation in which he will be eternally kept. And this assurance rests only upon the Scripture promises to him who believes.

[2] The judgment of the fallen angels. The "great day" is the day of the Lord (Isa. ii. 9-22, refs.). As the final judgment upon Satan occurs after the thousand years, and preceding the final judgment (Rev. xx. 10), it is congruous to conclude, as to the time, that other fallen angels are judged with him (2 Pet. ii. 4; Rev. xx. 10). Christians are associated with Christ in this judgment (1 Cor. vi. 3). See other judgments, Rev. xx. 12, note.

[3] Cain (cf. Gen. iv. 1), type of the religious natural man, who believes in a God,

12 These are spots in your [b]feasts of charity, when they feast with you, [c]feeding themselves without fear: clouds they are without water, carried about of winds; [d]trees whose fruit withereth, without fruit, twice dead, plucked up by the roots;

13 Raging waves of the sea, foaming out their own shame; wandering stars, to whom is reserved the blackness of darkness for ever.

14 And Enoch also, the seventh from Adam, prophesied of these, saying, Behold, [e]the Lord [f]cometh with ten thousands of his saints,

15 To execute [g]judgment upon all, and to [h]convince all that are ungodly among them of all their ungodly deeds which they have ungodly committed, and of all their hard [i]speeches which ungodly [f]sinners have spoken against him.

16 These are murmurers, complainers, walking after their own lusts; and their mouth speaketh great swelling words, having men's persons in admiration because of advantage.

17 But, beloved, remember ye the words which were spoken before of the apostles of our Lord Jesus Christ;

18 How that they told you there should be mockers in the last time, who should walk after their own ungodly lusts.

19 These be they who separate themselves, [k]sensual, having [l]not the Spirit.

Part V. True believers assured and comforted: their sevenfold duty.

20 But ye, beloved, building up yourselves on your most [m]holy faith, praying in the [n]Holy Ghost,

21 Keep yourselves in the love of God, looking for the mercy of our Lord Jesus Christ unto [o]eternal life.

22 And of some have compassion, making a difference:

23 And others save with fear, [p]pulling them out of the fire; hating even the garment spotted by the [q]flesh.

24 Now unto him that is able to keep you from [r]falling, and to present you faultless before the presence of his glory with exceeding joy, and in religion, but after his own will, and who rejects redemption by blood. Compelled as a teacher of religion to explain the atonement, the apostate teacher explains it away.

[1] Balaam (cf. Num. xxii. 5). The "error" of Balaam must be distinguished from his "way" (2 Pet. ii. 15, note), and his "doctrine" (Rev. ii. 14, note). The "error" of Baalam was that, reasoning from natural morality, and seeing the evil in Israel, he supposed a righteous God must curse them. He was blind to the higher morality of the Cross, through which God maintains and enforces the authority and awful sanctions of His law, so that He can be just and the justifier of a believing sinner. The "reward" of v. 11 may not be money, but popularity, or applause.

[2] See Num. xvi. The sin of Korah was denial of the authority of Moses as God's chosen spokesman, and intrusion into the priest's office.

[3] Flesh, Summary: "Flesh," in the ethical sense, is the whole natural or unregenerate man, spirit, soul, and body, as centered upon self, prone to sin, and opposed to God (Rom. vii. 18). The regenerate man is not "in [the sphere of] the flesh, but in [the sphere of] the Spirit" (Rom. viii. 9); but the flesh is still in him, and he may, according to his choice, "walk after the flesh" or "in the Spirit" (1 Cor. iii. 1-4; Gal. v. 16, 17). In the first case he is a "carnal," in the second a "spiritual," Christian. Victory over the flesh will be the habitual experience of the believer who walks in the Spirit (Rom. viii. 2, 4; Gal. v. 16, 17).

THE REVELATION OF
ST. JOHN THE DIVINE

WRITER. The Apostle John (i. 1).
Date. A.D. 96.
Theme. The theme of the Revelation is Jesus Christ (i. 1), presented in a threefold way: (1) As to time: "which is, and which was, and which is to come" (i. 4); (2) as to relationships—to the churches (i. 9–iii. 22), to the tribulation (iv. 1–xix. 21), to the kingdom (xx. 1–xxii. 21); (3) in His offices—High Priest (viii. 3–6), Bridegroom (xix. 7–9), King-Judge (xx. 1–15).

But while Christ is thus the central theme of the book, all of the events move toward one consummation, the bringing in of the covenanted kingdom. The key-phrase is the prophetic declaration of the "great voices in heaven" (xi. 15), lit. "The world kingdom of our Lord and of his Christ has come." The book is, therefore, a prophecy (i. 3).

The three major divisions of Revelation must be clearly held if the interpretation is to be sane and coherent. John was commanded to "write" concerning three classes of "things" (i. 19): I. Things past, "the things which thou hast seen," i.e. the Patmos vision, i. 1–20. II. Things present, "the things which are," i.e. things then existing,—obviously the churches. The temple had been destroyed, the Jews dispersed: the testimony of God had been committed to the churches (1 Tim. iii. 15). Accordingly we have seven messages to seven representative churches, ii. 1–iii. 22. It is noteworthy that the word "church" does not occur after iii. 22. III. Things future, "things which shall be hereafter," lit. "after these," i.e. after the church period ends, iv. 1–xxii. 21. The third major division, as Erdman (W. J.) has pointed out, falls into a series of six sevens, with five parenthetical passages, making, with the church division, seven sevens. The six sevens are: 1. The seven seals, iv. 1–viii. 1. 2. The seven trumpets, viii. 2–xi. 19. 3. The seven personages, xii. 1–xiv. 20. 4. The seven vials (bowls), xv. 1–xvi. 21. 5. The seven dooms, xvii. 1–xx. 15. 6. The seven new things, xxi. 1–xxii. 21.

The parenthetical passages are: (I) The Jewish remnant and the tribulation saints, vii. 1–17. (II) The angel, the little book, the two witnesses, x. 1–xi. 14. (III) The Lamb, the Remnant, and the everlasting Gospel, xiv. 1–13. (IV) The gathering of the kings at Armageddon, xvi. 13–16. (V) The four alleluias in heaven, xix. 1–6. These passages do not advance the prophetic narrative. Looking backward and forward they sum up results accomplished, and speak of results yet to come as if they had already come. In xiv. 1, for example, the Lamb and Remnant are seen prophetically on Mount Sion, though they are not actually there till xx. 4–6.

The end of the church period (ii.–iii.) is left indeterminate. It will end by the fulfilment of 1 Thes. iv. 14–17. Chapters iv.–xix. are believed to synchronize with Daniel's Seventieth Week (Dan. ix. 24, note). The great tribulation begins at the middle of the "week," and continues three and a half years (Rev. xi. 3–xix. 21). The tribulation is brought to an end by the appearing of the Lord and the battle of Armageddon (Mt. xxiv. 29, 30; Rev. xix. 11–21). The kingdom follows (Rev. xx. 4, 5); after this the "little season" (Rev. xx. 7–15), and then eternity.

Interpreters of the Revelation should bear in mind two important passages: 1 Pet. i. 12; 2 Pet. i. 20, 21. Doubtless much which is designedly obscure to us will be clear to those for whom it was written as the time approaches.

CHAPTER 1.

Part I. "The things which thou hast seen" (Rev. i. 1–20).

(1) Introduction.

THE [a]Revelation of Jesus Christ, which God gave unto him, to shew unto his servants things which must shortly come to pass; and he sent and signified it by his [b]angel unto his servant John:

2 Who bare record of the word of God, and of the testimony of Jesus Christ, and of all things that he saw.

3 Blessed is he that readeth, and they that hear the words of this prophecy, and keep those things which are written therein: for the time is at hand.

(2) Salutation.

4 JOHN to the seven [a]churches which are in Asia: Grace be unto you, and peace, from him which is, and which was, and which is to come; and from the seven [b]Spirits which are before his throne;

5 And from Jesus Christ, who is the faithful [c]witness, and the [d]first begotten of the dead, and the [e]prince of the kings of the earth. Unto him that [f]loved us, and [g]washed us from our [h]sins in his own blood,

6 And hath made us [i]kings and priests unto God and his Father; to him be glory and dominion for ever and ever. Amen.

7 Behold, he cometh with clouds; and [j]every eye shall see him, and they also which pierced him: and all kindreds of the earth shall wail because of him. Even so, Amen.

8 I am [k]Alpha and Omega, the beginning and the ending, saith the Lord, which is, and which was, and which is to come, the [l]Almighty.

(3) The Patmos vision.

9 I John, who also am your brother, and companion in [m]tribulation, and in the kingdom and patience [n]of Jesus Christ, was in the [o]isle that is called Patmos, for the word of God, and for the testimony of Jesus Christ.

10 I [p]was in the [q]Spirit on the Lord's day, and heard behind me a great [r]voice, as of a trumpet,

11 Saying, I am Alpha and Omega, the first and the last: and, What thou seest, write in a book, and send it unto the seven churches which are in Asia; unto Ephesus, and unto Smyrna, and unto Pergamos, and unto Thyatira, and unto Sardis, and unto Philadelphia, and unto Laodicea.

12 And I turned to see the voice that spake with me. And being turned, I saw seven golden [s]candlesticks;

13 And in the midst of the seven [s]candlesticks one like unto the Son of man, clothed with a garment down to the foot, and girt about the paps with a golden girdle.

14 His head and his hairs were [t]white like wool, as white as snow; and his eyes were as a flame of fire;

15 And his feet like unto fine brass, as if they burned in a furnace; and his voice as the sound of many waters.

16 And he had in his right hand [u]seven stars: and out of his mouth went a sharp twoedged sword: and his countenance was as the sun shineth in his strength.

17 And when I saw him, I fell at his feet as dead. And he laid his right hand upon me, saying unto me, Fear not; I am the first and the last:

18 I am he that liveth, and was dead; and, behold, I am alive for evermore, Amen; and have the keys of [v]w[w]hell and of death.

(4) The command to write.

19 Write the things which thou hast seen, and the things which are, and the things which shall be [x]hereafter;

20 The [y]mystery of the seven stars which thou sawest in my right hand, and the seven golden [z]candlesticks. The seven stars are the [2a]angels of the seven [b]churches: and the seven candlesticks which thou sawest are the seven [3]churches.

[1] From i. 1 to i. 20 the Seer is on the earth, looking at things on the earth. From ii. 1 to iii. 22 he is on the earth looking forward through the church-age. From iv. 1 to xi. 1 he is "in the Spirit" (iv. 2; cf. Ezk. iii. 12-14) observing things in heaven and on earth. From xi. 1 to xi. 12 he is in Jerusalem with the two witnesses. From xi. 13 to the end he is in heaven observing and recording things in heaven and upon the earth.

[2] The natural explanation of the "messengers" is that they were men sent by the seven churches to ascertain the state of the aged apostle now an exile in Patmos (cf. Phil. iv. 18); but they figure any bearing God's messages to a church.

[3] The messages to the seven churches have a fourfold application: (1) Local, to the churches actually addressed; (2) admonitory, to all churches in all time as tests by which they may discern their true spiritual state in the sight of God; (3) personal, in the exhortations to him "that hath an ear," and in the promises "to him that overcometh"; (4) prophetic, as disclosing seven phases of the spiritual history of the church from, say, A.D. 96 to the end. It is incredible that in a prophecy covering the church period there should be no such foreview. These messages must contain that foreview if it is in the book at all, for no church is mentioned after iii. 22. Again, these messages by their very terms go beyond the local assemblies mentioned. Most conclusively of all, these messages do present an exact foreview of

CHAPTER 2.

Part II. "The things which are": the seven churches.

(1) The message to Ephesus. The church at the end of the apostolic age; first love left.

UNTO the [a]angel of the church [b]of Ephesus write; These things saith he [c]that holdeth the seven stars in his right hand, who walketh in the midst of the seven golden [d]candlesticks;

2 I know thy works, and thy labour, and thy patience, and how thou canst not bear them which are evil: and thou hast [e]tried them which say they are apostles, and are not, and hast found them liars:

3 And hast borne, and hast patience, and for my name's sake hast laboured, and hast not [f]fainted.

4 Nevertheless I have somewhat against thee, [g]because thou hast left thy first love.

5 Remember therefore from whence thou art fallen, and [h]repent, and do the first works; or else I will come unto thee quickly, and will remove thy [i]candlestick out of his place, except thou repent.

6 But this thou hast, that thou hatest the deeds of the [j]Nicolaitanes, which I also [k]hate.

7 He that hath an ear, let him hear what the Spirit saith unto the churches; To him that overcometh will I give to eat of the tree [l]of life, which is [m]in the midst of the paradise of God.

(2) The message to Smyrna. Period of the great persecutions, to A.D. 316.

8 And unto the [n]angel of the church in Smyrna write; These things saith the [o]first and the last, which was [p]dead, and is [q]alive;

9 I know thy [r]works, and tribulation, and poverty, (but thou art rich) and I know the blasphemy of them which [s]say they are Jews, and are not, but are the [t]synagogue of Satan.

10 Fear none of those things which thou shalt suffer: behold, the devil shall cast some of you into prison, that ye may be tried; and ye shall have tribulation ten days: be thou [u]faithful unto death, and I will give thee [v]a [w]crown of life.

11 He that hath an ear, let him hear what the Spirit saith unto the churches; He that overcometh shall not be hurt of the [x]second death.

(3) The message to Pergamos. The church under imperial favour, settled in the world, A.D. 316 to the end.

12 And to the [n]angel of the church in Pergamos write; These things saith he which hath the sharp sword with two edges;

13 I know thy works, and where thou dwellest, even where [y]Satan's [z]seat is: and thou holdest fast my name, and hast not [a]denied my faith, even in those days wherein Antipas was my faithful [b]martyr, who was slain among you, where Satan dwelleth.

14 But I have a few things against thee, because thou hast there them that hold the doctrine of [1]Balaam, who taught Balac to cast a [c]stumblingblock before the [d]children of Israel, to eat things sacrificed unto idols, and to commit fornication.

15 So hast thou also them that hold the doctrine of the [e]Nicolaitanes, [f]which thing I hate.

the spiritual history of the church, and in this precise order. Ephesus gives the general state at the date of the writing; Smyrna, the period of the great persecutions; Pergamos, the church settled down in the world, "where Satan's throne is," after the conversion of Constantine, say, A.D. 316. Thyatira is the Papacy, developed out of the Pergamos state: Balaamism (worldliness) and Nicolaitanism (priestly assumption) having conquered. As Jezebel brought idolatry into Israel, so Romanism weds Christian doctrine to pagan ceremonies. Sardis is the Protestant Reformation, whose works were not "fulfilled." Philadelphia is whatever bears clear testimony to the Word and the Name in the time of self-satisfied profession represented by Laodicea.

[1] From nikao, "to conquer," and laos, "the people," or "laity." There is no ancient authority for a sect of the Nicolaitanes. If the word is symbolic it refers to the earliest form of the notion of a priestly order, or "clergy," which later divided an equal brotherhood (Mt. xxiii. 8), into "priests" and "laity." What in Ephesus was "deeds" (ii. 6) had become in Pergamos a "doctrine" (Rev. ii. 15).

[2] The "doctrine" of Balaam (cf. 2 Pet. ii. 15, note; Jude 11, note) was his teaching Balak to corrupt the people who could not be cursed (Num. xxxi. 15, 16; xxii. 5; unto thee quickly, and will fight against them with the sword of my mouth.

17 He that hath an [a]ear, let him hear what the Spirit saith unto the churches; To him that overcometh will I give to eat of the [b]hidden manna, and will give him [c]a white stone, and in the stone [d]a new name written, which no man knoweth saving he that [e]receiveth it.

(4) The message to Thyatira. A.D. 500–1500: the triumph of Balaamism and Nicolaitanism; a believing remnant (vs. 24–28).

18 And unto the [f]angel of the church in Thyatira write; [g]These things saith the Son of God, who hath his eyes like unto a flame of fire, and his feet are like fine brass;

19 I know thy works, and [h]charity, and service, and faith, and thy patience, and thy [i]works; and the last to be more than the first.

20 Notwithstanding I have [j]a few things against thee, because thou sufferest that woman [k]Jezebel, which calleth herself a prophetess, to teach and to seduce my servants to commit fornication, and to eat things sacrificed unto idols.

21 And I gave her space to repent of her fornication; and she repented not.

22 Behold, I will cast her into a bed, and them that commit adultery with her into great tribulation, except they repent of [l]their deeds.

23 And I will kill her children with death; and all the churches shall know that I am he which [m]searcheth the reins and hearts: and I will give unto every one of you according to your works.

24 But unto you I say, [n]and unto the rest in Thyatira, as many as have not this doctrine, and which have not known the [o]depths of Satan, as they speak; I will put upon you none other burden.

25 But that which ye have already hold fast [p]till I come.

26 And he that overcometh, and keepeth my works unto the end, to him will I give [q]power over the nations:

27 And he shall rule them with a rod of iron; as the vessels of a potter [r]shall they be broken to shivers: even as [s]I received of my Father.

28 And I will give him the morning [t]star.

29 He that hath an ear, let him hear what the [u]Spirit saith unto the [v]churches.

(5) The message to Sardis. The period of the Reformations; a believing remnant (vs. 4, 5).

AND unto the [w]angel of the church in Sardis write; These things saith he that [x]hath the seven Spirits of God, and the seven stars; I know thy works, that thou hast [y]a name that thou livest, and art dead.

2 Be watchful, and strengthen the things which remain, that are ready to die: for I have not found thy works [z]perfect before God.

3 [a]Remember therefore how thou hast received and heard, and hold fast, and repent. If therefore thou shalt not watch, I will come on thee [b]as a thief, and thou shalt not know what hour I will come upon thee.

4 Thou hast [c]a few names even in Sardis which have not defiled their garments; and [d]they shall walk with me in white: for they are worthy.

5 He that overcometh, the same shall be clothed in white raiment; and I will not blot out his name out of the book of [e]life, but I will [f]confess his name before my Father, and before his [w]angels.

8 I [f]know thy works: behold, I have set before thee an open door, xxiii. 8), by tempting them to marry women of Moab, defile their separation, and abandon their pilgrim character. It is that union of the world and the church which is spiritual unchastity (Jas. iv. 4). Pergamos had lost the pilgrim character and was "dwelling" (v. 13) "where Satan's throne is," in the world (John xii. 31; xiv. 30; xvi. 11).

and no man can shut it: for thou hast a little strength, and hast kept my word, and hast not denied my name.

9 Behold, I will make them of the synagogue of [a]Satan, which say they are Jews, and are not, but do lie; behold, I will make them to come and [b]worship before thy feet, and to know that I have loved thee.

15 I know thy works, that thou art neither cold nor hot: I would thou wert cold or hot.

16 So then because thou art lukewarm, and neither cold nor hot, [o]I will spue thee out of my mouth.

17 Because thou sayest, I am rich, and increased with goods, and have need of nothing; and [p]knowest not that thou art wretched, and miserable, and poor, and blind, and naked:

18 I counsel thee to buy of me gold tried in the fire, that thou mayest be rich; and white raiment, that thou mayest be clothed, and that the shame of thy nakedness do not appear; and [q]anoint thine eyes with eyesalve, that thou mayest see.

19 As many as I love, I rebuke and chasten: be zealous therefore, and [r]repent.

Place and attitude of Christ at the end of the church-age.

20 Behold, I stand at the door, and knock: if any man hear my voice, and open the door, I will come in to him, and will sup with him, and he with me.

21 To him that overcometh will I grant to sit with me in my [s]throne, even as I also overcame, and am set down with my [1]Father in his throne.

22 He that hath an ear, let him hear what the [t]Spirit saith unto the [u]churches.

CHAPTER 4.

Part III. "Things which shall be hereafter" (Rev. 4. 1-22. 21).

The seven seals (Rev. 4. 1-8. 1).

(a) Introduction (to Rev. 5. 14).

The throne in heaven.

AFTER this I looked, and, behold, a [v]door was opened in heaven: and the first voice which I heard was as it were of a [w]trumpet talking with me; which said, [2]Come up hither, and I will shew thee things which must be [x]hereafter.

2 And immediately I [y]was in the spirit: and, behold, a [z]throne was set in heaven, and one sat on the throne.

3 And he that sat was to look upon [a]like a jasper and a sardine stone: and there was a [b]rainbow round about the throne, in sight like unto an emerald.

The enthroned elders.

4 And round about the throne were four and twenty [c]seats: and upon the seats I saw four and twenty elders sitting, clothed in [d]white raiment; and they had on their heads [e]crowns of gold.

5 And out of the throne proceeded lightnings and thunderings and voices: and there were seven lamps of fire burning before the

[1] This passage, in harmony with Lk. i. 32, 33; Mt. xix. 28; Acts ii. 30, 34, 35; xv. 14-16, is conclusive that Christ is not now seated upon His own throne. The Davidic Covenant, and the promises of God through the prophets and the Angel Gabriel concerning the Messianic kingdom await fulfilment.

[2] This call seems clearly to indicate the fulfilment of 1 Thes. iv. 14-17. The word "church" does not again occur in the Revelation.

throne, which are the seven [c]Spirits of God.

The four living creatures.

6 And before the throne there was [b]a sea of glass like unto crystal: and in the midst of the throne, and round about the throne, were four [c]beasts full of eyes before and behind.

7 And the first [c]beast was like a lion, and the second beast like a calf, and the third beast had a face as a man, and the fourth beast was like a flying eagle.

8 And the four [c]beasts had each of them six wings about him; and they were full of eyes [d]within: and they rest not day and night, saying, Holy, holy, holy, Lord [e]God Almighty, which was, and is, and is to come.

The living creatures and elders worship because of creation. (Cf. Rev. 5.8-10.)

9 And when those [c]beasts give glory and honour and thanks to him that [f]sat on the throne, who liveth for ever and ever,

10 The four and twenty [g]elders fall down before him that sat on the throne, and worship him that liveth for ever and ever, and cast their crowns before the throne, saying,

11 Thou art worthy, [h]O Lord, to receive glory and honour and power: for thou hast [i]created all things, and for [f]thy pleasure they are and were created.

CHAPTER 5.

The seven-sealed book.

AND I saw [k]in the right hand of him that sat on the throne a [k]book written within and on the backside, sealed with seven seals.

2 And I saw a strong [m]angel proclaiming with a loud voice, [n]Who is worthy to open the book, and to loose the seals thereof?

3 And [o]no man in heaven, nor in earth, neither under the earth, was able to open the book, neither to look thereon.

4 And I wept much, because no man was found worthy to open and to read the book, neither to look thereon.

Christ in his kingly character (Isa. 11. 1; Jer. 23. 5; Lk. 1. 32, 33) opens the book.

5 And one of the elders saith unto me, Weep not: behold, the Lion of the tribe of Juda, the [p]Root of David, hath [q]prevailed to open the book, and to loose the seven seals thereof.

6 And I beheld, and, lo, in the midst of the throne and of the four [c]beasts, and in the midst of the elders, stood a [r]Lamb as it had been slain, having seven horns and seven [s]eyes, which are the seven Spirits of God sent forth into all the earth.

7 And he [l]came and took the book out of the right hand of him that sat upon the throne.

The living creatures and elders worship because of redemption. (Cf. Rev. 4. 9-11.)

8 And when he had taken the book, the four [c]beasts and four and twenty elders [f]fell down before the Lamb, having every one of them harps, and golden vials full of [u]odours, which are the prayers of saints.

9 And they sung [v]a new song, saying, Thou art worthy to take the book, and to open the seals thereof: for thou wast slain, and hast [w]redeemed us to God [x]by thy blood out of every kindred, and tongue, and people, and nation;

10 And hast made us unto our [y]God kings and priests: and we shall [z]reign [a]on the earth.

The angels exalt the Lamb.

11 And I beheld, and I heard the voice of many angels round about the throne and the [b]beasts and the elders: and the number of them was ten thousand times ten thousand, and thousands of thousands;

12 Saying with a loud voice, [c]Worthy is the Lamb that was slain to receive power, and riches, and wisdom, and strength, and honour, and glory, and blessing.

Universal adoration of the Lamb who is King.

13 And every creature which is in heaven, and on the earth, and under the earth, and such as are [d]in the sea, and all that are in them, heard I saying, Blessing, and honour, and glory, and power, be unto him that [e]sitteth upon the throne,

[1]Cf. Dan. vii. 13, 14. The two visions are identical; the Revelation adding that which was hidden from Daniel, that the kings and priests of the church-age are to and unto the [a]Lamb for ever and ever.

14 And the four [b]beasts said, Amen. And the four and twenty [c]elders fell down and worshipped him that liveth for ever and ever.

CHAPTER 6.

(b) The seals (to Rev. 8. 1).

(1) The first seal.

AND I saw when the Lamb opened [d]one of the seals, and I heard, as it were the noise of thunder, one of the four [b]beasts saying, [e]Come and see.

2 And I saw, and behold [f]a white horse: and he that sat on him had a [g]bow; and a crown was given unto him: and he went forth [h]conquering, and to conquer.

(2) The second seal: peace taken from earth.

3 And when he had opened the second seal, I heard the second [b]beast say, [i]Come and see.

4 And there went out another horse that was [j]red: and power was given to him that sat thereon to [k]take peace from the earth, and that they should kill one another: and there was given unto him a great sword.

(3) The third seal: famine.

5 And when he had opened the third seal, I heard the third [b]beast say, [l]Come and see. And I beheld, and lo a [m]black horse; and he that sat on him had a pair of [n]balances in his hand.

6 And I heard a voice in the midst of the four [b]beasts say, A [o]measure of wheat for a [p]penny, and three measures of barley for a penny; and see thou hurt not the oil and the wine.

(4) The fourth seal: death.

7 And when he had opened the fourth seal, I heard the voice of the fourth [b]beast say, [q]Come and see.

8 And I looked, and behold a pale horse: and his name that sat on him was [r]Death, and [s]Hell followed with him. And power was given unto [t]them over the [u]fourth part of the earth, to kill with sword, and with hunger, and with death, and with the beasts of the earth.

(5) The fifth seal: the martyred remnant.

9 And when he had opened the fifth seal, I saw under the altar the souls of them that were [v]slain for the word of God, and for the testimony which they held:

10 And they cried with a loud voice, saying, [w]How long, O Lord, holy and true, dost thou not judge and avenge our blood on them that dwell on the earth?

11 And white robes were given unto [x]every one of them; and it was said unto them, that they should rest yet for a little season, until their fellowservants also and their brethren, that should be killed as they were, should be [y]fulfilled.

(6) The sixth seal: anarchy.

12 And I beheld when he had opened the sixth seal, and, lo, there was a great [z]earthquake; and the sun became [a]black as sackcloth of hair, and the moon became as blood;

13 And the stars of heaven fell unto the earth, even as a fig tree casteth her untimely figs, when she is shaken of a mighty wind.

14 And the [b]heaven departed as a scroll when it is rolled together; and every [c]mountain and island were moved out of their places.

15 And the [d]kings of the earth, and the great men, and the rich men, and the chief captains, and the mighty men, and every bondman, and every free man, [e]hid themselves in the dens and in the rocks of the mountains;

16 And said to the mountains and rocks, Fall on us, and hide us from the face of him that [f]sitteth on the throne, and from the [g]wrath of the Lamb:

17 [h]For the great [i]day of his wrath is come; and who shall be able to stand?

CHAPTER 7.

(c) (Parenthetical: the saved of the tribulation period.)

AND after these things I saw four [j]angels standing on the four corners of the earth, holding the four [k]winds of the earth, that the wind should not blow on the earth, nor on the sea, nor on any tree.

2 And I saw another [l]angel ascending from the east, having the [m]seal of the living God: and he cried with a loud voice to the four angels, to whom it was given to hurt the earth and the sea,

3 Saying, [a]Hurt not the earth, neither the sea, nor the trees, till we have sealed the servants of our God in their foreheads.

(1) The remnant out of Israel sealed.

4 And I heard the number of them which were sealed: [b]and there were sealed an hundred and forty and four thousand [c]of all the tribes of the children of Israel.

5 Of the tribe of Juda were sealed twelve thousand. Of the tribe of Reuben were sealed twelve thousand. Of the tribe of Gad were sealed twelve thousand.

6 Of the tribe of Aser were sealed twelve thousand. Of the tribe of Nepthalim were sealed twelve thousand. Of the tribe of Manasses were sealed twelve thousand.

8 Of the tribe of Zabulon were sealed twelve thousand. Of the tribe of Joseph were sealed twelve thousand. Of the tribe of Benjamin were sealed twelve thousand.

(2) Vision of the Gentiles who are to be saved during the great tribulation.

9 After this I beheld, and, lo, [d]a great multitude, which no man could number, of all nations, and kindreds, and people, and tongues, stood before the throne, and before the Lamb, clothed with white robes, and palms in their hands;

10 And cried with a loud voice, saying, [e]Salvation to our God which sitteth upon the throne, and unto the Lamb.

11 And all the [f]angels stood round about the throne, and about the elders and the four [g]beasts, and fell before the throne on their faces, and worshipped God,

12 Saying, Amen: Blessing, and glory, and wisdom, and thanksgiving, and honour, and power, and might, be unto our God for ever and ever. Amen.

13 And one of the [h]elders answered, saying unto me, [i]What are these which are arrayed in white robes? and whence came they?

14 And I said unto him, [j]Sir, thou knowest. And he said to me, [k]These are they which came out of [l]great tribulation, and have washed their robes, and made them [m]white in the blood of the Lamb.

15 Therefore are they [n]before the throne of God, and serve him day and night in his temple: and he that sitteth on the throne shall dwell among them.

16 They shall hunger no more, neither thirst any more; neither shall the sun [o]light on them, nor any [p]heat.

[1]The great tribulation is the period of unexampled trouble predicted in the passages cited under that head from Psa. ii. 5 to Rev. vii. 14 and described in Rev. xi.-xviii. Involving in a measure the whole earth (Rev. iii. 10), it is yet distinctively "the time of Jacob's trouble" (Jer. xxx. 7), and its vortex Jerusalem and the Holy Land. It involves the people of God who will have returned to Palestine in unbelief. Its duration is three and a half years, or the last half of the seventieth week of Daniel (Dan. ix. 24-27, note; Rev. xi. 2, 3). The elements of the tribulation are: (1) The cruel reign of the "beast out of the sea" (Rev. xiii. 1), who, at the beginning of the three and a half years, will break his covenant with the Jews (by virtue of which they will have re-established the temple worship, Dan. ix. 27), and show himself in the temple, demanding that he be worshipped as God (Mt. xxiv. 15; 2 Thes. ii. 4). (2) The active interposition of Satan "having great wrath" (Rev. xii. 12), who gives his power to the Beast (Rev. xiii. 4, 5). (3) The unprecedented activity of demons (Rev. ix. 2, 11); and (4) the terrible "bowl" judgments of Rev. xvi.

The great tribulation will be, however, a period of salvation. An election out of Israel is seen as sealed for God (Rev. vii. 4-8), and, with an innumerable multitude of Gentiles (Rev. vii. 9), are said to have come "out of the great tribulation" (Rev. vii. 14). They are not of the priesthood, the church, to which they seem to stand somewhat in the relation of the Levites to the priests under the Mosaic Covenant. The great tribulation is immediately followed by the return of Christ in glory, and the events associated therewith (Mt. xxiv. 29, 30). See "Remnant" (Isa. i. 9; Rom. xi. 5, note); "Beast" (Dan. vii. 8; Rev. xix. 20, note); "Armageddon" (Rev. xvi. 14; xix. 17, note).

CHAPTER 8.

The seals resumed: the seventh seal, out of which the trumpets come.

AND when he had opened the seventh seal, there was silence in heaven about the space of half an hour.

The seven trumpets (Heb. 8. 2–11. 19).

(a) Introduction: Christ as High Priest.

2 And I saw the seven [b]angels which stood before God; and to them were given seven [c]trumpets.

3 And another [b]angel came and stood at the altar, having a golden censer; and there was given unto him much incense, that he should [d]offer it with the prayers of all saints upon the golden altar which was before the throne.

4 And the [e]smoke of the incense, which came with the prayers of the saints, ascended up before God out of the [b]angel's hand.

5 And the [b]angel took the censer, and [f]filled it with fire of the altar, and cast it [g]into the earth: [h]and there were voices, and thunderings, and lightnings, and an earthquake.

6 And the seven [b]angels which had the seven trumpets prepared themselves to sound.

(b) The trumpet judgments.

(1) The first trumpet.

7 The first [b]angel sounded, and there followed [i]hail and fire mingled with blood, and they were cast upon the earth: and [j]the third part of trees was burnt up, and all green grass was burnt up.

(2) The second trumpet.

8 And the second [b]angel sounded, and as it were [k]a great mountain burning with fire was cast into the sea: and the third part of the sea became [l]blood;

9 And the third part of the [m]creatures which were in the sea, and had life, died; and the third part of the ships were destroyed.

(3) The third trumpet.

10 And the third [b]angel sounded, and there fell a great [n]star from heaven, burning [o]as it were a lamp, and it fell upon the third part of the rivers, and upon the [p]fountains of waters;

12 And the fourth [b]angel sounded, and the third part [r]of the sun was smitten, and the third part of the moon, and the third part of the stars; so as the third part of them was darkened, and the day shone not for a third part of it, and the night likewise.

13 And I beheld, and heard an [b]angel flying [s]through the midst of heaven, saying with a loud voice, [t]Woe, woe, woe, to the inhabiters of the earth by reason of the other voices of the trumpet of the three angels, which are [u]yet to sound!

CHAPTER 9.

(5) The fifth trumpet: the first woe.

AND the fifth [b]angel sounded, and I saw a [v]star [w]fall from heaven unto the earth: and to him was given the key of the [x]bottomless pit.

2 And he opened the [x]bottomless pit; and there arose a [y]smoke out of the pit, as the smoke of a great furnace; and the sun and the air were darkened by reason of the smoke of the pit.

3 And there came out of the smoke [z]locusts upon the earth: and unto them was given power, as the [a]scorpions of the earth have power.

4 And it was commanded them that they should not hurt the grass of the earth, neither any green thing, neither any tree; but only those men [b]which have not the seal of God in their foreheads.

5 And to them it was given that they should not kill them, but that they should be [c]tormented five months: and their torment was as the torment of a scorpion, when he striketh a man.

6 And in those days shall men [d]seek death, and shall not find it; and shall desire to die, and death shall flee from them.

7 And the [e]shapes of the locusts were like unto horses prepared unto battle; and on their heads were as it were [f]crowns like gold, and their [g]faces were as the faces of men.

8 And they had hair as the hair of women, and their [a]teeth were as the teeth of lions.

9 And they had [b]breastplates, as it were breastplates of iron; and the sound of their wings was as the sound of [c]chariots of many horses running to battle.

10 And they had tails like unto scorpions, and [d]there were stings in their tails: and their power was to hurt men five months.

11 And they had [e]a king over them, which is the [f]angel of the [g]bottomless pit, whose name in the Hebrew tongue is [h]Abaddon, but in the Greek tongue hath his name Apollyon.

12 One woe is past; and, behold, there come two woes more [i]hereafter.

(6) The sixth trumpet.

13 And the sixth [f]angel sounded, and I heard a voice from the four horns of the [j]golden altar which is before God,

14 Saying to the sixth [f]angel which had the trumpet, Loose the four angels which are bound in the great river Euphrates.

15 And the four [f]angels were loosed, which were [k]prepared for [l]an hour, and a day, and a month, and a year, for to slay the [m]third part of men.

16 And the number of the army of the horsemen were two hundred [n]thousand thousand: and I heard the number of them.

17 And thus I saw the horses in the vision, and them that sat on them, having [o]breastplates of fire, and of jacinth, and brimstone: and the heads of the horses were as the [p]heads of lions; and out of their mouths [q]issued fire and smoke and brimstone.

18 By these [r]three was the third part of men killed, by the fire, and by the smoke, and by the brimstone, which issued out of their mouths.

19 For [s]their power is in their mouth, and in their tails: for their tails were like unto serpents, and had heads, and with them they do hurt.

20 And the rest of the men which were not killed by these plagues yet repented not of the works of their hands, that they should not [t]worship [u]devils, and idols of gold, and silver, and brass, and stone, and of wood: which neither can [v]see, nor hear, nor walk:

21 Neither [x]repented they of their murders, nor of their [y]sorceries, nor of their [z]fornication, nor of their thefts.

CHAPTER 10.

(c) Parenthetical (to Rev. 11. 14).

(1) The mighty angel and the "little book."

AND I saw another mighty [a]angel [b]come down from heaven, [c]clothed with a cloud: and a [d]rainbow was upon his head, and his [e]face was as it were the sun, and his feet as pillars of fire:

2 And he had in his hand [f]a little book open: and he set his [g]right foot upon the sea, and his left foot on the earth,

3 And cried with a loud voice, as when a lion roareth: and when he had cried, seven [h]thunders uttered their voices.

4 And when the seven thunders had uttered their voices, I was about to write: and I heard a voice from heaven saying unto me, [i]Seal up those things which the seven thunders uttered, and write them not.

5 And the [f]angel which I saw stand upon the sea and upon the earth lifted up his hand to heaven,

6 And sware by him that liveth for ever and ever, who [j]created heaven, and the things that therein are, and the earth, and the things that therein are, and the sea, and the things which are therein, that there should be [k]time no longer:

7 But in the days of the voice of the seventh [f]angel, when he [l]shall begin to sound, the [m]mystery of God [n]should be finished, as he hath declared [o]to his servants the prophets.

(2) The "little book" eaten.

8 And the [p]voice which I heard from heaven spake unto me again, and said, Go and take the little book which is open in the hand of the [f]angel which standeth upon the sea and upon the earth.

9 And I went unto the [f]angel, and said unto him, Give me the little book. And he said unto me, [q]Take it, and eat it up; and it shall make thy belly [r]bitter, but it shall be in thy mouth [s]sweet as honey.

10 And I took the little book out of the [f]angel's hand, and ate it up; and it was in my mouth sweet as honey: and as soon as I had eaten it, my belly was bitter.

11 And [t]he said unto me, Thou must [a]prophesy again [b]before many peoples, and nations, and tongues, and [c]kings.

CHAPTER 11.

(3) The "times of the Gentiles" to end in forty-two months.

AND there was given me a [d]reed like unto a rod: and [e]the angel stood, saying, Rise, and measure the temple of God, and the altar, and them that worship therein.

2 But the [f]court which is without the temple leave out, and measure it not; for it is given unto the Gentiles: and the holy city shall they [g]tread under foot forty and two months.

(4) The two witnesses to prophesy forty-two months.

3 And I will give power unto my two [h]witnesses, and they shall prophesy a thousand two hundred and threescore days, clothed in sackcloth.

4 [i]These are the two olive trees, and the two [j]candlesticks standing before the [k]God of the earth.

5 And if any man will hurt them, [l]fire proceedeth out of their mouth, and devoureth their enemies: and if any man will hurt them, he must in this manner be killed.

6 These have power to [m]shut heaven, that it rain not in the days of their prophecy: and have power over waters [n]to turn them to blood, and to [o]smite the earth with all plagues, as often as they will.

7 And when they shall have finished their testimony, the [p]beast that ascendeth out of the [q]bottomless pit shall make [r]war against them, and shall overcome them, and kill them.

8 And their dead bodies shall lie in the street of the great [s]city, which spiritually is called Sodom and Egypt, where also [t]our Lord was crucified.

9 And they of the people and kindreds and tongues and nations shall [u]see their dead bodies three days and an half, and shall not suffer their dead bodies to be put in graves.

10 And they that dwell upon the earth shall [v]rejoice over them, and make merry, and shall send gifts one to another; because these two prophets tormented them that dwelt on the earth.

11 And after three days and an half the [w]spirit of life from God entered into them, and they stood upon their feet; and great [x]fear fell upon them which saw them.

12 And they heard a great voice from heaven saying unto them, [y]Come up hither. And they ascended up to heaven in a cloud; and their enemies [z]beheld them.

The second woe.

13 And the same hour was there a great earthquake, and the tenth part of the city fell, and in the earthquake were slain of men seven thousand: and the remnant were affrighted, and gave glory to the [a]God of heaven.

14 The second woe is past; and, behold, the third woe cometh quickly.

End of the second parenthetical passage.

The trumpet judgments resumed.

(7) The seventh trumpet.

15 And the seventh [b]angel sounded; and there were great voices in heaven, saying, [c]The kingdoms of this [d]world are become the kingdoms of our Lord, and of his Christ; and he shall reign for ever and ever.

16 And the four and twenty [e]elders, which sat before God on their [f]seats, fell upon their faces, and worshipped God,

17 Saying, We give thee thanks, O Lord God Almighty, which art, and wast, and art to come; [g]because thou hast taken to thee thy great power, and hast reigned.

18 And the nations were angry, and thy wrath is come, and the time of the [h]dead, that they should be judged, and that thou shouldest give [i]reward unto thy servants the prophets, and to the saints, and them that fear thy name, small and great; and shouldest destroy them which destroy the earth.

19 [j]And the temple of God was opened in heaven, and there was seen in his temple the ark of his [k]testament: and there were lightnings, and voices, and thunderings, and an earthquake, and great hail.

4 And his tail drew the third part of the [f]stars of heaven, and did cast them to the earth: and the dragon stood before the woman which was ready to be delivered, for [g]to devour her child as soon as it was born.

8 And prevailed not; neither was their place found any more in heaven.

9 And the great [p]dragon was cast out, [q]that old serpent, called the [r]Devil, and [s]Satan, which [t]deceiveth the whole [u]world: he was cast out into the earth, and his [v]angels were cast out with him.

10 And I heard a loud voice saying in heaven, Now is come [w]salvation, and [x]strength, and the [1]kingdom of our God, and the [y]power of his Christ: for the accuser of our brethren is cast down, which accused them before our God day and night.

11 And they overcame him [z]by the [a]blood of the Lamb, and [z]by the word of their testimony; and they loved not their lives unto the death.

12 Therefore rejoice, ye heavens, and ye that dwell in them. Woe to the inhabiters of the earth and of the sea! for the devil is come down unto you, having great [b]wrath, because he knoweth that he hath [c]but a short time.

Satan and Israel in the tribulation.

13 And when the dragon saw that he was cast unto the earth, he [d]persecuted the woman which brought forth the man child.

14 And to the woman were given two [e]wings of a great eagle, that she might fly into the wilderness, into her [f]place, where she is nourished for a time, and times, and half a time, from the face of the serpent.

15 And the serpent [g]cast out of his mouth water as a flood after the woman, that he might cause her to be carried away of the flood.

16 And the earth helped the woman, and the earth opened her mouth, and [h]swallowed up the flood which the dragon cast out of his mouth.

(5) The Jewish remnant.

17 And the dragon was wroth with the woman, and went to make war with the [i]remnant of her seed, which keep the [j]commandments of God, and have the testimony of [k]Jesus Christ.

[1] The Dispensation of the Kingdom (2 Sam. vii. 16, refs.) begins with the return of Christ to the earth, runs through the "thousand years" of His earth-rule, and ends when He has delivered up the kingdom to the Father (1 Cor. xv. 24, note).

[2] Daniel's fourth beast (Dan. vii. 26, note). The "ten horns" are explained in Dan. vii. 24, Rev. xvii. 12, to be ten kings, and the whole vision is of the last form of Gentile world-power, a confederated ten-kingdom empire covering the sphere of authority of ancient Rome. Rev. xiii. 1-3 refers to the ten-kingdom empire; vs. 4-10 to the emperor, who is emphatically "the Beast" (Rev. xix. 20, note).

[3] The three animals, leopard, bear, and lion, are found in Dan. vii. 4-6 as symbols of the empires which preceded Rome, and whose characteristics all entered into the qualities of the Roman empire: Macedonian swiftness of conquest, Persian tenacity of purpose, Babylonish voracity.

3 And I saw [c]one of his heads as it were [1]wounded to death; and his deadly wound was [d]healed: and all the [e]world wondered after the beast.

4 And they worshipped the dragon which gave [f]power unto the beast: and they worshipped the beast, saying, Who is like unto the beast? who is able to make war with him?

5 And there was given unto him a mouth speaking great things and blasphemies; and [f]power was given unto him to continue forty and two months.

6 And he opened his mouth in blasphemy against God, to blaspheme his name, and his tabernacle, and them that [h]dwell in heaven.

7 And it was given unto him to make [i]war with the saints, and to overcome them: and [f]power was given him over all kindreds, and tongues, and nations.

14 And [r]deceiveth them that dwell on the earth by the means of those [p]miracles which [s]he had power to do in the sight of the beast; saying to them that dwell on the earth, that they should make an image to the beast, which had the wound by a sword, and did live.

CHAPTER 14.

Parenthetical: vision of the Lamb and the one hundred and forty and four thousand.

AND I looked, and, lo, [z]a Lamb stood on the mount Sion, and [1] Fragments of the ancient Roman empire have never ceased to exist as separate kingdoms. It was the imperial form of government which ceased; the one head wounded to death. What we have prophetically in Rev. xiii. 3 is the restoration of the imperial form as such, though over a federated empire of ten kingdoms; the "head" is "healed," i.e. restored; there is an emperor again—the Beast.

[2] Kosmos in the sense of the present world-system, the ethically bad sense of the word, refers to the "order," "arrangement," under which Satan has organized the world of unbelieving mankind upon his cosmic principles of force, greed, selfishness, ambition, and pleasure (Mt. iv. 8, 9; John xii. 31; xiv. 30; xviii. 36; Eph. ii. 2; vi. 12; 1 John ii. 15-17). This world-system is imposing and powerful with armies and fleets; is often outwardly religious, scientific, cultured, and elegant; but, seething with national and commercial rivalries and ambitions, is upheld in any real crisis only by armed force, and is dominated by Satanic principles.

[3] Antichrist the person is to be distinguished from the "many antichrists" (1 John ii. 18), and the "spirit of antichrist" (1 John iv. 3) which characterizes all. The supreme mark of all is the denial of the Christian truth of the incarnation of the Logos, the eternal Son in Jesus as the Christ (John i. 1, 14; Mt. i. 16, note). The "many antichrists" precede and prepare the way for the Antichrist, who is "the Beast out of the earth" of Rev. xiii. 11-17, and the "false prophet" of Rev.

2 And I heard a voice from heaven, as the voice of [c]many waters, and as the voice of a great thunder: and I heard the voice of [d]harpers harping with their harps:

3 And they sung as it were a new song before the throne, and before the four [e]beasts, and the [f]elders: and no man could learn that song but the hundred and forty and four thousand, which were [g]redeemed from the earth.

4 These are they which were not defiled with women; for they are virgins. These are they which follow the Lamb whithersoever he goeth. These were [g]redeemed from among men, [h]being the firstfruits unto God and to the Lamb.

5 And in their mouth was found no guile: for [i]they are without fault before the throne of God.

[l]Gospel. This great theme may be summarized as follows:

I. In itself the word Gospel means good news.

II. Four forms of the Gospel are to be distinguished:

(1) The Gospel of the kingdom. This is the good news that God purposes to set up on the earth, in fulfilment of the Davidic Covenant (2 Sam. vii. 16, and refs.), a kingdom, political, spiritual, Israelitish, universal, over which God's Son, David's heir, shall be King, and which shall be, for one thousand years, the manifestation of the righteousness of God in human affairs. See Mt. iii. 2, note.

Two preachings of this Gospel are mentioned, one past, beginning with the ministry of John the Baptist, continued by our Lord and His disciples, and ending with the Jewish rejection of the King. The other is yet future (Mt. xxiv. 14), during the great tribulation, and immediately preceding the coming of the King in glory.

(2) The Gospel of the grace of God. This is the good news that Jesus Christ, the rejected King, has died on the cross for the sins of the world, that He was raised from the dead for our justification, and that by Him all that believe are justified from all things. This form of the Gospel is described in many ways. It is the Gospel "of God" (Rom. i. 1) because it originates in His love; "of Christ" (2 Cor. x. 14) because it flows from His sacrifice, and because He is the alone Object of Gospel faith; of "the grace of God" (Acts xx. 24) because it saves those whom the law curses; of "the glory" (1 Tim. i. 11; 2 Cor. iv. 4) because it concerns Him who is in the glory, and who is bringing the many sons to glory (Heb. ii. 10); of "our salvation" (Eph. i. 13) because it is the "power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth" (Rom. i. 16); of "the uncircumcision" (Gal. ii. 7) because it saves wholly apart from forms and ordinances; of "peace" (Eph. vi. 15) because through Christ it makes peace between the sinner and God, and imparts inward peace.

(3) The everlasting Gospel (Rev. xiv. 6). This is to be preached to the earth-dwellers at the very end of the great tribulation and immediately preceding the judgment of the nations (Mt. xxv. 31, refs.). It is neither the gospel of the kingdom, nor of grace. Though its burden is judgment, not salvation, it is good news to Israel and to those who, during the tribulation, have been saved (Rev. vii. 9-14; Lk. xxi. 28; Psa. xcvi. 11-13; Isa. xxxv. 4-10).

(4) That which Paul calls, "my gospel" (Rom. ii. 16, refs.). This is the Gospel of the grace of God in its fullest development, but includes the revelation of the result of that Gospel in the outcalling of the church, her relationships, position, privileges, and responsibility. It is the distinctive truth of Ephesians and Colossians, but interpenetrates all of Paul's writings.

III. There is "another gospel" (Gal. i. 6; 2 Cor. xi. 4) "which is not another," but a perversion of the Gospel of the grace of God, against which we are warned. It has had many seductive forms, but the test is one—it invariably denies the sufficiency of grace alone to save, keep, and perfect, and mingles with grace some kind of human merit. In Galatia it was law, in Colosse fanaticism (Col. ii. 18, etc.). In any form its teachers lie under the awful anathema of God.

God, and give glory to him; for the hour of his judgment is come: and worship him that made heaven, and earth, and the sea, and the fountains of waters.

The fall of Babylon announced.

8 And there followed another [a]angel, saying, Babylon is fallen, is fallen, that great city, [b]because she made all nations drink of the wine of the wrath of her fornication.

The doom of the Beast-worshippers announced.

9 And the third [a]angel followed them, saying with a loud voice, If any man worship the beast and his image, and receive his mark in his forehead, or in his hand,

10 The same shall [c]drink of the wine of the wrath of God, which is poured out without mixture into the cup of his indignation; and he shall be [d]tormented with fire and brimstone in the [e]presence of the holy [a]angels, and in the presence of the Lamb:

11 And the smoke of their torment ascendeth up [f]for ever and ever: and they have [g]no rest day nor night, who worship the beast and his image, and whosoever receiveth the mark of his name.

12 Here is the patience of the saints: [h]here are they that keep the [i]commandments of God, and the faith of Jesus.

The blessedness of the holy dead.

13 And I heard a voice from heaven saying unto me, [f]Write, [k]Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord from henceforth: Yea, saith the [l]Spirit, that they may rest from their labours; and their works do follow [m]them.

Vision of Armageddon.

14 And I looked, and behold a white cloud, and upon the cloud one sat [n]like unto the Son of man, having on his head a [o]golden crown, and in his hand a [p]sharp sickle.

15 And another [a]angel came out of the temple, crying with a loud voice to him that sat on the cloud, Thrust in thy sickle, and reap: [q]for the time is come for thee to reap; for the harvest of the earth is [r]ripe.

16 And he that sat on the cloud thrust in his sickle on the earth; and the [s]earth was reaped.

17 And another [a]angel came out of the temple which is in heaven, he also having a sharp sickle.

18 And another [a]angel came out from the altar, which had [t]power over fire; and cried with a loud cry to him that had the sharp sickle, saying, Thrust in thy sharp sickle, and gather the clusters of the vine of the earth; for her grapes are [u]fully ripe.

19 And the [a]angel thrust in his sickle into the earth, and gathered the vine of the earth, and cast it into the great winepress of the wrath of God.

20 And the [v]winepress was trodden without the city, and blood came out of the winepress, even unto the horse bridles, by the space of a thousand and six hundred [w]furlongs.

CHAPTER 15.

The seven vials (to Rev. 16. 21).

(1) Vision of the angels of the seven last plagues: the bowls of the wrath of God.

AND I saw another sign in heaven, great and marvellous, seven [x]angels having the seven [y]last plagues; for in them is [z]filled up the wrath of God.

2 And I saw as it were a [a]sea of glass mingled with [b]fire: and them that had gotten the [c]victory over the beast, and over his image, [d]and over his mark, and over the number of his name, stand on the sea of glass, having the [e]harps of God.

3 And they sing the [f]song of Moses the servant of God, and the song of the [g]Lamb, saying, [h]Great and marvellous are thy works, Lord God Almighty; [i]just and true are thy ways, thou King of [j]saints.

4 Who shall not fear thee, O Lord, and glorify thy name? for thou only art [k]holy: for all nations shall come and worship before thee; for thy [l]judgments are made manifest.

5 And after that I looked, and, behold, the [m]temple of the tabernacle of the testimony in heaven was opened:

6 And the seven [x]angels came out of the temple, having the seven plagues, [n]clothed in pure and white linen, and having their breasts [o]girded with golden girdles.

7 And one of the four [p]beasts gave unto the seven [x]angels seven golden vials full of the [q]wrath of God, who liveth for ever and ever.

8 And the temple was [r]filled with smoke from the glory of God, and from his power; and no man was able to enter into the temple, till the seven plagues of the seven [x]angels were fulfilled.

CHAPTER 16.

(2) The vials of the wrath of God upon the earth.

AND I heard a great voice out of the temple saying to the seven [a]angels, Go your ways, and pour out the [b]vials of the wrath of God upon the earth.

The first vial.

2 And the [c]first went, and poured out his vial upon the earth; and there fell a noisome and grievous [d]sore upon the men which had the mark of the beast, and upon them which worshipped his image.

The second vial.

3 And the [e]second [a]angel poured out his vial upon the [f]sea; and it became [g]as the blood of a dead man: and every living soul died in the sea.

The third vial.

4 And the [h]third [a]angel poured out his vial upon the [i]rivers and fountains of waters; and they became blood.

5 And I heard the angel of the waters say, Thou art [j]righteous, O Lord, which art, and wast, and shalt be, because thou hast judged thus.

6 For they have [k]shed the blood of saints and prophets, and thou hast given them blood to drink; for they are [l]worthy.

7 And I heard [m]another out of the altar say, Even so, Lord God Almighty, true and righteous are thy judgments.

The fourth vial.

8 And the [n]fourth [a]angel poured out his vial upon the [o]sun; and [p]power was given unto him to scorch men with fire.

9 And men were scorched with great heat, and blasphemed the name of God, which hath [q]power over these plagues: and they repented not to give him glory.

The fifth vial.

10 And the [r]fifth [a]angel poured out his vial upon the [s]seat of the beast; and his kingdom [t]was full of darkness; and they gnawed their tongues for pain,

11 And blasphemed the [u]God of heaven because of their pains and their sores, and [v]repented not of their deeds.

The sixth vial.

12 And the sixth [w]angel poured out his vial [x]upon the great river Euphrates; and the water thereof was dried up, that the [y]way of the kings of the east might be prepared.

(Parenthetical, vs. 13-16.)

13 And I saw three unclean [z]spirits like frogs come out of the mouth of the dragon, and out of the mouth of the beast, and out of the mouth of the [a]false prophet.

14 For they are the spirits of [b]devils, working [c]miracles, which go forth unto the [d]kings of the earth and of the whole [e]world, to gather them to the [f]battle of that great day of God Almighty.

15 Behold, [g]I come as a thief. Blessed is he that watcheth, and keepeth his garments, lest he walk naked, and they see his shame.

16 And he gathered them together into a place called in the Hebrew tongue [h]Armageddon.

The seventh vial.

17 And the seventh [w]angel poured out his vial [i]into the air; and there came a great voice out of the temple of heaven, from the throne, saying, [j]It is done.

18 [k]And there were voices, and thunders, and lightnings; and there was a great [l]earthquake, such as was not since men were upon the earth, so mighty an earthquake, and so great.

19 And the great city was divided into three parts, and the cities of the nations fell: and great [1][m]Babylon came in remembrance before God, to give unto her [n]the cup of the wine of the fierceness of his wrath.

20 And every [o]island fled away, and the mountains were not found.

21 And there fell upon men a great hail out of heaven, every stone about the weight of a talent: and men blasphemed God because of the plague of the hail; for the plague thereof was exceeding great.

[1] Summary: The Times of the Gentiles is that long period beginning with the Babylonian captivity of Judah, under Nebuchadnezzar, and to be brought to an end by the destruction of Gentile world-power by the "stone cut out without hands" (Dan. ii. 34, 35, 44), i.e. the coming of the Lord in glory (Rev. xix. 11, 21), during which time Jerusalem is politically subject to Gentile rule (Lk. xxi. 24).

CHAPTER 17.

The seven dooms: (1) The doom of "Babylon."
The divine view of "Babylon."
(Cf. Rev. 18. 1-8.)

AND there came one of the seven [a]angels which had the seven vials, and talked with me, saying unto me, Come hither; I will shew unto thee the judgment of the [b]great whore that sitteth upon many waters:

2 With whom the [c]kings of the earth have committed fornication, and the inhabitants of the earth have been made drunk with the wine of her fornication.

3 So he carried me away in the [d]spirit into the wilderness: and I saw a woman sit upon a [e]scarlet coloured beast, full of [f]names of blasphemy, having seven heads and ten horns.

4 And the woman was [g]arrayed in purple and scarlet colour, and decked with gold and precious stones and pearls, having a [h]golden cup in her hand full of abominations and filthiness of her fornication:

5 And upon her forehead was a name written, [i]MYSTERY, [j]BABYLON THE GREAT, THE MOTHER OF HARLOTS AND ABOMINATIONS OF THE EARTH.

6 And I saw the woman drunken [k]with the blood of the saints, and with the blood of the martyrs of Jesus: and when I saw her, I wondered with great [l]admiration.

7 And the [a]angel said unto me, Wherefore didst thou marvel? I will tell thee the [i]mystery of the woman, and of the beast that carrieth her, which hath the seven heads and ten horns.

The last form of Gentile world-power.

8 The beast that thou sawest was, and is not; and [m]shall ascend out of the [n]bottomless pit, and go into perdition: and they that dwell on the earth [o]shall wonder, whose names were not written in the book of [p]life from the foundation of the [q]world, when they behold the beast [r]that was, and is not, and [s]yet is.

9 And [t]here is the mind which hath wisdom. [u]The seven heads are seven mountains, on which the woman sitteth.

10 And there are seven kings: five are fallen, and one is, and the other is not yet come; and when he cometh, he must [v]continue a short space.

11 And the [w]beast that was, and is not, even he is the eighth, and is of the seven, and goeth into perdition.

12 And the ten horns which thou sawest are ten kings, which have received no kingdom as yet; but receive [x]power as kings one hour with the beast.

13 These have one mind, and shall give their power and [x]strength unto the beast.

14 These shall make [y]war with the Lamb, and the Lamb shall [z]overcome them: for he is [a]Lord of lords, and King of kings: and they that are with him are called, and [b]chosen, and faithful.

15 And he saith unto me, The [c]waters which thou sawest, where the whore sitteth, are peoples, and multitudes, and nations, and tongues.

16 And the ten horns which thou sawest [d]upon the beast, these shall [e]hate the whore, and shall make her desolate and naked, and shall eat her flesh, and [f]burn her with fire.

17 For God hath put in their hearts to fulfil [g]his will, and to agree, and give their kingdom unto the beast, until the words of God shall be fulfilled.

18 And the woman which thou sawest is [h]that great city, which reigneth over the kings of the earth.

[1] Babylon, "confusion," is repeatedly used by the prophets in a symbolic sense (see Isa. xiii. 1, note). Two "Babylons" are to be distinguished in the Revelation: ecclesiastical Babylon, which is apostate Christendom, headed up under the Papacy; and political Babylon, which is the Beast's confederated empire, the last form of Gentile world-dominion. Ecclesiastical Babylon is "the great whore" (Rev. xvii. 1), and is destroyed by political Babylon (Rev. xvii. 15-18), that the beast may be the alone object of worship (2 Thes. ii. 3, 4; Rev. xiii. 15). The power of political Babylon is destroyed by the return of the Lord in glory. (See "Armageddon,"

3 For all nations have [b]drunk of the wine of the wrath of her fornication, and the kings of the earth have committed fornication with her, and the [c]merchants of the earth are waxed rich through the [d]abundance of her delicacies.

4 And I heard [e]another voice from heaven, saying, [f]Come out of her, my people, that ye be not partakers of her [g]sins, and that ye receive not of her plagues.

5 For her [g]sins have reached unto heaven, and God hath remembered her iniquities.

6 [h]Reward her even as she [i]rewarded you, and double unto her double according to her works: in the cup which she hath filled fill to her double.

7 How much she hath glorified herself, and lived [j]deliciously, so much torment and sorrow give her: for she saith in her heart, I sit a [k]queen, and am no widow, and shall see no sorrow.

8 Therefore shall her plagues come in one day, death, and mourning, and famine; and she shall be utterly burned with fire: for [l]strong is the Lord God who judgeth her.

(Cf. Rev. 17. 1-7.)

9 And the kings of the earth, who have committed fornication and lived [j]deliciously with her, [m]shall bewail her, and lament for her, when they shall see the smoke of her burning,

11 And the [p]merchants of the earth shall weep and mourn over her; for no man buyeth their merchandise any more:

12 The merchandise of gold, and silver, and precious stones, and of pearls, and fine linen, and purple, and silk, and scarlet, and all thyine wood, and [q]all manner vessels of ivory, and all manner vessels of most precious wood, and of brass, and iron, and marble,

13 And cinnamon, and odours, and ointments, and frankincense, and wine, and oil, and fine flour, and wheat, and [r]beasts, and sheep, and horses, and chariots, and [s]slaves, and souls of men.

14 And the fruits that thy soul lusted after are [t]departed from thee, and all things which were dainty and goodly are departed from thee, and [u]thou shalt find them no more at all.

15 The merchants of these things, which were made rich by her, shall [v]stand afar off for the fear of her torment, weeping and wailing,

16 And saying, [w]Alas, alas, [x]that great city, that was clothed in fine linen, and purple, and scarlet, and decked with gold, and precious stones, and pearls!

17 For in [y]one hour so great riches is come to nought. And every shipmaster, and [z]all the company in ships, and sailors, and as many as trade by sea, stood afar off,

18 And cried when they saw the smoke of her burning, saying, What city is like unto this great city?

19 And they cast [a]dust on their heads, and cried, weeping and wailing, saying, [b]Alas, alas, that great city, wherein were made rich all that had ships in the sea by reason of her costliness! for in one hour is she made desolate.

21 And a [f]mighty angel took up a stone like a great [g]millstone, and cast it into the sea, saying, Thus with violence shall that great city Babylon be thrown down, and shall be found no more at all.

22 And the [h]voice of harpers, and musicians, and of pipers, and trumpeters, shall be heard no more at all in thee; and no [i]craftsman, of whatsoever craft he be, shall be found any more in thee; and the [j]sound of a millstone shall be heard no more at all in thee;

Rev. xvi. 14; xix. 17.) The notion of a literal Babylon to be rebuilt on the site of ancient Babylon is in conflict with Isa. xiii. 19-22. But the language of Rev. xviii. (e.g. vs. 10, 16, 18) seems beyond question to identify "Babylon," the "city" of luxury and traffic, with "Babylon" the ecclesiastical centre, viz. Rome. The very kings who hate ecclesiastical Babylon deplore the destruction of commercial Babylon.

CHAPTER 19.

(Parenthetical: the four alleluias of the glorified saints. Cf. Rev. 17. 1-7; 18. 1-8.)

AND after these things I heard a great [c]voice of much people in heaven, saying, Alleluia; [d]Salvation, and glory, and [e]honour, and power, unto the Lord our God:

2 For true and righteous are his judgments: for he hath judged the great [f]whore, which did corrupt the earth with her fornication, and hath [g]avenged the blood of his servants at her hand.

3 And again they said, [h]Alleluia. And her [i]smoke rose up for ever and ever.

4 And the four and twenty [j]elders and the four [k]beasts fell down and worshipped God that sat on the throne, saying, Amen; Alleluia.

5 And a [l]voice came out of the throne, saying, [m]Praise our God, all ye his servants, and ye that fear him, both small and great.

6 And I heard as it were the voice of a great multitude, and as the voice of many waters, and as the voice of mighty [n]thunderings, saying, Alleluia: for the Lord God omnipotent reigneth.

The marriage of the Lamb.

7 Let us be glad and rejoice, and give honour to him: for the marriage of the Lamb is come, and his [1][o]wife hath made herself ready.

8 And to her [p]was granted that she should be arrayed in fine linen, clean and white: for the fine linen is the [2][q]righteousness of saints.

9 And he saith unto me, Write, [r]Blessed are they which are called unto the marriage supper of the Lamb. And he saith unto me, [s]These are the true sayings of God.

10 And I fell at his feet to worship him. And he said unto me, See thou do it not: I am thy [t]fellowservant, and of thy brethren that have the testimony of Jesus: worship God: for the [u]testimony of Jesus is the spirit of prophecy.

12 His [z]eyes were as a flame of fire, and on his head were many [a]crowns; and he had a name written, [a]that no man knew, but he himself.

13 And he was clothed with a vesture [b]dipped in blood: and his name is called The Word of God.

14 And the armies which were in heaven followed him upon white horses, clothed in fine linen, white and clean.

[1] The "Lamb's wife" here is the "bride" (Rev. xxi. 9), the Church, identified with the "heavenly Jerusalem" (Heb. xii. 22, 23), and to be distinguished from Israel, the adulterous and repudiated "wife" of Jehovah, yet to be restored (Isa. liv. 1-10; Hos. ii. 1-17), who is identified with the earth (Hos. ii. 23). A forgiven and restored wife could not be called either a virgin (2 Cor. xi. 2, 3), or a bride.

[2] The garment in Scripture is a symbol of righteousness. In the bad ethical sense it symbolizes self-righteousness (e.g. Isa. lxiv. 6; see Phil. iii. 6-8, the best that a moral and religious man under law could do). In the good ethical sense the garment symbolizes "the righteousness of God . . . upon all them that believe." See Rom. iii. 21, note.

[3] The vision is of the departure from heaven of Christ and the saints and angels preparatory to the catastrophe in which Gentile world-power, headed up in the Beast, is smitten by the "stone cut out without hands" (Dan. ii. 34, 35).

CHAPTER 20.

Satan bound in the abyss during the kingdom-age.

AND I saw an angel come down from heaven, having the key of the bottomless pit and a great chain in his hand.

2 And he laid hold on the dragon, that old serpent, which is the Devil, and [l]Satan, and bound him a [m]thousand years,

3 And cast him into the bottomless pit, and shut him up, and set a seal upon him, that he should [n]deceive the nations no more, till the thousand years should be fulfilled: and after that he must be loosed a little season.

The first resurrection (1 Cor. 15. 52, note), and the kingdom-age.

4 And I saw thrones, and they sat upon them, and judgment was given unto them: and I saw the souls of Lord, at His coming in glory, will deliver the Jewish remnant besieged by the Gentile world-powers under the Beast and False Prophet (Rev. xvi. 13-16; Zech. xii. 1-9). Apparently the besieging hosts, whose approach to Jerusalem is described in Isa. x. 28-32, alarmed by the signs which precede the Lord's coming (Mt. xxiv. 29, 30), have fallen back to Megiddo, after the events of Zech. xiv. 2, where their destruction begins; a destruction consummated in Moab and the plains of Idumea (Isa. lxiii. 1-6). This battle is the first event in "the day of Jehovah" (Isa. ii. 12, refs.), and is the fulfilment of the smiting-stone prophecy of Dan. ii. 35.

[1] The day of Jehovah (called, also, "that day," and "the great day") is that lengthened period of time beginning with the return of the Lord in glory, and ending with the purgation of the heavens and the earth by fire preparatory to the new heavens and the new earth (Isa. lxv. 17-19; lxvi. 22; 2 Pet. iii. 13; Rev. xxi. 1). The order of events appears to be: (1) The return of the Lord in glory (Mt. xxiv. 29, 30); (2) the destruction of the Beast and his host, "the kings of the earth and their armies," and the false prophet, which is the "great and terrible" aspect of the day (Rev. xix. 11-21); (3) the judgment of the nations (Zech. xiv. 1-9; Mt. xxv. 31-46); (4) the thousand years, i.e. the kingdom-age (Rev. xx. 4-6); (5) the Satanic revolt and its end (Rev. xx. 7-10); (6) the second resurrection and final judgment (Rev. xx. 11-15); and (7) the "day of God," earth purged by fire (2 Pet. iii. 10-13).

The day of the LORD is preceded by seven signs: (1) The sending of Elijah (Mal. iv. 5; Rev. xi. 3-6); (2) cosmical disturbances (Joel ii. 1-12; Mt. xxiv. 29; Acts ii. 19, 20; Rev. vi. 12-17); (3) the insensibility of the professing church (1 Thes. v. 1-3); (4) the apostasy of the professing church, then become "Laodicea" (2 Thes. ii. 3); (5) the rapture of the true church (1 Thes. iv. 17); (6) the manifestation of the "man of sin," the Beast (2 Thes. ii. 1-8); (7) the apocalyptic judgments (Rev. xi.-xviii.).

[2] The Beast, Summary: This "Beast" is the "little horn" of Dan. vii. 24-26, and "desolator" of Dan. ix. 27; the "abomination of desolation" of Mt. xxiv. 15; the "man of sin" of 2 Thes. ii. 4-8; earth's last and most awful tyrant, Satan's fell instrument of wrath and hatred against God and the saints. He is, perhaps, identical with the rider on the white horse of Rev. vi. 2, who begins by the peaceful conquest of three of the ten kingdoms into which the former Roman empire will then be divided, but who soon establishes the ecclesiastical and governmental tyranny described in Dan. vii., ix., xi.; Rev. xiii. To him Satan gives the power which he offered to Christ (Mt. iv. 8, 9; Rev. xiii. 4). See "The great tribulation," Psa. ii. 5; Rev. vii. 14, note.

[3] The duration of the kingdom of heaven in its mediatorial form (1 Cor. xv. 24, note).

[a]them that were beheaded for the witness of Jesus, and for the word of God, and which had not [b]worshipped the beast, neither his image, neither had received his mark upon their foreheads, or in their hands; and they lived and [c]reigned with Christ a thousand years.

5 But the rest of the dead lived not again until the thousand years were finished. This is the [1]first [d]resurrection.

6 [e]Blessed and holy is he that hath part in the first resurrection: on such the second death hath no power, but they shall be [f]priests of [g]God and of Christ, and shall reign with him a thousand years.

Satan loosed: (5) the doom of Gog and Magog.

7 And when the thousand years are expired, Satan [h]shall be loosed out of his prison,

8 And shall go out to deceive the nations which are in the four quarters of the earth, [i]Gog and Magog, to gather them together to [j]battle: the number of whom is as the sand of the sea.

9 And they went up on the breadth of the earth, and compassed the camp of the saints about, and the beloved city: and fire came down from God out of heaven, and devoured them.

(6) The doom of Satan.

10 And the [2k]devil that deceived them was cast into the lake of fire and brimstone, [l]where the beast and the false prophet are, and [m]shall be tormented day and night for ever and ever.

(7) Doom of the unbelieving dead: the last judgment.

11 [n]And I saw a [o]great white throne, and him that sat on it, from whose face the earth and the heaven fled away; and [4]there was found no place for them.

[1]The "resurrection of the just" is mentioned in Lk. xiv. 13, 14, and the resurrection of "life" distinguished from the "resurrection unto damnation" in John v. 29. We here learn for the first time what interval of time separates these two resurrections. See 1 Cor. xv. 52, note.

[2]Satan, Summary: This fearful being, apparently created one of the cherubim (Ezk. i. 5, note; xxviii. 12-14, note) and anointed for a position of great authority, perhaps over the primitive creation (Gen. i. 2, note 3; Ezk. xxviii. 11-15), fell through pride (Isa. xiv. 12-14). His "I will" (Isa. xiv. 13) marks the introduction of sin into the universe. Cast out of heaven (Lk. x. 18), he makes earth and air the scene of his tireless activity (Eph. ii. 2; 1 Pet. v. 8). After the creation of man he entered into the serpent (Gen. iii. 1, note), and, beguiling Eve by his subtilty, secured the downfall of Adam and through him of the race, and the entrance of sin into the world of men (Rom. v. 12-14). The Adamic Covenant (Gen. iii. 14-19, note) promised the ultimate destruction of Satan through the "Seed of the woman." Then began his long warfare against the work of God in behalf of humanity, which still continues. The present world-system (Rev. xiii. 8), organized upon the principles of force, greed, selfishness, ambition, and sinful pleasure, is his work and was the bribe which he offered to Christ (Mt. iv. 8, 9). Of that world-system he is prince (John xiv. 30; xvi. 11), and god (2 Cor. iv. 4). As "prince of the power of the air" (Eph. ii. 2) he is at the head of a vast host of demons (Mt. vii. 22, note). To him, under God, was committed upon earth the power of death (Heb. ii. 14). Cast out of heaven as his proper sphere and "first estate," he still has access to God as the "accuser of the brethren" (Rev. xii. 10), and is permitted a certain power of sifting or testing the self-confident and carnal among believers (Job i. 6-11; Lk. xxii. 31, 32; 1 Cor. v. 5; 1 Tim. i. 20), but this is a strictly permissive and limited power, and believers so sifted are kept in faith through the advocacy of Christ (Lk. xxii. 31, 32; 1 John ii. 1, note). At the beginning of the great tribulation Satan's privilege of access to God as accuser will be withdrawn (Rev. xii. 7-12). At the return of Christ in glory Satan will be bound for one thousand years (Rev. xx. 2); after which he will be "loosed for a little season" (Rev. xx. 3, 7, 8), and will become the head of a final effort to overthrow the kingdom. Defeated in this, he will be finally cast into the lake of fire, his final doom. The notion that he reigns in hell is Miltonic, not biblical. He is prince of this present world-system, but will be tormented in the lake of fire.

[3]The expressions, "the judgment," or, "day of judgment," as the passages and their contexts show, refer to the final judgment of Rev. xx. 11-15.

[4]The "day of destruction" is that aspect of the day of Jehovah (Isa. ii. 12; Rev. xix. 19, Summary) which visits final and eternal judgment upon the wicked. Three

CHAPTER 21.

The seven new things: (1) the new heaven, and (2) the new earth.

AND I saw a [l]new heaven and a new earth: for the [m]first heaven and the first earth were passed away; and there was no more sea.

2 And I John saw [n]the holy city, new Jerusalem, coming down from God out of heaven, prepared [o]as a bride adorned for her husband.

(3) The new peoples.

3 And I heard a great voice out of heaven saying, Behold, the tabernacle of God is with men, and he will dwell with them, and they shall be his people, and God himself shall be with them, and be their God.

4 And God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes; and there shall be no more death, neither sorrow, nor crying, neither shall there be any more pain: for the former things are passed away.

5 And he that sat upon the [p]throne said, Behold, I make all things new. And he said unto me, Write: [q]for these words are true and faithful.

6 And he said unto me, It is done. I am Alpha and Omega, the beginning and the end. I will give unto him that is athirst of the fountain of the water of life freely.

7 He that overcometh shall inherit all things; and I will be his God, and he shall be my son.

8 But the fearful, and unbelieving, and the abominable, and murderers, and whoremongers, and sorcerers, and idolaters, and all liars, shall have their part in the lake which burneth with fire and brimstone: which is [r]the [2]second death.

(4) The Lamb's wife: the new Jerusalem.

9 And there came unto me one of the seven angels which had the seven vials full of the seven last plagues, and talked with me, saying, Come hither, I will shew thee [s]the bride, the Lamb's wife.

10 And he carried me away in the [t]spirit to a great and high mountain, and shewed me that great city, the holy Jerusalem, descending out of heaven from God,

11 Having the glory of God: and such "days" are included in the "day" of Jehovah, and are described in the references beginning with Isa. xxxiv. 1-9. (See Mt. xxv. 32, note; Rev. xx. 11, refs.)

[1] The final judgment. The subjects are the "dead." As the redeemed were raised from among the dead one thousand years before (v. 5), and have been in glory with Christ during that period, the "dead" can only be the wicked dead, from the beginning to the setting up of the great white throne in space. As there are degrees in punishment (Lk. xii. 47, 48), the dead are judged according to their works. The book of life is there to answer such as plead their works for justification, e.g. Mt. vii. 22, 23; an awful blank where the name might have been.

The Judgments, Summary: Among the many judgments mentioned in Scripture, seven are invested with especial significance. These are: (1) The judgment of the believers' sins in the cross of Christ (John xii. 31, note); (2) the believers' self-judgment (1 Cor. xi. 31, note); (3) the judgment of the believers' works (2 Cor. v. 10, note); (4) the judgment of the nations at the return of Christ (Mt. xxv. 32, note); (5) the judgment of Israel at the return of Christ (Ezk. xx. 37, note); (6) the judgment of angels after the one thousand years (Jude 6, note); and (7) the judgment of the wicked dead with which the history of the present earth ends.

[2] Second death, Summary: "The second death" and the "lake of fire" are identical terms (Rev. xx. 14) and are used of the eternal state of the wicked. It is "second" relatively to the preceding physical death of the wicked in unbelief and rejection of God; their eternal state is one of eternal "death" (i.e. separation from God) in sins (John viii. 21, 24). That the second death is not annihilation is shown by a comparison of Rev. xix. 20 with Rev. xx. 10. After one thousand years in the lake of fire the Beast and False Prophet are still there, undestroyed. The words her [a]light was like unto a stone most precious, even like a jasper stone, clear as crystal;

12 And had a wall great and high, and had twelve gates, and at the gates twelve [b]angels, and names written thereon, which are [c]the names of the [d]twelve tribes of the [e]children of Israel:

13 On the east three gates; on the north three gates; on the south three gates; and on the west three gates.

14 And the wall of the city had twelve [f]foundations, and in them [g]the names of the twelve [h]apostles of the Lamb.

15 And he that talked with me had a golden [i]reed to measure the city, and the gates thereof, and the wall thereof.

16 And the city lieth [j]foursquare, and the length is as large as the breadth: and he measured the city with the reed, twelve thousand [k]furlongs. The length and the breadth and the height of it are equal.

17 And he measured the wall thereof, an hundred and forty and four cubits, according to the measure of a man, that is, of the [b]angel.

18 And the building of the wall of it was of jasper: and the city was [l]pure gold, like unto clear glass.

19 And the foundations of the wall of the city were garnished with all manner of precious stones. The first foundation was jasper; the second, sapphire; the third, a chalcedony; the fourth, an emerald;

20 The fifth, sardonyx; the sixth, sardius; the seventh, chrysolyte; the eighth, beryl; the ninth, a topaz; the tenth, a chrysoprasus; the eleventh, a jacinth; the twelfth, an amethyst.

21 And the twelve gates were twelve [m]pearls; every several gate was of one pearl: and the [n]street of the city was pure gold, as it were transparent glass.

(5) The new temple.

22 And I saw no temple therein: for the Lord God Almighty [o]and the Lamb are the temple of it.

(6) The new light.

23 And the city had no need of the sun, neither of the moon, to shine in it: for the glory of [p]God did lighten it, and the Lamb is the [q]light thereof.

24 And the nations [r]of them which are [s]saved shall walk in the light of it: and the kings of the earth do bring their glory and honour [t]into it.

25 And the gates of it shall not be shut at all by day: for there shall be no night there.

26 And they shall bring the glory and honour of the nations into it.

27 And there shall in no wise [u]enter into it any thing that defileth, neither [v]whatsoever worketh abomination, or maketh a lie: but [w]they which are written in the Lamb's [x]book of life.

CHAPTER 22.

(7) The new Paradise and its river of the water of life.

AND he shewed me [y]a pure river of water of life, clear as crystal, proceeding out of the [z]throne of God and of the Lamb.

2 In the midst of the [a]street of it, and on either side of the river, was there the tree of life, which bare twelve manner of fruits, and yielded her fruit every month: and the leaves of the tree were for the [b]healing of the nations.

3 And there shall be [c]no more curse: but [d]the throne of God and of the Lamb shall be in it; and his [e]servants shall serve him:

4 And they shall see his face; and his name shall be in their foreheads.

5 And there shall be [f]no night there; and they need no [g]candle, neither light of the sun; for the [h]Lord God giveth them light: and they shall reign for ever and ever.

6 And he said unto me, These sayings are faithful and true: and the Lord God of the [i]holy prophets [j]sent his angel to shew unto his servants the things which must [k]shortly be done.

7 Behold, I come quickly: blessed is he that keepeth the sayings of the prophecy of this book.

The last message of the Bible.

8 And I John saw these things, and heard them. And when I had heard and seen, I fell down to worship before the feet of the [l]angel which shewed me these things.

9 Then saith he unto me, See thou do it not: for I am thy [m]fellowservant, and of thy brethren the prophets, and of them which keep the sayings of this book: worship God.

10 And he saith unto me, [n]Seal not the sayings of the prophecy of this book: for [o]the time is at hand.

[2] Sanctification, holiness, Summary: (1) In both Testaments the same Hebrew and Greek words are rendered by the English words "sanctify" and "holy," in their various grammatical forms. The one uniform meaning is, "to set apart for God." (2) In both Testaments the words are used of things and of persons. (3) When used of things no moral quality is implied; they are sanctified or made holy because set apart for God.

(4) Sanctification when used of persons has a threefold meaning. (a) In position, believers are eternally set apart for God by redemption, "through the offering of the body of Jesus Christ once" (Heb. x. 9, 10). Positionally, therefore, believers are "saints" and "holy" from the moment of believing (Phil. i. 1; Heb. iii. 1). (b) In experience, the believer is being sanctified by the work of the Holy Spirit through the Scriptures (John xvii. 17; 2 Cor. iii. 18; Eph. v. 25, 26; 1 Thes. v. 23, 24). In consummation, the believer's complete sanctification awaits the appearing of the Lord (Eph. v. 27; 1 John iii. 2). See "Salvation," Rom. i. 16, note.

[3] Inspiration: Summary. The testimony of the Bible to itself.

(1) The writers affirm, where they speak of the subject at all, that they speak by direct divine authority. (2) They invariably testify that the words, and not the ideas merely, are inspired. The most important passage is 1 Cor. ii. 7-15, which see. (3) The whole attitude of Jesus Christ toward the Old Testament, as disclosed in His words, both before His death and after His resurrection, confirms its truth and divine origin, and He explicitly ascribes the Pentateuch to Moses. (4) In promising subsequent revelations after the predicted advent of the Spirit (John xvi. 12-15), our Lord prepared the way for the New Testament. (5) The writers of the New Testament invariably treat the Old Testament as authoritative and inspired. See 2 Pet. i. 19, note; 1 Cor. ii. 13, note.

[4] Eternal life, Summary of the teaching:

(1) The life is called "eternal" because it was from the eternity which is past unto the eternity which is to come—it is the life of God revealed in Jesus Christ, who is God (John i. 4; v. 26; 1 John i. 1, 2). (2) This life of God, which was revealed in Christ, is imparted in a new birth by the Holy Spirit, acting upon the word of God, to every believer on the Lord Jesus Christ (John iii. 3-15). (3) The life thus imparted is not a new life except in the sense of human possession; it is still "that which was from the beginning." But the recipient is a "new creation" (2 Cor. v. 17; Gal. vi. 15). (4) The life of God which is in the believer is an unsevered part of the life which eternally was, and eternally is, in Christ Jesus—one life, in Him and in the believer—Vine and branches; Head and members (1 Cor. vi. 17; Gal. ii. 20; Col. i. 27; iii. 3, 4; 1 John v. 11, 12; John xv. 1-5; 1 Cor. xii. 12-14).
